Tuscola Fair Plans Set for Largest Event in History

Culminating a comprehensive program aimed chiefly toward increased facilities and the comfort and convenience of the visitors, Head Treasurers preparations for the 1951 Tuscola County Fair are rapidly nearing completion and there is early indication that the exposition will set a new record in attendance and number and variety of exhibits.

Never before have so many feature attractions been scheduled and never before has the demand for exhibit space been so great. Again the fair will draw participation from practically every area of the Thumb and several other counties

First and foremost among the improvements is increased sanitation facilities that are being provided by the Village of Caro in the building of added toilet facilities, which is now in progress. Increased flood lighting is being provided in front of the Grand Stand in order that all the patrons may view the night performance that will take place on the race

The big feature attraction for Monday night only will be the appearance of Joie Chitwood, world famous daredevil, and his death defying drivers. This performance will take place in front of the Grand Stand at 8:00 p. m., Monday only. Brand new 1951 Ford Sedans and Ford trucks are used exclusively. More than $100,000.00 Military Rites Held worth of automotive equipment is used. The Joie Chitwood Auto Daredevils played an important part in the recent MGM motion picture, "To Please a Lady," in which Clark Gable and Barbara Stanwyck starred.

Tuesday will be "Kid's Day." All kids are admitted to the fair grounds free until 6:00 p. m. and all shows and rides are half price until 6:00 p. m. Prizes to be awarded during the day include a heautiful Shetland pony, bicycles and many other useful articles. At 8:00 p. m. will be the orening of the Continental Varieties Revue with 10 Big Acts, cast of 100.
Beginning Wednesday afternoon

the usual harness racing program will begin, and continue on through Thursday and Friday. On Friday afternoon. there will be a second show of Midget Auto Racing, with 50 laps of fast moving midget cars. This will be a new feature for Tuscola County Fair visitors. The Tuscola County Bean Queen will be crowned at 8:00 p. m., Friday, followed by the night show of the Varieties Revue.

Saturday will be automobile show of racing car races of 50 Grifka to Ubly and presented the laps, with some of the nation's famous drivers competing.

Many other features of the fair include the livestock show and the 4-H and F. F. A. display of the various work that has been the project of the farm youth of Tuscola County.

Kenneth Parish is back on the job as superintendent of the Dairv Cattle division, and he will also look after the beef cattle show. Walter Goodall, a member of the Board of Directors, will supervise the swine division, while Reid J. Kirk, also a member of the Board. Concluded on page 10.

Agriculture Agent Gives Tips on Pasture

Tips to farmers on getting the most out of their pastures came this week from Byron E. Carpenter, Assistant Tuscola County Agricultural Agent. The agent reminds readers that land used for pasture could return as much profit as that used in cash crops if it is properly managed. This is the season of the year when you need to be cautious about too-close grazing. It's bad for the grass, hard on the soil and actually lowers the total production of milk and meat from the pasture. The situation is more acute than usual this year because of extremely dry weather in most parts of the county during the past

Rotation grazing has proven a valuable practice in increasing the production of pastures, he said. An electric fence is a "natural" for working out a pasture rotation plan, without much additional labor, too. Rotation grazing-that's changing the animals from one part of the pasture to another, giving each part a chance to recover before being grazed again-will force livestock to eat the grass evenly in a fenced off part of the pasture rather than just in spots. It also provides livestock with nore fresh, green grass which is nigh in feed value. It will pay to let alfalfa-brome pasture rest during August and September to store up enough energy to make quicker recovery and earlier growth the following spring. Carpenter suggests that during this period dairymen pasture on alfalfa field that will be plowed next spring, or use supplemental or emergency pasture such as reed canary grass. sudan grass, or early planted

Balbo rye. Michigan Extension Service specialists have found that the length of time alfalfa will remain in a legume-grass mixture depends largely on how closely it is grazed. 10:45 a. m. Sunday School of the It may kill out the first year if it is grazed shorter than 6 to 8 inches. Otherwise it should last as long as 3 years.

