

Ten School Districts

Plan Meetings to Discuss New School

Members of the Quick, Ferguson, Crawford, Deford, Leek, Seelbach, Greenwood, Paul, Brown and Wilmot school districts will hold meetings in the near future to discuss the advisability of reorganization into a new district with a centralized elementary school in the Deford area.

The meetings were scheduled following an open meeting of the interested districts held Thursday, June 3, at the Novesta Township Hall.

Three proposed plans were discussed by persons at the Thursday meeting. One plan includes all of the districts except Paul, Brown and Wilmot. If this basic group entered into a reorganization plan, there would be at least 200 pupils attending the proposed new school.

To house them, the new school would have seven classrooms, small gymnasium and stage, hot lunch kitchen, toilets, office, storage rooms and heating plant. This school would cost an estimated $150,000.

If the Paul, Brown and Wilmot schools entered, an additional two classrooms would have to be built.

The basic districts would have a valuation of $1,066,683. If the Paul and Brown schools entered the reorganization, the valuation would be $1,485,339. If Wilmot also entered, the valuation would be $1,687,339.

If the reorganization is completed, the district would have about $20,000 on hand, leaving $125,000 to be raised through a bond issue.

Assuming an eight-mill tax, the basic district could pay for the construction of the building in about 20 years.

If the remaining three districts entered, an additional $20,000 would be needed for two more classrooms and the debt could be paid off in about 15 years.

If the elementary school is built, it will be the third large elementary unit in the Cass City area. Gagetown and Evergreen now operate schools of the type proposed at the special meeting Thursday.

If the meetings scheduled in the various districts produce a favorable response, petitions will be circulated in each district. It will be necessary for the majority of voters in each school district to express their willingness to bring the question to a vote before the issue can be decided by ballot.

Collision Kills Phelps Friday Near Mayville

A head-on collision Friday on Brown Road near the Tripp School, south and west of Mayville, killed E. Donald Phelps, 21, driver of one of the vehicles.

The crash occurred when Phelps, traveling west on Brown Road, hit Charles J. Wells, traveling east, on the crest of a hill.

The collision caused the Phelps car to roll over four times in a distance of 150 feet. The car driven by Wells skidded approximately 100 feet off the road into a ditch.

Neither Wells nor Marilyn Seddon, a passenger in the Wells car, was injured.

Mrs. Phelps, riding with her husband, suffered from shock, cuts and bruises but was not seriously injured.

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department which investigated said that both cars were driving near the center of the road when the crash occurred.

Local Scouts Win Honors at Annual Council Camporee

Twenty Cass City scouts and Scoutmaster Harold Oatley went to the annual council-wide Camporee at Ojibway Island Park, Saginaw, last week end. Three of their four patrols won blue ribbons in the all-day competition in scouting skills; one patrol rated second highest among more than 100 patrols present at the camporee.

The second prize was won by the Staff patrol, of which Jack Perry, junior assistant scoutmaster, served as patrol leader. Other troop junior leaders in the patrol were Fred Leeson, senior patrol leader; Tom Hullen, another junior assistant scoutmaster; Douglas Gingrich, senior crew leader; Clayton Neiman and Michael Fritz, quartermasters, and Harold Patterson, scribe. Each boy received a late model flashlight.

The blue ribbon award, which required an average rating of 70% on the camporee events, was earned by two more of the Cass City patrols. The Panther patrol, Delbert Law, patrol leader, received the next highest score. Other members of the group were John Starmann, assistant patrol leader, and David Ackerman, Bill Ross and Bradley Roberts. Jim Hutchinson's Beaver patrol also qualified for the award.

Boys in the patrol were Wesley Ball, Dick Hunt, Grant Hutchinson and Robert Johnson. Fewer than one third of the patrols present at the camporee qualified for the ribbon. Cass City's other patrol, the Wolf, had only three. Continued on page 12.

54 Attend Final WSCS Meeting

Fifty-four ladies attended the June WSCS supper meeting at the Methodist Church Monday evening.

After the supper, served by group five, the youth, who were guests at the meeting, presented a program depicting their fellowship and its purposes.

Mrs. Clara Eastman conducted the business meeting when the finance committee recommended an annual budget that was approved by members.

