

From the Editor's Corner

Dr. John Hannah, speaking before members of the Michigan Press Association Friday noon, made some interesting observations as Assistant Secretary of Defense.

Dr. Hannah said that one of the biggest reasons for the cost of service is that the armed forces now make it attractive for a man to leave the service and offer no inducements to make him stay in.

He said, we pay for a soldier's college education and give him a bonus for leaving (separation pay). If he stays in, he gets nothing.

Some of the costs for training personnel are staggering. For instance, it costs you and me $70,000 to train a jet pilot and after the money is spent, there is no assurance that the man will stay in the service.

Speaking of the atomic bomb, Dr. Hannah said that as far as the defense department is concerned, the United States would use the atomic bomb in ANY situation where it benefits the armed forces. He said that he meant police actions, as well as wars.

The village is to be congratulated for the fine job of snow removal. Village Engineer Clarence Burt and his crew worked far into the night to remove snow that clogged parking areas on Main Street.

Thursday evening the department had three trucks running continuously from Main Street to the park where the snow was dumped.

That evening Bill Schram operated the scoop shovel and kept the trucks running steadily. By the time one truck was loaded, another moved in to take its place. There was very little waiting between loads for the drivers.

Slate Bauman Family At Community Club

The Stanley Bauman family of Elkton will present the program at the Cass City Community Club Tuesday evening, Feb. 9, at the Cass City High School.

The family started as entertainers after they won an amateur contest in Elkton three years ago. Since that time they have appeared in schools, churches and clubs in the Thumb area.

The act includes Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bauman and six of the family's seven children. The children range from 12 years to four years old.

Each of the youngsters plays one or more instruments.

Kenney, 12, plays the cornet and flute; Cherrie, 11, entertains on the trombone and baritone, while Audrejean, 9, plays the saxophone, flute and vibraharp.

Ronnie, 8, is responsible for the bells, vibraharp and sound effects for the group and Teddy, 7, plays a slide whistle.

Youngest member of the troupe is Dianna, 4, who plays a toy trumpet.

All of the members of the organization play the piano. Included on the program is a reading by Mrs. Bauman. Mr. Bauman is the master of ceremonies for the show.

Mrs. Bauman said that the family receives the most enjoyment from appearances in churches where their performance is regarded as a family testimony of faith and the gospel message.

Seven from County To Enter Armed Forces Thursday

Seven persons from Tuscola County will be inducted into the armed forces Thursday, Feb. 11, at 6:30 a. m. at the VFW Hall in Caro, according to an announcement by the Tuscola County Selective Service Board.

None of the men are from the Cass City area. The list includes: Cyriel VerMerach, Unionville; Walter Miller, Caro; Andrew Polshuk, Clifford; Alfred Titus and Patrick McSherry, both of Mayville; Joseph Theaker, Caro, and Howard Gehris, Fairgrove.

Mr. Theaker and Mr. Gehris are volunteers.

Besides the men reporting for induction, the board announced that eight registrants will report for pre-induction physicals at the same time.

Cancel Lincoln Day Republican Banquet

A Lincoln Day dinner, sponsored by the Republican Party, was cancelled late Wednesday night because authorities in charge of the event were unable to secure a speaker of the stature that the $5-a-plate affair was thought to have warranted.

Members of the committee in charge of the event said Wednesday that persons who have purchased tickets would have their money refunded.

Meanwhile, members of the committee said that plans were already under way to hold the annual banquet at a future date. However, they emphasized that the banquet slated for Saturday, Feb. 13, was definitely cancelled and not postponed.

New Herd Sire

To keep the quality of bloodlines in his herd, M. C. McLellan recently purchased EHR Royal Fashion Fifth from Elmack Hills Ranch at Gaylord for $585. "We consider it a real bargain," Mr. McLellan said, "even though the bull is not proven." The sire of this bull sold at the same sale for over $4,000. Mr. McLellan reports.

65 Registered Herefords

Popular Bloodlines Feature Fine Herd

Starting with five cows bought from Clyde Gilbert, Huron County, in 1946, the registered Hereford herd of M. C. McLellan has grown to 65 head, featuring the most popular bloodlines of the breed.

