There were 81 more pupils attending school at Cass City this year than there were in 1949-50, according to the report given at the school board meeting of Elkland Number five district Monday night.

At the school meeting it was disclosed that there were a total of 917 students in the grades and high school in the last school year. The previous year 886 were enrolled.

Of the total, 504 youths are listed as non-resident students, while 413 are listed as resident students.

Of the 504 non-residents, 180 are in the grades and 344 attend classes from the seventh through the twelfth grades.

Residents are divided as follows: 270 in grades and 143 in grades 7-12.

Again this year the district will transport all students that live more than one mile from the school. Transportation was furnished 66 on that basis last year.

Other business at the meeting included the financial report given by Fred Pinney. On hand in the general fund is $19,825.28.

Besides the financial report, two trustees were elected. Mrs. H. T. Donahue and C. M. Wallace were elected for a three year term. Wallace was elected unanimously, while Mrs. Donahue was elected over Mrs. B. H. Starman.

Conservation Field Day Planned for Tuscola Youths

Future Farmers and 4-H Club members of Tuscola County will have an opportunity next Wednesday to see nearly every important soil conservation practice that is recommended in Tuscola County. The occasion will be a big-scale conservation field day and demonstration sponsored by the Tuscola County Soil Conservation District at the Dayton Davis farm, one-half mile north of Vassar, on the North Vassar Road.

The conservation field day will start at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday, July 18, with a series of tours over the farm, pointing out some of the soil loss hazards and the methods which Davis has used to overcome them.

The conservation district directors have invited all 4-H club and FFA members in the county, whether they are carrying conservation projects or not, to attend the tour. The sponsors will conduct a contest dealing with conservation and have several prizes for contest winners. The first prize will be a $10.00 soil and plant tissue testing kit. The district board also plan to serve free refreshments to all who attend the tour.

Some of the highlights of the tour, as planned by the sponsoring group and David Dawson, local soil conservation service work unit head, include views of badly eroded gullies and ravines, together with corrective measures that have been and are to be applied, and a soil structure demonstration; showing the advantages of rotations which include frequent deep-rooted

No Teams Undeclared in Cass City's Softball League

Old time fans of the Cass City softball league claim that this year's competition between the eight clubs in the league is one of the closest in years—with no team a virtual cinch to win before they take the field.

Results in league play have tended to bear out the assertion of the fans. With the season not yet half over, every team in the league has been beaten at least once.

Powerful Deford was the last to fall and it was Alward's, a team that has won only once before, that knocked them from the unbeaten list.

Jack Fleming held the Deford nine to three runs in an overtime eleven inning game to chalk up the 4-3 victory.

Koert Lessman was charged with the defeat in the Friday contest. The nightcap of the twin bill proved to be another upset when Ellington chalked up their first win of the year by handing Decker their second defeat of the season, 7-6.

The Deckerman lost despite home runs by Don Krause and Bruce Lindsay, as Bob Smith pitched over the two long blows for the victory.

On Monday night, Ellington jumped on the offerings of "Moose" Wiley for ten runs to rack up an easy victory, 10-3. Circuit clouts were blasted by Tommy Townsend and Eldon Sharrard for the winners, while Smith received credit for his second victory.

Dedication Service Marks Completion Of Tabernacle

The Port Huron district of the Free Methodist Church is holding a dedication service on the completion of the tabernacle of their camp grounds, 3½ miles north of Hemans, Sunday.

The dedication services will mark the culmination of two years' work on the project. According to church authorities, the site was purchased two years ago. Final payment for the land was made last July and Sunday will mark the final step when dedication will be made for the new wooden tabernacle.

Besides the tabernacle, there are many tents on the grounds for different services. Altogether there are 20 acres belonging to the church.

There has been an average of at least 500 persons every evening at the services this year. The camp runs annually from July 5 to July 15.

Tennis Popularity On Increase at Cass City Park

One of the sports that have shown a marked increase in popularity at the Cass City Recreational Park has been tennis, according to supervisor, Harold Oatley.

Since rackets are on hand for the use of villagers, there have been more persons on the courts than ever before in the history of the sport here, Oatley said.

Other sports that are available for the village are shuffle board and horseshoes. M. B. Auten has purchased a new set of horseshoes and shuffle board equipment for the park. It is expected to arrive at any time.

Neighboring villages are quick to take advantage of the pool, Oatley stated. Buses have been arriving at regular intervals from Unionville, Gagetown, Sandusky and Marlette.

As usual, interest in the Red Cross program is at a peak and many persons are turning out for instruction under Thomas Davis.

The playground authorities are planning to restrict the use of the pool to adults on Thursday evening if enough demand is shown by villagers.

In junior baseball, Finkbeiner's nine remains undefeated and leads the league.

