

Spring Events to Bring Out Exhibits Of Club Efforts

Four District Events to Be Followed by County Final April 14 and 15

Tuscola County's district 4-H spring achievements began this week with events being held at Vassar High School Monday, April 3, and Kingston High School Wednesday, April 5. Similar programs will be staged next week at Akron Community Hall Monday, April 10, and at Cass City High School, Wednesday, April 12. The final county spring achievement, at which the exhibits rating "A" at the district level will again be displayed, will take place at Caro High School Friday and Saturday, April 14 and 15.

Committees of local leaders met with county extension agents Jean E. Gillies and Byron E. Carpenter some time ago to plan the achievement arrangements in each of the districts. The schedule followed during the day and evening, however, is similar at each location. Each club enrolled in winter projects throughout the county was notified through its leader which district achievement to attend. Club members and leaders begin setting up exhibits at district achievements at 8 a. m. and judging is scheduled to begin at 10 a. m. All leaders are asked to be present at 4 p. m. for a leaders' meeting in their respective achievement districts. An evening program is scheduled for each district beginning at 8 p. m. and featuring a dress revue presented by 4-H club girls finishing clothing projects.

The county achievement program will be a two-day event, April 14 and 15. Exhibits are to be in place in the Caro High School auditorium by 12 noon on Friday, and judging will be done that afternoon. Concluded on page 12.

Watkins, was invited to return for his third year as pastor of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Doerr to Celebrate 64th Wedding Anniversary Next Sunday

Open house will be held Sunday afternoon from two until five o'clock in the Anthony Doerr home on West Main Street, to celebrate the 64th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Doerr. It was on Easter Sunday, April 25, 1886, at Sebawing that Anthony Doerr and Miss Mary Ellen Breckenridge exchanged their marriage vows. At the time of their marriage, they purchased a farm six and a half miles north of Cass City where they resided for many years. Later they bought and operated hotels at Kilmanagh and Dryden and in 1900 they returned to Cass City and shortly after that bought the Gordon Hotel here which they conducted for a number of years. After selling the hotel, Mr. Doerr continued a restaurant business here which he had started. The restaurant was later conducted by his son, Herman, for a number of years.

For more than 20 years until two years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Doerr spent the winter months in the South. Now because of advancing age, the Doerrs remain in their Cass City home.

Mr. Doerr, who is 86, was born in Teeswater, Ont., and at the age

Boy from Big City Proved to Be a Winner on Farm

Gene Taggett, 13, Has Best Record with Grade Holstein Dairy Cattle

Gene Taggett, 13-year-old Tuscola County 4-H Club boy, has proved that a "big city boy" can adjust himself to farm life and "be a winner" at the job. Today, before Michigan's best Holstein dairy breeders at the association's annual sale at Michigan State College, Gene accepted a registered Holstein heifer calf. He won it for having the best record for any of Michigan's 60,000 4-H Club boys and girls with grade Holstein dairy cattle.

Four years ago all the lad knew about milk was that it came from "a corner grocery store in Chicago." But when his family moved from Chicago to a farm near Caro, Gene learned more about milk—and the hard way, too. He helped care for, and milk, the newly acquired dairy herd.

But today Gene realized a dream—a purebred heifer with which he can start the foundation of a purebred Holstein dairy herd. He came into possession of the animal through Harry Pickett, owner of Pickett Acres Holstein Farm of Allegan. Mr. Pickett of Caro. Concluded on page 12.

Retail Round Table Pronounced Success

Twenty-three attended the first session of the Retail Round Table, a new plan for retailers, at Cass City Tuesday and the meeting was pronounced a successful one.

Round table meetings are open to any merchant or salesperson. Each series consists of six meetings, one evening a week for six weeks. The program is partially financed with funds provided through the Office of Vocational Education of the State Department of Public Instruction. The balance of the cost is paid by the local groups. In this community, the plan is sponsored by the board of education and the Chamber of Commerce.

Howard R. Sommers of the Division of Field Services, Central Michigan College, Mt. Pleasant, is the leader for the round table. He believes that there is unlimited opportunity in the field of retailing and that every kind of retail establishment, large or small, whether it be in the merchandise field or service organization, should look to a program of planned training.

Cass City Students Placed High in Speech Contest

Cass City students won first and second places in the dramatic and oratorical declamations and first in extempore speaking at the recent speech contest at Sandusky. Caro and Sandusky high schools also participated.

In dramatic declamations, Rene Ludlow was first and Jessie Fry, second and in oratorical declamations Richard Wallace and Bonnie Benkelman placed first and second. Melva McConnell was first in extempore speaking.

Jack Vickers of Sandusky won the orations. First place winners will participate in a regional contest, the date of which has not been announced.

A very important election will be held in School District No. 5, Elkland, tomorrow afternoon (Saturday, April 8) when voters will have the opportunity to express their wishes on issuing bonds to the amount of $125,000.00 for the purpose of erecting a new elementary school building to house the kindergarten, two first, two second and two third grade groups.

In a circular prepared for the board of education, the question "Why a new addition at this time?" is answered as follows:

"At the present time, we are housing 865 students in our building. These students come from our own district and nine closed rural districts. Grades, 490; Junior High, 95; Senior High, 340. Next year we will have an increase in high school of some fifty students making a total enrollment in our high school of over 400 students. The previous high was 376 students. In addition to this increase, we are experiencing a gradual increase in grade students both from Cass City and the surrounding areas. We expect to add one new grade teacher next year. This will give us two rooms for each grade from one to six inclusive, and reduce the number of students per room. We will be the third largest high school in the Thumb area next year."

