

Gagetown and Cass City Methodists Now One Charge

Rev. Howard C. Watkins Will Serve Both Churches The Coming Year

The Detroit conference of the Methodist Church, which was held last week in the St. Mark's Methodist Church in Detroit, closed Sunday evening, with an address by Bishop Marshall R. Reed, the resident bishop of the Detroit Area, and Bishop Reed reading the appointments of ministers for the ensuing year.

Rev. Howard C. Watkins, the local Methodist minister, was returned for his third year. Of further interest to the vicinity of Cass City is the addition of the Gagetown church to the Cass City charge. Rev. Mr. Watkins will also serve that church, along with Cass City church this next year.

The Gagetown church has for some years been on the Saginaw District. Bishop Reed transferred it to the Port Huron District, and appointed Mr. Watkins as the pastor. The worship hours for the two churches will be as follows: Cass City will continue at their regular hour at 10:00 o'clock and the Gagetown service will be at 11:30. There will be guest speakers at these churches next Sunday, June 26. At Cass City, Dr. Merriell Lester of Indiana, will be the speaker. At Gagetown, Rev. Henry Kuhlman, who has been serving the church for the past three years, will speak.

Rev. Mr. Watkins will be a guest speaker in the Mount Clemens Methodist Church next Sunday, then will be at the Lake Huron Methodist Camp all the week following as registrar of the Port Huron District Senior Youth Fellowship Camp. He will be back in his pulpits on Sunday, July 2.

The changes of interest to nearby churches are as follows:

Farm Safety Week Influence Shown In State Action

Needless deaths and injuries from accidents to farm people have been reduced, and farming has become a safer, happier and more prosperous way of life since National Farm Safety Week was conceived in 1944 by the National Safety Council.

Reports to the Council from Kansas, Ohio and Wisconsin show a definite and consistent downward trend in the number of accidents among farm residents since the beginning of the week's annual observance. No adequate reporting plans have been set up as yet in other states.

Twenty-two states now have permanent, year-round farm safety committees which include National Farm Safety Week among their activities. The remaining states have set up temporary committees to promote the week's program.

Nevertheless, on the basis of past records, the National Safety Council says these things will happen before the observance of National Farm Safety Week next year unless farm residents learn and obey farm safety rules during the next 12 months.

One out of every 17 farm persons will suffer a disabling injury as the result of an accident.

Accidental death will occur in one out of every 350 farm families. Accidents will kill an average of 48 farm residents every single day. A disabling injury will strike some farm person every 19 seconds during the year.

The total cost of accidents affecting farm people—including fire and motor vehicle property damage—will be approximately $1,000,000,000 during the next 12 months. Each farm resident's average share of that amount will be $85.00.

FOR SAFE KEEPING

A House Appropriations Committee study disclosed that in one year the Federal Bureau of Internal Revenue printed 500 million tax forms and 115 million instruction sheets to supply 47 million taxpayers. Hundreds of millions of such forms, long out-dated and no longer useful, were found stored in a leased building.

THAT AIN'T HAY

The Hoover Commission has reported that $140 million a year could be saved by modernizing the organization methods and equipment of the U. S. Post Office Department.

If you're running the combine or having a custom operator do it, observe all the precautions to make sure of a moisture content of 14 percent or less, say Michigan State College crops specialists.

Trees in mulched orchards are showing better growth and are greener in appearance. Mulching improves the size of fruit and crop as well as quality. Straw or grass, legume hay, and sawdust are sometimes used.

Wilson and Miss Christie McRae, both of Lansing, Miss Zelma McKenzie of Kalamazoo, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harris of Coldwater, Herman Doerr and the Misses Helene Bardwell, Marie Benkelman and Laura Bigelow, all of Cass City. Charles Severance, Evergreen

Township supervisor, has been elected as chairman of the Sanilac Board of Supervisors.

Thirty-five Years Ago.
June 25, 1915.

Two hundred men participated in the road bee held in seven districts near Cass City Tuesday and they loaded, hauled and spread 541 loads of gravel. Cass City furnished 60 men to shovel gravel, 98 farmers furnished teams and drivers, 18 men spread the gravel on the highways and about 80 more farmers or their helpers assisted in loading in the gravel pits.

Commencement exercises were held Thursday evening when the following seniors received their diplomas: Dugald Duncanson, Otis Stockmeyer, James Hamilton, Paul Fritz, Howard Hoadley, Hazen Carson, Helen McGregor, Beatrice Koepfgen, Mary Flynn, Alison Spence, Vina McPhail, Helen Kolb, Mae Benkelman, Alma Mark, Lottie Hamilton, Ruth Bittner, Ruth Fritz and Florence Bigelow.