Included in the program will be more concessions, a bigger parade and a horse pulling contest that is expected to draw the top thumb teams in competition.

As usual, the home-coming will be a one-day event. The program now being arranged will present entertainment for the entire family throughout the day.

Paul Miller, extension specialist in rural sociology from Michigan State College, will be the main speaker and conduct some of the discussion sessions.

The meeting will be held in the courthouse at 8:30 p. m. This meeting will provide an opportunity for the organization governing bodies to discuss problems together and to secure help from extension personnel, pertaining to technical and educational phases of their operation. Some of the local associations hold monthly directors' meetings in which they go over the organization's operation with the inseminator, prepare a monthly report, and discuss means of improving the service to members.

More Workers at New School Cuts Construction Time

Willis Campbell, Superintendent of Cass City High School, stated today that work on the new grade school should be substantially completed on or near the completion date of August 15.

Campbell said that the Vollmer Construction Co. has added one-third more labor to the job to make up for the recent walkout.

Work on the new building was delayed for ten days when the bricklayers quit in a protest for higher wages.

Since the argument was settled last week, the company has increased the number of masons from three to five on the job and made corresponding increases in other labor used.

If the new school is completed in the middle of August, it will give school authorities time to arrange the interior for the opening day of school and students will be handled with a minimum of delay.

The dead season in Michigan politics is on. The State Capitol virtually is deserted as vacations take precedent over most of the pending business of state. State officials still in Lansing are having a field day cleaning up old correspondence.

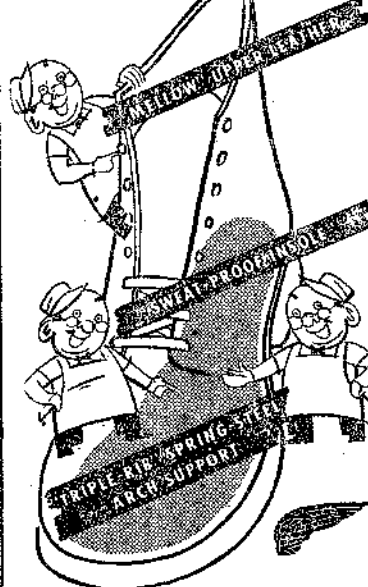

The state legislature, in an effort to halt the usual log jam of bills which are crammed into the last few days of each session, plan to put their operations on a timetable and cut six weeks off the usual session time in 1952.

Under a plan adopted by the lawmakers during the wind-up of the 1951 session, next year's meeting will be a 93-day session, beginning Jan. 9 and ending April 11. Introduction of bills will be limited to the first five weeks of the session.

Attitude of most observers: Seeing is believing.

Frank G. Millard, attorney general, says he is glad Michigan is getting back its one-man grand jury law, but that he has no plans to use it in his own investigations. "I'm sure it will be put to use by local authorities," he said.

Childhood Diseases
The popular belief that "it is just as well" to let children contact the common infectious diseases of childhood, and "get them over with," is being debunked. There is a need for protecting children from these diseases as far as possible because serious complications, such as bronchial pneumonia, in the case of measles, can result from them.

Although Joachim Neander was descended from four generations of clergymen, his student life was riotous and profligate. He went with friends to a church service to criticize and ridicule; but the earnestness of the sermon touched his heart. He retired to a cave on the beautiful Rhine to meditate and pray. Here his inspiring hymns were written, and it still bears the name Neander's Cave.

Average Cow Now Produces More Milk

A two-quart bucket was large enough to hold the daily production of the average dairy cow in the United States back in George Washington's day.

But in Michigan in June, 1951, it was a far different story. A twelve-quart water bucket would be running over before "Bossie" gave out the last two quarts of her daily average production. Gerald Quackenbush, Michigan State College agricultural economist, finds the average Michigan cow on June 1 produced 27.4 pounds of milk. That's about 14 quarts.

Michigan herd production, reported by the federal-state crop reporting service, showed the average dairy cow in the state was second in production only to New York's cows. Michigan's average cow could stand right along side of those from Wisconsin, recognized as "America's Dairyland," and produce pound for pound in milk. The average production in both states was 27.4 pounds per cow.

Michigan State College agricultural authorities credit better breeding, management, feeding and more "know-how" on the part of dairymen for the great strides dairy production has made since George Washington's day. New findings through agricultural research annually bring forth new ideas that allow fewer cows to produce more milk for more people each decade, MSC officials contend.

Michigan 4-H Club Program Ranks High

Records show Michigan's 4-H Club program is at or near the top when compared with other states.

With 5,244 clubs, Michigan leads the nation. With 88.96 per cent of the nearly 60,000 members completing all the projects undertaken, Michigan leads the north-central region of 12 states.

