Michigan Mirror

By Gene Alleman

No special session of the state legislature will be called by Governor G. Mennen Williams this fall.

Such is the interpretation which the "Michigan Mirror" deduces from an exchange of letters between the governor and State Treasurer D. Hale Brake, Auditor General Muri K. Aten and Controller Robert F. Steadman over a 1950 deficit.

An additional observation might be made: The problem of state finances, caused directly by diversion of 78 per cent of sales tax revenues to public schools and cities and townships, will await the 1950 session of the state legislature.

Here is the record, and you can judge for yourself.

Last May the governor intimated he would call legislators into special session to consider new taxes. Legislators had declined to adopt a levy on corporation profits. A proposed increase in the state gasoline tax had been pigeon-holed in committee. Controller Steadman, who heads the department of administration, said that legislative appropriations were approximately $50,000,000 higher than the state's anticipated tax revenues.

The legislature's attitude, as represented by G. O. P. leaders, was this: Wait and see. Many Michigan taxpayers are not convinced new taxes are necessary.

To bring the matter to a head, Concluded on page 11.

Cass City Lost First Game at Marlette Friday Night

Redhawks Came Near Adding Extra Points in Last Minute of Play

Cass City lost its first football game of the season to Marlette by a close score of 20-19 at Marlette Friday night.

The first scoring by the Redhawks was made in the second quarter by Jack Bird on a pass from Tom Schwaderer. The play went for 14 yards for a touchdown. The extra point was lost when the ball hit an upright. Cass City recovered on an side kick and Tom Schwaderer went over on a reverse 14 yards. Gil Schwaderer kicked the extra point, the score standing 13-0 for Cass City at the end of the first half.

In the third period, Marlette scored three touchdowns. The first was right after the opening kickoff and the second was the result of an intercepted pass on Cass City's 40-yard line which was run back to the 20-yard marker. Three plays later, Marlette scored again. The third touchdown was made after Cass City fumbled on the 30-yard line.

Cass City scored on the first play in the fourth quarter on a 42-yard run by Tom Schwaderer. The point was nullified by off side. The score stood 19-18 in favor of Cass City at that time.

Marlette blocked a punt which went out the end zone for an automatic safety counting two points, making the score 20 to 19.

Cass City threatened in the last minute of the game on a 70-yard run by Jack Bird who was caught from behind on the 11-yard line. Two plays later the game ended with the ball on Marlette's 6-yard line.

Jim Bishop and Chester Dorland were outstanding in defense work for the Redhawks, says Coach Arthur Paddy.

Bank Remodeling Shows Progress

The remodeling of The Pinney State Bank building which started early in August has been devoted chiefly to a tearing down process in reducing it to a one-story structure and removing the old vault.

The door of the new and larger vault, weighing between three and four tons, was placed in position last Thursday and work was started this week in setting the Missouri Red granite which is used as a base for the exterior finish of the Main Street front of the building and the north half of its west wall. Above the granite will be placed blocks of limestone which are expected to arrive next week.

Work on the addition to the rear of the building has been started. The roof has been built and now masons are laying the brick walls beneath it.

During the building process, the bank business is being transacted in temporary quarters in the Frieskorn building.

Former Chaplain Writes Mrs. Clara Vaden of Bravery of Her Son in Battle of the Caves

In the September third issue of the Saturday Evening Post, the article entitled, "Blak—Battle of the Caves," told of a jeep ambush. Mrs. Clara Vaden of Snover received a letter regarding it from Captain Russell Stroup, a former chaplain, who is now a Presbyterian pastor at Lynchburg, Virginia. Excerpts are taken from the letter, as follows:

"Your son, Kelvin, was among those who were killed in the ambush which is mentioned in the Post. I did not know him since he was in a different outfit from mine but I remember him and the incident quite well, and I remember also how deeply his friends felt his loss for he was a great favorite with all of his buddies, and must have been a wonderful boy.

At an evangelistic service Sunday evening, Rev. R. R. Terwilliger gave a sermon on the subject, "Why Evangelize?"

At the services, special vocal musical numbers by choirs, quartets, duetists and soloists added enjoyment to the occasion. Former parishioners and pastors improved the opportunity to attend the home-coming and renew acquaintances.

High School Home Rooms Chose Officers Early This Week

In elections held early this week, high school home rooms elected officers for the new school year. There are ten senior high school home rooms into which students are divided alphabetically so that each will spend the entire four years under the guidance of the same teacher. The presidents of the home rooms, together with the class presidents, are members of the Student Council. Since the junior high home rooms are the same as the classes no regular officers were elected from these rooms, but an additional delegate to the council was selected.

The home rooms with their teachers and officers are as follows:

- Home Room 34. Home room teacher, Dave Ackerman. President, Marilyn Behr. Vice president, Marilyn Agar. Secretary, Bonnie Benkelman. Treasurer, Kathleen Auten.
- Home Room 37. Home room teacher, Harold Parker. President, Sally Colbert. Vice president, Ralph Doyen. Secretary, Shirley Dorland. Treasurer, Joan Copeland.
- Home Room 15. Home room teacher, Mrs. Esther Kirm. President, Joyce Fry. Vice president, Doris Franklin. Secretary, Jeanne Field. Treasurer, Bob Fox.

ECONOMIC GLANCE

U.S. Future Looks Bright

NEW YORK. — Despite what appears to be a general air of gloom permeating most official and expert thinking on the probable future of the United States, one agency thinks everything's going to be all right.

That organization is the Twentieth Century Fund, a non-profit foundation established in 1919 by the late merchant prince and philanthropist, Edward A. Filene. Its purpose is to carry on scientific research and public education on economic problems.

And, amid all the reports of recessions, unemployment and declining trade, the fund has sounded a long-range note of optimism. In a statistical study of American development, past, present and future, the agency says that by 1960 the United States could be providing adequate food, housing, education and medical care for every living American.

"We now have the highest standard of living ever attained by man," said the study. "The average American earns more money, eats better food, has a better house, better clothes, schools, theaters, more conveniences than the average citizen of any other country, anywhere, at any time."

Dynamic Country

But that is nothing compared to what we can do. Right now we are just taking a little rest during the march along the road of progress. America is a dynamic country, always expanding, always going forward. Despite occasional setbacks, that is what the record shows as far back as comprehensive statistics are available.

"The whole secret of our constant advance is our ability to increase our productivity, our output per man-hour of work," says the fund. "We have stepped this up from an average of 27¢ worth of goods and services turned out in an hour's work in 1850 to $1.15 in 1940 and to an expected $1.61 or more in 1960. (See chart in adjoining columns.)"

"We have done this mostly by substituting the machine for human sweat and animal power. By 1960 we shall be using 100 times as much mechanical energy per man-hour of work as we did in 1850.

"This increased output per hour worked is the only way to make possible higher wages to workers, lower prices to consumers, greater returns to managers and owners, and greater leisure for all of us."

The report points to a crucial fact: "We have made our progress up to now because we have had an expanding system. We are constantly starting new businesses, turning out more goods, new products, we build new factories, schools, hospitals, museums. We provide new services, more leisure."

Can Keep It Up

But can we keep it up? The fund says we can. And we can do this despite the rigors of inflation and deflation.

