Strandloppers Not Extinct, S. W. African Official Says

Extinction of the primitive strandloppers of Africa, like Mark Twain's death, may have been exaggerated, according to a report from the administrator of southwest Africa. Travelling in the coastal Namib desert, near Zesfontein, this official of the Union of South Africa's trusteeship territory tells of coming on remnants of the Strandlooper group long referred to as extinct in most reference and ethnological books. The name "Strandlooper" means shore runner, notes the National Geographic society. It indicates the way of life of these people who have been always associated with coastal regions. Racially, the strandloppers are linked with the African Bushmen and Hottentots. Some ethnologists call them a group of Bushmen who simply adapted their lives to their coastal environment. Today's Strandloppers are reported still to be living in the primitive fashion ascribed to their ancestors, eating shellfish baked in ashes, and adding to their meager diet such delicacies as small rodents, lizards and insects. Their surroundings are harsh and inhospitable. The Namib desert, west and southwest of the Zesfontein settlement, stretches its desolate length 850 miles along the Atlantic coast of southwest Africa.

Compound, Called DFDT, Less Poisonous Than DDT

A German-born cousin of DDT has proved a more potent weapon than its famous relative against house flies and other flying insects, a federal chemist reported at a meeting of the American Chemical society. The compound, nicknamed DFDT, also appears in the light of preliminary studies to be less poisonous than DDT to warm-blooded animals and fish, according to a paper presented by Dr. W. T. Sumnerford, chemist in charge of the technical development division, communicable disease center, United States public health service, Savannah, Ga. A low-melting, white solid with a faint odor resembling that of ripe apples, DFDT is known to chemists as Di-Fluoro-Diphenyl-Trichloroethane. It was widely used as an insecticide by the Germans during World War II, but up to now has received little attention in the United States outside a few testing laboratories, Dr. Sumnerford said. DFDT does not possess the broad killing power of DDT toward all insects, but it has a greater knock-down power against flying insects, especially house flies, he declared. DFDT appears to kill some insects more rapidly than does DDT, due most probably to its greater solubility in and more rapid penetration of certain tissues of the insect's body.

Solendon Paradoxus

Two "living fossils" have just been delivered to the National Zoological park in Washington, D. C., from the Dominican Republic, West Indies, the Dominican information center, New York City, announces. According to the information center, the pair are animals whose closest of kin died off millions of years ago and they are the only living specimens on exhibition outside of the Zoological park in Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican Republic. Zoologically, the animals are known as solendon paradoxus and they resemble very long nosed rats. Their tapering proboscis enables them to burrow and find the insects on which they feed. Dr. Walter Praetorius, director of the Ciudad Trujillo Zoological park, says the "fossils" are the ancestors of the common shrew.

Exchange Teacher Plan

Anglo-American exchange-teacher plan has been one of the greatest successes of all international schemes for international understanding. So popular has this exchange become, that Britain has been asked to send more teachers. This year 112 British teachers came to America and the same number of Americans went to Britain. Next year there'll be 200. British boys and girls, who are very interested in the American way of life, have besieged their American teachers with questions and the teachers have done a wonderful job as ambassadors for their country, reports the British Broadcasting company.

Peanuts High in Protein

Peanuts furnish high quality protein and more of the B vitamin, niacin, than any other nut. A handful of peanuts and an apple is the best kind of between-meal snack. And you might try apple slices spread with peanut butter or celery stuffed with it. Chopped peanuts sprinkled on top of fruit or cabbage salad or served with puddings and ice cream, add a nice touch. For home candies, try peanut brittle or clusters of peanuts dipped in chocolate.

Duplication of No. 20 Oil

It is not possible to duplicate No. 20 oil by mixing kerosene with No. 30 oil. Kerosene generally contains components that evaporate much more quickly than those used in lubricating oils. Some automobile makers recommend adding kerosene to lubricating oils for use at extremely low temperatures. In such a case, the manufacturers' directions should be followed.

