Other Class "B" bands were judged as follows: Bad Axe, division II; Vassar, division II, and Sandusky, division IV.

In Class "C" competition, Elkton and Pigeon were judged top bands and Marlette received a division II rating.

Shabbona Extension On Mystery Tour

Nineteen members of the Shabbona Extension Club were entertained Tuesday, March 25, on a mystery tour planned by Mrs. Robert Burns, Mrs. Clare Auslander and Mrs. Elwyn McNaughton.

The group found out, after travelling a few miles, that their destination on the trip was to be Saginaw.

The first stop on the trip was at radio station WSAM where Mr. Douglas and Mr. Finger ably explained how a radio station operates. The group also met "Aunt Ida," who conducts a homemakers' program.

After the visit to the radio station, the touring group went to the Saginaw County T. B. and Contagious Hospital. Miss McLellan welcomed the group at the door and explained how the hospital functioned. After the explanation, the group toured the hospital and saw the many different departments in a modern hospital. Included were: laundry, heating plant, storeroom, paint and wood shop, mattress sterilizer, iron lungs, classrooms, annex and the dining room where the group were served a luncheon.

Two physicians at the hospital, Dr. Volk, superintendent of the hospital, and Dr. Staley gave brief accounts of their work.

Mr. Dankers from the Saginaw Chamber of Commerce, who planned the trip for the extension club, briefly addressed the group at the hospital.

After the visit at the hospital, the group toured the Saginaw News where Mr. Lund and Mr. Smith of the News' staff explained newspaper procedure.

The tour was concluded with a tour of the better homes. The group arrived at Shabbona at 6:00 p. m., after the all-day outing.

Past History

More than seven centuries ago, Korea was compelled by Mongol conquerors to provide a fleet of ships for an invasion of Japan. After two disastrous defeats, the Mongolian "Golden Horde" gave up and turned westward toward Europe.

You Can Chalk It Up

Need a blackboard in your home for family memos or for Junior's art work? You can paint a blackboard onto a plaster wall that can be easily cleansed of chalk marks with a damp cloth. Prepare the surface as you would for flat paint, then apply a coating of flat paint in the color your board is to be. Most blackboard coatings come in black, but some are available in deep green. Two coats of the blackboard coating will suffice. Paints of this type usually contain an abrasive to eliminate chalk "squeaks."

New Alkyds Beneficial

Important ingredients of today's flat wall paints are the new alkyds. These resins impart better washability and have excellent color retention.

Sponsor 4-H, FFA Sugar Beet Projects

The Caro plant of the Michigan Sugar Company and the Caro Beet Growers' Association are again jointly sponsoring the 4-H and FFA sugar beet project, says George C. MacQueen, county 4-H Club Agent. Young beet growers will find this program attractive and a worthwhile undertaking. The two sponsoring groups have long been interested in young farmers and farmerettes of Tuscola County and have spent a great deal of thought and effort towards improving this program.

Application for the program by the member, identification of beets on a tour, exhibiting three beets at the Tuscola County Fair, and reporting on the project are the four major phases of the work. In turn the member receives a reimbursement for all seed used up to 5 lbs. per acre, all the cost of the fertilizer over 300 lbs. per acre up to 500 lbs. per acre, and a banquet in December. As an attempt to make the program more attractive, the sponsors are offering four individual trophies this year. These will be awarded to the 4-H or FFA individuals on the basis of a score card. Values will be considered on the field inspection report, 20 points; exhibit, 20 points; cultural practices, 20 points; report, 30 points; and if a green manure crop was used as a plowdown within the past 2 years, 10 points.

Gilbert Smith, manager of the Caro plant, and Elmer Haines, Vassar, president of the Beet Growers' Association, explained that the field inspection report will be made by the fieldman and the trophies would be permanent possession of the winners each year.

The 4-H club agent pointed out that many high school graduates have been able to attend college because of their earnings from such a project as this.

Further information can be received by members from the local fieldman, vocational agriculture teacher, local 4-H club leader, or the county 4-H club agent, courthouse, Caro.

For Dry Foundation
Masonry and concrete require protection from the weather—and especially from water. Stucco houses can absorb as much as one ton of water during a rain. Cement block basements can hold more than two tons of water in the walls. As it penetrates to the inside of the walls above ground, it can cause the blistering of paint and the destruction of plaster. It is, consequently, the greatest wisdom to make such masonry surfaces water-repellent by painting them.