Mrs. G. A. Martin was presented with an adult life membership in the Detroit Conference of the WSCS. She then told the group some of the highlights of her 60 years of church work.

Meetings of the WSCS will be suspended during the summer months and be resumed in September.

Foy Receives Two Honors for Work In Senior Year

Russell Foy, Cass City, received two outstanding awards for ability when he was honored by the Michigan State College Alumni Club and the Detroit Times.

The Detroit newspaper named Mr. Foy to Michigan's all-state squad. Russ was one of 12 athletes chosen for the honor in the state.

The selection on the mythical squad is based on participation in sports in every season during

The senior class of 1954 of Cass City High School received their diplomas Tuesday night at a commencement program held at the school auditorium. The program climaxed several weeks of activities including baccalaureate Sunday evening.

From the Editor's Corner

It's probably no news to most persons in the area, but the Michigan Conservation Department reports a rosy outlook for pheasant hunters this fall.

Most experts are predicting that the hunting will be better than last year—and last year was the best since 1950.

A million-plus kill is expected if the hunting pressure is as great as it was last fall.

The department didn't say so, but we assume they meant pheasants and were not counting the chickens, cows and other farm animals that receive a share of the annual bombardment.

If you're over 65 and male, chances are you'll head for a small town—if you're over 65 and female, chances are that you'll head for the bright lights of the big city, say experts at the University of Michigan.

Now, we have not conducted a survey and this is just our opinion, but if the facts were available, we'd bet that male or female, if persons have lived their life in Cass City or similar villages, they stay right there regardless of their sex.

We know offhand at least a half dozen cases where this is true in Cass City.

Slate Band Concerts For Summer Months

Music Director Ralph Powell announced the summer band practice program and special summer band events this week and said that three band concerts are slated in June, July and August.

Concerts are slated for Tuesday, June 29, Tuesday, July 13, and Tuesday, Aug. 3. In addition, Mr. Powell said, a junior band concert will be held Tuesday, July 27. The fifth and sixth grade bands will participate.

Present plans call for the high school band to practice each Tuesday evening. Both band groups will play at the annual

Slate Benefit Show

In answer to many requests, the Shabbona Home Demonstration Group has scheduled a repeat performance of their laugh provoking show, "Spring Fantasies," at the Shabbona School.

The proceeds from the event will be used to buy equipment for the Evergreen Township Unit School.

Slate Old Settlers' Reunion Thursday

The annual Old Settlers' reunion will be held this year Thursday, June 17, at the Methodist Church in Deford.

Present plans call for the group to meet at noon for a pot-luck dinner. After an hour of visiting they will meet in the church auditorium for a program.

An entertaining program has been arranged by the committee and interested persons are asked to come and enjoy the day.

Capacity Crowds at Graduation Exercises

Capacity crowds greeted the 1954 graduating class of Cass City High School at both Commencement programs this week.

Using as his theme, "Your Legacy to the World," Rev. Melvin R. Vender of the Presbyterian Church addressed the graduates at Sunday night's Baccalaureate service. He urged the members of the class to achieve those qualities of character and spiritual greatness which will make their lives a noble legacy to mankind. Using as his text the Biblical admonition, "A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of things he possesses," he enjoined them to seek the abiding treasures of life. Music was furnished by the high school glee club and band.

Dr. W. W. Whitehouse, president of Albion College, gave the Commencement address at Tuesday evening's final exercises. He challenged the graduates with the thought that they were entering the world at one of its most critical and yet most promising periods. He gave three suggestions to those who would face tomorrow successfully. First, he said, be resourceful. "No matter what you may find yourself doing, you will gain your greatest success if you are able to think clearly and independently." Second, he urged the young persons to be resilient. "This is a tough world," he reminded them. "You must be able to take it—to bounce back from the inevitable setbacks and misfortunes you will meet." His final word of advice was to be reliable. "The world is looking for people who can be trusted—who will do a job to the best of their ability, no matter how small or great it may be."

Russell Foy, class president, conducted the program and called on Salutatorian Joyce Little, Valedictorian Donna O'Dell and exchange student Klaus Schulze to address the large audience. Emma Jane Sickler, Phyllis Copeland and Margit Tordai supplied musical numbers while Jack Cook offered the closing prayer.