The want ads are newsy, too.

not only of this hour but the hours of eternity. It is well to understand that. We must have a purpose for living. We are not to go wabbling and wavering through life as unstable as water which adjusts itself to the bend and curvature of every shore. The first part of our text states clearly to forget the things behind and reach forth unto those things which are before. "What should we be pressing onward to attain? A purpose of a vision is stated in Prov. 29:18, 'Where there is no vision the people perish.' We find we should have an objective. It makes no difference what field one chooses in life, but one must have an objective. A baseball player has a vision of being a major league player. An artist of painting some great picture, a vision of success. We ought to have a vision of something other than earthly success. The natural trend of man is to be bound to the earth, yet he has a desire for heavenly things. "The natural end of man is the grave, yet men have always looked up to heaven for help and guidance and to God who is in heaven. His throne is there. All of human experience testifies of a life exclusively confined to earth or earthly matters sooner or later becoming wearisome, unsatisfying and disappointing and so man has always sought to press onward to a heavenly position. That is why we hear the hearts of man ever crying to God, 'Lift thou me up.' A vision of such a life is a vision of great joy and the only real vision worth talking about. This vision must be planted in the hearts of men by the heavenly person. That person was Christ who came from the ivory palaces of glory. Jesus Himself says, 'I am come down from heaven to do my Father's will. That was the death on the cross. This is the only payment or ransom to purchase the forfeited soul of a lost man, woman, boy or girl. How might we press onward to attain our goal? The prize of the high calling of God in Christ. We must have proper preparation, in view of an earthly vision, or purpose, education, ability, experience and an understanding of the purpose. We must likewise have proper preparation for our heavenly vision. This vision is heaven, or eternal life. The goal shall be reached when we have fulfilled the vision. This vision or objective cannot be found in going to church, nor can it be purchased, nor can it be earned, nor do we merit it. It is wholly found when we realize that in ourselves can be found no good thing. The Scripture gives us the understanding in Romans 3:23, 'All have sinned,' and only by the death and shedding of Christ's blood can we ever expect to reach to this heavenly vision. It is important to us because it is the only way to fulfill the cry of our hearts. We read in Eph. 2:8, 'For by grace we are saved.' It is a gift. "I can assure you if you are pressing onward to this goal you will have accomplished the purpose of your birth as we read in Ecclesiastes 9:9, we are born to make choice for our future life. It is reason enough in these days of unrest, without peace, and we know not what the next day will bring forth. It would pay to have ourselves safe in the arms of Jesus. If you have found Him then you have found the goal that you have been pressing onward to attain."

Historical Facts Regarding The Grant Twp. Cemetery

At the Memorial Day program at the Grant Township cemetery on May 30, William Day, former township supervisor, read a history of the cemetery which is printed here at the request of present and former residents of Grant. Mr. Day said:
The Williamson Cemetery Association was organized Jan. 20, 1881. The first meeting was held at the home of Wm. J. Williamson and the following officers were elected: Wm. J. Williamson, president; John W. Williamson, vice president; R. C. Hallack, secretary; William Wilson, treasurer; and John R. Body, sexton. One-third of the money received from the sale of lots was to be paid to Wm. J. Williamson until $25.00 had been paid, that being the purchase price of one acre of ground.
A special meeting was held on May 8, 1882. The first year's receipts were $11.44 in cash, 500 ft. of fencing by J. R. Body, Simon Churchill 10rds. for one lot and N. A. Younglove was to do the same.
At a meeting held Aug. 17, 1891, it was voted to change the name of the association to the Grant Township Cemetery Association and the association purchased two acres more land for cemetery purposes from W. J. Bashman. The consideration was $125.00.
At the 1892 meeting, it was decided that no more lots be sold on time and that sexton be permitted to make a charge of $1.25 for digging a grave. In 1894, it was decided to deed cemetery over to Grant Township for the purpose of a township cemetery. It was taken over by the township board on Nov. 24, 1894, with all money on hand which was $24.92.
For the next 40 or 45 years, the cemetery received very little care. In '38, there was much more interest shown in the care of the cemetery. In 1939 the township bought 1.8 acres more land from George E. Wallace, consideration being $200 per acre. At that time the township decided to remove all lilac bushes and repair and build some new fences, do some grading and fill some low spots which made a decided improvement. Since that time the interest has grown with each year and I wish to thank every one who gave of their time and helped in every way possible to make our cemetery what it is today.

