Horse Pulling Contest Will be Feature Aug. 10

Home-coming Program Will Officially Be Under Way at 12:30 P. M.

A horse pulling contest between some of the best teams in the Thumb area will be one of the feature attractions highlighting Cass City's home-coming celebration

Aug. 10. Plans for the contest were made Monday when Chamber of Commerce members met in the municipal building to wind up arrange-ments for the village's home-com-ing festivities. One meeting be-fore the event is scheduled for Members disclosed that horse pulling will be done with stone boats loaded with bags of sand. Calculators, which indicate the exact amount of "horse power" expended, won't be available for the meet, but fairly accurate judging will be possible. Tentative time for the beginning of the horse pulling contest is 3:30. The home-coming celebration should be officially under way by 12:30 p. m., Aug. 10, according to Andrew Bigelow, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. At that time, plans call for the Cass City High School Band to leave the school and march down Main St., to the park. Preliminary stock showing will be held in the morn-

Livestock and show horses will follow the band with a bicycle parade bringing up the rear. Cass City young people interested in taking part in the parade are asked to contact Harry Little.

A horse show directed by Miss Peggy Urquhart will begin at approximately 1:30. In one of the acts which Miss Urquhart will present, the horses play musical

It was pointed out that a peddler must also continue to pay a license fee to the village. According to Mrs. Wilma Fry, village clerk, the action was taken to guarantee quality produce to Councilmen also discussed advisability of speed control zones on both east and west ends of village limits. No official action was taken although it was decided to ask the township's cooperation in obtaining permission of the State Highway Department. The present speed limit when entering the village from the highway is 25 miles per hour. The proposed action would slow speed sters down by graduations before they reach village limits on M-81. Difficulty might be encountered in obtaining state permission because little building has been done outside limits on either end of town. Open on Aug. 16 On the west side, drivers enter a partial business district.

Traffic fines devied during the first 25 days of July totaled $146. Of that amount, $93 were collected by Justice Albin Stevens and the violation bureau. Fifty-three dollars remain out.

Councilmen report that storm ewer easements are still being obtained. The first section of the extension will begin at Houghton St. and run under the railroad to the creek. Construction will begin when all easements are secured.

Greenleaf Elevator Would Suffer by Rail Abandonment

Officer Testified that Plant Would Be Almost Worthless if R. R. Quits

A hearing conducted by John S. Prichard of Washington, D. C., general attorney-examiner of the Interstate Commerce Commission, received objections to a petition of the Grand Trunk Western Railroad to abandon 18 miles of track be-tween Bad Axe and Cass City.

At this hearing at Bad Axe Monday, George McIntyre of Saginaw, treasurer of the Frutchey Bean Co., testified that abandonelevator out of business.

McIntyre said the Greenleaf elevator plant, located about half Axe and valued at between $50,000 and $55,000, would be practically worthless in the event the railroad service be discontinued. His company had spent between $30,000 and $40,000 in the past three years in improving the plant. The plant used approximately 120 freight cars in the past year for incoming and outbound shipments, according to the testimony of Archie P. Stirton, manager of the elevator, for beans, oats, wheat, coal and fertilizer. He also stated that the plant would be hurt beyond recovery should the rail service be halted. Robert L. Livesay, attorney for the railroad, disclosed that the Grand Trunk would be willing to have the Frutchey Co. take over the trackage from its Greenleaf plant to Cass City at salvage value and operate its own shuttle system to the Cass City rail yards.

McIntyre retorted that such an arrangement was out of the question since the elevator is not in the railroad operating business. Prichard said that following a study of testimony he will make a recommendation. The commission, he revealed, will make the final de-

Surprise!

A one-armed man entered a restaurant at noon and seated himself at a lunch-counter, next to a man, who evidently was of the inquisitive type. The one-armed man paid no attention to him but kept on eating with his one hand. Finally the inquisitive one could stand it no longer, and said: "I beg your pardon, sir, but I see you have lost an arm, The one-armed man picked up his empty sleeve with his hand and peered anxiously into it. "Bless my soul!" he exclaimed, looking up with great surprise. "I do believe you're right."

UPSY-DAISY

"The horse I was riding wanted to go one way, and I wanted to go another."

"Who won." "He tossed me for it."

