MICHIGAN MIRROR NEWS BRIEFS

A showdown is coming soon on the legislative solution of Republican leaders at Lansing for the state's financial dilemma. Here is the story in a nutshell. Governor G. Mennen Williams advocates a corporation profits tax on corporation profits rather than "new taxes upon the things they (the voters) must buy and use in their daily lives." By diverting a share of corporation profits to the state treasury, the governor holds up a magical and almost painless solution to the deepening treasury deficit. Revenues fall short around $20 millions annually of covering financial needs.

A Citizens' Tax Study Committee, headed by Alan L. Gornick of the Ford Motor Company, Dearborn, would raise a total of $66.7 millions by adjustment of present taxes. The committee program has much to commend itself as a nation-wide survey of state governments recently showed that Governor Williams, in advocating the corporation profits tax, was the only Governor in the country to propose new taxes in 1952.

The Republican-inspired legislative program to alleviate the financial crisis has incurred opposition of local governments. The program calls for recapturing of some state funds now being diverted to local government units. For example, the State Senate reversed itself last week when it approved a house bill cutting local government's share of liquor license fees from 85 to 50 per cent. Reconsideration by three Republican senators, who previously had voted against such reduction of state aid, turned the tide. The bill would put an additional $1,293,000 in the state general fund now beset by red ink.

Another bill in the Republican program, obviously designed to meet the challenge of the governor, would eliminate the three per cent sales tax on liquor sales and would substitute a new specific tax of three per cent whereby $3,500,000 would be added to the state general fund. Since both municipalities and public schools benefit now from sales tax rebates, the recapturing of revenue in this fashion is bound to incur opposition from local governments so effected.

Another proposal by Senator Elmer R. Porter would divert $3 million from the gas and weight tax revenues to help support the State Police highway patrol. Since municipalities share in gas and weight tax revenues, such recapturing also is bound to be unpopular in some quarters.

It is conceded that in a period of rising inflation whereby prices constantly spiral upward there is a consequent need for additional revenues if present public services are to be maintained adequately. Sound evidence exists that the 1951 inflation, benefitting union organized workers primarily, left a large section of the citizens adversely affected by rising prices which they were unable to write off through higher incomes. The predicament is both collective in governments and individuals in taxpayers.

If Republican leaders can hold the line by inducing legislators to favor recapture of present state aid now going to local governments, a solution could be found to the treasury deficit and an answer could be thus provided to the challenge by the governor for a tax on corporation profits. However, this is asking for quite a lot.

Michigan corporations have not been such bad employers despite the proverbial onus of "big business."

It is significant that Michigan, recognized nationally as the nation's leading industrial state in 1950, paid more wages to production workers in average annual earnings than any other state in the nation. In no other state are factory payrolls as important to the economy of an area. Michigan factory workers in 1950 received an average annual earnings of $3,660 for a total of $3.1 billions.

How does Michigan compare with Ohio? Ohio production workers received $3,260 average in 1950. Thus Michigan leads Ohio by 11.2 per cent and exceeded the national average by 24.7 per cent.

As compared with factory earnings of workers in North Carolina, Michigan was 70 per cent higher. The Detroit Board of Commerce recently pointed out that manufacturing was Michigan's greatest resource and that through it, 41 per cent of the people obtained their livelihood.

It was the conclusion of the Citizens Tax Study Committee that a state levy on corporation profits would merely shift additional cost to the consumer in the form ultimately of higher prices. We quote: "In small business as well as big business it is necessary to adjust pricing to tax cost as well as labor and material. In the long run all taxes are borne by the ultimate consumer, as part of the cost of goods and services he buys."

Business leaders conclude that a state levy on corporation profits might be the art of killing the goose to get the golden egg. Michigan's distinction of record high wages adds emphasis to this sound logic.

A possible solution to the financing of tuberculosis sanatoriums from state aid has come up in the Legislature. Rep. Reobert E. Faulkner, Coloma Republican, introduced a bill asking a $750,000 grant to finance a $1,500,000 75-bed tuberculosis hospital in Benton Harbor, on a 50-50 basis, whereby Berrien County would match state funds. If local governments elsewhere offered to match state funds, reconsideration of the entire construction program might be ordered.

A slim peach crop in 1952 has been predicted for Michigan. A drop of 25 per cent below the 10-year normal was attributed to the winter kill of a year ago.

Specialist Gives Lamb Information

"Saving a high percentage of the lamb crop is a must for getting top profits from the sheep enterprise," H. A. Henneman, Michigan State College animal husbandman, told farmers today.
He also gave latest information on how to save more lambs and the new treatment for stiff-lamb disease. A loss of a few hours sleep during lambing will be well repaid and the flock needs frequent observation so you can give help when it's necessary.
Henneman advised farmers to provide plenty of clean bedding and shear around the udder and flanks before lambing time as two important steps in preparation. After the lambs come, disinfect the navel of the new-born animals with iodine to prevent infections. It is important that the lamb receive its first meal within 30 minutes to an hour after birth. A stomach full of warm milk is the best insurance against chilling.

