

State Agrees to Establish Speed Control Zones Here

A long fight waged by the Cass City Village Council has finally bore fruit as authorities were given an oral okay for the establishment of speed control zones outside the village limits.

The council first petitioned the state for the speed zone in October, 1950. No action was taken on the request until early this spring, when the state sent officials here to run a survey to determine the need for a control zone.

Evidently, the experts decided it was needed. For, in the near future there will be signs 100 feet outside the village limits, on both the east and west sides of Cass City, warning motorists that there is a speed control zone ahead.

Five-hundred feet from the village limits a 35-mile-per-hour zone will be established.

The basic 25-mile-per-hour village law will still be in effect inside the village limits.

Motorists will have no excuse for not knowing they are in the village limits in the future. The state is furnishing the village with "village limits" signs that are larger than the present ones and much easier to read.

The council also stated that work on repairing sidewalks was proceeding according to schedule. Bud Burt and the rest of the village employees started last week on the project.

Local Softball Loop Enters Second Half of Schedule

The Cass City softball league entered its second round of competition this week with nearly every team in the league still in hopes of landing in one of the first four places in the league to earn the right to enter the post-season playoff games.

Ellington, who looked like the door mat of the league in the first three games, continued to ride their winning streak that now stretches to four straight. The latest victims of Bob Smith and Company were Alwads, who dropped a 7-2 decision Wednesday, July 11.

Smith hurled for Ellington and Jack Fleming was charged with the loss for Alwads.

In the second game of the evening Decker and Deford clashed in a tight ball game that finally saw the nod go to Deford, 4-3.

Decker almost pulled the game out of the fire in the sixth inning when they put two runners on with only one out. But Koert Lessman, who replaced starter, Paul Molnar, forced the next two men to fly out and ended the threat and Decker's chance for the ball game.

Lee Hartel slammed a home run to keep Decker on the heels of Deford.

On Friday, fans saw two one-sided games as Western Auto bowed to Baker-Urquhart, 10-4, and Church of Christ was defeated by Baldy's, 10-0.

Western Auto lost despite the fact that they nicked "Moose" Wiley for eight hits. Baker-Urquhart cashed in on walks issued by Bob Wallace and a couple

Intermediate Scouts Now at Day Camp

Intermediate day camp for Girl Scouts started Tuesday, after the completion of the two-day camp for Brownies that saw 118 girls from the county registered.

The Brownie group was divided into 11 units. Each unit chose a name, made a home site and cooked their own dinner.

Other activities included the making of insect cages and a nature hike under the direction of Mrs. Glenn Gray.

The camp closed with the Girl Scout Friendship Circle and a treat from the county association. Taps sounded the end of the festivities for the girls.

Fourteen units and 148 scouts are registered in the Intermediate camp now in progress.

Boy Scout Troop To Attend Camp Rotary in August

The local Boy Scout troop has voted to change the dates of its week at Camp Rotary near Clare to August 12-18. So many boys had registered for the period beginning July 29, the original choice, that only about half the Cass City boys could have been accepted, and the scouts voted for a less crowded week when all the local boys could go together.

Twenty-six Scouts of troop 194 are signed up for camp, with about four more expected to take the trip.

Explorer James Ware, junior assistant scoutmaster of Troop 194, will be leaving Sunday to become assistant clerk of Camp Rotary. He will be on duty to greet our boys when they arrive, the only leader from Cass City to serve on the staff this season.

Pet Fawn Costs Lappinens $22.80

Mrs. Louise Lappinen, 36, of Port Hope was fined $22.80 and costs for having possession of a female fawn.

The Lappinens picked up the fawn Memorial Day in Isosco County and brought the animal home for a pet, according to Conservation Officer Douglas E. Smith, of Bad Axe.

Authorities pointed out that picking up young animals becomes a burden to the owners after they have grown up—picking up the wild animal is doing the animals and themselves an injustice.

In most cases the mother of the young is in the vicinity, even though she cannot always be seen, authorities stated.

Auten Entertains Cass City Rotary Club at Cottage

Rotarian M. B. Auten entertained members of the Cass City Rotary Club at his cottage, near Port Austin, Thursday, July 12.

Auten had arranged an unusual party for his guests. Highlight of the evening was a drawing in which everyone received a prize. Gifts for members ranged from a crutch to a lawn chair and no two prizes were the same.

To enter the drawing, Rotarians had to find three different baskets placed in the woods near the cottage. After a little searching, every member found the baskets and won a prize.

Before the drawing, members entertained themselves by swimming, fishing, boat riding and attempting to ride a pair of water skis furnished by Auten.

After a steak dinner, the club played cards and visited to conclude the evening. The Rotarians gave Auten a rising hand of approval for the outing.

The Spencers have lived in this vicinity for 44 years—they were married at Caro in 1891.

Mr. Spencer is now 81, and his wife is 77-years old.

Supervisor Arthur Holmberg revealed today that attendance records indicate that more persons are using the pool this year than ever before in history.

To illustrate the popularity of the pool, Holmberg cited the attendance at the pool for a single day, recently. More than 400 swimmers used the facilities at the park—including 150 children from Cass City, Caro, Unionville, Gagetown and Kingston, who are currently receiving instruction tri-weekly under the direction of the Red Cross and Tom Davis, the organization's swimming instructor.

On the same day, nearly an equal number of Cass Cityites took advantage of free swimming period between two and four p. m.

Later in the afternoon and in the early evening, 75 more youths from neighboring communities swelled the final total well over 400 for the day.

Naturally, with more persons attending the pool, receipts are well over the amount taken in last year at this time.

To give adults an opportunity to use the pool if they want to, Thursday, July 27, has been designated adult night at the pool. From 7-9 p. m. will be restricted to persons over 20 years old. The adult night is an experiment—if enough interest is shown, every Thursday will then be set aside for adults.

Other activities on the playground included a softball game between Cass City and Sandusky. Sandusky scored seven runs in the first two innings to take a 7-4 decision over the Cass City nine.

According to Harold Oatley, playground instructor, the game was limited to youths 15 years old and under. Sandusky won the game by combining Russell Foy for all their runs in two innings, before Richard Mallory took over and pitched shutout ball for the last five innings.