The last payment on the bonds on the present school building will be made in March, 1951, and the total tax at the present time is 12 mills, seven mills of which is assessed for operating and five mills for debt service. The tax levy for next year will be five plus mills for operating and six mills for debt service. This was estimated as the maximum tax for 1950. The present assessed valuation of the school district is $2,420,410.00.

Bonds can be retired sooner than the 15-year period by using tuition funds. The state allows the district to use 17% of its State Aid for building purposes. At the present time this amount is equivalent to more than the annual bond payments.

Present plans call for a one Concluded on page 6.

Caro Couple to Celebrate Sixtieth Anniversary Sunday

Next Sunday, April 9, Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Kingsley Janes, former residents of Cass City and now living in Caro, will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary. They were married in a double ceremony in the Cass City Presbyterian Church by Rev. Mr. Baker. The other couple was Dr. John McLean and Miss Elizabeth Ale, both of Cass City. The two couples took an extensive trip through the East, visiting Washington, D. C., New York City and other points of interest.

Mrs. Janes was the former Minnie Ann Laing, daughter of Judge John C. Laing and Sarah Elizabeth Laing, and was born June 6, 1887, in Cass City. She remembers well the fire of 1881. She and her mother spent days and nights in a plowed field on the Hugh Seed farm, just north of the site of the present school building, where the women and children of Cass City were taken to get away from the fire which raged around the town during that big conflagration. She has two clocks given by Clara Barton to burned out friends. This was the first record of the relief work done by the American Red Cross. Concluded on page 6.

REV. ROBERT S. HARPER

The Power of the Resurrection (Easter).
Lesson for April 9: 1 Corinthians 15: 1-8, 20-21, 57-58.

Memory Selections 1 Corinthians 15: 57.

IT IS BELIEVED that Paul's account of the resurrection antedated the Gospel accounts. His record was current, perhaps, not later than 25 years after Christ arose. After the resurrection Christ was seen by more than 500 brethren at once, by Peter, James, the disciples, and Paul himself. It is significant that none of those still living, of those named, ever disputed Paul.

Life comes to men through the resurrection of the Lord. It is in this life only we have hope in Christ. Paul reasons, we are of all men most miserable. But, assured that Christ has risen, we know that we shall rise and live with him the perfect life.

Christ is like the first-fruits of the field that give promise of an abundant harvest. "For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead." The resurrection also insures the triumph of the gospel, and men are exhorted to give thanks unto God for eternal life, to stand firm and be assured that what they do will not be in vain in the Lord.

They have sure promise of living the perfect life in the endless day. For in heaven, where the redeemed shall dwell for aye with God, naught will enter in to defile and to destroy.

May the grand truth of the resurrection—the promise of resurrection from the death of sin and new life in Christ—lead you.

Easter Service To Feature Music

The service of worship at the Presbyterian Church at 10:30 a. m. will begin with a processional by the senior and junior choirs. There will be an anthem by the junior choir of which Mrs. Frederick Auten and Mrs. Charles Auten are in charge. The senior choir will sing, "God So Loved the World" by Stainer, with Mrs. Brewster Shaw as soloist of the day, and Mrs. Ethel McCoy, organist, as announced by Matt Lappinen, choir director. Rev. Melvin R. Vender will administer the Sacrament of Baptism for infants and children. The sermon will be, "Following in the Wake of Easter."

Fourteen persons were received into communicant membership last Sunday. In the Palm Sunday sermon, "Essentials for Christ's Triumphant Entry Today" the pastor stated several principals which are to be noted in the Triumphant Entry narrative.

The text was based upon Mark 11:3a, "The Lord hath need of..." (1) Loyal disciples, response to Christ; (2) Then there are, also, needed the material instrumentalities of possessions that are consecrated for utilization; (3) Also, organization is needed, hence the instrumentality of the Church (Universal) which is "not a man-made institution, the product of the club-institution applied to religion," as Dr. James Reid puts it, "but the product, or logical outgrowth of God's seeking, finding and fashioning a society of men and women in whom" (and through whom) "His redeeming love can be more perfectly expressed for the saving of the world and the building of His Kingdom." In other words an institution Divinely ordained, but humbly administered; (4) A program, inherent in the Gospel and Christ's commission "Go ye into all the world, and make disciples of all nations..." Here we see the implications of the missionary enterprise; and (5) Freedom of worship implied in the fact that Jesus could not have entered Jerusalem and the Temple in safety, had it not been for the acclaim of the populous which the entrenched powers feared.

"In the final analysis," said Rev. Vender, "the speed of Christ's triumphal entry into the life, or culture, and institutions, including the church, of our time will depend in large measure upon how triumphantly He has entered, or been allowed to enter, the lives of His professed followers."

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

Twenty-five Years Ago.

April 16, 1925.

The valedictorian and salutatorian for the Class of 1925 have been determined. Robert Dillman carries off the honors of valedictorian with an average of 95.4 per cent, while Florabelle Urquhart has the latter place with 90.7 per cent.