Getting Even

A general and a colonel were walking down the street. They met many privates, and each time the colonel would salute he would mutter, "The same to you." The general's curiosity soon got the better of him, and he asked: 'Why do you always say that?" The colonel answered: "I was once a private and I know what they are thinking."

The Main Question

"My father." said the young woman to an admirer, "is a very good business man. When he was quite young he managed to make a large fortune. Would you like to hear how he did it?"

"Certainly," said the young man, "but tell me first, has he still

Masked Duck

Back Home in Wisconsin MILWAUKEE. - A masked duck with a share of fame is back home in Wisconsin where it was discovered in 1870. The bird, of a species rarely found in North America, arrived at the public museum Monday as the result of a trade with the University of Michigan's zoological department.

Thure Kumlien, an early Wisconsin ornithologist, obtained the bird after it was killed by a hunter on the Rock river, It is believed the only one of its type found in the state, according to O. J. Gromme, curator of birds and mammals at the museum. Ever since its loss of wing power, the duck has traveled far. It was in the hands of the Boston Society of Natural History for many years before the University of Michigan got it. It has been described by an American ornithologist as the second masked duck ever obtained north of Mexico.

The mounted specimen, like its live brethren, has tan and brown coloring and dark stripes on the side of its head. It usually is found in Central and South America and in the Caribbean areas.

Former Army Captain Houses, Educates Korean, Jap Children

SEATTLE. WASH .-- A couple of years ago when Capt. Wilfred G. Logan was in the United States army of occupation in Korea, he heard a Korean schoolboy plead for a chance to study in the United States so he could return to Korea with American know-how.

Today that schoolboy, Sangho Back, is getting his chance as a partner in the Logan family's "backyard internationalism." He's a student in a Seattle high school under the sponsorship of ex-Capt. Logan, whose household includes two little Japanese girls in addition to his own two children.

After nine months in an American school, Sangho is an honor student and is helping pay for his earns after school. And as a junior member of the international Logans, he takes part in the family activities. All his problems - and there are many-are solved during joint conferences in the living

Gradually Sangho is being conditioned to a few basic American customs, such as the courtesy shown to women. In Korea, women are seldom permitted to speak unless spoken to, and not often then. Sangho is no longer demoralized when Mrs. Logan suggests that he try not to slam the door.

The Logans' experiment in international relations has required sacrifice and effort. Logan studies at the University of Washington under the GI bill of rights during the day and works full time at night to earn money to support his fami-

Sangho's contribution to the famlily budget scarcely covers his own expenses.

The Japanese girls, 2 year old Sally and 6 year old Judy, are the daughters of a railway employee whose wife is a patient in a tuberculosis sanitarium. Unable to care for his children while the mother receives treatment in a hospital, the father sought the aid of the county welfare department. The Logans were given the Japanese children, on a foster parent basis, after a careful investigation by the welfare department. Almost the same age as the two Logan children, the little Japanese girls have been accepted as members of the family. Mrs. Logan is "mommy" to Sally and "Aunty Thelma" to the older girl.

British Protest Strongly On Pocahontas Grave Issue

LONDON. - A strong protest against the proposed destruction of St. George's church in Gravesend, where Pocahontas was buried 331 years ago, was recorded in The London Times.

Pocahontas is the Indian Princess who saved the life of Capt. John Smith.

County planners have proposed the church be torn down to facilitate the reorganization of Gravesend parishes.

"At a time when we are supposed to be doing our utmost to attract American visitors, it seems singularly shortsighted deliberately to destroy a building which, if its existence were better known, would probably draw them to Gravesend in large numbers," wrote John Underwood in a letter to The Times.

And in any case, Underwood added. St. George's is worth preserving for its architectural merit. Pocahontas, with her husband, wrist. Both have been discharged. John Rolfe, and their son, was one of the first American visitors to England in the 17th Century.

Shortly after she and her husband had sailed on their return voyage to Virginia in March, 1619, Pocahontas became ill. She was taken ashore at Gravesend, where she died. She is commemorated in St. George's by a tablet unveiled by Walter Hines Page, then United States ambassador, in 1914.

Electric 'Cowboy' Will Aid Ranchers Economic Way to Keep Stock on Home Pastures

Come spring, an electric "cowboy" will ride the range to help farmers and ranchers keep their stock in the pasture and out of planted fields.

