

Sudden Death of Well-Known Citizen Monday Evening

The community suffered a severe shock Monday evening when news spread quickly of the sudden death of Ernest Croft at his home on East Third Street. He appeared in his usual health during the day and expired shortly after six o'clock after arriving from the home of a neighbor.

Ernest Croft was born in Sheridan Township, the son of the late Henry and Sarah McTaggart Croft. He was graduated from the Bad Axe High School and attended Ferris Institute before entering the employ of the Pinney State Bank in 1915. He enlisted Sept. 27, 1917, as a member of the 59th Infantry and was honorably discharged as Corporal Aug. 8, 1919. On his return from overseas, he re-entered the employ of the bank where he was cashier and director.

Mr. Croft was united in marriage with Miss Ella Wallace Oct. 16, 1920, in Cass City where they have made their home.

Mr. Croft served several years as village treasurer and village trustee and also as Elkland Township treasurer. He was an active member of the Presbyterian Church, being elder and treasurer for a number of years. He was also a member of Tyler Lodge, No. 317, F. & A. M., in Cass City.

He is survived by his wife; two daughters, Miss Marjorie Croft, a teacher in the high school at Comstock, and Miss Marian Croft, a senior at Michigan State Teachers' College at Mt. Pleasant; three sisters, Mrs. Irene Moore and Miss Bessie Croft, both of Bad Axe, and Mrs. Minnie Wilkinson of Birmingham; and one brother, Wm. Croft of Ubyly.

The body was taken from Little's Funeral Home at noon Thursday to the Presbyterian Church to lie in state until two o'clock, the time of service. Rev. Melvin R. Vender, the pastor, was the officiating clergyman. Committal services were under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity, with final resting place in Elkland cemetery.

Girl Scout Sunday To Be Observed

Sunday, November 5, is designated in the National Girl Scouts' Week for special observance in their respective churches.

Girl Scouts and Brownies will have special recognition in the Presbyterian Church service at 10:30 a. m. Some of the Scouts will participate in the platform in the conducting of the order of service.

Rev. Melvin R. Vender will speak on an appropriate theme for the occasion. Special music is being arranged by Mrs. Brewster Shaw, choir director, and Mrs. Ethel McCoy, organist. The Girl Scouts will appear in uniform. The National Council recommends that parents of Scouts also observe the special day by attendance.

Five-Night Class for Parents, Teachers

The Presbyterian Church School is sponsoring a special training class for parents and teachers on the five Wednesday nights in November.

The course offered is entitled "The Church in Christian Faith and Life." This is a survey historical course on the Christian Church, the primary aim of which, apart from its cultural and educational value, is to give parents and teachers some added background so that they may be better qualified to help the children and youth in the home and class rooms during the year's study on "The Christian Church."

"The class," said Rev. M. R. Vender, "is open to anyone in the community and will not be presented from any sectarian point of view, but from the historical." The class will meet in the primary room of the church at 8:00 p. m. The pastor will present the opening night's discussion. It is hoped that other leaders will present the chapter on succeeding nights.

Michael Jackson, 4, Killed Instantly When Hit By Truck

Funeral services for four-year-old Michael (Mickey) Jackson, who was killed instantly Thursday afternoon when he was struck by a gravel truck in front of his home one mile north of Wickware, were held Sunday afternoon from the Cass City Baptist Church, the Rev. Arnold Olsen officiating. Burial was in Elkland cemetery.

Michael, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Jackson, was playing in front of his home and ran into the road in front of the truck driven by Loren Bitterling, 43, of Decatur.

Bitterling said he sounded the horn when he saw the boy start to run across the road, but the child did not stop. An inquest Friday exonerated the driver on a decision that the death was an unavoidable accident.

The remains were taken to Little's Funeral Home and later to Michael's home on the Cumberland Road.

Michael, who was born August 30, 1946, at Bad Axe, is survived by his parents, one brother, Jerry, 5, and a grandfather, John Jackson, of Ubyly.

Tuscola Co. Officially 100 Years Old

LOG SCHOOLHOUSE located just southwest of the corner of Main and Seeger Streets where pioneers' offspring attended classes in the early "sixties." The little log school stood in the midst of forest trees, a few of which had been cut out to make room for the building and a scant playground.

Tuscola County, which officially became a political body in the fall election of 1850, will mark 100 years of existence on Nov. 5. No centennial celebration has been planned to launch it on its second century.

It was just 100 years ago next Sunday that eighty-three Tuscola voters trooped to the polls in the first county election to send Alanson Calkins to the House of Representatives and defeat a proposal on Negro suffrage.

County officers were also elected at that time to stand at the helm of the infant county. They were William Harrison, clerk; E. W. Perry, treasurer; Townsend North, register of deeds; Lovina Hart, county judge; Calvin Lee, second judge and probate judge; Leander W. VanKleeck, sheriff; Hiram Penoyer, attorney; Joshua D. Smith, surveyor; Silas S. Bliss and Chancey Firman, coroners.

The first business transacted at the first meeting of the board of supervisors was the adoption of a resolution offering a "bounty of eight dollars for the scalps of full grown wolves."

Although the county became a body politic in 1850, settlers were drifting into the territory a decade and a half earlier. The first permanent settler in the area which is now Tuscola County was a man by the name of Ebenezer Davis. Davis, accompanied by his wife and 11 children, crossed the wilderness boundary in 1836 to what is now the village of Tuscola and remained there until his death in 1880. Another rival for the title of first settler is Edwin Ellis who came to the county in 1835 and moved to Saginaw a year and a

"Well, now I have seen everything—I saw printers going to work carrying their shoes and socks in their hands, wading through water up to their knees, to get into the Morning Journal, which was completely surrounded by water. Yes, I was one of these brave ones—you know, the show must go on—as they say in show business.

'Bill' Kelly Will Be Gavel Club Speaker Tuesday

Fros and cons of universal military training and coloring of oleomargarine were discussed Tuesday night by members of the Gavel Club at a dinner meeting at the Home Restaurant.

Members were selected to defend or dispute each topic whether in agreement or not. Lester Ross was program chairman.

Later, Ed Fritz gave a summary of the four proposals which will be voted upon Nov. 7.

Next Tuesday the Gavel Club will have as its guests members of the Cass City High School football squad and their coaches, Arthur Paddy and Irving Claxman. Paddy will introduce the players and give a summary of the football year. Claxman is scheduled to discuss the team's prospects for 1951.

Chief speaker of the evening is William Kelly, former Cass City High School coach. At present Kelly is head coach at Arthur Hill in Saginaw.

Republicans at Kelly-for-Governor Banquet Friday

Approximately 250 Republicans of the Upper Thumb attended the Kelly-for-Governor banquet at the Caro Presbyterian Church parlors Friday evening, Oct. 27. Most of them were from Tuscola County with a sprinkling of prominent members of the party from Huron and Sanilac.

Rev. Joseph Dibley, Caro Methodist minister, gave the invocation, Toastmaster James Kirk introduced the guests and Audley Rawson of Cass City gave the address of welcome.

"The Democratic party is not the party of Jefferson and Jackson," said Congressman Jesse Wolcott, who was the first speaker. "It has a program of socializing industry, credit, agriculture and all services. We must choose in this election between the American system of government and socialism."

Howard Nugent of Bad Axe introduced Harry F. Kelly, Republican candidate for governor, as a hard working official, always on the job, and one who knew how to get along with the legislature during his two terms as governor of Michigan. State Grange and Farm Bureau heads, said Nugent, praised Kelly in cooperating with agricultural people.

Mr. Kelly said he would avoid a tax, tax, spend, spend policy and under his regime there would be no additional tax unless absolutely necessary. Referring to his two terms as governor, he said more was done for colleges and universities in four years than in the previous 30 years, advances were made in the field of conservation and more proper labor legislation was enacted than during any similar period.

Kelly charged that Governor Williams' shining up to the Michigan farmer with his offers of helping apple, bean and grape growers is a masquerade.

He quoted C. C. Taylor, Albion, president of the National Apple Institute, as saying that Williams' apple marketing plan in Michigan is a phony. Kelly said Taylor represented the governor's acceptance of credit for marketing the 1949 apple crop in Michigan.

Taylor was quoted as saying that the good results were secured by nation-wide promotion of the apple industry growers, packers, brokers, wholesalers and retailers.

