Relatives of Servicemen Swindled by Crooks' Letters

Donald Ellwanger, home service chairman, announced today that he has received warning that unscrupulous individuals are attempting to extort money from families who have relatives reported missing in action.

A common dodge employed by the tricksters is to claim that the relative is a prisoner of war and that they are either in a position to get in touch with him, or to get him freed from the prison camp—providing the home folks come through with a certain sum of money. The amount depending on the financial standing in the individual case.

Experience indicates that the approach is made by letter, which originate both in the United States and in foreign countries.

Ellwanger states that if you should receive any such letter or other communication from unknown persons, the best thing to do is to notify the FBI at once.

If your relative has been reported as a prisoner of war in propaganda broadcasts by the Korean or Chinese Communists, it does not constitute official confirmation by the United States and no guarantee can be given that attempts made to communicate with relatives will be successful.

However, arrangements have been made with the U. S. P. O. whereby mail can be addressed. Letters should be brief and only one letter a month is allowed.

Letters should be sent in care of Chinese Peoples Committee for World Peace, Peking, China.

No postage is necessary. In place of a stamp write the words Prisoner of War Mail in the upper right hand corner and drop it in a mail box.

Ellwanger states that no provisions have been made for the forwarding of parcels to prisoners.

Caro Druggist Dies At Home Tuesday

George H. Moore, Caro druggist, died at his home early Tuesday morning.

Mr. Moore, 70, had operated a drug store in Caro for nearly 50 years before his death. He was born June 12, 1881, in Genesee County, New York, and came to Caro when a year old.

In 1901 he became an employee of the Olin Drug Store in Caro. After spending a brief time in Niles and Detroit, he returned to the Olin Drug Store to work and later purchased the business. He ran the business until his death.

He married Minnie Lowen in Detroit, October 4, 1911.

Mr. Moore was active in civic and fraternal organizations. He served as village president and president of the board of commerce. He was a member of the Caro lodge, F. & A. M., R. A. M. 96, and the Caro Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Moore was also treasurer of the Michigan Pharmaceutical Association in 1924. He was also elected President of the Caro Rotary Club, but was unable to fill the post because of ill health.

Besides his widow, he leaves two sons, William, of Trenton, and Robert, of Caro; two daughters, Mrs. Chester Kelly, Flint, and Mrs. Robert Mairlie, Detroit.

New Money Order System Inaugurated at Post Office

Patrons of the Cass City post office found a new and more convenient money order form available to them Monday, as the local office joined 42,000 others in issuing a streamlined form that can be collected through any bank in the same manner as a check.

Because of the terrific volume, the new money order is made in the form of a punched card that can be machine processed.

One machine, the IBM type 808 proof machine, has been especially developed for the new money order. The postmaster general described the inauguration of the new money order system as the largest single accounting change ever made in postal history and said, the development came after exhaustive study by the post office department.

Postmasters warn that the new orders must not be folded, stapled, spindled or mutilated in any way since they are issued on punch cards and processed by machinery.

The new money order system will be under the management and supervision of Assistant Postmaster General Osborne A. Pearson, who directs the department's Bureau of Finance.

Library Receives State Aid Money

Mrs. E. W. Douglas, chairman of the library board, announced today that she has received a check for $122.74 from the State Aid to Public Libraries fund for the Cass City and Township Library.

The amount is computed on a $0.6978 per capita distribution basis, according to the 1950 federal census for the village. The recent census revealed that Cass City now has a population of 1759.

State aid money, provided by the state, is administered by the State Board of Libraries. The money is earmarked for better facilities and more books for libraries in Michigan.

Local library units are not allowed to use any part of state aid money for the purchase of sites, buildings, construction of a building, or payment of principal or interest on any indebtedness.

Legion Nine Posts Shutout Victory

Coch Art Paddy's Junior American Legion Baseball squad defeated Reese behind the shutout pitching of Jack Hool and Vern Whittaker. The score was 6-0.

The Cass City nine garnered nine hits while Reese was collecting six scattered blows. Bill Martus and Bob Wallace led the attack for Cass City. Martus chalked up three safeties in four tries, while Wallace was credited with a pair of hits in three times at the plate.

Hool started on the mound for Cass City and pitched the first four innings before being relieved by Whittaker, who hurled the final two innings.

Sunday the team is scheduled to play at Sebawaing.

Cook Speaks to Rotary Members

Harold Cook from the Dow Chemical public relations office, Midland, told Rotary members how plastic is made as the highlight of his address before the group at the noon luncheon meeting at the New Gordon Hotel, Tuesday.

To illustrate his message, Cook brought samples of completed plastic articles and also showed plastic to the group before it was molded.

Prior to the speech, the club decided that Thursday, July 19, will be the date that Rotarians will take Scouts to the Tiger ball game. Washington is scheduled to be the opponent for the day.

The regular meeting of the Rotary Club has been cancelled for the next two weeks.

Next Tuesday's meeting will be held on Thursday at the cottage of M. B. Auten, who is holding his annual open house for Rotary members.

The regular meeting for Tuesday, July 17, will be held the following Thursday when the Cass City Rotarians will entertain the Rotary Clubs from surrounding cities and villages with a field day at the Cass City Recreational Park.

Caro Voters to Decide on Tax Raise

Caro voters will be called on to decide whether or not to authorize a five-mill tax levy for 20 years for a new high school, at the annual school meeting July 9.

Voters will be called on to decide two questions. First, whether to allow the tax rate to be raised above the present 15-mill limit and second, whether or not a five mill increase should be allowed.

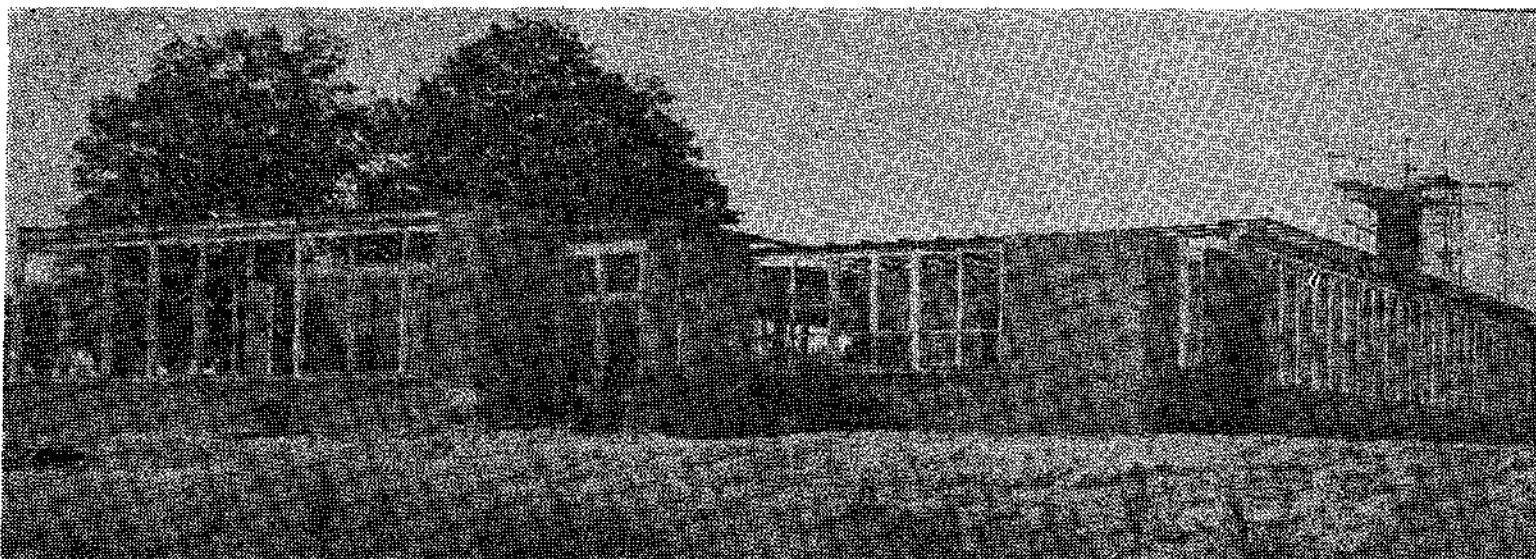

According to Timothy C. Quinn, secretary of the school board, the school district now has between $60,000 and $65,000 in its sinking fund and the money collected from the tax, if passed, will build a new high school without making it necessary to float a bond issue.

