from the TUSCOLA COUNTY EXTENSION OFFICE

Mondays have been set aside as one day during the week when Tuscola County folks may expect to find Extension Agents in the office. This will apply to all Extension Staff members, including 4-H and Home Extension Agents. By keeping this schedule, Extension folks hope to better serve all who call at the county office.

4800 Tuscola County dairy cattle were bred artificially during 1951. The Cass City A. B. A. led the five county A. B. A.'s with 1,119 first services rendered. Kingston A. B. A. followed with 1,077 first services.

Telford Proffer of Vassar and son, Teddy, who is 15 years old, are in the farming business together when it comes to making decisions and sharing certain farm income. Teddy's father believes this is the way to interest a boy in the farm business. Teddy is a member of a local 4-H club.

Three 4-H club boys returned recently from the sheep shearing school held at Michigan State College in the Livestock Pavilion. The boys are Robert Rowley, Caro; Richard Blackmore, Millington; and Frank McMullen, Mayville. All three are members of the 4-H Oxford Sheep Club in the county. The school was sponsored by the Michigan Sheep Shearers' Association.

The Columbia Corners 4-H Club will sponsor a 4-H party Saturday evening, February 16, at the Wilber Memorial 4-H Building at 8:00 p. m. All 4-H clubs are urged to attend. The theme is a Backwards Party and all attending should wear some article of clothing backwards.

February 20 is the date set for all chicken-of-tomorrow project members to have their chicks in their brooder houses.

Electric power saves more labor on farms than any other single development since the gasoline engine.

WBCM Editor Reveals Farm Study

Ed Vallender, Farm Editor
WBCM — Bay City

Big Income.
Every once in a while, some big city congressman will open his mouth—clear his throat and announce to a listening world that the American farmer is in the gravy.
That's the trouble with statistics. You see the forest—but you don't see the trees. Lots of people think that farmers are cleaning up.
Could be—some farmers in some parts of the country. Not around here.
We are very happy that some official group has come up with a study of the situation and let a little light in.

Findings.
This group we speak of has a very impressive title. They are the National Planning Association—made up of spokesmen for national farm organizations, farm economists and farm editors. They say bluntly—that farm prosperity is definitely not nationwide. They also mention areas where farm poverty is the rule—not the exception. One of the areas included are the cut-over lands of Michigan. We would consider that THIS part of Michigan can be classed as such.

The other areas mentioned are: the cotton South, the southern Appalachians and the southern counties of Illinois, Ohio and Indiana.
In total these are the areas which the experts say have been by-passed in the American economy.

Reasons.
They place the blame on several factors: inferior production methods, lack of capital, insufficient acreage, poor or one sided rental arrangements, isolation from good markets, the lack of near-by non-farm jobs, and low educational standards.
Some of these factors apply to one or two areas; some apply to all of them. At this point it would be interesting to segregate the ones that apply to northeastern Michigan.

Corrections.
The Farm Committee recommends a number of steps which it believes must be taken—and very soon. Some of them are very drastic—some of them sound socialistic. Its chief proposal is that the size of the small, marginal farms must be increased—even if it means shifting some of the poorer farmers to other lines of work. This may sound heartless, but the experts say it must be done so that surviving farmers can use better production methods on bigger farms. Many low-income farmers are not necessarily bad farmers—they just lack the opportunity to make a good living out of the land.
The planners also say that private bankers and lenders must make loan arrangements to improve the capital of poor farmers. And—community leaders should improve educational standards.

Keep Out.
The Committee believes that Uncle Sam should stay out of the picture. Each locality has an individual problem. These problems should be dealt with separately with a minimum of Government interference.

In summary—the Committee concludes that—too many people think good farm prices are all that's necessary for the welfare of the American farmer. Fair prices alone, it adds, will never solve the problems of the low-income farmer.

Which For You
Let your own nose be your guide for the proper fragrance for you to wear. The smart woman tries it on her own skin, since the chemistry of each person's skin slightly changes the scent.

Selling farm scrap metal is a good farm management practice and helps increase production of new steel.

4-H Electrical Meeting Set in Caro

An opportunity for assistance in all phases of 4-H electrical project work will be given 4-H electrical leaders and their junior leaders on Wednesday evening, February 20, says George C. MacQueen, county 4-H club agent. The meeting will be held at the Wilber Memorial 4-H Building and will start at 8:00 p. m. Wes Raven, farm service advisor for Detroit Edison Company, will be on hand to lend assistance and present some demonstrations. The program also includes two fine movies on electricity and its uses and also refreshments.

