A fine showing of community spirit was evidenced this week when over 20 neighbors and friends gathered at the Chris Krug home Tuesday in a driving snow storm to help the Krugs put the roof on their new home.

Shortly before the holidays, the Krugs' home was razed by fire. According to a report from a neighbor, friends have been on hand nearly every day to help the Krugs rebuild.

The walls of the new building are already erected and work is progressing rapidly, despite adverse weather conditions.

Although only one man, Henderson Graham, has officially declared his intention of running for state senator this year, we predict that as many as four men from Tuscola County will be running before the time for submitting petitions expires.

It is barely possible that a man from the Cass City area will throw his hat into the ring.

Another innovation of the bank is "piped music" which plays continually throughout banking hours.

The new building is Roman brick, white stone cap and facing, combined with generous areas of glass.

The interior is finished in natural Korina wood, with directors' Concluded on page twelve.

Hawks Lose, 72-57, to Mt. Pleasant Quintet

A third quarter slump that saw Cass City hit on only one of 19 tries from the field, ended the Hawks' chances for an upset victory over an accurate shooting, well-balanced Mt. Pleasant squad Wednesday night at the high school gymnasium.

The visiting Oilers coupled Cass City's inability to hit from the field with their best scoring effort of the evening to chalk up a 72-57 decision and hand Cass City its second loss in four games.

Fouls cost the Hawks heavily in the game. Don Simmons was charged with four early in the game and sat on the bench most of the third period when Mt. Pleasant ran up their 23-5 margin to salt away the game.

At the half, it was anybody's game. Mt. Pleasant was in front 37-35 at the intermission, the closest the visitors came to trailing throughout the contest.

The Oilers opened the contest as if they were going to decide the issue in the opening minutes of the game. They moved out in Guest speaker for the day was Don Moe, secretary-manager of the retail lumber division of the Michigan Trade Ass'n. He pointed out the value of trade associations to persons in business.

"It is not the purpose of any trade organization," Mr. Moe said, "to act against the public interest." He explained that trade associations are formed to help the businesses they represent.

According to Mr. Moe, trade associations justify their existence by representing their businesses in government, interpreting legislation, public relations and education and surveys to determine better business practices.

More Births, Less Deaths Recorded by Local Village Clerk

Cass City followed the trend of the state and nation during 1953 when Cass City Village Clerk Wilma Fry reported that there were more births and less deaths recorded in 1953 than in 1952.

Thirteen more babies were born in 1953. Records show that 329 were born in the year just completed against 316 in 1952.

Fifty-nine persons died in 1953 and 74 died in 1952, a decrease of 15, Mrs. Fry said.

Social Security Boost Places Rate At Two Per Cent

If you notice that your check is a little less than you expected this week, don't take it out on the boss for he's merely following the Social Security Tax law, as amended, that went into effect Jan. 1.

Starting Friday, employers were forced to nip another one-half per cent from weekly checks for old age pensions.

The boost in the rates is one of a series that will face workers in the next few years. The present raise from 1 1/2 per cent to two per cent will be in force through 1959.

Another one-half per cent will be added for the periods 1960-1964 and 1965-1969 and one-fourth per cent will be added in 1970.

After 1970, employees will pay 3 1/2 per cent of their salary for Social Security benefits. The amount paid by employees will be matched by their employers.

Self-employed persons are also subject to the payments and their rates will also jump on a sliding scale through 1970 until they are paying four and seven-eighths per cent of their income up to $3,600 for Social Security benefits.

WSC Hears Safety Discussed at First Meeting of Year

The first meeting of the New Year of the Women's Study Club was held at the home of Mrs. A. J. Knapp Tuesday afternoon.

The local club accepted an invitation, extended by the Kingston Woman's Club, to a Travelling Art Exhibit of the Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs which was held at Kingston yesterday (Thursday). The exhibit consisted of a collection of pictures by contemporary Michigan artists, each depicting an American scene.

During the business session, Mrs. L. I. Wood, Mrs. A. J. Knapp and Mrs. Harold Perry were appointed as a nominating committee by the president, Mrs. Herbert Ludlow, and Mrs. Simeon Moore was voted to the status of an honorary member. A contribution was made to the fund for the relief of Korean children who were made homeless during the recent Fusan fire.

In presenting a program on "Safety," Miss Muriel Addison divided her talk into three parts. In the first, the speaker discussed safety ideas and devices in other countries of the world. In the second, she stressed the need of more safety measures in the home and in the third, she described the activities of the Women's Volunteer Service in England during World War II when that country was being bombed. An interesting discussion followed Miss Addison's many timely and helpful suggestions.