A levy authorized five years ago is responsible for the money in the district now and has produced a 10-room addition to the elementary school in Caro.

Grade School Waits for Workers to Return

Completion of the new Cass City Grade School was proceeding close to schedule before the bricklayers stopped working in a "protest" for higher wages.

Demanding a 25 cents per hour increase, the bricklayers will not work for anyone for less than $3.00 per hour. Since Vollmer Construction Company refuses to meet the demands of the workers, work on the new building is at a standstill. According to Vollmer, the company has no idea when the workers will return to work or when the building can be turned over to authorities to relieve the cramped conditions now prevalent at the Cass City school.

Meanwhile, hopes for the new building in time for school this fall grows dimmer and dimmer.

Future Farmers Return From Five Day Sight-Seeing Tour

Fourteen Future Farmers of America from Cass City, together with FFA director, Roy Benson, spent five days traveling through northern Michigan by bus on the organization's annual summer trip.

The group traveled 1247 miles and viewed farming conditions throughout the northern section of the lower peninsula and the upper peninsula.

According to Benson, one of the things the boys noted the most was the advancement of the crops. They saw that the farther north they went, the farther behind the crops were. In some spots in the upper peninsula, oats were only eight inches high and other crops were in a comparative state of advancement.

The group enjoyed Michigan's famous scenic sights and camped out at state parks along the way—preparing all of their own meals.

Those who made the trip were: Fred Mathews, Fred Milligan, Howard Muntz, Roy Wagg, Jack Arnett, Donald Hutchinson, Jack Gallagher and Bill Zinnecker.

Others who qualified for the outing included: Edward Cutler, Tom Nicol, Dick Hendrick, Archie McLachlan, Dick Auslander and Maynard Helwig.

The bus was driven by Mr. DeLong.

Potato Growers To Decide Fate of Marketing Order 60

Potato growers in Tuscola County will receive ballots this week from the County PMA Committee, to use in voting "Yes" or "No" on the question of continuing Federal Marketing Order 60, which regulates the marketing of potatoes in six North Central states.

"Price support has nothing to do with this referendum," Chas. B. Eckfeld, chairman of the county PMA committee states. "Price support on potatoes was stopped by order of Congress at the end of the 1950 marketing season."

"The only question for potato growers to decide is whether they want a means of working with other growers to hold culls and small potatoes off the market, to help keep supply in balance with demand and to give the consumer a better quality potato as a way of getting a better price."

The ballots, being mailed to every grower who produced potatoes for market in 1950, are to be filled out and mailed during the week of July 9-13. A self addressed envelope is provided with each ballot, addressed to R. E. Keller, Chicago, the Department of Agriculture official in charge of the referendum.

Last Traces of Old Elkland Roller Mill To Disappear Soon

The Elkland Roller Mills, historic Cass City landmark, will disappear from the local scene after more than 70 years of service to persons in the Cass City area.

Now almost completely demolished, the building will probably disappear within a week—missed only as a familiar sight to those who were used to seeing it as they entered and left the village.

However, some village residents can recall when the mill was one of the commerce hubs of the village.

When first opened, according to a newspaper report in the Chronicle, it saved farmers in the area from making a trip to Wahjamega to have grain ground.

In recent years, until sold last July to the H. O. Paul Co., the mill handled feed and farm supplies—having discontinued making flour in 1940.

Vollmer stated that he did not know what settlement has been made with the bricklayers.

Close Games Mark League Softball Games for Week

Four of the six games played during the week were decided by one run as the Cass City Softball League's teams went all out for victory and a chance to earn one of the coveted playoff spots at the end of the season.

Last Wednesday evening, Deford continued to show their class by whipping Baker and Urquhart, 9-4, behind the steady chucking and brilliant hitting of Harry Hartwick. Hartwick pounded out a double and a home run to lead his mates to their third victory without a defeat.

Church of Christ stayed on the heels of the league leaders by winning a pair of one run decisions.

Ellington bowed for the third time in as many starts, 6-5, Wednesday, June 29, and then the Churchmen came back on Monday with a 7-6 victory over Western Auto.

"Stub" McConnell homered for Church of Christ, while Tommy Townsend countered with a circuit clout for Ellington. Against Western Auto, Millard Ball and Carl Kolb each slammed round trippers, while Bob Ryland connected for Western Auto.

The automen lost their second one run decision of the week when they bowed to Decker, Friday, June 29, 6-5.

The game was decided in the seventh inning when Decker scored the winning run on a ground ball to the infield.

Baldy's Sunoco split a pair of games in two tries. They ran over Alwads, 12-7, on Friday and lost to Baker-Urquhart, 6-5, Monday.

The gasmen lost the game in the first inning when Baker-Urquhart pushed five runs over the plate.

Nitrogen Stimulates Growing Row-Crops

Increasing corn yields by 20% or more is quite possible by applying nitrogen fertilizer as a side dressing to fields in which the growing crop lacks this element. Assistant county agricultural agent Byron E. Carpenter reminds Tuscola County farmers that Michigan State College soil scientists have noted increases of 0 to 20 bushels of corn resulting from a mid-season application of nitrogen.

Although corn is considered one of the less responsive crops in Michigan to commercial fertilizer at planting time, trials conducted by MSC researchers show that all experiments with corn in the state showed an average increase in yield of 14% from the use of fertilizer. Corn shows the greatest response to fertilizer when grown on land that has not been fertilized or manured in previous years.

A plant tissue test is necessary to determine whether or not the corn crop is obtaining sufficient nitrogen from the soil. The tissue test can be made with equipment available at the county extension office or by a farmer or vocational agriculture teacher who has a tissue testing kit. In general, when corn or any other row crop follows an alfalfa or clover root, nitrogen fertilization is not profitable.

The recommended method of applying nitrogen to corn is to use a special sidedressing device which places the fertilizer in a band beside the plants during the last cultivation operation. The suggested application is 40 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre. Sulphate of ammonia and ammonium nitrate are the most common forms of nitrogen fertilizer used in this region. To obtain the desired nitrogen application, it would be necessary to use 200 pounds of sulphate of ammonia or 125 to 150 pounds of ammonium nitrate per acre.

Tests have also shown marked increases in yield from sidedressing nitrogen fertilizer on sugar beets in which a tissue test shows a deficiency of this plant food element. About the same amount of fertilizer is recommended for sugar beets as is suggested for corn.

Inflation is fast doing away with the saying "a penny for your thoughts"—especially over the phone. It's a dime.

Measuring Leather
The weight or thickness of leather soles, in the age-old tradition of the tanning industry, is expressed in terms of "irons." A nine-iron sole is exactly 9/48ths of an inch thick.

Pasture Valuable For Swine Feeding

Pigs are not normally considered grass eating animals. But a practical feeding test by one of the farmers holding a Grass Day program in June proved to many that pigs get a lot of gain from high quality legume pasture.