Couple Speak Vows In Bad Axe Church

In a double ring ceremony performed by Rev. Spencer at seven-thirty o'clock Saturday evening in the Presbyterian Church in Bad Axe, Miss Burk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burk of Royal Oak, and a former student in the schools here, became the bride of Donald McTaggart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McTaggart of Bad Axe.

Attendants were Miss Mary Ann Barnes of Royal Oak and Harold McTaggart, brother of the bridegroom. The 200 guests were seated by John Marko, Manley J. Endersbee and Neil McTaggart.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white velvet with which she wore a tiara of satin and seed pearls which held her veil in place. Her flowers were an arrangement of orchids and carnations. Miss Barnes wore a floor length lavender dress with matching headress. She carried yellow carnations.

Mrs. Burk wore an evening blue taffeta dress with matching flowers in her hair. Mrs. McTaggart was attired in a spring suit of light taupe gabardine with an empress hat of the same shade.

Mrs. Spencer, as soloist, sang "I Love You Truly" and was accompanied by Mrs. Clyde Day.

A reception in the church dining room followed the rites and women of the church served a chicken supper at tables decorated with bouquets of carnations. For the reception program, Mrs. Van Stone of Bad Axe served as master of ceremonies and contributed a reading. Don Howard of Bad Axe gave a monologue and the three Gray sisters from Port Huron sang "Let The Rest of the World Go By" and "Always" accompanied by Mrs. Stanley Endersbee. Ella Vance entertained by reciting several poems, some original.

Guests from a distance came from New York, Ontario, Detroit, Rochester, Royal Oak, Port Huron and Alpena.

Following a week's trip to Niagara Falls and Eastern States, the couple will make their home in Detroit.

Closet Colors Important
Careful attention is being given, these days, to the color treatment of closets. When the closet door is opened, the closet should present paint colors that harmonize well with the room interior or that contrast with it in interesting fashion.

Bookmaking
The art of bookmaking reached its height in the monasteries of Europe during the Middle Ages. Manuscript work was done in writing rooms, called "scriptoria," where master copyists worked painstakingly "with rich reds and blues and precious bits of thin, heated gold leaf," to illuminate exquisite, hand-lettered manuscripts.

Blind Still Bikes

Danny Megwan, 20-year-old Indian youth, who has been totally blind since the age of three, still pedals a bicycle around the streets of Gore Bay, Ontario. It is said that in his mind he carries an extremely accurate map of the Gore Bay area on which is charted every road, path, fence, bridge, etc. He stops at side of street when he hears an auto coming.

Western Exposure

Rooms with a western exposure are generally the warmest—particularly during the afternoon. For this reason, it is usually wise to select cool colors for their walls and woodwork. When choosing your paint color, remember that, towards evening, the light becomes soft and seems to mellow all colors. Earlier, it is brilliant and will make a great color change in your room unless soft tones have been selected.

Little Stories about Great Hymns*Abide With Me

Abide with me, fast falls the eventide;
The darkness deepens, Lord with me abide.
When other helpers fail, and comforts flee,
Help of the helpless, O abide with me.

On the day of his farewell service, in the year of his death, Henry F. Lyte walked along the shore to watch the setting sun. Returning home, he shut himself in his study for a brief hour and composed this inspired hymn. His clear and powerful analysis of false worldly values, and the ultimate dependence on God's guidance has made this one of the most loved of all hymns.

Agent Says Sugar Beets Profitable

At this time when farmers are planning their farming operations for 1952, it may be profitable to consider sugar beet prospects for the year. County Agricultural Agent Alfred P. Ballweg, says these prices will determine whether sugar beets will continue to be a good cash crop.

Raw sugar prices have increased about 25 cents a hundred in recent weeks at the time when other farm commodities have failed to hold earlier gains. Officials of the U. S. Department of Agriculture have given assurances of an intent to keep these prices at a high level to encourage domestic production.

With mechanical weeding, thinning and blocking equipment and mechanical harvesters reducing the hand labor involved in sugar beet production, many farmers have found the sugar beet labor problem greatly improved.

A comet increases in brilliancy as it approaches the sun.

At one time the term "journeyman painter" was thought to have originated from the fact that during the Renaissance, painters journeyed from country to country with their brushes and secretly blended paints. Now, it develops that the word is derived from the French word, "jour," meaning day. All workers were known as day laborers. "Journey," incidentally, was a day's walk between two points.

