Anna Meininger To Be Guest at Chicago Exposition

Michigan Bean Queen Will Be Honored at Livestock Show Sunday

Michigan's 1950 Bean Queen will be an honored guest at the forthcoming 51st International Livestock Exposition at Chicago, show officials have announced.

Her royal majesty and her court of five attendants will be present at the International Grain and Hay Show on Sunday, November 26, to participate in the crowning of the 1950 field bean champion at the big grain show.

Miss Anna Meininger of Gagetown was selected and crowned Michigan's 1950 Bean Queen at the annual Michigan bean festival held at Fairgrove last Labor Day. Miss Meininger was the Tuscola County winner.

The other five county queens are: Sanilac County, Edna Barker; St. Clair County, JoAnn Ward; Saginaw County, Lillian McVanel; Bay County, Mary Ann Adler;

Miss Anna Meininger.

and Midland County, Betty Yarnell.

These queens were chosen from a group of candidates on the county level during the month of August at the respective county fairs. To be eligible for the competition each had to be a farmer's daughter, single, and between the ages of 17 and 25. Local farm organizations sponsored individual contestants in each county.

The queen and her court will be accompanied to Chicago by Loren S. Armbruster, Tuscola County agricultural agent; Miss Jean Gillies, county home demonstration agent; and Mrs. Lucille Hickey, county 4-H Club leader.

According to USDA figures, the eight major bean producing counties in Michigan's Saginaw Valley area annually grow approximately 400,000 acres of the white pea bean variety which produces about five million bags of the nation's beans a year.

Grain show officials report that they have received entries for the field bean contest from several states and three Canadian provinces. At last year's show a Michigan crop grower, August Kiehl & Son, of Harbor Beach, was the field bean champion.

The International Livestock Exposition is scheduled for November 25 through December 2 in the International Amphitheatre at the Chicago Stock Yards.

"Who's Who among Students in American Universities and Colleges" has approved the selection of 28 students from Central Michigan College of Education, Mt. Pleasant, announced Dr. David M. Trout, dean of students. Students and faculty went to the polls two weeks ago to elect the 19 seniors and nine juniors to be honored. Only upperclassmen are eligible for election and approved to "Who's Who."

Among the juniors whose names will appear in the 1950-1951 edition, Elsie Rawson is included. Miss Rawson is secretary of the Sigma Phi Omicron Sorority, a member of the Alchemist and Home Economics Clubs and at the present time representing Central in intercollegiate debate.

Farm Bureau Drive Plans Are All Set For Tuscola County

Roll call manager, Kenneth L. Baur, reports the plans for Farm Bureau drive are all set.

The week of December 4 through 9, 6,000 farmers in 62 counties and over 900 townships will take to the highways in an effort to invite every farmer to join in the largest farm organization in the world to develop a voice in agriculture.

Mr. Baur said that last year's membership in Tuscola County was 1998 and the goal for next year 1951 is 1233.

Mr. Baur also reported that the Tuscola County kickoff meeting is set for Saturday night, Dec. 2, at Caro High School with Adolph Ecklund, manager of Farm Bureau fertilizer plant, Saginaw, as kick-off speaker.

On Monday, Dec. 4, 200 Tuscola County Farm Bureau workers will take to highways to invite the 2500 active farmers in the county to join the society.

The Michigan Farm Bureau operates under a representative form of government from the community group through the county, state and national organizations, says Henderson Graham, president of the Tuscola County Farm Bureau.

This plan, said Mr. Graham, insures the establishment of Farm Bureau policies by the membership, and the election of directors to whom the administration and employees of the Farm Bureau are responsible. Mr. Graham also explained how members control the organization.

Gifts for Veterans' Families Distributed At Fort Custer

Mrs. Arthur Kelley had an interesting experience Monday when she went with others from the seventh district to Fort Custer where 19 women assisted World War I and II veterans to choose Christmas gifts for their relatives. Two hundred forty packages were wrapped and most of them contained three or four gifts. Gifts, which are provided by the Legion Auxiliary units, were plentiful and beautiful and each patient was allowed as many as he needed and signed the Christmas cards to accompany the gifts.

There are 2,100 mental patients cared for there. If the patient was not well enough to be brought into the gift shop, a card with his name and his needs was honored and his gift selections were taken care of by the volunteer workers.

Some packages were addressed to parents and relatives in foreign countries. Mrs. Kelley says that most of the gifts were selected for wives, mothers and sisters and fewer for children.

The work at the gift shop continues at each of the four Michigan veterans' hospitals for two weeks and is just nicely underway with about ten days to run yet.

The American Legion Auxiliary here had sent 25 gifts to Fort Custer hospital to fill the quota of the local unit.

The women were served lunch at noon Monday in the doctors' and nurses' cafeteria at Fort Custer.

Cass City 4-H Club Enters Exhibits at Jr. Livestock Show

About 15 members of the Cass City 4-H Club are planning to attend the 20th annual Junior Livestock Show at the state fairgrounds in Detroit Dec. 5, 6, and 7, according to Willis Campbell, superintendent of schools. Campbell will accompany them as acting leader.