Our system is strained by our tendency to go too far and too fast in boom, and to drop too swiftly and too deeply in bust," says the study. "But we are aware of the danger. We are making efforts to level out the ups and downs of our business activity."

"For the long pull we can see that both boom and bust are passing phases in the steady record of our long term advance."

Doctor Holds Persons Need Bed to Themselves

NEW YORK.—A room of one's own is one of the physical conditions most conducive to a restful night, according to Dr. Victor G. Heiser, well known medical advisor.

It is the relationships with other people that sap most of an individual's daily energy, explains Dr. Heiser.

"Sleep is designed to rest the conscious mind," he says. "There is little rest if it is kept near the threshold of our consciousness by our awareness of another person."

Complete solitude is necessary to relax from the contacts of the day, free from the need to attune oneself to the moods and needs of another. Only then can fatigue be eased so that one is refreshed and ready for the next day.

Unfortunately, it is not always possible—especially in the crowded living conditions and small homes of today—to have a room of one's own. But, even if a room must be shared, each person should have a comfortable bed to himself.

Absolute relaxation and perfect rest are never possible if a bed is shared. Although both may sleep, each person is still aware of the presence of the other and this awareness affects the restfulness of their sleep.

Tests have shown that the average person turns and moves 20 to 45 times a night, but when the bed is shared these movements are necessarily restricted. The individual cannot move freely in such a way as to thoroughly rest each part of his body. Only in a bed of his own can he turn and toss at will, without disturbing or being disturbed by another.

A room of one's own is ideal—a bed of one's own is a necessity.

The want ads are newsy, too.

Do You Want Your A&P Put Out Of Business?

Last Thursday in New York, the anti-trust lawyers from Washington filed a suit to put A&P out of business.

They asked the court to order us to get rid of most of our stores and also the manufacturing facilities which supply you with A&P coffee, Ann Page products, Jane Parker baked goods, and other quality items we produce.

This would mean higher food prices for you. It would mean less food on every dinner table and fewer dollars in every pay envelope.

It would mean the end of A&P as you know it.

This poses a basic question for the American people: Do they want to continue to enjoy lower prices and better living? Or do they want to break up A&P and pay higher prices, and have lower living standards?

What do you want?

Why Destroy A&P?

This suit was brought under the anti-trust laws. These are good laws. They were passed about fifty years ago to prevent any company, or any group of companies, from getting a monopoly in a field and then raising prices to the public.

A&P has never done any of these things.

Nobody has ever shown that we have anything even approaching a monopoly of the food business anywhere. As every housewife knows, the retail grocery business is the most competitive in the country and we do only a small part of it.

Nobody has ever said we charged too high prices — just the opposite. This whole attack rises out of the fact that we sell good food too cheap. We would not have had any of this trouble if, instead of lowering prices, we had raised them and pocketed the difference.

Nobody has ever said that our profit rate was too high. During the past five years our net profit, after taxes, has averaged about 1½¢ on every dollar of sales, which is less than almost any other business you can think of.

The American people have shown that they like our low-price policy by coming to our stores to do their shopping. If A&P is big, it is because the American people, by their patronage, have made it big.

Obviously, it is the theory of the anti-trust lawyers that the people have no right to patronize a company, if their patronage will make that company grow; and that any big business must be destroyed simply because it is big, and even if the public gets hurt in the process.

Do You Want Higher Prices?

There is much more involved in this case than the future of A&P. The entire American system of efficient, low-cost, low-profit distribution which we pioneered, will face destruction and the public will suffer.

A&P was the first chain store in this country. For more than ninety years we have tried to build a sound business on the simple formula the founder gave us: "Give the people the most good food you can for their money." Year after year we have tried to do a better job, make our business more efficient, and pass the savings on to the consumer in the form of lower prices.

Our efforts along these lines have led other grocers to keep their costs and profits down.

In the old days before A&P, food that cost the grocer 50¢, often sold as high as $1.00 at retail.

Today, food that costs the grocer 50¢ generally sells to the public at less than 60¢.

The methods we pioneered have been adopted not only by other grocers, but by merchants in other lines. There are today literally hundreds of chain stores, voluntary groups and individual merchants operating with the same methods and in the same pattern here under attack.

If the anti-trust lawyers succeed in destroying A&P, the way will be clear for the destruction of every other efficient large-scale distributor.

Who Will Be Hurt?

There has never been any question in our mind that it is good business and good citizenship to sell good food as cheaply as possible. As Fortune Magazine said about A&P some time ago, "It is firmly attached to the one great principle — the selling of more for less — that has made the desert bloom and the nation wax great."

We sincerely believe that we have helped the American people eat better and live better.

We believe that the hundreds of thousands of farmers and manufacturers who have voluntarily sought our business have profited by our fast, low-cost distribution of their products.

We know that our 110,000 loyal employees enjoy today, as they always have, the highest wages, shortest hours and best working conditions generally prevailing in the retail food industry; and that these men and women have found in A&P good opportunities for security and progress.

We know that thousands of businessmen — the landlords who rent us our stores, the haulers who operate our trucks, the people who supply us with goods and services — have a big stake in our operations.

Obviously, all these people will suffer if this company is put out of business.

What Shall We Do?

We admit that the interests of the owners of A&P are of little importance.

Frankly, they could make an enormous amount of money by breaking up A&P, as the anti-trust lawyers wish, and selling off the parts.

But is this what the American people want? Do they agree with the anti-trust lawyers that our food prices are too low, and that we should be put out of the picture so other grocers can charge more?

Frankly, if this were the case, we would not want to continue in business.

But we seriously doubt that this is the case. Twelve years ago, an effort was made to tax this company and other chain stores out of business. The public rallied to our support. They said they liked our quality foods and our low prices. As a result of their opposition, the tax was defeated.

Now we are faced with this new attack through the courts. We are faced with the heavy costs and all the trouble that lawsuits involve.

But we believe this attack is a threat to millions of consumers who rely on us for quality foods at low prices; to farmers who rely on us for fast, low-cost distribution of their products; and to our loyal employees.

We feel that it is our responsibility to all these people to defend, by every legitimate means, this company and the low-price policy on which it was built.

41 Per Cent of Land In U. S. in Herbage

Grass Top Resource, Cattlemen Assert
 Grass is one of the greatest resources of this nation. In the United States there are approximately 779 million acres of land which will grow nothing but hay, grass and other herbage unfit for human consumption.
 This great acreage represents 41 per cent of the total land of the nation. About 9 per cent of the lands in the United States are plowable but are used also to produce pasture, hay or forage crops. It can be concluded, therefore, that about 50 per cent of the United States would not be used if it were not for meat animals.

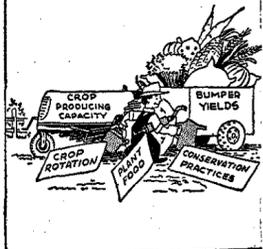

This little fellow, obviously so well-started in life, is symbolic of what good pasturage can mean to cattle and just how much cattle depend on grass. In the United States there are approximately 779 million acres of land which cannot grow anything but hay, grass and other herbage.