Mr. Kelly said that during his term as governor all food production records were broken because the state administration cooperated with the farmers.

Musical numbers during the meal were presented by Richard Froeber, tenor and accordionist, of Saginaw, who is a music student at Michigan State College.

Red Hawks Won From Caro on Friday 25-0

The Cass City eleven trampled a scoreless Caro squad Friday night, chalking up 25 points for their fourth conference victory of the season. It was Caro's fifth defeat.

Scoring started on the third play after kick-off when Lee Hartel received a 25-yard pass from Tom Schwaderer and went 38 yards for a touchdown. The extra point was no good.

Second TD was lugged over the line by Jim Bishop on a two-yard pass from Schwaderer. The score followed a 65-yard drive from the Cass City 38-yard line. Chet Dorland kicked the extra point, making the tally 19-0.

After a scoreless third period, Cass City returned to make twelve more points before the end of the game. First gain of the quarter was when Tim Burdon went across for a touchdown on a 15-yard pass from Schwaderer. The play came after Dorland intercepted a Caro lateral.

Later, Cass City grabbed the ball on Caro's 28' following a fourth down punt fumble. At the end of two plays, Bishop plunged across the line on a pass from Schwaderer to wind up the scoring at 25-0. Neither of the place kicks in the last period were ruled o. k.

Caro missed a scoring opportunity at the beginning of the fourth period when the Tigers fumbled on the one yard line and Jack Stahlbaum recovered the ball.

Sixteen of 20 passes attempted by Cass City in the Caro game were completed.

Cass City grid men who saw action in the Caro game were: Ends, Lee Hartel, Roy Wagg, Tim Burdon, Roger Little and Tom Townsend; Tackles, Alvin Hutchinson, Charles Watson, Charles Hempton and Jack Stahlbaum; Guards, Jim Fox, John Ellis, Stanley Guintner, Don Bartle and Arleon Kelly; Centers, Dick Wallace and Bill Martus; Quarterbacks, Stanley Beach and Don Tuckey; Halfbacks Tom Schwaderer, Jim Bishop and Clarence Schneberger; Fullback, Chet Dorland and Frank Creason.

Tonight (Friday) Cass City plays its last game of the season with the Pirates at Harbor Beach. The squad, which has played below its potential so far this year, was defeated by Caro two weeks ago. Last Friday, however, the powerful eleven came back to defeat Sebawaing 13-0.

Practical Farmers Anticipate Science

Many Fed Milk Product Long Before Vitamin B12

Practical dirt farmers, with little knowledge of nutritional theories, may prove to have again anticipated the latest findings of research scientists who have been turning their attention to hog and poultry rations.

About a year ago, when discovery of the growth promoting vitamin B12 created a stir in feed and farm circles, many farm editors were quick to point out that practical farmers who fed milk and milk products to hogs and poultry had actually anticipated the scientists. Because, after the new vitamin was first isolated from liver extracts, it was found that milk and milk-by-products, like skim milk and buttermilk, are particularly good natural sources of this growth vitamin. Generations of farmers, who had never heard of vitamin B12, had taken advantage of its growth promoting values when they fed milk and milk products.

Many practical dirt farmers in the United States fed skim milk and milk products long before they ever heard of vitamin B12. Above a farmer feeds skim milk.

Now research scientists have been testing the effect of "wonder drugs" in animal feeding. They have reported startling growth gains when streptomycin and aureomycin are added to hog and poultry rations. There are indications that farm editors have another opportunity to point out that practical farmers anticipated the scientists in this case too.

Not that there is any indication that milk or milk-by-products actually contain these wonder drugs, but it appears that to some extent, they have a similar effect.

War to Have Strong Influence on Markets

L. H. Simerl of the University of Illinois predicts unsettled markets during the months ahead. He gives four reasons:

First, the all-important corn crop is made largely during July and August. Yield depends mainly on rainfall and borer damage.

Second, military operations always have a strong influence on market activities.

Third, needs for price control and rationing will be discussed by the public and probably debated in congress.

Fourth, even before recent international developments, many people had little confidence in prevailing price levels. Now most people are even more uncertain about probable price behavior.

Repeal of taxes on colored margarine July 1 is expected to increase consumption of that product. Whether this will decrease butter consumption still is unknown. Most of the increase in margarine consumption between 1942 and 1948 was the result of more families using it rather than an increased consumption per family.

Do your Christmas Shopping in

CASS CITY

We think that this Christmas will be one of the biggest and happiest ever. And to make it extra merry, we've stacked our shelves to the rafters . . . filled our showcases 'til they're fairly bulging with nationally known brands of "just what you've always wanted." Now the only question is, how to take the hustle and push . . . the fatigue and short tempers, out of your annual Yuletide shopping tour. We've a suggestion.

Shop in Cass City, where you will be served by friends and neighbors . . . where you will be served best, because your salespeople know you! Shop in Cass City because you save time and money—and still can obtain anything and everything that's available anywhere else.

Shop in Cass City because you are supporting the merchants who are supporting YOU . . . through their interest in better schools . . . better churches . . . better public services.

SHORT STORY

Farm Girls

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

BEULAH and Candida had met in the New York office of Mortimer and Brown, attorneys. They became fast friends because they found something in common. That something was a desire to live on a farm in the country.

They talked about it incessantly. Then Beulah came through with the great idea.

"Let's work hard and save for a year. Then let's pool our resources, make a down payment on a small farm and—live there!"

"But we don't know a thing about farming. We've both lived in the city all our lives. We couldn't make it pay."

"We could," Beulah said. "If we wanted to badly enough. There are books on how to do everything these days."

So for a year the two girls worked and saved. They spent evenings on end at the library reading books on small scale farming.

When spring came they drove up into the country and called on the farmers who had offered their homes for sale. The second place they visited proved exactly what they wanted. It was a small, white, tree-shaded house with a big barn, a henery containing a flock of 100 birds, a cow, a horse, a pig and several cultivated acres.

It was a swell idea. Best of all, they made a profit. The enterprise would likely have developed into something lasting, had it not been for Barnaby Xerxes.

He was a radio singer, suffering from a nervous breakdown. He had come to Hillside to recuperate. Beulah met him one day on a deserted section of country road. He was walking and she gave him a lift back to town in the delivery truck.

Beulah was thrilled. During the days that followed she hated going off evenings and leaving Candida home alone, but obviously, Barnaby and she couldn't take the other girl everywhere with them.

Beulah was wondering how, when Barnaby proposed marriage and she accepted him, she was going to break the news to Candida.

Two nights later Beulah delivered a half dozen fowl to the village church for its semi-annual supper, and was returning home earlier than she was expected. Lights were on in the front room and through the window she saw Barnaby holding Candida in his arms, kissing her.

Beulah was furious. She stormed into the house. Candida tried to be calm and explain that she and Barnaby had loved each other all along. They hadn't had the courage to tell Beulah.

"You— you vixen!" Beulah shrieked.

A week passed. The girls went about their duties without speaking.

Both knew that sooner or later they would have to come to some agreement about the farm.

So in the end Beulah made arrangements with Lawyer Stearns and one evening the girls set out in the delivery truck for his law office to write the final chapter in their adventure.

They were silent on the drive to town. Even when the car lights went out for no explainable reason neither of them said anything. Silently Beulah got out, lifted the hood, discovered a fuse was blown, and having no spare, tried to produce a makeshift from a hairpin. It began to look as though there was nothing to do but continue on foot, when suddenly the connection was made and the lights flared up.

In the glare of the headlights a man and a woman, evidently having come up in the darkness without knowing of the truck's presence, were standing in close embrace.

The man was Barnaby Xerxes. Nobody said anything for a moment; then Barnaby turned and began walking swiftly away. The girl followed him.

Beulah got into the truck. She started the motor. She looked at Candida. Candida looked at her. "Oh, shucks!" said Beulah presently. "Let's go back and milk the cow and call it a day."

"Oh, let's!" cried Candida.

"But we don't know anything about farming," Candida said. "We've both lived in the city all our lives."

Both knew that sooner or later they would have to come to some agreement about the farm.

They were silent on the drive to town. Even when the car lights went out for no explainable reason neither of them said anything.