Another suggestion the agent makes is that a top dressing of 300 pounds per acre of superphosphate or 0-20-20 fertilizer should boost alfalfa pasture production. Alfalfa side-dressings are most effective where applied in early spring of the second year or after the first cutting is removed. If you use an electric fence for horses or cattle, make sure the controller has an Underwriter's Laboratory label which is an assurance that the controller is manufactured according to safety regulations. Keep weeds under the wire cut so they won't short out the fence.

FLATTERY The victim, a woman in her early 30's, told this one:

It had been several weeks since a prosperous farmer had been in the bank where she worked. "Miss Lee," he greeted her, "you seem to be getting a little stouter."

"Don't you know you musn't ever tell a woman she is getting fat?" she chided.

"Ob," he said with surprise, "I didn't think a woman of your age would mind."

Spelling Test The Pullman passenger, after looking out his window for a half hour, finally called over the conductor. "Say, every once in awhile I see a little post near the track,' he said, "and sometimes it has the letter 'W' on it and sometimes' the letter 'R'. What do they mean?" "That," cited the conductor jokingly, "is for the engineer. They mean 'ring' or 'whistle."

As the conductor came through later, he asked the passenger if he understood the explanation.

"Not entirely," answered the traveler. "I can see how you can 'wring' with a 'W,' but danged if I see how you spell 'whistle' with an

Be Careful When You Buy Phosphate

Answers to the problem of raw rock was applied at much greater rock phosphate's value to Michigan agriculture are being sought by scientists of the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station. Existing shortages of superphosphate have created much interest in use of rock phosphate as a substitute. R. L. Cook, research soil scientist at Michigan State College, reports that experiments so far have shown that superphosphate is a better buy than all forms of raw rock phosphate.

Several low grades of raw rock phosphate are now on the market and are only raw rock phosphate mixed with clay.

Availibility of phosphorus in these materials is no greater than it is in common ground rock. It may be less in some cases.

Rock phosphate and superphosphate have been compared in the field in a large number of experiments. Many soil types have been included in the studies. In most cases, the results have shown superphosphate to be superior to rock phosphate. In almost all cases, the rates per acre than was superphosphate.

Phosphorus in raw rock phosphate is insoluable in water and in citric acid used by fertilizer agencies as a measure of availability of plant foods. For these reasons, Cook points out that raw rock phosphate cannot be used in the manufacture of mixed or complete fertilizers. Because of this, its place in Michigan's agriculture is limited.

An eight-year test program has een set up in a number of midwestern states to study the problem of the value of raw rock phosphate. Michigan tests are located on the John Campbell farm near Kalamazoo; the Harold Leach farm near Davison; the William Vandrosek farm near Mesick; and the Jim Moelock farm in Iosco County.

Take Care of Lambs For Bigger Profits

Those lambs that went to pasture as good prospects for early market may end up as unprofitable or dead lambs if summer manage. r dead lambs if summer management practices aren't up to par.

That's the conclusion reached by lfred P. Ballweg, county agricultural agent, after observing flocks around the county. The difference between profit and loss may be a matter of very little time too, he said.

Among profit-killers to watch for in the flock are ticks and lice. be dipped or sprayed immediately with an arsenical dip, rotenone or DDT. Just follow the directions on the packages.

Lamb raisers also should be on the lookout for magget trouble. Flesh wounds and long, dirty wool frequently give blow flies a chance 🛊 to slow gains, especially in damp, muggy weather.