Cass City has had entries in the show since the first year it was held in 1930. Each year, with the exception of 1944, 1945 and 1949, the club has exhibited from one to three champions, giving it the highest record in the state.

Campbell recalls the first year's competition when a steer presented by Lynn Spencer won the reserve championship. The animal sold for $500.

In 1931, a lamb owned by Delbert Rawson won the grand champion title. Louis Horner also presented a champion steer that year.

Elkland Township Taxes Are $10,000 Lower Than in '49

Township taxes are over $10,000 lower than last year, according to Calvin J. Striffler, Elkland township treasurer. Reductions are in township special taxes, special drain taxes and a drain levy for the township at large. The 1949 township special tax was for the purchase of a fire engine.

The tax roll was completed last week by William J. Profit, township supervisor, and has been turned over to Mr. Striffler for collection.

Here is a summary of the roll.

County tax	$24,000.20
Township tax	5,865.20
School tax	17,278.10
School debt service	14,574.60
Special drain tax	124.80
Drain tax, twp. at large	62.40

Total $59,406.30

The special drain tax of $124.80 is for the Pigeon River cut-off and the $14,574.60 school debt service levy will write off the last payment on the Cass City High School.

Total evaluation of the township has changed little since last year. Board of review assessed evaluation figures show:

Real estate	$2,810,050
Personal	618,550
Total	$3,428,600

In 1949 total assessed evaluation was $3,558,390.00, $70,210 less than the 1950 figure.

Striffler said the tax rate in school districts one, two, three and four is $1.30 per $100 evaluation. In district five the rate is $1.90 and in district six, $1.50.

Striffler will start collecting taxes Dec. 2 at the Pinney State Bank and Dec. 6 at the Cass City State Bank. Last day for payment at the 1% rate is Jan. 10.

Sugar Beet Growers Appoint New Sec.

Effective January 1, Loren S. Armbruster, former Tuscola County Agricultural Agent, succeeds Philip V. Goldsmith as growers' field secretary of the Farmers' & Manufacturers' Beet Sugar Association, according to J. B. Smith, Alma, Association vice president.

Armbruster had been in the Michigan State College Extension Service since 1946, first in Barry, then in Saginaw County. He had been agent in Tuscola the past two years. He is a native of Huron County and was graduated from Michigan State College in 1941. During three war years he was instructor in aerial navigation.

Goldsmith had served as growers' field secretary since 1936. It was during his tenure that the system of conditional sugar beet payments was established and expanded, and other legislative benefits under the sugar acts instituted. He is retiring as a result of declining health. He is an alumnus of Michigan State College in the class of 1906.

Cancer Research

A new microscope now in use at the Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research, New York City, makes it possible for freshly prepared sections of living tissue to be viewed through three different ultra-violet wave lengths. The specimens can also be photographed through the microscope and the photos may be projected or reproduced on color film. The instrument is said to reveal structural detail in a way never before accomplished.

Michigan is one of four states where lower schools in city and country are sadly lacking. So says the National Education Association. That group says slow gains have been made but high building costs and increased enrollment complicate the financial situation.

The Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission has a reserve balance of about $220,000,000 an all-time high. Harry C. Markle, executive director, says that amount is "still far from sufficient to see the state through a long period of economic upset and unemployment."

Detroit now offers a unique legal service. To aid those unfamiliar with procedures for hiring a lawyer or seeking legal advice a lawyer reference service has been set up. Appointments are made by telephone.

The highly touted color television has found its niche. Some 600 doctors of Michigan recently watched a televised operation. The use of color makes this medium excellent for medical schools.

Some 1,300 of Michigan's imported Puerto Rican laborers are missing. Of the 5,700 flown here only 4,425 can be found. No one is worried, assuming they are finding their own way home or have taken employment in factories.

Flint has saved the federal government $1,000,000 in the last eight years by administering its own rent control. When controls were set up in 1942, Flint devised a plan to "keep the bureaucrats out" and it has worked smoothly and efficiently under local management.

The automobile industry, Michigan's largest industry, is worried over metals. The proposed cutback of copper and aluminum has filled the industry with doubt and uncertainty. Car production may be hit harder than was expected.

Who is governor? It's like that old "Who's on first base" story. Now more than two weeks after election when Michigan should be looking forward to Christmas the $20,000 (per year) question: Who is governor? *

The legislature was in a dither as confusing as that surrounding the average citizen. Would they adjourn, now that Williams' 12 appointments were blocked? Their six months' recess was stretched on to Dec. 30. The lawmakers just couldn't hang around Lansing with nothing to do while the gubernatorial seat was being fought over.

But Christmas will not be denied. Behind the tinsel of store decorations lurks the shadow of ever-present inflation. Merchants expect a record season—if they get out and hustle. Higher prices have raised Michigan sales resistance.

The dollar now is worth only 60 cents—lowest purchasing power it has commanded since 1914 when the federal reserve system was set up. This decrease in value is cutting the treasury's "E" bond sales. Ten years ago, if one invested $75 he now gets $100 in return—which still will buy only $60 worth of food.