In the glare of the headlights a man and a woman, evidently having come up in the darkness without knowing of the truck's presence, were standing in close embrace.

Beulah got into the truck. She started the motor. She looked at Candida. Candida looked at her.

PRINTERS WADE WATER TO START WORK ON MORNING JOURNAL

time here. Last Sunday it started to rain, and rained continually, without a letup, for four days, with nearly 11 inches of rain falling. Then on top of that, the hurricane came along yesterday and brought with it more heavy rains, so that the town had more than it could handle—then the flood, and the printers with their shoes in their hands going to work.

"Fortunately, none of this bothered us. We built our home here on the highest and driest spot in the town—Ridgewood—and while nearly all the homes not so well located, had water in them, we did not even have any water in our basement where the furnace is—dry as a bone. Our telephone line is also underground along the street and we had a phone during the worst of the hurricane. Two thousand phones went dead here.

"The power breakdown here was very bad. When the hurricane uprooted the trees they fell across the wires and poles, and down they came. The power failed at 11:30 in the morning and was not restored until six hours later. Most of the surrounding territory will be without power and phones for several days. Just too much work to be done.

"When the power failed, it caught the Morning Journal and Evening News. There are only two in the lino type machines equipped with gas burners, and to these two they hooked up small auxiliary gasoline engines and set the type for the circular I am enclosing.

"A power failure means that you cannot cook the steak on the electric stove; the food in your refrigerator spoils; you have no radio; there was no radio—the stations went dead, too; if you had an electric pump for water—on the outskirts they have—you had no water; there were no traffic lights; a chicken hatchery lost all the eggs, and was flooded in the bargain. But, Professor, do not forget: Florida—the land of sand and sunshine.

"My best to you and yours, and Mr. and Mrs. Lenzner."

TWO WERE FINED FOR DISORDERLY CONDUCT

Max Vining of Marlette and Frank Preba of Ubyly were lodged in the Tuscola County jail Saturday night on charges of disorderly conduct, according to Chief of Police Steve Orto.

They were released Monday morning after being fined $22.50 each by Justice Frank St. Marys. Orto said they were fighting and causing a disturbance on West Main Street Saturday evening.

Too Much Sun

Suntan is appealing, but sunburn is a peeling—plus a lot of discomfort. Too much sun actually can be dangerous, so take the sun in easy doses.

Salads

Only top-quality fruits and vegetables should be selected for use in salads, because they offer both eye and taste appeal as well as high nourishment value.

Not Cat's Whisker

Some brushes used by artists for portrait work and other delicate paintings are made from one rat whisker.

Left-Overs

Left-over bits of cooked meats or poultry may be used to season scalloped potatoes, macaroni, soups, salads, or sandwich spreads.

Are you going to elect that

Who is that "heel"?
He's just the man who can be elected to the job he's campaigning for, Not by votes, But by lack of votes —lack of votes from the people who feel he's a heel, but who don't feel it strongly enough to get up ten minutes earlier on election day to cast their votes against the "rascal" they don't want, for the man they do want. Remember, the non-voter always votes wrong!

Did you ever figure out this elementary voting arithmetic?

Wrong man gets	20,000 votes
Right man gets	15,000 votes
Wrong man wins by	5,000 votes

But if 10,000 non-voters had voted it might have been this way:

Wrong man gets	20,000 votes
Right man gets	25,000 votes
Right man wins by	5,000 votes

One vote doesn't seem to speak with a very loud voice. Band a thousand of them together and they make a noise that can cause a candidate to shiver in his boots.

These Marks are Legal

These Spoil Your Ballot

In each case a cross has been used, and the intersection of the lines of the cross is inside the circle or square.

Note—If a voting machine is used in your polling place, remember, it is completely reliable and enables you to split your ticket in any manner desired.

Top 3 ballots are invalid because crosses were not used.
Bottom 3 ballots are void because the lines of the cross do not intersect within the square.

OTTO HAZARD

I CAN STOP ON A DIME, THE SHOWOFFS RANT BUT IT COSTS FAR MORE TO PROVE THEY CAN'T!

Soft Water Ration Ups Milk Production Fifty Percent Increase Shown From Experiments

The effects of soft water on milk production of cows was reported at a recent meeting of the Sheboygan County Holstein Breeders association meeting at Plymouth, Wis. Milk production of two test cows increased up to 50 percent when cows were switched from hard water to a soft water ration. One animal, a high production Holstein-Friesian, had never exceeded an 80-pound daily production un-

E. J. Culligan is shown above with one of the animals used in his aerated soft water ration test. The animal increased milk production as much as 50 percent when switched from hard water.

It fed soft water. The animal, Sethe Della Forbes (Reg. No. 2,258-827) increased milk flow to 121 pounds, 50 percent greater than her previous high. Previous records show that this same cow produced an average of 55.8 pounds of milk per day for three months following the birth of her first calf in 1948. After the second calf the following year her average was 58.6 pounds, and then the average was 55.7 and 72.1 pounds after the birth of succeeding calves. Thirty days before this cow was to have her fifth calf she was given aerated soft water to drink in place of the 19 grain hard water previously supplied. Her average production jumped to 102.7 pounds for the 90-day period following the calving. The experiment was conducted by E. J. Culligan of Northbrook, Ill.

Marketing Quotas Will Not Be Imposed on Wheat

The announcement of Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan that no marketing quotas will be proclaimed for the 1951 wheat crop is the result of compliance among most wheat growers throughout the wheat area with their 1950 acreage allotments, many wheat growers believe. In making the announcement of no 1951 marketing quotas, Brannan said, "If wheat growers in general plant within their 1951 crop acreage allotments, as they did for the 1950 crop, it may be possible to continue to avoid marketing quotas in the future." The estimated total supply of wheat for the 1950-51 marketing year is 1,995 million bushels, or about 18 percent more than the normal supply of 1,778 million bushels.

Bumpless Farm Wagon

Something new in farm wagons is one that takes the bumps out of hayrides, which is not so good. But to the farmer, it means carrying 8000 pounds without weaving, pitching or tossing troubles. The picture above shows the way front and rear axles can tilt independently without disturbing balance.

Ultra High Sound Waves Knock Off Borer Moth

Scientists at the U.S. department of agriculture research center at Beltsville, Md., have found that ultra high frequency sound waves, which can't be heard by humans, will knock off the corn borer moth. They also work on mosquitoes, and some bacteria in milk can be destroyed by sound waves. Now scientists are busy bombarding hybrid seed corn to see if they speed up germination.

Carlton Buehrly on Wedding Tour in East

Mrs. Carlton E. Buehrly.

In the presence of a large number of friends and relatives, Miss Carolyn Irene Satory became the bride of Carlton Edward Buehrly Saturday afternoon, Oct. 28, at four o'clock in the Evangelical United Brethren Church here. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. S. R. Wurtz, pastor of the church, before the altar decorated with lighted candelabra, palms and tall baskets of white chrysanthemums.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Deines of Sandusky and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Buehrly of Cass City.

While the ushers, James Wallace and Ed Karr, were seating the guests, Mrs. Don Borg rendered wedding music on the piano and accompanied Mr. Borg when he sang, "Because," "If I Could Tell You" and "The Lord's Prayer" during the service. She also played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in antique lace over nylon net with long lace train, wrist-length sleeves and finger-tip veil. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid.

The floor-length dresses of the bride's three attendants were of heavy slipper satin, trimmed with cream lace and made with hoop skirts. Miss Lois Chisholm of Sandusky, as maid of honor, was in heather rose and the two bridesmaids, Mrs. Francis Satory and Mrs. Rudolph Satory, of Detroit, sisters-in-law of the bride, were in medium green. Little three-year-old Judy Satory, the bride's niece, was the flower girl and wore a long white dress.

The mother of the groom was attired in hunter's green crepe and the bride's mother in taupe crepe. Orchid corsages were fastened to their shoulders and their accessories were in black.

Don Karr of Cass City performed the duties of best man. The groom's other attendants were Francis Satory and Rudolph Satory, brothers of the bride, both of Detroit.

A wedding dinner was served in the Juhl Community Church near Mariette at eight o'clock at which 80 guests were present. At nine o'clock a reception was held at the Juhl Hall which was attended by 150.