Religion will be the subject of the program for the next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Perry and the election of officers will be the main feature of business.

Plan Corporation to Raise Factory Funds

Plans for raising money to pay for the building which will house Anrod, the new screen factory that will start operating in Cass City this spring, and to use as a working base for other industries were completed this week.

The work, carried on under the direction of the Industrial Development Committee and the Cass City Chamber of Commerce, calls for a corporation with shares purchased by businessmen and other interested persons in the village.

Stock in the corporation will be offered every business place and resident interested at $50 each—present plans call for $12,500 to be raised.

For their money, stockholders will own the 23 acres of land in the southwest corner of the village, now owned by 10 interested Cass City businessmen, and the building formerly housing the Ford Tractor Sales on East Main Street.

The building is now being purchased by Anrod. The mortgage carries interest at four per cent.

The land that will be included in the corporation is being sold to the corporation for the cost of the land to the present owners.

However, no money will change hands. Each of the 10 present owners will take stock equivalent to the amount invested in the property.

Owning the land and the building will enable the corporation to borrow against the property in case more money is needed for other industries.

A list of all business concerns is now being prepared and volunteer workers will call on each establishment in the village, starting Monday.

Because it is impossible to take new members into a corporation once it is formed, authorities would like to see as many persons as possible take stock in the venture.

With a broad base of stockholders, additional funds could be easily raised if needed to help a substantial industry move to the village.

Counter Shows 7,065 Cars Visited Display

Although it is impossible to guess how many cars and visitors were in Cass City to see the Christmas displays, results tabulated on a counter at the Gavel Club display at the Municipal Park showed that 7,065 cars passed the display in five days.

In addition, many visitors walked around the display instead of waiting in their cars and were not counted.

The counter operated from Dec. 24 through Dec. 29. In the five days, the biggest crowd arrived on the Sunday after Christmas when the counter recorded 3,363 cars for the day.

Next largest day for visitors was the day after Christmas. The counter showed 1,809 cars that

Plans for Village In '54 Discussed By Gavel Club

"What's in store for Cass City in 1954" was the Gavel Club topic at their Tuesday night meeting, with Club President Dale Kettlewell program chairman. Herbert Ludlow, Clifford Croft and Warren Wood discussed the prospects of new industry for Cass City.

They agreed that prospects are good for two or three small plants being established here during the coming year. Mr. Wood emphasized that authorities do not wish to bring a large industry with many new workers to town—the committee is attempting to find employment locally for the many residents who now must drive elsewhere for work.

Mr. Croft expressed appreciation for the great help being given them by the Detroit Edison Company and by the Michigan Industrial Development Committee.

Ben Benkelman and Arlan Hartwick discussed the prospects for resurfacing Main Street in 1954. Cameron Wallace and Lester Ross explained the plans of the school board to meet the need for more school rooms for the coming larger child population.

Harry Little was program chairman for the last 1953 meeting. He presented Rev. Frederick J. Libby of Washington, D. C., who interpreted current news stories taken from the daily papers, giving the background of the story which is usually unknown to the casual reader.

The club entertained as guests local people who had contributed to the club's Christmas display.

Concluded on page twelve.

Dairy Management Hints Given By Assistant Agent

A few weeks of working with heifers before they calve makes them feel a bit more kindly toward you at milking time, suggests Quentin R. Ostrander, Tuscola County assistant agricultural agent, Michigan State College dairymen advise that having the heifers with the milk cows at feeding time, currying the animals and handling them in other ways helps make them tame.

And when a heifer calves, they add, it's a good idea to have her in a box stall—a place that has been cleaned and disinfected thoroughly.

The dairymen recommend a hot lye or cresote solution for the disinfecting job to keep the young calf healthy. Many calves are lost because of infections they pick up in unclean box stalls. Don't take the chance of letting a cow or heifer calve out in the yard or in a stallion. She should be placed in the box stall or pen a few days ahead of freshening, say the dairymen.

Farmers Warned About Buying Fence Posts

Charles S. Walters, associate professor of forest utilization at the Illinois College of Agriculture, has issued a warning to farmers against buying treated fence posts from "fly-by-night" truckers.

Walters reports a number of cases of peddlers selling treated posts that have just been dipped in preservative—not pressure treated. The result is that farmers are paying a premium for posts that will last but a few months longer than untreated ones.