6-volt Winchester "Hot Spark" battery that years ago gave a balky model T a frosty-morning pickup, Cowboy Hot Spark is more useful he's the waterproof dry cell buckaroo that makes the "touch-me-not" electric fence a safe and economical way to keep the stock where it belongs.

Electric fencing with the use of mers' most inexpensive means to keep his stock where he wants it,

Clearly illustrated are correct heights for electric fence. In states where barbed wire is legal, it is usually pre-according to W. S. Allen, general manager of the electrical division of Olin Industries, inc., who is a farmer to boot.

Little or no knowledge of electricity is required as reliable fence controllers approved by underwritters, which keep the current going to the electric fence intermittently many times a minute, come with simple instructions easy to follow.

Electric fence wire can be moved from one location to another, but it is best to make permanent installations. Metal or wood fence posts are suitable. Posts to fence horses should be from 40 to 50 feet apart. Twenty-five to 40 feet apart is satisfactory for smaller animals.

In states where barbed wire is legal, it is usually preferred. Like any other electric fence wire, it should be fastened to the posts by insulators and should not come into direct contact with posts, weeds or the ground. Inexpensive solid type. but never split type, glass or porcelain insulators should be used rather than old rubber or necks of bottles. Substitutes are a poor economy as they don't work well or last long.

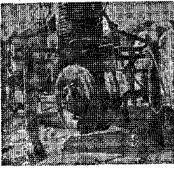

Where gates are required, attach the wire to a spring to maintain tension and continue the wire through the center of a wood or rubber handle to a hook to fasten to a continua tion of the wire on the other side of the gate.

strung from the ground depends upon the size of the animals to be fenced. Generally, you measure the distance to the ground from about the middle of the animals' head when grazing. Following are tence heights for various animals:

6 to 16 inches pigs 12 to 18 inches calves 10 to 18 inches sheep, goats 30 to 36 inches ..., cows

80 to 40 inches horses With your fence built, just attach Cowboy Hot Spark and a grounded fence controller and you're in business to charge a fence that can be twelve to fifteen miles long. And "Hot Spark" will last five or six months before you need to replace your dry cell cowboy.

Cleaners & Dyers

Notice to Our Customers and Friends

Beginning July 24, we will give DAY AND NIGHT SERVICE THROUGH HARVEST, ALSO as a service to our customers we are passing along a recommendation given out by Michigan State College, a simple test for wheat, oats and barley for moisture content. Let's not get caught like last year.

> A MOISTURE TEST FOR GRAIN Wheat - Oats - Barley

Grain should not be threshed or combined when tough (carrying over 14% moisture). It is not safe to store when above 14% moisture.

The test is as follows: Obtain a cottage cheese box, a onehalf pint ice cream box or a dixie cup with cap, then fill them 1/2 to 1/3 full of threshed grain or grain you have threshed from the head. (Be sure the grain is free of chaff.) Add 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon of salt depending upon the quantity of grain and sbake 200

Pour the grain and salt out on a piece of paper. If the salt has clumped together the grain is too moist. If the salt is fine and granular, as it was when you added it, then the grain is O. K. for combining and storage.

The time of shaking is the important feature. The drier the grain, the more shaking it requires. Do not hold the grain too long in the hands as it may take up moisture.

If you use the ice cream box or dixie cup over again, wipe out thoroughly with a dry clean cloth.

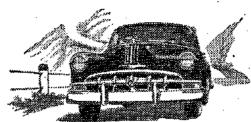

Be sure and test the grain several places in the field to get an accurate indication of the moisture.

We carry the largest stock of repairs in this territory.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Use Proper Sewing Techniques To Make Professional Garments

By Ertta Haley

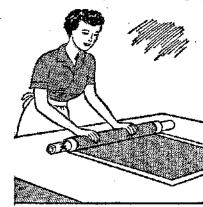

HAVE A FLAIR for styling clothes, but my sewing technique is really very poor. The clothes just don't seem to stand up well after a little wear," says a neighbor who really enjoys making her own wardrobe.

What should she and others like her do? They can't go out to attend sewing classes, neither should they be advised to give up some thing they like so well. Can technique be learned after sewing haphazardly for some time?