Of the total feeds consumed by beef cattle 78.7 per cent is grass, hay and dry roughage. A minimum of grain is needed to bring feeder steers from 700 pounds to 1,000 pounds when the principal part of the ration is made up of hay, ensilage or other roughage.

The process of producing beef cattle normally involves the following steps:

1. The purebred operator who produces the sires and females which are the foundation of beef animal production. This branch of the cattle industry is one that requires heavy investment and efficiency in management.
2. The commercial breeder who produces the calves which are the offspring of commercial herds of female and purebred sires.
3. The pasture cattleman who grows the animal from the weaning or yearling stage to two years old, taking his profit from the poundage gained on grass and hay.
4. The feeder who "finishes" the animal from grass stage to slaughter condition, disposing of a large percentage of roughage.

Crop Rotation

Crop rotation with deep-rooted legumes, plant food and good management methods are the "gas, oil and lubricants" that keep your soil's crop producing machine going on high.

Each of these has a job to do. Each needs help from the others. They all have to work like a team.

Valuable as a good rotation is in balancing soil-building legume crops against soil-robbing row crops, it has to be backed up by wise land management methods. Cropping in even the best rotation drains the soil's supply of phosphate and potash.

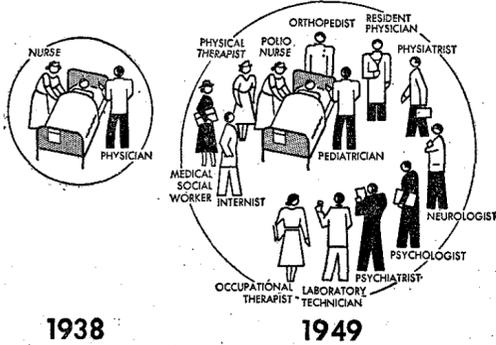

And even if your good management program puts back every scrap of barnyard manure, plows under the legumes and returns straw, corn stalks and crop aftermath to the soil, you still ship away hundreds of pounds of plant food in the grain, beef and milk you sell every year.

Good Pasture Increases Dairy Herd Production

With 2.5 million fewer cows on farms now than in 1945, possibilities for profit in dairying are greater if labor-saving, high value pasture is the center of the production program. Good pasture can increase milk output and cut production costs. That means a bigger profit margin. Getting bigger pasture yields is a matter of feeding the soil plant nutrients so it can feed legume grass mixtures.

GROWTH OF POLIO CARE TEAM

Medical care for polio patients is costing the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis more money than ever before—because better treatment is available today than formerly, as the accompanying chart reveals. Until 1938 when the National Foundation was formed, a physician and a nurse usually comprised the best available care. Today, modern polio treatment may include 13 specialized services, provided by an entire TEAM of professional workers. This expanded care has cost National Foundation Chapters millions in March of Dimes funds. More money is needed immediately to continue these services. Support the POLIO EPIDEMIC EMERGENCY DRIVE to help care for today's polio patients. Send your contribution now to POLIO, care of your local Post Office.

Ancient Treasure Of Persian Gold Brought to Museum

CHICAGO.—A royal treasure of Persian gold from the period 500 B.C. has been bought by the University of Chicago's Oriental Institute.

University officials said the valuable collection was bought from a European art collector for an undisclosed price. It is the only collection of its type in the western hemisphere.

Thorikild Jacobsen, director of the institute, said the treasure consists of 53 pieces of gold, each exquisitely carved. He said it is an example of the art of the last oriental empire before Greece and Rome took over cultural leadership.

It is from the period of the Emperors Darius and Xerxes and survived the looting and plundering by soldiers in the time of Alexander the Great.

Intricately designed, the medallions are believed to have been adornments for the vesture of royal personages. They are the work of Persian goldsmiths and Jacobsen said they rank in craftsmanship with what the finest modern jewelers could do today with improved tools and microscopes.

He said the treasure represents an art supported by unlimited wealth.

How the gold survived the last 2,500 years is supposition. But historians believe that some Persian prince, fleeing from Alexander's men, may have buried the treasure for safekeeping.

One piece is a complete necklace consisting of 96 separate pieces—20 lion heads, 53 granulated beads and 23 other beads made of two parts.

The most prized single piece is a four-inch winged and horned lion. The ribs, muscles and feathers are chiseled to form the body. Experts said it is a rare piece of relief art work, the lion having been cut away from the medallion by hand.

The university said a microscopic examination showed that small rings on the back of the medallions, for the purpose of sewing the medallions to clothing, had been soldered with the same quality of gold as the jewelry.

WHY THE MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILROAD STRIKE?

Over twenty years ago, the Congress of the United States passed the Railway Labor Act. It was hailed by union leaders as a model for the settlement of labor disputes.

THE LEADERS of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, Order of Railway Conductors, and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen on the Missouri Pacific Railroad have refused to avail themselves of the peaceful means provided by this Act for settling their disputes. They insist that they be the sole umpire of their own disputes over the meaning of contracts.

There is no Need for Strikes

With all of the available methods for the interpretation of contracts, there is no need for a strike or even a threat of a strike, but the leaders of these railroad unions have ignored the ordinary procedures established by law and insist upon imposing their own interpretations of their contracts by means of a strike.

The wheels have stopped rolling on the Missouri Pacific. They may stop rolling on other railroads at any time. Recently the Wabash Railroad was forced to discontinue operation for several days under similar circumstances.

What are These Strikes About?

These strikes and strike threats are not about wage rates or hours. They result from disputes over the meaning of existing contracts. They cover claims for a full day's pay for less than a day's work, or for payments for services performed by others who were fully paid for the work done.

President Truman's Board Condemns Strike

There is an established legal method for handling disputes involving existing written contracts—just as there is such a method of settling any contract dispute which you may have in your daily life.

The President of the United States appointed a Fact Finding Board to investigate and adjust the Missouri Pacific dispute. This Board reported, in part, as follows:

"... it is with a deep sense of regret that we are obliged to report the failure of our mission. It seems inconceivable to us that a cooperative strike should occur on one of the nation's major transportation systems, with all of the losses and hardships that would follow, in view of the fact that the Railway Labor Act provides an orderly, efficient and complete remedy for the fair and just settlement of the matters in dispute. Grievances of the character here under discussion are so numerous and of such frequent occurrence on all railroads that the general adoption of the policy pursued by the organizations in this case would soon result in the complete nullification of the Railway Labor Act..."

Obviously the railroads cannot be run efficiently or economically if the leaders of the unions ignore agreements or laws.

Provisions of the Law which are Disregarded

There are five ways under the Railway Labor Act to settle disputes over the meaning of contracts:

- 1—Decision by National Railroad Adjustment Board.
- 2—Decision by System Adjustment Board for the specific railroad.
- 3—Decision by arbitration.
- 4—Decision by neutral referee.
- 5—Decision by courts.

The Missouri Pacific Railroad has been and is entirely willing to have these disputes settled in accordance with the requirements of the Railway Labor Act. Regardless of this fact, the union leaders have shut down that railroad.