In awarding honors to class members, Principal Arthur Holmberg recognized the National Honor Society members and presented medals to the salutatorian and valedictorian. Scholarships to Central Michigan College of Education went to Phyllis Copeland, Donna O'Dell and Mary

Okay Final Plans For School Addition

Final plans for the proposed addition to the elementary school at Cass City have been approved and the school board is advertising for bids on the bonds this week.

Authorities were unable to say when the first work would begin or when bids for the construction work would be let.

Cass City Pool Slated to Open Early Next Week

Plans are under way to open Cass City's municipal swimming pool early next week. Several improvements have been made at the pool since the last season. Larger drain facilities at the wading pool will make it possible to keep it in better condition. The swimming pool and the fence around it have been repainted. A new diving board has been installed.

Hours of operation will remain as they have been. An expansion has been planned, however, in the Red Cross program which will start early in July.

Arthur Holmberg will again supervise the pool operation and Roger Parrish will serve as life-guard and instructor.

The Cass City Church of the Nazarene has paid the final $750 of its church debt and completed a new garage at the parsonage of the church, it was disclosed at the annual meeting of the church held Wednesday, June 2.

Reports by the various departments of the church showed that $6,104.73 was given by members of which $575.00 was earmarked for missionary work.

Rev. Earl M. Crane, pastor, said that Sunday School attendance increased 10 per cent during the year.

Officers for the church were also elected at the meeting. They will assume their duties in August.

The officers elected were: Sunday School superintendent, Mrs. Ivan Tracy; church school board members, Violetta Faltinowski, Mrs. Harold Guinther and Mrs. Herbert Wagner; board of trustees, Stanton March, John

Washington Trip Described by Two Cass City Seniors

Ann Lorentzen and Raymond Hendrick, graduating seniors from Cass City High School, described their trip to Washington, D. C., with the senior class, Tuesday at the regular meeting of the Cass City Rotary Club held at the New Garden Hotel.

Miss Lorentzen told about the trip to Washington, the hotel the seniors stayed in and told how the money was raised by the class to meet expenses. She said that the trip cost almost $70 per student.

Mr. Hendrick told of the final days of the trip and regaled his audience with intimate high-lights of the trip and activities of the seniors.

He was impressed by the caravans he visited and told of his experience at the hotel coffee shop where "hamburgers cost 75 cents and a cup of coffee was a quarter."

Two Sentenced to 30 Days in Jail In Justice Court

Two Tuscola men are spending 30 days in jail after sentencing at justice court this week. John Wilczak, 28, of Vassar was sentenced for assault and battery on his wife and was ordered to pay $10.90 court costs.

Eli Putnam, 66, of Gilford is spending 30 days in jail for drunk driving. He paid court costs of $5.65.

Two other justice court cases resulted in fines.

Gerald Hessler, 20, of Sebewaing was fined $25 and paid court costs of $9.20 for illegal transportation of beer. Harold Degg, 22, of Sebewaing was also fined $25 and costs of $9.20 for furnishing beer to a minor.

In the only other justice court case, John Provorse, 22, a Flint bartender, was arrested for non-support and bound over to circuit court on $200 bond.

Several important steps in county government were discussed at a meeting of the Tuscola County supervisors Monday at the courthouse in Caro.

Top problem facing the group is the matter of equalization. An opinion was read from Attorney General Frank Millard, who stated that when a school district overlaps into two different counties, the county must accept the state's assessed valuation.

At the present time, Tuscola County is assessed at 68 per cent of the valuation placed on the property by the state.

However, no action was taken by the supervisors. There is a case pending in court to decide whether the state has the right to force its assessed value on counties affected.

In the near future, Tuscola County will probably purchase cars for the use of the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

In previous years, the cars had been purchased by the sheriff and the county paid mileage to the sheriff for operating the cars.

The supervisors had nearly decided to purchase three Ford cars when the question of bids on the autos was submitted for consideration.

Pending an investigation, the matter was tabled until July for investigation prior to purchase of the vehicles.

Mental Health Clinic.