Treatment for maggets includes lipping wool from infested parts and removing them. Apply a fly repellent. One recommended fly repellent consists of a mixture of Mr. and Mrs. Elmore Hurd spent a pint of pine tar, 8 ounces of mineral oil and 3 ounces of turpentine. This mixture also will Mr. and Mrs. Russell Pringle kill maggots if the wool is clipped

Internal parasites are giving sheep and lambs trouble this year. Worms slow gains, increase feed costs and frequently cause death of lambs. Getting Even

Next door to the quiet Smiths in Los Angeles apartment building live the Joneses, who are addicted to boisterous Saturday-night parties. The Smiths suffered in silence until recently, when an air duct in the wall common to the living rooms of both apartments gave Smith an idea for suitable reprisal. On Saturday he removed the grille where the duct entered his living room and, reaching in, placed the microphone of his home recording machine at the point where a patch of light marked the grills in the Joneses' living room. That night he recorded an hour of the hilarity next door at its peak. The following night, when he could tell that the Joneses were retiring early, he placed the loudspeaker of his machine against the wall between his and Joneses' bedrooms and, with the volume turned up, blasted the Joneses with a canned broadcast of their own revelry. The Smiths' Saturday nights have been quite peaceful lately.

This kind of production is due in great part to the six year chickenof-tomorrow program when breeders and producers set out to improve the meat qualities of chickens. The program was also responsible to some degree in development of great "broiler areas" in Georgia, Delaware, Texas, Maine, Kansas, Indiana, Arkansas and other states.

Newer feeding efficiencies, better growing facilities, more knowledge of genetics developed on the farms of the nation were tested in the state, regional, and nation chickenof-tomorrow contests.

Additional indications that a lairyman with a well-managed herd receives the greatest number of dollars above feed costs with fall-freshened cows came out of the summary. Farmers desiring to enter the pecial Ira H. Butterfield Memorial class for grain at the Michigan State Fair may obtain the special entry blanks from the county agent's office. Placings in this class are based on both quality of the peck specimen exhibited and yield per acre. Acreage and yield must be verified on the entry blank by a vocational ag instructor or an extension agent. Many Tuscola Farmers have won State Fair honors in previous years in the Butterfield contest.

TUSCOLA

One way livestock producers and shippers can increase production and income is to prevent losses and injuries to meat animals. Livestock Conservation, Inc., in its 1950-51 annual report estimated that last year 42 million pounds of meat were wasted in deads and cripples and that 28 million pounds were wasted due to bruises trimmed from carcasses. This total of 70 million pounds of meat, valued at about 50 million dollars and lost to human consumption, would feed a city of almost 500,000 population for a year.

A recent summary of Pennsylvania DHIA records showed that cows calving in the fall produced eight percent more milk and seven percent more butterfat than cows calving in the spring. The same survey showed the fall freshening cows returned an average income of $228 over feed costs. as compared to $194 for cows that freshen in the summer. Michigan records would likely show a similar picture, since milk prices seasonally rise in the fall months and furthermore, the autumn months are where dairy farmers must establish their base which determines the price of the milk they sell during the rest of the year. It might be well to "remember these facts when breeding cows and heifers, to make sure a large proportion of the herd freshens in the early autumn months.

Mirror lake, beating down un- Flint. mercifully, she would have given a good deal to have the man's neck between her two hands. Just for luck she gave the crank one more spin. The motor went "chugurg, chugurg"and died.

"Damn!" exclaimed Freds. She was so furious she could have cried. Instead she stood up and began to wave wildly at a boat that had suddenly appeared around an island point. The boat kept serenely on its course and Freda was about to give up yelling and abandon herself to fate when the other craft swerved and headed in her direction.

Two minutes later a black-haired youth was grinning up at her pleasantly. "Trouble?" he asked.

"There's not a thing wrong with this motor," said Freda, "except that it won't run."

The young man climbed aboard. He had a wrench in his hand. "I'll fix it." he said.

Freda told Len Curtain her name without even stopping to Freda thought he was pretty confident, but a moment later she changed her mind.

"Strainer got clogged." he said. "I'm an expert on outboards. My business is retrievin' 'em." "Retrieving them?"

"Sure. Plenty of motors lost in this lake every year. I invented a special magnet to find 'em, then I grapple for 'em, haul 'em up, repair 'em and sell 'em. My name's Len Curtain, What's yours?"

