The Eskimos know plenty about keeping warm. They understand insulation needs of coats, too, says Miss Hazel Strahan, head of the department of textiles and clothing, Michigan State College. When inside, Eskimos remove their clothes, so perspiration will not accumulate in their furs. They even hang their garments outside to freeze when they are not wearing them. The tip for us is to keep woollens and other highly absorbent fabrics well-ventilated if we want them to keep body heat in. That is the function of a coat, after all.

Parking facilities for visitors will be available, especially on the South Campus near the Stadium.

Nearly 30 state farm organizations will hold annual meetings during the Michigan State College Farmers' Week.

Departmental programs will be held each day, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday in all departments. Monday will be "Dairy Day" with special programs for dairymen, especially the purebred breeders. The agricultural engineers will also have a farm buildings meeting on the opening day.

Proper Milking Will Increase Production

Proper milking methods can increase milk production ten to 12 per cent and lengthen the period of highest production, according to Alfred P. Ballweg, county agricultural agent.

Good methods also result in cleaner milk with lower bacteria counts, and are effective in preventing mastitis.

Fast milking is proper milking. Start off the milking process by washing and massaging the udder with warm disinfectant solution. He recommends doing it about a minute before hooking up the milker. It will help milk flow and clean the udder at the same time. Immediately after massaging, strip two or three streams of milk into a cup to check for possible signs of mastitis. This also helps to get rid of the high bacteria count milk that is present in the tests.

Preventing udder injuries through careful operation of milking machines cannot be overemphasized, Ballweg said. Fast milking doesn't mean speeding up the milking, it means speeding up the operator.

Don't leave the milking machine on too long. Some dairymen use a timer to guard against this. After milking the cows day after day the time can usually be estimated for each cow. Experiments show that hand stripping is unnecessary on most cows and should be avoided. Machine stripping can be done by pulling down on the teat cups with one hand while massaging the udder with the other.

Ballweg reminds farmers that time is important to cows. They should be milked in order, taking easy milkers first and cows with udder infections last. Milk at the same time each day.

With farm cost rising faster than farm income, the best chance for farmers to earn a profit in 1952 still lies in efficient production, say Michigan State College agricultural economists.

Women Interested In Farmers' Week

Women attending Farmers' Week, January 28 to February 2 at Michigan State College might well find it is Farmers' Wives Week, too, Miss Jean E. Gillies, county home demonstration agent, said today in announcing the annual program.

High point of the week for women will come Thursday afternoon when MSC coeds stage a fashion showing of clothes made in home economics classes. New ideas in fabrics, styles and patterns variations will be featured in the show that last year attracted nearly 5,000 Michigan homemakers.

Specialists from the college home economics staff, as well as national authorities, will discuss a variety of subjects in Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday meetings. Talks on short cuts for homemakers with heart trouble, home management, house design and interior decoration are scheduled for Tuesday. The Wednesday agenda includes such topics as new fabrics, weight reduction and woman's role in this Defense Decade. On Thursday morning, Mrs. Philip Gentile will speak on the United Nations before and after Korea.

Pres. John A. Hannah and Gov. G. Mennen Williams will be on the general meeting program Wednesday afternoon. Demonstrations of television production will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoon. Miss Gillies said.

"We believe our facilities to handle the huge crowds that respond to our invitation are better than ever. We have tried to get together a program that includes many of the features that have proven popular in the past and added some new ones. With any help from the weather man there's no reason why the 1952 Farmers' Week shouldn't be one of the most successful in history."

The unfairness of the fair sex is proverbial.

LAST CHANCE

He had proposed and the girl had turned him down. "Ah, well," he sighed dejectedly. "I suppose I'll never marry now." The girl couldn't help laughing a little, she was so flattered. "You silly boy!" she said. "Because I've turned you down, that doesn't mean that other girls will do the same." "Of course it does," he returned with a faint smile. "If you won't have me, who will?"

That's My Pop!

A small boy was late for Sunday school. His teacher asked the cause.

"I was going fishing, but my daddy wouldn't let me," said the boy.

"You're lucky to have a fine father like that," said the teacher. "And I suppose he explained to you why you shouldn't go on Sunday."

