Cass City High School advanced into the second round of the District High School State Basketball Tournament Wednesday night by defeating Sandusky, 42-31, at the high school gym.

The Hawks salted away the victory in the second period, after trailing at the end of a slow first quarter, 7-8.

Four successive gift tosses early in the period by Lee Hartel and Tom Schwaderer sent Cass City into the lead for the first time in the game, 11-10.

Once ahead, the Hawks lost no time in moving into a comfortable lead. Bob Wallace and Eugene Kloc hit for a pair of buckets before Sandusky counted their first field goal of the quarter to bring Cass City's margin to 15-12.

Tim Burdon, who led both teams with 13 points, hit with two quick baskets on his favorite shots from around the foul circle and then added a free throw to send the Hawks attack into high gear. Jim Bishop and Kloc followed with two-pointers and as the half ended Cass City was leading, 24-18.

With Burdon carrying the load offensively, the Hawks played on even terms with Sandusky throughout the second half.

In the third period, Cass City stretched their lead to 31-19 and controlled the game with their comfortable lead.

Coach Arthur Paddy used his reserves freely during the closing moments of the last period to keep the score within bounds.

The Hawks were to have played Pinconning in the second round of the tournament Thursday night.

The line score:

Cass City ..... 7 17 7 11-42

Sandusky ..... 8 5 6 12-31

Hawks Stop Elkton Rally to Register Tenth League Win

The Red Hawks of Cass City weathered a last quarter rally by Elkton to win a 38-26 decision Friday night at the high school gym.

Leading most of the way, the Hawks nearly let victory slip away when Elkton started hitting from the field and from the foul line to close the gap between the two schools, while Cass City was having difficulty making their numerous shots, which were just missing all evening, count.

It looked like a different team than the one that was beaten at Sebawaing in the previous game. Although the Hawks defeated Elkton and lost to Sebawaing, most fans thought that Cass City played better ball in defeat than they did Friday in victory.

Neither team showed much in the way of offensive strength in the first quarter. Eugene Kloc sent the Hawks into an early lead in the opening minutes when he hit twice in succession for four points. Shoddy ball handling and inaccurate shooting kept the score down—only eleven points were made in the period, Cass City having a slim 6-5 edge when the whistle sounded.

Tim Burdon showed flashes of the accuracy that made him high point man against Sebawaing in the closing moments of the first half and the Hawks pulled into a 19-11 intermission lead on the strength of his two field goals and gift toss in the dying moments of the second quarter.

It looked as if Coach Arthur Paddy had solved the Hawks trouble in the opening minutes of the third quarter. Playing smooth ball, the Cass City quintet started to roll up their largest margin of the game. Tom Schwaderer, Bob Wallace and Burdon each hit for a pair of goals while Elkton managed to count just twice and the Hawks had a 28-15 lead.

Early Morning Fire Razes Home Of Harry Hartwick

Fire demolished the home of Harry Hartwick, 5 1/2 miles south of Cass City, early Thursday morning.

The blaze broke out around five o'clock a. m. while Hartwick and his wife were sleeping and burned their trailer home to the ground.

According to eye-witness reports, the Hartwicks lost all their possessions, narrowly escaping when smoke coming through the floor awakened the couple in time for them to leave before the trailer caved in.

The Cass City fire department was unable to stop the fire from destroying the trailer but they saved the garage behind the burning building after the roof had started to smoulder from flying sparks.

The fire department does not know what caused the blaze but believe that it might have been the stove in the trailer.

Researcher Enters Thunderclouds to Learn About Storms

BOSTON, Mass.—Joachim Kuestner of the air force's Cambridge research laboratories recently completed three years of study of thunderclouds. He found a number of strange and dangerous phenomena. Curious things happen inside thunderclouds, he reported. Updrafts and downdrafts, formation of solid precipitation (freezing of super-cooled water droplets), formation of different kinds of electrical charges in different parts of thunderstorm "cells".