A report from authorities of Adult Mental Health Clinic showed that the organization spent $1,670.91 in 1953-54 and received $1,758.00 from all sources. Of this amount, $1,500.00 was received from Tuscola County.

New Tables. The supervisors acted on a request from the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department and authorized the expenditure of $156.68 for six new metal tables for the county jail.

Helwig's No-Hitter Leads Lions Club Team to Victory

The Cass City Lions Club's softball team won its first start in the Caro Softball League behind the no-hit pitching of Elwyn Helwig.

The ace Cass City hurler struck out 14 in the seven-inning game and was in complete control of the game as his mates backed his hurling with an eight-hit attack for an easy 7-0 victory over Ellington.

Center fielder, Tom Schwaderer, was the hitting star of the game as he lashed out three hits in the initial game.

The Lions' team was playing without the services of Leroy and Dean Hoag and Russ Foy, who were forced to miss the game because of graduation exercises.

The team opened the game with Jerry Raymond behind the plate, Helwig pitching. Pete Martin on first, Jerry Little on second, Maynard Helwig at shortstop, Lee Hartel on third, Milt Hnatuk in left field, Schwaderer in center and Ronnie Geiger in right.

Later in the game, manager Al Galvanek used several substitutes without appreciably weakening the team.

The team was scheduled to have played its second game Thursday night against Caro State Hospital, Galvanek said.

Gavel Club Helps With Cub Tryouts

The Gavel Club adjourned early Tuesday evening to assist with Cub Pack activities at the recreation park. The Cubs, who are sponsored in Cass City by the Gavel Club, were having tryouts for their coming field day and Gavel members were asked to help with judging and timing.

At their business session, the members discussed two proposals for raising funds for the 1954 Christmas display. Projects were suggested by Jack Esau and Lloyd Vyse, and committees were appointed to work on them.

The committee report recommending a jointly sponsored wrestling show was accepted. Together with the Lions and the Rotarians, the club will sponsor wrestling at the high school June 26.

The money from this show is to be spent on a summer playground program.

Decline in Prices Must Be Considered

Unit Cost Is Key To Getting Profits

Once, long ago the farmer grew his crops, harvested, then went off to market—"hoping" he would get a good price.

Gone are those days. Now, the farmer often has a fair idea of what a crop will bring at harvest time when he plants his first seeds in the ground.

Because of these facts, the wise farmer can still make a profit when prices decline by growing

PRICES

COSTS

Best insurance against profit losses when prices decline is a high crop yield per acre. It will pay in the long run to invest more in proper fertilizers.

bigger yields per acre and thus reducing the unit cost of production.

Dr. Garth Volk, Ohio State University agronomist, summed it up with the statement, "In farming there is no substitute for efficiency." "Regardless of price levels," he said, "the unit cost of production decides whether a farmer makes money. Thus anything that raises the yield per acre at a nominal cost reduces the production cost per unit. Fertilizers do just that."

Dr. Volk reported that in one Ohio test, fertilizer returned $4.02 in increased crop value per dollar invested. In this test the crop yield increase was $62.20 from $13 spent on plant food. In two other tests, fertilizers costing $22 and $24 boosted the crop value by $61.64 and $69.08 respectively, for each dollar invested in fertilizer.

On the basis of these tests, it appears wise for the farmer to consider taking action to assure greater yields and lower unit cost when indications are that prices will be sub-standard when the crops are in.

Choice of the proper fertilizer is an important factor, since price and ability to produce the best results will figure into the final net profits.

Flattery has been defined as the practice of sprinkling salt on the tail of vanity.

The Bethel College quartet and Rev. Beck will appear at the Mizpah United Missionary Church Saturday, June 12. Rev. Beck is the director of the quartet and is scheduled to be the

TOO MUCH FORESIGHT

Many people are so worried about the future that they overlook the tasks of the present.

MICHIGAN MIRROR NEWS BRIEFS

An enemy invasion, which threatens to spread all over Michigan, is being combatted in the central part of the state.

If present tactics are successful, the threat will be eliminated. If not, more extensive means must be employed. Already $150,000 of Michigan money has been appropriated in this battle. Future activities will be even more costly. The alternative—doing nothing—is infinitely more expensive.