He says the peddlers usually stop at individual farms with their truckloads of posts, or else headquarters at a community sales barn and sell to farmers there. There are even some reports of sales direct to retail lumber dealers.

Posts can be checked to see how deep the preservative has penetrated, but even then it is almost impossible to tell how good it is or how much there is in the post.

To find how deeply the preservative has penetrated, cross-cut an inch-thick disk from the post and split it along the grain. The preservative should color the wood at least half an inch deep.

MICHIGAN MIRROR NEWS BRIEFS

"Possible financial disaster" is in store for Michigan unless present sales tax diversion provisions are changed, says Rep. Rollo G. Conlin, Lenawee Republican.

He expects to present a proposal to the Legislature, which meets Jan. 18, to remove the risk. It will be an amendment to the Constitution. To become law, it must first be approved by the legislature and ratified in the next election by the people of the state.

Always complicated, state financial problems are difficult to understand; even more difficult to explain to others. People directly effected are likely to oppose change on general principles, unless there is no question that they will benefit.

Many people are effected in the case of sales tax diversion and much is at stake.

Sales tax income is big money. In the fiscal year ending in June, 1953, the sales tax pie amounted to nearly $262 million. It is sliced into several sections. Under present law, one half must be returned to local governments.

This is allotted on a per capita basis.

Another half penny of each three goes to school districts. An additional amount is also set aside for school as computed by an involved formula. The formula requires that 44.77% of sales tax returns go to schools.

Time could be the villain in this system.

Under present law, legislatures must appropriate the coming year's funds based on last year's returns—permitting a two year lag.

"What would happen if a sudden recession caused sales to drop off substantially with a resulting reduction in money collected?" asks Rep. Conlin. "The legislature might be forced by law to pay an amount based on figures from a good year but with income from poor year. It is even possible that the law would require a payment larger than the total amount of the sales tax collected."

Solution is designed by Conlin to forestall the danger rather than change the amounts of money now allotted to local units.

He proposed a flat two cents on every three collected to be earmarked for schools. Local cities and townships would receive (as they do now) one half of the remaining penny, minus collector costs. The other half cent would go to the state treasury.

This changes the present break down only slightly. Schools gain a little percentage wise but things even up when another provision is considered: The legislature now makes a separate appropriation for teacher pensions. Conlin's plan shifts this responsibility to the school systems.

Current returns will be used as a basis for division; not figures from a previous year. This, according to Rep. Conlin, puts the entire program on sounder ground and reduces the possibility of financial havoc brought about by its own laws.

Much behind the scenes maneuvering by both political parties marked the closing days of 1953 at the capitol.

Beneath an outward appearance of calm and quiet, factions were busy. The holiday period offered time for reflection and planning. Many an eye was turned to the elections—campaigns in the fall—and how they will be effected by action in the legislature.

A big problem will be finance. It usually is.

The coming session is held in what used to be an "off year." Then it was decided that the legislature would meet annually—only briefly in off years to consider the budget and appropriations.

It hasn't worked out that way. More than 300 bills are reported to be in some stage of preparation. They cover a wide range of subjects: ice box doors, bonuses for Korean veterans, speed limits, capital punishment, a multitude of matters.

These other subjects give opportunity for legislators to make a record for themselves and their parties to be used in the coming campaign.

The governor can be expected to play a naturally leading role. His message will recommend specific laws and appropriations. The manner in which legislators deal with these recommendations will also provide campaign material.

Much is at stake for each party. Much is at stake for many politicians as individuals.

With chips down, everyone will be attempting to catch the opponent off balance, without dropping his guard himself.

Present political plans can set the stage for first phases of the campaign battle.

Temperature Has Effect on Stock

Natural Ventilation Not Always Adequate

Just as the temperature, humidity and freshness of the air effects a human's health and well being, these qualities of the air have a decided effect on livestock and their production of milk.

The ideal temperature for a dairy barn is 50 degrees, the temperature at which research has found cows have the best appetite. If barn temperatures change rapidly, cows will produce less milk and are subject to pulmonary infection.

A fan with a two-speed motor should be used to ventilate barns so that when temperatures fall below 50 degrees, the fan can be run at low speed.

Since the average cow gives off about three-fourths of a pound of moisture per hour, controlling the humidity of the air in the dairy barn is also important. Positive ventilation is necessary to dispel

Says the owner of the above installation: "Our barn has been much nicer to work in during the wintertime in that the air is dry, the walls and ceilings stay dry, and our cows are more comfortable."

moist, stale air which will otherwise contribute to the sluggishness of the herd.