"Freda Brandon," said Freda, without even stopping to think.

"Freda Brandon, eh? You're the girl who's going to marry Ray Hubbard. Well, they say money will do anything; but deliver me. Well, so long."

Freda didn't catch her breath until she got back to camp. Her mother had news.

"Darling! Ray wired he's coming up! He's arriving tomorrow." Freda's spirits sank. "Goody, goody," she said sourly.

Freda set off in the outboard the next morning 10 minutes before Ray was due to arrive. Thirty minutes later she saw a familiar looking boat anchored in a cove and camp up alongside.
"Hi!" grinned grinned Len Curtain

"How's things?" "Fine. Say, look, what do you do in the winter?"

"Oh, this and that." Len hauled in his grappling iron. 'False alarm. Nothing here. How about anchoring that scow and taking a ride around with me?" Ray Hubbard was waiting on the dock when she got back. He didn't like the idea of her not being at camp to greet him, but she didn't

THE DAY after Ray departed Len Curtain came into the dock and Freda went down to see what he wanted.

"It's a funny thing, but I'm in love. Will you marry me?" Freda almost fell into the water.

"Goodness! I'm going to marry Ray.' "Pshaw! You don't love him. Marry me and we'll have fun." Freda caught herself wondering if that wouldn't be a good idea. She laughed, sounding like a frog with a sore throat.

"Marry you and fish for outboards all summer-and do what in the winter?"

Ray grinned. "There's no fishing in the winter. We'd get along, I've just sold my grappling magnet invention to the Sea Demon outboard people. That's only the beginning of the things I can invent."

Freda blinked. "Good heavens, was he going to be as startling as that all his life. "I'll have to think it over."

"Give you five minutes. Hop in and we'll ride around in the meantime."

Freda heard of people being hypnotized, and she guessed that was what was wrong with her. She hopped in and they rode around. When five minutes was up Len Curtain kissed her and she kissed him back and that settled the whole business.

Customers' Corner

Have you noticed that chickens generally are plumper, meatier than they were a few years ago?

The principal reason for this is the "Chicken-of-Tomorrow" breeding program, sponsored by A&P with the cooperation of the poultry industry.

This six-year program has resulted in chickens that mature when they are younger and more tender, and have more meat in relation to bone. Why don't you try the superior chickens at your A&P and let us know what you think of them? Please CUSTOMER RELATIONS DEPT.

SHOUTSTORY Hard Boiled Chuck

CHUCK WALLACE was hard boiled. Women didn't bother him much, Flying did. He owned his own plane and specialized in doing free-lance jobs for private interests, and performing rescues for reward quite a reputation. When, at the annual pilots' ball, he was presented to redheaded Alma Mallory he wasn't impressed at all. Alma was. She had heard of Chuck. Alma was very modern, very sure of herself, used to getting what she wanted. She wanted Chuck. Chuck wasn't quick to eatch on. When finally he realized what she was up to he had almost fallen into her trap. He was glad when news came in that a young flyer had been lost in the north woods. It gave him a chance to get away. The fact that the young lost flyer was Don Mallory, Alma's brother, didn't bother him at all. This was business. Old Man Mallory, through his lawyers, had offered a fat reward.

Chuck Wallace loaded up and took off the next morning in his scaplane. That night he set down on a little wooded lake, 150 miles from the nearest habitation, and established a base. The next day he began systematically to comb the country.

Alma was very modern, very sure of herself, used to getting what she wanted. And she wanted Chuck.

In the afternoon he returned to his base, and received a shock. There was another plane riding on the surface of the lake. He saw a figure standing on the shore. It was Alma Mallory.

"What's the idea?" he asked. "What do you think? Don's my brother."

She had brought along a lot of the things Chuck hadn't thought necessary. There was nothing he could do about her being there, so he set up one of the tents and ate the supper she cooked for him.