Kuestner conducted his research in the observatory atop the 10,000 foot Zugspitze, Germany's highest mountain, which pokes its summit right into the base of thunderclouds. He discovered that a local thunderstorm can be bigger than you think—up to 60 miles across. It is made up of individual cells which may be several miles wide and high. The cell, in turn, is subdivided into other cells, of maybe a tenth the size of the mature cell. The mature cell extends upward to a height of five or six miles where a cirrus anvil floats (that's a white, filmy, lofty layer of cloud made of ice crystals).

It extends through various temperatures ranging from above freezing at its base to bitter zero reading far aloft. There are generally three main electrical charges, a local positive charge in the base, a negative charge in the lower part, and a positive charge in the upper part. "The negative charge center is apparently the starting point of most lightning," Kuestner said.

Alaska's Farmers May Hitch Wagons to Moose and Yaks

COLLEGE, Alaska—According to the Soviet magazine "Soviet Arctic", long legged moose and shaggy, oxlike yaks have been domesticated in Siberia.

The article said in part: "Notwithstanding their gigantic size (males sometimes attain eight feet in height) moose are extremely quick maturing... are easily tamed and readily become accustomed to harness. After being tamed from an early age, they do not become wild later even if allowed full freedom in pasture."

The article also told of tests made with a female moose which pulled approximately two and a half tons at a speed of 4.3 miles an hour, carried a 265 pound pack at the same speed through broken country and "with an excellent, bold trot, covered the distance of one mile in 1 minute and 43 seconds (a speed of about 35 miles per hour)."

Farmers in Alaska may try some experiments with the moose as a result of the article. If true, it would certainly solve one of their many problems.

They could give up using horses, for which feed must be imported, and instead tame moose—which are plentiful in the agricultural portions of the northland.

Floor too Hard, So Tame Deer Takes Over Bedroom

COWICHAN, British Columbia—A four-year-old deer named Yellow Horn is getting too domesticated for Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Boyd. For one thing, he's sleeping in their bed most of the time.

The buck moved in on the Boyd family. He started sleeping on the veranda. He didn't take too well to the hard floor and later sneaked into the house at every chance and snuggled down on a bed.

The Boyd family finally found it necessary to keep their doors locked all the time. Yellow Horn was deserted as a lawn on the shores of Cowichan Lake. Loggers adopted him and painted the horns yellow for easy identification by hunters. Thus the name.

Egyptian Prince's Tomb, 2,600 Years Old, Found

LUXOR, Egypt—The 2,600 year old tomb of ancient Egyptian high priest Mentemhet, also known as the prince of Thebes, has been found, Egyptian archeologists report.

M. Zacharia Ghoneim reported the discovery and said the find included statues, offering tables, sarcophagi and bas reliefs in the rare saffron style. In addition, he said, his team of archeologists hope to find other tombs since the Mentemhet tomb indicated that the people of that time buried their dead carefully.

The discovery was made three years ago. Although marked by a tall pylon of mud bricks, there had never been any digging on the site until Ghoneim's party went to work.

The want ads are newsworthy, too.

Michigan Soil Needs Lime for Best Growth

Michigan is falling behind in its liming program, cautions E. D. Longnecker, soils specialist at Michigan State College. He believes that farmers are not using half the agricultural lime they should.

During the last 15 years, Michigan farmers have used about seven and one-half million tons of lime, an average of 1/2 million tons each year.

Longnecker cites that about eight million of our 11 million acres of tillable land need occasional liming for the best growth of such valuable feed and soil building crops as alfalfa and clover.

During the past 15 years, there has been applied to our low lime soils slightly less than one ton of lime to the average acre.

It is believed that with a climate such as Michigan's, 200 pounds of lime is lost from the average acre of top soil each year by cropping and leaching.