Over the years since 1946, Mr. McLellan has had herd sires from Crapo Farms, High Point Farms and Ryersburg, Tenn. Most recent sire for the herd was purchased from the Elmack Hills Ranch at Gaylord. The sire, EHR Royal Fashion Fifth, is the son of WH Royal Fashion which sold for over $4,000 at the same sale where Mr. McLellan purchased his sire.

To take care of his herd, Mr. McLellan has 260 acres of land. West of Cass City there are 140 acres and east of Cass City Mr. McLellan has 120 acres.

Of the total of 260 acres, 150 are used for pasture. The herd is turned out each year around June 1 and is kept on pasture until November.

The operation of the McLellan farm differs from the average farm in Tuscola County. Mr. McLellan says that all grain is thrashed instead of combined.

"This makes it possible to winter them cheap," Mr. McLellan asserted, "and that's where you make the money in this business."

He reported that thrashing keeps the bulk in the feed and straw and silage makes excellent feed. For the same reason, the farm shreds its corn, Mr. McLellan said.

In an average year, the farm produces about 30 acres of corn, 20 acres of oats, 15 acres of wheat and 20 acres of hay.

This handles the feeding problem except for special supplements to the feed containing proteins and other elements for a balanced feed, according to Mr. McLellan.

With 30 cows and two herd sires at the farm at the present time, about 20 calves are sold each year, plus one or two that have bad markings or other defects and are sold for beef.

The McLellan farm has sold calves and bulls to many farmers in the area. Among the most recent local sales were a herd sire to Art Klinkman and a heifer to Donald Hutchinson.

Many farmers buy the sires to cross with Holstein cattle for beef purposes. The cross results in a black critter with a white head that makes an excellent beef feeder, Mr. McLellan said.

Naturally, the income on the farm was affected by the price drop in cattle.

However, the McLellan farm was hurt less than it might have been. Instead of selling calves, the animals were held over and bred and brought more money with a calf by side, Mr. McLellan said.

At the end of the free-scoring first quarter, the Hawks trailed 22-19.

Twice this year, Cass City has come up with a quarter where they have netted 28 points. Both times Vassar was the victim in the second period of the game.

Friday night the Hawks' scoring burst placed them in command at the half, 47-40.

In the third quarter, Cass City added four more points to their lead, outscoring Vassar, 18-14. It was only the fifth time in 11 games that they had the edge in that period, despite their 9-2 record.

Both teams played even in the final quarter, netting 16 points each.

Jim McClelland of Vassar led both teams in scoring with 25 points. All of the Hawks' starting five registered in double figures. Comment hit for 16; Bill Tuckey, 15; Simmons, 20; Foy, 15, and Jack Clara, 14.

The Cass City seconds won an easy victory from the Vassar reserves, 49-29.

Tonight the Hawks will play at Crosswell-Lexington in a conference game.

Ground Hog Fails To See Shadow, Despite Sunny Day

Despite the sunny day Tuesday, at least one ground hog failed to see its shadow.

This venerable, long-range weather prophet of legend didn't seem to care if it was raining, shining or snowing outside.

He was comfortably situated in a niche in the gravel under an old milk shanty on the Hollis Seelye farm.

Mr. Seelye decided to move the old structure Tuesday. When he lifted the flooring, he found the ground hog comfortably sleeping on the ground.

After poking it a couple of times with the handle of a pitchfork without much results, Mr. Seelye whacked it on the head and now has the animal as a trophy.

Mr. Seelye said that there were no tracks on the ground around the building. He said that the ground hog probably burrowed under the shed.

By the lack of tracks, Mr. Seelye said, it was apparent that this particular ground hog never did go out to see if his shadow was visible or not.

From 10 to 15 Years in Prison Sentence Moses on Manslaughter Charge

Circuit Judge Timothy C. Quinn sentenced Samuel Moses, 34, to 10 years to 15 years in prison with a recommendation for 10 years, Wednesday, after he had been found guilty of involuntary manslaughter Jan. 5 by a circuit court jury.