Lamb the ewes in the warmest part of the barn and avoid drafts, Henneman advised. Place ewe and lamb in a four-foot square lambing pen for three days. In cold weather, a brooder consisting of a 100-watt electric light bulb two feet from the floor will prevent chilling of the lamb.

Small Businessman's Tax Return Explained

Last week's article on the preparation of the businessman's return covered the filling out of the first 10 lines of Schedule "C." At that point, the businessman had found the amount of his gross profit.
The businessman's next step is to figure the amount of his net profit or loss. He does this by listing the rest of his business deductions on the remaining lines of the schedule. He then adds up those deductions and subtracts the total from his gross profit. The remaining figure is his net profit or loss.
Other Business Deductions

In general, the businessman's "other business deductions" are the other expenses which he has to pay in running his business. He is also permitted deductions for depreciation and losses of business property and, in some cases, for bad debts. None of his personal deductible expenses such as taxes on his home, contributions to churches and charities, medical expenses, etc., should be listed in this schedule.
On line 11 of Schedule "C" the businessman should enter the full amount of all salaries and wages paid by him to his employees which were not included in "Cost of labor" on line 4 of this schedule. The "full amount" of salaries means the total which he would have paid to his employees if he had not withheld income or social security taxes.

Any rent paid by the taxpayer on business property should be entered on line 12. If the taxpayer carries on his business in a rented building which is also his home, he should deduct only that portion of the rent which is properly chargeable to his business.
Any interest paid (or, in the case of an accrual basis taxpayer, accrued) on "business indebtedness" should be entered on line 13.
Business Taxes

ing business property in usable condition. Amounts spent for improvements or for substantial replacements which prolong the original useful life of the property are capital expenditures and may not be deducted as "repairs." The amounts of such capital expenditures are deductible as depreciation in the same way as the original cost of the property.
The deductions to be taken on lines 18 and 19 of Schedule "C" are specialized deductions and will not be discussed in this article.
Other Expenses
On line 20 the businessman should enter all the rest of his ordinary and necessary business expenses which have not already been listed on lines 11 through 19.
Such "other expenses" include the cost of telephone service, electricity, stationery, postage, insurance premiums, heat, etc. Those expenses should be shown in detail in Schedule I, page 2, Form 1040.
At this point, the taxpayer should add up the amounts entered on lines 11 through 20 and enter the total on line 21. That total should be subtracted from the "gross profit" on line 10, and the difference entered on line 22.
Losses of Business Property
"Losses of business property" should be entered on line 23. Such losses are of the kind caused by fire, flood, storm, etc., or by theft (unless, in the case of theft, the "cost of goods sold" reflects the loss).
The amount of the loss which may be claimed as a deduction is the actual loss sustained. That actual loss is the difference between the cost of the property and the total of (a) depreciation allowed or allowable up to the date of the loss, (b) salvage value, and (c) any insurance recovered.
Net Profit or Loss
The taxpayer next subtracts the amount of his business losses from the figure shown on line 22. The remaining amount is his net profit or loss. It should be entered on line 24 of Schedule "C" and also on line 1, Schedule C, page 2, Form 1040.
If the businessman had a net operating loss in a prior year which he may legally carry over to this year, he should enter it on line 5, Schedule C, page 2, Form 1040, and subtract it from the net profit shown on line 1 of that schedule.
The final profit or loss figure from his business is shown on line 6, Schedule C, page 2, Form 1040. It should be combined with the other income and deductions shown on other parts of Form 1040, for the purpose of completing the return in the ordinary manner.
Self-Employment Tax
This is a new tax. For taxpayers who file their federal income tax returns on the calendar year basis, Continued on page 10.

The Complete Food Mkt.

Inexpensive, waterproof water cement paints, properly applied and cured, will help to keep the interior of your basement walls dry, according to Michigan State College agricultural engineers.

Lower feeding costs, better prices received and smaller death losses mean higher earnings for your dairy herd, say MSC extension dairymen.

It's time for the high cost of living to go on a sit-down strike.

The wise man always profits from the mistakes of others and at their expense.