The foe in this case is the gypsy moth. Insignificant sounding perhaps, but known to be one of the most destructive of insects. In its larva, or caterpillar stage the gypsy moth satisfies its prodigious appetite on the green leaves of trees, shrubs and other leafy plants. The larvae appear in such astonishing numbers that they can totally destroy all foliage in an area.

State officials were faced with the urgent problem of what to do. The choice was to immediately adopt a program involving spraying and other precautions in cooperation with federal authorities, or face a federal quarantine under which every material that stands out-of-doors would be inspected and certified before it could leave the area. They chose to take action.

"Never in the 80 years that I have worked in this field did I see such splendid cooperation between various branches of the government and the community," stated C. A. Boyer, chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry for the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Boyer told the story of how the gypsy moth came to be found for the first time west of Pennsylvania.

"A peculiar bug is raising havoc with my plants," reported a Lansing housewife to the city forestry office. "Will you tell me what to do to get rid of it?"

Samples of the insect picked by these men showed it to be foreign to the area. They called upon Boyer of the Agriculture department; Dr. Gordon E. Guyer and Prof. Ray Hutson of Michigan State College's entomology department. These men identified the insect as the destructive gypsy moth.

and Highway departments were quickly called into consultation and the United States Department of Agriculture was notified. USDA sent ten top experts, headed by Vern Odell, a leading gypsy moth fighter of 30 years experience in New England. Together they studied the situation.

Quick action was taken by the Governor. He called the "Little Legislature" into emergency session and $150,000 was set aside for a mammoth "de-moth-ing program."

The "Little Legislature" consists of members from the House Ways and Means and the Senate Finance Committees. About $500,000 is budgeted each year for emergencies. It was from this fund that the $150,000 was appropriated.

Plans to spray 104,000 acres of Ingham and Clinton counties were put into effect. A four motor B-17 and three single motor planes were hired to spread 58,000 gallons of a DDT solution from an altitude of only 200 feet. The multimotor plane was to fly over the metropolitan areas. Spraying was to be done when wind velocity was less than eight miles per hour. Cost of spraying: $76,560. Residents would also benefit from DDT's effect of killing flies and mosquitoes.

Spraying contract was awarded to Central Airlines of Yakima, Wash., a group of flyers experienced in insect fighting in the country's forests.

Traps will be set for the gypsy moth in a circular area stretching 50 miles in all directions from Lansing.

Boyer says that Washington has indicated to the state Agricultural department that money will be appropriated in the national office on a matching fund basis to help fight the moth if it continues to be a problem in Michigan.

Nature makes the gypsy moth a difficult opponent. Its eggs are laid on "almost anything" from a stone to an automobile. From 4,000 to 5,000 eggs make up a mass; as many as 400 masses are found in one group.

Eggs hatch into larvae which float through the air. When it lands, "it chews the heck out of everything green—even pine needles." Once developed into adulthood, the female quickly becomes so heavy with eggs, she cannot fly.

Reports of the moth in other parts of the state were not long in arriving. Several came from areas along US 16, Brighton and Detroit.

These, and all others that are made are to be quickly investigated. If conditions warrant, spraying and other weapons will be put to use.

Men have been fighting the gypsy moth for nearly half a century in New England. Every effort possible will be made in Michigan to win the battle early—before the enemy is able to become firmly entrenched.

THE LAW REQUIRES TURN SIGNAL LIGHTS

FOR ALL COMMERCIAL VEHICLES

Senate Bill No. 1268

Changes in the Michigan Vehicle Code has been signed into a bill by the Governor on April 29, 1954, effective August 13, 1954. The most important part of the Bill is as follows:

Any motor commercial vehicle in use on a highway shall be equipped with, and required signal shall be given by, a signal lamp or lamps or mechanical signal device when the distance from the center of the top of the steering post to the left outside limit of the body, cab or load of such motor vehicle exceeds 24 inches, or when the distance from the center of the top of the steering post to the rear limit of the body or load thereof exceeds 14 feet. The latter measurement shall apply to any single vehicle, also to any combination of vehicles.

Those of you who must have these signal lights, to abide by the law, we urge you to have them installed at once. From the above bill it appears that practically every commercial vehicle must have these lights by August 13, 1954.