It should be remembered that an exhaust fan should have sufficient capacity to move 60 to 100 cubic feet of air per minute for each 1,000 pounds of animal weight for dairy barns in the northern states. For barns in southern states, 200 cubic feet per 1,000 pounds of animal weight is recommended.

Big Farm Issue Will Be Export Markets

One of the big issues that must be settled by the congress that will convene shortly will be the question of export markets—how to regain them and hold them for American farm products.

It is generally recognized that such markets are essential to American farm economy today. The reason is that the American farmer is producing more than is used by the domestic market. Therefore, a new outlet is needed.

The farm export situation has become serious in the past year with a decline of approximately 30 per cent. This decline, agricultural experts reports, is due to the fact the world is getting back to normal and many countries are again producing more of their needs. Also, U. S. contributions toward foreign recovery are not as heavy as during the years shortly after World War II.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson contends that a major cause in the decline in exports is a farm price-support program which prices U. S. commodities out of the overseas markets. Many who would be buyers shop elsewhere or skip on smaller supplies than they would like to have.

History shows that farmers have been most prosperous during the past 40 years when there were big foreign markets. The problem of regaining these markets will be a big question before congress this coming year.

Safety Rules for Poultry Vaccines

Although there are no set rules on vaccination of poultry for all poultry farmers, there are some precautions that every poultryman should follow, notes Quentin R. Ostrander, Tuscola County assistant agricultural agent. He quotes Dr. S. C. Schmitt, poultry pathologist at Michigan State College on the subject.

Dr. Schmitt advises that there should be vaccination on farms where pox, Newcastle disease or bronchitis have appeared in past years, or in those areas where these diseases are a threat.

Never use two live vaccines at one time, either mixed together or separately—with these exceptions: Laryngotracheitis vaccine can be given at the same time with another vaccine. A booster vaccine may be used at the same time as another vaccine. A killed virus Newcastle vaccine can be used at the same time as a live virus vaccine.

Use vaccines according to the manufacturers' instructions. Never try to stretch the vaccine for more birds than the number of doses in the bottle. And pay attention to the expiration date printed on each box containing vaccine.

Vaccinate only birds in good condition. Most of the live virus vaccines produce a reaction in the flock, which only healthy birds can withstand.

Always remember that most of the live vaccines are capable of producing the disease in non-vaccinated birds.

Keep in mind that immunity resulting from vaccinating young chicks will not last as long as in older birds. It's often necessary to re-vaccinate replacement flocks a second time.

Benson Reorganization Plan Ordered in Force

Secretary of Agriculture Benson ordered his controversial reorganization plan for the Agriculture Department put into effect last month.

The plan abolishes seven regional offices of the Soil Conservation Service and places greater responsibility on state conservation offices.

The plan also includes:

1. Regrouping the various research bureaus in the Agricultural Research Administration into an integrated Agricultural Research Service.

2. Establishing an Agricultural Marketing Service which will absorb a major part of the marketing, research and service functions of the Production and Marketing Administration and many of the functions of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

3. Establishing a Commodity Stabilization Service which will carry on adjustment and other functions formerly handled by the Production and Marketing Administration and carry on price support operations of the Commodity Credit Corporation.

4. Retaining the present community, county and state farmer committees to carry out the programs of the Commodity Stabilization Service and the agricultural conservation program in the field.

Money still talks—but its vocabulary seems limited.

You have to travel fast these days just to stay where you are.

Exemplar of the 1954 Buick's years-from-now styling is this stunning new Sun Riviera

THE instant you see these 1954 Buicks, you'll know that something sensational has happened in automobile styling.

Here is vastly more than the usual model changeover. Here is vastly more than could be done just by warming over what Buick had before. Here is something accomplished by going far beyond artful face-lifting.

Here is that rarity of rarities—a completely new line of automobiles.

But Buick didn't stop with the bolder, fresher, swifter-lined beauty you see in raised and lengthened fender sweep—in the huge and back-swept expanse of windshield—in the lowered roofline—in the host more glamor features of exterior modernity.

They upped all horsepower to the highest in Buick history.

They engineered a new V8 for the SPECIAL—and in the process came up with new Power-Head Pistons that boost gasoline mileage in every engine.