S. L. Brokenshire of Chicago has taken up his work as manager of the lumber department of The Farm Produce Co.

The Chas. Tallmadge farm of 40 acres in Section 35, Novesta, was sold to Sherman Stone on Friday for $3,500.

At the annual meeting of the Presbyterian Church Tuesday evening A. E. Goodall, Christopher McKee and F. E. Kelsey were chosen elders and Roy Bricker, A. J. Knapp, P. A. Schenck, C. L. Robinson and G. H. Burke were elected trustees.

Friday, April 24, is the date of the spelling match which will be held at the Cass City High School. Already 25 schools have been entered. A year ago, 27 schools participated in the contest here when the match was won by Doris Livingston who proved to be the best individual speller, while the Bingham School was the high point winner as a school.

William R. Bennett closed the local lyceum course with a splendid lecture Monday evening. The Woman's Study Club who sponsored the course gave patrons an excellent program of talent this season at a cost slightly greater than the proceeds.

Thirty-five Years Ago.

April 9, 1915.

With but one ticket in the field, Elkland Township still polled a large vote Monday, the local option vote bringing out 491 votes. On this question 308 voted "yes" and 172 "no," the dries having a majority of 136, while in the campaign of 1913 their majority was only 13. The dries of Tuscola County won the election by a majority of 1,394 on Monday last.

A number of Grant and Elkland Township farmers have organized a threshing company which was incorporated Friday under the name of the Grant and Elkland Threshing Co., Limited. Geo. Charter is president; Herbert J. Maharg, secretary; John Profit, treasurer.

Thos. Stitt, a farmer on Section 21, Evergreen Township, says he has a prize calf which weighed 105 pounds when it was less than a day old.

James Leonard, who has been in business in Gagetown for the past five years, traded his general stock of merchandise and building as part payment for a fine farm of 120 acres near Milford.

Supt. H. G. Leavens received a telegram late last week which carried the resignation of Miss Florence Field as mathematics teacher. She has been at her home at Albion for several days on account of illness.

Silage Feeding Time Can Be Cut

Feeding silage to dairy cows by the fork or basket method is one of the best examples of wasted time and work on many farms, says B. R. Bookhout, farm management research specialist at Michigan State College.

Use of a silage cart, he says, saves three-fourths of the walking nearly all of the heavy lifting.

Bookhout published results of a study made at the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station in the current issue of Michigan Farm Economics, agricultural economics done with the fork method, and department monthly publication.

The study revealed that in feeding a 15-cow herd with the fork carrying method, a farmer walks more than a quarter of a mile a day. This chore takes him 20 minutes. By using a basket he walks 825 feet, and takes 15 minutes to do the job. With a silage cart the feeding takes 13 minutes and he walks only 375 feet.

Silage carts cannot be used on all farms due to barn arrangement. But in many cases, minor changes such as widening a door or replacing a step with an incline would permit the use of a cart, Bookhout says.

The full advantage of the cart is obtained when it is run under the silo chute and filled as the silage is thrown down.

A. Blake Gillies Writes of Skid Row in De-Ho-Co News

"Lately there has been a great deal of publicity about Mayor Cobo's plan to clean up Detroit's eye sore—Michigan Avenue's skid row," writes A. Blake Gillies, former Cass City and now superintendent of the Detroit House of Correction, in De-Ho-Co News, a publication printed for inmates of that institution. In the article Mr. Gillies goes on to say:

"This problem directly affects a great many of you men, as a result I think it is a worthy topic to discuss with you in this issue of The De-Ho-Co News.

"First of all, I want all of you to know that this is not just a wishful or timorous desire; but, it is something that the mayor and the citizens of Detroit have wanted to do for quite some time.

"Mayor Cobo has appointed a committee of church and civic leaders to investigate conditions and the problems that you men face. Upon completion of this investigation the committee will submit a report to the mayor with their recommendations to improve the standards of living in the skid row area.

"In this regard, about a hundred and fifty of you were asked questions, and filled out questionnaires. These questionnaires, along with your recommendations to improve conditions on skid row, were submitted to the committee for further study.

"In other words, fellows, you are to have a direct part in this endeavor. This is the big reason why I think this effort will be successful. I don't think any right-thinking person desires to return to the conditions of filth, and moral degradation that is, and has been so predominant in this area for years.

"I ask that each of you, upon your release, assist the mayor and his committee in their efforts to help you.

"With cooperation and team work, I am positive that this worthy cause will be a success, and the fact that each of you has an individual interest in this project will eventually erase a few of the difficulties that have been stumbling blocks for you in the past."

Michigan Bean Growers Plan Cut in the 1950 Crop

Michigan bean farmers are wrestling with acreage figures preparatory to taking a total cut of about 21 percent in area planted this year to comply with recent federal allotments.

Clarence Prentice, Michigan State College marketing specialist, says acreage allotted Michigan is 29 percent of the U. S. total. While the reduction for this state is in line with the national average, the specialist says Michigan growers have not increased acreage in recent years as much as western growers.

Michigan's acreage has increased about 25 percent in the last quarter of a century, but during that period Prentice reports Idaho production up about 300 percent, Colorado 200 percent and California about 50 percent. Bean consumption has increased enough to make up for acreage increases like that in Michigan, but not for big increases in other states.

Prentice points out that planting within the acreage allotment is not mandatory, but it is required for government price supports. The 1950 crop will be supported at an average of $6.80 a hundred, which is about 25 cents lower than current supports.

