

Emerson Scott Tells Experiences in Canoe Trip to Arctic

Community Club Hears Lecture and Sees Pictures of Notable Journey

Emerson Scott of Caro, who completed a 5,000-mile canoe trip from Saginaw to an Eskimo whaling encampment 200 miles within the Arctic circle last summer, lectured and showed colored movies of his trip at the January meeting of the Community Club Tuesday night.

The journey, which Scott took with a companion, Raymond Creason, was made in a 19-foot canoe. Their itinerary was up the Saginaw River, along the Michigan coast of Lake Huron to Mackinac Island, and through the locks at Sault Ste. Marie. At White Fish Point on Lake Superior they stopped at a fishery long enough to accompany one of the fishing boats on its inspection of gill nets in Lake Superior.

They continued west on Lake Superior past the pictured rocks and the foot hills of the Huron Mountains to the channel which cuts across the Keweenaw Peninsula separating the towns of Houghton and Hancock. After "hitching" a ride on a government boat going to Isle Royale, they crossed Lake Superior into the Lake of the Woods region.

Delayed by the heavy rains and storms during the first part of the journey, Scott decided when they reached Fort Francis that if they were to make their destination before winter set in it would be best to go part of the way by train. Their canoe and belongings were bundled into a freight car and Scott and Creason went by rail to Waterways, in the Northwest Territory.

From there they continued north on the Great Slave and MacKenzie Rivers. Their course had ceased to be upstream since the water was now flowing in a northerly direction into the Arctic Ocean.

Fifty miles beyond the Arctic circle they stopped for a week at the home of a farmer and his two sons. There they found turnips, lettuce, rhubarb, carrots, beets and cabbages growing in abundance—with eternal frost just three and one-half feet beneath the surface of the ground. The farmer had recently purchased a new tractor and was preparing ground for a field of potatoes the following year.

After stopping to watch Eskimos round up a herd of reindeer owned by the Canadian Government, they continued north and on Aug. 29, four months and six days after leaving Saginaw, they arrived at the end of their journey, Aklovik, 200 miles within the Arctic Circle. There they went on a white whale hunt and watched the harpooning of a 19-foot whale from a 25-ft. fishing craft.

Assistance for Farmers in Making Their Tax Returns

Meetings Will Be Held in Caro and Vassar on Jan. 11

Filing out and filing income tax returns for 1950 will be facing most of the rural people within the next month or two. Assistance along this line will be presented to those interested at two public meetings in Tuscola County scheduled for Thursday, January 11, according to Loren S. Armbruster, county agricultural agent. E. M. Elwood, extension specialist in agricultural economics from Michigan State College, will be guest speaker and income tax consultant at the two meetings. The afternoon meeting will be held in the Tuscola courthouse in Caro at 1:30 p. m. and the evening meeting at the Vassar High School at 7:30 p. m. Elwood will discuss some of the major changes made for filing farmers' returns for 1950. He will also explain various exemptions allowed relative to dependents, farm expenses, depreciation of buildings, livestock and machinery, etc.

Elwood is a recognized authority on farm income tax problems. He is one of the several authors who prepared the "Farmers' 1950 Income Tax" bulletin which this year is used by thirteen North Central States. The bulletin was approved by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C. In the discussion, Elwood will also stress the value of farm account bookkeeping by farmers for filing income tax returns and for better business management.

The meeting should be of value to farmers regardless of their tax year. Armbruster states that those reporting on a calendar year basis must file and pay the tax before January 31, 1951. Those that file estimates on the calendar year basis, must file an estimate of their tax and pay this amount by January 15, 1951, and then file the return and pay any balance by March 15, 1951. If the farm business does not begin January 1, the return and tax must be filed within one month after close of business; or one may file an estimate within 15 days and then a return within 2½ months after the end of the business year.

GRANT FARM BUREAU DISCUSSED RURAL YOUTH

A short business meeting preceded the program and a discussion led by Mrs. Clarence Shantz on "Educational Opportunities and Problems of Rural Youth" was very interesting. A potluck lunch was served and hosts for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Nixon, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Osburn.

This is not the first time this pair has been among the winners in such a tournament and it must have been rather embarrassing for a number of the younger participants to see these oldsters grab top honors.

Special Correction Teacher for Cass City Area Schools

Prospective speech correction teachers for Cass City area schools were interviewed Thursday by three Tuscola County school superintendents at Central State Teachers' College at Mt. Pleasant. They were J. E. Liddicoat, county superintendent of schools, Geo. Mills of Caro and Willis Campbell of Cass City.