Thirty days before he was to entertain 3,000 farmers at Grass Day on his Calhoun County farm, Ralph Cook divided 22 pigs weighing about 50 pounds each into two lots. One group was kept in a dry lot, the other 11 allowed to run in legume pasture. Both groups got free choice of ground feed, shelled corn and 35 percent protein supplement.

Pigs on the pasture ate but 79 pounds of supplement compared with 96 pounds for those in the dry lot. The average pig gained 36 pounds in the dry lot and 42 pounds on pasture.

Feed cost for each 100 pounds of gain was $9.95 on pasture and $11.38 in the dry lot. Michigan State College animal husbandry specialists recommend pasture, especially legumes, for all types of livestock.

Plenty of Feed
Producers of beef cattle who have plenty of feed usually can benefit by feeding their market cattle to slaughter weights and grades.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Cookies Rate High at Snack Time (See Recipes Below)

"When I have the cookie jar filled," says many a homemaker, "I feel that I'm ready for anything; the children's coming home from play, teen agers get together, or friends dropping in."

With an assortment of delicious cookies on hand, you can indeed be ready for almost any form of simple entertaining. Serve them with a beverage for most occasions, add ice cream, sherbet or a delectable creamy pudding and you add a flourish to your entertaining.

If the drain on the cookie jar is heavy, make simple drop cookies which are so easy on effort and keeping quality.

Stone Jar Molasses Cookies
(Makes 3 1/2 dozen)
2 1/2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup molasses
1/2 cup butter
1/2 teaspoon soda

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, ginger, and salt, and sift again. Heat molasses, remove from fire; add butter and soda. Add flour gradually, mixing well. Chill until firm enough to roll. Roll very thin on slightly floured board. Cut with floured 2 1/2-inch cutter or with fancy cutters. Bake in greased baking sheet in moderate oven (350°) 10 minutes.

Fudge Squares
(Makes 20 1" x 3" squares)
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
3 eggs
2 squares bitter chocolate
1/2 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup broken nut meats

Blend shortening, sugar, and eggs. Melt chocolate over hot water and add to first mixture. Add flour, baking powder, and salt which have been mixed together. Add vanilla and nut meats. Place in 7"x10"x2" pan which has been rubbed with shortening. Bake in a moderate oven (375°) for 25 to 30 minutes. Cover with Fudge Icing.

Fudge Icing
2 tablespoons shortening
2 squares bitter chocolate
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
1 tablespoon milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
Melt chocolate over hot water. Pour over the shortening and mix thoroughly. Gradually add the confectioners' sugar, salt, milk, and vanilla. Stir until smooth. Cover fudge squares while still warm.

Date Nut Drops
(Makes 4-5 dozen)
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
2 eggs
2 cups broken nut meats
2 cups seedless raisins
2 cups chopped dates

LYNN'S TIPS:
Serve Palatable Desserts To Satisfy Big Appetites

There's always time to make a dessert if you use simple ideas which can be dressed up easily. For instance, melt some chocolate peppermint wafers and use to frost pound cake. Sprinkle with chopped nuts.

Griddlecakes make an excellent dessert if they're fruit-filled. To regular batter add some chopped, tart apples and fry. Serve with brown sugar and cinnamon.

Mix well and drop from a teaspoon on well-greased cookie sheet. Bake in moderate oven (350°) 20 minutes.

Several kinds of fruit left in the refrigerator? Place in deep dish, top with piecrust and bake. Invert so crust is on the bottom, slice like pie and serve with whipped cream.

Baked fruit like pears and apples can be served on top of small slices of slightly stale cake. Have plenty of syrup from the fruit to spoon onto the cake.

Keep individual pastry tart shells on hand along with chocolate, vanilla and butterscotch puddings. You have a choice of tarts any time you want them.

Making Political Hay

A delegation from Kansas, calling upon Theodore Roosevelt at Oyster Bay, was met by the President with coat and collar off. "Ah, gentlemen," he said, mopping his brow, "I'm delighted to see you, but I'm very busy putting in my hay just now. Come down to the barn and we'll talk things over while I work."

When they reached the barn, there was no hay waiting to be thrown into the mow. "James!" shouted the President to his hired man in the loft. "Where's that hay?"

"I'm sorry, sir," admitted James. "but I just ain't had time to throw it back since you forked it up for yesterday's delegation."

Found His Niche

Null: "I started out on the theory that the world has an opening for me."

Void: "And you found it?"
Null: "Well, rather. I'm in the hole now."

PRICE OF FAME

The lives of our remotely settled mountaineers are colored by a faith that is no longer very strong in the city dweller. Take patent medicine testimonials, for instance.

For a vacation, one of our herman movie stars chose to rough it in the Ozark Mountains. One day he was strutting his stuff before a crowd around the village store, when one native inquired: "Mister, ain't I seen you somewhere?"

"I wouldn't be surprised," the celluloid hero replied. "My picture has been in all the newspapers and magazines—many times!"
"I knowed it!" the mountaineer exclaimed. "Tell me, mister. What was you cured of?"

Don't Trust Him

The city lawyer was questioning Farmer Purdy about the truthfulness of a neighbor, due to take the witness stand in a forthcoming case. "Wal," said the farmer, "I wouldn't exactly say Jed was a liar. But I'll tell ye this; when it comes time to feed his hogs, he has to git somebody else to call 'em fer him!"

Not Adept

Father: "Can you really typewrite?"
Daughter: "No, Dad. It seems that I can only type wrong."

St. Peter: "How did you get here?"
New Arrival: "Flu."

To Market
A "shelling" mill prepares the peanut crop for market. Here field debris is cleaned out; here the nuts are well brushed with split bamboo brushes; and here the bulk of the crop is machine shelled and then carefully sorted and graded. Only clean, sound nuts—none broken or shriveled—are bagged according to size, and sent to salters, peanut butter manufacturers, candy manufacturers and other users of shelled peanuts. All other grades are "crushed" for the oil and cake.

Hot Plaster
A radiant heat platter which warms up to 300 degrees within a few minutes is now available. The platter will hold a complete dinner—even a roasted turkey and all the trimmings—and keep it hot indefinitely. The radiant heat warms food without drying it out. Also, the platter is made of heat-treated glass that is unbreakable and easy to clean.

Caro Legion Auxiliary
Entertains Saturday

The American Legion Auxiliary of Caro in cooperation with the Tuscola County Junior Red Cross, provided a musical program at the Tuscola County Infirmary on Saturday evening, June 30, under the direction of Mrs. George Klein.

Mrs. George Ellison opened the program by playing a musical interlude on the piano.

Marilyn and Dwayne Klein sang several songs, accompanying themselves on the piano and their ukuleles. Marilyn and Dwayne also tap danced.

Dwayne Bogart sang some request numbers, accompanying himself on the guitar. Among the songs were: Turkey in the Straw, Hand Me Down My Walking Cane and Wabash Cannonball.

Jack Harris, Butch Dickerson and Earl Boitel, Jr., were a very fetching trio dressed in old tattered clothes and no shoes. One wore a grey mop wig, another an old battered hat. A ukulele was one of the instruments played, the other instrument is indescribable. The very entertaining trio played and sang Little Brown Jug and I Wish I Was Single Again.

The program ended with the complete group singing Let Me Call You Sweetheart, with the audience participating.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were furnished by the Legion Auxiliary. Mrs. Mary Ailing was in charge of the refreshments committee. Hershey bars were also furnished by the Auxiliary for everyone.

After the refreshments were served, Mrs. Ellison played several requests for the folks.