West Elkland 4-H Club Meets At Karr Home Monday Night

The members also decided to hold the "little achievement" at the Dillman School sometime next month.

Six members and leaders plan to attend the county soil conservation day on Wednesday at the Dayton Davis farm.

After the meeting the group played games and enjoyed refreshments served by the hostess.

The group also reported a good time on Sunday when 24 members and their families held a picnic at Sleeper State Park.

Many members took advantage of the fine weather and went in swimming, according to club reporter, Joyce Donnelly.

Hundreds Attend Dedication of New Sebawaing Airport

Sebawaing township airport was officially dedicated last Sunday afternoon before a throng of several hundred persons, including 65 private planes carrying 138 pilots and passengers, who saw the 10-year project of the Sebawaing Chamber of Commerce finally materialize.

L. C. Andrews, chief engineer of the state department, complimented the thumb community and stated that Sebawaing had one of the few combined land plane and seaplane bases in the state.

An unusual feature of the airport is the seaplane channel with runs from Saginaw Bay to the front door of the administration building.

Ed Vallender, radio commentator from Bay City, was on hand for the ceremonies in the afternoon and Gov. G. Mennen Williams arrived in the evening to attend the dedication ball held at VFW Sportsmen's Hall. The Governor called several square dance sets at the party.

Hill - Darling Wed At Holbrook Church

Saturday evening, June 23, at 8:00 p. m., at the Holbrook Methodist Church, the Rev. Sergi Moisejenko solemnized the double ring ceremony, uniting Miss Barbara Hill, youngest daughter of Mrs. Belle Hill and the late Albert Hill of Holbrook, and Joseph Darling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Darling of Marlette, in marriage.

At the candlelight ceremony, with baskets of white peonies, pink roses and mock orange blossoms against a setting of palms and candelabra, the bride was given in marriage by her eldest brother, Roy Hill. Her gown was white nylon lace, with a full skirt which swept into a long train. The neckline was accented by a rhinestone studded collar and a seed pearl tiara held her fingertip veil of imported nylon net, trimmed with Chantilly lace. Her bouquet was an arrangement of pink and white rapture roses.

Miss Joan Dodge, Cass City, niece of the bride, was maid of honor. Her gown was green marquisette over taffeta, with matching hat and gloves. She carried salmon gladioli.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Pauline Kelly, sister of the bride, and Miss Doras Darling, sister of the groom. They were attired in orchid and yellow and carried yellow and orchid gladioli respectively.

Ann Marie Johnson, Cass City, was flower girl. Her gown was white marquisette and she wore a shoulder length veil. Rose petals were strewn along the aisle from her basket.

Donald Darling, cousin of the groom, was best man. Other attendants were John Kelly and Edwin Karr. Roy Kitchen and Hugh Mitchell acted as ushers.

Mrs. Hill chose a gown of old rose print and Mrs. Darling chose a navy blue dress. Both had corsages of white carnations.

"I Love You Truly" and "Always" were sung by Mrs. Ethel Ross of Ubyly and she was accompanied by Mrs. Blanche McIntyre of Argyle on the piano.

A reception for 250 guests was held at the Holbrook Community Hall, following the ceremony.

They left on a trip through northern Michigan and Wisconsin. Mrs. Darling chose a navy blue suit with white accessories, complemented with a white carnation corsage for traveling.

Mr. and Mrs. Darling will reside on a farm near Marlette.

Mrs. Joseph Darling.

Live Over-Winter Cover Crops Give Soil Protection

Saving of soil loss from wind and water, and a deposit of up to $10 to $15 worth of nitrogen per acre, will help the soil bank account of farmers, who plant sweet clover and rye as live-over-winter cover crops when they cultivate their corn for the last time.

That is the observation of Paul J. Rood, extension soil scientist at Michigan State College. Rood has studied the effects of leaving land bare and unprotected after harvesting the corn crop and says that "soil losses can be greatly reduced, almost eliminated, and plant humus added by planting a cover crop to protect the topsoil through the winter."

He recommends 10 pounds each of rye and sweet clover, broadcast just ahead of the cultivating equipment. The sweet clover is a legume, and, properly inoculated, can draw nitrogen free from the air before next spring's planting season. Rye grass may be substituted for the rye.

Wheat planted for next season's harvest gives effective protection for land planted in soybeans and Miss Patricia Quinn, of Brown City, visited at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. navy beans this year, he says. Even though sugar beet harvest is late in the season this land needs a live-over-winter cover crop for protection.

Rood points out that areas where the acreage of clean cultivated crops is large in comparison to the acreage of hay especially need cover crop protection.

Planting in corn at time of last cultivation is important, he says, as waiting until after corn is harvested is too late for best results.

Thomas Quinn, Jr., and also visited other relatives. Her uncle and aunt took her to her home near Brown City last Sunday.

Frederick Cooley and friend, from Bay City, attended the double-header ball game in Detroit Sunday, between Detroit and New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Maharg and sons, Larry and Johnny, were in Caseville Sunday afternoon.

The peanut, "the nut that is not a nut," is a legume like a pea or bean. The plant is strange, sending its seed pods under the surface of the soil to develop and mature. COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Regular meeting of the village council held June 26, 1951.

Trustees present were Gross, Bauer, Hartwick and McLellan. Minutes of last meeting read and corrected.

A petition to have the dog pound moved out of town was read, and the president appointed Mr. McLellan to see about it.

Tuscola County Chapter of the Red Cross was granted permission to hold swimming classes at the pool during July and August.

Motion by Gross and Bauer that the following resolution be submitted to the State Highway Department:

"Resolved, that inasmuch as State Trunkline M-81 passes through the Village of Cass City, and inasmuch as the said highway is in bad shape and we feel in need of a resurfacing job, the State Highway Commissioner be requested to have an engineer look into same and recommend a proposition for construction and for the disbursement of the cost.

Be it further resolved, that the Village of Cass City will attend to the drainage problem on East Main Street, before said resurfacing begins."

This resolution unanimously adopted this 26th day of June, 1951.

Building permits were issued to Clare Schwaderer, Lucille Champion and John Frankowski for garages.