With the holidays comes bad weather. And already Michigan's traffic toll is pushing to higher figures. Safety officials hold their heads and ask drivers to use care on icy roads.

Senator Vandenberg's fight to regain health has become top news in Washington. Internationalists believe the powerful voice of Michigan's senior senator is needed if victory-flushed isolationists are not to reverse the whole recent trend of American foreign policy.

Nuffer-Peasley Wedding at Amelith

From Novesta correspondent.

St. Johns Lutheran Church in Amelith, decorated with palms, chrysanthemums and candles, was the scene of the wedding of Miss Edna Nuffer and Leslie Peasley, both of Amelith. Rev. Mr. Beckett, pastor of the church, conducted the rites at 7 o'clock Saturday evening, Nov. 18.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Nuffer, of Amelith was attired in a princess style gown of satin and lace and was attended by Miss Betty Herpolsheimer of Amelith, in a satin dress, as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Ruth Nuffer of Amelith, sister of the bride, and Miss Marjorie Peasley of Deford, sister of the groom.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claud Peasley of Deford and was attended during the ceremony by his uncle, Harry Wilcox, of Manton as groomsmen. Ushers were Clinton Herpolsheimer of Amelith and Lyle Wilcox of Manton, cousin of the groom.

Following the rites a buffet dinner was served and a reception for 150 friends and relatives was held in Saginaw Township Hall. The newlyweds left on a trip in the East and on their return will make their home in Saginaw where Mr. Peasley is an employee of Ferguson Tractor Sales. He is a former resident of Novesta and his many friends are wishing the happy couple the best of luck, long life and happiness.

Fast Runner

The Pullman traveler had asked the porter to see that he got off at Hot Springs. Next morning the passenger awoke to find himself hundreds of miles past Hot Springs. Storming down the aisle in search of the forgetful porter, he collided with the hapless attendant, who had by that time realized his error. "Mah goodness, suh!" the porter exclaimed. "How did y'all get back on this train?"

Some Dump

A student, getting back to school late, had difficulty in obtaining a suitable place of lodging. One landlady, showing him a dingy bedroom, remarked persuasively, "As a whole, this is quite a nice room, isn't it?" "Yes, madam," he agreed, "but as a bedroom it's no good."

EXCELSIOR!

Actress Sarah Bernhardt remained feminine to the end. Late in life when her breathtaking beauty was but a memory, the Divine Sarah moved into an upstairs flat which was a tiring climb from the street.

One day, an old admirer came up to see her. When he finally reached the apartment, he was out of breath and puffing heavily. "My dear woman," he panted, "what ever caused you to take this inaccessible flat?"

"Ah, my friend," replied the actress, "how else can I expect to excite the hearts of men?"

Government's place in a democracy is to reflect the will of the people—not to influence it.

THE LIES OF TEXAS . . .

If you're very familiar with Texans and their unwavering belief that the sun both rises and sets in their state, then you know full well this may have happened.

A fellow tells about a speech once made at a convention by a professor from the University of Texas. His audience included at least one man from Oklahoma who was a Texas hater of the first order.

During his talk, the professor made repeated reference to the idea that Oklahoma really should be part of "the greatest state of Texas."

"In reality," he expounded, "Oklahoma is nothing but an outlying province of Texas."

At that the Oklahoman leaped to his feet.

"Brother, I differ there," he roared. "Ain't no state can out-lie Texas."

F.F.A. Chapter Swine Judged Grand Champion

The national barrow show was held at Austin, Minn., September 12 to 18, with 2,560 hogs entered for 15 states and Canada.

The grand champions of the show were a Poland-China barrow from Oklahoma, owned by the boys of the F.F.A. Stillwater chapter; a pen of three Hampshire barrows from the Bi-Line farms at Sabina, Ohio, and Pennville Ind.; and a truckload of 15 Berkshire barrows owned by 14 orphan boys who live at the Oklahoma state orphan home at Pryor, Oklahoma.

In the carcass event of the show, 128 barrows were entered and the Hampshire barrow owned by the Bi-Line farms, it had the most yield of valuable cuts, and when every product was evaluated separately on today's market, it lead all the 128 carcasses in total selling price.

The national barrow show is leading the way in giving America a picture of the kind of swine which best meets the consumer's wants. The judges put the longish, meat-type hogs to the front.

Hobby Room Gives Added Pleasure to Farm Homes

A farm home can become even more livable with the addition of a hobby room. It can be a corner in the basement where a boy can store his wood-working tools with just enough space to put the tools to good use. Or it can be a finished room where the children can have their 4-H club meetings or a get-together of the gang.

Furnishings can be inexpensive by exercising ingenuity and imagination. Built-in furniture, such as book shelves, shelves for knick-knacks, cupboards, a wall seat with a hinged cover in which toys, games and odds and ends can be stored, can be economically made by the carpenter or by the gang of "future farmers" in one of their meetings.

Other ideas for hobby room furniture include a drop leaf table fastened to the wall, a sandwich bar where hot coffee and other refreshments can be dispensed, a bunk on which to stretch out and rest during the day.