The dump ground, the eyesore, across the road from the cemetery, has for years been one of the things we have tried to clean up. As the most of you know, it was cleaned back from the road and some grading done, but it was soon piled out to the road again. This was one of the reasons why we embarked on this program although it took quite a lot of money. Thanks to Brookfield Township for their help.
As to our chapel, I think Jess Putman did more to get it started than any one else, and was active and showed much interest until it became his turn to answer to that final roll call. At a special meeting in the town hall on July 20, 1948, it was decided to investigate the possibility of a chapel. Your township board met with the Brookfield board at cemetery one evening. We looked over this dump ground and in our opinion this was the best way to clean it up and thanks to Brookfield for the deed to land and agreement to help to clean it up and fence it. As we worked along we could see that by spending a little more money we could do a job that any township could be proud of, and when completed will enlarge our cemetery to the extent of about 180 lots. These when sold will more than return your money. I think the community owes a vote of thanks to T. J.

Heron and the Jarvis boys for their fine job done. True, we let T. J. Heron the contract to build to certain specifications, but as we went along, they found different places in material and construction where improvements could be made and with the consent of the building committee, made the changes regardless of costs or inconveniences to themselves and your board saw fit to allow them at least part of the extra cost. So today we have a chapel completed and the grounds nearly so. I would like to say that I feel a little proud to have had the privilege of doing what little I could to help it along.
I think we should remember the Huron Co. Road Commission for the help and cooperation we received from them. Every member of the building committee has worked and cooperated to the fullest extent. They are Clark Jarvis, Jess Putman, Jay Dickinson, Robt. Osborne and myself, and don't forget your township board who cooperated in every way possible. And now to you, Bob Osborne, as supervisor of and for the Township of Grant, I present the key to this building to be dedicated as a chapel for this cemetery.

Michigan Mirror

By Gene Alleman.

Like the old nursery song, "Who Killed Cock Robin?" Michigan has a new political dispute to fuss over: "Who's to blame for the coming state deficit?"

criticizes the Republican legislature. In an address before the state C.I.O. convention in Grand Rapids, he urged labor to "pump some guts into the legislature to face the terrific financial situation in Michigan."

Rather than operate the state in the "red", Governor Williams intends to call the legislature back into special session. He is whooping it up for a tax on corporation profits as a "painless" way to get more money.

By continually hammering away at the legislature's refusal to enact new taxes, Williams seeks to put the Republicans on the defensive—a good strategy if it works.

In his plea for new taxes, the governor has some newspaper editorial support. Here are a few examples: Battle Creek Enquirer and News—"The major fault in the legislative session was the refusal of members to halt a financial crisis before it occurs." Jackson Citizen-Patriot—"It is inexcusable that a legislature should call its job finished while a deficit...threatens the state."

Robert F. Steadman, state controller, forecast on May 27 an operating deficit between $70 and $72 millions "in the light of a continuing decline in general business conditions."

John P. Espie, chairman of the house ways and means committee, is a veteran in the legislature. He is now serving his 25th year. It has been Espie's conviction that the constitutional earmarking of state funds for return to local governments, twice upheld by the voters, would inevitably lead to a state treasury deficit. He has often suggested "it might be a good thing to run a deficit and let the people see what they did when they adopted sales tax diversion".

(This amendment returns 78 per cent of sales tax revenue to schools, cities, villages and townships, leaving the other 22 per cent for state services.)

Espe's recommendations, which the legislature apparently approved: Levy no new taxes, come in January (1950) when we can see where we stand.

To those individuals who cry vaguely for economy in state government, believing that the deficit might be averted by such legislative action, Espie is a realist from his long experience. He vigorously opposed the sales tax diversion amendment which he says is the root of Michigan's present financial troubles.