NOTES

from the

TUSCOLA

COUNTY EXTENSION OFFICE

"I plan to plant 55 acres to beets in 1952," says Fred Black, of Wisner Township. "It is a little less acreage than last year but my rotation program just worked out that way. If farmers will accept spring mechanization, they can do much to lick the labor problem. I have always found beets to be a profitable crop," said Black.

Elmer Haines, of Vassar, a Tuscola County beet grower, expressed concern about farmers not signing up for beets this year. "We hope it will improve," says Haines, because sugar beets have been a part of our farming program for a half century. We must grow sugar beets to keep our factories operating."

Members of County Extension

Advisory Board will meet with Extension Staff April 3rd to review county extension program. The Advisory Board represents agriculture, 4-H and home extension work.

Plans will be discussed Wednesday evening, April 3, at 8:00 at the Wilber Memorial 4-H Building on how to correlate the conservation projects, says George C. MacQueen, county 4-H club agent. Representatives of all the different phases of conservation—soil and water, wildlife and forestry, will be on hand to help. All 4-H conservation members and their club leaders and others are invited to attend.

A county-wide 4-H tractor club meeting will be held Tuesday evening, April 8, at the Wilber Memorial 4-H Building at 8:00. At this time plans will be made to organize this program. Tractor club members, their leaders, all implement dealers and friends are urged to attend. Maintenance of our machinery, especially tractors, is vital today, says George C. MacQueen. These items represent a great investment in modern day farming and should be in serviceable condition at all times. If a tractor cannot render maximum service, then a farmer is losing money on his investment which includes the tractor and the crop, livestock or market concerned. Each county is allowed one representative to compete at the State 4-H Show in August in the plowing and tractor handling contests. County events must be held first to determine this. Every farm youngster should know something about proper tractor maintenance and care.

April 8 is the date set for program planning for home economics extension groups, says Miss Jean E. Gillies, county home demonstration agent. Chairman, vice chairman, and council member or pro-

Roughage, Pasture Cut Grain Needs

Liberal feeding of high quality roughage and use of good pastures for the longest possible period of time make an economically sound feeding program for Michigan dairymen to follow, especially in 1952 with high feed grain costs.

Since dairy animals are efficient users of roughage feeds, it is possible to conserve feed grain supplies and reduce the feed cost of milk production with lots of roughage and a minimum amount of grain. Following are some suggestions offered by Michigan State College dairymen to meet the special need for feed grain conservation and labor efficiency in feeding and management of the dairy herd.

Feed legume-grass mixtures such as alfalfa-brome or silage, and corn silage on farms where corn is well-adapted. They should be the basis of the feeding program during the barn feeding period. Feed grain sparingly to low-producing cows if high quality roughage is fed liberally. For instance, if you're feeding hay or hay crop silage to Holsteins, grain is not required unless the cow is producing 20 pounds of milk or more. If 50 pounds of corn silage is included in the ration, grain feeding is not required until a cow's production reaches 30 pounds of milk.

Feed according to milk production, the MSC dairy specialists advise. Cows producing 250 to 350 pounds of butterfat per year with high quality roughage may be fed farm-grown grains at the rate of one pound of grain for each 4 or 5 pounds of milk, or at a rate of one to six if corn silage is fed. Cows that are producing at higher levels than this can use grain efficiently. These higher producers should receive a grain ration of higher protein content and be fed at a higher grain rate based on milk production. Good pasture for your dairy cows includes alfalfa-brome or alfalfa-ladino-brome or other legume mixtures with more than half legume. Reed canary grass on low, poorly-drained soil furnishes good quality, long-season pasture when kept closely-grazed.

June grass is poor pasture except for a short period in early summer, and if possible should be broken up and reseeded to more productive grasses and legumes. Balbo rye produces early spring and late fall pasture if soil and drainage conditions permit livestock on the fields. Sudan grass is a good emergency pasture for late summer. But both rye and sudan grass are high cost pastures compared with good stands of long-lived legumes and grasses because of the cost of seeding them every year.

Plan Now for 1952 HAY DRYING

BEAT THE WEATHER—too often entire cuttings of hay are completely destroyed by rain and other damage. DON'T FEED YOUR CATTLE TOUGH STEMS!