Sentencing was delayed until Wednesday so that the court could make a pre-sentence investigation. Moses' record revealed that he had been arrested 17 times previously and spent three terms in Jackson prison.

Moses was found guilty of involuntary manslaughter for killing John Spencer in an auto accident on the corner of Gilford and Unionville Roads Sept. 25.

In other cases before the court Wednesday, a decree was granted to quiet title on a piece of land in Vassar Township. The principals in the case were Charles F. Miller vs. John Wolf.

The case of Florence Levis vs. Roy Levis, the court was asked to set aside a divorce decree granted July 29. The court denied the petition.

In the case Nina Butterfield vs. Harold Butterfield, an order for temporary alimony of $15 weekly was granted and attorney's fees set at $75.

Tom Cottick announced Friday, Jan. 29, that he had completed negotiations with M. C. McLellan and purchased the Cass City Arena, a skating rink on West Main Street.

Mr. Cottick said that he will hold a grand opening of the arena Monday, Feb. 8. To celebrate the purchase, the new owner is planning free admission for skaters, followed by a dance.

For the evening, Little Joe and his orchestra will play at the dance.

The arena will be open every Monday night starting next week, Mr. Cottick said. Skating will be held Monday, Thursday, Saturday afternoon and evening and Sunday.

Other nights of the week will be open for private parties, Mr. Cottick reports.

'Cheap' Chicks May Be Very Expensive

Cheap chicks may cost you a lot of money. Quality birds may cost you more at the start but you'll be taking in profits instead of paying out money. That's the advice of Quentin R. Ostrander, Tuscola County assistant agricultural agent. Chick quality, he points out, is measured in terms of low death rate, efficient use of feed, rapid growth, fast and complete feathering and uniform size. In a laying flock, whether you're getting market eggs or hatching eggs, you want good production. Buying from hatcheries that carry on a good pullorum testing program helps to insure healthy chicks, the county agent emphasizes. Hatcheries and poultry breeders participating in the National Poultry Improvement Plan must meet prescribed standards of pullorum testing as well as sanitation. The pullorum status of any hatchery may be obtained by writing Howard Zindel, head of Michigan State College's poultry department. He administers the NPIP in Michigan.

SHORT STORY

Doctor's Harvest

By F. L. Rowley

"QUITTING, Doc?" Sheriff Giles let the question slide out of the corner of his mouth.

"The people in this town just don't like me sheriff," said young Doctor Stuart thrusting the last of his gleaming instruments into a huge black trunk.

"So I'm leaving— not quitting, mind you—just moving on to some town where I'm needed—and wanted."

"You're needed here Doc." "But not wanted."

"Sure is nice to feel wanted," said Giles grinning. "Like the time we pitched our tents here when I was a young'n, Indians all over the place, screaming and hollering to show us how welcome we was. Some even brought flowers—for our graves. Yep, sure is nice to feel wanted."

"I'm no pioneer," said Doctor Stuart with a sigh. "I've got a wife and baby to feed. If folks here insist on going to nearby towns when they need medical aid there must be a reason. I sure wish I could put my finger on it."

"I'll do it for you—you're too greedy." Doctor Stuart didn't move. He

"I'll do it for you," he said. "You're greedy."

stared across the big desk at Giles. "Well," said Giles, "I got work to do. Sorry I had to be so blunt Doc. Never was much with fancy words."

"Wait!" Doctor Stuart snapped. "I want to thresh this out. You say I'm greedy. I say my fees are moderate; why in the big city—"

"Doc, you're smart, but you don't know much about farm folks—or farm towns either. You want to feed your wife and baby. I tell you that your wife—and a dozen babies—won't be able to eat all the stuff left on your porch come harvest time—if you do things our way. All bills are paid and supplies laid in after the harvest. Of course, it's always a gamble. Some years are lean, others fat. We don't have much cash this time of year but we eat pretty well—all of us. How about it Doc?"