The government now owns or is expected to take over in the near future a total of nearly 8 million one-hundred pound bags of beans. This, according to Prentice, amounts to almost the bean requirements for food for the next year.

Individual farm allotments are being based on bean acreage history for those farms for the years of 1947, 1948 and 1949.

Troubles with Puckered Seams

Troubles with puckered seams, raveling and other problems of sewing on the new nylon fabrics can be expected but may be avoided, advises Hazel Strahan, head of the textiles, clothing and related arts department at Michigan State College.

Several practices with the tension, thread and cutting out of the garment are recommended to prevent puckered seams. When the design of the garment and drape of the fabric permit, place the pattern on the crosswise rather than the lengthwise grain of the fabric.

Low thread tension is a necessity when sewing on nylon. High tension while sewing will stretch the thread and when it later recovers its original length it will make a wrinkled seam. This is especially true of nylon thread which should be used to sew nylon fabric. It provides added seam strength and fast drying seams which are not likely to shrink when laundered.

To adjust your sewing machine for low tension, Miss Strahan suggests you loosen the bobbin tension until the thread unwinds easily and slack the needle tension all the way off. Gradually increase the needle tension until a well-formed but not tight stitch is made with no loop on either side of the fabric. Sew a few seams to be certain there are no skip stitches or thread breaks. Keep a constant check on tension adjustments while sewing.

Use the smallest needle and thread size you can for proper seam strength. Use scissors to cut threads to prevent distorting seams and to make threading the needle easier. The scissors should be very sharp when you cut out the garment to prevent fabric fusion. Pinking seams is not enough to prevent raveling during washing the garment. Sew with some type of folded, bound or overedge seam.

Make sure you have plenty of summer pasture. Good summer pasture not only makes for high production during the grazing months but also puts the cow in shape to do a better year around job.

Always watch calves carefully to detect any signs that a calf may be ailing. Don't give an ailment a chance to progress even to the next feeding. A delay of too many hours may be dangerous.

Offer Walnut Seeds For Timber Planting

Black walnuts to plant for game food and timber production can still be obtained from the forestry department of Michigan State College, reports W. Ira Bull, who supervises the college tree nursery. The forester advises early orders so the nuts can be planted before the end of April. The nuts have been stratified over winter in moist sand to keep them in good growing condition until spring. They are sold in peck or bushel lots. A peck holds about 225 nuts.

Walnuts should be planted in fairly fertile farm soil in order to get best results. Odd corners not large enough to farm or openings in the farm woodlots are excellent places to plant these nuts. They grow better mixed with other hardwoods than in a pine plantation.

Orders for walnuts should be placed on the regular forest tree seedling order blank that can be obtained from county agricultural agents' offices or by writing to the Forestry Department, Michigan State College, East Lansing, Michigan. A nominal sum is charged for the walnuts to pay for the cost of handling and stratifying.

Walnuts are furnished by the walnut veneer industry in cooperation with the American Walnut Manufacturer's association.

Conservation Field Day Is Planned

To encourage forestry, game recreation and related uses on land not suitable for general farming, a Conservation Field Day is planned for April 19 in Grand Traverse County. The statewide event will be sponsored jointly by the Michigan State College Extension Service, Michigan Department of Conservation, U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the Grand Traverse Soil Conservation district.

Arthur W. Glidden, county agricultural agent in Grand Traverse County, says many demonstrations will be held at the Kingsley school forest. This is one of the oldest school forests in the state and continued plantings and selected cuttings during the past 18 years have established an ideal set-up for the meeting. An adjacent sugar bush owned by Howard Dunn of Kingsley will provide a site for a farm woodlot management demonstration and maple syrup production methods.

Attention will also be given to planting of pines for reforestation, pulp, lumber products, game cover and Christmas trees. Forest fire control systems and other demonstrations will be shown.

The forest is located a mile and a half north of Kingsley and Glidden hopes from 2,000 to 5,000 people will attend. It will be the only such program held in Michigan this year and with many Michigan farms having woodlots and reforestation, the interest is running high.

Machinery manufacturers and distributors will show the use of equipment needed in forestry and sugar bush management.

The entrance to the Amazon River is about 200 miles wide.

Showers in April bring flowers in May. The Flower Garden School to be held April 19 will help bring flowers in May and after. H. L. R. Chapman, extension specialist in horticulture at Michigan State College, will be in Tuscola County Wednesday, April 19, to conduct this school. An afternoon meeting will be held at Fairgrove and an evening meeting will be held at Caro. The time and place will be announced later and the public is cordially invited to attend.

The county agricultural council will meet in the courthouse on Monday evening, April 10. Dean Gordon, soil conservationist, will have charge of the educational program. Gordon will present the highlights of the aims, purposes and accomplishments of the soil conservation district.

Farmers are now thinking of going on the land to prepare for spring seedings. Caution should be taken that the soil is not worked when too wet. It may not seem detrimental when working wet soil, but later the soil loses its friability and becomes puddled, which slows up plant growth during the year.

Fifteen dairymen from Tuscola County attended the Michigan Artificial Breeders Cooperative annual meeting at Michigan State College last week. Tuscola County with its five associations had a total of 10 voting delegates who took part in the actual business meeting. At the present time over 22,000 herds are signed up with a total of 140,000 cows.