"Yes, ma'am," replied the boy.

"He said there wasn't enough bait for both of us."

If you use a light starch on small cotton rugs after washing them the edges will not curl. Since cotton washable rugs are in high demand, this suggestion from Miss Olevia Meyer, home management specialist, Michigan State College Extension Service, is fine for that make-your-home-safe campaign. Curling edges on rugs can cause falls.

Self-neglect is just as big a fault as self-love.

LET'S TALK IT OVER

Ed Vallender, Farm Editor
WBCM Bay City

Success Story.

They say that life begins at forty. Met a man that didn't really begin to live until almost 60.

This man could still be called a farmer, I suppose. He spent his first 60 years trying to scratch a living out of the soil. He admits that it wasn't easy—and it certainly wasn't always successful. This farmer—in his autumn years made a complete change in his method of earning a livelihood. When most men of that age are thinking about rocking chairs and slippers—he set out on a new course, much as a young man would.

The Change.

It came slowly—at first—this change from general farming—to chickens. It started during the war when there was a great demand for meat. In spite of age and experience—our hero learned the hard way. At one time during the peak production—he had separate broiler houses—separate feeding and heating facilities for a twelve week output of 16,000 chickens.

Just imagine, if you can, the work involved for twice a day feeding and constant checking—on a cold winter's day.

It would be most unusual for changes not to be made. When you raise chickens on a large commercial scale, you expose yourself to all the modern innovations in practice by others in the same field.

Still Improving.

Of course, our man finally, even though over sixty, went to the easy way. It meant a large financial outlay. A brand new start when the remaining years were at best—uncertain. He built single unit broiler houses. He tried infra red heat—found it too expensive and settled on bottled gas. He still feeds by hand but has automatic water troughs. He has settled on a production output of some 5,000 broilers every twelve weeks with an additional 4,000 turkeys during the year.

The smallest profit made during a 12 weeks period on one operation was $450.00. This was an exception. He gambled on the market and held his flock for 16 weeks. As roasting chickens, he didn't fare too well. On almost every other flock, he has realized a profit—well over $2,000.00.

He has not lost a flock thru sickness. He has never taken a loss through adverse feeding and price ratios. If you multiply his twelve weeks profit by four—and then add the yearly profit of 4,000 turkeys, you can readily see why he can be considered a very prosperous farmer.

Moving Forward.

Our broiler man says that he is still making improvements. It takes only an hour for him to hand feed his birds. Even so, he is installing an elevator and self feeder. Says he can't lift the heavy sacks as easily as he used to. (AND HE BUYS EVERY POUND OF FEED).

He talks like a man of thirty—full of enthusiasm. Certainly, he has found the medicine to keep him young a long, long time.

A profitable way to farm. I have not named this gentleman—because he told me his story conversationally. I do not have his permission to use it. I don't think he would mind, though. Success stories are told proudly.

NOTES from the
TUSCOLA COUNTY EXTENSION OFFICE

Clarence Blasius, Indianfields Township farmer, says "The use of a green manure crop in my crop rotation and the application of commercial fertilizer has proved very successful." He feels that much of the fertility value of manure is lost to soil by leaching and run-off when applied to sloping land in the winter time.

Cass City A. B. A. held their annual meeting on January 15. 1,119 cows were artificially bred during the past year with a first service conception rate of 64.1%. This is an exceptional record when compared to the state conception record of 50-55% of first services. Good herd management is essential to successful artificial breeding, says George Parsons, Michigan State College extension dairyman.

A county-wide 4-H dairy program is scheduled for Wednesday evening, February 6, at the Wilber Memorial 4-H Building. All 4-H dairy club members and leaders are urged to attend.

gives farming a real boost!

When your field work calls for more real pull, live-weight traction will see you through.

The hydraulic TRACTION BOOSTER in the CA and WD Tractors changes deadweight to liveweight. Weight of both tractor and implement is automatically shifted to bear down on drive wheels when soil is stubborn and tillage is tough.

The hydraulic TRACTION BOOSTER reduces wheel slippage — enables the CA and WD to do draw-bar jobs that normally would require heavier tractors. Stop in and let us show you how it works.

