

School Authorities, Students Plan for Better Curriculum

L. Morris McClure, curriculum consultant from the Department of Public Instruction, visited the Cass City Grade School Friday and discussed current curriculum trends in elementary schools with local teachers.

Among the suggestions offered to the school were that children become better readers when surrounded by an abundance of easy, attractive materials. He told teachers that boys mature more slowly than girls and are found in most remedial groups and that there is a wide range of ability within each age group.

The curriculum, McClure said, should provide for these differences at each age level. A progressive school also provides democratic procedure and group planning that starts at the beginning grades and continues through the entire education of the child, according to McClure.

He said that he was very pleased with the school program in Cass City and agreed to visit the school again to give further assistance on the course of study now being written by the grade teachers under the leadership of Marie Sullivan, grade principal.

In an attempt to make the school's curriculum better, several teachers and students have been attending meetings to discuss the problem.

Arthur Holmberg, high school principal, and five students from Cass City spent Tuesday at Midland High School, where Mr. Holmberg acted as general chairman of a conference of student leaders and school administrators from high schools in east-central Michigan.

At the conference, where 220 students and teachers registered, a regional association of student councils was formed.

Tom Schwaderer, Cass City student president, and Charlyne Bartz, council secretary, were among the officials of the conference.

Other local representatives were Marjorie Holcomb, Jack Connell and Robert Fritz.

Mr. Holmberg has taken the lead in regional student council work as an outgrowth of his service last year as state chairman of the committee on student participation of the Michigan Secondary School Association.

Other teachers who attended a meeting for the betterment of the school curriculum were Superintended on page 12.

Turn on Lights

County deputy, Grant Ball, told the Chronicle today that there has been a series of breaking and entering in the county. To avoid trouble in Cass City, he asks that all businesses leave a light burning on the inside of the building.

A light in a building is one of the best assurances there is against theft, Ball asserted.

Phone Company To Send Nye To Cass City

Mr. T. G. Sowers, Division Manager of Michigan Associated Telephone Company, announced Wednesday the appointment of Carl R. Nye as District Manager of the Cass City District. The appointment will be effective April 1, 1952. Mr. Sowers stated that the placing of a district manager in Cass City would allow closer supervision of the exchanges in the Cass City District and closer attention to problems of expansion and service improvement.

Mr. Nye, previous to the appointment, was Facilities Engineer for the Division with headquarters at Imlay City. He has been with the company since early 1947, when he started as Junior Engineer. He is married and has two children.

Mr. Nye is a native of Boyne City, Michigan, and served with the Air Force during the last war. He intends to make his residence in Cass City in the near future.

W S W S Elects New Officers Friday

The Woman's Society of World Service of Salem E. U. B. Church met Friday afternoon with Mrs. Ben Schwieger, with fourteen present.

Mrs. Edward Helwig conducted devotions and Mrs. S. R. Wurtz reviewed chapters three and four of the study book, "We Americans, North and South."

Women wore aprons, bringing their Lincoln penny offering for Kentucky missions in the pockets.

Officers for the coming year were elected in the business meeting as follows: President, Mrs. S. C. Striffler; vice president, Mrs. Harry Youngs; secretary, Mrs. Ben Schwieger, and treasurer, Mrs. William Joos. Various secretaries elected were: Of spiritual life, Mrs. Ray Silvermail; of missionary education, Mrs. Wurtz; of Christian social relations, Miss Muriel Addison; of young people's work, Mrs. John Zimmecker and of missionary education for children, Mrs. Hollis Seeley.

Two sales are listed for Monday, March 31. Edwin Stackley will sell his dairy herd at his farm, four miles west and one and one-quarter miles south of Pigeon. O. H. ### Council Briefs

The council voted to renew the $10,000 bond for Village Treasurer Wilma Fry. The bond costs the village $80 per year.