Yes, sewing techniques can be improved with just a few tips in the right direction, and a bit of patience to do the proper things The rewards are clothes that you'll be proud to wear, and also clothes that will withstand laundering hard wear and cleaning.

Actually it's fun to do things according to methods that consistent ly give good results. Your pleaspre is not just in a seam well sewed, but a garment that a good tailor would admire. That, we'll all admit, is a goal toward which it's worth working.

No one can do a good job of home sewing without having the equipment as well as the space. Few have a sewing room, and so they must at least have a space that can be converted quickly to sewing needs. This means a large table that's firm, of correct height, and level. If necessary, use /a dining room table with composition pads.

Pre-sbrunk materials . . .

Have your sewing machine as well as all the other aids for cutting basting and finishing close at hand. These may be placed in a large box that can be conveniently carried about.

An ironing board and iron with a pressing cloth should be part of basic equipment, too. Bring them out when you do sewing.

Straighten Fabrics Before Cutting

Have you ever had a garment look slightly lopsided after cutting and sewing it? No, it didn't slip while you were doing the cutting or sewing, probably, but it just wasn't straight to start with.

Make certain the grain of the fabric is true before you place the pattern on it for cutting. This is done by clipping the selvage and catching one crosswise thread and pulling it out gently. Cut carefully on this line.

Sometimes after tearing fabric, it may be necessary to stretch it to get the material back in line.

md pressing yield better garments.

Grasp opposite ends at points some distance apart; stretch and sewsaw it diagonally until the fabric is in line.

Repeat the above process along the length of the material. If this does not straighten the fabric, dampen it and stretch again.

Dampening a piece of material for straightening is done by wetting a piece of muslin and placing over the fabric until enough moisture has been absorbed to make it

Cottons and linens may be sprinkled as though for ironing, then rolled until the dampness has spread through evenly. Shake out length-wise over a door to let them

Only Pre-Shrunk Fabries Should be Used

Imagine spending several hours to several days on a dress, only to find that after the first laundering it has shrunk to a size that does not fit!

sanforized, it may very well shrink. Some materials which are not so labeled or guaranteed may not shrink, but you don't know unless you've actually tried out the fabric. It's simple enough to clip off a piece, launder, dry and press it. Check with original measurements which were taken right after cutting the piece of goods. In this way you'll know how it behaves with laundering.

Profile Interest

Interest is given to the face with a profile bonnet such as this, made of natural milan straw with a deep, rolling brim faced in siren red straw. A cluster of bright straw accents the side-swent line of the crown. The fruits are repeated in a wrist band, used as an accessory to the hat.

For materials which do shrink, do the shrinking before making the garment. Straighten the fabric first. Wring out a piece of muslin or an old sheet in warm water and lay on a flat surface. Place the new material over this, being careful to avoid wrinkles in either the muslin or new material. Make a newspaper roll, covering it with muslin. Roll fabric with damp cloth over this and let stand for 12

After it has been rolled the required length of time, unroll the material and hang over a door to dry. Hang fabric as straight as possible and avoid wrinkling.

After drying, the material may be pressed carefully. If it requires

Pressing During Sewing Yields Good Looks

Pressing during the sewing of a garment will yield better finished results and actually makes the whole sewing operation an easier one. It will give you a pretty good idea, too, of how the garment will look when it's finished.

Pressing does not mean ironing the garment. Hold the iron so it glides lightly over the fabric rather than pressing down into the material in long sweeps as you do when ironing.

All seams, darts and tucks should be pressed after you finish them, with the heat of the iron set for the correct temperature for the fabric. Synthetic materials require the least heat, and you might insulate what little heat you do use by placing a dry pressing cloth over the material before the iron glides over it. Do not dampen the material in any way, as it may cause the material to behave strangely by wrinkling or puckering. Woolens require slightly more easily. A commercial pressing cloth or a heavy piece of material slightly dampened is recommend-

If the outer seams are likely to show the mark of the seam, place a piece of paper under each side before pressing.

Materials which have a raised design, or embroidery of any kind should be pressed face down into a heavy turkish (terry cloth) towel to prevent flattening.