Campbell said that five to seven percent of all school children need special aid and instruction in speech, but that no corrective course has been offered in the Cass City area.

The teacher selected will begin work next semester, he said, probably holding classes at three county schools during the week.

The cost of the special speech correction instruction is partly reimbursable by the state.

A similar program has been carried on successfully in Sanilac County, Campbell said.

Displaced People Happy to Find Homes in Thumb

Albert Kula, Bad Axe Farmer, Tells of Perils They Have Experienced

A family of four—the parents and two daughters—were at breakfast in the Kreuger Restaurant here Friday morning, happy to be near to their future home on a farm at Tyre, Sanilac County. They had had some harrowing experiences as displaced persons in Germany employed at forced labor and were scheduled by the Nazi to go into the "fire trap" and be burned to death. The day before the date of their execution, the American Army entered that particular sector of Germany and their lives were saved.

Albert Kula, a farmer 4½ miles south of Bad Axe, accompanied this family of Polish descent, the Stanley Rudnickis by name, and was taking them to the farm of Sam Soule, former Tyre postmaster, who owns 1,500 acres of land in that community. They will work for Mr. Soule.

Mr. Kula, who has the responsibility of the resettlement of displaced people in this district, has a family employed on his farm. They, too, narrowly escaped being burned alive in a "fire trap" during war days in Germany.

"How do these displaced people like the idea of being sent to America to make their homes?" Mr. Kula was asked. "They're tickled to death," was the prompt reply.

Youths Charged With Unlawful Driving Away Cars

Two Tuscola County youths were charged with unlawfully driving away automobiles early this week, according to Cass City Police Chief Steve Orto. They are Dale Mills, 23, and Frank Preba, 19. Mills was lodged in the Tuscola County jail at Caro Sunday charged with theft of a car owned by Charles Wright of Cass City. According to deputy sheriff William Tomlinson, he pleaded guilty to the charge and was bound over to circuit court for trial. The car was stolen from down town Cass City Saturday night. Mills was picked up in Port Huron when the car he was driving became involved in an accident.

Preba is being held at the Sanilac County jail at Sandusky charged with unlawfully driving away a car owned by Ed Smith of Marlette on Friday, according to Undersheriff Armstrong. Armstrong said Preba had also pleaded guilty and had been bound over to circuit court for trial.

Orto said that both Mills and Preba are wanted for questioning by Wayne County authorities in the theft of a car from Center Line, Mich., Thursday evening. The car was recovered three miles west and five south of Cass City.

Youth Asks Police to Keep Him From Committing Crime

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—The detective bureau was started when an 18-year-old youth walked in and told detective Sgt. Charles Heupper, "I'm going to hold some."

"Have you got a gun?" the detective asked.

"Yes," the youth replied — and reached under his left arm.

"Wait a minute," said Heupper. "I'll get it." He reached under the youth's arm and pulled out a loaded .22 caliber pistol. He also found 64 cartridges in a sock in the boy's pocket.

The youth told police he had been discharged from a mental institution at Buffalo, N. Y., four months ago and had been living with an aunt. He said he conceived the hold-up idea because he owed $180 for repairs to an automobile.

Good Textile Market

Cuba's position as a leading United States market for textiles manufactured from cotton and synthetic fibers has been demonstrated once more by sales there of $9,900,000 worth of cotton manufactures and $9,500,000 of synthetic fibers and manufactures during the first four months of 1950. Cuba took 15 per cent of all the cotton manufactures and 21 per cent of all the synthetic fibers and manufactures exported from the United States during this period. Cuban purchases of synthetic fibers and manufactures were larger than those of any other nation and only one other country purchased more cotton manufactures.

Wallpaper

When first used, wallpaper was the poor man's tapestry. Later wealthy people also adopted it to supplant the silk and velvet wall hangings so popular in Europe until the 1890's. The Chinese, who were the first people to use paper, were also the first to use it as a wall decoration.

Candy Eaters

The average person in the United States eats more candy than butter, cheese, margarine or cereal. Each year the average person eats 10.2 pounds of butter, 7.3 pounds of cheese, 5.7 pounds of margarine and eight pounds of cereals, compared with 17 pounds of candy.

Damage from Meteorites

In all the thousands of years that meteorites have been plunging earthward, no catastrophic strike has ever been known in a settled area. Likewise, there are no authentic records of a direct hit on any human, and relatively few accounts exist of damage to property.