Often leaf shattering results in hundreds of pounds of leaves to the acre of alfalfa. With a hay drier the hay is handled while it is tough so that few leaves are lost. It remains green, leafy and fresh.

The close of the bowling season of the City League is four weeks away and plans for your banquet are being developed by a capable committee. Watch for the date, place and time, and plan to attend.

The Reid Team, with M. B. shouting encouragement, downed the Wooley squad 3 pts. to 1, Monday night, to pull close to that top spot in the league standings. They are now 1 pt. behind the Wooley team and with four weeks left in the schedule, some team will have to stop them, or M. B.'s prediction of winning all three "rounds" will come true.

Harold Copeland, a member of the Landon team, is the first member of the City League to hit a 600 series this season. His games of 168-201 and 231 gave him his score of 600. He is now on the top in this department of high three games series followed by Clara with 599 and Musall with 598. Hildinger, Kelley and Geiger are still the top men with high single games of 256, 249 and 237 respectively.

You fellows all know about that round house curve that Rich Musall fires at the pins. Monday night in one of his games he drove the ball into the perfect pattern of ten pins, the ball suddenly disappeared, and standing 60 ft. away was the 3-6-10-4-7 split. If you can picture this, it's quite a split pattern of pins. Rich stepped up, took careful aim and fired. The ball gracefully rolled down the alley, curving with all its beauty, hitting the three pin, sliding it over, to take off the 4-7 and took off the 6-10 on its way to the pit. Novak, a member of Rich's team, thought this accomplishment of his Captain looked easy so he soon found himself looking at the 2-4-7-6-10 split. But Frank had to settle for a nine pin count.

Joe Kilbourn was the most consistent bowler of the evening as he rolled games of 164-162-163.

Dewey of the Hunt team rolled seven strikes in a row, with two splits at the start of the game, for his big game of the evening, 235, to boost his three game total to 578, second high for the night.

Other 500 series were rolled by Wooley 541, Wallace 539, Geiger 537, Strickland, sub. 534, Musall 529, Novak 528, Champion, sub. 524, Asher 520, Knight, sub. 516, Hubbard 513.

Single game series over 200 were rolled by Dewey with 235, H. Copeland 231-201, Champion 213, Bartle 215, Knight 208, Geiger 204, Asher 202, Wallace 201.

Meat Production Can Be Boosted

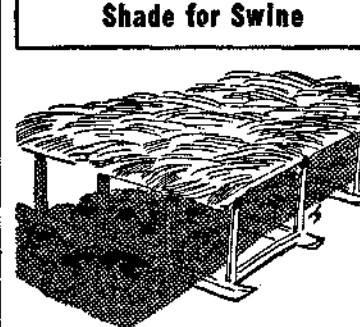

Livestock production in Michigan can be raised by using good pastures and forage crops, without materially increasing grain requirements.

Here are some examples cited by Michigan State College specialists of what grass and legume mixtures can do. Yearling heifers and 2-year-old steers at Michigan State College have been fed to "commercial" to "good" market finish on pasture alone. Yearling steers can be pastured to give more pounds of beef per pound of grain. However, yearling steers must be finished on grain to reach their best market grade.

Good pasture saves 10 to 15 percent of the grain and half the protein supplement in swine rations. Good roughage can furnish the main part of the feed for wintering calves or yearling feeder cattle. Beef cows and breeding ewes can be wintered on good quality hay alone, or hay and grass or corn silage. And good quality hay and grass silage reduces the protein supplement needs for all classes of hay-consuming livestock. Winter rations for brood sows and gilts being self fed should contain one-third ground legume hay as an inexpensive source of protein. For hand feeding, the ration should contain at least 10 percent ground legume hay.

Michigan State College animal husbandmen believe that efficient livestock production and increased use of good pasture and roughage will save feed, lower production costs and increase the country's meat supply.

Control of parasites and diseases, careful attention at farrowing, lambing and calving time, culling breeding animals on the basis of production records and use of antibiotics and protein supplement where needed also are recommended for 1952.

Every swine producer knows that hogs need shade. How to provide it, however, is sometimes a problem. An upright frame, constructed on skids so it can be moved easily, may be the answer some producers are seeking. The top is covered with old wire fence and straw, weeds, etc., piled on top of that. It is inexpensive and can be made to dimensions to fill individual needs.