Motion by Hartwick and Gross that an amendment be made to ordinance No. 39 to conform with the State Vehicle Code, dealing with drunk driving, as follows:

Section 6, "(d) Any person who is convicted of a violation of paragraph (a), (b), or (c) of this section shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than 90 days, or by fine of not less than $50.00 nor more than $100.00, or both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court, together with costs of prosecution."

"On a second or subsequent conviction he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punishable by imprisonment for not more than one year, and in the discretion of the court, a fine not more than $1,000.00."

"(e) It shall be the duty of the magistrate before accepting a plea of guilty, under this section to advise the accused of the statutory consequences possible as the result of a plea of guilty in respect to suspension of his operator's license, financial responsibility, the penalty imposed for violation of this section, and the limitation of his right of appeal."

"(f) The operator's or special chauffeur's license of any person found guilty of violating the provisions of this section of this act shall thereupon be surrendered to the court in which such conviction shall be had; and the judge before whom such conviction was held shall immediately notify the Secretary of State. If the license is not forwarded an explanation of the reason why it is absent shall be attached."

Passed and adopted June 26, 1951.

Petition for a new sidewalk by H. F. Lenzner was accepted.

Motion by Bauer and Hartwick that all requests for public works and complaints against the department be submitted to the village clerk by phone or in writing. Such requests and work orders to be authorized completed by the various committees, a duplicate kept on file, and the original executed by the village superintendent of public works. Carried.

Clerk was instructed to place an advertisement in the local paper for an additional relief marshal. Council agreed with Mr. Bauer's suggestion that purchase orders be used by the departments hereafter, issued by the village clerk and authorized by the committees, so as to control buying and keep a better check on the budget.

Fines for predetermined offenses were discussed, and it was agreed that some changes might be made to be more satisfactory. Motion by Gross and Bauer that ordinance No. 41 be amended and new tickets be printed in accordance. Carried.

Amendment as follows: Section 6; Predetermined penalties for minor offenses: The following fines to be: Excessive Noise 1st 2nd 3rd

"I wouldn't take anything in the world for my electric range," says charming Mrs. Al Watrous. "Many of my friends feel the same way about theirs, too."

"And can she cook with it!" adds Al. "Everything tastes better and she spends about half as much time in the kitchen."

"That's because I'm not forever pot-watching," explains Mrs. Watrous. "Electric cooking gives you a chance to relax. You just set the controls and after awhile, there's your meal... piping hot and cooked to perfection. And electric cooking is so much cleaner, too... but, honestly, there's just no end to the advantages of an electric range!"

You'll echo the words of this attractive housewife and her famous husband the moment you try this modern, efficient way of cooking. So don't delay. Visit your dealer and select your electric range—tomorrow!

Personal News and Notes from Deford

Activities of the Church—

Tuesday night the ball players from the Baptist Church and those from the Deford Church played ball on the diamond on the Allen farm. After the game several from both churches gathered on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Kelley for a wiener roast.

There were some injuries, a victory, and much fellowship and after a late hour departed to their homes, looking forward to another contest.

The midweek service conducted by Rev. Miss Smith was well attended and we'd like to meet you there every Wednesday at 8 p. m.

The Youth Fellowship groups are good, but we need you. Lyle Reynolds led last Sunday night, Carolyn Rayl will lead on July 22, 7:30 p. m. Choruses and a lesson. Miss Smith will be with us on this Sunday night.

The Sunday School picnic of the Deford Church will be on Saturday, July 21. Potluck dinner at noon, at Caseville. For any information contact Louis Babich, Norman McQueen or Ken Tousley. Keep Saturday open for a good time. Everyone is invited. Come.

On Monday night a good crowd gathered at the church to begin definite plans for redecorating the interior of the sanctuary, and planning for more Sunday School rooms.

Catherine Sefton returned recently from Crosswell where she spent two weeks visiting with Mr. and Mrs. D. O'Connor.

Donna DesJardins, of Crosswell, spent the week with Catherine Sefton.

The chairman of the town forum was also the bank president, richest citizen, and head of the board of education—in short, the most important gent in the county. He never said in one word what could be expressed in 50.

His expression was what he liked to think benign but inscrutable. His introduction of the speaker of the evening never consumed less than a half-hour.

After the chairman's usual monumental flow of platitudes, overstatement, and pomposity, a speaker once faced her audience with a deprecating grin and began, "Goodness, after that introduction, I can scarcely wait myself to hear what I'm going to say!"

Pure Proof

Mrs. Jones wore a preoccupied look at dinner. "Junior's been at Yale now four weeks, and we haven't heard a word from him," she said.

"When did you write him last?" Mr. Jones said without hesitation. "October 9. I looked it up in my check book."

4-H Fun Festival At Vassar Friday

Wm. McGilvary, of Detroit, visited his sister, Miss Catherine McGilvary, and aunts, Mrs. Colon MacCallum and Miss Anna McLeod, on Saturday.

If more people would think more about where they are going instead of where they have been, this world would be better off.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

July 16, 1951

Dear Sirs:

I am writing this to you hoping that you will see that it comes to the attention of those most concerned.

I am registering a complaint and I intended to do it a year ago.

I was born and brought up in Cass City. It is a nice town and a good place for children to grow up in. Our gang was delighted when the town built the swimming pool for us. We practically lived in it during the summer time.

On my frequent visits home in the summer, I anticipate a nice cool swim, altho I have noticed in the last few years that very few adults use the pool.

On July the 6th, 1951, I took both my children to the pool after 4 p. m. so that we could enjoy the water when the pool wasn't so crowded. And what did we find when we got there?

A bus load of kids from Sandusky had taken the place over. I noticed in last week's Chronicle that the town people were happy that bus loads of kids from Marlette and Sandusky and surrounding communities were using the pool several days a week.

I thought the original intentions were to have the pool for the use of the people in Cass City. No doubt they do pay and increase the income from the pool. But is it worth it when Cass City young people won't go swimming very much after 4 p. m. because it is so full of strangers?

Perhaps the town council is happy to import outsiders because they pay. But does the council use the pool for swimming? Ask the high school kids who might like to swim after 4 p. m. with their own gang when the pool isn't so crowded.

Is Cass City obligated to entertain the kids within a thirty-mile radius of Cass City?