GAGETOWN

The district meeting of the Michigan High School Forensic Association was held at Gagetown High School auditorium Friday, March 31. Schools participating in the contest were Harbor Beach, Fairgrove, Bad Axe, Unionville and Gagetown. First place in declamation and oratory were won by the Bad Axe High School. Unionville rated first in dramatic reading and the first place in extemporaneous went to Harbor Beach.

Questions and Answers Regarding the Elementary School Building

Q. Why a new addition at this time?

A. At the present time, we are housing 865 students in our building. These students come from our own district and 9 closed rural districts. Grades, 430; Junior High, 95; Senior High, 340. Next year we will have an increase in high school of some fifty students making a total enrollment in our high school of over 400 students. The previous high was 376 students. In addition to this increase, we are experiencing a gradual increase in grade students both from Cass City and the surrounding areas. We expect to add 1 new grade teacher next year. This will give us 2 rooms for each grade from 1 to 6 inclusive, and reduce the number of students per room. We will be the third largest high school in the 'thumb area' next year.

Q. When do the citizens of Elkland No. 5 (Cass City School District) have a chance to vote on the new school proposition?

SCHOOLHOUSE EASTERN STANDARD TIME

Q. How much is the district bonding for?

A. $125,000.00.

Q. How long will the bond run?

A. 15 years.

Q. Why vote to increase taxes for 20 years when we can retire the entire issue of bonds sooner?

Q. How long has the bond issue on our present building to run?

A. It will be all paid in March, 1951.

Q. How much is the total tax at present?

A. Operating 7 mills
Debt Service 5 mills

12 mills total (1949 rate)

Q. How much will the total tax levy be next year?

A. Operating 5+ mills
Debt Service 6 mills

11+ mills total

(This was estimated as the maximum tax for 1950)

Q. What is the present assessed valuation of the school district?

A. $2,420,410.00.

Q. Can the tax be continued after the bonds are paid off?

A. No. This is provided for in the bond issue to be voted.

Q. Can the bonds be retired sooner by using tuition funds?

A. Yes.

Q. Can we use State Aid money for building purposes?

A. The State allows us to use 17% of our State Aid for building purposes. At the present time this amount is equivalent to more than the annual bond payments.

Q. What kind of building is proposed?

A. A one story, eight room building with its own heating plant and so arranged that additional rooms can be added as necessary.

Q. How many grades are planned for the addition?

A. Kindergarten, two first grades, two second grades, and two third grades.

Q. Will the small children in this building have their own play area?

A. Yes.

Q. Where will the new building be erected?

A. East of the present school building on land owned by the school district.

Q. How long will it take to complete a building of this kind?

A. Judging by other buildings being built in the area, about 9 months.

Michigan Mirror

Keeping Michigan industry in Michigan has become one of the biggest post-war problems before the Michigan Department of Economic Development, a new promotional state agency set up by Ex-Governor Kim Sigler.

Because of the interest taken by this state news-letter in the development of new industries for Michigan small towns, the "Michigan Mirror" writer was privileged recently to view a presentation made by the state department in the interest of a proposed $250,000 industrial advertising fund to be raised by industry itself.

A group of 50 business leaders gathered recently at Michigan State College with the State Economic Development Commission to study the problem. Other states are spending large sums of money to woo industry into their borders. While the Department of Economic Development, cooperating with local chambers of commerce and utilities, has been successful in attracting many new industries to Michigan, there has been a noticeable migration of industry from Michigan to other states.

Don Weeks, acting director of the state department, presented the program to the group in the form of large charts. The group is headed by Walker L. Cislser, executive vice president of the Detroit Edison Company. Dan Gerber, president of the Gerber Baby Food Company, Fremont, presided at the meeting. Cislser's group includes representatives of manufacturing, banking, public utilities, organized labor, retail business and community groups.

"One of the biggest problems is keeping Michigan companies in Michigan," said Weeks in presenting the charts.

"In recent years and in recent months Michigan has suffered severe losses."

The following information on industries which have moved away from Michigan is taken from the official record of the State Department of Economic Development, as presented to the citizens' group:

American Lady Corset Co., moved from Detroit to Greenville, N. C.

Diamond Power Specialty Co., moved from Detroit to Lancaster, Ohio.

Ampco Twist Drill moved from Jackson to Greenville, Mass.

Armour Leather Co., moved from Holland to Chicago, Ill.

Fruehauf Trailer Co., moved from Detroit to Avon Lake, Ohio.

Helm Industrial Company moved from Grand Rapids to Birdsboro, Pa.

Mendoc Company moved from Mencon to Ligonier, Ind.

Koppers Company moved from Reed City to Virginia.

Lake States Products moved from Jackson to Cleveland, Ohio.

Potts Machine Company moved from Jackson to Chicago, Ill.

Hyde Spring, Lisbon, Ohio, still operating in Detroit.

Clayton-Lambert Company moved from Detroit to Louisville, Ky.

Eureka-Williams Corporation moved from Detroit to Bloomington, Ill.

Crest Industries moved part of their operation to South Carolina.

Heywood-Wakefield moved from Menominee to Massachusetts.

Chicago Pneumatic Tool moved from Detroit to Utica, New York.

Aluminum Fabricators moved from Charlotte to Rome, Georgia.