Guests from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Fred Gilbert of Bad Axe; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Gardner and Mrs. A. C. Dayton and sons, David and Danny, all of Plymouth; and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schreiber of Port Huron.

Following the reception, the newly married young couple left on a honeymoon trip to Ohio and through the East.

Mr. Buehrly is the head herdsman on the A. P. Jensen Hereford Farms near Mariette and his bride is secretary to Mr. Jensen. They will reside in a new residence which is in readiness for them on the Jensen farms.

The groom's parents entertained the wedding party at a rehearsal dinner Friday evening at which 18 guests were present.

Yocco, Amazon Jungle Vine, Delays Hunger and Fatigue

A non-intoxicating drink which delays both fatigue and hunger for hours is yocco. It is obtained from the bark of a jungle vine which is fairly widely distributed through Amazon jungles, but its use is restricted to a few small Indian tribes of southeastern Colombia.

Authenticated specimens of this vine have been received by the national herbarium of the Smithsonian institution from Dr. Richard E. Schultes, department of agriculture plant explorer, together with specimens of hundreds of other species from this remote section, which up to now has been almost unknown to botanists.

By far the most interesting of all is yocco. Some of its effects seem little short of miraculous. Says Dr. Schultes: "It is the general custom of the Indians to eat nothing until noon. Instead, yocco is taken each morning between five and six o'clock. One or two jacaras (cups), each half full of the beverage, are sufficient to allay all sensations of hunger for at least three hours and supply muscular stimulation. I have tried yocco on many occasions and find the statements of the natives regarding the stimulating and hunger-alleviating properties are not in the least exaggerated. A tingling of the fingers and a general feeling of well being are noticeable 10 minutes after drinking. I have made long trips through the forests and, taking nothing but yocco, have felt neither fatigue nor hunger."

An earlier explorer whose notes are preserved at the national herbarium wrote: "I myself, as well as three students who accompanied me, have taken yocco on different occasions, and we were able to state that this happened in every detail. In a whole day of walking, 20 to 25 kilometers, not only have we felt no hunger but we have felt no fatigue."

Even heart disease, which has been increasing in recent years, showed a lower death rate last year. New low rates were reported for tuberculosis, respiratory diseases and accidents.

Death rate was 311.4 per 100,000. It was 625.1 the year before and 668.8 in 1942.

Deaths from the chief cardiovascular-renal diseases, commonly classed as heart disease, accounted for more than half of the deaths among ordinary life policyholders, with a death rate of 317.1, compared with 327.9 the year before.

Cancer was second most important cause of death, with a rate of 98.4, compared with 98.7 the year before.

The tuberculosis '49 death rate of 10.2 was about half the '42 rate and but a small fraction of what it was 35 years ago. Respiratory disease deaths have been so reduced that influenza, for instance, accounted for nine-hundredths of one per cent of the '49 deaths.

Best Health Year Reached By Life Policy Holders

Life insurance policyholders had a record health year in 1949, the death rate per 100,000 reaching a new low of 701. This compared with 709 the year before and an average of 1,000 for the years 1915-20.

Deaths from the chief cardiovascular-renal diseases, commonly classed as heart disease, accounted for more than half of the deaths among ordinary life policyholders, with a death rate of 317.1, compared with 327.9 the year before.

Cattle Bloat Danger

Bloating may occur in cattle and sheep at any time of the year, but the danger is greatest early in the spring pasture season. The condition results from excessive accumulation of gas in the rumen coupled with failure of the animal to belch. Most cases follow heavy grazing on legumes, the reason being that legumes are soft and do not stimulate belching as grasses and other fibrous feeds do. Keeping animals off legume pastures until these crops have reached the bloom stage is one way to prevent bloat. If this is not practical, the next best thing is to give a substantial feeding of good grass hay prior to turning them out and to keep some extra hay before them on the pasture.

Grand Teton Park

The Grand Teton national park occupies the most scenic part of the spectacular Teton range. It was established in 1926. About 27 miles long, it is a show place of glaciers, rushing streams, and green forests; of deep canyons and towering mountains that reach a peak in Grand Teton, more than 13,700 feet high. The long, flat-bottomed valley of Jackson Hole, paralleling Teton range, is completely surrounded by mountains; hence its name. It was set aside as a national monument, by presidential proclamation in 1943.

Luminous Finishes Safeguard

Luminous baked finishes are now applied to a variety of metal articles during the process of manufacturing. Such items as door and drawer hardware, electric switch and outlet plates, escutcheons, clock dials and cases increase safety in the home because of their visibility in the dark. Metal toys that glow are not only more appealing to children, but can also be seen instead of stepped on in the dark. Luminous exit signs, directional markers and fire extinguishers in public places help save lives in time of emergency.

11,915 Persons Have Over Million Dollars, Report

WASHINGTON — According to government sources and compilers of mailing lists, there are 11,915 millionaires in the United States, and American business in 1949 paid at least 51 executives $200,000 or more a year.

Many argue that it is getting more difficult all the time to make a fortune, but the fact remains that each year since the end of World War II at least 75 more Americans amassed that universally coveted first million.

There are, according to available figures, 306 more millionaires today than there were in 1948. Which means that one American out of every 12,500 or so has a cool million.

According to one of the largest list compiling agencies, there are now 22,307 persons in this country worth between $500,000 and a million; 52,118 have between $250,000 and half a million; 130,439 have between $100,000 and a quarter of a million, and, all told, some 589,141 Americans could rustle up $50,000 or more.

American business paid 180 executives between $100,000 and $200,000 last year in addition to those who received $200,000 or more. The highest was $388,000 in salary, bonus and stock paid to the president of General Motors.

The president of GM was taxed $430,350 of his $586,000 by the federal government.

But getting back to the wealthy persons in the United States, according to reports there are 2,560 millionaires in New York, Pennsylvania is second with 1,128. Ohio boasts 802 and Massachusetts' 775. Illinois comes fifth with 715, ahead of the 610 officially residing in California.

"Now is the time for all good men to..." Election time is here again, finally pushing war news off front pages in Michigan. gubernatorial candidates are slugging it out toe to toe.

Kelly makes not-so-subtle remarks about Socialism and Communism and the Democrats. Williams continues to foresee a "lobbyists' government" and more consumer taxes if Kelly wins. These are but a few of the charges—but those most repeated.

Both are being careful not to follow Dewey's lead, and are campaigning right up until the polls are closed. The odds? No two persons agree—but our guess is that the outcome will be close; that Governor Williams has the best chance of any Democratic nominee in more than a decade to win re-election. The reasons are not hard to find: Population trends continue to favor urban industrial centers where labor unions are the strongest; the C. I. O. and the Americans for Democratic Action—the A. D. A.—now control the Michigan Democratic party, proof of their remarkable strength. Williams' large primary vote, although he was unopposed, demonstrated his popularity with Detroit liberals.

Tens of thousands of war workers flocked to Michigan during World War II from the Democratic South to work in our booming industrial plants. Thousands of them remained in Michigan's big cities. This migration is again being repeated at the eve of the new rearmament orders from Washington. Many ready-made Democrats from the South have been added to Michigan poll lists—new votes for Governor Williams.

rather than on the sad state of affairs that would face the people if they elect his opponent.

The smaller ballot issues go unannounced. There are four constitutional amendments also on the ballot. They are:
Proposal No. 1—Would require registration in cities and townships by voters 30 days before election. Now it is 20 days. Election boards have complained that 20 days is too little time to compile their lists.
Proposal No. 2—Would allow the state to float a $65,000,000 bond issue to expand mental hospitals. Some $5,000,000 would go to aid the T. B. program. Would add $3,000 beds to state hospitals.
Proposal No. 3—Defines subversion and makes any acts therein a crime against the state. May be the closest vote of the four amendments.
Proposal No. 4—Would repeal the 49-year-old ban on yellow margarine sales in the state. Has been the most heated argument of the four since it affects more persons.

Observers predict the rip-roaring campaigns of both parties will draw a record off-year election vote. Everyone is pushing the "get out and vote" slogan. Perhaps they will. It will take a lot of Republican votes upstate to offset the Democratic margin in populous Detroit and Wayne county.

Many voters feel as one columnist stated: "It would be refreshing if sometimes a candidate would campaign for what he actually believes he could accomplish if elected governor being used for experimental work. And at the same time the steel industry is considering a rise in the price of steel—basic to a multitude of things used by everyone every day.