"Betty isn't going to like this," murmured Doctor Stuart as he began to unpack his bags.

Sheriff Giles whistled as he trotted down Hillcrest's main street a few minutes later. He planned to argue the doctor's cause at the town-meeting that evening. He knew it was going to be a stiff task trying to convince those hard-headed councilmen that Doctor Stuart couldn't live on notes and promises until harvest time.

Then Giles found the answer. It tore down on him in the person of Mrs. Rogers, county news-caster. Mrs. Rogers was delighted to learn that young Doctor Stuart considered her one of the most charming women in Hillcrest. She was thrilled to death to hear that the good doctor had thrown similar—though smaller bouquets, naturally—to her friends.

The town meeting was a howling success. Doctor Stuart was invited—the first time since he had come to Hillcrest. Mrs. Rogers made a motion to create a health-center with Dr. Stuart as its director. Sheriff Giles was for a hospital. The good doctor's pretty wife Betty looked as if she were about to cry.

You could have heard a pin drop when Doctor Stuart stood up. He looked straight at Sheriff Giles as he spoke:

"Something wonderful happened today, my friends. I've lived and worked in Hillcrest nearly six months now—today, for the first time, I got a good look at the town. I like it. I'd like to stay. The projects you mention flatter me but they're not practicable at this time. I'm sure you won't object to your country doctor riding about the countryside in his old car. As for bills—well, we'll wait to see what the harvest brings—"

Cheers stopped the doctor's speech. Glowing words of praise were heard from all over the hall. When at last the meeting broke up and Dr. Stuart spied the sheriff leaving by the side door he tugged at Giles' sleeve:

"All right sheriff, how'd you do it?"

"I just told Mrs. Rogers that you said she's beautiful—she did the rest."

... And Sheriff Giles chuckled as he walked away. He could hear the red-faced Dr. Stuart trying to convince Betty that he had said no such thing.

To brag continually about ancestors is merely a confession you are missing the front page yourself.

Very often a high-powered salesman outwits himself in his big scheme of trying to outwit others.

Final Rites Held for George S. Spencer

Funeral services for George S. Spencer, 84, of Deford, were held Thursday at 2 p. m. in the Douglas Funeral Home. Rev. Miss Edith Smith, pastor of the Deford Methodist Church, officiated and burial was in Novesta Cemetery.

Mr. Spencer, in poor health for some time, died Feb. 1, in the home of a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Lyle Spencer of Harbor Beach, just 12 days following the death of his wife, Josephine.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Theron and Mary Spencer, he was born at Five Lakes, Michigan, June 21, 1879. He married Miss Josephine McCain July 29, 1891, at Caro. She died Jan. 20.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Roy Colwell of Saginaw; two sons, Seth L. of Dearborn and Alvah A. of Auburn Hts.; 13 grandchildren, and 17 great-grandchildren. Three children preceded him in death.

CAP News

Despite the fact that not as many cadets as usual were present at the meeting Jan. 28, because of the bad weather, the club continued classes on communications. The subject was an introduction to Morse code.

Members also reviewed general orders and the phonetic alphabet. The latter is used in radio work. In addition, the cadets participated in a short drill session.

Farm Inheritance Described in New Special Bulletin

What happens to Michigan farm property after the death of an owner in case he leaves no will is described in a new publication available at the County Agricultural Agent's office, Special Bulletin 388, "Inheritance of Farm Property in Michigan," has suggestions that may help farm families to avoid or lessen difficulties in the inheritance, says County Agent Alfred Ballweg.

The bulletin describes the Michigan laws on the inheritance of farm property, by descent and by will, and certain related laws. It is authored by Harold Ellis, of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics and Raleigh Barlowe and E. B. Hill of Michigan State College's agricultural economics department.

The publication presents examples of how Michigan law has been interpreted in various situations in the disposition of property among heirs. It also describes the special rights of a widow in real estate, how an estate is settled without proceedings, rights and duties of heirs acquiring undivided ownership, advantages and limitations of wills, how to make out a will and other facts on the inheritance problem.