Built for Three
Three Rochester, N.Y., youths get amazed stares from the townfolk when they come riding down the street on their "bicycle" built for three. They did it by welding together three regulation bike frames and using two over-size chains.

Higher Beet Yields

Like many crops, the sugar beet is one where higher yields result in much greater profits. Alfred P. Ballweg, county agricultural agent, says the fixed production cost in sugar beet growing usually makes yields above 10 tons to the acre proportionately more profitable.

During the years, the sugar beet industry of Michigan, in cooperation with Michigan State College, has conducted experimental work to determine the practices which assure high yields.

County Agent Ballweg says these are the recommended practices "in a nut-shell."

1. Select a field for beets which is well drained, high in fertility, has a pH between 6.5 and 7.0 and which is not more than a year removed from a good legume-grass sod.
2. Plant early—as soon after April 20 as weather and soil conditions permit.
3. Use fertilizer liberally. A common recommendation is 400 to 600 pounds of a complete fertilizer like 4-16-8 or a similar ratio at planting time. Side dressing with nitrogen after thinning usually pays big profits on those soils where the supply of soil nitrogen is low.
4. Use the mechanical thinner before the first cultivation. Give the hand laborers careful supervision in order to assure a good job.
5. Cultivate deep for better soil aeration while beets are small and before the roots spread.
6. Arrange for mechanical harvesting or hand labor early.

Special Services

Services in the Fraser Presbyterian Church will be held at 11:45 on Palm Sunday. The Sacraments of Baptism and the Lord's Supper will be administered. Sunday School will meet at 11:00 a. m. Sunday.

In other pre-Easter activities, the Fraser Choir will participate in the Good Friday three-hour service in the Uby Methodist Church. The last words from the Cross will be the theme of the service and the combined choirs will supply special music.

FORD FARM SHOW

With his likeable dummy.

Following his act, area residents saw Betty Graham in juggling acts. Using two tennis balls and a tennis racket, she performed a juggling routine to music that delighted the large audience.

Another act that proved to be a big crowd pleaser was the magician routine performed by Bob Damon. Besides the standard hankerchief tricks, he swallowed paper napkins and spit them out as colored strings of paper.

His concluding act was using a guillotine that seemed passed through the neck of his victim, but left him unharmed. It is regarded in professional circles as an outstanding magical act.

The concluding act of the show saw four local boys play the parts of the hero, villain, grandpa and policeman in a melodrama, in which Damon supplied the voices. The act was possibly the most successful feature of the show.

During the entire program, Bill Wallace entertained the crowd with selections from the Hammond organ.

Food Supply Appears Plentiful for 1952

The food outlook indicates that larger supplies will be available at somewhat higher prices in 1952. Incomes are expected to be higher also, so consumers will have more money to spend for food, according to the Department of Agriculture's bureau of agricultural economics.

An increased output of beef and veal is expected to more than offset military requirements. Just how much more meat will be available to consumers will depend upon producer's decisions about marketing their livestock.

Fish supplies will be about the same as in 1951, except there will be less canned and more fresh and frozen fish available.

Eggs, chicken and turkey are expected in larger supply than last year.

Among the dairy products more fluid milk and ice cream will be available, but less butter. Other dairy supplies about the same as 1951.

Fresh vegetables may continue in short supply, but high 1951 prices should encourage big spring plantings.

♦ LET'S TALK IT OVER ♦

Sugar Beet Crisis.

Everybody's worried about sugar beet acreage—everyone that is, except the farmer.

During the last ten days there has been a rash of emergency meetings on both the state and local level. Michigan State College, the Companies and the Grower's Associations all trying to find the key that will start the ink flowing on additional contracts.

The situation is critical. In Michigan, farmers have indicated they intend to plant less than half of the 1950 crop and about 25 per cent fewer acres than the small 1951 crop.

Reasons. When grain prices are high, there's a rush to get in all the wheat and oats possible. Plant in fall or spring—harvest in late summer. No worries. No labor. Put it in, combine it off. That's all there is to it. At least on the surface. What happens when the honey-moon is over? What happens when wheat, corn, oats and barley hit the skids? Let's take a look at this day called "normal" somewhere in the distant future.

This is NOT wheat country. This is NOT corn country. This is NOT oats country.

Our neighbors across the 48 states can out-produce us in yield and at lower cost because of climate and soil. We then have to fall back on the crops we can grow better than other regions.