Bowling News and Views

George A. Dillman, Sec.

In a recent letter received from the A. B. C. we were informed that other material would be mailed in the very near future for presentation at the proper time. This reminds us that we must begin to plan and think about our annual City Association Tournament. In the near future tournament entry blanks will be mailed to each Captain of each league and you will be asked to complete the entry and return to your Association Secretary in order to comply with A. B. C. Rules and Regulations governing City Association Tournaments. We want thirty teams entered this year. So start talking and planning NOW to make this a big and entertaining event.

After rolling 48 games without hitting a 500 series, "Publisher Haire," in spite of a little "5 pin" trouble rolled his first 500 series Monday night. (505) The "hard hitting" Musall team, lead by "Rich" with a 565 series, rolled another 2541 series to trip up the Schwaderer team 3 points to 1. The Schwaderer team presented with a 139 pin handicap gave the Musall five plenty of competition as they also hit 2514. Musall's three games of actual pins were 792-945-904.

The only team to win their three games Monday night was the Galloway crew as they stopped the Peterson squad cold to stall them in second place while Galloway's team climbed to fourth place. The first place Reid Team, fighting to hold their lead, ran into a little trouble as they crossed alleys with the Dillman gang. The first game was won by Reids with ease as they coasted to an 833 to 773 win. But not realizing that they were bowling that "Reid Team, Champions of the first schedule" Dillman's came roaring back to take the next two games and total pins by the close margin of 11 pins good for three points to maintain their third place position on the board. The Rusch team continued their winning ways to keep pace with the third position teams. Only four men were able to roll single game totals of 200 and over. Musall was high with 227, Freiburger 226, Galloway 217 and Withey 200. Four others came close to the 200 mark when Johnson rolled 199, Wallace 198, Kettlewell 197 and Champion, sub., 196. Fifteen men hit over 500 in their three game series lead by Galloway with 582, followed by Musall with 565, Dillman 544, Geiger 531, Paddy, sub. 531, Champion, sub. 529, Clara and Wallace 519, Damm and Freiburger 509, C. Auten, 505, Bartz 504, Juhasz 503 and Dewey 502. Juhasz, sub. for Rusch, just missed a triplicate series by one pin in his final game as he rolled two consecutive games of 168 each and hit 167 in his final effort. Johnnie had 148 in the ninth frame as he stepped onto the alleys for the tenth frame. He hit for a strike. His first extra ball hit solid but left the six pin standing. He needed a spare to net him the third 168 game, but luck was against him as he just barely grazed the pin and left it standing resulting in a 167 game.

The ten high individual averages are held by Wallace with 177, Geiger 177, Musall 173, Galloway 171, Dillman 171, Peterson 167, Hunt 167, Huff 166, Hubbard 164, Landon 164.

To continue the clean competitive enjoyment that bowling provides and further stimulate interest, the City Association is always open for suggestions. A suggestion has been brought to our attention, and we think it a good one; to promote the formation of doubles teams to establish a match game doubles champion. Any two Association members from either league could form a doubles combination and accept challenges for match blocks. To start the "ball rolling" two members have agreed to form a doubles team and will accept a challenge to establish a winner. The winner to be known as Match Game Doubles Champions and will be obligated to depend their title against those who wish to challenge. Any one forming such a combination is to call Rich at the Bowling Alleys or your Association Secretary. This should be developed by an elimination process in order to receive high score coverage by the American Bowling Congress. There should be at least six teams listed for competition before notifying the A. B. C. of this event. Think it over, fellows, talk with different bowlers, form your doubles teams and notify Rich or your Secretary NOW. This could develop into quite an event. Doubles eliminations could be held in other Thumb areas to develop a Champion thus bringing together several Champions for a round robin affair to name a Thumb Doubles Team Champion. Sounds interesting to this reporter. What do you think?