Spring Pigs Depend On Brood Sow Care

The kind of spring pigs the farmer raises depends a great deal on the kind of winter care and management he gives his brood sows, suggests Alfred P. Ballweg, Tuscola County agricultural agent.

He passes along these pointers from J. A. Hoefler, Michigan State College animal husbandman. Hoefler says clean, dry, well-bedded winter housing free from drafts is particularly important because of the danger of respiratory diseases—"flu" and pneumonia. He advises placing the sleeping quarters some distance from the feeding area to make sure the sow gets exercise. Water is one of the most important parts of the ration and it's frequently overlooked. Sows won't break ice and drink all the water they need.

Make sure pigs are free of the damaging parasites, lice and mange, by treating the sow or gilt with either lindane or benzene hexachloride.

Feed well-balanced rations, but don't overfeed. The average sow should gain from 75 to 100 pounds during the gestation period. Go easy on corn and use plenty of oats, alfalfa and supplement. The supplement may be either home-mixed, containing at least 20 per cent animal protein, or it may be a good commercial 85 per cent sow and pig supplement.

The right kind of care and management of the bred sow during the winter is an investment that will pay dividends in the form of strong, vigorous pigs at farrowing time, concludes Hoefler.

MICHIGAN MIRROR NEWS BRIEFS

A battle against Michigan's geography can begin now that other battles have been won in the fields of engineering, finance and law.

The way was cleared late last month for the construction of a bridge across the Straits of Mackinac. Last year lawmakers approved a bond issue to finance submitted plans. In December investors agreed to provide the required money. Then legality of the bond issue was questioned. Supreme Justices heard the arguments; ruled the proposition constitutional.

Design of the bridge was tested in the wind tunnel at Virginia Polytechnic Institute. It is planned to withstand a wind speed of 120 miles per hour, far more than the highest record wind of 78 mph., to carry a load equal to a continual line of heavy trucks about 50 feet apart on each of its four lanes; to resist an ice pressure of 65,000 pounds per lineal foot.

When the longest bridge in the world spans Mackinac Straits, it will stretch over a distance of some five miles. Height of suspension anchorages is 552 feet, higher than Detroit's Fisher building. Road level of the bridge is 148 feet above the water. Anchorages are bedded on solid rock, about 95 feet below the water's surface.

The 3,800 foot suspension portion of the bridge is second only to the 4,200 foot distance over San Francisco Bay. Adding the length of the approaches, the Straits bridge will exceed by one half mile the four and one half structure in California. It should last more than 100 years, according to its designers.

Cost of the bridge will reach nearly $160 million including interest, according to present arrangements.

Construction cost at today's prices is $80 million. The legislature approved a bond issue of $99,800,000 which includes money to handle the bonds and pay interest until revenue from toll charges can be collected. The balance represented interest until the bond issue is redeemed.

Much more than a convenient means for southern Michigan deer hunters to travel to Michigan's Upper Peninsula, the gigantic structure which will join the state's two great land areas holds new hope for north Michigan people.

"Immediate economic boom" was predicted by Cheboygan's Mayor John Werner. "As the number of tourists increases, the amount of gas tax will climb," predicts Arthur Michelin, vice-president of the Eastern Michigan Tourist Association. "Visitors will spend more money on vacation trips and northern Michigan counties will get a larger return from sales and gas taxes which will benefit our schools and roads."

Construction operations, in themselves, will create a boom. About 1,000 engineers, divers, riggers and other workers will be required to move into the Straits area for an estimated three year building period. Wives and families of workers will swell the total still more. Their housing, school and living needs will tax available facilities. The dimes and dollars they spend will make pleasant additions to the area's cash registers.

Work is planned for eight months each year. December through March are considered unsuitable for most construction operations because of weather conditions. "Mountains" of materials are needed to complete the task. Designer David B. Steiman expects to use 85,000 cubic yards of concrete (enough to build 26 miles of two lane pavement, nine inches thick) to construct each of four massive cable anchorages. Total pull at each anchorage of the two cables supporting the main span is computed at 30,000 tons. Work should be completed by Nov. 1, 1957.