Man-Made Wonders

The legend of Paul Bunyan, the giant who used trees for toothpicks, lives on in natural and man-made wonders of the west. At Hells canyon, the gorge of the Snake river between Oregon and Idaho is America's deepest chasm. The world's largest earthfill dam is Fort Peck, in Montana. The three highest dams, Hoover, Shasta, and Grand Coulee, are respectively in Arizona-Nevada, California, and Washington.

Bad For Cats
A steady diet of liver and kidneys may make the family cat purr, but it's risky from a health standpoint. A bulletin from veterinary medical authorities cautions that cats raised on these two items alone may form such strong taste habits that they will refuse other foods needed for good nutritional health. Liver and kidneys are excellent for cats, the bulletin explains, but should not be overfed to the exclusion of fish, lean meat, milk, and a limited amount of cereal.

Setting for Treasures
In a living room where fine pictures are hung artistically, the background has been planned to give them effective setting. Walls and woodwork are painted a grayed-white. Against this, the gold framed pictures show to great advantage. The ceiling is painted a deep blue and the same color is repeated in lamp bases, upholstery and accessories. Black lacquer furniture, embellished in gold, and deep chairs, upholstered in blue, black and gold fabric, lend richness and stability to the room.

Shower Cap
Ever notice a dank, sour odor to your shower cap? The sure cure should be right on your bathroom shelf. Soak the cap about 20 minutes in a soda-water solution (a fourth cup of baking soda to a quart of water). Rinse and dry in the sun.

Easier on The Back
Chairs, tables and other pieces that are not too heavy may be painted more easily if set upside down on a piece of newspaper and the legs coated first. The table or chair is then set upright on the paper and the work is completed.

In Crowded Norway
The people of Norway make good use of all available space. They often cover the roofs of their houses with squares of turf in which grass and small bushes are planted. This makes excellent pasturage for their goats.

Little Stories about Great Hymns
Work, for the Night is Coming
Work, for the night is coming; Work through the morning hours; Work while the dew is sparkling; Work 'mid springing flowers; Work when the day grows brighter; Work in the glowing sun; Work, for the night is coming, When man's work is done.

The writer, Anna Coghill, was a Canadian woman. In her north country, summers are short. Every minute is needed to get the crops started in time to ripen and harvest, or early frosts may waste the whole year's effort. The driving words and music remind that our lives, too, are brief, and must be eagerly filled with Christ's good works.

Calumet Farm Makes Profit Grazing Cattle

Famous Horse Farm Handles 200 Yearly

Proud-faced titans of the turf world and white-faced hereford steers share the lush Kentucky blue grass carpeting the 1,200 acres of pastures at Calumet farms, Lexington, Ky.

Calumet is grazing some 200 head of hereford steers shipped in last April from the panhandle of Texas. They are bought as long yearlings and grazed through Noember. Their average gain ranges in the neighborhood of forty pounds per month.

Since Calumet is not equipped to fatten cattle for the market, manager J. P. Ebelhardt has keyed his cattle program to the eight-month grazing period.

"We find," he says, "our net profit amounts to as much in this shorter period of time as if we had carried them on a feeding program for 12 months."

Ebelhardt and his staff of helpers also prefer herefords "because they seem a quieter type of cattle and handle well in moving from pasture to pasture."

Farmers spend a larger proportion of their income for fertilizer than they did before the war, a recent survey revealed. The average amount used, however, may still be no more than half the amount that could be used economically.

A fairly general standard is that a farm should be using the equivalent of 100 to 200 pounds of single strength fertilizer per year for each tillable acre in the farm. A farm of 100 tillable acres using 150 pounds per tillable acre per year would require 12 tons of fertilizer per year.

For most economical operation it seems certain that crop expense is not an item to reduce but one that the average farmer needs to increase. For example, good seed is high priced, but generally the increase in yield offsets the added cost.

Co-Inch-Idence
The average girl's waist is about 23 inches, or about the same as the length of the average man's arm.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Modern Dining Rooms Are Bright And Pleasing As Any Other Room

By Ertta Haley

THE OLD-FASHIONED dining room was very much like the parlor of past years. You put in a table with chairs and a buffet and possibly a glassed chest. It was the room in which you had your meals.

This may be one of the reasons the dining room has passed out of favor in some circles. Another is that, for approximately the two or three hours a day it was used, it was an expense and a space consumer.

Today's dining room is as colorful and pleasing as the most tastefully decorated living, recreation or bedroom. It may be part of the living room, separated only by a different decor. It may be many other things, too, like a sewing room, music corner or library.