Mining Research Center
A coal mine whose coal will never go to market is to be opened near Pittsburgh. It will be the first experimental mine to be operated exclusively for testing and improving machinery and equipment.

MICHIGAN MIRROR NEWS BRIEFS

Loren B. Miller, Detroit advocate of reform in state government, has a nickname of "Red." It refers to his hair.

Miller lived up to his sobriquet at a Michigan Press Association convention luncheon featuring proposed reorganization of state government. But in a different way to this extent: He became obviously red-faced when State Treasurer D. Hale Brake stole the thunder and delivered the best speech of his capital career. Here's the story.

Miller was given the lead-off spot, preceding appearance of constitutional state officials. He pleaded that the governor should be given more power - authority to appoint heads of departments such as civil service, conservation and agriculture. Such was the recommendation of a joint legislative committee of which Miller was director.

Brake's reply was masterful. He tore the argument into shreds and wound up with a terrific applause from newspaper editors. Declared Brake:

Civil service in Michigan is safeguarded from partisan politics through a commission "responsible to nobody but the people of the state." Members serve long terms, staggered to prevent domination by any one governor.

The agriculture department now has a career director responsible solely to a commission, appointed in the same manner as civil service and hence free from political control by any one governor. This change was brought out primarily by the Farm Bureau and Grange as the result of farmers' complaints over the constant change of directors as governors arrived and left.

The conservation commission would become "advisory" under Miller's plan with the director named by the governor. Brake's best punch line was this:

"Perhaps the difference between Mr. Miller and myself is chiefly this: He has read too darn many books. (Long pause). I have known too darn many governors. (Laughter). After all, seven governors have come in since I entered state government and six have gone out. Perhaps the voters will have to decide whether I outlast the seventh."

Can you blame Miller for being a bit red-faced?

He failed to sell his case to newspaper editors, despite a wealth of factual material available from other where reorganization programs have become a reality.

Note: Miller had 15 minutes; the governor (through a substitute) 15 minutes. Brake spoke 20 minutes, his original five-minute allocation being augmented by cooperating officials.

With the announcement that Lt. Gov. William C. Vandenberg would be a gubernatorial candidate, Republican political waters grew rolled from within. Getting off on one foot or the other, Vandenberg, in his opening statement, said, "I have no personal fortune to spend in a gubernatorial campaign, but I have never believed that the governorship, Michigan's highest office, was for sale."

An obvious belt at Alger's wealth which presumably will not hurt his campaign.

Alger replied, "I naturally regretted Lt. Gov. Vandenberg's announcement because I hoped that for once we would present a united front to the electorate. . . It is his privilege to be a candidate if he so desires."

The way may be opened to ease Michigan's - particularly in Detroit - unemployment problem. A new defense mobilization order tells service procurement officers to negotiate military contracts instead of letting them go to the lowest bidder in all cases which affect areas like Detroit which have acute unemployment.

Among state measures which died a-borning because they were not reported out of committee in time to meet the rule requiring bills to be brought out in 21 days were two fair employment practices bills. Others to die of default would have provided for compulsory vehicle inspection; repealed the "lien law" under which the state can recover from estates of deceased old age assistance recipients a part of the benefits paid; increased old age assistance from $60 to $75. All were hot questions.

December was the most disastrous month in history for accidents in Michigan. There were 19,892 accidents, including 3,691 injuries and 120 deaths. The 1951 traffic fatality lists had 1,646 persons listed, highest since 1941 when traffic claimed 2,133.

Some 22,000 state civil service employees have received their pay rise. Adjustment was ordered by the civil service commission last December. It gives all classified employees a flat $5 per month and a seven per cent increase in salary. Overall state pay increases will cost Michigan $9,443,529 for the year beginning July 1.

The state library has received $233,326.46 for equipment and books lost in the state office building fire of a year ago. Five insurance companies made the payment.

And it looks as though the new state office building (and repair of the old one) will get a shot in its building arm. National production authority has approved allotment for all the steel necessary to complete both structures.

Construction of a new journalism and publications building at M. S. C. has been suggested by a Michigan Press association committee. The matter is under study. The building would be a self-paying project, of course.