Innocent Bystanders Suffer Losses and Hardships

There are about 5,000 engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen on the Missouri Pacific. They are known as "operating" employees, and are the most highly paid of all employees on the nation's railroads, but their strike action has resulted in the loss of work to 22,500 other employees of the Missouri Pacific. In addition, they have imposed great inconvenience and hardship upon the public and the communities served by that railroad.

The Railway Labor Act was designed to protect the public against just such interruptions of commerce.

If these men will not comply with the provisions of the law for the settlement of such disputes, then all thinking Americans must face the question, "What is the next step?"

Rain Makers

Back to Laboratories

NEW YORK. — Scientists can make it rain—but they agree that they can't make it any time, any place. So they are going back to their laboratories to see what they can do about it. The making of rain with dry ice, experiments with which began some three years ago, cannot be done just with any old cloud or at any old place.

The United States weather bureau has recently concluded three rain-making experiments with negative results they got more than a year ago in tests over Ohio when 150 attempts failed to show how to make rain of economic importance to farmers.

Scientific rainmaking, however, has proved one new point beyond doubt — namely, that clouds, their structure, why the rain and why they develop the power to cause disasters are a lot more intricate than has been supposed.

Old Indian Village Is to Be Restored By Wisconsin State

AZTALAN, WIS. — Today about 350 persons live here at Aztalan where five hundred years ago about 1,000 Indians dwelt in a thriving village. The Indian inhabitants vanished about 1500 and now the site of the once busy Indian village is a big, bumpy field knee-deep in weeds; but the state of Wisconsin plans someday to reconstruct the village to look just as it did centuries ago.

The state of Wisconsin has purchased the site for a state park. But no construction of the village can be done until the topsoil is carefully scraped away and the undisturbed ground below the plow zone scrutinized.

Ten brawny, sun tanned archaeologists are spending the summer in the middle of the field, carefully scraping the soil off and cataloging everything they find. The expedition, headed by Chandler Rowe, assistant professor of anthropology at Lawrence college, has uncovered many broken jugs, bird and deer bones, shell hoes and an occasional sharp bone used by the Indians as a shuttle in weaving.

From the materials found, the archaeologists reconstruct the culture of the Indians who lived here. Rowe pointed to a circular blackish area about six inches across, and explained that it was a decayed post. Series of such post holes have indicated the exact location of a stockade that surrounded the village and the size and shape of the houses. When the conservation department restores the village, it will be able to sink posts in the exact places where the Indians did. Archaeologists have been excavating Aztalan off and on since 1919. Their discoveries show pretty certainly that the Indians were from the middle Mississippi valley.

Little Bo-Peep had lost much sleep,
 And could hardly see to drive;
 When lights came at her,
 There was a terrible clatter,
 Now she's lucky to be alive!

Yes—night-driving Bo-Peep is lucky! Drowsy driving can be fatal. Fatigue—lack of sleep—too many hours behind the wheel will dull any driver's senses. And three out of every five highway deaths happen after dark.

When you drive at night, be alert—always able to stop within your headlight range. Keep your windshield clear—never look directly into blinding headlight glare.

If you are over-tired, pull off the road and rest. Spare a few seconds to save your life!

New Philippine Code Will Abolish Divorce For Any Reasons

MANILA, P. I.—This island government is stamping out divorce. Sometime in 1950 local laws will forbid divorce on any grounds. The new Philippine code, enacted at a recent session of the congress, will become effective one year after its publication. Even under existing laws, divorce in the Philippines is extremely difficult. The only grounds are infidelity on the part of the wife or husband—and the guilty spouse must be imprisoned before the divorce may be granted. The new code allows legal separation both of body and property, but neither spouse may remarry. The new code also provides for legal separation when one spouse tries to kill the other. Foreign divorces obtained by couples married in the Philippines are not recognized by Philippine courts. Dr. Jorge Bocobo, former associate justice of the supreme court and for 17 years dean of the University of the Philippines law college, called the abolition of divorce here a "backward step." He was chairman of the code commission which prepared the new compilation of civil laws for enactment. The new code provides, however, that the wife's consent is necessary before any sale of conjugal property is made by the husband. Under the old law, the husband could dispose of conjugal property without even telling his wife.

America Proves too Much For Baby Elephant Bimbo

NEW YORK.—Bimbo was a well behaved elephant—for such a little elephant, so far away from his native Africa. When the plane landed at the international airport, Bimbo walked down the ramp without a bit of help. It just took a little push to persuade him to lift his 180 pounds into the back seat of the car. He was reported to be the first elephant ever to ride in an automobile. On the first trip downtown he stuck his trunk out of the window, and waved it calmly at the skyscrapers. Believed to be the youngest—five months old—and smallest—30 inches high—ever to come to this country, Bimbo was an elephant of distinction. And he behaved with distinction. But at the animal store where he was taken, to await shipment to his final home in the St. Louis zoo, Bimbo found America too much for him. The owner found him a few hours later collapsed in his cage, breathing too loudly, his heartbeat too weak. A police emergency squad was called. They gave Bimbo 1,600 cubic feet of pure oxygen before a trained animal-ambulance crew arrived. The animal-store owner called his personal physician, who once had attended him for pneumonia. The doctor administered penicillin and adrenalin injections. Less than 12 hours after he arrived, Bimbo was reported sinking. Later, lying under a gray army blanket and still getting oxygen, Bimbo died. His body will go to the American museum of natural history.

The Ayrshire breeders' association is the only cattle-breeders' organization in the field which maintains "average" rather than "selective" production records of its cows, according to officials.

At this time, it was reported, some 16,000 Ayrshire cows are voluntarily "on test." Daily, certified records of all phases of production and lactation are averaged into monthly records and these, in turn, are averaged into annual records. From these annual figures, "herd" averages are then computed, and these are computed into the only "breed" averages extant.

Owners of the Ayrshire cattle are given duplicate copies of the production records compiled with the help of foolproof IBM machines. This system is of immeasurable help to Ayrshire farmers in operating their herds and disposing of surplus cattle.

But this painstaking "cows on test" project is only one of the many operations conducted by the A.B.A. staff. The birth of every Ayrshire calf is recorded and registered.

The operations of the A.B.A. are helping to make Ayrshire cattle one of the most popular breeds of dairy cattle in the country. The Ayrshire is reported the highest producer of 4.0 per cent milk of any breed. Only Ayrshires produce "naturally homogenized" milk—the fat globules are so fine and tiny that they are integrated by nature with the rest of the milk. Ayrshire milk is in great demand by hospitals, and by doctors with on-diet patients.

De-Humidifier

Now the home-owner can protect property in his basement from mold, rust and mildew damage by moist summer air with any one of several simple and inexpensive de-humidifiers and a low-cost chemical-calcium chloride.

Scarce in supply during the war years, calcium chloride is now in plentiful supply. Low-cost de-humidifiers are available nationally through hardware and lumber dealers.

De-humidifiers designed to use the chemical have a container such as that shown here, for the flake which is exposed to air. Calcium chloride has the unique property of being able to absorb several times its own weight in moisture.

B. Toottel, director of the agricultural extension service at Montana state college.

Ted: "Sounds impressive—but how come?"

Dan: "Well, the Lennox name is famous in home heating. The Lennox Company is the most prominent in the business; they have over 5,000 experienced dealers like me all over America. This message also shows why Lennox systems are so efficient; they're built by experts!"