Mrs. Henry Predmore and Mrs. Robert Beyette also attended the program as representatives of the Legion Auxiliary.

West Elkland 4-H
Met Wednesday

The June meeting of the West Elkland 4-H was held Wednesday at the Dillman School. The new officers elected at the May meeting took their offices. It was decided there would be a club picnic at Sleeper State Park in July. Judging and demonstration dates were announced by the leader. Plans for summer camp at Sleeper State Park were discussed. After the business meeting the children divided into project groups to check the progress and give help where necessary. All summer projects are well under way. After the meeting a potluck lunch was served.

Estimate Canning
Requirements Now
To Avoid Trouble

Margaret C. Browne, Assistant State Home Management Specialist of the Farmers' Home Administration, is spending two days in Lapeer and Sanilac Counties, visiting farm families to stress the Administration's current garden and canning program.

Because the season for fresh garden produce in Michigan is relatively short, families are encouraged to can or freeze one hundred quarts of tomatoes, fruits, and vegetables for each person in the family, and to store two bushels of fruit and five bushels of vegetables for each family member to insure a year around supply.

The need for checking canning equipment is also being emphasized. Mrs. Browne is reminding homemakers that gauges on pressure canners should be checked each year, that rubber gaskets should be replaced when they no longer make a tight seal, and that openings to the petcock, safety valve, and pressure gauge should be kept clean. Cracked or chipped jars should be discarded.

Although there are ample supplies of sugar in the country for our needs, transportation may make it difficult to obtain in some areas when the heavy canning season gets under way. To ease the strain on transportation and storage facilities, Mrs. Browne is suggesting that homemakers estimate their needs now, and gradually accumulate the sugar needed for their late summer canning.

groups the Soil Conservation Service personnel can help far more farmers than they can do by helping individuals, therefore getting more conservation practices on the land.

Field trips were taken to observe practices, such as putting up grass for silage, strip cropping, contour farming, all grass land and beef cattle farming. The farm of Louis Broomfield, the famous novelist, and a water conservatory for flood control were also visited.

This training is given only to employees of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service so they can give better service to the farmers.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

Q: What city tore down its city hall to make a parking lot?

A: Los Angeles, which now boasts one of the most beautiful city halls in the country, demolished its old municipal structure in 1923 to create a parking lot. Lee Shippey reveals in his "Los Angeles Book." Even such a drastic measure did not solve Los Angeles' parking problem, for it is estimated that in order to completely alleviate the situation, every public building in the city would have to be razed.

Q: Would the team making the most double plays be a winner?

A: Quite likely not, according to Lee Allen's "One Hundred Years of Baseball." Allen in his book says that losing teams have more opportunity to complete double plays because they have more base runners to contend with. Quoting straight from record books, Allen points out that the Boston Red Sox made 198 double plays in 1945, more than any club in the major leagues up to that time and finished seventh. The Reds lead the National League twice with 194, finishing fifth in 1928, and in 1931 in the basement.

Q: Did Stalin murder Lenin?

A: Joseph Bornstein, in his book, "The Politics of Murder," builds up a good case against the present Soviet Dictator. Bornstein claims Joe had both the motive and the opportunity. Lenin did not like Stalin, and the latter had much to lose if Lenin recovered from his illness and returned to his post in 1924 as it was announced. Stalin conditioned Lenin's close supporters to the possibility of Lenin's suicide by telling them that the Old Man was suffering and had asked for poison. author Bornstein relates.

Q: What is the value of a press agent?

A: In his book, "Louis Braille," J. Alvin Kugelmann informs us that there was no publicist to tell the world of the candle lighted in the darkness by Braille. Sightless, himself, Louis Braille was a teacher in France's National Institute for the Blind when he conceived and perfected his idea of finger reading technique in 1826, but not until 1854, two years after his death did his work receive official recognition. Louis Napoleon learned of a blind girl musician who "read" music through her fingers. The Emperor ordered that she be featured at the Paris International Exposition. Visitors carried back word of this wonder to all parts of the world. It was then that the product of Braille's genius began its work, guiding the blind to a fuller, happier life. Kugelmann believes a good press agent could have made Braille famous overnight.

Old Testament -- New Version

Dean Luther A. Weigle (right), chairman of the Standard Bible Committee of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., presents the first completed manuscripts of the Old Testament to William R. McCulley, president of Thomas Nelson & Sons, publishers, in New York City. The committee, composed of 31 of the country's foremost Biblical scholars, has labored for 14 years to prepare a new Revised Standard Version Bible which preserves the enduring beauty of the King James Version with words which are more clearly understood today. The New Testament was published in 1946, and the complete Bible will be published in September, 1952.

SHORT STORY

Hard Boiled Chuck

By Richard H. Wilkinson

3-Minute Fiction

CHUCK WALLACE was hard boiled. Women didn't bother him much. Flying did. He owned his own plane and specialized in doing free-lance jobs for private interests, and performing rescues for reward money. He had quite a reputation. When, at the annual pilots' ball, he was presented to red-headed Alma Mallory he wasn't impressed at all.

Alma was. She had heard of Chuck. Alma was very modern, very sure of herself, used to getting what she wanted. She wanted Chuck.

Chuck wasn't quick to catch on. When finally he realized what she was up to he had almost fallen into her trap. He was glad when news came in that a young flyer had been lost in the north woods. It gave him a chance to get away. The fact that the young lost flyer was Don Mallory, Alma's brother, didn't bother him at all. This was business. Old Man Mallory, through his lawyers, had offered a fat reward.

Chuck Wallace loaded up and took off the next morning in his seaplane. That night he set down on a little wooded lake, 150 miles from the nearest habitation, and established a base. The next day he began systematically to comb the country.

Alma was very modern, very sure of herself, used to getting what she wanted. And she wanted Chuck.

In the afternoon he returned to his base, and received a shock. There was another plane riding on the surface of the lake. He saw a figure standing on the shore. It was Alma Mallory.

"What's the idea?" he asked. "What do you think? Don's my brother."

She had brought along a lot of the things Chuck hadn't thought necessary. There was nothing he could do about her being there, so he set up one of the tents and ate the supper she cooked for him.

The next day he flew west and covered a strip 25 miles wide. But he didn't sight anything, and was genuinely worried when he returned to the base that night.

The next morning, just before noon, he sighted a plane off a lake 50 miles east of his base and set down, taking up beside it. A man stood on one of the wings and called to him. Chuck scowled. He didn't like this. Not a bit of it.

At 2 o'clock he returned to his base and found it deserted. Alma and her plane had gone. He swore and packed up his equipment. The next morning he reached his home landing. He went home and shaved and bathed and got into bed. He was dead tired, but he couldn't sleep.

The next morning he took a taxi to the Mallory home and asked for Alma. A butler told him that she had gone down to Briarsfield to visit friends. The friends' name was Hanscom. Chuck caught a train for Briarsfield that afternoon. He arrived at 5 o'clock and located the Hanscom home. Alma, they told him, was out horseback riding with a chap named Rodney Nuys.

Chuck rented a horse and went looking for her. Two miles from the Hanscom home he came to a spot where the bridge trail widened. There were two horses in the clearing, standing close together. Rodney Nuys was trying to kiss the rider of the other, a red-headed girl.

Chuck rode up close and clipped the gent so hard he fell out of the saddle. Then he grabbed hold of the girl and shook her roughly.

"What's the idea?" he barked. "I found your brother in a little lake 50 miles east of the base. He was looking for us. He said he didn't think it was so smart for his sister to give out that he was lost, when he really wasn't—just so she could send Chuck Wallace up into the country and then follow. What's the idea?"