Since 1838, Michigan has spent $161,510 in bounties on wolves. Only 27 were taken last year. A Michigan biologist says this method of stamping out wolves is futile and expensive. The state predator research specialist cites the encroachment of civilization as the only factor in reducing the wolf population so low that those states "still with a few wolves are indeed fortunate in having this touch of unspoiled wilderness remaining."

Cover Country

The paint industry is composed, primarily, of a large number of small establishments. In 1947, the latest year for which complete information is available, the Bureau of the Census, U. S. Department of Commerce, reported 1,291 paint, varnish and lacquer manufacturing establishments distributed throughout the United States.

Largest Rodent

The capybara, a native of South America, is the largest of all the living rodent animals, being in excess of 3 feet in length. A water-loving animal, it can remain underwater for eight to ten minutes.

Biggest Nugget

The biggest gold nugget ever found was 54 inches long, 5 1/2 inches thick and weighed 195 pounds. It was dug out of the Morgan claim at Carson Hill, Calaveras County, California, in 1854.

ABA Patronage Refund Announced

Another patronage refund of $80,000 to about 13,000 Michigan farmers who used the services of the Michigan Artificial Breeders Cooperative during 1947 was announced by A. C. Baltzer, extension dairyman at Michigan State College, according to Alfred P. Ballweg, county agricultural agent.

The principal function of the MABC has been to provide dairy herd owners with the best of seed stock and dairy inheritance to bring about improved production. In addition to performing this job, the organization of Michigan farmers has been financially successful.

Baltzer told the county agricultural agent that the organization has experienced a constant growth in attracting more herd owners to use the service on their whole herds. Also many farmers who started out by trying the new and scientific method of breeding cattle on only a few animals in their herds have increasingly used the service. According to Baltzer, the annual increase in number of total first services has been approximately 20,000 animals and the year 1951 has seen the largest number of total first services with more than 120,000 animals reported. He predicts that by 1954 half of all the cows in Michigan will be from the inheritance offered by the MABC bull stud located at East Lansing.

One Third of Pigs Farrowed Will Die Before Weaning Age

About one-third of all pigs farrowed die before they are weaned so the care given sow and pigs during the first week after farrowing often means the difference between profit and loss.

Michigan State College animal husbandmen say that half of the pig losses come during the first three days after they are farrowed. More successful hog raisers start protecting their investments even before the pigs are born.

Cleaning and disinfecting the farrowing pen thoroughly, and putting in guard rails is a part of their preparation. Another is washing and cleaning the sow before she is placed in the farrowing pen. The next important step is to be on hand when the pigs are farrowed. After the pigs arrive, the first job is to see that each pig is dried and has its stomach warmed and filled with his first suckle of colostrum milk, the MSC swine specialists point out. Within the first few hours the small, needle-like teeth are cut off and the umbilical cord clipped and disinfected.

Make sure that bedding is clean and dry and that guard rails are provided. See that the brooder is working properly and that the pigs are nested under it after they get their first milk.

Quiet and rest with little or no feed is best for the sow for the 24 hours after farrowing. She should have plenty of lukewarm water available. The second day's feeding should be mostly a light ration like wheat bran and middlings, ground grain and a protein supplement. Start heavier feeding three to four days after farrowing. Increase the feed gradually so that the sow is getting a full ration at the end of a week or ten days.

Distinctive Treatment

For a long room containing blond wood furniture, the decorator directed that three walls should be painted white and that the fourth wall—the one farthest from the windows—should be coated in a soft red. The same treatment could have been used successfully with one of several other hues — pale blue, spring green or citron yellow.

HOW TO HANDLE green undergrowth in grain crops

Clover seeded with your grain crop builds up your soil, but this green undergrowth may be a problem at harvest time. Here is how to handle it.

A home-owned ALL-CROP Harvester lets you time your harvest perfectly. Catch the grain at full ripeness, but before green undergrowth is too high.

The wide, rubber-faced bar cylinder handles the full swath width with less chopping of green matter — separation is easier over the rack and there is less choking of sieves. Grain is drier, brighter, safer to store.

Power harvest grain this year, valuable seed next year, from the same field... with your own ALL-CROP Harvester. Stop in and talk to us.

Stabat Mater

At the Cross her station keeping
Stood the mournful Mother weeping
Close to Jesus to the last.
Through her heart His sorrow sharing,
All His bitter anguish bearing,
Now at length the sword has passed.