Hunting season still interests every sportsman in Michigan—and safety committees as well. They are warning hunters not to get lax now that the season is well under way and are reminding the youngsters of their responsibilities in handling firearms.

Conservation department officials are holding their breath as the forest fire frequency in the state continues low, despite drying weather and the number of hunters in the field.

Be sure to vote on Nov. 7. Your ballot is vital.

Miner's Glasses Take 1,000 Mile Journey
LONDON, Eng. — Alfred Thompson's spectacles went on a 1,000 mile journey, but came back, much to his relief. The glasses started their journey when he placed them in their case and set the case down on a halted conveyor belt at a colliery in Ashington, England. No sooner had he put the case on the belt than the conveyor started to move. The belt dropped the glasses into a tub, which in turn was emptied into a railway car, which was moved to Blyth to be unloaded into a collier. Then the ship set sail for the Isle of Wight. Dock workers there found the case with the glasses unbroken and Mr. Thompson's address inside. They sent them back to him.

New Zealand Hermit Has Perfect Atomic Hideout
DUNEDIN, N. Z. — Comes the revolution, or an atomic war, there is one human in this world who has an excellent chance of survival. He is Jules Berg, a New Zealand hermit, who has lived on Preservation Inlet, probably the least susceptible area on earth to radioactivity, for the past 25 years. Preservation Inlet is a fjord in the extreme southwest corner of New Zealand. A deep, narrow arm of the sea, it runs inland for about 20 miles between steep mountain walls which would tend to block radioactive clouds. Its dense rainfall would clear death-dealing matter out of the atmosphere. Fjord county covers more than 3,000 square miles and has a population of eight. The only feasible access to the inlet is by sea. Mr. Berg lives in the remote spot like a comfortable Robinson Crusoe. He has a cottage and extensive vegetable garden and gets fresh meat from a deer trap in the adjacent forest. He also has a gold mine which he works when he feels like it. As civilization provides little that he needs, however, he usually lets the gold stay where it is.

Teaneck Theater Manager Bans Teen-Agers From Show
TEANECK, N. J. — Al Harris, manager of Teaneck's only motion picture theater, issued an ultimatum. Teen-agers unaccompanied by adults would no longer be admitted. In the three weeks before the ban they set fire to the theater three times and countless other times he had to halt the movies and climb on to the stage to appeal for quiet. "I am reluctant to take steps of this nature," he said, "but under the circumstances I have no alternative. Teen-age groups attending this theater not only have been destructive but extremely boisterous, denying the adults a pleasurable evening."

Teaneck is the town selected last September by the army as a model community and, as such, was photographed for an exhibition of American democratic processes for use in the government's reeducation and reorientation program in occupied countries. The ban applied only to children between 14 and 18. Younger children, the manager said, caused no trouble.

Master Showman
Phineas T. Barnum got his first real start in show business by managing the affairs of a remarkable juggler who had an equally remarkable dislike for soap and water. The world's greatest showman and founder of the Barnum and Bailey Circus, was born July 1810.

Adult grasshoppers complicate control since many acres may become infested and adults are not so easily killed as nymphs.

hexachloride is especially useful when temperatures are high and most grasshoppers have reached the adult age.

Insecticides which give most effective control as sprays are chlordane, 1.0 to 1.5 pounds per acre; toxaphene, 1.5 to 2.0 pounds per acre; and parathion, 0.2 to 0.3 pound per acre of the actual insecticidal material. Most effective is obtained by spraying these on succulent plants when the nymphs have nearly all hatched and are feeding. As the season progresses, costs increase and control decreases.

The bulletin warned care should be taken to prevent livestock from feeding on plants that have been treated with any of these chemicals. The operator applying them should avoid contact with them to as great an extent as possible. The use of masks and gloves is cheap insurance.

Buying Feeder Pigs May Prove More Profitable

Hog raisers in the future may find it easier and more profitable to sell their sows and buy feeder pigs already weaned, wormed, castrated, deloused, vaccinated, and started on feed.

This is the long-range program of a Wisconsin farmer whose "pig hatchery" output cannot meet the demand of a long list of customers.

The Weix farm in Dane County, Wisconsin, produces a special kind of healthy, well-started weaning pig. According to hog farmers and livestock authorities at the Chicago market, this system has many advantages—among them saving of time in search of good boars and sows and their year-around maintenance. This eliminates time, work and risk in raising pigs from farrowing to weaning. It means cutting down on expensive housing and the elimination of guesswork about the kind of pigs that will result in the use of each new boar.

Unloading Corn

Place Boards Here

When a wagon box is full of corn it is not necessary to pick part of the load off before the balance can be shovelled. When loading the wagon start at the rear and when the box is partly filled put in a board at an angle, as shown in the illustration. When the wagon is being unloaded start shovelling down the board. It will not be necessary to either take out the end gate, or pick any of the corn off. The idea saves much time and labor.

Farmers Rent Majority Of Frozen Food Lockers

Eighty-nine of the 100 frozen food locker plants active in North Carolina in 1948 started business operations during the four preceding years.

About three-fourths of all lockers were rented to farmers; there was little difficulty in renting lockers; plants in operation had 95 percent of available space rented; and two-thirds of them were rented to capacity, a survey showed.

8-FOOT FIELD CULTIVATOR

FINGER-TIP CONTROL

Matches WD Tractor Power

Here's an outfit that's hard to beat for renovating pastures, alfalfa and lespedeza stands, for killing grass and weeds, and for tilling summer fallow land . . . in addition to seedbed preparation.

This 8-foot field cultivator is automatically controlled by the WD Tractor hydraulic system—finger-tip depth control. Wheel spacing—easily adjusted with engine power—permits setting of wheels for stability and even penetration on rough or rolling land; reduces "gouging" and "scratching."

Compact design simplifies work in corners, small areas and right up to fence lines. Heavy-duty, all-steel construction.

Now you can have a field cultivator that is designed and built for modern tractor power. Stop in and see it.

Lemon-Ade

George Ade had finished his after-dinner speech at a gathering of notables, and when he had seated himself a well-known lawyer who was also an amateur wit, rose, shoved his hands deep into his trousers' pockets, as was his habit and laughingly inquired of those present:

"Doesn't it strike the company as a little unusual that a professional humorist should be funny?" When the laugh had subsided, Ade drawled out:

"Doesn't it strike the company as a little unusual that a lawyer should have his hands in his own pockets?"

American Mountains Favored As Number 1 Vacation Lure

Uncle Sam's national park system expects to play host to 13 million tourists this season. That is to say, one out of every dozen Americans.

Most popular of the scenic attractions offered are the mountain reservations which alone look for almost eight million sight-seers. Judging by 1949 records, more than a million visitors will journey through the Great Smoky and Shenandoah sections of the Appalachian mountain chain, while Acadia national park in Maine will draw about a half million to enjoy the rugged granite beauty of Mount Desert island.

For the rest of the mountain vacationers it will be westward ho. The big drawing cards there, in order of popularity, are the national parks of Rocky mountain, Colorado; Yellowstone in Wyoming, Montana and Idaho; Mount Rainier, Washington; Yosemite, California; Glacier, Montana; Lassen Volcanic, California; Grand Teton, Wyoming, and Big Bend, Texas. Official figures disclose, however, that the mountains have not always been as popular as they are now. During horse-and-buggy days of the century's first decade, the American people seemed to prefer the milder attractions of such spas as Hot Springs, Arkansas, and Platt national park in southern Oklahoma.

The reputed medicinal value of the government-controlled Hot Springs waters draw more visitors than all the national parks combined in 1910. But, as President Taft pointed out at the time, Yellowstone national park was then the only park among the nation's many "wondrous manifestations of nature"—that was adequately prepared to accommodate the public.

Natural Childbirth Methods Questioned by Doctors

The belief that primitive women had less pain and difficulty in childbirth than do modern women is a "myth."

Doctors have questioned that some procedures of "natural" childbirth are compatible with the best interest of either mother or child. Extravagant claims have been made recently which suggest that labor really is not painful or that it is painful but that the pain is psychologically necessary for the mother.

Some persons may hold both views, although they seem to be mutually contradictory. There are no factual data to support these notions.