Toll rates will remain equal to present ferry costs for private automobiles, according to present plans of the bridge authority. This averages $2.78 per vehicle including passengers.

If there are increases, they will apply against commercial users. Reasoning is that truck operators will still save money because drivers will not have to wait for ferries as they do at present.

If crossing equals the expected number, toll revenue will meet the terms of the bonds and provide a balance to pay them off before the expiration date.

The present bridge authority consists of seven Michigan men who serve without pay. Chairman is Prentiss M. Brown, former U. S. senator and chairman of the board of the Detroit Edison Company.

Other members are Mead L. Bricker of Detroit, former vice-president of Ford Motor; William J. Cochran, Jr., Iron Mountain, a General Motors distributor; Charles T. Fisher, Jr., president of the National Bank of Detroit; George A. Osborn, publisher of the Sault Ste. Marie Evening News; Murray D. Van-Wagoner, Birmingham, former highway commissioner; Charles M. CONCERT CHOIR

Featured on the program to be given in Caro will be a cycle of songs, "The Songs of Conquest," by Earl McDonald, prominent American composer of both choral and orchestral music. In addition to selections of contemporary music, the choir will present representative compositions from the 16th century church music composers and from the more familiar Russian church composers.

The concert choir is composed of 64 selected voices chosen on the basis of auditions. Students in the choir from this area are: Marilyn Jones, Caro; Richard Gwinn, Pigeon; Lorraine Shouits, Brown City; Paul Oberle, Silverwood, and Roger Parrish, Cass City.

Crops Meeting at Fairgrove Feb. 10

The latest on general crop production practices, including crop varieties, certified seed, good soil tillage, fertilizer use, soil drainage and other timely topics will be discussed by a panel of Michigan State College specialists, Paul Rood, Milt Erdmann and Bill Cutler, in the Fairgrove High School gym, Wednesday, February 10, beginning at 1:30 p. m., reports Alfred P. Ballweg, Tuscola County agricultural agent.

Highlighting the meeting will be a local panel of three farmers who will follow the MSC specialists and each will tell what good crop production practices are carried out on their farm and results obtained, said Ballweg.

Coffee and doughnuts will be served at the close of the meeting. The meeting will be open to all farmers and businessmen.

Broiler Contest to Start February 21

George C. MacQueen, county 4-H club agent, reminds youth interested in raising broilers that the 4-H chicken-of-tomorrow contest will start the week of February 21. The first meeting is an open meeting to be held at the Caro Michigan Bean Elevator Wednesday, February 10, starting at 8:00 p. m. All youth who are 10 to 21 years of age and interested in raising broilers should come to this meeting with their parents.

This project lasts for eleven weeks and each member should start with 100 straight-run chicks. The 4-H agent reminds interested members that pullets from this project will be laying when egg prices are most favorable during September and October. A member could continue on in laying flock work from the chicken-of-tomorrow program.

MARSHALL WELLS' SUGAR BEET DIGEST

MSC says Grow Sugar Beets!

Michigan farmers can sharply increase the number of acres of sugar beets this year and still not upset the industry's economy. Even an acre-to-acre swap of beets for corn or wheat won't be out of line. That's what John Doneth, Farm Management Specialist, and L. H. Brown, Agricultural Economist, say.

Keep Rotation Programs Intact Wheat quotas are forcing rotation changes on nearly every farm. Corn quotas may do the same thing. However, keep crop rotation programs intact, they caution.

Beet Price Stable Sugar beet prices are higher than most other crops, points out the MSC Agricultural Economist. They do not vary as much as other crops, because sugar beet prices are governed by the Sugar Act of 1948.

Labor Supply Ample Brown says, there is an ample labor supply and farmers are making greater use of machinery, both in spring and fall.

Fall Plowing Not Needed Sugar beets don't need fall plowing. This has been proved by Experiment Station trials. Spring plowing is just as good. This gives you a chance to carry an over-winter cover crop. College muck specialists add that beets make a good rotation crop with mint on muck land.