The council assured Grant Ball, representing the Gavel Club, that the village would go along with the club on plans for softball in the village this year. Primary cost to the club will be for the lights, according to present plans.

Discussing a police radio in the village, the council reaffirmed its position that it would wait until such time as the village owned a car to place it in.

A formal agreement between the village school board for the use of the facilities at the Cass City Recreational Park was O. K'd by the council and should be signed by the school board in a few days. Cost to the school will be $800 per school year, plus light charges and other incidental expenses.

The annual paint-up, fix-up, clean-up week will be April 21-26 this year in Cass City. The date was set by president, Cliff Croft.

Ray Fleener appeared before the council Tuesday night to ask that the dirt be cleaned from Houghton Street. Dirt has been left on the street by work done on the sewer and keeps the street dirty. Mr. Fleener said that when it rains, it's all mud and when it's dry, it blows dust through the homes on the street.

"I thought that this year I would ask early for the work so that the council would have all spring to work on it," Fleener said.

Bud Burt, village engineer, said that the reason the dirt hadn't been removed was that it would be a useless task until the work had settled.

Star in Junior Class Play

Tim Burdon and Bill Martus, two husky athletes from the junior class at Cass City High School, play featured roles in the hilarious comedy, "Good Night Ladies," to be presented at the auditorium April 3 and 4. The pair play the part of Aunt Flora and Aunt Barbara Stevens, two dear sweet old ladies with lace at their throats and deceit in their hearts, when they act as chaperones of a college dormitory for girls.

The story involves the Raleigh family and the heavily mortgaged house they are about to lose. To save their home, the Raleigh children (Joan Holmberg, Kathleen Auten and Bill Martus) make elaborate plans to turn it into a college dormitory for girls, in spite of the active opposition of peevish Dean Eggleby (Annette Pinney). The real aunts, who were to have been the required chaperones, fail to arrive and you can guess the rest.

Important supporting roles are played by Dick Auslander, Don Tuckey, Marjorie Holcomb, Roy Wagg, Valerie Deering, Delphine Iseler and Colleen Ryan.

Council Votes to Limit Nestles' Waste Disposal

On advice from their consulting engineers, Hubbel, Roth and Clark of Detroit, the Council unanimously passed a resolution Tuesday night stating that the village will not accept over 300 pounds of waste from the Nestles' Company in Cass City.

That is the maximum amount that can be handled by the village with conversion of the existing filter to a high rate recirculating type of filter. The move was the result of a four-day study of the Water Resources Commission of the waste disposal at the Nestles' plant.

It was made necessary by the demand of the Commission that Cass City clear up its stream pollution problem. The village has until Jan. 1, 1953, to submit plans for an adequate system.

Two other milk plants in the village, Wesley Milk Co., and Freiburger's Creamery, are also slated to be checked, although it is believed that the waste disposal problem at these two concerns is not as acute as the problem at Nestles.

Cass City Music Groups Win Top Honors Saturday

Both Cass City groups that entered the sub-district Choir and Glee Club Festival at the Cass City High School Saturday received a superior rating, making them eligible to enter the state festival at Mt. Pleasant, May 10, according to music director, Don Borg.

Seven schools entered 13 groups in the sub-district meet at Cass City Saturday and many of them qualified for the state meet. A rating of superior or excellent was needed to qualify, Borg said.

The two groups from Cass City that qualified with the top rating were: Mrs. Borg's Junior High Girls' Glee Club and the High School Girls' Glee Club.

Other schools to receive the superior rating were: Caro Girls' Glee Club, Caro Junior High Glee Club and Marlette Choir.

Excellent ratings were awarded to Sebawa Girls' Glee Club, Sandusky Girls' Glee Club, Bad Axe Girls' Glee Club and Caro Choir.

Harbor Beach did not compete for a chance to enter the state festival.

Many Attend Spring 4-H Achievement

More than 700 persons were on hand to witness the climax of the spring 4-H achievement Saturday afternoon at Fairgrove High School, according to George C. MacQueen, county 4-H club agent.