The simple, plaintive tune and pitiful words on the sorrowing Mary make the Stabat Mater perhaps the most pathetic of all Christian hymns. It is translated and sung by Protestant churches as "Near the Cross was Mary Weeping." Written apparently by a Franciscan Monk, it was fostered by the Flagellants who sang it while moving from town to town. Today it is sung to accompany the Stations of the Cross service during the Lenten season.

LET'S TALK IT OVER

BIG DECISION
About this time of year, the farmer gets a far-away look in his eye. The look that means he's figuring. Trying to puzzle out what crops to put where, and how much. This business of planned rotation is a wonderful thing. On theory alone, using the afore mentioned rotation, a farmer can tell you what goes where, for five years ahead.

There's only one clinker in the set-up. Mother nature doesn't always cooperate. Heavy spring rains will make a farmer change his plans about oats. Late spring showers will revise the sugar beet acreage, and if everything goes haywire, he's likely to wind up with beans and buckwheat.

MONEY CROPS
The other thing that causes a farmer to do mental nip-ups is the supply and demand situation. A perfect example is the potato story the past two years. Farmers lost money in 1950. Too many potatoes. In 1951, with government support payments off, spud acreage dropped way low. So... in 1951 and until the 1952 crop comes in, potatoes are expensive as all get out. If the pattern follows the normal trend, we'll have a larger tuber crop this year and lower prices to follow.

WISE GUY
Years ago, we met an old farmer that had a formula for this cycle situation. Any crop that farmers get burned on one year, he planted the next. In a year with low poultry and egg prices, he wouldn't have a chicken on the place. He increased production on any crop that had a bad price year. The idea is so simple it's almost laughable. Yet... if you are a farmer, think back to the number of times this very thing has happened. Prices go high... then low. As if by some strange inviolable force... farmers plant in mass cycles.

THIS YEAR
What then to plant this year? Your guess is as good as mine. The price of wheat is guaranteed, and we've got a bumper crop of wheat in. (Note to city folks... it was planted last fall). We are going through one of the most significant changes in our history. In the first place, the farm population has dropped from 32 million in 1910... to 25 million in 1950. Less farmers producing for more people. Our total population has increased near the point where we can just about feed them without importing food.

There is still the possibility of farmers unintentionally "ganging" upon one crop to create a surplus. With the Government figures on intentions to plant... there is no sign of this phenomenon. Unfortunately, a government statistic doesn't always see around the harvest corner. (Look at the big cotton fiasco we had in 1951).

A man with a crystal ball could clean up trying to forecast a crop. That's why your friend the farmer has that far-away look in his eyes. He's trying to pick a winner.

Farmer of Deford Vicinity Dies Sunday

John Wojtaszek, 67, resident of this vicinity for 23 years, died in his farm home one and one-half miles east of Deford Sunday. He had been in poor health for a year. Rosary devotions were conducted in the Douglas Funeral Home Tuesday at 8:00 p. m. and funeral services were held Wednesday at 10:00 a. m. in the Wilmot Catholic Church.

He was born June 24, 1884, in Poland and came to this country in 1911. In 1926, in Gratiot County, he married Katherine Machalski, who survives. He also leaves three children by a former marriage, Wm. Wojtaszek of Deford, Mrs. Genevieve Sezepanski of Detroit and Steve Wojtaszek in Alaska; and four brothers, Thomas and Michael in Chicago and Stanley and Steve Wojtaszek in Poland. Burial was in the church cemetery in Wilmot.

Pennsylvania Reclaimed

More than 2,500,000 trees and shrubs have been planted on surface-mined areas of Western Pennsylvania during the current season. Besides beautifying the scenery, the planting operations are important as a conversation measure.

Frozen cream makes poor quality butter, according to MSC dairy specialists.

Proper Feeding Vital for Calves

Tests at Michigan State College and observations of farmers have resulted in definite recommendations for feeding young calves, reported this week by L. A. Johnson, extension dairyman at MSC.

Proper feeding has been found to be a major consideration in getting calves off to the right start. Johnson reports that the most satisfactory rate of feeding milk is one pound a day for each ten pounds the calf weighs. This means that an 80 pound calf should get about eight pounds or two feeds of four pounds each day. That's about two quarts twice a day.