Metallic materials require little iron heat. Velvet or deep napped fabrics should be steamed rather than pressed.- Place a damp cloth against a standing iron, and when steam, rises, move the material through the steam, moving fingers carefully so as not to leave marks

Observe Sewing Directions For Best Results

Pattern marks and other directions have been carefully tested to give the best results. Those who ignore notches in the patterns, seam allowances and other such markings regret them in the long rum, for all have a reason for being there.

Only the very experienced seamstress can take liberties with patterns. Others would do well to follow all directions explicitly. If you want to alter a pattern slightly, make it up first in a cheaper material to see that it works properly.

With expensive or hard to manipulate materials, it's a good idea to make the pattern up first in muslin and check for fitting and details at all points. In this way you don't waste material; and too, you can sew much better having gone through the garment once. Other techniques which will yield good results for home sewing include knowing how to stitch a straight seam. You can practice with paper until you have the knack. Adjust stitches to the material with which you work. Match material to thread you use, not just in color but in weight. Finish seams with pinking shears or with hemming or by overcast-ing, and you'll have a garment that's neat and better wearing.

Proof Enough

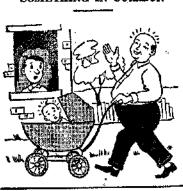

A visitor who was being shown over a lunatic asylum inquired of his guide what method was employed to discover when the inmates were sufficiently recovered to be discharged.

"Well," replied he, "you see, it's this way. We have a big trough of water and we turn on the tap. We leave it running and tell them to bail out the water with pails until they have emptied the trough."

"How does that prove it?" asked the visitor. "Well," said the guide, "the Upper Mississippi "Catch"

In spite of the decline in fish prices since the war, commercial fisheries remain an important industry on the upper Mississippi. The commercial catch of more than 8,000,000 pounds was taken from the river between St. Paul and Cairo. Ill., in 1948 and production holds fairly steady in spite of lower prices.

Bison Population

Bison, or buffalo, now number close to 4,000 on fenced rangeland, largely in Montana and South Dakota. From an estimated 50 million at the time of early settlers, they dwindled almost to extinction. Forerunner of all attempts at big-game censuses was naturalist W. T. Hornaday's careful survey showing a tally of only 541 bison in 1889.

A Pledge to the American People

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company

We will resist all unwarranted price rises with all our might.

We will make every effort to hold our inventories at the lowest point consistent with good service to our customers, because hoarding, whether by wholesalers, retailers or consumers, will cause higher prices.

We will continue to maintain the lowest profit rate generally prevailing in the entire retail industry. Our net profit now is less than one cent on each dollar of sales.

We will continue to strive for more efficient distribution.

We will fight waste of food, or time, or money all along the line so as to narrow the spread between wholesale and retail prices.

We will devote all our energies to giving you the most good food for your money every day of the week.

We will strive always to do what is honest, fair, sincere and in the best interest of our country and our customers.

As most of you know, this company and the low cost, low profit policies that built it are under attack.

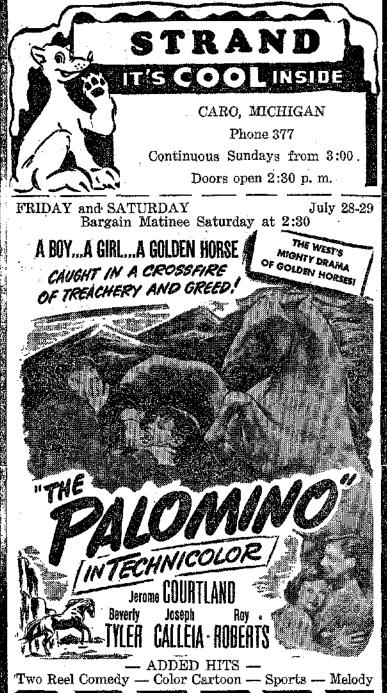

We are defending ourselves against a suit brought by the anti-trust lawyers to put A&P out of business.

But the greater conflict in which our country is now engaged takes precedence over all else.

Today, with our boys fighting in Korea, we believe that all citizens and all businesses, big and little, should devote themselves wholeheartedly to the public interest.

We promise the American people that we will cooperate unhesitatingly with our national government in the present crisis.

We promise you that we will continue to do everything in our power to put more buying power in your food dollar and more good food on your dinner table.