The pool was built by the town for the children of Cass City and guests and friends. Not for wholesale bus loads imported daily. Ask the boys and girls what they think.

Patricia Pinney Murphy.

SHORT STORY

Aggie

By Richard H. Wilkinson

QUENTIN, north woods guide, told me this story.

"It happened shortly after gold was discovered up near Hayden," he began. "It wasn't much of a strike.

A settlement, however, sprung up and they named it Leland, after Jim.

"A year after the first log buildings were erected the settlers decided they ought to have a school teacher, and they sent down to Ottawa for one. Miss Agnes Sheldon volunteered and I was delegated to meet her at the station in Twin Forks. It was a six-day canoe trip, the only practical means of summer transportation.

"One look at Miss Agnes Sheldon when she stepped from that train and I smelled trouble. She wasn't old, but her features bore a mature look.

3-Minute Fiction

She wore a severe black suit, bone-rimmed glasses, cotton stockings, laced boots.

"When I introduced myself she looked at me as though I were some new kind of insect. That made me mad at the start. I scouted around the town and borrowed some apparel for her to wear that was suitable for the trip.

"I offered them to her and she glared at me as though I'd called her a bad name. In no uncertain terms she assured me she was capable of choosing her own costumes. Well, I was sort of glad. My conscience was clear and I felt that the trip would teach her a much needed lesson. I did, however, endeavor to prevail upon her to rub some mosquito lotion on her skin before we started. She wasn't, she said, going to smear herself up like a savage.

"The mosquitoes were pretty bad that year. Before noon of the first day Miss Sheldon was bitten so badly it hurt me to look at her. I offered her the lotion again and she refused it. I could see then that she was stubborn.

"The morning after the first night I crawled out of my tent at dawn and found that Miss Sheldon was up ahead of me. She was down at the river, bathing her face. By the looks of her clothes, she'd slept in them.

"The remainder of that trip was something to write home about. With each passing mile Miss Sheldon got more uncomfortable and more obstinate. And I, though I pitied her, got pretty stubborn myself. I decided not to offer her the lotion again until she asked for it. I was sure that sooner or later she'd break down and admit defeat. But she didn't.

"We had a pretty tough time in the Little Falls rapids because the river was high that year. We shipped a lot of water and Miss Sheldon got drenched through to the skin. That night it rained and she slept in wet clothes. The next day she broke her glasses, and because of near sightedness was always tripping over things.

"We reached Leland shortly after noon of the sixth day and there was quite a delegation down to meet us. Jim was there, bearing a welcome and ready to make a speech. But at sight of Miss Sheldon the beam died on his lips.

"Gentlemen," I says, "this here's Miss Agnes Sheldon, our new school teacher. She aims to bring a bit of civilization into our settlement, and I reckon she's done it."

"Well, sir, if Miss Sheldon hated me before, she despised me after that speech. But I'm danged if I could help it. This was my first experience with a female and I tell you I was mad. Any dumbhead who'd let mosquitoes bite the tar out of her like that, deserved to be told what was thought of her.

"Jim Leland's wife fetched her up to their cabin and put her to bed. She stayed there for almost two weeks. Mosquitoes, sunburn and wet clothes had danged near ruined her.

"Me, after I'd cooled off some, I felt kind of apologetic and decided the best thing I could do was to get out of town for a spell. But I didn't. No, sir, I stuck there and faced my medicine. There's nothing like being married to a wife who's got a mind of her own—they say.

In no uncertain terms Agnes Sheldon told him she was capable of choosing her own costumes.

She wore a severe black suit, bone-rimmed glasses, cotton stockings, laced boots.

"When I introduced myself she looked at me as though I were some new kind of insect. That made me mad at the start. I scouted around the town and borrowed some apparel for her to wear that was suitable for the trip.

"I offered them to her and she glared at me as though I'd called her a bad name. In no uncertain terms she assured me she was capable of choosing her own costumes. Well, I was sort of glad. My conscience was clear and I felt that the trip would teach her a much needed lesson. I did, however, endeavor to prevail upon her to rub some mosquito lotion on her skin before we started. She wasn't, she said, going to smear herself up like a savage.

"The mosquitoes were pretty bad that year. Before noon of the first day Miss Sheldon was bitten so badly it hurt me to look at her. I offered her the lotion again and she refused it. I could see then that she was stubborn.

"The morning after the first night I crawled out of my tent at dawn and found that Miss Sheldon was up ahead of me. She was down at the river, bathing her face. By the looks of her clothes, she'd slept in them.

"The remainder of that trip was something to write home about. With each passing mile Miss Sheldon got more uncomfortable and more obstinate. And I, though I pitied her, got pretty stubborn myself. I decided not to offer her the lotion again until she asked for it. I was sure that sooner or later she'd break down and admit defeat. But she didn't.

"We had a pretty tough time in the Little Falls rapids because the river was high that year. We shipped a lot of water and Miss Sheldon got drenched through to the skin. Need Agriculture Terms To Include In Farm Dictionary

What does a middlebuster do? Or perhaps you say "middle-breaker" down your way. The compilers of the Michigan State College Dictionary of Agricultural Terms would like very much to know. And these are only two of those terms—there are dozens more.

Plans call for the dictionary to be published in MSC's centennial year, 1955, but much research will be required to make sure that it is complete. The project is supported by the All College Research Committee and the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station. The volume will be published by the Michigan State College Press.

Problems like the meaning of the word "middlebuster" must be solved before they can be included in the dictionary. Then too, there are the scattered references to "middle-buster" which complicates the situation. The question is this: Is a middlebreaker the same thing as a middlebuster or middlebustler, or are these different agricultural implements?

Then there's "lister." A farmer told John N. Winburne, who heads the committee compiling the dictionary, that lister was just another name for middlebuster. This was a help, until another farmer said he'd been using a lister for years and it was not a middlebuster.

Farmers in various sections of the nation give various meanings to common words. The dictionary-makers' problem will be to compile them in a standard book.

Odd agricultural words or uncommon farm terms are needed, too, to make the volume complete. If you can shed some light on these puzzles, or add other words to the growing list to be included in the agricultural dictionary, drop a line to John N. Winburne, Michigan State College, East Lansing, Michigan. You'll be helping to complete a long-needed book of agricultural terms.