Faber - Tuckey Wed In Pennsylvania

She wore a chapel length veil with a skull cap and carried a white orchid with lilies of the valley.

Maid of honor was Miss H. Marek of DuPont. She wore a blue gown featuring a silk bodice with a v-neckline and a net skirt. Her picture hat was of blue net and she carried two baby orchids.

Green Pastures for Green Dollars

By Quentin R. Ostrander,
Assistant County Agricultural Agent

Are you going to use some sudan grass for mid-summer pasture? It should be planted now with at least 300 lbs. per acre of 10-10-10 or 12-12-12 fertilizer. If you have it planted already with a low nitrogen fertilizer like 3-12-12, an application of 20 to 30 lbs. of actual nitrogen as a top-dressing will really pay off in increased yields.

Check those low ground pastures for white Dutch clover. This is a real milk producer and usually needs only an application of 0-20-10, or 0-20-20 to make it grow.

A number of pastures on low ground have areas covered with willow brush or other bushy shrubs. Cows don't give milk on willow pasture so why not use some brush killer spray, such as Esteron 245 or Esteron brush killer. Three to four quarts of the brush killer per 100 gallons of water applied when the plants are in full leaf will do an excellent job of killing this stuff.

A lot of folks are wondering what that yellow blossom weed is that is showing up so heavily in some of the first year seedling and also in oat fields, roadsides and fence rows. The rascal's name is yellow rocket. It is a winter annual and also a biennial and a member of the mustard family. Cows won't eat it in either hay or pasture. They will eat it when it's in grass silage.

The roadsides and fence rows can be sprayed with weed killers, such as MCP but don't use it in the legume pasture except on a trial basis. One of the commercial companies recommends it for use in red clover and alfalfa meadows for control of yellow rocket and similar weeds but they say it must be applied early in the spring before the legume starts to grow.

Michigan State College specialist Dr. Buford Grigsby has a number of different chemicals under field trial this summer for control of yellow rocket and he hopes to come up with one that will be safe to use in legumes.

Another aid in avoiding a pasture shortage is to get rid of those "boarder" cows now. They don't even pay for the pasture they eat to say nothing of giving you a return for your labor involved.

They also will bring a fair price for beef this time of year.

WHAT'S THE USE?
In order to live to a ripe old age a man has to quit about everything that makes him want to.

DON'T OVERDO IT
It's true saving is a fine habit—but don't save all your good deeds for the future.

Cull Low Producers In Dairy Herd

Dairy farmers might better give low-producing cows away than keep "boarding" them in face of lower milk prices, advises Quentin R. Ostrander, Tuscola County assistant agricultural agent.

Ostrander passes along these tips from C. Ray Hoglund, Michigan State College agricultural economist, who warns that farmers can expect a 50 cents per hundredweight cut below 1953 milk prices.

Most farms can stand a cushion against this price drop, to the lowest point in 11 years, he says, and management is needed. Better use of quality roughages will help cut per-unit production costs for some. Others will benefit from increasing herd size. The biggest help will be to drop the low-producing cows and bring up the herd average.

Milk prices were good until late 1952 and then the price of cull cattle dropped. Farmers kept the "boarders" to add to the surplus of milk without getting a fair return.

Dairymen would do well to sell the "boarder" cows now for $150 compared with $250 in early 1952, or even give them away, stresses Hoglund. Every cow that doesn't pay for her feed, for the dairyman's labor and for her share of overhead is dipping into the owner's pocket every time she moves to the feed trough.

Agent Ostrander suggests that it would be more profitable to cull low-producers now than it has been at any time in a decade.

SHORT STORY

III Wind

By F. L. Rowley

MAX MILLER was a wise old man. He had spent nearly three score years peering into mechanical clocks—setting them, oiling them. Antique shops all over the state would call on Max to breathe life into ancient timepieces that brought fancy prices in a limited market. Of late the market had become so limited that Max was scarcely able to eke out his modest living.

"Afraid I'm going to be forced to close shop Johnny," Max said to me one gloomy afternoon as we stood before the many-paned window watching the churning snow outside. "It seems nobody has enough energy to wind clocks these days—everyone wants electric gadgets."

