

On Trial for Extortion

Accused Pair Heard In Circuit Court

Mrs. Martha Fox and William McComb appeared in Tuscola County Circuit Court Monday in Caro on a charge of extortion and conspiracy to extort.

Before Judge Timothy C. Quinn, Mrs. Fox pled guilty to the charge. Bond was set at $5,000 and a pre-sentence investigation ordered. She will be sentenced Oct. 19.

Mr. McComb asked the court to appoint counsel. James Epskamp was appointed by Judge Quinn. Mr. McComb will be arraigned at a later date.

The charges against the pair were filed by Peter Temple, postmaster at Silverwood, after he had received three threatening letters asking for money for silence.

Mrs. Fox and McComb were arrested when they attempted to pick up the extortion money with the police watching at a "stake out."

Other Cases.

James Schatz, who pled guilty of larceny for stealing a watch, camera and over $50, was sentenced to one year's probation, fined $125 and costs of $125. In addition, he was ordered to make restitution of the amount stolen.

Carnell Smith was also sentenced to one year's probation for larceny. He was sentenced after pleading guilty of stealing $80 from Clyde Shindler of Tuscola Township.

In addition, he was ordered to pay a fine of $125, costs of $20 and make restitution of the $80.

Judge Quinn set Oct. 17 as the sentencing date for Robert Jacobs, who pled guilty of larceny. Mr. Jacobs was released on a $100 bond.

Raymond Carlisle, Jr., was found guilty of contempt of court Monday for failure to pay alimony to Katherine Carlisle. Judge Quinn ordered Carlisle jailed until he can make plans for paying the money.

Clementine Gerasimowicz was granted a divorce from Ivan Gerasimowicz and granted alimony of $40 monthly. One dollar was given in lieu of dower.

From the Editor's Corner

In a story elsewhere in the paper is a notice that the Cass City Council of Churches feels that a Christmas pageant in the village should be a town-wide affair and, for that reason, has abandoned plans for staging the event.

We would very much like to see another group or combination of groups take on the project.

With its Christmas display project, the village is the envy of every community in the Thumb. Several are trying to emulate the work that has been done here.

Each year more and more persons come to Cass City to see the displays. With a pageant, the village will have something new to offer those returning for the second and third time.

A disappointingly small crowd attended the initial meeting of the Cass City Community Club Tuesday evening. But those who did attend were treated to one of the best programs in recent years.

Stanley Kirn are to be congratulated for securing a speaker of the caliber of Judge Joseph Friske.

Since the price of the meal has been raised to $1.50, the Community Club has had more funds to use to attract better programs and they have been doing so.

If you are a member of the club and have not been attending, make a point of being there for the next meeting slated in December. You'll enjoy it.

Tuscola Farm Loan Group to Hold Annual Meeting

Aubrey Johnson of Charlotte, associate regional manager of the Federal Land Bank, will represent the land bank at the meeting and give a short talk.

The main feature of the meeting will be the showing of three-dimensional colored pictures by James Smith of Vassar relating his experiences while living in the Arctic Circle region of Alaska.

Directors of the association are: Bates Wills, Caro; James Oabun, Deford; Word C. Parsell, Caro; Harold Blaylock, Vassar, and Carl Middleton, Mayville.

Play Bad Axe Friday

Hawks Lose Second Conference Tilt, 12-6

The Cass City High School football team will be definite underdogs tonight (Friday) when they will be hosts to Bad Axe at the Cass City Recreational Park.

The Hawks, who lost their second straight conference game Friday against Yale, 12-6, will go all out to win from the Hatchets in the game officially designated as Dads' Night.

The fathers of the players will occupy special places of honor at the game.

Most observers feel that even the presence of dad for inspiration will not be enough to upset Bad Axe, one of the better teams in the conference.

However, the Hawks showed plenty of improvement in the game against Yale.

Without a bad break in the final period, they could have tied Yale.

The score was 0-0 in the third quarter when the Hawks fumbled on their own 15-yard line, Yale recovering.

The Bulldogs were penalized five yards and two plays gained only six yards. Yale dropped back to pass and the Bulldog End and Dick Hanby, defensive halfback, went up for the ball together. Neither caught the pass but the referee ruled interference and Yale had an automatic first down on the two-yard line. They pushed it over in two plays to lead 6-0.

A penalty set up the second and deciding touchdown for Yale in the final period. Deep in their own territory, Jack Clara dropped back and got off a booming kick to the Yale 42, only to have the play nullified by a penalty.