There is a current myth which states that primitive women have babies with greater ease and less pain than do modern women. Examination of the anthropologic literature (natural history of mankind) shows that there is absolutely no factual basis for this notion. There are no data which suggest that pain during labor is an artificial product of culture and civilization.

During the past two decades, the maternal mortality rate in this country has become one fifth of that observed at the beginning of this period. Modern obstetrics has participated in many recent advances, such as chemotherapy (principally use of the sulfa and antibiotic drugs) and blood transfusions, which are based on scientific facts and have definitely been important in the improved care of mother and child.

Finds Ancient Skeleton

The skeleton of an ancient Aleutian woman, excavated by an army air forces chaplain on the island of Architka, Aleutian islands, has been presented to the Pennsylvania state college. Capt. Cecil C. Cowder, of Bigler, Pa., said he excavated the skeleton while he was stationed at Sherya air force base. The body had been buried in an ancient "kitchen midden," a refuse heap, at a depth of five feet. With it were a large number of bone harpoons, several bone fish hook shanks, stone blades, a bird, a fish, and numerous pieces of hard bone and rough stone which probably were intended for use in the future life. The harpoons had been deliberately broken and then placed carefully on top of the body.

When Cats Were Guarded

Cats, valuable mousers from time immemorial, had a ceiling price in Wales during the 16th century. The price list was issued by the Welsh king, Howell the Good. It provided that a newborn kitten rated one penny, an inexperienced one, two pence, and a cat with a mouse already to its credit, fourpence. The cats that guarded the royal granary were especially protected. Anyone convicted of killing a feline rat catcher, had to pay a fine of a ewe sheep with her lamb and fleeces.

Limit Opium Production

The world's four principal opium-producing countries—India, Iran, Turkey, and Yugoslavia—recently agreed to limit their opium production to the quantity required for medical and scientific purposes only. It was recommended that opium production should be made a monopoly of the governments and that an international selling and purchasing agency be created which would deal only with government monopolies.

SHORT STORY

Detective Peters

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

ORION DIDN'T look like a detective. He realized this for a fact when the girl with the chestnut brown hair came up and spoke to him.

"You're Orion Peters, aren't you? Mrs. Keith told me. I'm June Ingalls. It's going to be a gorgeous wedding, don't you think? Have you seen the swimming pool yet?"

Orion knew at once because of her easy informality she had mistaken him for one of the guests. And suddenly he decided to go on with the game.

"Hello," he said cheerfully. "It's nice to see you again. No, I haven't seen the pool. Is it new? Shall we go look at it together?"

They went and looked at it. In fact they swam in it. They stayed near the pool for almost two hours. At the end of that time Orion came to two decisions. First, he decided that the girl was the loveliest, most beautiful creature he'd ever known. Second, he decided he was a fool. At first this business of pretending to be a guest smacked of a lark. Now it was different. He was falling in love.

He went back to his room and changed into his tux. He'd have to go down and keep his eyes on things and avoid June Ingalls, if he could.

He took up a station within observation distance of the table where the gifts were placed and acted as much like a guest as he knew how. June was not among the crowd that milled around the living room. He was convincing himself that he was glad of this, when a feminine voice behind him said:

"Why, Mr. Peters, you're standing here like a statue. I mean, shouldn't we dance, or something?"

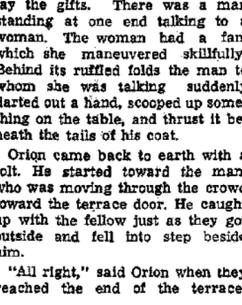

"I'm dreadfully sorry," he said. "I hurt my ankle in the pool this afternoon. I'm afraid dancing's out for me."

"Oh, how wretched! Is there anything I can do? I mean, oughtn't you to see a doctor, or something?"

JUST THEN Orion's desperate glance fell on the table where lay the gifts. There was a man standing at one end talking to a woman. The woman had a fan, which she maneuvered skillfully. Behind it ruffled folds the man to whom she was talking suddenly darted out a hand, scooped up something on the table, and thrust it beneath the tails of his coat.

Orion came back to earth with a jolt. He started toward the man, who was moving through the crowd toward the terrace door. He caught up with the fellow just as they got outside and fell into step beside him.

"All right," said Orion when they reached the end of the terrace.

Orion decided that the girl was the loveliest, most beautiful creature he'd ever known.

"Take it easy and you won't get hurt. You're under arrest."

The man looked at him quickly. Orion didn't have time to lift his arms in defense. Something struck him a terrible blow on the head. He swayed, caught himself, glimpsed the thief racing down the steps.

Orion anticipated the direction of the man he was chasing by leaping the fish pond and making a flying tackle at the fellow's legs. They went down in a heap.

When he opened his eyes there was a crowd of people around. He heard snatches of conversation and guessed that the thief had been captured and everybody thought that he, Orion, was quite a hero. Then he knew that his head was pillowed on something soft. He saw a face bending over him.

"Well, that settles it, I guess," he grinned. "Now you know. But I'm not really a detective. I go to law school nights and detect days and week-ends."

"It doesn't make a particle of difference," June told him. "I'm Mrs. Keith's secretary. She asked me to see that you were looked out for. Can I help it if you thought I was a guest? And now that you know the truth, I suppose you don't like me any more?"

"Suppose," said Orion, "you let me ask a question."

She agreed and he asked it and she blushed as she said, "yes."

Summary of Arguments on 'No' Vote on Proposal 4

To decide how to cast your vote on Proposal 4, line up the advantages of yellow oleo on one side and the disadvantages on the other and then weigh them carefully to see which will have the greatest effect on you as a citizen of Michigan.

This is the advice of the Dairy Action League of Michigan, which is spearheading the drive for a "No" vote on Proposal 4.

The only advantage offered by yellow oleo, the Dairy Action League points out, is that it will look like butter. The only ones who will really benefit from this advantage are the oleo manufacturers who can charge a higher price for their product if it is colored yellow.

There can be no doubt that the price of yellow oleo will be raised those in favor of a "No" vote declare, since that is the only way in which oleo manufacturers can recoup the huge sums of money they poured into Michigan for the campaign. The size of these campaign expenditures by out-of-state oleo manufacturers were recently brought to public attention by State Representative Alpheus Decker who called for an investigation of them at the next session of the Legislature.

The only question involved in Proposal 4 is one of color—a single color, yellow, the Dairy Action League points out. There are no taxes or license fees whatsoever involved because there have never been any state taxes on oleo in Michigan. In addition, the claim by the out-of-state oleo monopoly that a yellow oleo in Michigan will eliminate the mixing bowl is extremely misleading because the oleo manufacturers have themselves already eliminated the mixing bowl by introducing the color squeeze bag. This bag, oleo manufacturers advertise, allows the consumer to color oleo at home in "a few seconds."

In contrast to yellow oleo's one advantage of looking like butter, opponents of the yellow imitation dairy product explain that experience in other states which now allow yellow oleo shows an immediate disadvantage which hits the consumer's pocketbook in two ways: First, the price of yellow oleo rises and then the price of milk rises.

Yellow oleo prices in some cities have shot up as high as 57 cents a pound, they point out. On top of this, white oleo, the "poor man's spread," is taken off the market so the public is forced to buy the higher priced yellow product.

The increase in milk prices results from a scarcity of milk due to dairy farms being forced out of business because of loss of their butter markets. An example of how this can happen can be found in Canada right now. Canada legalized yellow oleo a year ago and as a result the Ministers of Agriculture are currently faced with a shortage of milk in many major cities this coming winter.

The prospect of eventual economic damage to every citizen is an even more serious disadvantage than higher oleo prices and higher milk prices, the Dairy Action League explains. There are 132,000 dairy farms in the state—each a small business which had an average gross income of only about $2,000 last year. Loss of their butter market to an out-of-state, big business monopoly would be disastrous to small business enterprises like these. If any of them fail, it will ultimately affect all the other people in the state's dairy business and there are some 600,000 such people. Actually, one out of every six families in Michigan is dependent on the dairy business for all or a portion of its income.

If the purchasing power of all these people is sharply reduced through loss of a market for butter, it will mean that they must buy less goods of all kinds from the merchants and manufacturers of the state. The final result will be that the merchants and manufacturers and all their employees will have their purchasing power cut because they are selling less and eventually the prosperity of every Michigan citizen will be affected.