Ted: "And the final words tell me there're lots of Lennox systems!"

Dan: "Dozens and dozens of 'em in sizes and types for gas, oil, and coal! What d'you think of my?"

Just Wanted To Know

A rather smallish man was halled into court charged with picking a man's pocket. The complainant was very near-sighted and didn't seem very sure of his facts. He couldn't positively identify the other man as the one who stole his watch.

The judge, faced with the lack of evidence, was forced to discharge the alleged pickpocket. When the man stood there, as if he didn't comprehend the meaning of the justice's words, the judge repeated the words which dismissed him.

"All right," he said, "you're free to go. You may leave. You are judged not guilty. Go on." The man still wasn't sure. "Does that mean," he asked, "that I can keep the watch?"

Dentist's wife—"Have you been able to collect that bill Mr. Jones has owed you for so long?" Dentist—"No, darn it. I met the guy on the street yesterday and he had the nerve to snap at me with the teeth I made for him."

First Choice

A prospective father had become so keyed up with the waiting that he staged a premature celebration. He managed to break away from his drinking companions soon after midnight and headed for home. He was helped through the door by the nurse.

"Is my son here yet?" he demanded, and without waiting for a reply, continued, "Oh, he must be. Show him to me, will you, please?"

The nurse, without a word, pulled back some covers and revealed triplets. He blinked his eyes several times, counted them again to make sure it wasn't the alcohol multiplying for him, then seemed to brighten all of a sudden.

"I'll keep the one in the middle," he announced.

Assembly of God Church—

Red Cross Hospital Workers Help Speed Patient Recovery

The job of rebuilding sick bodies and minds of servicemen in military hospitals and restoring them to useful life is carried forward by a team—doctors, nurses, and Red Cross workers. The Red Cross worker may be a medical or psychiatric social worker, a recreation specialist, or a combination of them assisted by a Gray Lady.

Military physicians and nurses find that restoring the health of a sick man requires much more than medicine and food. The will to live and the will to do things must be revived before medical treatment can get in its beneficial work. That's where the Red Cross enters the picture.

A young soldier, only 23, was injured in an accident at a munitions proving ground. Half of his face and neck were blown away. Painracked and frightened, he had little taste for ordinary hospital recreation. He loved music, though, so the recreation worker brought to his bedside a radio phonograph and then, by mere chance, found she could satisfy a greater longing. The boy revealed that he wanted to write to his young wife those tender, personal things that he hesitated to dictate.

Under federal statute and regulations of the Army, the Navy, and the Air Force, the American Red Cross furnishes volunteer aid to the sick and wounded of the armed forces and acts in matter of voluntary relief and as a medium of communication between the people of the United States and their armed forces.

Red Cross hospital workers assist medical officers with welfare and recreation programs for military patients.

A recording machine was brought to his bedside, and he found the words to tell his longings to his distant wife. It wasn't easy because his injury had damaged his vocal chords and articulation was difficult. But after patient practice with the hospital worker, he finally poured out his heart to the record and sent it off to his wife.

To the arthritic, the tubercular, the rheumatic heart sufferer, doomed to long periods of bed care, the recreational services provided by Red Cross ease their burden of restlessness and discouragement. Nearby chapters in cooperation with other local agencies bring into the hospitals young people from the nearby communities, women who serve as hostesses for parties, young people who dance and play games, all reminding the sick soldier that he is not forgotten by those he served.

That's All

Bill didn't have to study for his mid-term examinations. Heck, he knew all the answers. Why, he probably could take over the professors' places and show them a thing or two. He took his algebra test and somehow they hadn't worded the questions just right. Gee, they certainly thought up ways to make it tough for a fellow. A few days later the results of the algebra examination were given and Bill was mighty discomforted with his mark. He went into the professor's office and said, "Sir, I really don't believe that I rated an absolute zero in that test."

"I'm sorry," said the professor. "but that is the lowest I'm permitted to give."

Poor Listener

The irate wife had just finished giving her husband a sharp lecture. "And don't you argue with me, either!" she snapped at the end of her tirade. "Argue?" replied the poor man. "why, I never said a word!" "No," retorted his wife, "but you were listening in a most unpleasant way."

Ghost Story

It was a peculiar thing, that dream. Every night the owner of a shoe store dreamed that he walked along a street he had never been on before and saw a store located in a perfectly ideal spot. Customers hurried in and out, spending money with free and easy hands. But the dream always ended just before he, himself, could get in to see if he could purchase it. And the devil of it was that the proprietor always looked out of the dream as if he were not only willing but anxious to sell the store to the shoe-shop owner.

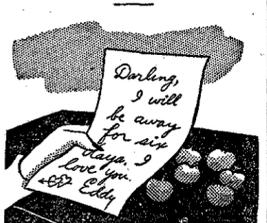

One afternoon, while visiting a strange city on business, the man found himself walking on the street of his dreams. His eyes wide with disbelief, he looked around for the store of his dreams. There it was! Even to the same familiar face of the proprietor. He saw that the proprietor was just closing the doors so he rushed over.

"Quick," he panted, "how much do you want for the store?" The proprietor shook his head sadly. "I wouldn't advise you to buy it," he warned.

"Why not?" the anxious man demanded. "It's haunted," was the reply. "Haunted? By whom?" wheezed the man in desperation.

"You," was the soft reply as the door snapped shut in his face. Rendezvous Judge—"Did you ever see this prisoner before the bar in your life?" Witness—"Sure. That's where we always meet."

Hint To The Wise

To economize, a young doctor and a young dentist who had adjoining offices decided to hire one nurse who would work for both of them. Unfortunately both fell in love with her.

The dentist was called away suddenly and left a note for the nurse. The note explained that he would be gone for six days and with the note were six apples.

JUST TWO WAYS

A much married man was trying, to chisel some free advice from a lawyer friend. "Isn't there some way in which a man can avoid paying alimony?" he inquired. "Yes," replied the lawyer. "Two. He can stay single or stay married."

Went Too Far

It was the purpose of the trial to determine if the man at whom the finger of suspicion pointed really stole the plaintiff's overcoat. At last the judge got down to brass tacks.

"Did you steal this man's overcoat?" he demanded. "No sir," declared the accused with a sickly grin, "I was just playing a joke on him."

"And where did you take this coat to?" demanded the judge. "I took it off the coat rack in the restaurant and carried it home with me."

"Well," snapped the judge, "that's carrying the joke too far."

The want ads are newsy, too.

Greatest Call For New Workers In Accountancy

NEW YORK.—The honeymoon in job placement is over, and the "boys are actually letting the employers interview them," says Robert F. Moore, director of placement, Columbia university. Job placements, Moore reports, are a little better than the last normal year, 1939-40. The greatest demand seems to be in accountancy. Salaries range from $225 to $450 a month, depending upon the profession and the educational qualifications of the student.

Each year Moore conducts a career clinic at Columbia. For eight weeks college students hear leading industrial, management, personnel and professional figures get down to cases in advising which job to seek, what to study to prepare for a career, where to look for a job and how to get a job.