Legumes feed more heavily on lime than do other crops. A three ton crop of alfalfa contains the equivalent of 300 pounds of lime, though part of the lime removed by feeding crops is returned in the manure.

Though Michigan farmers are using two and one-half to three million dollars worth of lime each year, it is believed that they are spending 75 million dollars for livestock and poultry feeds. Much of this extra feed can be produced on the home farms if soils are properly limed and fertilized.

Liming should be the first step in improving the productivity of medium to strongly acid soils.

Longnecker believes. Whether lime is needed and the frequency of re-liming can only be determined by testing representative soil samples. County agricultural agents can give information regarding soil testing.

about Great Hymns
Come Be Disconsolate
Come, ye disconsolate, where'er ye languish,
Come to the mercy seat, fervently kneel;
Here bring your wounded hearts, here tell your anguish,
Earth has no sorrow that heaven cannot heal

Thomas Moore, the noted Irish poet, wrote this hymn. He was a musician, as well, and often sang his own songs to the delight of the great and noble where he was a welcomed and favorite guest. Death took one of his beloved daughters. Before he recovered from this shock, his sensitive and tender spirit was crushed by the loss of another daughter. He expressed his deep sorrow in this hymn.

Willis Campbell, supt. of the high school, led the group in community singing.

Plans Started for Upper Thumb All Sports Banquet

Tentative plans for the Upper Thumb Athletic Association's annual all Sports Banquet were formed Monday night at a banquet in Cass City.

If present plans materialize, the affair will be held at Sebawing. The school that wins the basketball crown in the league is expected to be the hosts for the affair.

However, some doubt has been raised over a suitable spot to hold the banquet in Sebawing. If a large enough hall is not found to house the expected throng, the site will be shifted to Cass City.

Each school is allowed to bring 20 persons to the banquet, including coaches. Players selected for the honor will be required to pay at least a dollar for a ticket. Students may be required to pay a bigger percentage of the ticket, at the discretion of the individual schools.

Present plans call for the banquet soon after Easter.

1951 Wheat Crop

A national average price support of not less than $1.59 a bushel for 1951-crop wheat has been announced by the secretary of agriculture. This is the same as the support level now in effect for the 1950 crop.

Tricky Darlings

By Richard H. Wilkinson

JOHN Carlton would never go so far as to say his daughter, Jane, was stubborn. He chose to call it an independent spirit, a desire to lead her own life, make her own way in the world.

Actually Jane was a duplicate of old John in character and disposition. Old John recognized the resemblance.

Knowing Jane as he did, and loving her as he did, gave Old John a decided advantage. He knew what methods to employ when he wanted her to do something.

Jane was beautiful. She attracted men, lots of them.

Old John frowned on Jane's reckless regard for love. He frowned on the young men who paid her court. All but one, it seemed to him, were worthless.

The one, Phil Scot by name, a son of Old John's closest friend, appeared to possess the requisites of a good husband. In the first place he had a job. Secondly, he worked hard and had ambition to do big things. Thirdly, his attentions toward Jane were honorable and sincere.

Old John was too wise to suggest to Jane that she consider Phil Scot as a possible husband. Despite the fact that he knew that Jane did not regard Phil with disfavor, he knew, also, that the moment she became aware of her father's prejudice poor Phil wouldn't stand a chance.

"Look here, Jane," he said one day, "I notice you've been seeing that young Scot fellow a good deal lately. I absolutely wouldn't stand for his type as a son-in-law."

Jane's surprise gave way to anger. "Phil Scot," she said defiantly, "is a darling. Of all the boys I know Phil stands head and shoulders above the rest. And," she added, "you'd better like it because he's the man I'm going to marry."

Old John scowled. "He'll never be a son-in-law of mine. So you'd better begin forgetting him now."

An hour later Albert J. Scot, a young Phil's father, completed a telephone conversation with his oldest and closest friend, John Carlton, and summoned his son.