A committee consisting of Mrs. Alan Kirk, Fairgrove, Mrs. Fredrick Brauer, Vassar, and Mrs. Corinne Ketchum, assistant state 4-H club leader, Michigan State College, bestowed the 1952 dress revue honors upon Wave Socier, 15, Unionville, and Norine Cramer, 16, Akron.

Miss Socier is a member of the Wonder Workers 4-H Club and has Mrs. Maurice Weisenberg, Mrs. Alex Liberacki and Mrs. Wilfred Sellers as leaders. Miss Cramer is a member of the Akron-Santee 4-H Club of which Mrs. Bertha Achenbach is leader. Both girls were enrolled in the complete costume division of their clothing work. Miss Socier's garment was described as a tan Indian head pattern outfit with a hat and over-the-shoulder bag to match.

Miss Cramer modeled a white organdy formal. Both winners were presented a carnation corsage with the compliments of Aymer's Florist, Fairgrove. These girls will carry the colors of Tuscola County to the Club Week Dress Revue at Michigan State College in June.

Several area entries were on the dress revue honor roll: Clothing III—Betty Lou King, Caro. Complete Costume—Theresa Werde-man, Cass City; Lenora Peck, Bedford; Martha Dowling, Caro; Kay Henderson, Kingston; and the two dress revue winners.

More than 800 girls participated in the dress revue program. The first two years' clothing girls had their own program Saturday morning. Miss Jean Gillies, county home demonstration agent, narrated the entire revue, the theme of which was Blossom Time.

The 4-H electrical honor roll was read by Wes Raven of the Detroit Edison office, Caro. Exhibits chosen to go to the State 4-H Show from the area in August were: Electricity I—Grace Donnelly, Cass City; lamp. Electrical 3—Kenneth Pike, Caro.

Others on the honor roll included: Handicraft 2—Romey Kapovich, Caro. The handicraft exhibits to go to state shows were announced by Nevels Pearson, assistant state 4-H leader. They included: Jack Lanrie, Cass City, vice and clothesline reel, and Lester O'Dell, Cass City, clothespin basket and vice.

Cass City Grange

The meeting of the Cass City Grange, held Friday evening in the Bird schoolhouse, was very well attended. A committee of men served a chicken supper preceding the business meeting and program.

For the program, musical numbers were enjoyed which were given by Marjorie Stahlbaum and Joyce McLellan, pupils of Mrs. Sam Blades at the Stone school and by Donna and Diane Moore, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Moore. Audrey Rawson then told the group of current happenings around the State capital.

Assessed Valuation For Village Shows Increase for 1952

The assessed valuation for Cass City in 1952 is $43,150.00 higher than it was in 1951, according to figures turned in to the council by village assessor, Harold Jackson, Tuesday night.

The total assessed valuation of the village this year is $1,813,050.00. Of this amount, $1,439,000.00 was assessed against real estate and $374,050 against personal property.

In 1951, the total assessed valuation was $1,769,900.00, of which $1,399,050 was real estate and $370,850 personal property.

The council voted to leave the mill rate at 15, the same as it was in 1951.

Leadership Training School Successful

The sessions of the Leadership Training School, sponsored by the Cass City Council of Churches, was concluded Thursday, March 27.

According to the pastors, Rev. M. R. Vender, dean of the school, and Rev. S. R. Wurtz, registrar, the school has been a real success. Teachers and leaders of the churches enrolled have been securing some valuable help for their work of teaching in various departments of the church school; others are taking the course on "Protestant Faith" for general instruction. Thirty-three are enrolled as follows:

From the Evangelical United Brethren Church, 6; Presbyterian, 10; and from the Cass City and Gagetown Methodist Churches, 17. The instructors, Miss Doris Adams, Rev. Albert Kunz and Rev. Floyd Porter on "Teaching Children," "Teaching Youth," and "The Protestant Faith," respectively.