Many Factors Make Good Hay

Michigan farmers are finding out the importance of good hay in dairy feeding during the current Grass Day demonstrations being held in Michigan. But D. L. Murray, extension dairy specialist at Michigan State College, says there are many ideas concerning what constitutes "good hay."

In his opinion, good hay must start with the kind of hay crop grown. Legume crops, especially alfalfa, are the basis for good hay. To be best quality, alfalfa must be cut at about one-tenth bloom to have the palatable and highly nutritional elements that make more milk.

Weather conditions and methods of storage often damage hay that is cut basically good, so Murray says farmers must watch every detail in the haymaking operation.

In other words, Murray believes "good hay" is determined by:

1. Quality of grass and legume in the crop.
2. Maturity of the grass and legume when cut.
3. Weather conditions at time hay is made.
4. Method of storage of hay before it is fed.

He describes good hay as fine stemmed, green and leafy, with a great amount of legume. That kind of hay is ideal and since 75 to 80 percent of the nutrients fed to the dairy herd should come from roughage, it should put dollars in the milk pail for the farmer. That's because it would reduce the need for heavy grain and concentrate feeding.

Don't Neglect the Pigs in the Summer

As a swine raiser did you ever hear of "harvest disease?"

Then perhaps it was "haymaking disease?"

Probably you've never heard of either one, but W. N. McMillen, Michigan State College swine researcher, has tagged those names on the neglect, spring pigs get during the busy haymaking or harvest season.

Shade, water and adequate feed are the greatest needs for young growing pigs in the summer time. Too often, McMillen believes, farmers get busy harvesting the grain and the hay and the pigs do not get the proper attention when they are growing. Then they are not ready for the early fall market.

To keep the pigs healthy, McMillen recommends a pasture legume if you have it to spare. Annual pasture such as rape or Sudan is good. If there are no trees in the pasture, some artificial shade should be provided. Pigs need more water in the summer time, just as people do. McMillen says the most satisfactory way to provide adequate water is with an automatic watering system.

Feeding that will prevent neglect can best be provided by self-feeders. Along with automatic waterers, self-feeders can help insure your pigs getting adequate feed while you are busy with the summer farm work.

Growing pigs need supplement along with grain, and McMillen says it can be mixed or fed free choice. Unless the supplement contains a mineral, be sure about two percent minerals are mixed with the grain or fed free choice.

Penguins are birds, but they never fly.

Clothes From Sacks

With feed manufacturers vying with each other to create pleasing bag designs, rural America has the opportunity to turn these sacks into many glamorous garments. Here, Jackie Frehand, member of the Wanchese 4-H club on Roanoke Island, N. C., feeds chickens from one of the flowered feed bags, especially designed for re-use by customers.

Weather Affects Honey Bee Work

The complaint that the bees are "working the dandelions and not the fruit blossoms," is heard frequently during the blossom period of the year.

Laymen who watched the habits of bees and flowers in the blossom period just passed, are inclined to blame this kind of bee activity for poor pollination of the fruit blossoms and light sets of fruit.

J. C. Kremer, of the Michigan State College horticulture department, says that weather conditions are more important than the bees' individual preference. Both dandelions and fruit blossoms are good honey plants, producing nectar and pollen, and are equally attractive to bees at certain temperatures. As the temperature varies only one or the other may be attractive to bees.

"Growers often lay the blame on the bees, when the blossoms are at fault," Kremer explains.

The dandelion prefers the cooler temperatures of 55 to 70 degrees F., but closes its blossoms if higher temperatures prevail. The fruit blossoms prefer the warmer temperatures ranging from 65 to 80 degrees. As the bees visit the blossoms to obtain their food in the form of pollen and nectar, they work the blossoms only when this material is available.

At lower temperatures bees are usually found on dandelions and in warmer weather on fruit trees. When conditions are right, they work both blossoms. This competition for the services of the bee is usually of short duration as the temperature rises. If temperatures rise rapidly, no cause for complaint is heard as the bees devote their time to the fruit blossoms entirely.

Light Bulbs in Box
Light bulbs were so fragile up to 1912 that they were wrapped in cotton and shipped in wooden boxes suspended on spiral bed springs.

Summer Eggs Must Always Be Kept Cool, Odor-Free

The poor quality of summer eggs is not the fault of the hen. "Hot-weather" eggs, with their thin whites and flat, weak yolks cause many people to stop buying them. This waste could be prevented, top poultrymen say, if farmers would gather eggs at least three times a day in hot weather.

All handlers of eggs need to keep them cool at all times, and away from odors.

It costs as much to keep a rat as a chicken. Ask your county agricultural agent about the best ways to get rid of rats.

Sudan Grass pastures make good growth during hot, dry summer months, say Michigan State College agricultural specialists. The Sudan pastures help to save grain and are good for livestock.