Merchants League

For a man that is suffering from pains in the kneecap, Wallace isn't handicapped too much when it comes to bowling. Last Thursday night Buzz pounded the meples for a resounding total of 676 to help pace his teammates to three points over their opponents. Their total of 2587 was high for the League with Drewrys second high, 2570, followed by Ideal with 2549. The Brinker team banged out a 929 single game, the Bankers and Ideal totaling 910 each. Coleman of the Dewry squad continues to gather in the 600 totals as he again hits 623 for the week. Hendrick was third high with 570. In addition to the high single game of Wallace, Retherford and Avery hit 284 and 221 respectively. As you will note, the standings in the Merchants League are very close, and the top teams have to be on their toes. The low point teams are plenty rough on the high scoring teams when they cross alleys and it is their ambition and delight to upset the top teams, (which they do with regularity). Standings of the Merchants League as of January 17 are as follows:

THE STRANGEST FRUIT

Two hillbillies were making their first trip on the train and a news vender came through, selling, among other things, bananas, which the hillbillies had never seen before. They decided to try one piece and one of them, faster than the other, had his unpeeled and took a bite out of it while the other one was still closely examining his. Just then the train plunged into the darkness of a tunnel and the first hillbilly screamed: "Don't touch it, Zek! I just took one bite and it struck me blind!"

Seen and Heard
"Mother," asked the little one, on the occasion of a number of guests being present at dinner, "will the dessert hurt me, or is there enough to go round?"

Why are adolescents always hungry? Because their food digests more rapidly than for older persons. The hunger pangs in active adolescents are really vigorous, says Miss Mary Lewis of the food and nutrition department, Michigan State College. The "staying qualities" of meat, potatoes, gravy and pie are much better than those of toast, fruit juice and coffee. This fact is the keynote of feeding growing children. The protein of the meat and the fat of the gravy and pie slow up the rate of digestion more than the carbohydrates of toast or the sugar in the fruit juice and coffee. That means plenty of good protein foods and fat foods for growing boys.

The principal part of everything is the beginning.

SHORT STORY

Narrow Escape

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

LAURA knew her first feeling of fear when Jud took the whip from its socket and flicked it across the backs of the plodding horses.

3-Minute Fiction

She had been watching the clouds pile out of the northwest with amazing speed for the past 15 minutes. But this was April, and there was no wind at all. Also, the day was mild, almost sultry. It was hard to imagine a blizzard even in Nebraska.

Beauty and Prince broke into a lumbering trot. The rhythm of the crunching wheels of the heavy farm wagon increased in tempo. Beneath them, at the foot of the long slope, Laura could see the buildings of their farm.

The cloud bank came toward them with astonishing speed, hanging an impenetrable gray curtain from sky to earth as it swept across the prairie. Jud stood up and lashed out with the whip.

Little Lucy began to cry, and a moment later Jud, junior, joined in with lusty bawls. Laura huddled one under each arm and said: "Sh! Sh, now!" But when she lifted her anxious eyes, she felt again the terror.

The farm buildings were not more than a quarter of a mile away. Now they could hear the roar of the wind. It drowned out the crunch of wheels; it plucked Jud's cries from his lips and sent them screaming back over his shoulder. The blizzard struck them like a blast from the Arctic.

Laura drew the heavy bear rugs about the children, and bound her own scarf about her face. She could no longer hear the crying of the youngsters, nor the clapping of the horses' hoofs, nor Jud's shouts.

There was no point in looking up. She tried it once. It was like being suspended in a great vacuum with moving, screaming walls. Even the outlines of the horses were blotted out.

The progress of the team slowed Jud was no longer using the whip. He sat humped forward, barely visible behind a veil of snow.

AFTER awhile Laura had the feeling that the team was swinging in a great arc. A new terror seized her. The road was straight. There was not a curve for miles.

She screamed at Jud, tugged at his sheepskin coat. He bent down and she tried to make him understand. He shook his head and pointed down. She bent forward, could barely make out the right front wheel. It was running even with the whipltree, had not turned at all.

She settled down once more, hugging the children close. Cold crept in under the blankets. Snow piled up in her lap and on her shoulders. The world had gone mad.

Again she had that feeling of swinging around. She fought it until the horror of it threatened her sanity. Then she poked her head from beneath the blankets. Jud was crouched forward, tense, pulling on the high rein. She beat against his shoulder.

"We've missed the house! I'm turning back!" She could barely catch the words. A cold chill, a hideous fear congealed the blood of her veins. Missed the house! It would be hours—possibly days before the storm ended. They had no provisions aboard the wagon. They would freeze.