Five Local Students Attend Regional Meet

Cass City High School's Student Council was represented by five members and their faculty adviser at a regional Student Council Conference held at Midland Senior High School Tuesday, March 25.

More than two-hundred students and their sponsors, representing about forty high schools in Region two of the Michigan Education Association, were in attendance at the meeting. Its primary purpose was to set up a regional association.

The Midland Student Council, host to the sessions, made the arrangements for the meetings. Dr. E. E. Britton, Midland Superintendent of Schools, gave the keynote address on the subject, "Seeds Also Grow." Seven student discussion groups and one for the faculty sponsors were held during the remainder of the morning. Tom Schwaderer, Cass City Council president, and Charlyne Bartz, secretary, served as leader and recorder of one of these groups. Others who attended from the local school were Bob Fritz, Jack Connell and Marjorie Holcomb.

A nominations committee and a constitution committee made arrangements.—(Concluded on page 12.)

President Asks Council For New Three-year Plan

Scouts Speak at Rotary Luncheon

Several scouts, together with scoutmaster, Harold Oatley, were guests of the Cass City Rotary Club at the regular Tuesday noon luncheon meeting at the New Gordon Hotel.

Rotarians, who sponsor the scouts in Cass City, heard the boys and their leader tell what was required for the various classes of scouting and their activities each summer at Camp Rotary.

Scouts at the meeting were: Bob McEachern, patrol leader; Chuck Patterson, scribe; Dick Hamby, patrol leader; Bob Baker, senior patrol leader; Jim Ellis, patrol leader; and Colin Connell, patrol leader.

Keith McConkey conducted the program. He is an assistant in the scouting activities here. Others connected with the scouting program as adult leaders are Gilbert Albee and George Clara.

Evangelist

Rev. S. C. Walton.

Rev. S. C. Walton, conference evangelist of the Michigan conference of the EUB Church, will begin his series in Cass City Sunday.

He will be at the E. U. B. Church until Holy Week, when he will be the guest speaker for the Cass City Council of Churches.

The Holy Week schedule: Sunday at the E. U. B. Church, Monday at the Methodist Church, Tuesday at the Presbyterian Church and Wednesday at the E. U. B. Church.

Thursday, each of the churches will hold their own Communion service.

Friday, union services will be held at the E. U. B. Church and Easter Sunday service will be held all day at the E. U. B. Church.

In the first meeting of the Cass City Village Council since the election, President Cliff Croft asked the council to start forming a three-year plan for activities in the village.

The new long-range planning should be done by committees budgeting their estimated finances and working out projects to be carried on over this period, the president said.

Then each new council could add a year when they meet to formulate plans and the village would always be working with a mapped campaign ahead of them.

The 1952 committees, as appointed by the president, are: Police department, Clifford A. Croft, chief; street and sidewalk, M. C. McLellan, chairman, and Arlan Hartwick, chairman, and Arlan Hartwick; park and pool, James Bauer, chairman, and Arlan Hartwick; building and lights, Leonard Damm, chairman, and Ben Benkelman and finance and budget, including purchasing, Benkelman, chairman, and Damm.

Other committees include: Sewer and water, Hartwick, chairman, and Curtis Hunt; dump ground, McLellan, and on the local improvements committee which includes stream control and sewage disposal, Hunt will be chairman and McLellan and Bauer assistants.

President pro-tem will be McLellan and Leo Ware was appointed to replace Hunt on the zoning board of appeal. Hunt was replaced because two members from the village council are not allowed on the board. Other members of the board are: McLellan, Ernie Schwaderer, Frank Reid and John Sandham.

Venders Meet Gov. Williams at Seminar

The Rev. and Mrs. Melvin R. Vender were in Lansing Monday and Tuesday to attend a legislative seminar sponsored by the Michigan Council of Churches.

The Seminar started when the group met the governor and other state officials and legislators prior to the banquet Monday.