These clinics have proved so successful, says Moore, he has written a book, "How to Blueprint Your Success," which probably will be the basis of a credit course he plans to offer at Columbia. Only one other university in the country—Indiana—offers such a course for credit.

Should Study Aims

Here's what Moore tells the boys in his career clinics: Ask yourself: "What am I? What do I want? Where do I fit?" Most people fail in a job, he says, not for lack of skill, but for failure to possess such personal qualities as the ability to express oneself orally and in writing; ability to get along with people; patience in attaining job goals; perseverance; alert minds, not necessarily Phi Beta Kappa, but more than merely willing to get by; proper attitudes and mobility.

The interview is the first important step in getting a job. It's a 50-50 proposition. The employer finds what you have to sell that he can use. The interviewee discovers whether the company offers opportunities to satisfy his aims, interests and qualifications.

Certain Qualities The employer wants to know about such personal qualities as appearance, manners, grooming, ethical make-up and how well you meet and impress people. You want to know if the job gives you an opportunity to make the best use of your qualifications; whether it is a worthwhile investment in terms of selling your services, loyalty and the best hours of your life. What are the drawbacks and disadvantages of this job?

Moore offers some practical tips on how to get ready for an interview. He tells the boys to learn something about the job and the company. This calls for self-analysis of your objectives, aims and interests.

Dulling Effect As a down payment on his reward for chopping part of a cord of wood, the hobo was given a piece of home-made pie. He took it along with him to the woodshed to ease the pangs of hunger. A few minutes later he was knocking on the door again. "Do you have another axe?" he asked. "Why, what do you want another axe for?" the lady of the house demanded. "Well, I accidentally dropped the other one on the piece of pie and really dilled it," he explained.

Pelican Strategy Pelicans often unite to drive fish into shallow water where they can be caught more easily.

Somewhat Tougher In the heat of an argument with a judge, a young lawyer lost a little of his temper. The judge was not one to brook any insolence from young whippersnappers, so he pounded his gavel and said sternly, "I fine you ten dollars for contempt of court." Hardly were the words out of his mouth when the lawyer piped up, "Yes, Your Honor, I was sort of expecting that. I have the money right here in my vest pocket."

"Well," continued the judge, "look through your other pockets and see if you can dig up the rest of the sentence—thirty days in jail."

GETTING READY A young interne, who walked past the psychiatric ward each morning and watched one of the inmates go through the motions of winding up and pitching an imaginary ball, was asked by one of his friends why he stopped daily and watched the act. "If things keep going the way they are," he answered, "I'll be in there catching for that guy, and I want to get onto his curves."

Luncheon Ideas

DO YOU FEEL that your head is brimming full of question marks instead of good ideas when it comes time to think of something for luncheon?

Then tack the ideas given in today's column somewhere where they'll be sure to remind you of something guaranteed to be successful. Some of these recipes are for simple family fare while others are sheer elegant eating, suitable for guests, for a special Sunday night supper.

With a well rounded luncheon dish, you need only a big vegetable or fruit salad, chilled to icy crispness, to make the main course complete. Your dessert might be pie, cake, ice cream, or simply fruit and cookies.

Keep your pantry shelves well supplied with staples, as well as such items as dried beef, deviled ham, noodles, evaporated milk, rice and condensed soups so that you can whip together these recipes without trips to the store at the last minute. In this way you'll be well prepared to meet family meal problems as well as those which arise when guests drop in.

THIS deviled swiss puff is truly new and different, easy to prepare and fun to eat. When made in the individual casserole skillets as shown in the picture, it will be a real success at a ladies' luncheon. Savory deviled ham is used in the recipe, but you might also try liver sausage or another favorite meat spread.

The cheese mixture may be prepared, except for the baking powder, a day in advance of use, in case you are rushed for time in meal preparation. Remove the mixture from the refrigerator an hour before using so that it will be soft for easy spreading. Add the baking powder just before using.

Deviled Swiss Cheese Puff

- (Serves 4)
- 1/2 cup evaporated milk
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1 tablespoon water
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 1 cup grated Swiss cheese (processed)
- 1/4 teaspoon onion juice
- Dash of tabasco sauce
- 1/4 teaspoon baking powder
- 6 tablespoons deviled ham
- 2 tablespoons evaporated milk
- 4 slices bread
- 4 slices tomato

Heat the 1/2 cup evaporated milk in top part of double boiler. Mix flour with water. Stir into milk and cook until thickened, about five minutes. Add the beaten egg, cheese and seasonings and continue cooking until cheese is melted and the mixture thick and creamy. Set aside to cool. Blend ham with two tablespoons of evaporated milk. Spread the slices of bread with the ham mixture, then top each with a slice of tomato. Blend baking powder into cooled cheese mixture. Spread the cheese mixture thickly on each sandwich. Place sandwiches in individual shallow casseroles or in a shallow baking pan. Place under broiler. Using moderate heat, broil until cheese is puffed and slightly browned on top. Serve at once.

Note: American cheese or pimento cheese are also good to use in the above mixture to replace Swiss cheese, if desired.

A BUDGET MEAL that is a tempting dish can be turned out of dried lima beans, seasoned with onion, mace and powdered sage. The latter to point up the sausage topping. Double - rich evaporated milk poured over the beans for baking adds richness to the dish as well as keeping the beans admirably moist.

Limas Louisiana (Serves 4)

- 1 cup dried lima beans
- 2 cups water
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon mace
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon powdered sage or poultry seasoning
- 1/2 pound small pork sausages
- 1/2 cup evaporated milk
- Shredded green pepper

Wash beans; soak for several hours or overnight in four cups water. Drain; cook beans in the two cups of water until tender. Add onion, sugar and seasonings to the beans. Place the sausages in a skillet and cook until the links are browned. Use the drippings to grease the baking dish. Turn the bean mixture into the dish. Pour milk over the beans. Arrange browned sausages over the top. Shred a bit of green pepper over them and bake in a moderate (350°) oven for 20 minutes.

FRAGRANT and steaming chicken baked with rice boasts a sophisticated flavor combination spiced with green pepper, onions and slivered almonds.

*Chicken Baked with Rice

- (Serves 6)
- 1/2 cup uncooked rice
- 1/2 cup green pepper, chopped
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 1/4 cup slivered almonds, if desired
- 1 1/2 cups diced chicken
- 1 10 1/2-ounce can condensed mushroom sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Few grains black pepper
- 1 cup evaporated milk

Cook rice according to favorite recipe or directions on package.

Mix with green pepper, onion and almonds. Arrange layers of rice, chicken and soup in a 1 1/2 quart casserole. Season with salt and pepper. Add milk and bake in a moderate (350°) oven until bubbling and browned, about 30 minutes.

When you purchase ice cream which has been frozen too hard to serve, place the container under hot water for just a few seconds, and it will slice readily enough for serving.

Poached eggs will not spread if you stir the water vigorously in one direction, to create a whirlpool, before you drop in the eggs.

Before scalding milk for a recipe, butter the bottom of the pan you use, before pouring in the milk. It will not scorch or brown so easily.

One on The Judge

A cook was accused of breaking into a house and stealing a valuable vase. His lawyer, in presenting his side of the case to the judge, contended that the cook didn't break into the house.