Farm living can be pleasantly improved with the addition of a hobby room.

Star Farmer

Forest Davis, Jr., 21-year-old Florida farmer, was named winner of the nation's highest award of achievement by a farm youth, that of star farmer of America. Davis was presented a check for $1,000 from the Future Farmers of America foundation at the 23rd annual F. F. F. convention in Kansas City.

1949 Sugar Beet Crop Valued at $15 Million

Nearly 10,000 midwestern farms are splitting a million dollar melon from the final payment on the 1949 sugar beet crop. Checks for the balance due on the crop have gone out or will be mailed shortly, the agriculture department reports.

The total value of the crop in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin in 1949, including government payments, was about $15 million.

The want ads are newey, too.

DEFORD

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hicks and daughter have moved into their new home east and south of town. On Friday night, Nov. 10, nearly 100 friends and neighbors gave them a surprise house warming. A potluck lunch was enjoyed and the evening was spent in visiting and special music was rendered. A nice sum of money was given the family to buy something to remember the occasion.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Refresh Your Room With Simple Tricks to Add Color and Charm

By Erita Haley

DO YOUR rooms need a bit of a change to make them colorful and refreshing for the holidays? You can achieve the result at practically no cost and little labor if you arm yourself with simple tools like scissors, paste, shellac, a roll of two of wallpaper, or a few pots of flowers.

If your time is limited, concentrate only on one aspect of refreshing a room, preferably that which will be most important in your holiday scheme. If you find you have more time, then you can apply a new look to one or two more rooms.

The best thing about decorating in this way is that it involves no drastic changes in furniture arrangement or color scheme. Whatever is harmonious to the room as it stands will be in good taste.

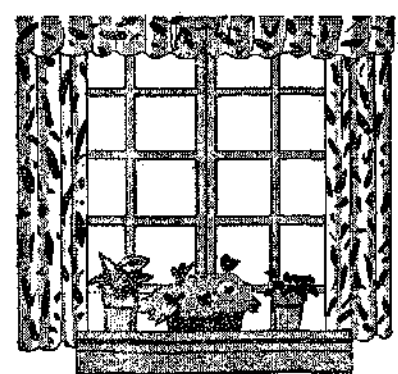

Cabinets, drawers, chests, ceilings, windows, lampshades, place settings or doors may be used for the tricks you're about to apply. Check the room to see which of these could best stand some face lifting.

You may have tucked away in the recesses of the attic some favorite wallpaper, or perhaps you can find it at the store. Attractive wrapping paper, if heavy and durable enough, might also be pressed into service for some of the decorative

All-Season Suit

The smooth material of rayon women's wear has come into prominence this season because it is adaptable to indoor, outdoor and undercoat wear. Styled for the mature figure, this suit features a bloused look with interesting pointed pockets attached with buttons. The skirt is smart and slender but allows sensible walking room.

Potted plants liven rooms.

tive schemes, especially for drawer linings or for glass-topped dressing tables.

Small sharp scissors should be at hand for whichever of the jobs you undertake. Include also some good paste—wallpaper or other type, and shellac for those surfaces which take wear and need a protective coating.

While you're doing the planning, see if you have some nice pieces of glass or china which you'd like to display against their new backgrounds. They'll add new interest to rooms.

Perk up Cabinets For New Look

Take a critical look at the cabinet you have in your dining or living room, that tall one with the glass doors. Is it a decorative asset or a poor step-child in the room?

The inside of the cabinet can be papered easily in small floral print or even in a nice solid color that will go with the colors in the room. If the draperies are plain, select a prominent color from them and match this in wallpaper.

After the papering is done, you can place your prized china or glass-and wallpaper cut-outs add charm.

ware in the cabinet and show it off properly. Old china, milk glass, sparkling crystal or a collection of bottles or old figurines do very nicely against the new colored background.

Is your kitchen as colorful as it should be by current standards? It's easy enough to relieve the dead white appearance of cabinets in this room with decals or cut-outs from wallpaper. If desired you can run a narrow border near the ceiling of a matching motif.

Kitchen cabinets may be decorated all over the surface with small sprigs of strawberries or floral designs; or, if you prefer, place a decal in just opposite corners.

Buffet drawers or drawers in the dressing table will be freshened with a lining of wrapping paper or wallpaper. Paste this on the bottom as well as the sides of the drawer.

If you desire to protect the finish, cut a piece of plastic or cellophane paper for the bottom of the drawer. Glass-topped tables may also be treated with colorful paper. Cut the paper to fit the top and then set the glass on top of it. There is no need for pasting or attaching the paper in this case.

Save Decorating Expense With Partial Papering

If your budget does not allow the papering of a whole room, see what miracles can be managed with a partial papering job. This can frequently be done if the original covering on the walls is clean, but old, and needs freshening.

A good trick to use in bedrooms is to apply a border near the ceiling, especially if the room is painted in a solid color, or has a paper of no design. You can frequently buy a border of rose garlands to go around the upper part of the walls, and this may do the trick.

In other cases, only the ceiling need be papered, especially if the room is a high-ceilinged one. You may paper the ceiling completely, or cut morning glories, large roses or peonies out of the wallpaper and paste each one on individually.