Included in the itinerary of Rev. and Mrs. Vender were the following meetings: Attending a session of the legislature, a seminar session led by a professor from the political science department at Michigan State College, visiting with individual representatives and senators and a luncheon with party leaders.

Tuesday afternoon the group attended sessions of the legislature, and a seminar was held in the evening at 8:00.

There was also a program on Wednesday that the Venders were unable to attend.

Prospects Bright for Hawks In Baseball, Track Competition

Spring sports are in full swing at Cass City High School as athletes have begun practice for Upper Thumb competition in both baseball and track.

Both teams show promise of having a better than average squad, but both have been weakened through graduation of some of their better players.

In baseball, coach Irv. Claseman will have seven letter winners back to build his team. Heading the list will be Gerald Whittaker, senior pitcher, who posted a 9-2 record last year as the Hawks ran second to Elkton in league competition. Another pitcher on the squad is John Ellis who has to overcome wildness to reach his full effectiveness.

Bob Wallace, who was a regular in the outfield last year, may be shifted to the infield. He could develop into a better than average stickier this season.

Tim Burdon and Pete Martin will fight it out for the first base post. Martin is the better hitter of the two, but Burdon has been a good fielding player. The loser may possibly be transferred to the outfield.

Tom Schwaderer, one of the best defensive players in the league, is practically certain to be a starter when the umpire hollers "play ball." Coach Claseman is trying to make a catcher out of him to bolster the weakest spot on the club. If this fails, he'll be back in his familiar center field spot.

Benefit Party

at American Legion hall, April 3, at eight o'clock.—Adv. 1t.

Another player that should make the grade this year is Maynard Helwig. An infielder, Helwig has a strong throwing arm, but moves slowly and could be a better hitter.

Other candidates for one of the nine positions include: Russ Foy, Graydon Agar, LeRoy Hoag, Dean Hoag, Lyle Ludlow, Don Tuckey, Ray Spaulding and Dick Mallory.

The team has a good looking freshman group that may produce a valuable addition to the team this year.

Despite the loss of such stalwarts as Lee Hartel, Ben Hobart, Eugene Kloc, Alfred Murray, Leslie Townsend and Chuck Watson, the Cass City track squad promises to be in the running again for the Upper Thumb and county track meets which they won in 1951.

Coach Art Paddy has ten returning lettermen to build his squad around, plus the addition of freshmen and others who failed to make letters last year.

Returning are the following juniors who won letters last year: Don Bartle, Tim Burdon, Stanley Guinther, Arleon Kelley, Dean Kritzman, Bill Martus and Bob Wallace.

Only two seniors are listed as letter winners. Tom Schwaderer, who competes in the hi-jump, sprints, hurdles and relay, is one, and the other is Edward Nemeth who runs the 880.

Bill Stahlbaum is the only sophomore on the squad who won a letter in his freshman year. He ran the 440.

♦ LET'S TALK IT OVER ♦

Contracts
Something unusual happens when a farmer starts debating whether he should include sugar beets in his planting plans. In the first place, he doesn't go it alone from the time he begins his thinking on the subject. Any time after the first of the year, he can expect a call from the Company Fieldman. The Fieldman's job is to sign up as many acres as possible. This is his winter and spring assignment.

From here on out the farmer works closely with the Company. When he signs the contract he has the assistance of the Fieldman, the Company, an employment recruiting agency and the Government. He can get his seed and fertilizer on the cuff. He can put off paying the hand labor until he gets his first check. To boil the whole thing down, the sugar beet set-up and the relationship between the Company and the farmer is unparalleled in any other major crop.

Grudge
The farmer has to make up his own mind about every decision made during the year, except beets.

If he lets his place go to weeds and he winds up in the poorhouse, no one can stop him. He doesn't get any advice on how many acres of oats, wheat, beans, barley, corn, or any other crop to plant. He's in business strictly on his own, except for beets.