Milk should be fed warm from the cow, not cold. One of the big problems is fast drinking which often leads to scouring troubles. Successful dairymen have found that drinking can be slowed by elevating the pail in a rack or manger. Many farmers report success with nipple pails, but point out that it's important to keep the pail and nipple clean.

Most dairymen prefer to start calves on whole grains at about two weeks of age. A mixture of three parts oats, three parts shelled corn and one part linseed or soybean oil meal has been used successfully. This mixture may be fed until the calves are about three months of age, when a ground grain mixture should be started.

A recommended growing mixture is made up of 150 pounds of ground oats, 100 pounds of yellow corn meal, 100 pounds of wheat bran and 50 pounds of high protein concentrate. Many dairymen simply feed the regular herd ration to these older calves.

Sanilac County Plans Dairy Day

Something new has been planned for dairymen of Sanilac County. At least, it is new in recent years. It will be an all-county Dairy Day.

Date for this event is Monday, February 18. Sandusky High School Gym is the location. The time is from 10:00 to 3:00 p. m. There will be exhibits from feed companies, milking machine companies and others. There will be door prizes contributed by the exhibitors.

Speakers will be Charles Figy, Director of Michigan Department of Agriculture, Jim Hayes and George Parsons, Michigan State College Extension Dairymen, and others.

This Dairy Day is sponsored by the Sanilac County Dairy Planning Committee, Sandusky High School Department of Vocational Agriculture and the Sanilac County Extension Service.

"Easy does it" when you have a good farm workshop powered by electricity. On the Dean Ruggles farm near Marlette the workshop is used during the winter to get tools and equipment in apple pie condition for spring work in the fields. In the summer, it helps speed machinery repairs when delay would be costly. The picture above shows Mr. Ruggles using a portable electric farm welder to fix up his homemade wagon unloader.

You, too, will find a farm workshop a real time and money saver. With electricity supplying the muscle for saws, drills, grinders and welders, you can easily repair hard-to-replace equipment—also build many labor-saving devices yourself. Your Edison Farm Service Advisor will gladly help you plan a farm workshop that will more than pay its way all year long. Call or write any Edison office.

Bowling News and Views

George A. Dillman, Sec.

Despite of all that is being said about the Reid team being the first team to win all three schedules, several teams have vowed to do something about it. The Reid team won the second schedule with ease as they spilled the Hunt team 2 games and 101 pins for 3 points, placing them in front by four points over their closest opponents, Dillman and Peterson. Musall, Reid and Peterson rolled the three high series as they hit 2461, 2422 and 2418 respectively. The three high single games were posted by Dillman, Reid and Peterson with 869, 843 and 840 in order.

Geiger paced the boys with a three game series of 551 followed by Hubbard 549, F. Tyo 548, P. Retherford 532, Galloway 527, Reid 527, Strickland 526, Parsch 523, A. Wanted: One First Class Crystal Ball!

Serving folks for almost a century now, we like to think we're pretty good at knowing just what they want and how to please 'em best. But experience and intuition can go just so far.

Sometimes we think we could use a "crystal ball" to find out if customers have "something on their mind" they're not telling us—that we don't know, but should—in order to serve them better.

Have you something on your mind that concerns us? We'd appreciate knowing it—then the crystal ball won't be necessary. Please write:

Red Danish Cattle Association Elects Officers for 1952

American Red Danish Cattle Association elected the following officers for 1952: Harry Prowse, president, Marlette; Fred Shepard, 1st vice president, West Branch; Alfred Buchner, 2nd vice president, Harrisville; and Clifford Shantz, secretary-treasurer, Fairview.

The results of a committee meeting at the secretary's office of the American Red Danish Cattle Association showed a remarkable increase of the daughters of three of the bulls now being used at the Michigan A. B. A. The records were based on Mature equivalent as all U. S. D. A. proofs are.

FARMERS' INCOME TAX

the bottom of page 1 of the form. For example, he would be entitled to a depreciation deduction of 10% or $10.00, on farm equipment which cost him $100.00 and which had a useful life of ten years.

The useful lives of various types of farm equipment, breeding animals, fruit trees, and so forth, used by the Bureau of Internal Revenue in figuring depreciation, are listed in a booklet prepared by it and known as "Bulletin F." That booklet, which costs twenty-five cents, may be secured by writing the U. S. Government Printing Office at Washington, D. C.