Precision Parts moved from Ann Arbor to Geneva, Illinois.

Detroit Company moved from Detroit to Kentucky.

"Today 21 other Michigan companies are known to be considering locations in other states," pointed out Mr. Weeks. "In each known case the state department is making every possible effort to hold the company in Michigan."

In reviewing the situation of attracting industries to Michigan, as illustrated by the above examples of industries which have migrated to other states.

Why have these industries left Michigan?

What were the reasons which prompted manufacturers to close up their Michigan plants and seek employment conditions elsewhere? In view of the state corporation profits tax, now pending before the state legislature, it would seem that answers to these questions are pertinent to 1950 political issues.

Industries mean payrolls; payrolls mean purchasing power in the community. It is obvious that the industrial prosperity of Michigan must depend to a large degree upon making Michigan an attractive place to work and to live.

Let's Talk It Over

Station WBCM Bay City
Ed. Vallender, Farm Editor

Letter Department.

When a farmer makes up his mind to go back to school, he has taken a good step forward on the road to financial success. After a boy puts aside his books, the opportunity to re-open them becomes increasingly remote with the passing of the years. Most men will admit that dropping out of school to earn a few dollars was a great mistake. In some cases, of course, it couldn't be helped.

VA "On Farm" Training.

In the 13 mid-western states, some 125,000 ex-G. I.'s are taking "on the farm" courses paid for by Uncle Sam as part of the Veterans' Training program. They meet twice weekly in local high schools for study and continue with practical application on the farm. The courses last from two to four years.

Annual Get-Together.

About 100 of these veterans and their wives had a potluck banquet and party the other night. They came from three counties and met in the Pinconning Community Building to hear a speech and have some fun. (Free drinks at the water fountain.) We asked a number of these men why they went back to school. Invariably, they all arrived at the same conclusions. They said that it takes a smart farmer to make money nowadays; that farming takes constant study just to keep up with new practices; and, that even an "old dog" can learn a few new tricks.

Most veterans admitted that it was difficult to "break the ice" and make application for the course. Some were skeptical as to how "book larnin'" could help do the chores. When a man agrees to give up two nights a week for a couple of years, he must have his wife's approval and support. Getting started was a big decision.

Want to Learn.

We talked with some of the instructors present at the meeting. They said that the average age of the veteran is about 30 and that all are most anxious to learn. They try to give the student the kind of knowledge he is seeking, even though in some cases, it may be highly specialized. The most common courses are; farm management, dairy herd records, crop rotation, machinery maintenance, etc. Classes are no larger than 25, thus the instructor can give individual attention. Practical demonstration is carried on "at the farm" periodically. The teachers told how the men exchange "know how" taken from their own farming experiences. This common fund of knowledge is valuable to all.

State Picture.

The entire Veterans' Training Program, although financed by the government, is administered by the State Department of Education. Conrad P. White, agriculture supervisor, the principal speaker of the evening, said that there are 6,184 vets enrolled in the state, with 159 teachers. Many of the instructors are employed full time.

Results.

We firmly believe that these veteran-students are not taking advantage of any government "gravy train." They are the farmers of today and tomorrow. The fact that they want to learn, to use improved farming methods, to practice conservation, will totally justify this expense to the tax payers. Our national heritage, the land, will be safe in their capable hands.

Good Crops Result From Single Trip To Plow and Plant

"Once over" soil preparation that eliminates extra tillage steps, can help cut down seedbed preparation costs and still maintain crop yields, advise Michigan State College soil scientists.

R. L. Cook, soil scientist at MSC, cites tests conducted at the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station. They show that plowing, light fitting, and planting in a single operation, produced as high yields of small grains on soil of good tilth as did conventional double disking and spiketooth harrowing.

The once over method also permitted quicker planting and a saving in motor fuel. Two disking and two harrowing operations were eliminated. Another advantage was that the soil had greater water storage capacity, for tilth was not broken down by excessive tillage.

The MSC scientists say that keeping soil in good tilth is needed for crop production. Loose, grainy soils give a good contact between the soil and the seed, making it easier for roots to reach plant nutrients, water and air.

Good tilth is a product of good rotation, not repeated workings with machinery, they say. Every time you go over a field with a tractor or heavy equipment, the weight and action of the machinery grinds up soil particles and damages soil structure. It cuts down the soil's water absorbing capacity. Roots have a harder time getting nutrients and moisture.

Tilth and structure can be built up and maintained if the soil is steadily supplied with organic matter. The best source of organic matter is well fertilized grass mixtures grown regularly in the rotation. Crop residues and manure help, but they alone cannot do the whole job of maintaining tilth. Legume grass crops need plenty of fertilizer carrying phosphate and potash.

Farm Census Guides Future Planning

Importance of the giving complete and accurate figures in the 1950 farm census was emphasized today by C. V. Ballard, director of the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service.

Although individual information is personal, the director pointed out that totals gathered furnished basic data to be used until another federal census is taken.

"It is highly important that an accurate and complete census is taken because farmers, industry, government agencies and other groups will depend upon the figures as a guide," Director Ballard commented.

Information is summarized by areas such as county or state which will give the basis for developing agricultural programs or determining the shift of crops or livestock numbers. Facts concerning individual farms are never revealed.