So, if the farmer wants to pick a fight with somebody, wants to show his displeasure at the Government, the draft, prices, or the way the wife cooks supper, there's only one man he can turn on. That's the Company Fieldman and the Company.

Beets take less hand labor than potatoes, are harder than any other high value cash crop. Beets will survive flood and drought. They take less nutrients from the ground than beans or alfalfa. Beets have been the one high value crop that farmers can depend on, year after year. Some farmers in this area have an unbroken record of beets contracts for 30, 40 and 50 years.

History
We in this country are not short of sugar. We have enough sugar for our own needs and some left over. The day is not too far distant when the government may invoke the Sugar Act now on the books and specify how many acres each area can plant. When this happens, the Company has no choice in the matter but to allot acreage contracts to those farmers who have been regularly growing beets. Everybody in the industry says this day is coming. The farmer with no history of beets will be left out in the cold.

Tie up
The relationship between farmer, Sugar Beet Company and the city man is a well-nigh perfect one. Here is a splendid example of an agricultural crop harvested and processed in a community to the benefit of all.

In safe guarding the future of income potential in Northeastern Michigan, each farmer should think very carefully about signing a sugar-beet contract.

Lets look ten and twenty years ahead. We've lost control of the bean market. What high value cash crop could take the place of beets?

X-Ray Finish

The finish on X-ray apparatus is extremely important. Not only must it be durable, because much of it is in daily use over long periods of time, but it must be impervious to alcohol, water, barium and other diagnostic solutions. The surfaces must also be smooth so that they can be kept spotlessly clean. The color used must be neutral in tone so that it will blend well with the variety of color schemes to be found in doctors' offices, clinics and hospitals.

Fewer Farmers to Feed More People

Farmers are advised to endeavor to plant with intentions of getting increased yields of crops this year, making full use of fertilizer, good seed, equipment and disease and insect control.

In feeding livestock and dairy, more efficient production will be even more important than in years when feed supplies were more plentiful, the economist thinks.

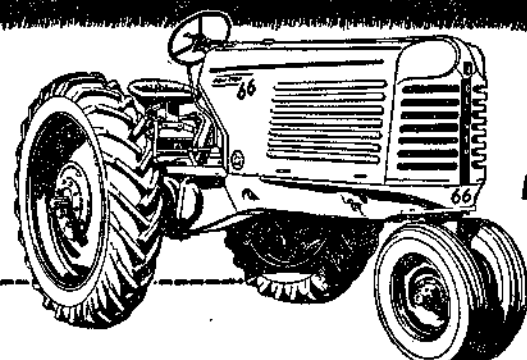

With little new land to break up,

Michigan State College agricultural economics specialists say increased production must come from increased efficiency and not more acres.

With fewer farmers to feed an even greater number of people it will mean more efficient production per man, reports John Doneth, MSC agricultural economist.

Michigan Mirror

As Michigan's political machinery clatters on toward the November elections, it is somewhat obscured by the fierce battle for the presidential nomination.

But in this state a new element has been introduced to the strange alchemy which is politics. Michigan Republicans are booming for a constitutional convention.

Doesn't sound too significant—but if a constitutional convention is approved, it will be the third time in the state's history such a device has been used to get out from under an otherwise untenable situation.

And the Republicans are roaring that such a situation now is evident. "I mean," says Victor A. Knox (R-Sault Ste. Marie) speaker of the house of representatives, "how untenable can you get?"

Rep. Knox is the father of House Bill No. 432 which provides that the question of whether a "con-con" shall be called to be put on the ballot next November. The craggy, featured veteran representative, who at 53 rules the house firmly with his hickory gavel, says flatly that something must be done to revise the tax structure of the state.

As quoted before in this column, Rep. Knox wants state taxes and local taxes completely divorced so the state can quit being the collection agency for local units.

"The way things are going," he says reflectively, "the general fund just can't keep up with the cost of government and the legislature can't adjust to this trend because of provisions in the constitution."