Michigan's present taxation system has produced some paradoxical situations. Only 34 counties paid as much in state taxes as they received from the state treasury. Take Clinton County, for example. Representative Espie is from Clinton County. Clinton received $1,319,228 in state revenue during 1948; Clinton County taxpayers paid $1,117,358 to the state. The "bonus" from Lansing was $201,870. Since local taxes in Clinton County totaled $511,179, the effect was to get $1 state bonus for every $2.53 of county taxes.

Getting "something for nothing" thus is the financial blessing conferred by Michigan's present hocus-pocus tax setup upon 49 counties.

The situation becomes more involved, politically at least, when the populous counties which pay the bulk of state taxes demand reapportionment in the legislature. Then you get a city vs. country argument. It was the so-called neglect of big cities which prompted Mayor George Welsh, Grand Rapids, to join forces with the Michigan Education Association for the diversion amendment victory.

Will the legislature receive credit or condemnation for its refusal to enact new taxes at the 1949 session? The lengthening shadow of the coming state deficit presents a challenge.

It has already provided Governor Williams with a new issue: A "do-nothing" legislature which lacks "guts" to avert a deficit.

The Boy Scouts won the softball game from the Dads by the score of 20 to 19. In the first inning, the first team played the Dads and made six runs. In the second inning, the second team made eight runs against the Dads, who must have begun softening up already.

The Scouts had four teams so as to give all the Scouts present a chance to play.

The score was very close, and when the Scouts were up for the last time the score was 18 to 19 in favor of the Dads. But two Scouts knocked home runs to win by the narrow margin of 20 to 19.

The Dads who plays are: Harley Kelley, Howard Ellis, Edward Musall, Harry Little, Edward Baker, Robert Hunter, Sr., Lewis Bishop, Thomas Dewey and Keith McConkey. Jim Baker and Jim Bishop also played for the Dads.

Robert Hunter, Jr., Robert Baker, and Fred McConkey ran for their Dads in the last few innings. Clarence (better known as "Bud") Burt officiated as base umpire, and Tom Schwaderer called balls and strikes.

Pictured above are typical examples of the two smart and separate lines of cars which bear the current imprint of Pontiac goodness—the Streamliner and the Chieftain DeLuxe Sedan Coupes.

Each is in such demand that, on its own, it ranks among America's most popular cars today. That two cars of such decidedly different appearance should each enjoy such wide acceptance is easy to explain. THEY'RE BOTH PONTIACS!

While each has its own individualized smartness, both offer all the great basic Pontiac virtues. Both are conspicuously beautiful. Both carry the well-known promise of Pontiac quality—long life, dependability, and fine performance. Both afford the smooth, enjoyable performance of Pontiac's two great engines—the power-packed straight eight or its equally famous six-cylinder companion.

Finally, both represent unusual values—a very fine product at a very low price. Either one you choose will make you mighty happy.

STATE OF MICHIGAN

Executive Office of Lansing

PROCLAMATION
June Dairy Month

Michigan with over a million of the finest dairy cows ranks high in the union as a producer of dairy products. The production of high quality milk and cream throughout the entire state provides the best food for our citizens and plays a very large part in our economic well being.

The State of Michigan is increasingly interested in the health and strength of all its citizens and in their economic welfare. Dairy products are of vital and increasing importance to the health of all the people, and the dairy industry is of untold economic value to our thousands of farms and other industries.

The improvement of this great industry of Michigan is of interest to all the citizens as a matter of practical living, and is of priceless interest to the people of the entire nation and the world.

June is the month when the bounties of nature are most apparent and when our fine dairy herds reach their greatest and best production. June is the month annually set aside by the great American Dairy Industry as a period in which the important health and life giving values of milk and dairy products may be emphasized to all the people.

Therefore, I, G. Kennon Williams, Governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby proclaim the month of June, 1949, as Dairy Month in Michigan, and urge that during this period all our people be made aware of the importance of dairy products to the general health and welfare of the people.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Michigan, this sixteenth day of May, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred forty-nine, and of the Commonwealth the One Hundred Thirtieth