She clutched the children against her. They never should have started out. They wouldn't have if it had been a month later.

The storm attacked with a new fury, an uncombatable violence. It lashed and screamed and laughed in hideous triumph at their helplessness. Time once more stood still.

Laura was roused by someone rubbing snow against her cheeks. She sat up, trying to cry out, remembering the children, "They're all right," Jud said, "I gave the horses their heads. They took us home. Wouldn't have made it otherwise."

Stiff-legged, carrying a child in either arm, she went through the shed and into the kitchen. The heat beat against her face. She set the children on the table and went to the stove. The kettle was still steaming. In another five minutes they would have caught

MICHIGAN MIRROR NEWS BRIEFS

All eyes are on the state legislature again. Will it pass in the next three months a corporation tax bill? Will more consumer taxes be levied? Will the lawmakers balance the budget? Can the deficit spending be halted? All are weighty and ponderous issues facing the lawmakers. But rest assured, there will be budget paring.

And deep in the pile of budget bills will be one which undoubtedly will draw little fanfare from the busy lawmakers and an apparently disinterested public: The Michigan Tourist Council request for $462,100. Officials now are wrought up because of unemployment in Michigan's number one industry, the automobile business.

Tourism is Michigan's Number two or Number three industry, depending on whether farming is to be included as an industry. And Michigan's tourist business has fallen off. In 1945 this state attracted 4 per cent of the nation's tourists. That year the Tourist Council was formed. Managers of the four already existing tourist organizations became members. By 1949 Michigan was drawing 9 per cent of America's vacationers and was third state in the nation in total tourists. From 1945 until 1949 the council appropriation was $250,000. Then it was reduced to $225,000. Michigan dropped to a fourth place tie with Pennsylvania and drew only 8 per cent of U. S. vacationers.

That 1 per cent decrease represents 350,000 fewer trips taken into the state at an average of $211 per trip. Michigan lost $74,000,000 in tourist business. The treasury therefore lost $1,407,000 in sales tax revenues, since 67 per cent of all tourist purchases are subject to that tax, not to mention cigaret, gasoline and whisky taxes. Appropriation last year was $270,000, but it could not offset the 46 per cent rise in advertising costs.

A survey taken some time ago indicated that every dollar invested in Michigan tourism brought a return of $128, Good interest.

The Conservation Commission again is out to gain discretionary power to set deer hunting regulations, a move advocated for some years now. Such a law would allow the commission to regulate seasons and bag regulations according to the supply of game in any specific area. Lawmakers have been cool toward giving up their strings on hunting.

Mayor Harry Tompkins of Boyne City, up for re-election not only invited opposition but went out and worked for it. He didn't like the idea of an uncontested election so he circulated petitions for a rival.

Friends of Rep. Charles Potter of Cheboygan have been pushing him to run for the senate. He hasn't made up his mind. For the house he has a cinch. The senate race could be risky.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams has high hopes for a good legislative session in Michigan—"if the Republicans really mean what they say."

Construction of the new state office building is slowing because of a lower allocation of steel than was expected. Bad news for state workers now housed in rabbit warrens in Lansing and East Lansing.

Discovery of uranium minerali-zation in the upper Huronian iron formation of the Marquette range has been announced. It is not known yet whether the uranium content will warrant mining operations.

Michigan newspapers will be host to ten Michigan festival queens at the Michigan Press association's All-Michigan Dinner Saturday, Jan. 26, at Michigan State College.

With scrap drives being discussed again to bolster slackening auto production, Michiganites are reminded of World War II days. Copper is one of the most vital metals running short. John B. Martin, auditor general, says Michigan, above all states, should take its own steps to stimulate a scrap drive.

State park visitors last year paid $407,046 for hot dogs, pop and candy.

The state now owns 955,000 acres of land under oil and gas lease, netting $1,200,000 in bonuses, rentals and royalties during the year.

State Controller Robert F. Steadman has been urging the governor to fight the battle for critical material shortages by having a state lobbyist assigned to Washington on a permanent basis.