"Phil," he began, frowning deeply, "it seems to me you've been paying a good deal of attention to that Carlton girl lately. I want it stopped! Understand! She's nothing but a flirt and a social butterfly."

Phil was agast. "But, Dad, she's the daughter of your oldest friend! I thought... that if... well, you see I like Jane a lot. I was in hopes..."

"Well, cease hoping," Scot senior cut in.

A WEEK LATER Old John and Albert Scot were sipping drinks and exchanging congenialities on the veranda of the former's home. A car stopped out front and two young people came up the walk.

Jane was beautiful. She attracted men, lots of them. She was, in fact, a bit reckless about it all, and refused flatly to take the matter seriously.

The two young people stopped and smiled pleasantly.

Jane Carlton said: "I'm sorry to disappoint you, father, but John and I are married. We love each other, and, despite the fact that neither you nor Mr. Scot approves of the match, we're going to live our lives as we see fit."

"And," said Phil Scot defiantly, "if you don't like it, you can lump it."

Old John and Albert J. Scot exchanged glances. They laughed. They slapped each other on the back and roared with delight.

Jane and Phil looked on in bewilderment. After awhile Old John wiped his eyes and explained the conspiracy the pair had concocted. Jane looked at Phil and Phil looked at Jane and Jane said:

"How clever. You won't mind, then, when we tell you we've been married for two months! We've kept it secret till Phil got a raise in pay. He got it today and tomorrow we're leaving on our honeymoon. You two can sit here and think up ways and means of running our lives when we get back."

Life of Cows

Normally, unless congress takes special action, the minimum life span of a cow of specific design is 25 years

Modern Circus

The modern circus is credited to 18th century England and an ex-cavalryman who enlivened his London horse show with acrobatic and clown acts. The popular feature soon spread to the European continent and to the young United States, where the Ricketts circus of Philadelphia, in 1793, counted George Washington among its admirers.

First U.S. Cows

When Christopher Columbus came to America there were no cows, but on his second voyage in 1493, he brought cattle and other farm animals to the islands of the West Indies.

Rolling Mills

In 100 days, modern, high speed rolling mills can produce as many hot rolled steel sheets as the hand mills of 25 years ago were able to make in a year.

Silkworm Cocoon

A single silkworm cocoon may yield 400 to 1,000 yards of filament. So delicate is this strand that some 2,000 to 3,000 cocoons are required to produce one pound of silk.

French Youths Discover Museum Of Cave Man Art

BORDEAUX, France—A dog fell down a hole and as a result France has a museum of cave man art estimated at 20 to 30 thousand years old.

Four French youths were out hunting rabbits one September day in 1940 when their dog Robot. Suddenly Robot disappeared.

The boys heard barking from beneath a small hole covered with bushes. They enlarged the hole and the oldest youth scrambled down to rescue the dog. Lighting matches, he saw a long corridor ahead.

On the following day the boys went exploring. Entering the long forgotten corridor, the boys edged along a ridge of fallen earth until they reached a cave some 50 feet below ground.

By their flickering lights, the youths made out an array of paintings in red and black on their whitish stone walls—an immense group of fantastic animals.

Fantastic Animals
They reported their findings to their schoolmaster and he investigated. A few hours later he excitedly telegraphed the noted French pre-historian Abbe Henri Breuil in Paris and soon the great discovery was known to the world. It is the now famous Lascaux cave.

After World War II the 600 paintings were photographed and examined by experts. And the cave has become a French government museum guarded by huge steel and stone doors.

The pictures of lifelike animals were drawn with natural indelible colors of ochre and oxide of manganese. They were preserved through the ages by the dryness of the cave.

The oldest one dates back an estimated 30,000 years. Some are marred by other works superimposed 15,000 years or so later.

Arrows pierce the hides of many of the animals. Some of the strange creatures seem to have wandered out of a nightmare. One hybrid monster sprouts two horns from its forehead. Its bloated belly is spotted like a leopard.