BUICK the beautiful buy

They brought to market a sparkling newcomer with a famous name, the Buick CENTURY—a car with phenomenal horsepower for its weight and price—a car with more pure thrill per dollar than any Buick ever built.

And they did all this without change of the price structure which, for years, has made Buick the most popular car at its price in the world.

We invite you to come in and inspect these great beauties, these great performers, these great buys. Then you'll see why the Detroit previewers are already saying, "Buick's the beautiful buy!"

When better automobiles are built Buick will build them

Plan More Room For Dairy Cows When Building

If you're building a new dairy barn or remodeling one, remember that the trend is toward allowing more room for cows in the stanchions, Quentin R. Ostrander, Tuscola County assistant agricultural agent, suggests.

Extension dairyman Donald L. Murray of Michigan State College reports that the recommended minimum width between cows now is four feet. For larger breeds the distance now should be four feet six inches. Murray says, however, that the old width standard of 42 inches may be adequate for cows of the smaller breeds.

The recommended width of the platform—the distance between the stanchion and the gutter—now is 54 inches to six feet. Murray suggests a tapering platform which would be, say five to six feet for the larger breeds—then tapering down to shorter lengths for heifers and young

To Fete Leaders At Caro Banquet

All active 4-H club leaders in Tuscola County have received invitations to attend the annual 4-H leaders' recognition banquet to be held at the Sacred Heart School, Caro, Wednesday evening, January 13, at 7 p. m. This event will be of no expense to the leaders and is a token of appreciation for the work they are doing in their local clubs.

Highlighting the program will be an illustrated talk given by Jerry Davis, International Farm Youth Exchange delegate to Germany this past summer. Jerry is presently a student at Michigan State College and his talks have to be sandwiched in between studies.

Presentation of leaders' awards will also be a highlight of the evening. The meal will be served family style by the League of Catholic Women. Prior to the dinner a short leaders' meeting will be held starting at 5:30 p. m. Miss June Wilkinson and Nevels Pearson, assistant state 4-H leaders, would like the presence of all winter 4-H leaders at this meeting.

Any leader who has not submitted the return reservation card is urged to do so, the 4-H man concluded.

It's surprising how a little grafting can keep a family tree from dying out.

Tip to motorists: Speeding across intersections is bad business.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Cleaning Will Add Life and Sparkle To Window Shades

YOU DON'T HAVE to replace window shades when they become soiled because many of them can be treated to home cleaning methods.

It is important that you know just what the material of the shades with which you're dealing is; as different types require different cleaning methods.

Before you actually get to washing shades, make certain they're dusted.

Washing Shades

Holland cloth, painted fabric or pyroloxin-impregnated cloth, as well as plastic, are all washable. Take the shades down, one at a time, and dust thoroughly. Place on a flat surface and scrub with a soft brush or sponge, using mild suds and a small amount of water.

Rinse off the shades with clear water, using as little as possible and then wipe dry. Turn the shade and repeat the process.

Don't Soak Chintz

There are pyroloxin-impregnated shades which are faced with glazed chintz, the latter side of which cannot be washed with water. The backing, however, may be washed as directed above, taking care that the chintz side is not soaked with any of the water.

When shades are particularly decorative and very elegant, and may, perhaps, contain several different kinds of material, some of which are not washable, they should be professionally cleaned.

Renovating Shades

Shades will last longer, too, if the shade is reversed top to bottom since all parts will then receive equal wear.

Rollers will last a long time, averaging from 10 to 15 years, and these may be replaced when they need it.

Versatile Waffle Right for Any Meal

ONE OF THE MOST versatile of the quick, hot breads, waffles will do nicely for any of your meals. You undoubtedly know of the hit they make at breakfast, but what about the others?

With creamed chicken or vegetable, they do nicely for luncheon or supper, too, with applesauce or other fruit sauces, you can even make dessert out of them for these meals.

Light Soda Waffles

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 tablespoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, separated
1/4 cup vinegar
1 1/2 cups sweet milk
1/4 cup melted shortening

Sift together flour, soda, sugar and salt. Beat egg yolks, vinegar and milk. Add dry ingredients and melted shortening. Stir until batter is smooth. Beat egg whites stiff but not dry and fold into batter. Pour batter on heated iron to about one inch of the edge. Bake 3 to 4 minutes or until waffles stop steaming.

Cream Waffles

(Makes 6)
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon cornmeal
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, separated
2 cups sour cream

Sift together flour, cornmeal, soda, and salt. Beat egg yolks and add cream. Add sifted dry ingredients and mix well. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake on a hot waffle iron.