Table, chairs and buffet may match, or they may not. Either way worked out intelligently and tastefully can give you a room which you're proud to have in your home, and on display.

If you're building or remodeling, you may want to take advantage of built-in features for the dining room. This is especially true if the room is small, or if it's a combination living-dining room. One wall can be used for a built-in cabinet which will house all manner of dining accessories like glassware, silver, linen and dishes.

Combination living and dining areas can also be separated by flexible screens to give you privacy during dining, and then, too, to

Classroom Fashion

Simple in design but effective in style, this school-teacher's dress is in the budget-priced class. Mint green worsted is the featured fabric with rhinestones buttoning the bodice. Comfortable, three-quarter sleeves give warmth, and the slanting cuffs accenting the fitting pockets add a style note.

as though they belong together in the same house.

If you have a plain hall and plain living room, try a patterned paper in the dining room. It will add versatility to the home. The paper, however, should harmonize effectively with the plain colors used in hall and living room.

What if the hall is patterned and living room plain? Use a plain stripe or wide floral stripe in the dining room.

A large dining room can take the "busier" wallpaper like wide striped ones, bold prints and wealth of pattern. If the room is high ceilinged it's very effective to paper ceiling and come down a foot or two on the walls. Have the remainder plain.

Select Wearable Floor Coverings

Much used dining rooms need floor coverings built to withstand wear. If yours is a home with small children and a lot of their friends, consider linoleum, rubber tile or polished cork. Busy dining rooms require floor coverings which will look neat, even after a meal.

When dining and living rooms are small in size, they may be carpeted in the same rug material. This gives a feeling of spaciousness, and ties the rooms together effectively.

Those who want to give distinct separation to the rooms can do just the opposite. In contrast to the thick carpeting in living room, let the dining room floor gleam with wax or polish, a separate rug or an entirely different covering.

Size of Room Determines Furniture

Large dining rooms can cope with massive pieces of furniture, while smaller rooms must have their furnishings in harmonious scale. Tables for the smaller rooms are made compact, but they have good extension when it's needed. Then, too, for a feeling of space, keep the drop leaf table against a wall until the room is put to use.

If you lack chairs in the living room and can't afford them, it's wise to buy at least two chairs, to be used by host and hostess that can serve in dining or living rooms.

Dining rooms which are to serve as music or sewing rooms should have their furniture carefully chosen so the appearance isn't hodge-podge. Radios or television sets in the dining room, to one and should be finished in harmonious woods, and the chairs or love seats near them can have the same slip-covering as the dining room chairs.

Built-in cabinets are excellent for the sewing equipment. Shelves in the cabinet can take care of sewing accessories. A large shelf can hold a portable sewing machine, while a folding table will fit against the wall of the unit.

Accessories Should Balance Dining Room

Proper accessories add a home-like atmosphere to the room, but they should be used with discrimination. Choose what you like but limit the number used to the size of the room and whatever is in it.

A small room, naturally, should have few accessories. A large mirror above the linen chest or buffet will give the illusion of more room than there actually is. Three items on the buffet should be sufficient, and one is better, since these would be reflected in the mirror.

Larger rooms can take plates or prints on the wall. In this case, too, the table can carry a flower, fruit or plant arrangement.

The most expensive of Oregon woods is the Oregon myrtle which grows chiefly along the southern coast of Oregon and which is not a myrtle at all but actually belongs to the laurel family.

G. Mennen Williams, the man who upset a 36-year tradition by winning re-election, was inaugurated governor for a second term at Lansing, this week.

"Soapy" is now the sole Democrat office-holder at the state capitol. His function as chairman of the state administrative board will be largely an honor. He will lack the power to make or support a motion.

What can Governor Williams accomplish? That remains to be seen, as the legislature as well as the administrative board is well under control of Republicans.

In several states the governor has announced a 1951 program of retrenchment in state services, as contrasted with Williams' 1950 plea for increased spending. Needs of financing state civilian defense—a tremendous problem by the way—are to get priority of revenues in New York state, for example.

In Michigan the problem is more acute because of the mounting treasury deficit due to diversion of sales tax revenues to local governments. On the basis of the past fiscal year (ending last July 1), the State of Michigan is daily going in the red to the tune of more than $100,000. The year-end deficit was $21,811,282.

The state legislature trimmed expenditures for the current fiscal year (ending next July 1) 10 per cent in an effort for economy.

And so it is not difficult to foresee the A-1 problem of the state legislature: How to finance existing state services in the face of new inflated prices.