Alma looked at him defiantly. "What do you think?" she said. "You big indifferent hummer! And why do you think I gave up and came home?"

Chuck blinked, but maintained his hold on her arm. For the first time when looking at this girl, he grinned. "Do you want me to tell you what I think?" he asked.

"Yes," said Alma.

Invasion

Attending a church bazaar, Abraham Lincoln tendered a $20 bill to pay for a bunch of violets. The lady at the booth, making no attempt to return any change, gushed, "Oh thank you, Mr. President." Lincoln reached down from his great height, and gently touched the lady on the wrist saying, "And what do you call this?"

"Why, Mr. President, that is my wrist. What did you think it was?" "Well," drawled Lincoln, "I thought it might be your ankle. Everything is so high around here."

❖ LET'S TALK IT OVER ❖

New Ideas.

They say that confession is good for the soul. If this is true, I ought to feel a lot better after this is printed.

During the recent tour in Missouri and Arkansas, I had a lot of my established Agricultural principles knocked into a "cocked hat. For three days, I listened and learned . . . plenty!!! These principles were busted to heck by the manager of an experimental farm . . . who proved with 15 years of records, that this country is losing 25 percent of its potential farm income by poor feeding and poor management.

Now . . . this experimental farm was no fancy affair. They worked with a grade herd of Holsteins, farm run pigs and barnyard chickens. There wasn't a pedigree or blood line in the place. They are simply trying to prove that farmers aren't getting all the production out of what they have.

They maintain that breeding is way ahead of feeding in this country.

Pigs What Is.

It would be impossible to set down all the facts and figures we gathered that day. There are, however, some points that might make good reading.

These folks started with about forty head of ordinary hogs purchased from an Illinois farm. They kept the pigs together except at feeding time. Twenty got a scientific diet, the other batch got farm fare.

The sows they fed right averaged 12 pigs to the litter, the loss only two percent. The sows that got the farm diet farrowed an average of nine pigs and an average of six survived to go to market. They proved conclusively that what you feed your hogs determines the size of the litter and the survival of the litter.

These marvelous records showed that a farmer cannot break even unless he saves at least six pigs from every litter. If he markets nine, he is doing a fair job. It is easy to understand how well the farmer does who consistently brings 12 to 13 pigs to market from every sow, twice a year. The point of good management and feeding in hogs is—that it takes the same cost to bring a sow to farrow six or sixteen pigs. The profit is in the difference. There are many other acts to this business of feeding and management—we can only touch on a few.

Cows.

It is much the same story with cows—except that the time element is different. Pigs are a six months proposition. The cow is a liability until she takes her place in the milking line. For the average dairy farmer this means an investment of from 2½ to three years. And—providing, of course, that she does not die somewhere along the line.

At the experimental farm, yearling heifers were going into the milking line at 23 months. That alone is a saving of six months of unproductive feeding, and, because the calf was fed right during her first 23 months of life, she is a better risk for survival.

As we said before: These were grade cows fed for maximum health and production. These same grade cows—over a 15 year period, with no help genetically except for a $500.00 bull, have set a world's record for milk and butterfat production.

Started Right.

The calf is born healthy and strong to begin with. The calf is weaned quickly and fed dry feed in a balanced ration. She is not turned out during the summer to shift for herself, to go back into the barn in the fall skinny and stunted. She is fed right and bred early. This is how the test farm operators get cows into the milking line at 23 months. The difference between weaning a calf quickly is a sixty dollar milk saving to the farmer in the first four months. Good feeding produces a solid, growing calf. A milk fed calf gets fat only to lose that expensive weight on grass during the summer.

Good management is the final key. Records show that the average farm in the state of Illinois losing through animal mortality an average of $1500.00 a year. Cows, pigs, chickens die one at a time. Most farmers call it "bad luck." If this $1500.00 loss occurred all at once it would probably shock the farmer into doing something to prevent a similar occurrence.

Records show that all this lost income, from poor feeding and poor management can be stopped. It can also boost the farmer's income by 24 percent—if it is curtailed.

Good management and good feeding, they are both equally important. It takes ten to twenty years to establish a herd with fancy bloodline records. Feeding and management can mean the difference between profit and loss for the average farmer.

Dry Cleaning

Minnie: "You look all out of sorts. What's the matter?" Nellie: "Plenty. On account of my rheumatism the doctor told me to avoid all dampness—and you have no idea how silly I feel sitting in an empty bathtub and going over myself with a vacuum cleaner."

EXTENDED SYMPATHY

One day sometime ago a burglar was arrested in the home of a Washington matron, and the next evening at dinner she told Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes all about it. "I went right down to the jail and talked to that burglar," she said earnestly. "I told him how evil his way of life was, and how much happier he would be if he reformed. I talked to him for two hours."

"Poor man," murmured Holmes. "Poor man!"

In Full Bloom

Little Mary was visiting her grandmother in the country. Walking in the garden, she chanced to see a peacock, a bird she had never seen before. After gazing in silent admiration, she quickly ran into the house and cried out: "Oh, granny, come and see! One of your chickens is in bloom!"

Careless drivers and careless pedestrians think the same of each other—and the chances are they are both right.

Some people are never satisfied until they find something that makes them dissatisfied.

Successful Freezing Of Fruit Is Easy

Successful freezing of fruit is easy if you follow a few simple steps, says Miss Jean E. Gillies, county home demonstration agent.

Jean Friend of the Michigan State College school of home economics has supplied the agent with some helpful pointers. Take care in selecting fruit to be frozen, she says. Freezing does a good job of retaining the good quality of the fresh fruit, but cannot improve it. Avoid green or over-ripe and badly bruised fruit. Select a variety that has been recommended for freezing.

Handle the fruit quickly and carefully. Do small amounts at one time to avoid bruising and to get fruit into the freezer quickly.

Fruits such as cherries and berries can be packed dry, with sugar or with syrup. Sugar and syrup packs are much more satisfactory in preserving the color, shape and flavor of the fresh fruit.

Light-colored fruits, such as peaches, sweet cherries and apples, must be treated to prevent darkening during frozen storage. Ascorbic acid or a commercial ascorbic acid preparation should be added to the syrup or sugar just before it is poured over the fruit. This ascorbic acid can be purchased from drugstores or most locker plants.

Use moisture-vapor-proof containers, the home economist advises.

Carefully follow directions in sealing each particular type of container. Also, take time to label containers. Freeze the fruit as quickly as possible. If fruit is carefully handled and if it is packed with sugar or syrup, it will keep its good quality at least twelve months. Fruit frozen without sugar keep a shorter length of time.

Michigan Mirror News Briefs

No one can say Fred M. Alger, Jr., doesn't profit by his mistakes. He already has tossed the Alger sombrero into the ring for the gubernatorial race of 1952.

In 1950 Alger hemmed and hawed too long before getting into the running and Kelly beat him out by a nose in the primary.

What of Williams? He says he likes being governor and that at the present time he expects to be in there fighting. His aides state flatly, "He'll run."

Governor Williams welcomed the annual convention of the National Association of Tax Administrators to Mackinac Island by reciting the details of the state's financial troubles and dumping the blame on the Republican controlled legislature.

"The governor spanked us publicly and called in the neighbors to watch," said Rep. Roy Brigham (R-Battle Creek), while others stormed that Williams' remarks were "entirely out of place at a gathering like this."

But Williams made his point.

Some Republican legislative leaders have estimated that only 20 million dollars was needed for the coming fiscal year. These spokesmen are in disagreement with Auditor General, John B. Martin of Grand Rapids, avowed candidate for the United States Senate, who recently predicted a substantial treasury deficit of upwards to 60 million dollars by June 30, 1952.