Painting on Painting
A reddish stallion, his body shaded to indicate a third dimension, has been chasing his mate for at least 15,000 years. Other wild horses, some bearing a distinct likeness to the Shetland pony, gallop across the wall in full stampede. One unlucky horse is pictured toppling over a precipice, its forelegs thrashing the air.

A humpbacked bison, its entrails dragging in the dust and seven arrows sticking in its flanks, charges a badly gored hunter. Two other bison hurry away in flight. Nearby is a bird perched on a curious totem pole.

A giant black bull 18 feet long is the largest single painting. Partly obscured by galloping horses drawn thousands of years later, the beast appears to be reaching toward a tuft of grass.

All in all, scientists insist, this menagerie of fantastic animals is the finest and best preserved gallery of prehistoric art ever found. It indicates that long before man learned to write, he had an itch to paint pictures and brag about his hunting skill.

Relations Firm Offers New Service for Politicians

NEW YORK, N. Y.—A New York public relations firm is offering a new service—"packaged" political campaigns" for candidates running for local offices.

In case you are thinking of running for office, the firm said it would advise clients on:

The best radio and television stations in their area.

The best newspapers to use for political advertising.

Their personality type and the media best suited to show it off to the voters.

Outstanding political issues, both local and national.

The efficiency of direct mail and leaflet campaigns and the availability of poster space.

The company also proposed to help work out advance reservations for desirable radio and TV time and "plan the most effective use of these facilities."

Movie Managers Take Course In How to be a Gentleman

LONDON, Eng.—J. Arthur Rank, British movie mogul, is determined to turn his cinema managers into perfect gentlemen.

Starting from the bottom—in the boiler room—24 fledgling managers are learning the niceties of separating the customers from their shillings graciously in a suburban Rank movie house that has been turned into a combination school and dormitory.

It's a 24-week course. Besides learning how to stoke a boiler and keep a theater at a comfortable temperature, embryo managers will have a crack at polishing windows, vacuuming the carpets, peddling ice cream speedily during intermissions so that it gets to the customer before it starts melting; and handling an usherette's torch so that it doesn't flash in the eyes of the patrons.

The want ads are newsy, too.

TUSCOLA COUNTY EXTENSION OFFICE

Farmers who haven't received their supply of commercial fertilizer for spring crops would do well to order and obtain delivery as soon as possible. A shortage of sulfuric acid, necessary in the production of superphosphate, may limit manufacturers output considerably. Supplies of fertilizers high in phosphoric acid are expected to be exhausted at an early date.

March 3-11 is National 4-H Club Week. 4-H leaders in many communities are planning special events to observe the occasion. Membership drives, window displays, or special meetings for parents are some of the activities that 4-H clubs might engage in to celebrate the annual observance. If there isn't a 4-H club in your neighborhood, why don't you, individually or through some organization that you belong to, find out about starting one for the children of your community? Information and help may be obtained from the 4-H club agent's office at the courthouse in Caro.

The Tuscola County Soil Testing Service is now in operation in the Farm Bureau office adjoining the Caro Farmers' Cooperative Elevator in Caro. Soil samples may be left in the Farm Bureau office. Results of tests will be sent to farmers from the Extension Office.

The six sugar beet growers' meetings held last week under the sponsorship of the Extension Service and Michigan Sugar Company were held from Tuesday through Friday. Locations of the meetings were St. Paul's Lutheran School, Millington, Fairgrove High School, Remington School, Gilford Township Hall, Cass City High School and Richville Community Hall. Mechanization of spring sugar beet labor was emphasized at all the meetings. The programs included talks by Gilbert Smith, Max Henderson and Maurice Frankes of Michigan Sugar Company, Byron E. Carpenter, Assistant County Agricultural Agent, George Mac-

Queen, County 4-H Club Agent, and Clarence Hansen and Robert White of the Michigan State College agricultural engineering department. About 250 growers attended one or more of the meetings.