Use floral decorations of large proportions only on rooms with high ceilings as they lower the ceiling.

For those who are short on furniture, the problem is easily solved with partial wallpapering. Doors to a room can be papered, and they will appear to furnish it. Choose the design of the paper that goes best with your furniture and style of architecture.

A good solution for a point of interest in a room is to have a decorative wallpaper panel. This can be used in a large living room right above the couch.

Use Borders for Windows Or Place Settings

Borders cut neatly from paper with a small sharp scissors or a razor blade are excellent to use for decorating windows, especially when you want to make them a group in themselves.

If you have a group of three windows in the living room, plan to run the decorative border all around the windows to take the place of heavy draperies. They add pattern, but not too much. You can then use plain sheer curtains on the windows.

If you want a good conversation starter at luncheon, you might try making decorative place mats out of paper flower cut-outs or borders. Paste these carefully on plain backgrounds, and protect with two or three coats of shellac.

A plain dining room table can be used as a base for a runner of large flowers cut out from paper. With a profusion of flowers down the center of the table, about a foot and a half in width, you need not have anything for place mats.

Lampshades can be made decorative assets if they are treated with cut-outs. Potted flowers run along the bottom edge of a shade are good, and so are all-over floral patterns. These, too, are best when protected with a coat or two of clear shellac.

Give Importance to Rooms With Proper Use of Plants

Plants can create lovely decorative notes when they're used correctly. The idea in using plants is to give them importance with proper grouping and containers.

Use plants where it's natural to have them, near light, for example. Place them where they won't be knocked off easily. Don't use tall, spiky plants which will hide a nice mirror or pictures.

Plants with vines belong in brackets on walls, not on tables where they would interfere with traffic. Fit the size of the plant to the size of the table on which you're using it, so balance and harmony will be kept intact.

Window groupings of plants are very effective. You might have an oblong container in the center, and two or three potted plants on either side. A good table arrangement for a good-sized table uses one large plant in the back corner, flanked by two round or square pots on either side. The pots should be small, with small low plants in contrast to the large plant.

Mahogany, Cabinet Wood, Grows Only In Two Regions

Mahogany is a native wood in only two regions of the world—tropical America and Africa. There is no true mahogany in the orient although many oriental woods have been called mahogany, chiefly the group of hardwoods native to the Philippine islands which are collectively known as "Philippine mahogany."

There are two types of tropical American mahogany. One is found in the West Indies; the other on the mainland—in southern Mexico, northern Guatemala and British Honduras through Central America to Northern Colombia and Venezuela. About 25 years ago, mahogany was re-discovered in the regions drained by the upper tributaries of the Amazon river in Brazil and Peru and this source will become increasingly important.

In the early 18th century when mahogany first became the leading cabinet wood in England and the American colonies, it was sent chiefly from Jamaica and the Bahamas. During the middle of the century the mahogany from Santo Domingo and Cuba shared the market with the diminishing supply from Jamaica. It was during the last quarter of the century that mahogany from the American mainland came into the picture. In the treaty of 1783 with Spain, that country agreed for the first time to English production of mahogany in what is now known as Honduras and after that Honduras mahogany became the favorite with cabinetmakers in both England and the United States. Honduras is still an important source and is perhaps the name most familiar to us in this country because it is so much used to descriptive advertising of mahogany furniture.

Unusual Woods, Veneers Mark Furniture Trends

A return to elegance isn't confined to women's fashions this year. New furniture being shown also reveals a definite trend in the same direction. In buying furniture today, people are asking for better construction and more elegance. In line with the demand, designers of modern furniture are employing unusual woods and veneers along with fine hardware and beautiful finishes to soften the simplicity inherent in modern design, and to add the desired note of distinction.

In the traditional furniture groups, documentary pieces of the eighteenth century are being meticulously reproduced. There has also been a re-examination of the more obscure period styles. In many instances, overly elaborate designs are being simplified and adapted to please our present-day tastes. The architecturally elegant furniture of the English Regency is one of these styles which lends itself to charming adaptations.

An outstanding example of the present trend in furniture styles is the work of Kenneth Volz and Dave Backwith who have been adapting early nineteenth century Regency to 20th century American use. Together, they have done an outstanding job of creating a group of furniture which cannot be surpassed for sheer unostentatious elegance. Constructed of mahogany and Brazilian rosewood, many of the pieces have brass mounts and medallions. Some of the breakfasts and chests have antique mirror panels. Others have brass grille work—and still others have panels of crotch mahogany or striped rosewood. Black lacquer and gold striping is also in evidence.

Flight of Bee

The bee that flies in the traditional "bee-line" and the housefly that maintains perfect balance in flight owe their success to "flight instruments," very much like an airplane's, but in this case provided by nature. Talbot H. Waterman, assistant professor of zoology at Yale university, in a review of recent scientific discoveries says that these insects are right "on the beam" while flying because they have their own natural gyroscopes, air speed indicators, and sky compasses, among others. The bee, for example, has a "polarized light compass" in its eye tissues that guides the bee unerringly back to the hive from distant flower patches. "Careful study of the bee's behavior," Professor Waterman says, "shows that in navigating from place to place the insect can determine azimuth with a high degree of accuracy."