Shades of Robinhood! Small fry will welcome bed time in these pajamas which are so delightfully styled for young fry, right out of the story book. Sanforised, they're guaranteed to wash repeatedly without shrinking out of fit.

The man who tells the simple truth nowadays soon gets a reputation for striking originality.

SHORT STORY

Hammer-Throw

By Denny McClung

JIM CONKLIN was working on a horse-shoe when shots shattered the morning stillness. He dropped the shoe back into the forge and quickly stepped across to the door.

The town was again silent and he could hear the sign above his head seeming to squeak out its message: JIM CONKLIN—Blacksmith and Livery Stable. Then the rattle of shots came once more.

Puffs of gunsmoke appeared at the bank's windows, to be quickly answered by firing from townspeople hidden behind barrels and watering troughs across the street.

Six horses stood at the rail in front of the bank. A deputy dashed across the dusty street in an effort to chase the outlaw's horses off, but he was quickly driven back by a fresh volley of shots from the bank. The outlaw who had been left to hold the horses was lying in a heap beside the board walk. The six horses nervously shifted from foot to foot, but they stayed almost exactly in the spot where the dead outlaw had been holding them. Evidently they were used to shooting.

"Conklin called across the street to a grizzled man who had ducked behind a loaded wagon. 'Hey, Jake, who's in the bank?'"

"Don't know, Jim. Just six fellows rode into town about ten minutes ago and went into the bank. First thing anybody knew about a hold-up was when Ed Ferrell, the teller, made a break for the side door. He was just barely outside when they shot him down. Looks like we got one of them, though."

He jerked his head toward the outlaw lying in the street.

Suddenly five men rushed from the bank in an attempt to reach their horses. But shots from across the street caused them to dive for cover in the empty lot between the bank and Conklin's shop. Conklin noticed that one man was carrying a couple of heavily loaded saddle bags. The money from the bank, he realized. Probably part gold and the rest cash.

Conklin watched for a moment and then went toward the back of the shop in search of some weapon. He was near the rear door when he came to a sudden halt. Something was moving through the woods behind the shop! Cautiously, Conklin eased his head around the door frame.

The outlaw with the money had deserted his partners and slipped away from the vacant lot next to the bank and made it into the woods. Now he was behind Conklin's shop and headed for the small creek about a hundred yards beyond the edge of the woods. And suddenly Conklin realized why he was headed that way. The large corral that Conklin used for his livery stable horses was back in the woods! The outlaws had planned well. They knew exactly where to find fresh horses.

Conklin rushed to the street again. The other four outlaws were pinned down by now and couldn't possibly escape. But the one with the money...

Conklin crossed the shop again and quietly slipped out the back way. He could hear the outlaw some distance ahead. Conklin ran across the open space and into the woods. A few seconds more and he had crossed the creek. Not far to the corral. He would have to be cautious. Every step seemed to crackle like thunder.

Conklin was at the corral now. He peered over the low log fence. The outlaw had caught up a horse and was ready to vault to its back. But suddenly he turned and saw Conklin.

Conklin quickly stood up, defenseless. But suddenly he realized he still carried the hammer he had been using on the horse-shoe! He drew back his arm and threw the hammer, putting every ounce of strength he possessed behind it.

The outlaw's gun was coming up to level on Conklin. But he was an instant too late! The hammer caught him in the pit of the stomach and he fell to the ground with a soft moan.

Conklin slowly crossed the corral to get the outlaw's gun, knowing as he went that the man was completely unconscious from the hammer's blow.

It is probably true that knock may be a boost—but very few of us care to be boosted that way.

CASS CITY, MICHIGAN

Livestock Exchange Meeting Scheduled

The annual meeting of members of the Tuscola County district of the Michigan Livestock Exchange will be held in the basement of the courthouse, Caro, at 2:00 p. m. on January 12, according to John Graham of Caro, president of the local association.

Representatives of the state association will be on hand to discuss livestock marketing problems with local producers. An interesting program is planned, said Graham. The meeting is open to anyone interested in attending. Refreshments will be served. Serving as vice-president during the past year was James Milligan, of Cass City, with Arnold Albert of Caro serving as secretary.

If more drivers gave ground there would be fewer of them in it.

County 4-H Tractor Clubs to Organize

According to George C. MacQueen, county 4-H club agent, plans have been made to organize several 4-H tractor clubs. Tractor maintenance becomes a more important function on the farm in light of the increased machinery costs in the present cost-price squeeze.