Number one is SUGAR BEETS. If by that time the sugar factories have all moved to Colorado and California (and we haven't too many left) the Northeastern Michigan farmer is going to be crying in his silo for a cash crop to fill the gap.

Simple Solution. Any farmer will say, "Heck no, I don't want the sugar factory to leave this area." The same farmer will give you a dozen half-hearted reasons why he can't grow beets JUST THIS PARTICULAR YEAR. The same farmer is not thinking about his insurance in BAD years. That insurance is the sugar factory. There it sits—year after year. The one thing that can keep the place free of a nice fat mortgage.

What can we do to keep the sugar factory operating in the black? Let's take an imaginary case. Let's say that our sugar factory has AT THIS TIME a thousand farmers under contract for a total of 10,000 acres. If each farmer would add five acres—THAT would do the trick. If 250 farmers would get off the fence and sign up for 20 acres each—THAT, TOO—would turn the tide.

Put It On The Line. Let me make it perfectly clear. If our remaining sugar factories go out of business, we in Northeastern Michigan—all of the people, in city and country alike will have burned our insurance policy against depression. Sure, other farm crops are high—but let's pay the premium against the hard years. You keep your insurance in force when you sign that sugar beet contract.

MICHIGAN MIRROR NEWS BRIEFS

When the legislative appropriations committee labored and brought forth a $333 million budget for next year—$32 million more than the present income will produce—the lawmakers settled down for old battle with the almighty dollar.

And the dollar might win.

But not if Sen. George N. Higgins has anything to say about it. The diminutive Higgins who is chairman of the senate's powerful taxation committee, has taken the lead in loophole legislation and is standing over a small pile of proposed laws like a mother bear protecting her young.

He's putting new bills for saving money through their paces with his usual brisk and businesslike methods and he hopes to save some $80 million. He's the busiest man in the Senate.

"That'll cover the normal increase in governmental costs," he says testily, "the deficit comes next."

Currently there are six bills which would plug leaks in the state's financial tank. They would:

1. Put insurance companies on the same tax basis as stock companies (five mills per dollar of assets) to net the state another $400,000.

2. Put national banks under the same tax as state banks—four mills on shares of stock, bringing in $600,000.

3. Boost corporation franchise fees from 3½ to four mills and broaden the franchise base to include railroads, interurbans, telephone and telegraph companies to bring state $10 million more.

4. Change the name of the 3 per cent sales tax on liquor to a "liquor handling charge" so it can be shifted from local governments to the state's general fund. This would net Michigan $1 million the first year and $3.5 million each year thereafter.

5. Increase intangible tax on banks and cut rebate to the cities from $11 million to $8 million, bringing $6.5 million into state coffers. Intangible tax now brings in $13 million.

6. Put a 3 per cent tax on used cars and cut off $3 million now diverted to school, which would bring in another $12 million.

"Before I get through," says Sen. Higgins, "we'll have taken steps to bring down the deficit."

While these relatively small tax bills—which are so very confusing and supercomplicated—are knocking around the two houses, the push for a constitutional convention continues.

The legislature is determined to cut the restricting laws which have, year after year, been added to our books and which have made a patchwork of our constitution.

First came the 15 mile tax limitation which tied down local governmental units so they couldn't raise enough money to meet increasing costs.

Then a constitutional amendment put all gasoline and car license taxes into an earmarked fund for roads.

Another constitutional amendment gave the civil service commission practical autocracy over state employee wages.

Now that the local units were found to be hamstringed, the highly touted and highly lobbied sales tax diversion amendment was passed to crank 78 cents of every sales tax dollar back to the local units.

The state is bankrupt. In lieu of a constitutional convention—or until such a convention can meet and have a new taxing structure approved by the people—the legislature has pledged to cut and chop and pare to the bone. But such action will bring in relatively small amounts as compared to the estimated $104 million deficit expected by next July.

What will be done? It's easier to say what won't be done. Two things are sure. There will NOT be a corporation tax; there will NOT be a personal income tax. From there on, it's anyone's guess. Sen. Higgins isn't talking, and the house ways and means committee has accepted Rep. Victor A. Knox's plan of holding to the budget this year and knocking off the deficit over a period of 10 or more years. That is, of course, if the constitutional convention is not approved next November.

Who was he who said, "Nothing is sure but death and taxes?"