Painting Transformer Box

Painting of electrical transformer boxes is an example of the special requirements to be met by the men who formulate finishes. The protective coating for a transformer box must be presentable in appearance and must have excellent adhesion. It must also be as nearly mar-proof as possible because transformers are installed on the job. Durability is important because a transformer may be placed in hot dry air, in moist salt air, in a cold, damp subcellar or an over-heated boiler room. The finish must also be able to withstand the heat of the molten asphalt mixture that is put into the boxes to anchor the transformer.

Fled Piper Legend

The legend of the Fled Piper of Hamlin grew from one of the most tragic episodes in history. In the year 1212 A. D., a French shepherd lad named Stephen fired the children of his village with the arrow to join him on an ill-fated mission to the Holy Land. Their parents were helpless to stop them. Hypnotized by his religious fervor they marched off, out of sight, never to return.

William Shakespeare

William Shakespeare's first contact with the professional theatre could not have been more humble or remote. He tended horses for the gaily dressed young gallants who came to watch the players at Shoreditch, just outside of London.

A newspaper headline says their city plans to build a giant skating rink with seating capacity of 15,000—evidently they expect a lot of poor skaters to participate.

There is an old saying that one should count to ten before criticizing anyone. Since the Truman-Marine episode it might not be a bad idea to make it one hundred.

American history would have us believe the Indians were an uneducated, backward race, but when they were running this country there were no taxes, no debts and the women did all the work. Who could hope to improve a setup like that?

Children must depend on their parents for wise guidance, so we should all make a real effort to instill right thinking and correct behavior in those entrusted to us.

The better the advice the harder it is to take. Lots of folks who like to play golf very well—don't.

One of the sad facts of life is that just as soon as we get to the point where we can make both ends meet, somebody moves the ends.

We wonder sometimes how many thousand more years it will take to convince men that they can live with each other peacefully.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Correct Care of Floors Depends On Types of Finished Surfaces

By Ertta Haley

NO MATTER what floor coverings you have in your home, much expense and work has gone into them. For these reasons alone, if not for the pleasure of having beautiful, gleaming surfaces, keeping floors flawless more than justifies the work.

Since there are so many different kinds of floor finishes, it's essential to know how each type should best be cared for. You won't want to use soap on an oiled floor, nor would you apply an oiled mop to a varnished floor.

How much water should be used on cement flooring? Should oil ever be used on waxed floors? What can be done to prevent dark colors streaking the unfinished floors? What is the best cleanser for a tiled floor? These and other questions naturally pop into the mind when it comes to floor care.

There is both a preferred daily routine for caring for floors, as well as weekly or monthly care outlined below. Faithfully followed, the treatments will give you the results desired, in shining, flawless coverings.

The biggest enemy to floor beauty is, of course, dirt or dust. For this reason, it's wise to keep after the floors daily, or at least every other day, and thus prevent the dust from grinding into the pores of the finish. Once lodged, it may be very difficult to remove.

Use Dustless Mop On Varnished Floors

The gleam of the varnished floor can be retained for a long time if daily dust is removed with a clean dustless mop or a broom covered with a soft cloth.

To prevent dust from gathering in the corners and crevices, use a good vacuum cleaner attachment. When more than daily cleaning is essential, use mild soap suds and water, and go over the floor with a mop. After the floor is thoroughly dry, go over it with a small amount of oil to restore the gleam. Make certain the oil is rubbed in or it will give a cloudy film to the floor. White spots on varnished floors can be removed—rub gently with a cloth moistened in kerosene or floor oil. If a light scraping is needed to remove the spots, touch up with a bit of varnish.

For varnished floors which have been marred and whitened in many spots, make a mixture of one tablespoon vinegar with three tablespoons of boiled linseed oil or olive oil and one teaspoon turpentine. Cover the spot with the mixture and let stand for several minutes. Then rub briskly with a cloth, following the grain of the wood.

Use Little Water On Oiled, Waxed Floors

An oiled floor requires daily cleaning with a soft brush and an oil mop. If this care is used, little water will be necessary to clean the floor. If you do have to resort to water cleaning, the floor will need a treatment of fresh oil every six months to keep it in handsome condition.

Cover a broom with a soft cloth, or use a dustless mop on waxed floors for daily care. Use water only on rare occasions, and only when necessary. Oil should never be used on waxed floors.

When stringent cleaning measures are necessary on the waxed floor, wring out a cloth in warm, soapy water, or dampen with turpentine. For even better treatment, wring a cloth out in liquid wax. This cuts and removes ground in dirt and supplies the floor with fresh wax.

When using this wax treatment with a cloth for cleaning purposes, change the cloth frequently or the floor will get stubborn dirt streaks on it.