"Maybe business will pick up," I said encouragingly, yet without conviction. I knew that the grandfather's clock, the ornate cuckoo clock, and all the other mechanical wonders on Max's shelves would continue to collect dust for years to come. Max knew it too. The age of electricity had apparently rendered Max as obsolete as his monstrous timepieces.

"Wind's picking up," observed Max, ignoring my last question.

Max, and all the other mechanical wonders on Max's shelves would continue to collect dust for years to come. Max knew it too. The age of electricity had apparently rendered Max as obsolete as his monstrous timepieces.

"Wind's picking up," observed Max, ignoring my last remark.

"We're in for a blow Johnny. Last time snow piled up this fast was long before you were born. I was just an apprentice watchmaker then; snowed in for a week we was—for a week Johnny."

I smiled. Max could tell some whoppers. For awhile we talked of storms and clocks—and food. This last topic reminded us that we were both hungry. It was with genuine pleasure that I accepted Max's invitation to stay for supper. As the meal progressed the wind increased; it became so violent at last that we were thoroughly alarmed. I could hardly believe my eyes when I saw the crest of the drift standing shoulder high against the big windows.

"Better bed down here tonight Johnny," Max said. "This wind is mean—it's one 'ill wind' that'll do nobody any good."

Max was wrong. All night we listened to that screaming wind. When day broke Max put the coffee-pot on. We had hardly settled ourselves in the big wooden armchairs when there was a knock at the door. It was Art Smith, the town barber.

"Danged power-line's down," declared Art. "Can't tell when to start cutting hair—or when to stop. Line'll be down for a week, least that's what I hear. How much do you want for that big clock with the cracked face?"

"Twenty dollars," I said quickly. Max gasped. We both knew that the old clock wasn't worth more than three dollars.

"Guess I'll have to take it," Art said grudgingly. "These antiques sure come high."

I guess Max never will forget that day. Rumors of a prolonged power tie-up created a heavy demand for wind-up clocks. All day long folks trudged through the deep snow to pay fancy prices for old clocks. Max let me quote prices; even then he had difficulty in keeping a straight face.

"I just can't believe it Johnny, I can't believe it!" Max chortled as he emptied the till late that night. Bare spots on the shelves attested to the surprising volume of business that had followed the news of a power failure.

The phone rang. Max answered it. From the bewildered look on his face I thought that something terrible had happened.

"What's wrong Max?" I asked. "Power's on again," Max whispered incredulously.

I began to laugh. After glaring at me for a few seconds Max got the idea. We laughed until the tears ran down our cheeks.

"And now Max, you can close shop," I said.

Max looked at me with a strange twinkle in his eye. Then, fondling the money that the 'ill wind' had blown in, he announced happily: "Johnny, now I can afford to do what I've hankered to do for ten years—open an appliance shop—complete with electric clocks."

SCOUTS HONORED

Tenderfoot scouts present, but they earned a rating nearly high enough to qualify. They were Patrol Leader Edward DeBlois, Fred Mackay and Robert Darmody.

The boys set up their own tents, did their own cooking by patrol, and enjoyed together a day and night of living outdoors in excellent weather.

During the evening campfire program, the Order of the Arrow, scout camping honor society, called out in an Indian ceremony two representatives of Troop 194 to be candidates for membership in the Order. The boys had elected by secret ballot Clayton Neiman as their 1954 candidate. The men of the troop leadership group elected Frederick B. Auten.

Clayton Neiman is a Star scout who is now quartermaster of the Explorer Post. Mr. Auten's connection with the troop dates back to its beginning in 1940. He served as Patrol Leader and Senior Patrol Leader, and earned the rank of Life Scout. At present he is troop committee-man and treasurer of the troop.

Another part of the campfire program was a series of Indian dances in colorful feather and beaded costumes, performed by the newly organized Indian dance tribe under the Valley Trails Council. Explorer Ron Flenor of Cass City was one of the dancers.

Final Meeting.
Wednesday evening, June 16, will be the final regular meeting of the troop year. All members and leaders should be present to complete plans for the summer camp, and for the special outdoor programs later this summer.