After studying the one advantage and the many disadvantages of yellow oleo, all far-sighted citizens of Michigan will vote "No" on Proposal 4 and ask all their friends to vote "No" too, the Dairy Action League spokesmen declare.

There is, incidentally, no opposition to white oleo in Michigan. Farm organizations, women's groups, consumer groups, civic organizations and others who are against yellow oleo do not oppose the white product or the practice of coloring it at home. Their only opposition is directed at the commercially colored oleo which they feel is nothing more than an attempt by a big business monopoly to increase its profits by fooling the public with an imitation product made to resemble the original product so closely that the two cannot be told apart.

While any declaration on Proposal 4 has been adroitly sidestepped by most major political candidates, a number of prominent Michigan citizens have voiced their opposition to yellow oleo in strong terms. State Representative Alpheus Decker of Deckerville has called for a legislative investigation of the vast sums of money spent by the out-of-state oleo monopoly to influence Michigan citizens on this question.

W. G. Armstrong, Master of the Michigan Grange, said that "Michigan's Imitation Butter Law" as it now stands is not a discriminatory law but a protective one."

Ernest L. Anthony, Dean of the College of Agriculture of Michigan State College, called for a "No" vote on Proposal 4 because "the real and most important issue is whether the vegetable fats used in oleo, and produced outside this state largely in the Cotton South, are to be allowed to replace the animal fats such as butterfat as now produced by our Michigan farmers."

C. L. Brody, Executive Secretary of the Michigan Farm Bureau, has urged a "No" vote on Proposal 4 because it's an issue involving the future of a $2,375,000 investment in dairy cows, barns and other facilities.

Remote Ranch Is 'Whodunit' Fiction Plant

TEMECULA, CALIF. — The remote, wilderness ranch of Earle Stanley Gardner, famed creator of fiction's lawyer-detective Perry Mason, is literally a fiction factory where Gardner and a battery of secretaries turn out whodunits almost as fast as avid fans can consume them.

The 60-year old Gardner is reputed by Publisher's Survey to be the world's most widely read author. His books have sold over 40 million copies, exclusive of translations in 13 languages. He has written 65 novels and 63 of them have been published. Since he usually has at least two in process, these figures are subject to change overnight.

Gardner's Rancho del Paisano sprawls at the foot of a mountain range. Its dozen buildings shaded by mountain oaks. In the distance, snowy peaks arise from the vast, semi-arid expanse of Riverside county's cattle country.

The nearest telephone is in the hamlet of Temecula, eight miles away. Telegrams wind up at Esplanade, 27 miles distant, to be relayed by phone to a tiny roadside cafe in Temecula. A waitress takes them down with a pencil and ruled tablet and an Indian runs them out to the Gardner ranch—if an Indian happens to be around.

Center of Activity

The mail, only direct means of communication, arrives at 11 a.m. and goes out at 1 p.m. Despite its sleepy setting, the ranch is a center of furious activity all day long, but in this two hour period the pace really becomes frantic. Guests are politely shunted aside while Gardner dictates at top speed those tales that can't wait.

So heavy is his correspondence that the little Temecula post office has been advanced two grades in the official postal hierarchy.

Gardner is a sturdy, hearty man of intense energy and remarkable mental agility. He can, and does, work on two novels, a radio script, a couple of short stories, an article and "The Court of Last Resort" all in the same day. The "court" is a current project in which Gardner and associated criminologists investigate cases of men convicted on circumstantial or incomplete evidence. Three men have been released from life imprisonment as a result of the "court" activity.

Was Lawyer 20 Years

For nearly 20 years Gardner was an attorney in Oxnard and Ventura, Calif., until practicing law by day and writing by night became too arduous. He sold the first two Perry Mason novels, "The Case of the Velvet Claws" and "The Case of the Sultry Girl," in 1933. The first was written in three and a half days.

Thereafter new Perry Masons issued steadily, at least one a year for several years. Later he averaged four a year. Besides the Mason stories, Gardner writes the "D.A." series and, under the name of A. A. Fair, the Bertha Cool and Donald Lam mysteries.

Co-Eds Are Given Hint To Let Men Do Chasing

MADISON, WIS.—A visiting sociology professor gave University of Wisconsin students some pointers for choosing husbands and wives. The speaker was Dr. Judson Landis, sociology professor at Michigan State college. He spoke in the "major in marriage" lecture series sponsored by the YMCA and YWCA.

Landis said that "it" was not nearly so important a criterion as most students supposed, but he admitted that he couldn't define "it." "You all know what I mean," he said.

The professor advised the coeds to let the man do the pursuing, and told the men students to "be careful of career women."

He suggested that parental approval, similarity of religion and outlook, adjustability and emotional maturity were sound basis for happy marriages.

Chamber of Commerce Man Has Own 'Leg' Problem

REYNOSA, MEXICO. — Roy Rendon probably worries more about U.S. women's legs than any man in Mexico.

Roy personally thinks they're all right but officially he's against them.

He's chamber of commerce manager of this lusty Mexican border town, through which yearly pass thousands of American women tourists.

The trouble comes because the Yankee girls like to let their hair down and wear shorts when they go into the sunny land of manana. In Reynosa, women in shorts don't attract any more attention than in Syracuse, N. Y. But in interior Mexico—for instance Monterrey—it's different.

Nice women don't wear shorts in Monterrey. Only the painted ones would think of it and they wouldn't dare.

But U. S. girls saunter the streets of Monterrey with lots of their anatomy showing.

Advertise it in the Chronicle.

Candlelight Satin Worn by Ugly Bride

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Gracey.

Red, yellow, pink and white dahlias decorated the altar of the St. John's Catholic Church in Ugly when the beautiful wedding, solemnized by Rev. Stanley Kilar, united in marriage, Genevieve Morell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Morell of Ugly, and Roland Gracey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Gracey of Cass City. About 300 relatives and friends witnessed the double ring ceremony.

As the bride approached the altar on the arm of her father, she was wearing a candlelight satin gown, which was styled with a Peter Pan collar and a tight-fitting bodice, which was completed with satin covered buttons down the front to the waistline. Tiers of lace ruffles which started at the padded neckline and led down the side and around the bottom, completed the long chapel train. She wore her sister's finger-tip veil which was held in place by a rhinestone coronet and carried a bouquet of white gardenias, fastened with satin streamers and long strands of pearls.

Bernice Morell was maid of honor for her sister. She was attired in a gown of rose beige satin, styled with a panel of lace ruffles down the front and around the bottom. A cape was worn over the shoulders. An old-fashioned bonnet which tied under the chin, and gloves completed the costume. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow bebe chrysanthemums.

Jean Peruski, cousin of the bride, wore yellow and Jannett Morell, also a cousin of the bride, was in green. Rosann Morell, niece of the bride, was dressed in blue, and Bernice Dropecki, friend of the bride in pink. Their gowns were styled identically as that of the maid of honor and they carried arm bouquets of white bebe chrysanthemums.

The bride presented the girls with tatted handkerchiefs, the same color as their dresses.

Richard Krug, friend of the groom, was best man. Other groomsmen were Harold Spatzel, Elmer Krubacki and Enoch Osen-toski.

Mrs. Wm. Deachin played the wedding march, and George Peruski sang "Ave Maria" and when the bride offered her bouquet to the Blessed Mother he sang "Mother at Thy Feet I'm Kneeling."

A reception and dinner was held at the St. John's Hall for about 600 guests. The bride's table was centered with a four-tiered square wedding cake, topped with a musical ornament of a miniature bride and groom and wedding bells which played "Here Comes the Bride." Candles and flowers completed the table decorations.

Both the bride's and groom's mothers wore dresses of aquamarine crepe with brown accessories. Their corsages were of pink carnations.

When Mr. and Mrs. Gracey left on a wedding trip to Canada, the bride was wearing a gray dress-maker suit, with green accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The bride is a graduate of Ugly High School and of Detroit Business School. The groom is a graduate of Ugly High School.

KEEP MICHIGAN PROSPEROUS

Butter is the foundation on which Michigan's two and one quarter billion dollar dairy industry is built. If the "butterleggers" undermine that foundation—the whole structure is in jeopardy.

Dairying is the state's greatest source of agricultural income and agriculture is Michigan's second largest industry.