The proposed bill he is backing provides for a referendum on the question, election of three delegates from each senatorial district and submitting of any proposed constitution back to the people for approval.

On the other side of the political ledger, however, sit the democrats, who are demanding reapportionment before the constitutional convention is considered. Rep. Ed Carey (D-Detroit) says, without batting an eye, "if we had a legislature with guts, we could get a lot of this work done without a constitutional convention."

"This is a negative outfit," he said. "They can't live up to the constitution as it stands so they'll want a new one. It's not the Republicans as individuals that condone this situation, but that little policy group which seems to be running the show."

He too is, and has been for years, bucking for reapportionment. If the state were reapportioned prior to a convention, it would probably mean the Democrats would gain two more senatorial districts—six more delegates to the convention which probably wouldn't throw anything their way.

That is assuming, of course, that anything accomplished in such a constitutional convention would follow party lines. There are those who feel that delegates to such a convention would be Michiganders first and politicians second.

Sen. Harold M. Ryan (D-Detroit) while favoring reapportionment—and what Detroiters doesn't—felt that the integrity of con-con delegates would transcend the tawdry skirts of political maneuvering. "I certainly would like to see reapportionment first," he said, "but not if it's going to take a long time." Senator Ryan's district with half million people would have three delegates to the convention the same as Sen. Leo H. Roy's UP district which has only 65,000 population.

Rep. Howard R. Estes (R-Birmingham), whose opinions usually are heard with a good deal of attention, says he feels a constitutional convention would avoid politics as such. "First," he points out, "delegates to such a convention would not be career politicians. Most districts would turn to their lawyers, their educators and men who know and understand the problems of the state. Pressure groups? Sure they'll be rifle around the fringes, but I feel the caliber of men who would be sent to the convention precludes any more discussion of that subject."

What are the possibilities of a constitutional convention being called? The governor could veto the bill. He's over a barrel the size of Briggs stadium. A veto hints at distrust of the people—a fatal attitude for a "grass roots governor."

But there is another gimmick. A constitutional convention must be approved by a majority of the people voting. Balloting history offers a pessimistic side to con-con backers. Rarely—or never—has a majority of the voters put the X mark on any issue requiring a separate ballot sheet. Not even the veterans bonus bill in 1946.

Reapportionment? Dead as a door nail, to all appearances. The last reapportionment bill before the legislature has been tabled and a motion to remove it from the table has been tabled—if that makes sense. The house of representatives was taking no chances on that hot potato.

Democrats are circulating petitions to get reapportionment on the November ballot. They want 250,000 signatures. That means they must get some 6,000 signers per day to get the petitions filed the required 35 days before the election.

Now assuming there will be a constitutional convention authorized by the people to meet "on the first Tuesday of September of the year next succeeding," what will be discussed.

None is making any predictions—overall. Taxes, to be sure, will be the primary object. To revise the taxing system and put the state back in the black. Reapportionment surely would be on the agenda and some means of releasing funds now tied up by being earmarked would come up—but that's as far as anyone will go.

"Perhaps the people don't want a constitutional convention," says Rep. Knox, "but if they don't, we have to assume they expect new taxes. They should at least have a choice."

Use Grass, Legume In Soil Management

Those who look lightly upon the value of grass and legume crops in good soil management need only to recall how the good, highly-productive prairie land soils of the United States and other nations were formed.

Michigan State College soil scientists say our best soils are in the areas where grass was a native crop. Maintaining productivity of good soil is difficult without the use of grass and legumes in a rotation or as a cover and green manure crop.

The MSC soils authorities contend that the nitrogen put into the soil by the legumes is not the only value. Roots of the legume and grass penetrate deeply into the subsoil structure and improved aeration and drainage.