Most observers forecast an increase in the treasury deficit in the new fiscal year starting July, 1951. Thus, the pressure is due to mount for additional tax revenues to finance public services of the state and local governments. Among the discussed new sources are a corporation profits tax, as advocated by the Governor; an industrial processing tax, such as the proposed 3 percent levy on purchase of industrial equipment; an amendment of the state constitution permitting a state income tax on individuals and corporations; and a federal constitutional amendment limiting federal taxation to five percent of the national income, thus permitting local and state governments to recapture part of revenues now going to Washington.

Says Auditor General Martin: "Federal encroachment on every available field of taxation threatens the very existence of our state governments."

Martin was addressing the Michigan Law Institute. All sources of revenue for the state are being milked dry by federal taxes, he told his audience.

Crows, robins and blackbirds in the upper peninsula stuffed themselves for several weeks on the caterpillar plague which stripped trees on over a half million acres. The worms have left, the trees will survive and the birds are happy.

Michigan's 1951 sour cherry crop is expected to go 88,000 tons. If this estimate is realized it will be 10,000 tons below 1950's record yield.

As summer begins in earnest, Michigan conservation officials again open their endless campaign to halt forest fires. But on the practical side of it, eight more tractor-tankers are under construction.

A Wayne County farmer sold a load of hay he represented as weighing 19,920 pounds. The local was 11,648 pounds short, costing a riding academy $116. Says Miles A. Nelson of the State Agriculture Department, "And $116 ain't hay."

A survey of northern breeding acres shows a decrease of 10 to 80 percent in sharp-tail grouse and prairie chickens.

Disgruntled Michigan motorists and tourists will be happy to know that 200,000 more state maps are being distributed. Already 300,000 have been given out.

Commissioner Donald S. Leonard of the Michigan State Police has gone on record as favoring legislation to permit wire tapping by law enforcement agencies. "Properly used," he said, "it would be a detriment to gamblers and racketeers."

TUSCOLA COUNTY EXTENSION OFFICE

Observing some hints and precautions on harvesting and storing grain to prevent losses may save many dollars worth of produce. Three major suggestions are (1) remove all old grain from bins and kill insects with DDT spray, (2) do not harvest or store grain containing more than 14% moisture, and (3) inspect grain after storing in bins and fumigate when infested with insects. The above pointers and other precautions to prevent losses in all kinds of small grains is discussed in MSC Extension Folder 134, which is available at the extension office.

Beef cattle breeders and feeders who are interested in entering the 1952 Farmers Week beef calf feeding contest should make arrangements at once to obtain an entry blank and weigh the calf or calves in the presence of an authorized witness. Rules of the contest require that calves entered be sired by a registered beef or dual purpose bull. Each farmer is allowed to enter two calves, which may fall into the junior or senior class. In order to qualify for exhibit at the Farmers Week next January, calves must gain a minimum of two pounds a day. The animals are judged on the basis of type in the show ring and on the rate of gain. Entry blanks are available at the county extension office at the courthouse, or from W. L. Finley, Animal Husbandry Extension Specialist, MSC, East Lansing. Calves should be weighed and entries sent in not later than July 10.

Little Stories about
Great Hymns

Art Thou Weary,
Art Thou Languid
Art thou sore distressed?
"Come to me," sayeth One,
"And, coming, be at rest."

One of the oldest hymns of Christendom; it was written more than 11 centuries ago by St. Stephen the Sabait, a monk. He lived in a cave in the monastery of St. Sabas, near Bethlehem, overlooking the Dead Sea. The hymn was translated in 1862 by John Mason Neale, a remarkable scholar, particularly fond of the songs of the old monks. Today it is sung at worship services throughout the world.

Corn Borer Control It's Time to Start

Corn borer eggs were collected from sweet corn (20-25 inches tall) at Grand Rapids on June 13, 1951. This means that corn borer control time is almost upon us again, says Alfred P. Ballweg, County Agricultural Agent. The corn borer may be further advanced in other places of the state than was the case at Grand Rapids.

For control, according to Ray L. Janes, extension specialist in entomology, use:

(a) A 5 percent DDT dust at 25 to 40 pounds to the acre depending on the size of the corn.

(b) 3 pounds of 50 percent wettable DDT to 100 gallons of water. (3 level tablespoons to 1 gallon of water.) The usual rate of application is 100 to 125 gallons of water to the acre. Smaller plants take less spray. Emulsions may be used at 1 1/2 actual pounds of DDT to the acre providing they are types that do not burn or otherwise injure corn plants.

(c) 40 percent ryania dust at 30 to 40 pounds to the acre depending on the size of the corn.

(d) 1 percent rotenone dust for gardens only.

Treatments should begin when the eggs hatch. Otherwise commence when the extended leaf height is 25 inches. DDT and ryania treatments should go on every 5 to 7 days for 4 to 5 treatments or until 10 days before harvest. Rotenone should be put on every 5 days for 5 treatments. Put the treatments on carefully. Poor application may mean the difference between success or failure.

Some growers find ryania better for the control of corn borer than DDT. Ryania has one important advantage over DDT. It leaves little poisonous residue on the plants. To off-set this advantage, it is approximately twice as costly.

Some politicians work on the theory that a good story is more important to them than the truth.

Speculation has been defined as an attempt to make your money multiply instead of add.

Forest Products Often Ride the Rails

Forest products make up one out of every ten carloads of revenue-producing freight hauled by American railroads in an average year. This is about seven percent of the gross railroad freight revenue collected.

FUTILE FABLES

Feeling as squished as the grape under a chariot wheel for having lost the naval battle of Actium, September, 31 B.C.—Egyptian Standard Time—Mark Anthony was sitting on the bank of the Nile with Cleopatra when he suddenly bounded to his feet, smote himself hip and thigh and remarked, "Confound these mosquitoes! They're as prevalent as taxes and gouge as deep. I would you might swap a few casks of wine for a few squirts of insect repellent, Cleo."

"So that's what has been biting thee of late. Mosquitoes!" said the temptress, lolling languidly.

"And speaking of squirts," cut in a harsh voice behind the cordial group, "no wonder you lose fights, Mark—if this be the disgusting manner in which you train!"

The speaker, Julius Caesar, dropped back in punt formation, then leaped and put a sizzling sandal to Anthony's rear; and with such force his erstwhile friend was catapulted into the Nile.

"Gad, O Caesar," gasped Cleo, in pun formation, "but did you ever toe the Mark!"

SHORT STORY

Wrong And Right

By Richard H. Wilkinson

OF COURSE it was wrong for Johnny to kiss her and it was right for Jinny to slap his face. They stood there with the desk chair between them, staring at each other for a full moment. Jinny recovered first. She turned away and walked to the door with her head high and went out.

Johnny sighed and sat down at his desk. He was amazed and disgusted with himself. Ten minutes ago he had been the practical executive. He had rung for his secretary, Miss Alyne, and a girl with tawny colored hair and blue eyes had appeared instead.

"I'm Jinny Allison," she explained matter-of-factly. "Miss Alyne is ill today and I'm taking her place."

She had stood looking at him from the other side of the chair, and without saying a word he had reached out and pulled her toward him and kissed her, and she had slapped his face.

Sitting at his desk Johnny wondered why he hadn't noticed Jinny Allison before. She must be new, he told himself. He gestured angrily. What a fool he'd made of himself.

"I'm Jinny Allison," she explained matter-of-factly. "Miss Alyne is ill today and I'm taking her place."