Three-fourths of the battle in keeping waxed floors in good condition lies in applying plenty of "elbow grease" to the floor to bring out the gloss in the wax. If you can get

Refrigerator Cleaner

Keep the refrigerator sweet and fresh smelling with the old kitchen standby, baking soda. It will remove the greasy film which clings to the walls and fittings that hold food odor, and will thus remove odor. Sprinkle soda on a damp cloth or cellulose sponge and wipe inside surfaces. Then wipe walls, trays and shelves with cloth wrung out in clear water.

an electric floor polisher to use every so often, this will save you a great deal of work.

Dry Unfinished Floors As Quickly As Possible

Unfinished floors can be beautiful if you can prevent them from getting dark and streaking. Much of this dirty look comes from soaking the floors in water and from not drying them as quickly as possible.

Open the windows wide when you're scrubbing the floors so that the breeze will dry them rapidly. While you're washing with brush or mop, warm water and soap, it will help to keep a clean, dry cloth by your side with which to go over the floor as soon as it's cleaned.

For an occasional scouring, you can apply fine steel wool to the floors to keep them in tip-top condition.

Floors which are badly stained should be given the oxalic acid treatment. Dissolve ¼ pound of oxalic crystals in one quart of hot water. Spread the solution on the stain and let stand overnight. In the morning, wash the floor with warm water to which a little salt soda has been added; rinse thoroughly and, of course, dry quickly.

These Floors Require Warm Water Washing

Painted floors are easy to keep clean daily with a soft, dry floor mop. However, when more extensive care is required, use warm water to which a little kerosene is added.

Shellacked floors, like painted ones, profit from daily dusting with a soft dry mop. If vigorous cleaning is needed, dampen a cloth with gasoline and wipe gently.

For shellacked floors which have developed slight blemishes, apply gasoline to spots and rub very lightly with steel wool, so that you don't break through the lacquer film.

Warm water is prescribed for both glazed and unglazed tile floors. The glazed floor is simple to clean with just warm water and mild soap. Dry well after washing.

For unglazed tile floors, change water frequently, or the tiles will become soiled from dirty water. Avoid flooding the floor with water. An oil soap is preferred to ordinary soap for good cleaning, and a good paste wax helps "seal" the floors and helps it retain its beauty. Afterwards, you may apply liquid wax from time to time.

Oil soap is also best for cleaning terrazzo floors, and the care should be periodic. Sweep these floors free of all dust before washing for best results.

Cement and rubber floorings require water for vigorous cleaning, but even then water should be used sparingly. If either of these types are to be waxed, use whatever the manufacturer of the floor recommends for them.

Linoleum Should Have Finish Renewed

The best care which you can give linoleum is to wipe whatever spills on it as soon as possible, before it soaks into the finish. To get rid of daily dust and dirt, use a soft, dry mop, and go over the floor thoroughly.

When you do have to resort to washing the floor, use a tightly wrung mop after dipping it in mild soap suds and warm water. When the floor is clean and dry, it may be relacquered or waxed, depending upon the finishing material used originally on the floor.

Benzine and turpentine remove old layers of wax, when it's necessary to do so, but both should be used cautiously as they're inflammable.

Gliders offer excellent protection for linoleum as well as other floors, especially when chair or equipment legs are very sharp.

You'll have both skirt and coat as well as suit when you buy what is called a suit. It consists of the narrow classic skirt, and the coat is a casual longer type which may also be worn.

Milk Used as Plant Food in Experiment

Scientists Report Milk Benefits Some Flowers

Montana State college scientists report milk is as good for some flowers and vegetables as for babies.

The use of milk in horticulture, particularly in greenhouse operations, is new and still in the development stage. But many growers in the Pacific northwest already are reaping benefits.

Commercial flower producers say milk makes petunias grow faster.

Scientists report milk is good plant food for some flowers and vegetables, making them last longer, grow faster, and bear larger and more brilliant blooms.

last longer and bear larger and more brilliant blooms. It improves the color of roses, cinerarias and chrysanthemums. There are exceptions, including poinsettias and carnations.

Milk-fed vegetables also do much better than those grown under ordinary conditions.

The scientists reported the milk was fed either in dry or diluted fluid form. Further experiments with milk as a plant food are necessary before it is out of the development stage.

Iowa Farm Earns $4.50 Per Acre Each Month

The average Iowa acre is earning between $4.50 and $5.00 a month, cash, the Iowa development commission reports. Which means that the average 160-acre farm, under good management, is bringing in $768, gross per month.

Last year Iowa farmers made $59.40 for each of the 34½ million acres in farms in the Hawkeye state. That figures out $4.95 per month, per acre, or $495 per month for each 100 acres of Iowa land being farmed. In the first six months of 1950—the leaner half of the farmer's year—Iowa farm income came to $27 per acre, or $4.50 per month, per acre. That still is $450 a month for every 100 acres of farm land.

The commission hastened to repeat that the figure is gross income. Out of it the farmer must pay for power and machinery, labor, feed, feeder stock and breeding stock, before he arrives at his own salary.