Check Hatchery For Best Chicks

When you're buying your chicks this spring, look for three things stressed by Michigan State College extension poultrymen:

First, know the pullorum control, breeding program, and reputation of your hatchery.

Second, know that your hatchery is under official supervision by the Michigan State Poultry Improvement Association.

Third, buy from a nearby National Plan hatchery. If possible, drive to your hatchery to get your chicks or have them delivered in the hatchery truck, thereby avoiding the shipping disease hazard.

George Washington had no middle name.

Pathologist Advises Peach Growers

It won't be long until peaches are in bloom in Michigan, and Ed Andrews, extension plant pathologist at Michigan State College, is advising growers to use time between now and then to knock peach brown rot mummies from the trees.

Most healthy fruit left on trees drops soon after harvest time, Andrews says. All fruit hanging in the tree at this time is infected with the brown rot fungus.

Leaves come out when peaches are in bloom and mummies cannot be seen readily, making it harder to knock them out of the trees. An hour or two spent in each acre of peach orchard with a broom stick will help to insure the success of future brown rot control sprays.

Mummies left in the trees produce brown rot spores throughout the growing season. If they are knocked to the ground now, they will not produce mushrooms and spores during the bloom period this year.

Disking old mummies that remain on the ground from last season will disturb them and help cut down the amount of spores from this source.

Rice is the principal food for one-third of the world.

Boggy Roads Can Be Avoided U Engineer Says

The "boggy" roads in southern Michigan should be no surprise to anybody, according to a University of Michigan soil mechanics expert.

The virtual breakdown of Michigan's rural and suburban road system this spring might have been expected, according to William S. Housel, associate professor of civil engineering. In fact, he made a prediction last fall that it would happen.

Professor Housel cited lack of funds leading to neglect of basic maintenance procedures as major factors accounting for the present road problem. Most of the damage has been caused by saturation of gravel bases and subsoils due to poor drainage and water accumulating in ruts and "chuck holes" faster than maintenance crews could repair them, he explained.

He pointed out that present conditions could have been avoided by adequate drainage facilities combined with more continuous maintenance of gravel roads. It is strictly a case of "a stitch in time saves nine," he claimed.

"The abnormal winter weather conditions have clearly shown that drainage provisions and supporting foundations of our secondary roads are inadequate to carry traffic through such critical periods," Professor Housel explained. "The added maintenance required to cope with this situation far exceeded the capacity of present maintenance crews and funds."

He pointed to Washtenaw County as an example where gravel stockpiles, set aside for normal spring maintenance, were exhausted early in the winter, and neither men nor money were available to produce the extra gravel, assuming it could be done under winter conditions.

"The present lack of funds might be traced to the prevailing philosophy that you can get 'something for nothing,'" Professor Housel suggested. "Adequate highways and proper maintenance require more money, and nobody wants to foot the bill."

"While people object to any increase in the gas and weight taxes, or other sources of highway revenue, they lose sight of the fact that the economic loss from a breakdown in the road system overshadows the additional funds required to prevent this serious situation from occurring. 'As it is now, individuals and business suffer the economic loss, and still do not have properly maintained roads."

Another factor of the problem lies in the current fallacious and ineffective practice of building top wearing surfaces in an attempt to avoid the consequences of a weak soil foundation and poor drainage, Professor Housel asserted.

"Such a program is in direct contradiction to well-established road building principles laid down over 125 years ago by McAdam, founder of the 'macadam' type road surface," he stated.

Getting out of the mud was the big problem in those days and sound fundamental principles were developed to solve the problem, he said. In more recent times, getting out of the dust has been uppermost in the mind of the motorist, and this has led to overemphasis on surfacing and neglect of McAdam's principles.

Professor Housel believed that more attention to drainage and foundation structures, which are relatively unexpensive items compared to surfaces, would result in better roads at less cost.

He said the importance of such factors has been clearly demonstrated in the old Roman roads constructed in England almost 2,000 years ago which are still serving as the foundation for some of that country's best roads.

"Many people try to place the blame for the present difficulties of the road system on excessive vehicle loads, and believe the only remedy is to impose restrictive load limits on highway traffic," Professor Housel remarked.

In regard to this, he cited the logging industry in the northwestern states which carry tremendous loads of 300,000 to 400,000 pounds on "unsurfaced" roads as an example of what can be accomplished by proper attention to good drainage, sound foundations and timely maintenance.

'One Second From Eternity; Please Don't Try It Again'

A railroad engineer whose train nearly crashed into a car at Fremont last Sunday, Tuesday addressed an open letter to "the youth and his girl" in the car. His letter, sent to The World-Herald, says:

"I don't know who you are, it's true, but I do know you were scared to death Sunday evening near 9 o'clock when you drove your car across directly in front of a speeding passenger train. It was so close that I, in the cab, could see the young girl (your sweetheart, I presume) throw her hands up in front of her face and cringe up against you in stark horror."

"If I were that young girl, I'd pull away from you, fast. You don't have good sense, son. You probably say you love her. I wonder. Those we love we try to protect. But not you."

"Wouldn't that have been a nice Christmas present to hand your mother—a broken and battered body? And how do you think we in the cab of that engine would feel? We are human beings, too. We have young ones waiting home for us to return. We, too, could have been killed."

"You and your girl were one second from eternity, Sunday, son."

"I hope you read this and know it means you, and that your girl will, too. Next time you do driving around, stop and look. We don't want to hit you, but we are helpless as we cannot swerve away from our given rail."