Michigan Mirror News Briefs

The new U. S. Senate committee to investigate the grey market in steel, headed by Senator Blair Moody, has been hitting the headlines all over the country regularly.

No one denies his is a job long needed. The present program of the committee is to uncover "possible criminal" action by unnamed steel mill executives.

Moody says: "One practice is for mill operators and scrap dealers to conspire to improperly 'upgrade' scrap iron. There is evidence that loads of scrap which included cement blocks have been purchased by mills and paid for as top material ready to go into the furnaces. By this means certain mills are alleged to have gotten excessively large scrap supplies at the expense of other operators."

"Second practice is 'tie-in' sales by which mills agree that if dealers supply them with scrap, they will in turn sell steel back to the scrap dealers. This steel, as is reported, goes back on the black market... where it is purchased by the small business man."

The committee has been in Detroit and other Michigan industrial centers, although most of the irregularities are reported from Pittsburgh.

Locally, Auditor General John B. Martin, Jr., has criticized Senator Moody for opposing reduction of Federal expenditures for press agent costs. The Federal government spends as much on publicity as Michigan spends to maintain its highways, he says. Martin is a candidate for the Republican nomination in 1952 for the U. S. Senate seat held by Democrat Blair Moody.

The Michigan system of checks and balances has too many checks and too little balance, says Leroy C. Ferguson, professor of political science at Michigan State College. Says Ferguson, "The Governor has power to watch the legislature and the legislature has power to watch the Governor... consequently, both bodies have more watching power than acting power." He was speaking at the annual forum on state and local government held at the college.

Also under fire at the panel meeting, was the state administrative board, made up of the Governor and top department heads. A sort of governor's cabinet, the board has been assailed as too small, ineffective and hindering in state administrative efforts.

Professor Walter S. Ryder, Central Michigan College of Education, says: "It is an institution of the horse and buggy days."

State officials use the forum to air gripes against the current setup. And always there are many. But in past years the forum generally has been considered long on theory and short on practical experience—or results.

Governor Williams envisages a number of state clinics to treat alcoholism, a system such as New York has had for several years. In casting about for five men to appoint to the new board, which was ordered by the 1951 legislature, Williams said a new agency like this should be independent of other commissions so "it will not be hampered by old ideas."

A new experiment at M. S. C. shows that a college-industry training program can cut the training period for new plant foremen from six months to one month. Officials say the four-week course substitutes for the "trial-and-error" method usually used in promoting machinists to foremen.

Michigan State College now is also giving a two-week summer course in truck driving. Expected for the course are 650 enrollees, which will be repeated several times a year.

The Michigan State Police have started 26 more recruits through training school, planning to graduate by September 7. The shortage of state policemen since the end of World War II is easing up. This is the 10th post-war class and the third in which married men have been accepted.

The Migrant problem arises again in Michigan. The influx of workers for the fruit and berry orchards this year is greater than ever and the usual difficulties present themselves. Housing is a principal issue, although many farmers provide make-shift quarters on their farms.

Law enforcement is another major problem. In the Traverse City area the State Liquor Control Commission has banned the sale of liquor in pints and of wine, of more than 16 percent alcoholic content, until August 18.

The Benton Harbor area may consider similar restrictions during the heavy peach and apple picking season.

Don't Neglect Young Chicks This Summer

Don't neglect growing chicks and young pigs on summer range quarters even though you do find that field crops require more time than you can give them. Young birds can get a lot of their needs from plentiful, clean, disease-free range, but they are at a critical stage which demands attention to check losses from disease and nutritional troubles. Provide a well-balanced growing mash and grain ration and plenty of clean fresh water. Poultrymen who keep chickens growing and have pullets ready to go to the laying house by late summer will be selling in a more favorable market. Regular care and observation of troubles at an early stage pay off in raising poultry. Likewise, young pigs often suffer at this time of year from what has been called "harvest disease." This is nothing more than neglect of the animals due to long hours spent in the field. Pigs on legume pasture provided with free choice concentrate and protein supplement, make economical gains and grow faster than those grown on dry lot. Another factor in profitable swine management is an adequate water supply at all times. Pigs won't gain well if they're thirsty.

The man who boasts he is rooted in the soil, too often just has his feet in the dirt.

Mahlon Vance Talks To 4-H Service Club

On Thursday, July 5, the Tuscola County 4-H Service Club met at the Wilber Memorial 4-H Building.

Mahlon Vance, manager of the Caro office of the Detroit Edison Company, gave a very interesting talk on India.

The following members were chosen as officers: President, Beth Luther, Fairgrove; vice president, Martha Dowling, Caro; secretary, Barbara Ruggles, Kingston; treasurer, Charles Wells, Vassar; recreation leaders, Clayton Ruggles, Kingston, and Janis Black, Akron; reporter, Meta Trisch, Caro; song leader, Joanne Davis, Vassar.

It was then suggested that a committee be chosen to look over the 4-H Stand on the Fairgrounds and report on improvements needed. Two former managers of the stand were asked to be on the committee.

Games were played and refreshments were served.

❖ LET'S TALK IT OVER ❖

Ed Vallendar - Farm Editor

Peaches.

All over the country, reports are coming in concerning the potential harvest for 1951. Government agencies and independent reporting services pool their information to arrive at the national picture.

Some months ago, we received the very bad news about our Michigan peach crop. It was calculated to be a 20 percent crop, a near total loss. If these peach orchards in Western Michigan supplied most of the nation's needs, it would simply mean a shut down of the entire industry.

The overall report on peaches is quite different, however. The department of Agriculture says that the United States will enjoy a larger peach harvest than last year.

This equalizing factor is prevalent in all crops. A ruined crop here—a bumper crop there keeps the country on an even keel when the final tabulation is in.

Important News.

The most important news in Agriculture today is the national crop summary. Our economic future depends on it. Without a bountiful harvest, we cannot fight a war, either now or in the future. Whether or not we have more inflation and future depressions, depends almost entirely on our harvest. Our commitments and prestige with other countries is tied up with our Farm Production.

The Big Three.

There are three names in the Agricultural Big League. They are—Wheat, corn and cotton.