By using the right combination of "good farming with good grass" it is possible to build up the soil, reduce erosion, improve drainage and provide good livestock feed. Use of grasses and legumes in all fields at least one year out of five is important in good farming. In land with greater slope, grass and legume crops are more important and should be left for a longer period of time.

The Tuscola County Beekeepers' Association met March 20 at the courthouse in Caro. E. C. Martin, specialist in apiculture, Michigan State College, and Don Barrett, Michigan apiary inspector, discussed the importance of the honeybee in Michigan agriculture. They pointed out that it would be impossible to obtain a crop of alfalfa or clover seed if it were not for the bees and other pollinating insects. The fruit industry is another example where the fruit grower must depend entirely upon the activity of bees to pollinate his fruit. Few farmers realize the importance of the honeybee for purposes other than the production of honey.

Avoid Cure-Alls
In Fertilizer

Saginaw—The "Old Medicine Man" is invading the fertilizer field with "Patent cure-all" mixtures promised to phenomenally increase crop yields, declares the Farmers and Manufacturers Beet Sugar Association. But they warn farmers not to be misled by such propaganda.

Be fertilizer-wise and make your fertilizer dollars pay by buying according to the three main plant food elements—nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium—listed on the bag, says the Association. Farmers should buy fertilizer mainly for these elements, and not as "soil conditions."

Use Treated Seed For Disease Control

There are several crop diseases that can't be controlled during the growing season—they can only be controlled by eliminating the carrier, by seed treatment and crop rotation.

Ed Andrews, Michigan State College plant disease specialist, points out an example. During 1951, yellow spot is a fungus disease of wheat leaves and occurred on wheat that was planted in the same field for two or more years in a row.

Smut, head blight and root rot of cereal grains are other diseases that cannot be controlled during the growing season—seed treatment is the answer. In most years these seed-borne diseases together cause far heavier losses than powdery mildew and the rusts, Andrews says.

The plant disease specialist said that uniform tests by research workers in many experiment stations have shown that there are several new mercury fungicides now available that are effective. These same tests also show that some materials advertised as seed treatments do not control disease.

He suggests that you discuss your disease control program with your county agricultural agent. The county agent will have a list of proved effective seed treatment materials.

Increased costs and needs for higher production make disease losses especially costly this year. Seed treatment is one effective method of helping assure good returns from expensive seed, fertilizer and labor.

Rev. Baring-Gould said of his writing this stirring hymn, "Whitmonday is a great day for school festivals in Yorkshire. One Whitmonday our school was to join a neighboring village. I wanted the children to sing while marching to this village but could think of nothing suitable, so I resolved to write something myself. Written in great haste, I am afraid some rhymes are faulty. Certainly nothing has surprised me more than its popularity." Rev. Baring-Gould died in 1924 at the ripe age of 90.

Stahlbaum Receives "Boot" Training

Jack W. Stahlbaum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack C. Stahlbaum of Cass City, is now undergoing training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif.

The 17-year-old former Cass City High School student enlisted in the Marine Corps at Detroit, Michigan, recently.

During the eight-week "Boot Camp," as recruit training is commonly called, Private Stahlbaum will become well versed in such basic military subjects as precision drill, first aid, Marine Corps history and mission and field tactics.

Three weeks of the training period is spent at the Camp Matthews Rifle Range, situated 15 miles north of San Diego. While there, Private Stahlbaum will fire the .30 caliber Garand rifle, .45 caliber pistol, carbine and Browning Automatic Rifle. He will also receive indoctrination firing with the light and heavy machine guns, 60 and 81 mortars, flame throwers, and the latest type bazookas. Under a newly adopted training program he will also receive instructions in throwing live hand grenades.

Stahlbaum was employed by the S. T. & H. Oil Co. in Cass City before reporting for service with the Marine Corps.

Upon completion of recruit training, he will be granted a 10-day leave and, if he has maintained a good record, will be promoted to Private First Class. He will then be assigned to a Marine post or station for duty or to a Marine Corps School for advance training.