On his second try, Clara's boot was short and Yale returned to the Cass City 11. Three plays later, the Bulldogs scored their second six points of the game.

Cass City's lone marker came in the waning minutes of the game, when Don Simmons dropped back and fired a pass that bounced off a defender's shoulder into the arms of Clara who ran the remaining distance for a touchdown. The play covered 62 yards.

Hunt Vassar Man On Three Charges

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department is searching for Howard Moore, 22, of Vassar for warrants issued for his arrest on three counts.

Mr. Moore is accused of stealing an auto, breaking and entering and failure to pay board bill. Witnesses have reported seeing him steal a 1953 Dodge from the used car lot of the Davison garage. Mr. Moore also allegedly broke into the Davison garage and broke into the Coke machine on the inside. Police said that he entered through a south window.

The stolen Dodge was found abandoned in Pontiac, Illinois.

Persons attending were introduced to 12 new teachers by Supt. Willis Campbell. Ralph Powell led group singing.

Three more meetings of the council will be held during the current school year. They are scheduled for Nov. 9, Jan. 18 and March 22.

Cancer Society Spurns Aid From Community Chest

For the first time since the Community Chest drive was organized here, the American Cancer Society is refusing to take a share of the money collected from Elkland Township.

Authorities for the society have said that they wish to make a separate drive here. Authorities for the Elkland Township Community Chest said that they will collect the money and offer the allotted share to the society. If the money is refused, the Cancer Society will receive no money from this area.

In protest against the action by the society, Douglas Williams of Caro, county chairman for the drive in Tuscola County, has resigned.

The Cancer Society does not want to participate in any community chest or United Health and Welfare drive in the county.

Besides his wife and parents, he leaves a brother, Donald. Funeral services and burial were in Detroit Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Harris and her mother, Mrs. Margaret Hamilton, attended the funeral.

Officers Resign in Paul School District

The officers of Novesta Two school district, (Paul School) have resigned their positions and turned the school books in to the county superintendent of school's office, according to an announcement made this week from the superintendent's office.

The three members of the school board, Mrs. Harley Kelley, Mrs. Ed Anthes and Don DeLong, were said to have resigned because of the increasing debt incurred in the district.

According to unofficial figures, the district is going from $600 to $800 a year in debt at the present mill rate. The district raises the same amount of millage as does the Cass City school district.

If the district raised enough money to meet its obligations, 22 or 23 mills would have to be raised.

The district's dilemma stems from the low valuation and the number of pupils now being transported to Cass City. At the present time, the district sends about 65 pupils to Cass City. Estimated cost of sending them to school this year is about $3,000.

When the books were turned in to the county superintendent's office, the Tuscola County school board instructed the superintendent, Joseph Liddicoat, to try and find three eligible persons to assume the management of the district.

Mr. Liddicoat reported that he stopped at 18 homes in the district and asked some 50 eligible persons to take over the offices. He reported that not one of the persons would assume the job. "I doubt if one person in the area will take the job," Mr. Liddicoat said.

Michigan law states that when a district is unable to find any.

Friske Describes Germany After World War II

Judge Joseph Friske, Saginaw, said that his experience with the War Crimes trials pointed out vividly the need for the United States to guard its freedom.

Speaking before members of the Cass City Community Club Tuesday night at the high school, Judge Friske told of personal experiences with Russian sabotage, concentration camps and brutality.

Starting with the days before the end of the war, he described German cremation ovens and whipping rooms and told many stories of excessive brutality.

He said that it was proven that the Germans on Christmas Eve had clergymen in the concentration camps hold lighted tapers and sing "O Come All Ye Faithful" while other members of the clergy were hanged.

In discussion of post war occupation difficulties, he pointed out the hardships endured by the German people in 1946-47 when there was not enough food or clothing to keep the people fed and alive.

He said that the turning point in the reconstruction struggle was reached when new money was issued.

From that time forward, the German people started to lift themselves by their bootstraps, Friske said.

With reconstruction well on its way, the next problem confronting the occupation force was Russian sabotage.

He told of the Russians' methods of taking money from the American sector of Germany and having it end behind the iron curtain.

He also told of elaborate plans by the Russians of flooding the country with American currency.

The men were apprehended before the plan could be put in effect, Friske said, but samples of the counterfeit money were so good that an expert was unable to tell the difference with his naked eye.

He said that one of the best ways to preserve freedom in this country was to pay special attention to teaching children—both by words and deeds. For these children will be the front against communism in the future, he explained.