Wheat is bread and friendship with other countries.

Corn is meat on the table.

Cotton is clothes.

Those are the three keys in the combination to economic security. Let's take a look at all three.

Wheat.

The overall wheat crop promises to pass the billion bushel mark. We had a disastrous loss in winter wheat due to drought and insects. This was completely offset by the unusually good prospects of the Spring wheat harvest. Here, as in the peach crop—the balance of time and location saved the day. If the current wheat crop comes through as indicated, it will be the eleventh consecutive year of above average yields—an all-time record or continuous production.

Cotton.

The cotton planters answered he call last Spring with increased acreage. As things stand now, here will be a million more bales of cotton over last year. This will take care of our civilian, defense and export requirements. So far—the score is 2-0 in our favor.

Corn.

Here is the only cloud in our future.

Last Spring teams of experts from the USDA toured the corn belt and its fringes to get more corn acreage. The Government asked the farmer to plant 90-million acres. This would have yielded three billion, 750 million bushels. Wet weather at planting time and subsequent floods will cut the existing acreage down to less than 86 million acres. This is 400 million bushels less than our anticipated needs.

It's always best to save the good

Spoiled Hay Good Source of Mulch

Untimely rains that have spoiled a lot of hay this summer on Michigan farms may have "blown someone some good" by providing orchardists with valuable mulching material.

Dr. H. B. Tukey, head of the Michigan State College horticulture department, reports that more and more orchardists are turning to some form of mulching because their experience with it has been good.

"Mulch is better than we know," says Dr. Tukey. "We explain that it adds organic matter, improves the physical condition of the soil, prevents run-off, and makes nutrients available."

"While this is a sizable package of virtues, there are seemingly still some little understood values. Somehow, many troubles that assail an orchard disappear under a good mulching program," he concludes.

In mulching, hay, straw, marsh news for the finish.

All in all, we are in for one of the biggest farm crops in history. The total July reports indicate production of all farm commodities this year will rival the all-time bumper crop of 1948.

grass, sawdust, or any other similar material is brought into the orchard and spread under the trees. The most common procedure is to spread the mulch well out under the drip of the branches and to leave the spaces between the trees in sod which is kept mowed.

Horticulturists advise that now is the time to get mulch. Some of the hay which has been made unfit for storage by the rains may fit well in the mulching program.

Mulching, the horticulturists advise, may conflict with other orchard operations, but it is worth a little extra effort. It will pay well, they report.

Protecting Art

Reproductions of fine art paintings will have a greater depth with one or two thin coats of pure, fresh, white shellac. Many of the fine old paintings are protected with one or more coats of French varnish, a refined wax free shellac.

Welt Shoes

Welt shoes, which account for about one-third of all shoe production, derive their strength and sturdy appearance from the fact that cattlehide leather is used for insole, welt and outsole.

KELLOGG CENTER NEARS COMPLETION AT MSC

Michigan State College is putting the finishing touches on its giant Kellogg Center for Continuing Education. Financed largely through a grant from the Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, the modern seven-story structure is scheduled for completion in September.

Believed to be the number one building of its type in the U. S., the Kellogg Center will contain extensive facilities for the college's broad program of adult education and for a working laboratory for hotel and restaurant students. It contains 193 double hotel-type rooms, dining facilities for 1,000 persons, auditorium, ballroom and numerous conference and exhibit rooms.

The Kellogg Center is designed specifically to accommodate the thousands of Michigan residents who come to the campus annually for special courses and conferences of benefit to them in their professions and everyday living. These programs are developed by the Continuing Education Service for educators, bankers, farmers, engineers, industrial personnel, florists, homemakers, radio broadcasters and any other groups desiring such services. College officials estimate that about 80,000 people will participate in these programs during the 1951-52 year.

Hotel and restaurant management students at Michigan State will gain valuable practical experience by working with all phases of the building's operation. The accommodations of the Kellogg Center approximate those of an average sized hotel, officials point out, and should provide on-the-job training not matched by any other U. S. college or university.

Cadmium-Nickel Battery

A new type long life battery which, according to its producers, will last from 20 to 25 years, was recently introduced in the United States. The new battery features accumulator elements of cadmium and nickel in an alkaline solution and operates equally well in hot or cold temperatures. It is designed to replace lead-acid batteries in such fields as railway car lighting and air-conditioning.

Lack of Nitrogen Retards Corn Growth Deep-Rooted Legumes Add Nitrogen to Soil

(First of Two Articles)
A soil-building, deep-rooted sweet clover crop grown regularly in the rotation made the difference between these (below) two corn fields. Both crops were grown at the University of Missouri's experimental farm at Columbia, Mo. Both had the same fertilizer treatment, including 3 tons of limestone and 150 pounds per acre of 0-20-20 fertilizer in the row at corn planting time.

The crop in the upper photo was grown on land that had a rotation of corn, small grains and shallow-rooted lespedeza. Even late in the season the growth is stunted and scarcely head high.

The lower crop was on land that had a rotation of corn, small grains and sweet clover.

Over a 14-year test period, the corn crop having the benefit of sweet clover in the rotation yielded 10.7 more bushels per acre than the other field. The average yields were 67.7 and 57 bushels per acre, respectively.

The sweet clover crop added extra organic matter to the soil, improved tilth and drainage and helped the corn crop make better use of the fertility in the soil. The taproots of legumes such as sweet clover and alfalfa probe down several feet into the subsoil. They drill out passageways for water and air. They condition the soil from the surface on down through the root zone.

U. S. Wheat Crop Makes Strong Comeback; Report

The latest agriculture department report on wheat prospects indicates a crop of about 1,054,000,000 bushels this year, or nearly 72,000,000 more than forecast a month earlier.

Such a production would exceed last year's crop of 1,026,000,000 bushels and would be only about 96,000,000 short of the government's production goal—a goal which would exceed prospective needs and add some grain to reserves for future emergencies.

Unfavorable weather, particularly drought in the southwestern great plains, and insects in the same areas, coupled with cool, wet spring weather, had put the crop prospects under a cloud.

The indicated production—plus reserves from past crops—would supply plenty of wheat to meet any needs seen now.

The department made no estimate on corn production, but said producers were optimistic.