"He didn't enter the house at all, Your Honor," he explained. "He stood on the doorstep, put his foot through the open door, hooked it around the vase and pulled it out through the door. Because only his leg actually entered the house I believe that his leg alone should be punished for the crime."

"Since you figure that way," smiled the judge, "I will sentence the leg to one year in prison. It is up to the man to follow along if he chooses."

"But he doesn't," said the lawyer, as he hastened to help the cook remove his wooden leg.

Puzzling

Old Lady—"Mrs. Mowrer says she has never been sick a day in her life."

Another one—"What in the world does she talk about, then?"

Outnumbered

Plaintiff—"I have four men here who are prepared to testify that they saw the defendant steal two overcoats from in front of my shop."

Defendant—"And I, Your Honor, have twelve men who are ready to swear that they never saw me take them."

Judge—"Case dismissed. I am forced to take the testimony of twelve men against that of only four."

Had Some Value

Grandpa—"My! This certainly is terrible weather."

Grandma—"Yes, all it's fit for is conversation."

Indubitably

"What do you think mother would like best?" asked the young man, thinking of a birthday present.

"To be weighed and found wanting," replied his father.

TAKING A CHANCE

Boy: "Grandmother, can you help me with this problem?"
Grandmother: "I could, dear, but I don't think it would be right."

Boy: "Maybe it wouldn't, but take a crack at it, anyway."

Michigan Mirror

Governor Williams recently sent a letter to the state treasurer, auditor general and controller. He asked for advice: What are you going to do in 1950 "when" the deficit develops?

The controller replied that he would certify whether disbursements were proper in the light of legislative appropriations. The auditor general said he would issue warrants only if cash was on hand. The state treasurer's reply was along these lines: "If" a deficit develops, the treasurer was willing to delay payment of some bills, to utilize certain funds other than trust funds, and to use even earmarked funds temporarily. He said it might be possible to reduce liquor inventory of the state liquor control commission—a step taken by Governor Frank Murphy in 1938 when a similar deficit existed.

Brake suggested that the governor try "economy," rather than more state spending, and thus help reduce any treasury deficit.

It is the contention of Controller Steadman that the treasury deficit will rapidly develop in March, 1950. During February and March the state must divert substantial sums of sales tax revenue to schools, cities and townships. These payments are expected to drain the general fund of its remaining cash.

Thus, history will repeat itself. Eleven years ago the late Frank Murphy was governor. The 1937 session of the legislature had left the state budget $18 millions in the red. By the end of the first fiscal year (June 30, 1937-38) the actual deficit was $9,000,000—about half of what had been anticipated.

The state had met all payrolls on time. The treasurer had merely borrowed from other funds. Unemployment was high in 1938, due to a recession. Governor Murphy called the legislature into special session to appropriate more money for welfare aid. A sum of $10,000,000 was authorized—in the face of an existing deficit. No new taxes were levied.

Frank Fitzgerald campaigned for economy in state government. He assailed a $9,420,000 increase in the state payroll during the Murphy administration. The CIO sit-down strike had evoked strong public resentment. Fitzgerald capitalized on this, too. Murphy lost the election and later was sent by President Roosevelt to the Philippines and then to the United States Supreme Court.

If state government could meet payrolls in 1938 with red ink on its books, it seems logical to us that it can do so in 1950.

Why then all this letter writing in September 1949?

President Truman said he opened the 1950 political campaign with his Labor Day speeches at Pittsburgh and Des Moines. The same might be said about Governor Williams' letters.

The Michigan gubernatorial campaign is already under way.

Who is to blame for the big, bad deficit at Lansing?

Not the voters who want 78 per cent of state sales tax revenue for schools, cities and townships. No, No! The "villain" will be—take your choice (1) a Republican legislature which declines to tax corporation profits; (2) a Democratic governor who insists on more state aid for everyone, especially for members of the CIO.

Not Too Much

The new dam had diverted much of the water that a community of truck farmers previously had used to keep their crops healthy. They complained to all officialdom about it. Getting no satisfaction from the state officials they brought suit.

Arguing the case before the court one hot, lazy day the farmers through their attorney contended that the water had been vital to their business.

"But we must have water, Your Honor," thundered the defending lawyer in a roaring basso-profundo.

"All right," he muttered hastily, "but only a very little in mine."

A Bit of Methodist History.

The followers of John Wesley were the first to introduce a minister to Elkland Township's early settlers. He was the Rev. Mr. Baker, a clergyman of the Methodist Church, who preached his first sermon at the house of Andrew Walmsley about 1860.

The Cass City circuit, however, did not exist until 1869. It was, to use the language of Rev. J. E. Withey, the minister here at that time, "born at the 14th session of the Detroit conference held at Detroit Sept. 1 to 8, 1869." There were two societies on the charge, Cass City with seven members and Ellington with 24.

The first trustees at Cass City were Andrew Walmsley, Hugh Seed, Jacob Schenck, L. A. DeWitt and John C. Laing.

A parsonage was built in 1869 on lots donated by Hugh Seed and under the leadership of Rev. Horace Palmer the church building was completed in 1880. Andrew Walmsley, Jacob Schenck and L. A. DeWitt were members of the building committee.

Succeeding Rev. J. E. Withey, who left the charge in 1871, the following ministers have served as Methodist pastors here: Edwin Foster, Ira H. Samburn, Joseph Ashford, Jas. A. Dunlap, J. S. Sparling, Horace Palmer, Benjamin Reeve, Nathaniel Dickie, J. H. McCune, Samuel Gilchrist, J. E. Williamson, James W. Fern, Charles Morgan, M. W. Gifford, R. N. Mulholland, W. B. Weaver, George A. Fee, W. A. Gregory, J. D. Young, O. R. Grattan, William Richards, Ira Cargo, George Hill, Thomas Bottrell, Charles Bayless, Henry G. Bushong, Dudley Masure, Kenneth Bisbee and John Sfran.

Under the leadership of the present pastor, Rev. Howard C. Watkins, during the past year, the sanctuary of the church has been remodeled and new chancel furniture, a Hammond organ and carillons installed.

ANGEL FISH

Helen Lures New Yorkers

NEW YORK — "Where's your baggage?" asked the clerk behind the ticket counter at LaGuardia Field's overseas terminal recently. He was speaking to four New York businessmen checking in for Pan American airway's morning flight to Bermuda.

"Here it is," they chorused, each waving a pair of bathing trunks in the chap's face. "We're just going down to see Helen. We'll be back on tonight's Clipper."

"Helen must be an extraordinary woman," thought the clerk. But he was wrong. Helen is a fish, not an ordinary fish but a lovely angel fish of iridescent blue with extended fins that trail behind her like gay yellow streamers. Her outstanding attribute is her liking for people. With her friend, Ruth, and a host of yellow grunts, brems and gray snappers, she receives callers nearly every day at her home on a coral reef 15 feet below the ocean level.

Fascinating Diversion
Visiting these residents of the 'briny deep in their submarine homes is Bermuda's newest and most fascinating diversion. A young American, Bronson Hartley, introduced the fascinating sport of deep sea diving to the tourists a year ago after doing it himself for the past 18 years. Now the vacationist who is bored with the ordinary pleasures of swimming and bicycling can make like a fish at the bottom of the ocean for a mere $5 and the trouble of donning a diving helmet and sneakers—furnished by Hartley—and a bathing suit.