Let us not expose that great industry to undermining by selfish out-state interests, whose only concern is making more money for themselves. If we allow yellow oleomargarine to invade the butter market it invites cheap imitations of other dairy products to follow suit.

Want to be free from that nervous tensing up for a jolt every time a rough spot looms in the road ahead?

Want to enjoy the relaxing feel of a sure-footed car beneath you, that stays level even when the road doesn't?

Well, sir, ease into a Buick and see how such matters are cared for.

See what a wonderful difference in level buoyancy coil springs can make when you have them on all four wheels, not just the front ones.

Note what firm and solid steadiness is yours when a full-length torque-tube drive is your keel—how smoothly you stay on course when the rear wheels can't help but run true.

See what big, low-pressure tires and Buick's wide rims can do to pillow your course without jounce or sway.

In other words, sample this two-

And while you're at it, get the very special thrill of its mighty Fireball power plant, plus the free-as-a-bird-in-flight bliss of its Dynaflo Drive.*

It's an experience that you owe yourself—and it's yours for the asking. The thing to do is get in touch with your Buick dealer—and discover the ride that only Buick owners know.

A Sleeper
A young lady sat next to a distinguished bishop at a church dinner. She was somewhat modest and diffident, and rather awed by the bishop's presence. For some time she hesitated to speak to him, waiting for what she considered a favorable opportunity. Finally, seeing some bananas passed, she turned to him and said:
"I beg your pardon, but are you fond of bananas?"
The bishop was slightly deaf, and leaning forward, asked:
"What did you say?"
"I said," repeated the young lady, blushing, "are you fond of bananas?"
The bishop thought a moment, and then said:
"If you want my honest opinion, I have always preferred the old-fashioned nightshirt."

Here lies the clay of Mitchell Coots, Whose feet yet occupy his boots. His soul has gone—we know not where. It landed, neither do we care. There's an old story that pays a left-handed compliment to a father. It was told by an Irish woman at a wake. She was bragging about her husband. She said, "Every Saturday night when Pat comes home from work, he always hands me his pay envelope."
Then she noticed a neighbor woman, who was in the group, wink to another. "Of course," the Irish woman added, "there is never anything in the envelope, but it's the principle of the thing that counts with me."

Michigan Voter:
PROTECT YOURSELF AND FAMILY!

1 PROTECT YOURSELF Against Imitation Butter

Your right to know—for sure—that there's BUTTER on the table—is threatened by a move to tamper with Michigan's long-standing imitation-BUTTER law. The present law is a GOOD law. It protects you—your family—and the family table. Especially, it also protects you when you "eat out."
Now, with a referendum vote on this subject on the ballot November 7, it's up to you. It's your job to protect yourself against imitation-BUTTER—to make sure you get the real thing. Vote "NO" on Proposal 4, November 7th.

2 PROTECT YOURSELF Against High Milk Prices

In case Michigan's present law—prohibiting substitutes colored yellow in imitation of BUTTER—is rendered ineffective in the November general election... thousands of Dairy Farms will be driven out of business. Milk will become scarcer... higher in price... as it has in other states which now allow imitation-BUTTER to be sold colored yellow. It is no accident that milk prices in cities in those states are 1 1/2 cents a quart higher than milk prices in states (including Michigan) which maintain a protective law against selling imitation-BUTTER colored yellow. Keep Michigan milk plentiful—reasonable in price. Vote "NO" on Proposal 4, November 7th.

3 PROTECT YOUR OWN and Michigan's Prosperity

WARNING: The first year Canada allowed substitutes to be colored yellow in imitation of BUTTER cost Dairy Farmers there 50 MILLION DOLLARS. That can happen in Michigan... where 600,000 people depend on Dairying for their livelihood... with an investment TWICE THAT OF THE ENTIRE WORLD OPERATIONS OF THE FORD MOTOR COMPANY! Reduce Michigan's income by many millions of dollars and you depress the market for all kinds of Michigan goods... besides irreparably damaging Michigan's soil and agriculture.
For your own sake... for your family's sake... for Michigan's sake... VOTE "NO"—on Proposal 4—general election, November 7th!

These facts are published by the Dairy Action League, 415 Hollister Building, Lansing, Mich., working with consumer, labor, farm and dairy groups in behalf of keeping Michigan's present and effective no-ice, butter-imitation law. It is financed by the 600,000 Michigan People dependent on dairying.

Dangerous Spot
A Yankee tourist was out sight-seeing in London. They took him aboard the old battleship Victory, which was Lord Nelson's flagship in several of his famous naval triumphs. An English sailor escorted the Yank over the vessel, and coming to a raised brass tablet on the deck, he said, as he reverently removed his hat:
"Ere, sir, is the spot where Lord Nelson fell."
"Oh, is it?" replied the American blankly. "Well, that ain't nothin'. I nearly tripped on the darned thing myself."

Quick Recovery

The hunter came running back to the others of the party. "Just met a big bear," he panted, breathlessly, pointing to the woods, "back there."

"Both barrels?" demanded the nitrod. "I gave him the whole gun!"

Nine ladies of the community met at the annex on Thursday to clean the dining room and kitchen. This was done and new curtains hung at the cleaned windows. At noon, six of the ladies enjoyed a potluck dinner. Even though the work was hard, they all had a good time and missed all the ones who were not there.

There were 13 out for youth meeting Sunday evening. Won't you join the group next Sunday at 7:30 as the monthly hymn sing will be at 8:15 to which all are welcome.

WOMAN'S WORLD Discarded Fabrics Potential Source of Decorative Effects

By Erta Haley FALL HOUSECLEANING and the shifting of summer clothes to closets along with the pulling out of fall and winter clothes is a job that usually yields a lot of materials that are a potential source of lovely decorative effects.

Don't view that pile of discarded heap of clothes, old sheets, bedspreads, tablecloths and curtains with dismay. Any piece of fabric that has enough material to stretch across the window or cover a lamp shade is fair game for beautifying the home, and with the greatest economy.

You'll have great pleasure with old fabrics, especially when you begin turning that old slip into a ruffled lampshade, the satin skirt from a formal into a swag for a dressing table, a cotton damask tablecloth into draperies, and an old drindl skirt into short window curtains.

No matter how much storage space you have available, there's no sense to stowing materials away every year, just dreaming that you'll use them at some future date. The time to put them to work is now, before fabrics accumulate too many years of wear or soil that becomes difficult to remove.

Make a check list of what spots in the home need brightening, then check what materials are available. It may be that you want to do over a whole room. Work out a new color scheme, dye the fabrics and start working.

Personalize your Bedroom With Drapes, Bedspread Bedrooms are an excellent place to start with a decorative plan because they're rooms having plenty of opportunities for expressing personality and originality. They also offer an excellent place where old materials can be put to use.

For example, if you have one or two quilted bed pads and a couple of sheets or large tablecloths, here's how they can be used to yield a spread and draperies. The pad can be dyed a dark color to be used with sheets or tablecloths dyed in a lighter color to harmonize with the pad.

The above plan is very effective carried out in turquoise and yellow, lime green and yellow, or wine and light gray if you have furniture in one of the period styles. Use the dyed pad as the cover for the bed, with the sheets or tablecloths shirred to the sides of the bed. You may also make a valance for windows from the pad, with the lighter material shirred to the sides.

Ruffled lampshades can be made from small lengths of old sheer curtains, net or Celanese from old formal gowns or any material which is light enough for the light to shine through. Gather a piece of the material long enough to cover the bottom of the shade. Sew it onto a length of ribbon to tie around the top of the frame. A one inch ruffle at bottom and top gives just the right amount of fluff.

Shades of Gray

Good to wear in an office, at club meetings, on campus or for dates is this three-toned gray wool jersey dress made for Junior sizes by a New York designer.

The Britisher, a visitor in the United States, was chatting with an American railroad worker at a depot in a fairly large Texas city. "I've heard," he said, "that you Americans do things pretty fast, but I haven't seen that proof."

"Oh, is that so?" replied the Texan. "Just you watch now." Suddenly the Englishman was startled by a commotion on the platform facing the tracks.

NO COOPERATIVE THIS! A Tory candidate during the recent English election was speaking when he was interrupted by a socialist in the audience with: "Why have we the finest generation of children ever known in this country?"