One Suntan, Please

The time may not be so far distant when you'll be able to buy a suntan from a coin machine. Engineers at General Electric are experimenting now with a sun-heat unit which might double for the sun in such places as doctors' and dentists' waiting rooms, beauty shops, lounges, and hotel rooms. The machine uses a heat lamp in conjunction with the sunlamp to promote mild perspiration, which conditions the skin for tanning. A timer and a tape for measuring the proper exposure distance from the lamps safeguard the customer.

GREENLEAF

Extension—

The Greenleaf Extension Club met with Mrs. Henry Klinkman Friday, February 23, for an afternoon meeting.

The lesson for the day, Furniture Arrangement, Lesson 2, was ably presented by the leaders, Mrs. George Seeger and Mrs. Otto Goertsen. The lesson was both interesting and instructive.

The Club voted to contribute to the March of Dimes. Some material and data were turned in in connection with the County Scrapbook Project.

The hostess served delicious refreshments of tea and cookies from a prettily set table with a dainty centerpiece of pink carnations.

At the close of the meeting the members enjoyed an impromptu duet by Mrs. Otto Goertsen and Mrs. Rayford Thorpe. An unusual feature of the duet was that Mrs. Thorpe played the accompaniment on a melodeon, which is about 100 years old and in perfect condition.

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

Thirty-five Years Ago.
March 3, 1916

The summer cottages of C. D. Striffler, A. H. Higgins, J. D. Brooker and Mr. Newton at Oak Bluff were entered recently and bedding, dishes and other articles were stolen.

Mrs. H. J. Metlin, who has spent several months with her daughter, Mrs. L. E. Dickinson, at Cass City was an acquaintance of Abraham Lincoln and says that history in no way exaggerates his characteristics.

Twenty-five Years Ago.
March 5, 1926.

Among the list of students in the literary college of the U. of M.

at Ann Arbor to receive all "A" grades in a recent examination appears the name of Edna P. Colwell. She is distinguishing herself by being one of the 32 students to receive the highest credits this year.

The A. B. C. Sales and Service of Cass City listed the new low prices on Chevrolets in a Chronicle advertisement as: Touring, $510; Roadster, $510; Coupe, $645; Sedan, $735 and Landau, $765.

Roy C. Rogers of Cass City, proprietor of the Rogers Bus Lines, has been awarded the contract by United States Post Office department for the carrying of mail between Cass City and Inlay City.

Treat Eyes Right

The selection of paint-color for offices is just as important as it is for homes, stores, plants and factories. The tints and tones chosen must work in harmony with natural and artificial lighting. The eyes of the desk workers—from clerk to president—need thoughtful care if employees are to do their best work and remain in the best physical condition.

HAWKS STOP ELKTON'S RALLY TO REGISTER TENTH LEAGUE WIN

Cass City seemed to be winning going away, but Elkton came to life and started closing the gap.

With just two minutes to play in the game, Elkton had whittled the Hawks lead to four points. Then Jack Bursick hit with a pivot and Cass City was just one basket ahead.

With the pressure on, Kloc counted to bring the lead back to four points with 30 seconds left.

Jim Wiley hit for Elkton 15 seconds later, but Cass City froze the ball for the remaining moments and walked off with their tenth league win in twelve starts this season.

Schwaderer led the Hawks from the scoring column with 11 points, closely followed by Burdon and Kloc with nine each.

New Window Treatments Pay Dividends in Home Decorations

By Ertia Haley

Did you know that new window treatments in your home will pay you more in decorating dividends than anything else that you can do to a room? Windows can be such a striking feature, even though they are small, and they can be treated decoratively, at less expense than furniture or walls.

Old curtains and draperies may often be used as the means for decorating windows, if they lend themselves to new color by dyeing or simple trimming like fringe or ruffle.