The next day he flew west and covered a strip 25 miles wide. But he didn't sight anything, and was genuinely worried when he returned to the base that night.

THE next morning, just before noon, he sighted a plane on a lake 50 miles east of his base and set down, taxing up beside it. A man stood on one of the wings and called to him. Chuck scowled. He didn't like this. Not a bit of it. . .

At 2 o'clock he returned to his base and found it deserted. Alma and her plane had gone. He swore and packed up his equipment. The next morning he reached his home landing. He went home and shaved and bathed and got into bed. He was dead tired, but he couldn't sleep,

The next morning he took a taxi to the Mallory home and asked for Alma. A butler told him that she had gone down to Briarsfield to visit friends. The friends' name was Hanseom. Chuck eaught a train for Briarsfield that afternoon. He arrived at 5 o'clock and located the Hanscom home. Alma, they told him, was out horseback riding with a chap named Rodney Nuys.

Chuck rented a horse and went looking for her. Two miles from the Hanscom home he came to a spot where the bridle trail widened. There were two horses in the clearing, standing close together. Rodney Nuys was trying to kiss the rider of the other, a red-headed girl.

Chuck rode up close and clipped the gent so hard he fell out of the saddle. Then he grabbed hold of the girl and shook her roughly.

"What's the idea?" he barked, "I found your brother in a little lake 50 miles east of the base. He was looking for us. He said he didn't think it was so smart for his sister to give out that he was lost, when he really wasn't-just so she could send Chuck Wallace up into the country and then follow. What's the Alma looked at him defiantly "What do you think?" she said.

"You big indifferent lummox! And why do you think I gave up and came home?"

Chuck blinked, but maintained his hold on her arm. For the first time when looking at this girl, he grinned. "Do you want me to tell you what I think?" he asked.

"Yes," said Alma

Deviled Dishes Depend on Seasoning

Seasoning can make meatless Lenten meals as fascinating as any you've ever concocted. Give a thought to those fine protein foods, fish and eggs, both plentiful and budget-priced this time of year, Deviled fish and egg dishes are among the most practical items. Three basic items on most condiment shelves—salt, dry mustard, and tangy Tabasco—do the trick to give deviled dishes a delicious aroma and flavor that will make them prime favorites with your familie.

Make the following substitutions in the recipe for Deviled Sea Food: Omit sea food and lemon juice. Increase butter and flour to 4 table-spoons each, milk to 2 cups, and hard-cooked eggs to 6, sliced instead of chopped. The other ingredients and procedure remain the same as given above.

Miss Donna Kitchin Married Recently

Miss Donna Lucille Kitchin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jason Kitchin of Evergreen Twp., became the bride of Alexander A. Kessler, Jr., Cass City, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Kessler, Sr., at Church. Rev. Lucien Bourget of- Light red kidney beans ... the St. Pancratius Catholic Church rectory, Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, July 21. The rites were performed by Rev. Pelletier.

The bride chose for her wedding white gabardine suit with a purple orchid for a corsage.

Merle Kitchin, wife of Sgt. David F. Kitchin, as matron of honor, wore an aqua suit with a corsage of white carnations. The bridesmaids, Annie Seibert and Francis Kessler, sisters of the groom, wore pink suits and their flowers were carnations.

Peter Kessler, brother of the groom, was best man and Fred Gestrick and Lowell Campbell were groomsmen.

Mrs. Kitchin wore a gray printed rayon dress with white carnations, while Mrs. Kessler wore a medium blue crepe dress with pink carnations for her corsage.

After the ceremony, Mrs. Noble Jump and Mrs. Charles Mudge, of Cleveland, Ohio. Born Aug. 6, to Mr. and Mrs. friends of the Kitchins, served a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents.

The table, with a dainty lace cloth, was adorned with a crystal centerpiece of tiny red roses, on

ANIMAL DISEASES HARD TO IDENTIFY

Too often we are inclined to think that all animal diseases run true to the form described in books and bulletins. Unfortunateiliese symptoms of depression may indicate several different dis-ly, it takes more than a check-list of symptoms to identify the many confusing and complicated ailments of livestock and poultry.