Wholesale prices soared to new all-time highs in the wake of the Korean war. The Bureau of Labor Statistics composite, wholesale price index started the year 1950 at approximately 151 and ended the year at about 173.6—a gain of 15 per cent!

Leading economists foresee a further price rise in 1951 of around 10 per cent. Then there is the prospect of annual price rises in 1952 and 1953 of 5 per cent, despite all efforts of government controls.

Add these up and you get a perpetual financial headache.

Governor Williams took issue with reporters. In Washington he said the report he would name Walter P. Reuther to the senate should Vandenberg resign was as premature as the report that Harry Kelly was elected governor. Reuther says he wouldn't have the job.

Williams is better off than most thought, so far as appointments are concerned. He has eight positions open which he can handle without senatorial approval.

State civil service employees have received their first pay increase since May 1, 1949. Some 21,145 workers split a $7,500,000 per year melon—an average boost of $30 monthly for each.

Too much poor quality butter in Michigan? A Michigan State College survey says yes. F. M. Skiver, chief of the agriculture department bureau of dairy industry, says most complaints were due to old cream—indicating improper cooling. Skiver warned the dairy industry that its best defense against yellow oleo is to improve the quality and flavor of butter.

It doesn't help to wear red in the woods. Of the 18 hunters killed in this year's deer season only one was not wearing the traditional scarlet. He shot himself accidentally.

At least we are keeping our timber. The state is racking up its best forest fire prevention record in history. Only 5,390 acres burned over.

At the same time, nearly 14,000,000 trees were planted by the conservation department last year—largest program in 10 years.

A "continuous" session of the state legislature is being proposed by some Republican leaders as a method of checkmating Governor Williams in 1951. This idea is being pushed on the belief that Williams will try to embarrass the Republican legislature by advocating liberal money-spending measures, all in the name of the reform, and then holding up the state corporation profits tax as a painless way to finance them.

Such a political move would prevent the governor from calling the legislature back into special sessions for dramatic vote-getting effects. The national emergency would be used by legislators to justify the non-adjournment policy.

All of this points to a somewhat chaotic condition in state affairs.

The re-election of Williams may bring another two years of "politics as usual" instead of unity of administrative and legislative action at the Michigan capitol.

Military Authority
Sometimes I think the Civil War really didn't end. And evidently that idea is shared by a fifth grade student at a local school.

His class has been studying the Civil War, the battles and generals. The book must have been written by a Southerner because General Robert E. Lee seemed to get all the breaks.

The other day, after a strategic battle had been studied, the teacher heard one of her boys whisper loudly to his neighbor:

"You know, I'll bet that fellow Lee is going to win this war!"

OOPS! SORRY!

She had had a very trying day and when her small son, who had been playing in the yard came in with his pants torn, she snapped—

"You go right in, take off your pants and mend them!"

Sometime later she went to see how he was getting along. The torn pants were lying on a chair in the kitchen unmended. The door to the basement, usually closed, was open, so she called down—

"Are you running around down there with your pants off?"

"No, madam," came an indignant roar, "I'm reading the gas meter."

He saw the turn—but couldn't!

He was only going 35 miles an hour. But that's too fast on an icy road at night. Too late, this driver spied the turn. Too late to slow down. Too late to live.

When roads are hazardous, put on tire chains, and don't exceed 25 m.p.h. Take a little longer to get there, and you'll have a lot longer to live.

Can you see this man? Unless your windshield wiper blades and defroster are in good working order, you may cause an accident. Obscured vision was a factor in 1 out of 5 accidents in 1949. You have to see danger to avoid it.

He forgot to pump his brakes. On glare ice, this can be a fatal mistake even at relatively slow speeds. Practice pumping your brakes every time you stop on slippery surfaces and you'll do it in an emergency, too.

BE CAREFUL—

Foot-and-Mouth Disease
International help is in the offing for countries fighting foot-and-mouth disease in livestock. A proposal sponsored by the United Nations calls for establishment of a cooperative research center, probably in England, for making intensive studies of the foot-and-mouth disease virus and for developing improved vaccines to fight it. Services of the international center would be available to all member countries, and all would help finance its operations.

Coinage Metal
Nickel is an appropriate metal for coins since it does not tarnish and wears well. One of the present coins made of pure nickel is the Canadian five-cent piece.

Finishes Aid Pocketbook
Few purchasers realize the great part that colorful and durable industrial finishes now play in making cars, furniture, refrigerators and other household appliances available at prices which so many people can afford. A little more than a quarter of a century ago, for instance, 35 days and 28 or more hand operations were required to finish a high grade automobile. Because of the new improved finishes available today, both the time and plant area required for finishing have been reduced to a mere fraction of that needed 35 years ago.