"If I were you, son, and you, too, sis, I'd thank God for that split second He granted you Sunday evening."

"I said a prayer for all when I realized you were going across. Perhaps that's what saved us all. 'Now think it over, both of you. And I'll bet you are both still shaking in your shoes.'

"And please, for God's sake, don't try it again."—Omaha World Herald.

Rail Air Conditioning
Eighty-seven per cent of the parlor and sleeping cars, about 97 per cent of the dining cars and 95 per cent of the club, lounge and observation cars on railroads of this country have air conditioning equipment.

Dangers of Noise
Excessive noise is a definite health and safety hazard on the streets, in the office, factory and home. New York City police department safety bureau, says unnecessary noises increase traffic accidents. A needless blast of an auto horn may injure pedestrians or other drivers.

Caught in Rain
If you're caught in the rain, dry out away from heated radiators or hot sun. Heat dries out wool fibers, making them brittle. After the garment is dry, brush it thoroughly.

This and That

Newspaper articles have been written calling attention to the need for more adequate housing facilities for students in School District No. 5, Elkland, advertisements have been printed urging citizens to vote "yes" on the proposition to erect an early elementary school building in the district, circulars have been distributed explaining the bond issue and the financial condition of the district, and resolutions have been adopted endorsing the construction of a new elementary building in Cass City. All this has helped to bring the matter to the attention of the people of this district, but it will be of no particular advantage if citizens do not visit the polls Saturday, April 8. The person who favors better school housing advantages but fails to exercise the privilege of his constitutional right of suffrage has no one to blame but himself if the proposition fails to carry tomorrow. Be sure to vote!

The Chronicle extends congratulations to two couples well-known to Cass City folks who will celebrate wedding anniversaries next Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Doerr will observe their 64th anniversary and Mr. and Mrs. Orrin K. Jones of Caro, many years of Cass City, their 60th.

For several Sunday afternoons, the 69 persons who compose the Community Choir have been practicing for the sacred cantata which will be presented at the school auditorium tonight (Friday). There should be a large audience to hear their rendition of "The Seven Last Words of Christ."

Talent shows are popular entertainments in Cass City and for that reason there will undoubtedly be much interest manifested in the show scheduled for Friday, Apr. 14. Auditions will be heard on Monday, April 10.

BIG CITY BOY PROVED TO BE A WINNER ON FARM

ferred the calf, which has a background of high production records, to a 4-H Club boy or girl in Michigan doing the most outstanding job with grade dairy animals. Gene was judged as having that best record.

Soon after Gene came with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Taggett, to their new residence on the Tuscola County farm he took a liking to cattle. He was afraid he couldn't go into 4-H Club work when he became old enough because they didn't have purebred cattle. But he found out that was no reason to bar him and his father gave him the next heifer calf born to the herd.

"Agnes" as he called his calf, got just as good grooming, feeding and care as any purebred ever got. Her city-born master was determined to win an award with her at the 1948 Tuscola County Fair. But the morning he was to take her to the fairgrounds, she dropped her first calf.

Gene was happy about getting this new heifer, Bess, but that changed his plans about entering her mother in the county fair. Gene went to the fair without Agnes and just looked around and "learned about dairy cows and showing them by watching the older boys and girls."

In 1949, however, he took Agnes to the county fair and won the championship of the class and then the grand champion award for all Holsteins, either purebred or grade. His production records were also judged among the best in the county. Gene then brought his cow to the State 4-H Club Show at East Lansing and she won first honors in state competition. His yearling calf also won some awards at both the county and state contests.

During his three years of dairy work, Gene has kept accurate accounts of daily weight of milk produced, butterfat tests, monthly income from milk sold, amount and cost of feed given his cow and other records. In addition to dairy projects, he has carried a total of 15 other 4-H Club projects during his three years in club work.

His parents have served as local volunteer leaders of the 4-H Club and have helped other neighbor boys and girls with their 4-H Club program.

Merchant, in 1895, Buys Potatoes at 10c Bushel, Feeds 'em to Hogs and Loses Money

Farmers had a big crop of potatoes in this territory around 1895, recalls William Fairweather, a livestock buyer at Cass City in that period, with no market for the tubers at 10 cents a bushel. Delbert J. Giles, a local merchant, had a large basement under his store in the Hitchcock Block, and to make a good fellow of himself, he started buying potatoes, paying 10 cents a bushel in trade until he had about 1,000 bushels that he could not sell at any price.

He conceived the idea, according to Mr. Fairweather, that he could boil the potatoes and feed them to hogs, so he had Fairweather get him a litter of 12. At $4 a hundred, they cost Giles $65.

Mr. Giles hired Wilbur Marshall, who had a small farm at the south end of Oak St., at $2.50 a week, to haul the potatoes to the farm, boil them up and feed them to the hogs. This program started in late October and by May the potatoes were gone. He sold the pigs to Mr. Fairweather for $65, the market price. "They were a bunch of good feeders, not a hair on them, tall, long and slim, with long noses and could run like deer," says the livestock buyer. "They were the attraction of the day at the stockyards and at the Buffalo market. Mr. Giles made a market for the potatoes, produced a curiosity but at a financial loss. Potatoes are good feed for hogs but the animals must have more corn than potatoes to produce real meat."