Accrual Basis

A farmer who keeps regular books of account and who is not on a "cash basis" is on the accrual basis. He must report income when he becomes entitled to receive it—whether actually received or not—and may claim expenses when his liability to pay them is fixed—again, whether or not he actually pays them. And if he is on the accrual basis, he is required to use inventories taken at the beginning and end of the year. He may use either Form 1040-F or separate Schedule "C" with his Form 1040 in determining his income. But if he uses Form 1040-F, he must complete the schedules on pages 2 and 3.

New Benefits

The 1951 Revenue Act gives the farmer new benefits. Now both the land used in farming and held more than six months, and the unharvested crop on the land, may be sold to the same person as "property used in the trade or business." The gain or loss on the sale is treated as from the sale of capital assets—only one-half of the gain or the entire loss is taken into account.

The new Revenue Act also now permits the farmer to sell livestock other than poultry, regardless of age, which he has held for draft, breeding or dairy purposes, and for more than twelve months, as "property used in the trade or business," and to take into account only one-half the gain or the entire loss from the sale.

In addition, the new Act provides similar treatment for such livestock held for more than six months as to the calendar years 1942 through 1950. The farmer should check the possibilities of refund claims in this connection.

Conclusion

After the farmer has completed either Form 1040-F or Schedule "C," covering the operation of his farm, he must report the result in his individual income tax return, Form 1040. He then must report all his non-farm income such as interest and dividends, and he is entitled to all the deductions granted any other individual taxpayer.

In making out his income tax return, the farmer has a complicated job to perform. The 1951 edition of "Your Federal Income Tax for Individuals" should be of considerable help to him. It can be gotten from the U. S. Government Printing Office at Washington, D. C., for twenty-five cents. And like many other businessmen, the farmer may find it wise on occasion to seek expert assistance.

Nineteen Counties Represented at 4-H Leadership School

Delegates from 19 southeastern Michigan counties resided at the Montague Hotel last Thursday, Friday and Saturday while attending junior leadership school held at the Wilber Memorial 4-H Building. This school has been held in Caro for the past several years and is designed to equip older 4-H members in such a manner that they can return to their communities and help their leaders with their 4-H programs.

One boy and one girl delegate from each of the counties comprised the school. Tuscola County was represented by Norleen Ackerman of the Jolly Workers 4-H Club at Unionville and Richard Enos, Vassar, of the Progressive 4 Live-stock Club.

The delegates were officially welcomed to Caro during the noon meal by George Beith, village president, and D. L. Striffler, chairman of the Caro Board of Commerce. A. P. Ballweg, county agricultural agent, was also on hand to welcome the group.

Representatives of the state 4-H club office were on hand to administer the program. They included Arden Peterson, recreational specialist, Mrs. Corrine Ketchum, Nevels Pearson and P. G. Lundin. Delegates acted as chairmen during special sections of the program. They were given instruction on responsibilities of junior leaders, planning a good local 4-H club program, publicizing 4-H club activities and other correlated topics. Panel and group discussions and recreation highlighted the school.

The committal service will be under the auspices of Theron W. Atwood Post No. 7, of Caro and burial will be in Indianfields Cemetery in Caro.

A youngster was delighted to receive two live baby rabbits for an Easter present. He enjoyed them even more as they grew up, but they became a nuisance to his parents.

The mother and father began to consider various ways of disposing of the rabbits without breaking their little boy's heart. One day the father asked: "Phil, how about having one of your rabbits for dinner tonight?"

The child's face brightened, and he said: "Sure, Daddy, but how would he hold his spoon?" They kept the rabbits.

O. E. S. FRIENDS' NIGHT

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served in the dining room by Mrs. A. N. Bigelow and her committee. Decorations were in keeping with Valentine's Day. The table at which Mrs. George Seeger and Mrs. Edward Corpron poured coffee was beautifully decorated with an arrangement of red carnations flanked with lighted red tapers.

The meeting was concluded with a luncheon.

The drastic shortage of engineers in the U. S. is beginning to hamper many areas of defense production—including the important output of airplanes. Aviation Week, trade journal of aircraft manufacturers, says that the industry faces "seven lean years" of great need and inadequate supply of college-trained engineers. Civilian production alone calls for 90,000 new engineers by 1964, but only 63,000 will graduate from U. S. engineering schools in this period.