Portable Hog House

An example of a good portable hog house, which is large enough for four sows and can double as a farrowing house, is illustrated above. Any lumber dealer can furnish the lumber for the flooring and framework and the Masonite quarter-inch hardboard used for siding and roof. Note the double, full-length doors, divided midway horizontally, which provide easy access for both farmer and animal. Plans are available from Farm Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 West Washington St., Chicago 2, Plan AFB-197.

Poisons Recommended For Tomato Pinworms

Farmers and home gardeners should watch their tomatoes closely from the time the fruit first sets until it ripens. During this period fruit worms and pinworms may attack the fruit.

For control of these pests entomologists recommend dusting tomatoes once a week and following heavy rainfall with a dust containing 3 per cent rothane and 5 to 6 per cent zineb.

Sheep Field Day Held at Lapeer Farm

The Lapeer County Press farm will be the site of the annual "thumb" sheep breeders' picnic and field day on Thursday, July 26. The farm is located one mile east of Lapeer on M-21, and one mile south.

The program, which will begin at 10:30 a. m., will be of interest to both commercial and purebred breeders. Much of the discussion will center around the methods followed in handling this farm's commercial flock of 150 breeding ewes. Visitors will also have a chance to see many other features of interest on this farm including a pole-type barn and a trench silo. Ideas used in the construction of this barn could well be used in the construction of sheep sheds.

Representative animals of purebred breeds found in the area will also be on display and several breeds will be used in a judging contest. These will be furnished by breeders located in the area. Included in the program will be a blocking and trimming demonstration of special interest to 4-H and FFA members.

Representatives of the animal husbandry department of Michigan State College will discuss the control of sheep diseases and parasites and other sheep management problems. Paul Finnegan, manager of the Michigan Cooperative Wool Marketing Ass'n., at Jackson, will be in charge of a wool exhibit and a discussion on grades of wool.

A potluck picnic dinner is planned for the noon hour, with ice cream furnished by the Thumb Sheep Breeders' Association.

Local arrangements are in charge of Stan Mahaffy, Lapeer County Agent, and Bob Meyers, owner of the Lapeer County Press Farm.

All commercial and purebred breeders of Tuscola County and the "thumb" district are invited.

One of the best ways to increase production per acre is to grow grasses and legumes in rotation with other crops.

A man without much principle draws little interest—from his friends.

SAFE CROP STORAGE INCREASES PROFITS

Now that farmers produce more crops per acre, the crop storage problem is of prime importance. Bumper crops may be stored for feeding livestock or held for sale after glutted harvest markets have settled. Government figures show that in nine out of ten years it is profitable to store grain after the harvest season.

Profits from crop storage can be lost, however, if storage buildings are not properly constructed. Dampness can ruin as much as 25 bushels of grain on the floor of a 1,000-bushel bin. One rat alone will consume one bushel and contaminate three additional bushels.

Fig. 1. Typical floor construction for corn cribs or granaries. Foundation wall extending 18 in. above the floor helps keep out moisture and rats.

The most economical material for floors and foundations is concrete. If properly constructed, a concrete floor will remain dry in all kinds of weather and will protect the grain from rodents and rotting.

For a dry bin floor:
1. Place a gravel fill
2. Place a moisture barrier
3. Use quality concrete for the 4-in. watertight floor.

Gravel Fill
A 6-in. gravel fill is placed after the ground has been graded and tamped to the right level. The gravel (or crushed stone) should be about 1½-in. diameter and all pieces as near one size as possible. This fill raises the floor above grade and breaks the capillary movement of moisture from the ground to the underside of the floor.

The fill is leveled and tamped to give a firm base for the floor. A ½-in. layer of 1-3 cement and mortar may be spread over the gravel fill to give a smooth base for the moisture barrier.

Moisture Barrier
Two layers of roofing felt, one layer placed at right angles to the other, provide a moisture barrier under the concrete. The strips are sealed at the edges.

Concrete Floor
A 4-in. concrete slab is placed over the moisture barrier. This slab is made of quality concrete mixed in the following proportions:

1 bag of portland cement
2½ cu. ft. of small aggregate (sand)
3 cu. ft. of large aggregate (gravel or crushed rock)
5 gal. of water when the sand is damp.

After making a trial mix of the above materials, adjust to a mushy, workable consistency by varying the amounts of sand and gravel. Do not change the amount of mixing water.

After the concrete floor is placed, the surface should be kept damp for at least five days. This curing may be done by covering with a waterproof paper, an inch of sand kept moist, or other material.

Fig. 2. Place a 2-in. concrete topping with mastic joint against the side walls to eliminate seepage difficulties when the concrete platform is wider than the bin.

After curing, the floor should become thoroughly dry before grain is stored in the bin. If necessary to store grain within a few weeks after construction, the surface can be covered with waterproof paper for the first year.

Rundown Pastures Can Be Productive Soil Test Is First Step In 'Face-Lifting' Plan

A "face-lifting" for old, rundown, weedy permanent pastures is recommended by Purdue University agronomists. A good renovation program supported by liming and the use of commercial fertilizer can bring a pasture back to lush, vigorous production, they say. It can double the pasture's carrying capacity and improve the quality of the herbage.

First step in the program is a soil test to find out the needs for limestone and for nitrogen, phosphate and potash fertilizer.

Making a new seedbed on an old sod can be satisfactorily done with a disc harrow or field cultivator, the agronomists say. The operation can be eased considerably by working the soil in one direction and then working it crosswise.

Timothy and smooth brome grass are excellent for supplementing blue grass. How much these grasses increase pasture output depends on the legumes used in the mixture and the amount and analysis of fertilizer. The agronomists say that a good seed mixture should contain two pounds of red clover, three pounds of broadleaf trefoil and a quarter pound of Ladino clover.

The Purdue agronomists stress that a good application of commercial fertilizer is essential in pasture renovation. They recommend using 400 pounds per acre of 0-20-10 or 0-20-20 fertilizer at seeding time. The phosphate and potash fertilizer helps get the new seeding off to a good start, and supplies the nutrients the legumes need most.

95 Percent of Farm Homes Have Electricity

With almost 95 per cent of today's farm homes now having electricity—an increase of more than 50 per cent in 10 years—farmers today are running the city cousins a close race in equipping their places with everything from toasters and trimmers to thermostats and television.