Ranking third in the percentage of completions in the United States and territories, Michigan is led only by Maine, Rhode Island and Puerto Rico, all with very small total memberships. A. G. Kettunen, state 4-H Club leader at Michigan State College, credits the local volunteer leaders for much of the success of the program in Michigan.

LET'S TALK IT OVER

Ed Vallender — Farm Editor
WBCM, Bay City
Worried Man.

Met a worried man the other day. That's not so unusual except that this man is saddened by the troubles of others. The kind of troubles a farmer has—when he wakes up some morning and finds that his livestock has been visited by a pack of dogs.

Grayden Blank, of the Animal Husbandry Department, MSC, has asked us to help in this crusade to cut down on thousands of killings each week on Michigan farms.

Dogs and Sheep.

If there's anything that strikes terror into the hearts of a sheep raiser's family, is to hear the cry, "The dogs are after the sheep again."

According to Mr. Blank, sheep killing dogs put more herders out of business than all the other loss factors together. Meat prices are high—wool prices are high—yet a farmer stops raising sheep because folks can't control their pets. Ironical, isn't it?

Not Sheep Alone.

The dogs will kill other farm animals besides sheep. In some areas losses to chickens and turkeys have been exceedingly high. Many pigs and calves have been butchered, also. Dogs don't stop with one or two killings. After a night's work there are many mangled and torn animals found, still alive. They seldom recover. If they do it is only after long and tedious treatment to prevent infection.

After a pack of our beloved pets has made a night time raid on a farm, the initial loss is only the beginning. Flocks that are badly frightened sometimes fail to reproduce properly for several years. Don't think that the farmer alone takes the loss. We all do. Higher prices result. When dogs run loose at night, every taxpayer feels the bite—in his pocketbook. The laws of this state provide for damages which only partly pay for the killings.

In 1949, 40 counties in Michigan had loss claims. Some of them amounted to over $6000.00. The total is staggering. The indirect consequences are even more serious.

Responsibility.

We who own dogs have a responsibility. It is simply that of knowing where our dogs are—at all times.

It means keeping the dog confined or tied up, especially at night and during the early part of the morning when killing seems to be most prevalent.

The dog owners duty is as simple as that.

Any Dog.

When talking with Grayden Blank, there was an uneasy personal twinge. We have never kept our cocker spaniel confined at night. I mentioned this fact to him—and added that our "poochie" was a gentle old lady—wouldn't hurt a fly.

He set me straight in jig time. Grayden said that the authorities have found many cocker spaniels running with killer packs. He also said that the size or apparent gentleness of the dog had nothing to do with the facts.

They all have that inherent killer instinct. It is present in every dog, can never be completely bred out.

Killing becomes a habit. Once a dog has tasted blood, he will run again and again.

No Problem.

There is nothing complex or insurmountable about this tragedy. If you live in a farming community and own a dog, you have only to ask yourself one question.

"Was MY dog loose last night?"

Industrial Uses of Peanut

Recent research has demonstrated the possibilities of using peanut protein in glues, sizings and for textiles, peanut oil in the worsted industry, and highly refined peanut oil as a carrier for many important drugs such as penicillin and adrenalin, as well as in the cosmetic industry.

George Bond Dies In Detroit Hospital

George A. Bond, 73, formerly of Evergreen Township, died July 5 in Detroit after five weeks of hospitalization.

Chief Says Speed One of Chief Causes Of Auto Deaths

"Basically, the failure to recognize the difference between a calculated risk and a needless, foolish risk is the factor that contributes to the death of thousands of motorists every year!" Chief Steve Orto, Cass City, told the Chronicle today. The motorist who travels at high speeds, he said, either feels that he is running no risk at all, or feels that the risk is negligible. Both ideas are false, according to Orto. "At Bonneville, Utah," he said, "John R. Cobb, in 1947, attained a new land speed record—403 miles an hour. The dangers involved in driving a vehicle at a greater than six miles per minute almost stagger the imagination. To Cobb, however, this was a carefully calculated risk. The test was carefully supervised, the course was closely examined for surface smoothness and the vehicle was as mechanically near perfection as possible.

"The result was," Chief Orto said, "that Cobb was courting death no more than any of us who drives 40 miles an hour when the visibility is bad, the highway wet or slippery, or when our tires are thread-bare!"

Chief Orto continued his discussion of speed by claiming that the simple process of driving three blocks to the grocery store is a calculated risk.

"By driving safely and sanely, however," he said, "we are calculating our risks in such a way as to minimize the dangers to ourselves. The moment that our speed becomes faster than road, weather or the mechanical condition of our car warrants, we begin to enter the ranks of the foolish."

Chief Orto's emphasis on the dangers of speed came in support of the State Safety Commission's July program of public education for traffic safety which is being sponsored in cooperation with the National Safety Council.