All boys or girls, 12 years of age or older, in the Caro area, wishing to belong to a tractor club should meet at Bieth Implement Store in Caro on Thursday evening, January 14, at 8 p. m. At this time the club will be organized under the leadership of Earl Taggett, Caro.

Boys of the same age group in the Vassar area are requested to meet at the Gruber Implement Store in Vassar on Monday, January 11, at 8 p. m. Here the club will organize under the leadership of Arnold Rupprecht, Frankenmuth.

Members in the Reese area are requested to meet at Kenneth Damm's Implement store to organize a tractor club under the leadership of Albert Bauer, Reese.

Three years of project work are offered in tractor maintenance. Clubs will have eight meetings to cover the lessons and again the project work will be supplemented by the annual plowing contest and operator's contest.

Clubs in the Cass City and Unionville areas are already functioning under the leadership of John Marshall and Bill LeValley, respectively.

Members attending the organizational meetings are urged to bring their parents. The agent concluded by stating that Harry Crawford will again be coordinating county tractor activities along with Al Thom, Standard Oil Company station supervisor.

Permanent Pasture Needs Fertilizer

Adequate Plant Food Will Double Forage

Only one out of every six acres of pasture is fertilized regularly and receives good grazing management, according to the farm authorities in the Midwest.

Yet much of this unfertilized grassland could produce two to three times more forage for livestock if sufficient plant food was added.

Fertilizing pastures with a balanced ration of nitrogen, phosphate and potash pays a big return in more feed per acre and Forage is the cheapest feed the farmer can raise. It pays to boost these yields by proper fertilizing. Your local county agent will help you in a pasture rebuilding program.

A greater cattle-carrying capacity. U. S. Department of Agriculture specialists point out that pasture, hay and silage are the cheapest high quality feed a farmer can produce. Bigger yields of these crops through the use of commercial fertilizer will cut feeding costs and boost profits.

Grassland crops also help maintain soil fertility.

Legumes and grasses need plenty of nutrients. Professor C. J. Chapman, University of Wisconsin extension soils specialist, and other Midwestern agronomists, recommend adding 400 to 500 pounds per acre or more of a balanced fertilizer such as 10-10-10 on permanent pastures.

Announcing for '54 NEW FORD TRUCKS with TRIPLE ECONOMY!

NOW! 5 Ford engines offer the mightiest concentration of power per cubic inch ever in any truck line! V-8 and SIX!

For the power they develop, the engines in the 1954 Ford Truck line have less cubic inch displacement than engines in other-make lines. For example, Ford's 239 cu. in. Power King V-8 develops its 130 h.p. on as much as 43 cu. in. less displacement. Smaller-displacement engines normally need less gas! That's one big reason why Ford concentrated power offers greater economy!

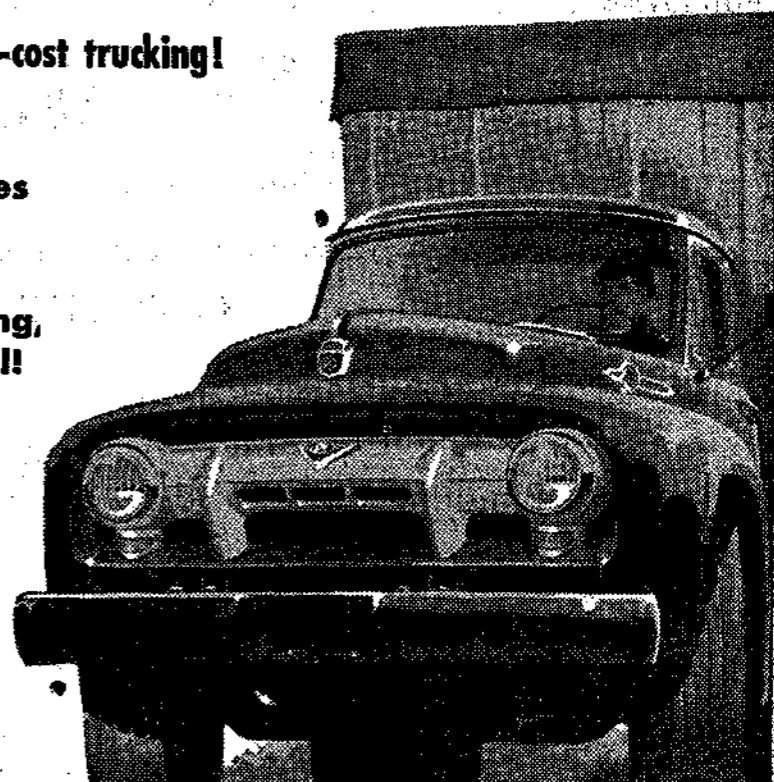

Ford takes the lead in ALL 3 vital factors that make for lower-cost trucking!