He didn't believe in mixing business with—well, with things like that. And, he told himself fiercely, he wasn't going to begin now. Miss Allison would have to be dismissed. He couldn't have a girl around whom he'd kissed and who might think of him as—well, in that way.

He stood up, grimly determined. The matter had better be attended to at once. Half way to the outer office he stopped short. Suppose Miss Allison had already quit? Probably she had. The possibility that this might be the case brought on a sense of panic. He rushed to the door and opened it, was vastly relieved to discover a titian-colored head bent over a desk close by the door.

He went back to his own desk. Well, she hadn't quit and he wouldn't fire her. No, he decided to let her stay and ignore her entirely.

During the remainder of the morning he put Miss Allison from his mind. When he had letters to dictate he rang for a stenographer in exaggerated unconcern. And when prim Abby Nathan appeared he told himself he was relieved.

THAT night Johnny went to sleep putting Jinny out of his mind. The next morning he reached the office before nine. At 9:15 he opened the door of the outer office and breathed easy again when he saw that Jinny was at her post. At noon he looked toward her desk on his way out, caught her eye and felt strangely sick when she turned coldly away. During lunch he became pretty grim, admitting to himself that he was making rather a mess of his resolve. Miss Allison would have to go. There was no use, he just couldn't concentrate with her on his conscience. It would solve the whole problem to have her out of his sight.

His first act on reaching the office was to call Miss Nathan and ask her to send in Miss Allison.

Jinny, notebook in hand, entered and stood looking at him from the other side of the interview chair just as she had the day he had kissed her.

"Miss Allison," he began, and stopped. He cleared his throat importantly. "Miss Allison, I've called you in to—apologize for what happened the day before yesterday."

"Oh," said Jinny. "I don't want you to think," Johnny went on, scarcely recognizing his own voice, "that I—er—kiss—er—act that way with all—with other stenographers."

"Oh, I don't," said Jinny, her eyes wide.

"In fact," said Johnny, "you're the first one, I mean, well—" He stopped, desperate, panty, angry. "Miss Allison, you're fired!"

"Oh!" said Jinny. Johnny gulped. "No, I don't mean that! What I mean is, I can't concentrate unless—unless—we have an understanding. Oh, the devil! That wasn't what I intended to say at all. I mean, Miss Allison, would you like to go out to dinner with me?"

"It might be nice," Jinny agreed.

Three Steps

TO BETTER TASTING FOOD

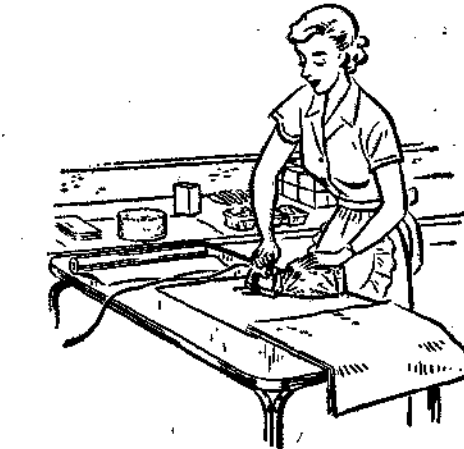

1 Good winter eating is growing in your garden right now. Selected at prime and stored (wrapped correctly, of course) in an electric farm freezer, it will add more taste appeal and nourishment to cold weather meals. Your dealer has a farm freezer to fit your needs exactly. See him today.

2 Better ways to prepare and package food for freezing can be learned quickly and easily with the help of your Edison Home Service Advisor. Call any Edison office. Remember, too, your local locker plant has complete facilities for quick freezing extra large quantities.

3 Vegetables, fruits, meats, dairy products, baked goods stay fresh and tasty for months in the zero-cold of an electric farm freezer. You can "cook ahead" for special occasions, freeze small quantities as well as large, keep leftovers for future enjoyment. You save time, food, money!

Organic Matter Vital To Soil Building Plan

Legumes and Grasses Are Recommended for Plan

Feed the soil so it can feed the growing crops, if you want to get high yields per acre, advises Dr. J. B. Peterson, Purdue University agronomist.

Dr. Peterson says the best way to tell what your soil needs is to study the land, its management history, its past cropping program and then have the soil tested. The soil tests will tell what fertilizer is needed and how much is required to keep the soil well stocked with a well-balanced nutrient supply.

But Dr. Peterson points out that till and soil structure must be good if the plant food is to do its crop nourishing job. Crops can starve in the midst of plenty and fertilizer can be wasted if the soil's structure is poor.

Poor soil structure shuts off drainage and ventilation. It keeps air and water out. Crop roots can't penetrate the tightly-compacted soil to reach needed nutrients.

Dr. Peterson says the best way to correct soil compaction and repair damaged structure is to add organic matter. This can be done by including well-fertilized legumes and grasses regularly in the rotation and by returning manure and crop residues to the soil. Legumes and grasses do a two-way soil building job. The deep-rooting taproots of alfalfa and sweet clover do their soil-mellowing work in the heavy subsoil. Fibrous-rooted grasses such as bromegrass or timothy open up tough surface soils and make them granular and porous.

Good Pasture Cuts Milk, Beef Production Costs

Since the time when man first began cultivation of the earth, growing grass for pasture and hay has been one of his major projects. Only in recent years, however, have farmers learned the importance of pasture as a way of cutting milk and beef production costs. It is becoming one of the farmer's main money crops.

According to department of agriculture reports, about two-thirds of the nation's land is now in grass. And some farm experts believe a 25 per cent increase in the acreage is justified for a more efficient type of agriculture even though greater crop production has been demanded of the nation's farms.

With the nation demanding a greater production of beef, the farmer who has a good grass program will make more profit per acre in the coming year than was anticipated in 1950.

Polio Player

For eight years, a Chicago boy with a polio-crippled body was told his case was hopeless. The boy begged his parents for an organ. He not only developed his limbs, but Joe Scotti, now 13, is making professional appearances, playing the organ.

Newsprint Source

Most of the low-grade logs of Sitka spruce are used in the manufacture of newsprint, sulphite, and kraft pulp.

Sun and Earth

When is the earth nearest the sun? The earth is nearest the sun in January and farthest from it in July. The former position (called perihelion) occurred in 1951 on January 1, with the distance of 91,477,000 miles. Aphelion, the time of greatest distance, will occur July 4, with a separation of 94,562,000 miles.

Cost of Common Cold

When all factors involved are considered, it is estimated that the cost of the common cold to the American people is well over a billion dollars a year.

Dangerous Spot

Penzance, fishing center and popular watering place in Cornwall, England, was subject to raids by Mediterranean pirates until the eighteenth century.

High Death Rate

Speaking of extra-hazardous occupations, file cutters show a death rate 85 per cent in excess of the average. At one time glass blowers suffered a very high death rate.

Civic Clubs' '49 Survey Shows Wealth of Local Area

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following survey was taken in 1949 by the Rotary and Gavel Clubs. Since that time, some of the figures have changed. However, the general facts are the same and the Chronicle is publishing the results this week to give readers in the area a general idea of the community in which they live.

These paragraphs contain a summary of an industrial survey completed in March, 1949, by a trained committee of the Gavel and Rotary Clubs, assisted by the Michigan Department of Economic Development. The program was sponsored by the Saginaw Valley Regional Planning Commission.

The procedures used were those originated by the Area Development Division, U. S. Department of Commerce, for the evaluation of a community's location advantages in terms of the basic industrial location factors required by specific industries.

This survey is designed to give industrialists who seek plant locations an opportunity to examine briefly the basic advantages of the Cass City community so that, if interested, they may request more specific and detailed information, which is on file and will be supplied promptly.

Geographical Location.