Use Planned Program For Mastitis Control

A planned mastitis control program will enable you to rid your herd of this costly disease, says Charles Little, Michigan State College extension dairyman. First, test and examine carefully all dairy cows to find their exact status, Little says. Separate infected cows from clean, healthy ones. Dispose of all badly infected cows or those with severely damaged udders. To insure sanitation, the dairyman advises cleaning and disinfecting stalls where cows with any form of mastitis have lived before healthy animals enter. Use superphosphate or lime generously on all stable floors. All replacement cows should be examined before purchase. Raise heifer calves to prevent udder injury and prevent udder sucking so teat seals are not broken. Cows should be stabled in well-bedded stalls, properly constructed to prevent udder injuries. See that all udder and teat injuries are promptly and properly treated. A good milking procedure is important, Little says. Before milking, every cow's udder should be wiped with a cloth moistened with a chlorine solution. Your county agricultural agent can tell you how to make this solution. Discard the foremilk into a strip can. Dip teat cups into two separate pails of chlorine solution before milking each cow when milking by machine. If hand milking, wash hands before milking each cow. Good herd management, prompt and definite diagnosis with early treatment, will save most cases of mastitis, Little says.

Buy More Chicks Economist Advises

Although it might not look logical to farmers now who are looking at their egg checks, Henry Larzelere, poultry economist at Michigan State College, says that it should pay Michigan farmers to buy more baby chicks than they had planned on this year.

Larzelere explains that economists have been predicting for the past several months that unfavorable egg prices would discourage farmers about raising chicks this year. The crop report just out indicates that farmers now intend to buy 10 per cent fewer chicks than a year ago. This lower number of chicks will mean fewer pullets next fall, fewer eggs and higher prices.

By having a good pullet flock coming into production next fall, farmers will be able to take advantage of the good fall prices.

And prices in the winter and spring of 1953 will be higher this year.

In any case, start the chicks as early as possible for greatest profits, Larzelere advises.

Little Stories about Great Hymns

Jesus Saves

We have the joyful sound:
Jesus saves! Jesus saves!
Spread the tidings all around!
Jesus saves! Jesus saves!

Miss Priscilla Owens wrote the words to this hymn for a Baltimore Sunday School to sing in celebration of a missionary anniversary. The melody was written by William J. Kirkpatrick, a Pennsylvania composer who also wrote several of the stirring marching songs used by soldiers in the Civil War. "Jesus Saves" is a favorite today in Evangelistic services, mission meetings, and Sunday School gatherings.

LET'S TALK IT OVER

Ed Vallender - Farm Editor
WBCM Bay City
Red Ink

The figures are out on the Sugar Beet freeze-up of last fall. Just six of the counties have reported in so far. The totals are very impressive.

We've been going off the deep end from time to time about a farmer and his gamble with the weather. The only reason a farmer doesn't go broke—is that he's smart enough not to have all his harvest eggs in one basket. Just for the record—let's take a look at this one.

In six Saginaw Valley counties (not including Bay and Arenac) farmers lost 173 thousand dollars net. In other words, it cost them that much to put the crop in and take care of it up until the time they found they couldn't get it out.

These figures, by the way, are based on acreage of unharvested beets which farmers reported. It can be assumed that some farmers didn't make a report. The net loss, therefore, would be considerably higher.

If Money

If the farmer could have harvested these beets, they'd have collected ONE AND A QUARTER MILLION DOLLARS. That's a staggering sum. To the individual farmer it might mean only a couple of hundred dollars slipping away. The real tragedy lies in the fact that EVERYBODY suffers. That million and a quarter dollars never got to the farmers bank account. It didn't reach the grocery store, the gas station, the appliance dealer, the clothing store. It didn't get anywhere because it never existed. The fickle finger of nature smeared a loss of purchasing power all across Northeastern Michigan.

Token Payment

The Government, through the PMA provides a small dab of balm for these abandoned acres. It is only a tiny fraction of what the farmer actually lost—something like five dollars an acre. But put five dollars an acre against the $180.00 per acre that might have been. The unlucky farmer doesn't even get his seed money back.

Crop Insurance

Several years ago—the Government started experimenting with a deal called "crop insurance." It was tested in a few areas on a representative crop. The farmer bought crop insurance just like he buys life insurance. The whole idea got off to a bad start when disaster hit one section that was heavily insured. Farmers in a couple of counties broke the bank.

Huron - Tuscola A B A Will Conduct Tour

Cooperating dairymen in the Huron-Tuscola A. B. A. will join with their neighbors on March 10 to conduct a tour to the state A. B. A. headquarters, Michigan State College, says Franklin Stoll, inseminator-manager. The tour group will plan to leave from the Shell Gas Station, Unionville, at 9:30 a. m. and will travel in cars. This will be an opportunity to see first hand, proven sires used in the association and to learn more about the operation of your own association, says Stoll.

The USDA men in Washington are still fooling around with the idea—but they'd rather see the whole set-up in the hands of private business, where it probably belongs.

A farmer would be able to sleep a lot better—if he knew come h— or high water, he'd at least break even.