Any experienced veterinarian

In any of these confusing diseases the best policy is to get an accurate diagnosis by a trained zeterinarian.

In many cases, even the veterinarian has to draw samples for laboratory tests before a positive diagnosis of the specific and true cause of the disease is possible. If men with years of science behind them have to resort to laboratory checks to be sure, certainly the ordinary person cannot be expected to tell such diseases just by looking at the animals.

LET'S TALK IT

Vanishing summer

Youngsters are always impatient about time. Birthdays, holidays seem slow in coming. When I was a boy and complained about the days that dragged, my father would say, "take it easy son, when easily be confused with certain you get to be my age time will nutritional deficiencies or infec-fly." This is only too true.

Seems like summer arrived only yesterday, yet the fair season got underway in Northeastern Michan both the symptoms and post-mortem findings may be easily harvested, the corn is tasseled, igan this week. The wheat has been onfusd.

The list of "look-alike" diseases finish line. The first frost is six weeks away.

Every time someone starts quoting averages, the little guy on the low end of the percentages yelps his head off, taint so!

A fancy set of figures out of the USDA indicates that farmers are Obstacles getting about 49 cents out of every dollar the American housewife spends for food this year. The other 51 cents goes to the long list of "in-betweeners" that make their living out of the farmers gamble with nature. The cattle rancher gets 67 cents of the consumer's buck. That's the best deal. On the other end of the table comes breakfast food and bread where the farmer's share is only 27 cents. In the middle, so to speak, are poultrymen who collect 65, dairy farmers, 54, and the vegetable grower who pockets only 33 cents. Farm sales

We heard a fellow make a speech a couple of years ago on income at the farm. He said that many farmers are passing up an opportunity to cultivate a source of revenue that our ancesters used to depend on, that of selling a certain amount of products right at home. It has been proven, says he, that city folks will drive reasonable distance, off main roads, to get fresher, better foods. There is no particular plan to this type of operation. You have to find out what folks want and fill that demand. Usually, it's eggs, butter, fruits and vegetables in season.

This fellow cited an example of one farmer 25 miles from Detroit that grossed as high as $2,000 a week on eggs, broilers, butter and milk. Everything he produces is sold right at the farm. True, it took him 20 years to build his business up to that high point. The grain he grows means milk, meat and eggs. He takes three profits for every dollar received. Short season remarkable new plan of consumer participation. The public is invited to come out and gather the harvest - for a price. "Go right out into the field or orchard and pick your own tomatoes or apples, neighbor."

In spite of any objections that might be raised about this plan, it works. These "pick it yourself" operators make more money than the farmer who hauls to market. This kind of a set-up deals with human nature. There's a little bit of farmer in every city boy. Even though he can't raise a radish, he gets a kick out of gathering the harvest. The farmer - city family co-op is very rarely affected by low market prices. They get the same fair prices year after year.

You say you're too busy? If you say it and really mean that you can't take the time, you are not

There are other farmers that | facing the issue. There is no easy have reaped rich rewards with a way to make a quick dollar. The farmer who sells at the farm and makes a success of such a venture must first of all like to deal with people. Selling at the farm can be confined to certain hours on certain days. This is no new field of agriculture. It is coming back stronger every year.

> If a farmer gets only 27 cents out of the consumers dollar it is because he has removed himself from consumer contact.

Why not try for the larger share?

How to maintain a farm that is 50 feet wide and over 800 miles

That problem recently faced one of the nation's largest natural gas companies when it wanted to properly care for the soil bordering its long, thin, pipeline stretching from Texas to Ohio.