Livestock Need Care in Winter

It's Not Too Late To Take Precautions

Winter calls for good care of livestock, and winter will be with us for a while yet. County agents are handing out tips and suggestions regarding utilization of time during the possible bad months remaining. Here they are:

Animal Husbandry

1. Utilize such crops as small grains, rye grass and crimson clover, fescue and Ladino clover, or other winter forages for beef cattle, sheep, and hogs. 2. Where grazing is not sufficient, see that the beef-breeding herd has enough cheap roughages and grain and cottonseed meal to prevent loss of weight. 3. Buy steers to graze winter forage crops. 4. Do not sell

Access to an ample, clean supply of water is important to the well-being of cattle during the winter months.

cheap pigs. Feed them out for next spring market. 5. Give sheep one-half pound of grain daily and all the legume hay they will eat. 6. See that all classes of livestock have shelter and bedding and provide extra bedding during cold snaps. 7. Repair fences during spare time. 8. Kill hogs for home use when weather conditions are suitable.

Dairying

1. Feed good quality roughages, such as grazing, silage, and legume hay, to the limit of milking cow's appetite. 2. Feed grain in proportion to milk produced by each cow. 3. Do a good job of milking—fast, complete, and at regular intervals. 4. Give dairy cattle access to pure, fresh drinking water. 5. Observe calves for lice and internal parasites. 6. Produce quality dairy products. 7. Keep rest barns well bedded for a big supply of manure.

Poultry

1. Make the poultry house free from drafts. 2. Examine the laying flock for lice and mites, as an infestation of either will lower egg production. 3. Use lights for more fall and winter eggs. 4. Feed grain liberally, along with laying mash, to keep layers in good flesh. 5. Provide a green grazing crop. 6. Get brooding equipment in order.

Turkeys

1. Book order for poult. 2. Make repairs to brooder houses, brooder stoves, and water system. 3. Plow or disk old turkey ranges to check leaching out of droppings. 4. Buy any needed equipment for next year's operation. 5. There is still time to sow rye grass for grazing for early poult.

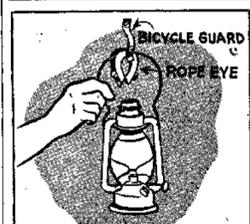

Business Decline

Many agricultural economists believe that general business in the year ahead is expected to decline moderately from recent high levels. They are not predicting a depression or a great slump, merely a slight decline.

Meat Supplies

The Department of Agriculture predicts that next year will be another year of large supplies of meat, with proportion of beef again high and the proportion of pork low. The cattle marketed will be of lighter weights.

LANTERN HANGER

There are still times when a lantern is needed in a barn or outside building, or when electricity fails. It's a wise idea, if you ever use a lantern, to provide hangers which will assure that the lantern will not fall or be kicked over by livestock. The hanger shown may be simply constructed. It consists of a rope eye attached with three screws and a bicycle guard. The top of the guard is secured with a screw, the bottom rests on the rope eye.

All the world expects of a college graduate is that he has learned how to learn.

Usually the folks who worry about nothing are those who have nothing to worry about.

Annual Meeting

The annual county-wide meeting of members of farmers' clubs will be held at the Caro Methodist Church beginning at 12:00 noon, March 4, advises Carl Smith of Unionville, federation president.

Chairmen of various committees handling arrangements for the annual event are: general chairman—Mrs. Foster Hickey, Fairgrove, Liberty Farmers' Club; program chairman—Mrs. William Beaven, Millington, South Millington Farmers' Club; dinner and ticket sales—Mrs. Alton Reavey, Akron, Liberty Farmers' Club; reception committee—Mrs. Elmer Schriber, Caro, Linden Farmers' Club.

Many a man who throws bouquets at himself continually finds he's the world's worst marksman.

JUNIOR CAGERS

Continued from page one. tion include: John Donahue, Raymond Fox, Gordon Peters, Leroy Copeland and Mike Fritz. The boys will play their annual tourney this year at Marlette. Tournament dates have been set for Feb. 21, 23 and 26.