Paper
It has been said that paper begins where many things end—in rags.

Aid for Sick Foals

Streptomycin, widely acclaimed antibiotic drug, is now winning a place in the sport of kings—helping to give weak, disappointing foals a better start in life. University of Kentucky veterinarians have reported that this drug, given alone or in combination with penicillin, is a promising means of saving foals born wobbly and on the verge of severe illness. Use of antibiotic drugs at the first sign of weakness or illness appears to ward off death in a substantial percentage of these cases. Sulfonamide drugs formerly were used, but with less success.

Merchandise Mart Exhibits Newest Gadgets

CHICAGO, Ill.—Ever heard of a spherical "cube"? Or a magnetic soap holder?

There are such things. And they're practical too.

In Chicago, there is a permanent, constantly expanding exhibit known as "Good Design." Twice yearly, a jury chaired by a consultant to the Museum of Modern Art in New York selects home furnishings designed for present-day life, in general regard to usefulness, to production methods and materials and to the progressive taste of the day.

The exhibit, which is sponsored by the world's largest market place, the Merchandise Mart, includes not only new gadgets like the soap holder which suspends the soap in the air for drying, and a tray which freezes round ice-cubes, but hundreds of other items to add harmony and color and conserve time for Mr. and Mrs. America.

Unusual Appliances

There is a rotary egg-beater which makes manual mixing of liquids practically effortless; there is green and crystal glassware of enviable clarity and design which can be purchased for only fifteen cents a glass; and a dining table that folds in and becomes its own-carrying case.

The idea behind the exhibit was germinated during the latter part of 1949 when a group of retailers and wholesalers met informally to discuss methods for creating a better liaison between the drafting boards of America's talented designers and the production lines of the nation's manufacturers. It was felt that, while excellent furnishings are available on the market, opportunities for viewing them were limited because of a lack of concentration among the various lines. It was believed that many new and practical ideas in the field could be introduced by bridging an unnecessary gulf between those who created designs and those who produced the finished products.

Thousands See Exhibit

Subsequently, the Merchandise Mart, which annually attracts thousands of the nation's top manufacturers, launched a program in cooperation with the Museum of Modern Art, to show the best new designs available on the American home furnishings market.

As a result of their efforts, the public as well as manufacturers may now view items which are adjustable, portable, demountable, versatile and space-conserving for the modern home. There are folding chairs, nests of tables, a telescope coffee table, and a lamp so adaptable that only one is necessary to light an entire room. In most items, strength is obtained not through massiveness but through the use of modern materials and techniques—molded plywood, for example.

The items which are on display in the Good Design exhibit are not for sale at the Merchandise Mart. In actual commercial production, they are on display as a link between art and the home furnishings industry and as an exhibit of advances which have been made to lighten the housewife's burden. The near future will see these items in retail stores across the nation.

As one writer observed, the world and the wife who are waiting to beat a path to a "better mousetrap" will have a busy 1950!

Medical Science Offers Repeater Anti-Histamine

BLOOMFIELD, N. J.—Medical science has developed a unique "repeater" anti-histamine tablet, which promises to deliver a powerful one-two punch against hay fever and other allergies, it has been disclosed.

The repeater tablet, when swallowed acts promptly providing a dose of the anti-histamine chlor-trimeton, to soothe inflamed membranes, and automatically follows four to six hours later with another dose. This boosts the therapeutic value of the drug by doubling its total time of effectiveness against hay fever and other allergies.

Developed after months of intensive research in the laboratories of Schering corporation, Bloomfield, N. J., the double-action tablet is being made available from coast to coast through doctors' prescriptions in time to aid the 5,000,000 persons currently in the grip of the annual hay fever season. The chlor-trimeton double dosage unit, it was said, may also ease the discomfort of an estimated 10,000,000 others who have asthma, hives, eczema and other allergies.

Gives Longer Relief

The basic component of the double tablet, chlor-trimeton maleate, has been shown by published clinical reports to be the most powerful of the score of antihistamines now prescribed by physicians, as well as one of the safest and most effective of the drugs.

The tablet contains two four-milligram doses of chlor-trimeton, one in its outer covering and another in its core. Separating the two doses is a protective layer which acts as a delaying barrier. On entering the stomach, the outer dose is utilized immediately. Four to six hours later the second dose dissolves in the intestine and goes into action.