To carry out its program, the company set up a soll conservation department and endowed it with nearly a quarter-million dollars for labor, seed, fertilizer and equipment. Eight crews went into the field and seeded an average of a mile a day. The crews used carefully prepared seed mixtures to provide temporary cover crops according to the individual farmer's wishes. Plants chosen for seeding were selected to suit each locality, after consultation with local and national agricultural authorities on the best methods of soil conservation.

Store Surplus Silage In Lined Trench Silos

A heavy hay crop, bad weather conditions and increased interest in grass silage have combined to put the trench silo in the farmer's

These factors have resulted in many ordinary silos full of hay silage and farmers now are looking to trench silos as a place to store their corn silage, says A. J. Bell, Michigan State College extension agricultural engineer.

Bell says that trench silos have proven successful and he recommends them for additional silage

There are several points to keep in mind for successfully using them. One is that they must be lined to keep out air. Concrete probably is best for that purpose, but treated plank, stone or other material will do.

The trench silo may be entirely below ground, partly below, or en-Res. 226R3 tirely above ground. Walls should be sloped in at the bottom to keep the ensilage from settling away. This would allow air to enter causing spoilage. Too much slope hinders settling. Bell says a foot slope between top and bottom widths is about right.

Properly covering the trench silo to prevent spoilage is importfirst put on a good grade of building paper or asphalted paper. Then add 6 to 8 inches of sawdust, chopped hay or straw over the top. Ordinary tramping along the sides is sufficent for packing, Bell points out. He adds that trench silos are just as permanent as any, cost less to build, lower machinery costs, and there is no rason for any spoiled ensilage if the job is properly done.

A New Orleans newspaper, recalling the days when Crescent City courts were run rather informally, cites as an example a day when a man accused of theft had no counsel, and the judge asked a lawyer who was present to withdraw with the prisoner, listen to his story and then give him such advice as would be for his best interest. A half-hour later the lawyer returned alone. "Where is the prisoner?" asked the judge. "By this time, your honor," said the lawyer, "I dare say he's 20 miles from here. Your honor told me to give him the best advice for his interest, and as he was obviously guilty, I thought the best counsel I could give him was to cut and run, which he took at

The state legislature will meet August 20 to validate plans for building a new state building. Governor Williams limited the subject matter to that one item with no present plan to open the session to any other discussion. In special sessions the legislature may consider only subjects opened by the governor.

Price news is fair to good. Newspapers are littered with ads stressing bargains and clearance sales. Food price predictions are optimistic. But some price cuts take a long time sifting through distribution channels.

Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson has given Detroit a verbal spat for farming out too many defense contracts. He says, too much of the military business placed in Detroit is being so distributed by the large industries as to leave Detroit for business as usual. This in turn accounts for the present unemployment.

Makes things look tough for a committee named by the governor to channel more government business to the state.

Sen. Blair says, however, that a speed-up in war production contracts will cushion unemployment shock for most of the cities in the Fire damage to Michigan forests has fallen off this year. Thus far 536 fires have burned 3,613 acres as campared with 637 fires, damaging 4,218 during the same period a year ago.

This week 18 conservation officer trainees will be selected. They will take eight weeks of classroom instruction and four to six months of field training.

Archery is a favorite sport of many Michigan residents. In 1950 there were 14,670 resident and 815 non-resident bow and arrow bunters roaming the state.

The combined spring and fall Michigan pig crop is estimated at 106 million head, 5 percent above 1950 and 16 percent above the 1940-49 average.

Southern Michigan construction contract awards for the six months of 1951 were up 6 percent over the same period of last year - all in the face of credit curbs. June total was $133,793,000. Six-months total for 1951 is $442,377,000 as against $416,910,000 for that period in

PEDIGREED HATS

A member of an old Boston family, now 80, still lives on Beacon Hill and carries on the family traditions. Last winter she entertained a guest from the Middle West to whom she presented her small but select circle of friends. Shortly "Emily, your friends are wonderful, but tell me, where do they get their hats?"

"Oh, my dear," The Bostonian said with pained surprise, "we don't get our hats. We have our