If old draperies are worn and cannot be dyed, they can frequently be turned inside out and used again. This is particularly true of velvet, velveteen or corduroy. Cotton fabrics, such as homespun or muslin types, can be dyed readily.

Remnants will often yield enough material to utilize for trimming, too. Check over old formals, feed sacks, old sheer curtains or pieces of materials picked up at sales. Combined cleverly with what you have in the way of draperies or curtains, you can come up with good window treatments.

Do your planning of the new project with a flair, and don't get side-tracked with an easier but less effective way of doing the job once you're in the midst of it. Some effects planned have to be carried out with good workmanship and care, if they are to be effective, so plan to give these the utmost in attention to detail.

If you don't want to re-do the whole room, choose a window treatment that will not make the walls and furnishings look too shabby, and thus force you to go further in your efforts at decoration.

Use Fringe, Ruffles On Old Draperies

Fringe trimming can be used in both modern and traditional rooms. It's an excellent way to trim old drapes and curtains, because of its easy application.

You may have fringe from an old pair of drapes that can be dyed to suit your new scheme. It may also be purchased in different colors.

Use matching or contrasting fringe for any of the following suggestions.

An old pair of turned draperies can be treated to a fringe decoration in "V" formation, using three rows of fringe coming just about at the center of the drape. If dyed to a bright shade that contrasts nicely with the drapes, this can be effective.

If your room is modern in conception, you can use any plain material for draperies, the more textured the fabric, the better. Add narrow fringe to the draperies in graduated rows, starting with one row at the top, followed several inches lower with two rows, then three and four rows.

Fringe may also be used as the edging on coarse net curtains. This is especially good on single windows such as you would find in a hall, dinette or bathroom. For washable curtains, simply baste the fringe on, or sew it to a strip of snaps such as you might use for attaching a cover to the dressing table. Remove the fringe before laundering and then snap it on again after the curtains are clean.

Ruffles don't even have to be of the same material as the curtains to which they're attached. Another nice idea to know in this respect is that two different materials can be used to ruffle trim the same window.

Curtains Look Expensive With These Tricks

For kitchen or bathroom, use a deep ruffle at the top of the window. Add three or four rows of ruffling to the lower half of the half curtain. All the ruffles can be dyed in darker or lighter shades of the same color, yellow, green, pink or blue.

For a narrow row of kitchen windows, here's a neat idea: Using two kinds of material, one of print and the other of plain material that contrasts well with the predominant color of the print, make two rows of ruffles and hang at the top. Use the print on top of the plain.

Old sheeting is excellent to use for ruffles, as described above, for it can be dyed any color to match the printed cloth which is picked from a remnant counter or is left from an old cotton bedspread or drapes.

For dining or living rooms, you can make old sheer curtains look double or triple their original value simply by adding rows of ruffle to panel curtains. Then dye the whole panel with the ruffles the same shade, something which will go well in the room.

Sheer and panel curtains in contrasting shades can be used on the same windows. The panel curtains may be light in shade, while the sheer curtains, hung over them in the manner of draperies, could be the darker color. Both sets of curtains should be full to give a luxurious look to the windows.

Striped wallpaper in a room frequently gives rise to a curtain problem. Solve it easily by using white sheer curtains tied back with a tailored bow. Use a cornice over the curtains, with a tailored bow at the center. Cornice and tiebacks may match the stripe in the wallpaper.

Use Feed Sacks For Curtains

Feed sacks offer excellent curtain material because their textures are so interesting, and the fabric source so economical. Dye them into the desired color, and use one of the following treatments for them.

Using two or three feed sacks for each side of the curtain, depending on the length of the window, stitch them together and place a ruffle of feed sack or other material at each seaming. These should be of the same color.

For informal rooms, such as dens, play rooms or nurseries, plan to use sacks dyed in several colors to give a rainbow or circus effect. These may be attached to a wooden pole at the top of the window by means of wooden rings.