The new dosage unit, medical researchers reported, will enable a hay fever sufferer to take a pill at bedtime and to sleep through the night without the necessity of rising to take another pill to keep the nasal passages free of obstruction.

Pill Within a Pill

The repeater tablet offers daytime relief to two important groups, workers and school children. White collar and factory workers using these pills for hay fever and allergies need not take time out during the working day to renew the dosage of the anti-histamine in order to keep their heads clear enough to perform their duties. Now mothers can give school children a pill at breakfast time that will last throughout the school day without having to rely on the teacher or the child himself to administer another dose.

Because of its low dosage (4 milligrams as against 25 to 100 milligrams for other anti-histamines) the new chlor-trimeton "pill within a pill" comes in a safe as well as welcome, relief to this year's estimated 15,000,000 allergy sufferers.

Sentry Bags North Korean And Apology From Colonel

MASON FRONT, Korea—Lt. Col. John T. Corley, Brooklyn, gave his men strict orders against wasting ammunition as they stood guard around his frontline command post. Suddenly the night was filled with the sound of carbine fire. A sentry fired a full clip.

"Bring that soldier in," ordered the colonel.

A sergeant went out and returned with the sentry, Pvt. Fraser Payton, Berkeley, Calif.

"Soldier," said Colonel Corley, "I said to quit wasting ammunition. When you shoot a full clip bring in a dead North Korean. Understand?" "Yes, sir," said Private Payton. He saluted and did an about-face.

Three minutes later a voice outside the colonel's tent said:

"Colonel, sir, could you come outside please?"

Colonel Corley stepped outside. There was Private Payton with a corpse beside him.

"Here is your dead North Korean, sir. I believe you asked for him."

Said the colonel to the private: "I apologize, soldier."

"Thank you, sir," said Private Payton.

Birmingham Can't Get Rid Of Trees Storm Blown Down

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—In August a storm swept across Birmingham and blew down 1,000 trees. Now they are piled in four huge heaps and the city can't get rid of them.

Commissioner James W. Morgan first tried to sell the trees. No buyers. Then he tried to give them away. No takers.

Next he thought of burning them, but feared he'd run afoul of the city's smoke abatement law.

To haul the trees outside the city limits and burn them would cost about $25,000, and Morgan said the city's budget couldn't stand it.

He has one possible solution left—this autumn when homeowners burn piles of leaves he'll try to burn the trees. He says that city police always look the other way then, and they might do the same for him.

SHORT STORY
New Neighbors
By Richard H. Wilkinson

THE Whitney's living room faced on a court. Across the court were the windows of another apartment. Occasionally Paul Whitney, relaxed on his couch, could see people moving around there. After a day or two he decided that the occupants were a young, childless couple who spent a good deal of time at home.

3 Minute Fiction

"I'd like to get to know them," Paul confided to his wife.
Mrs. Whitney sighed. "I would, too. We've been here a month now and haven't met a soul. Do you suppose I ought to go over and call?"
Paul shook his head doubtfully. "I wouldn't—not without some good excuse. You know how apartment dwellers are. They might think we were imposing." He glanced across the court. "They have a much better apartment than ours."

"Better?"
"Why, it's obviously their living room we can look into and, if you'll notice, there are windows on both sides."

Mrs. Whitney followed her husband's gaze. Without effort she could look into their neighbors' living room and see the window on the wall opposite. "That's so," she admitted.

Mrs. Whitney went into the kitchen and Paul rose and strolled idly toward the window of his own living room. On the chance of being observed, he pretended to examine a potted plant on the sill.

Surprisingly he glanced across the court, and was shocked to see the head and shoulders of a man framed in the window on the far side of their neighbors' living room. He called his wife, and, standing well back so as not to be observed, they peered across the court. But the figure in the window on the far side vanished.

"You're positive you saw someone?" Mrs. Whitney asked.
"Positive!" Paul affirmed. "Ought we to notify the police?"
"I wouldn't. Whoever it is is gone, and perhaps the police wouldn't believe us. We'd appear ridiculous."

TWO evenings later Paul again saw the peeping Tom. He was standing in the same position, and sight of the man at the window of their neighbor's apartment gave him the same unexpected shock. "I'm going to do something about it. Sooner or later the chap will confound enough courage to break his way in," Paul said.

"Let's go over there and warn the people, tell them what we saw and let them do as they like about it," She hesitated. "Perhaps we can strike up an acquaintance."