A recent study of the buying habits of the American farmer showed that electric ranges, dishwashers, refrigerators, laundry equipment, clothes dryers and toasters, and automatic heating systems were becoming standard items in most homes served by rural electrification systems. More than 100,000 families installed thermostat-controlled heating systems from 1947 through 1949.

The study also indicated a close relationship between electrification and general home improvement on farms. For example, approximately $10,000,000 was spent from July, 1947, to December, 1948, alone for farm-home modernization.

Approximately 4,900,000 of the 15,200,000 occupied farms and almost 15,000,000 of the occupied rural dwelling will soon have electricity.

Skid Carrier

An easy and time saving way to move turkey poult and young chickens from brooder house to range is the skid carrier sketched above. Build the crate to fit a hay sled or other farm carrier and divide it into sections. Carrier is loaded through sliding doors at top, then is skidded to range where two men can lift the top and the birds can scoot away.

Loans to Build Grain Houses Will Continue

The commodity credit corporation program which provides loans to farmers to finance construction or purchase of new farm grain storage facilities will be continued in 1951-52. Secretary of Agriculture Brannan announced that the loan program, initiated in June 1949 and scheduled to expire June 30, 1951, has been extended another year. The program is extendable on a year-to-year basis.

The want ads are newsy, too.

This is the season of rising egg prices, and poultrymen who use care to market quality eggs will be well rewarded for their efforts. Keeping clean dry litter in laying houses and nests to avoid dirty eggs, and thus saving time. If eggs need cleaning, use a dry abrasive rather than washing, as water applied to eggshell removes a film which preserves egg quality. Gather eggs often (three or four times daily in warm weather) and cool in a wire basket to 50 degrees before placing in cartons or crates. Keep eggs in a cool dry place until ready to sell. And finally market eggs at least twice and preferably three times a week. It doesn't take much more effort to sell quality eggs, and the price is more than worth the extra effort.

Don't wait too long to get supplies on hand for fall wheat planting. Fertilizer is still not plentiful and farmers who order and take delivery early are most likely to get the more desirable high analysis kinds that they want. In order to buy fertilizer wisely for the fall wheat crop, a soil test should be made. Take samples from the field intended for wheat to the county soil testing laboratory located in the County Farm Bureau office at Caro, and results of the soil tests will be sent out to you a few days later. Finally, locate a good source of seed wheat and get your order in. Yorkwin is the most common wheat grown in Tuscola County. Other recommended varieties for Michigan are Cornell 595, Vigo, Fairfield, and Thorne.

Several farmers have reported that their wheat shows broken and weakened stems near the crown indicating damage done by Hessian fly. The most effective preventive measures known is the observance of the fly-free date which is announced each year. Chances of Hessian fly damage are greatly reduced if wheat is planted after the fly-free date for the area. In Tuscola County this date occurs near the middle of September. Watch this column or check at the Extension Office about September 1 to learn the 1951 fly-free date.

New York State ranks 29th in area among the states of the country, having a land area of 47,929 square miles and 1,647 square miles of water. Practically half of the national clothing output is produced in New York state, which has a yearly production total of $1,600,000,000. The New York state department of commerce reports. Manufacture of women's dresses, coats, blouses and furs in the state represents 70 per cent of the country's production.

Fly season is here again. Several insecticides are recommended for fly control about the home and farm buildings. DDT sprays may be used effectively on porches, and in the home and farm buildings. DDT sprays may be used effectively on porches, and in the home provided it does not contact any food. In the dairy barn and milkhouses, methoxychlor is recommended for fly control. Methoxychlor is also recommended for spraying dairy cows, but should not be used on animals often than every 10 days or two weeks. Detailed directions for strength of spray solutions and other information on fly control can be obtained from the Extension Office in the courthouse. Just as important as the use of insecticides to control flies is the need to remove all filthy breeding places where flies multiply.

Lesson for Wives
Long ago Euripides said, "A man's best possession is a sympathetic wife." This still is true. With a wife who believes in him, a man can reach great heights. His friends will think he is witty, wise, and kind because she tells them so. He will be a successful person even though he piles up no store of worldly goods. A woman gains by giving freely of her faith to her husband. Her fate is so closely tied with his that when he succeeds, she benefits too.

Little Stories about Great Hymns
Dear Lord and Father of Mankind
Dear Lord and Father of mankind,
Forgive our foolish ways;
Reclothe us in our rightful mind,
In purer lives Thy service find,
In deeper reverence, praise.

Our own John G. Whittier gave us this gracious hymn. He grew up on a New England farm, where hard work left little time for study or writing. His family were Quakers; he learned to live simply, as Jesus did, and to love all mankind. He fought ardently against Slavery. "Love God and serve your fellow-men" was his ideal, which he lived and expressed in his quiet but forceful way.

Root Rot Blights County Bean Fields

Survey of infected fields in Tuscola County on July 10 by Axel Anderson, plant pathologist, US DA and MSC, revealed the presence of bean "root rot" caused by a fusarium fungi. It causes a yellowing of lower leaves and stunting due to fungus or mold which once introduced into the soil will live there for a number of years. Fields most likely to be affected are those where beans follow beans one or more years in succession. Root rot is not carried through seed. Usually the main root and the lower part of the stem become pithy and dry. Some infected fields will have the bean yield materially reduced. Others may have a lesser amount of damage.

Bacterial blight also present in scattered fields and in some both root rot and blight are causing damage. Bacterial blight of beans is seed born and will live over in the soil for at least two years. For control, disease-free or seed from certified fields should be used, along with a crop rotation where beans are not grown on the same field for at least two years.

A check with individual farmers experiencing bean root rot or blight in their fields will usually reveal over-cropping with beans or using a poor crop rotation program on the farm. Also in some cases evidence of using poor seed can be noted, says Alfred P. Ballweg, county agricultural agent.

Consider Surroundings

When selecting paint for your house, its size, its style of architecture, the general surroundings and landscaping—as well as the colors of adjacent houses—should always be considered. Strong, bright colors give prominence to the building, accentuating the small house. Neutral shades are better suited to larger homes.