Slop Storage Tank

On a farm where there are many hogs to feed ideas that will save labor usually are appreciated. The storage tank for hog slop, shown in the above illustration, has been used on a number of farms successfully. Materials needed include two pieces of 3-inch pipe 6 inches long, one piece of 3-inch pipe 12 inches long and two 3-inch elbows and assemble them as shown in the illustration. Mount the barrel on a box 30 inches high, placed close to the fence so that the pipe may go through into the feeding trough. Make a plunger out of soft wood.

U.S. Consumer Demands Better Quality Meats

The national economic picture and the more nearly equalized meat production in relation to consumption are putting much greater emphasis on quality or grade of meat animals than was true in the last several years of meat scarcity.

Live stock producers are now attempting to produce animals which nearly meet consumer demand for quality product.

Some men's train of thought carries very little freight.

Harmonious Union

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

IT WAS incredible that Tony and Leah Cranston should have quarreled over so small a thing. The neighbors would have been horrified, for the neighbors thought no two people were more ideally suited. The neighbors were right, too. Tony and Leah were harmoniously united.

They were deeply in love. There was perfect understanding between them.

Then one day Tony came home from work and went into the bedroom to freshen up for dinner and found two five dollar bills and some change lying on the bureau. He scooped up the money.

"Hey," he said good naturedly, "we can't afford this. I found this money lying on the bureau. It might have blown away. Don't be so forgetful!"

Leah smiled. "Oh, my!" she said. "Did I leave the change from the grocer there?"

A week later Tony discovered a dollar bill where it had been idly dropped on the living room table and forgotten.

"Listen, honey, you've got to be more careful. Money is pretty important to us right now."

"I'm sorry," said Leah, "but it's only a dollar."

"We can't afford to lose a dollar or even a part of a dollar," Tony said, smiling.

The next time—the time Tony discovered three dollars on the kitchen table and one on the floor, where it had blown—he didn't smile.

"Good gosh, woman! Show a little more consideration, will you! If I hadn't noticed that dollar on the floor it would have been lost."

"Darling," she said altogether too precisely, "I've never lost a penny of our money."

"How do you know?" asked Tony, a bit smugly.

"Because," said Leah, just as smugly, "I can account for every dime you've ever given me."

"Ha!" said Tony. "Let's see you!"

So Leah got a pencil and paper—and sat down and figured out her expenditures, to the last penny.

"Well," said Tony, "that doesn't mean you won't lose some if you continue to be careless. After it's gone—well, you've heard the crack about locking the barn door after the horse has been stolen."

"I've heard," said Leah icily, "a lot of cracks."

SUDDENLY it occurred to Tony that this was their first major crisis. Somehow he'd have to break Leah of her habit without a quarrel.

It was the next Saturday noon, when he came home from work that Tony discovered three ones and a two-dollar bill on the bureau where it had been absently dropped by Leah while she rescued the roast from burning. Furtively Tony scooped up the money and stuck it in his pants pocket. Sooner or later Leah would discover it was missing. She'd become concerned. She'd ask him to help hunt. He'd make a pretense of hunting and then pretend to find the money where it had blown into the bathroom.

That afternoon Tony went playing golf. All the while he was gone, while he was in the locker room and on the course and later in the showers, he kept thinking of Leah hunting for the missing money.

He came home an hour earlier than he had planned. The moment he saw Leah's face he knew she had discovered the loss.

"Darling, I laid some money on the bureau. Have you seen it?" "It must have blown off," said Tony. "Boy, I hope we can find it." His face wore a look of grave concern as he began hunting. "We can't afford to lose a cent," he kept saying.

Tony waited until Leah looked as though she were on the point of bursting into tears, remembering she had been saving for a new hat and knowing she couldn't have it unless they found the money. Then he ambled into the bathroom, and, chucking to himself, reached into his pocket.

A startled look came to his face. He reached into his other pockets. They were all empty.

Many folks attain great heights by remaining on the level.

Identical Twins Entertain at School Assembly Friday

The Cass City elementary grades were entertained at assembly Friday by Joanne and Janis Williams, pretty 20-year-old identical twins from Eaton Rapids who sing and accompany themselves on Hawaiian and Spanish guitars.

The twins, who have been singing since they were four years old, began considering the entertainment field as a career about six years ago when churches and service clubs began asking them to perform. They found the work was interesting and something they could do well.

In 1948 and 1947 they had their own radio program over WKAR in East Lansing, and the following year they appeared on the Horace Heidt program, making a tour south to Tennessee and east through Maryland.

The high light of their entertainment calendar in 1949 was an appearance on the Lowell "Showboat." Last summer they toured the west, entertaining at Yellowstone and Glacier National Parks.

The bulk of the twins' entertainment work is at high school and elementary grade assemblies. Friday, after leaving Cass City, they played at Bad Axe and Pigeon before returning to Eaton Rapids. Next year they are booked for 15 weeks out of Chicago.

Selections played at the school Friday included Yodeling Cowgirl, Tumbling Tumbleweed, Back in the Saddle, Ta-ra-ra-boom-di-a, Little Cowboy, The Stutter Song, Beach of Wakiki and Song of the Islands.

Mr. and Mrs. Garland Wilcox of Manton and son, Lyle, visited Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claud Peasley. Mr. Wilcox is a brother of Mrs. Peasley.