In the past 12 months, more than 1,000 persons—including a five-year-old boy and an 85-year-old lady—have taken Hartley's underwater sight-seeing tour. It's the rage with college students, honeymooners and jokers who like to write post cards underwater with ball point pens. More than one party of high living New Yorkers have Clipped the 773 miles down to the Coral Islands for the sole purpose of viewing them 15 feet underwater and last Christmas, 24 persons begged Hartley in vain to take them down.

So popular has this unique sport become that tourists have taken to phoning Hartley at 6:00 a. m. in the morning to make reservations for the day's trips. With good humor, he added the longest extension cord he could find to his telephone and carries it with him from bedroom to bath to breakfast making appointments all the way.

Two Trips Daily
Twice a day—morning and afternoon—he sets out in his small cabin cruiser with his faithful assistant, Roy Darrell, and no more than eight guests. While the boat moves out through the brilliant green water of Flatts, Hartley briefs his passengers on what to do and look for while strolling around the ocean floor and how to walk ski-crouch fashion, knees bent and body erect. One must tread lightly, too, to keep from plowing up the sand and clouding the water.

In calm weather, Hartley steers out to the ocean where the passengers descend to one of the coral reefs that surround Bermuda. But in rough weather—when the churning waves of the ocean might make his passengers seasick—he heads for a quiet bay in Harrington Sound. High bluffs fringed with hibiscus and oleander bushes edge this cove and so protect it from the wind that Hartley was able to take a party down there during the last hurricane.

Robin Hood Statue Planned in England

NOTTINGHAM, ENGLAND. — Robin Hood may return to Sherwood forest if a Nottingham industrialist, Philip E. F. Clay, has his way.

In Robin Hood's own town, where the outlaw and his merry men in Lincoln green once shattered the nerves of the high sheriff, Clay has offered the city council 5,000 pounds (about $20,000), and more, if necessary, to erect a statue of the man who "stole from the rich and gave to the poor." City council has accepted the gift, and now the town is split over the location of the statue. The raging question is: should Robin stand in Nottingham itself or out in one of the few remaining glades of Sherwood forest? A solution is expected soon.

Clay's gesture was timed to coincide with Nottingham's quincen-tenary week.

Watchdog Takes It Easy As Burglar Loots Room

HOLLYWOOD.—A burglar who took her watchdog into the apartment with him, stole more than $30,000 in jewels from actress Lois Andrews, she told police.

Miss Andrews told investigators 230 dresses, 193 pairs of shoes, $20,000 worth of fur coats, and $10,000 worth of rare perfumes were not disturbed.

The ex-wife of George Jessel said she discovered the loss when she returned home from the theater early today. Curled up comfortably in a chair was her pet boxer, Pub. She had left him tethered in his doghouse in the backyard.

SHORT STORY

Mister Gill

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

AT FIRST Mr. Otis Gill had seemed to take a liking to young Arthur Forbes. But he changed his opinion when the Champion began to buck the choppy seas of the open Atlantic. She was not a larger liner, and the waves were running high. Arthur Forbes turned away suddenly and, clutching the deck rail for support shap an unsteady course for the companionway.

Mr. Gill burst into guffaws of laughter. "Seasick!" he said, addressing a young couple nearby and nodding toward the companionway. "Should have stayed home and tended to his knitting."

The young couple smiled politely but with a lack of enthusiasm. Neither of them felt equal to the task of getting up and following on young Arthur Forbes' heels.

The dining salon was located beneath the forward deck; Mr. Gill's table was at the extreme end, near that section where the vessel's bow began to narrow. He had hardly seated himself when he saw that young Arthur Forbes was placed two tables away and slightly behind. There was a plate of food on the table before the youth, but it was untouched. Like one in a trance Mr. Forbes was sitting with eyes widened greatly beyond their normal size, cheeks as pale as death.

After a time Mr. Gill saw that the youth at the other table was staring toward a porthole, and his grin broadened. The porthole was located far forward, and with each dip of the vessel one could see the entire slope of a wave, from trough to crest. Then for a space there would be nothing but open sky. It provided a sensation similar to riding on a roller coaster.

Mr. Gill knew that as long as young Forbes continued to stare through the porthole his seasickness would steadily grow worse. And he chuckled at the thought.

After a while Mr. Gill found it was easier to stare straight ahead than to sit half-turned in his chair in order to watch young Forbes, who, after all, wasn't the most pleasing sight in the world. And in staring straight ahead Mr. Gill found that he was looking directly through the porthole at the swishing seas.

Mr. Gill was sober now; his face pale, his eyes glassy.

HE WATCHED idly for a few moments and then looked away, conscious of a feeling in his stomach not wholly normal. The sensation passed and he looked again at the porthole, feeling more comfortable in this position. Instantly the same strange sensation attacked him again.

Mr. Gill was sober now; his face pale; his eyes glassy. Realization of what was happening to him came like a shock. He was seasick! Helplessly, miserably ill. Never in his life could Mr. Gill remember feeling so utterly at the mercy of anything.

Miraculously Mr. Gill reached the doorway and disappeared up the stairs. Instantly the dining salon was a bedlam of laughter. Up toward the bow young Arthur Forbes was wiping some white substance from his cheeks and grinning broadly. Several men came over and spoke.

"I'll change your order, sir. Bring you some hot food."

Mr. Forbes smiled. "Thanks. And say, steward, that was a smart idea of yours—asking me to play the role of the helplessly seasick passenger and placing Gill at that table directly opposite the porthole."

The steward nodded, eyes a-twinkle. "We have a man like Mr. Gill on board every voyage, sir. And we have that table placed there for just his type. No one else is asked to sit so far forward."

Mr. Forbes chuckled. "Think of everything for the comfort of your passengers, eh? Well, if you didn't I'm afraid this voyage would have proved almost intolerable—with Gill talking the way he was."

The total distributed as itemized above amounts to $4,519.14, or 88.5 per cent of the funds collected. The expenses or organizing the chest as a corporation, supplies and other expenditures were $78.61, or 1.5 per cent of the funds collected, making total disbursements of $4,597.75. Ten per cent of the funds, or $506.95 are being carried as a balance on hand at the present time.

Several organizations whom the directors had hoped would accept funds from the chest rather than conduct separate fund campaigns of their own, have declined any participation with the chest.

The board of directors of the chest kept funds on hand during the year to meet possible appropriations to these organizations should they decide to accept same, but during the last month of its year, decision was made to turn over to the Cass City Community Hospital $1,000.00 of these remaining funds, rather than to carry an excessive balance into another year's operation.

One of the organizations that declined any participation with the chest was the American Red Cross. Lewis Garner of Vassar, chairman of the Tuscola Chapter, and Mrs. Lilia DeBor of Caro, executive secretary of the chapter, were present at Tuesday evening's meeting and explained that regulations of the National society forbid the participation of county chapters in community chest campaigns and insist that drives for Red Cross memberships must be independent from all other fund raising efforts.