Town Population (1940) 1,362; 1948 estimate, 1,700; Area Population, 6,000.

Cass City is located in Tuscola County in the center of the Thumb district of Michigan's Lower Peninsula, located on M-81 and four miles west of M-53—45 miles northeast of Saginaw and 42 miles due east from Bay City—all paved highways to Detroit and Saginaw.

The area surveyed has a radius of 10 miles and includes the neighboring towns of Deford and Gagetown.

Production Materials.

The following materials which might become the basis for manufacturing processes exist within reasonable hauling distances of Cass City:

Annual Production: wheat 150,000 bushels; beans 3,000 tons; oats 140,000 bushels; rye 200 tons; barley 50,000 bushels; besides large quantities of hay and corn, which is used in the production of the following: fluid milk 25,000,000 pounds; beef 4,800,000 pounds; pork 960,000 pounds; poultry 2,000,000 pounds.

Labor.

Because of its nearness to the great manufacturing centers of Michigan, labor in Cass City has much of the fine skills and "know-how" which made the entire region the great arsenal of democracy during World War II. Industry which locates here will find these men and women available to meet its production problems—a fact which represents one of the primary assets of our area.

About 75 percent of the workers own their own homes and to a marked extent have been located here for years they have a real stake in the community. Prospective employers will recognize the significance of such stability in the labor force.

Principal skills lie in the fields of milk processing, construction, farming and machine trades.

New industry will find about 190 men and 60 women available for immediate employment.

It should also be noted that the area provides a variety of outdoor recreation for both employer and employee, affording a degree of contentment and peace of mind not present in large centers of manufacturing.

There have been no work suspensions due to labor-management disagreements in the past twelve months.

Sites.

Both improved and unimproved land sufficient for any anticipated industrial needs exist here.

About 45 acres of land is in whole or in part served by these facilities: power, water, sewer and railroad siding.

Approximately 45 acres of property adjoining the railroad is obtainable for lease or sale, together with several tracts outside of the village limits that would be reasonably priced.

Industrial Fuel.

Most of the coal used in the area comes from Kentucky, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Illinois. Industrial prices range from $9.85 to $10.50 per ton. Shipment is by rail.

Fuel oil is shipped to the area by truck. Storage facilities exist for 120,000 gallons.

Natural gas is available in nearby areas. It is expected that it will be made available in Cass City when fuel supplies are adequate for expansion.

Transportation Facilities.

The community is served by the Grand Trunk & Western railroad. One freight train is operated each day. Shipping time to Detroit is 12 hours, and to Chicago 36 hours. Good highways exist and good through bus and trucking services are available. Large metropolitan centers may be reached in a matter of hours only.

The nearest airport is located at Caro and has four runways each 400 feet wide. The east and west runway is 1,850 feet long; north and south runway is 1,300 feet long; NE-SE runway is 2,200 feet. Because of its nearness to major markets and because of the good services provided, transportation is advantageous for industries which might locate in Cass City.

Market.

The retail trading area served by Cass City has a radius of about 11 miles, a population of 6,000 and an estimated annual volume of $4,000,000.

The wholesale trading area has a radius of 45 miles and an annual volume of $3,000,000.

The community is located about 95 miles from the major market of Detroit. Some local products are marketed throughout the world.

Distribution Facilities.

Facilities for distribution exist in about the same quantity and type as in other towns of like size. Packing and crating service, weighing service, grading and inspection service, freight warehousing service, cold storage warehousing service, and farm product warehousing service are available. Two banks maintain normal financing services for the convenience of industry.

Power.

Power is supplied to the Cass City area by the Detroit Edison Company, one of the great power companies of the Great Lakes area. Our community has been assured that this utility will be able to supply sufficient industrial electricity to meet the needs of any manufacturing plant which may locate here within the foreseeable future at load factor rates ranging from 2 1/2 cents per KWH for 10 KW to one cent per KWH for 1,000 KW.

Water.

The local water supply is obtained from wells of 240 feet and 290 feet depth with a total capacity of 320,800 gallons per day. The present daily demand is 250,000 gallons daily. Water is clear, pure and of 325 parts per million hardness. This water is treated for softening and the product is of 70 PPM hardness.

Rates for water are determined by amounts consumed and range from 60 cents per 1,000 gallons per month to 15 cents per 1,000 gallons per month.

Analyses and other details regarding the water supply are available and will be supplied upon request.

Living Conditions.

House rentals in the community range from $35.00 to $55.00 per month. Labor which is available for new industry already has a place to live. Ample building sites are available and a considerable building program has been underway since the end of the war.

Commercial, professional and public services and facilities exist in about the same degree as in the average American community of similar size.

Ten elementary schools have 424 students, while 114 attend Junior High School and 344 attend Senior High School.

The one public park has 15 acres of land. The area has excellent stream and lake fishing and many other opportunities for recreation out-of-doors—a real factor to be weighed when ideal conditions are sought for better human and labor relations.

Laws and Regulations.

Both private citizens and governmental officials are eager to broaden the base of industrial enterprise within the community and will offer every reasonable co-operation toward industry.

There are no restrictive ordinances or regulations in Cass City which might hamper or limit industrial operations.

There is a zoning ordinance and building codes designed to maintain and increase property values and engineering services are provided.

A sewer system adequate for industrial wastes exists. A municipal treatment plant is also provided.

The community gladly invites further inquiry into the attitudes and regulations which exist here.

Tax Structure.

The assessed valuation of the community is $1,293,835. The bonded indebtedness amounts to $21,000 which has been funded and is being retired through regular rates of taxation.

The total 1949 tax rate for all governmental agencies combined is 47.6 mills.

Climate.

The length of the growing season within the area is about 145 days, with frosts rarely experienced after mid-May until early October. Complete data on rainfall, temperatures and other climatic information will be supplied upon request.

Miscellaneous.

Cass City has 11 miles of streets, of which seven miles are paved; about 60 percent of the streets have sidewalks. A comprehensive repair program calls for improving about 35 percent of the streets during the next five years.

Maps of the region, the town, highways, railroads, water and sewer systems, power lines and zoned areas are available and will be supplied to interested persons.

Contracting, surveying and engineering services are available within the community and foundry, machine shop and mill supply facilities can be found within reasonable distances.

The principal industries now existing in the community are based on the processing of milk.

The Cass City community offers to industry requiring a friendly community attitude, an excellent labor supply, good transportation and other advantages, an opportunity to locate in healthy surroundings unknown to large industrial centers. It invites you to study these facilities and to make more detailed inquiries.

Types of Suitable Industries.

An analysis of the basic industrial location factors found in the Cass City area indicates that among others, the following types of industry and similar types might profitably locate here. This list is designed to be indicative, rather than fully comprehensive.

Wholesale meat packing, or custom slaughtering.

Lithographing, bookbinding, printing and publishing.

Many types of wearing apparel. Sewing machine products.

Machinery parts.

Costume jewelry.

Communication equipment, radio

radar and television equipment.

Glass products from purchased glass.

Small rubber goods and rubber sundries.

Fabricated metal products.

Statuary and art goods.

Fabricated plastic products.

Mattresses.

Peanut By-Products

Both peanut hay, by-product of the harvest, and peanut meal that is ground from the cake remaining after the oil is extracted, make excellent livestock feed. Peanut meal, rich in protein, produces tissue growth in animals and supplies cattle with nutrients on which good milk depends.

Was George Stung?

George Washington, visiting Barbados in 1751 on his only trip abroad, commented that the island's rum was of excellent quality but "extravagantly dear"—at two shillings a gallon! Under Washington as first President, two shillings were equivalent to the exorbitant sum of 45 cents in United States coin.