When bill No. 100 is filed in the house of representatives it is a traditional time for signers of the proposed law to treat members of the chamber. This year Reps. Robert E. Faulker, Coloma, and William E. Broomfield, Royal Oak, both Republicans, did a bit of lobbying with it. They passed out jars of Michigan-produced jelly to each member.

Michigan has been cited as having the most liberal prison parole policy and yet the lowest rate of parolees sent back to prison. A refreshing thought it is, after watching crime claim the nation's top news the last year.

Performance Checks Can Still Be Signed

"Have you signed your 1951 check of performance yet?" This question is asked of all Sanilac County farmers by Russell Hill, Chairman of the Sanilac County PMA Committee.

Word has been received at the county office that an extension of 16 days has been made in the final date for signing check of performance because of road and weather conditions.

If you have not signed, you still have until January 31, 1952, in which to do so.

Carpenter Assumes New Job With MABC

Two new workers have been added to the staff of the Michigan Artificial Breeders to strengthen its program of services on a state and local level, according to A. C. Baltzer, Michigan State College extension dairyman.

They are Richard W. Green, former dairy herd improvement association supervisor, and Byron E. Carpenter, former assistant county agricultural agent in Tuscola County. Green will analyze records and do research in genetics for the MABC in connection with both the field results from local artificial breeders' associations and the sires selected by the organization.

Carpenter will assist all local ABA's by supplying educational information, give assistance at meetings, summer tours and shows and keep membership contacts.

Both have earned bachelor's and master's degrees from Michigan State College.

With a program developed to please a wide range of interests and ages, Miss Gillies urged both rural and urban women to attend the event held on the MSC campus at East Lansing.

Step-Ramp Loading Chutes Are Safest Many Livestock Yards Are Remodeling Ramps

Livestock markets across the nation are continuing in their program of modernization and the installation of step-ramp chutes to replace old wooden chutes that cause great damage to animals.

Cattle prefer steps to the old-style cleats. Many animals are injured and much meat lost from bruising due to the constant prodding necessary to get the animals up and down the old ramps, cattlemen have reported.

The Chicago stock yards recently opened 12 of the modern step-ramp chutes. Of concrete and steel construction, the new chutes are designed to ease the task of unloading stock, and insure safe and efficient operations. Galvanized steel fencing and grates add to the safety features of the dock area. Waffle-grid concrete floorings provide safe footing for animals during the penning process.

The first truck to unload over the ramps brought 24 head of Hereford and Angus steers shipped by Carroll Snola of Onslow, Ia.

Cracked Corn Found Best Feed for Suckling Lambs

Tests made at the University of Kentucky experiment station indicate cracked yellow shelled corn is the cheapest and best ration for the creep-feeding of suckling lambs.

Experiments carried on over a period of nine years compared cracked yellow corn with mixtures of feeds. These included cracked corn, crushed oats and pea-sized linseed oilmeal; cracked corn and commercial milk substitute, and a third ration composed of "sweet feed" made of corn, oats, bran, linseed oilmeal, molasses and salt.

The experiment was conducted under the most controlled conditions possible, Kentucky educators reported.

The conclusion of the experimenters: "None of the three more costly mixtures showed any consistent or significant superiority to corn alone in rate of gain, efficiency of gain or market finish of the lambs."

The experiments were not designed to answer the question of whether creep-feeding pays, but rather to determine what rations are best for creep-feeding under Kentucky conditions.

Seed Beds

It is a long time from planting seed beds, but gardeners and farmers might spend some of their spare time during the winter months making one. Seed beds with plastic covers are hailproof, shatter-proof and light in weight. A plastic-coated wire mesh, weighing less than glass, passes on to the plants most of the sun's ultraviolet and infrared rays. This material is available at most farm equipment dealers and hardware stores.

Poultry and Egg Eating Increases, Experts Say

Poultry experts report the American family is consuming more poultry and eggs and predicts the increase will continue during the rest of 1951. Forecasts indicate the average American will have eaten 30 pounds of chicken by the end of 1951, 10 per cent more than last year; 406 eggs, slightly more than in 1950; and about five pounds of turkey meat, approximately the same as last year.

Many a self-made man quit work too soon.