Small windows strung in a line across the room, such as you might have in an attic or basement room can be treated nicely with several sacks hung to still length. Use sacks of one color, but have the cornice in a contrasting shade.

Bathroom windows can be inexpensively dressed with feed sacks since they can be dyed to match the towels. Cottage type curtains, or straight-hanging curtains with a ruffle at the top are excellent. If desired, the ruffle may be in a contrasting solid color or print.

Here's a good treatment for a bay window. Dye enough feed sacks to use for a ruffle at the top of the windows, and for draping two sides, in a dark color, preferably a room color. On the windows themselves, use Priscilla curtains, tinted in a certain shade, or in plain white.

Keep Materials Moving In the Dye Bath

When you're dyeing materials, the important thing to remember is that they be kept moving constantly to get an even shade of dye as well as to prevent any streaking.

You may use whatever utensil is handy, but the larger the better. Use a bath or laundry tub, a large basin or vessel, a preserving kettle or large wash boiler.

Light shades can be tinted with tap water, but darker shades require simmering temperatures. One package of dye is usually enough for three yards of material.

Extension Club Hears "Family Fun" Lecture

The Elkland Extension Group convened at the home of Mrs. Claud Karr on Feb. 14 for an afternoon meeting.

Mrs. Stanley Edzik, Sr., Mrs. Stanley Edzik, Jr., and Mrs. Frederick Darbee were accepted as new members. Mrs. Kenneth Russell was a guest.

The lesson, "Family Fun," was given by Mrs. E. G. Golding and Mrs. Henry Smith. Games were played and family entertainment discussed. After the meeting adjourned Mrs. Karr served tea, cookies and jello shaped like hearts in keeping with St. Valentine's Day. The next meeting will be held March 27 at Mrs. Clair Tuckey's home.

Harold Oatley Speaks At Gavel Club

Gavel Club members listened to Harold Oatley speak on jet planes and rockets Tuesday night at the Home Restaurant.

Oatley, who seven years ago made some astonishingly accurate predictions while speaking to the members, spoke again of the future of rockets and jets.

Oatley predicted speeds that sounded fantastic in 1944 to the assembled guests, but current progress in the new field has exceeded Oatley's "wild" predictions of seven years ago.

one time, and now there are two boarders enjoying the blessings of home and church.

On the ninth of February Mr. and Mrs. Roblin received a telegram from Detroit cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Curtis, and several telephone calls, and many greetings cards from relatives, friends and neighbors, also some nice gifts. From the Laper station, W. M. P. O., a song was dedicated to them, and at the Friday night church service, Mrs. Reiber and Miss Hedlund dedicated another song. Miss Reiber and Miss Hedlund, the evangelists, were also dinner guests on the ninth.

Owing to the cold weather and the icy roads, no celebration was planned at that time.

Talking with Mr. and Mrs. Roblin, the younger generations can learn many things about how people lived to plan to get along and how happy they were in those days.

which averaged 1276 lbs. of milk and 42.7 lbs. of butterfat to start the 1951 season.

The next five herds in order of average butterfat production were those of Howard Foster, Fairgrove, 42.6 lbs.; A. B. Quick, Caro, 41.5 lbs.; L. S. Gussell, Caro, 41.8; George Foster, Fostoria, 38.3; and Roy Brown, Fostoria, 38.2.

High producing herds in Tuscola DHIA maintained January averages just below the 60-pound mark, but herds with average production of 30 pounds or more of butterfat jumped from 20 in November, to 32 in December, and to 35 in January. Assistant County Agricultural Agent Byron E. Carpenter states that DHIA work returned to normal the first month in 1951, when Jack Rose, tester supervisor for association No. 2, resumed his duties after a two-month illness.

Among the cows completing 305-day records, the highest was No. 55 in the herd of Dr. H. T. Donahue, Cass City, making a total of 18,998 lbs. of milk and 724.1 lbs. of fat. A. B.