1. Now, only in Ford Trucks—gas-saving, LOW-FRICTION, high-compression, overhead-valve, deep-block engines in all truck models! 115- to 170-h.p.!
2. New Driverized Cabs, Master-Guide Power Steering, Power Brakes, Fordomatic Drive for faster control!
3. New greater capacity! New Factory-Built "6-wheelers," gross up to 48% more!

WOMAN'S WORLD

Frosty Snowballs, Edible Variety, Make Good Dessert

NOT ALL snowballs are meant to be tossed merrily on their way! There's a perfectly delicious variety, made from ice cream, frosted with chopped nuts, served with a sundae sauce, which you'll want to spoon as quickly as possible into your mouth.

This is an excellent dessert to be served for a special family dinner or one during which you entertain, as the snowballs are very elegant, though extremely simple to make.

Why not try them on the family first and then plan them for a dessert luncheon or evening get together after you've seen how simple they are to make?

Make an elegant dessert the simple way! Scoops of ice cream are rolled in chopped nuts and then served with butterscotch sauce. These may be made ahead, then frozen to save last minute preparation.

Ice Cream Snowballs (Serves 6)

- 1 quart vanilla ice cream
- 1/2 cup finely chopped walnuts or pecans

Make large snowballs of vanilla ice cream using a large scoop or spoon. Quickly roll each ball in chopped nuts. (Make in advance if desired and place in ice cube tray in freezing compartment). Serve plain or with butterscotch sauce:

- Butterscotch Sauce
- 1 cup brown sugar
  - 1/2 cup milk
  - 2 tablespoons light corn syrup
  - 3 tablespoons butter
  - 1/4 teaspoon salt
- Combine all ingredients in a saucepan. Heat to boiling, while stirring; boil to about 220° or about 3 minutes; Serve over ice cream snowballs.

The best way to relieve the monotony of a job is to think of ways of improving it.

Tricks in Keeping Furniture Lovely

NEW FURNITURE always looks nice, but it takes some effort to keep it that way. There are many things you can do to cut down wear and tear on furniture of all kinds, but it takes a certain amount of "know-how."

Did you know, for example, that a thin coating of furniture wax applied to painted furniture will make it more scratch resistant? It will also make it easier to clean and less apt to fade.

Chair pads and cushions, too, will aid against scratches, while frequent waxing and polishing help preserve any good wood finish.

Keep After Dirt

Dirt and dust are the great enemies of fine wood, so it's mostly a matter of keeping after these constantly. Wooden furniture, for instance, can be washed, not often, but once or twice a year so that you can get after dust and dirt which clings to the wood.

To wash wooden furniture, use a mild soap worked into a generous but light lather. Wash a small area at a time, rinsing as you go, with clear, lukewarm water. Dry immediately with a soft cloth before moving to the next spot. Finish with an application of your favorite wax or polish.

There are waxes and polishes which do both cleaning and waxing or finishing in one application. These are time-savers and well worth their extra cost. Use plenty of clean cloths, discarding those which soil.

Dusting Mitts Help

In your day-to-day vigilance against dust, you'll find that dusting mitts are excellent for the job. You can crochet one or two yourself from shaggy yarn, and you'll find they do an excellent and efficient job.

Instead of dusting with only one hand, you'll find the job goes faster if you learn how to use both hands. The mitts, too, are helpful in reaching into the hard-to-get corners and will protect hands from dirt and grime.

Scratched Furniture

Furniture will show scratch marks no matter how you work at it. Iodine, from the medicine chest, will hide scratches in mahogany or dark woods. Deep cracks can be darkened with wood stain, then filled with white shellac applied with a fine brush. Let shellac dry thoroughly, then polish.

Light scratches may be minimized by rubbing them with the meat of a Brazil or walnut. To remove heat marks from shellacked or varnished surfaces, apply spirits of camphor or essence of peppermint. Allow to dry, then polish.

A model husband is often a conditioned job his home town folks wouldn't recognize.