THEY CROSSED to the neighboring apartment and knocked. A pleasant-faced woman opened the door.
"Are you Mrs. Phelps?" Mrs. Whitney asked. The woman nodded and Mrs. Whitney said: "We're Mr. and Mrs. Whitney from across the court, we—"

"Come right in! Frank and I were thinking of calling on you." The Whitneys entered and were greeted cordially by Mr. Phelps. "I'm afraid," said Paul, "that we came on rather an unpleasant mission." And he explained what they had seen.

"You're positive you saw someone?" Mrs. Whitney asked.

Mr. Phelps looked puzzled. "There's something wrong here. Would you mind stepping into the living room?" They followed him in and he pointed toward the far wall. "You see we have no windows on that wall."

He broke off as Mrs. Whitney gasped. "Why, it wasn't a window at all! It was that mirror! You see, it hangs where a window might be, and faces our apartment. Paul Whitney, it was your own reflection you saw! Standing near the flower pot, you saw yourself in the mirror, and it appeared that some one else was peering in at the Phelps!"
Paul's jaw dropped. He swallowed, grimed and looked sheepish. But the Phelps thought it was a grand joke, and urged their new neighbors to spend the evening.

Low Cost Essential
For Farm Building
Concrete Blocks Filling
Farm Construction Needs

Concrete blocks are being used more and more in the construction of farm buildings, according to American Builder magazine.

They have been found very serviceable for dairy barn construction, low in first cost and in upkeep.

Attributes that contribute to concrete's value as a building material on the farm are its durability, cleanliness, and weather and insect resistant qualities. Concrete foundations, masonry unit walls, concrete floors, and precast floor joists can be utilized to construct enduring farm structures and to repair old ones.

Dairy barn of concrete blocks and with a roof of fire-resistant asphalt shingles provides an efficient structure low in cost and in upkeep.

If a dairy barn is well-constructed and insulated, body heat of the cows would keep interior temperatures at 45 to 60 degrees in almost any kind of weather.

Lightweight aggregates in monolithic concrete or in masonry units, vermiculite floors and underlayers, hollow core walls, and masonry units with granular loose-filled cores all have qualities that can contribute to the efficiency of rural buildings.

Less Than Half of U.S.
Farm Homes Have Baths

Less than one-half of the nation's more than 4,000,000 farm homes have baths and only half of the rooms are heated, a study of rural housing accommodations revealed.

Excessive standardization to relieve early postwar housing shortages resulted in the building of mediocre farm homes of rectangular, box-like design with too small rooms, too little privacy and absence of adequate plumbing and heating facilities.

However, under impetus of a U.S. department of agriculture program, farm house plans have recently been developed that are expected to fulfill the fundamental requirements. The new plans call for space, equipment and storage facilities in proportion to the number of persons in the family.

Coupled with the benefits of a 10-year electrification program that has brought electricity to 75 per cent of the farm homes, this new home designing will open an untapped market for manufacturers of automatic equipment and home appliances.

Although most farmers these days live on a hard surfaced road, there may be occasion when it would be necessary to pull a car or tractor out of a ditch. The above illustration shows how to get out of that ditch with the least amount of effort. A tow rope hitched to the front end of the car and tied to a stake or tree at right angle at the side of the road, will give you the leverage to get out of almost any place without help.

Larger crops than last year reported for North Dakota, South Dakota, and Montana, more than offset the smaller crops indicated for Nebraska, Colorado and Washington. The Colorado crop was near failure in 1950.

Le Sabre's Body Is Only Three Feet High

An experiment in the automobile future—a low, sleek sports car with dramatic, sweeping lines of a jet aircraft—was unveiled Friday by the styling section of General Motors.

The car, a custom built two seater, is under construction in styling section shops and is expected to be completed within two months. The first showing was in the form of a full-size plaster model.

Harley J. Earl, GM vice president in charge of styling, said the new vehicle will bear the symbolic name of Le Sabre. In development four years, Le Sabre will be a "laboratory on wheels" for testing both mechanical and styling ideas that GM designers have sketched on drawing boards and discussed in engineering shop talk.

"This is the car of the future only in the sense that some of its design or mechanical features may appear some day in standard motorcars," Mr. Earl said.

"Le Sabre is purely experimental. Actually, it is the second car of its kind, the advanced car we built 12 years ago for the counterpart of an experimental same reason—to find out whether some of our futuristic ideas would pay off on the road," he declared. Although the body is only three feet high, Le Sabre has a standard road clearance of six inches and a 115-inch wheelbase. Its styling embodies the dramatic, sweeping lines of a jet aircraft.