Judge Friske was introduced by Joseph Minoff, a Saginaw lawyer. Mr. Minoff was introduced by Howard Ellis who arranged the program for the evening.

The women of the St. Pancratius Church served the meal.

In addition to Rawson, other committee members are: co-chairman Willis Campbell and Mrs. E. B. Schwaderer in charge of the banquet, and Harry Little in charge of decorations. William Profit is in charge of tickets. Tickets will go on sale Oct. 11.

SHORT STORY

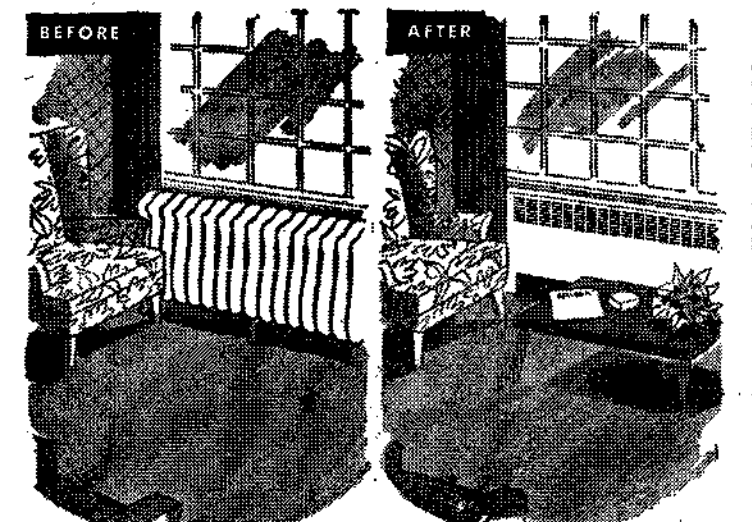

First Fish
By Patricia Harsh

"FISHING is an art, boy," Bennie had heard Uncle Bill say that at least a million times, he guessed. But he still hadn't learned the art. At any rate, he still hadn't caught his first fish. Bennie had been up at day-break that first day. He was going to catch a fish for breakfast. It was four hours later, long after breakfast, that his small figure, looking even smaller after the other with great effort. They didn't have to ask. It was written plainly on his dust streaked face.
"Well, shucks," Uncle Bill said. "It takes time, Bennie boy. You can't learn the first day."
He bought dozens of magazines on the art of angling, the proper type of equipment, and all the finer points of becoming a successful fisherman. He had boasted to the boys at school that he would send them pictures of his strings of fish.

"Strings!" Bennie kicked at a rock by the river. "Heck, I'd give anything for just one fish."
Uncle Bill had been busy, but he had taken time out to show Bennie just how to approach a pool, how to bait the hook, and how to drop the line into the water making only the smallest ripple.
He had handed the pole to Bennie once, after he felt the first timid nibble. "You try your luck, Bennie," he had said. But Bennie knew. The jerking on the line had come too soon.
"Take your old fish," Bennie had cried as he turned and ran from the river bank. Later he came into the house and apologized. Salty streams had washed the dust off Bennie's cheeks and Uncle Bill and Aunt Peg knew that Bennie had been crying secretly, under some tree away from the house. A twelve-year-old boy doesn't cry, so they pretended not to notice.
"Here, Bennie, take this pole of mine and try your luck." Uncle Bill brought out his own special outfit. Bennie felt a lump crawl up into his throat. He knew how much Uncle Bill valued his pole.
"No thanks, Uncle Bill," Bennie said. "I guess I'll give up fishing for a while." He shoved his hands into the pockets of his blue jeans and dragged his feet over to look at the horses.
The next morning Bennie again shouldered the fishing pole and with but little spring to his step, he started out toward the river. "Bennie," Uncle Bill called. "You try that little pool by the old mill. The one under the willows where it's nice and quiet. That may be just the spot."
It was nearly dinner time when Bennie came running up the lane to the white house. He was trying to be calm, but his face was shining and his eyes sparkled. He held up a good size fish and grinned all over.
Aunt Peg took the fish and told Bennie she would fix it for his dinner. But not until after Uncle Bill had taken a picture of a proud boy and his first fish. While Bennie was washing up, Uncle Bill whispered to Aunt Peg. "Now don't you ever let on that you know I put some fish in that pond. It would break the boy's heart to know I kinda tricked him."
After dinner, the most delicious dinner Bennie could ever remember, he helped Aunt Peg clear up the kitchen. He came close to her and said in a loud whisper. "Aunt Peg, don't tell Uncle Bill, but I didn't fish in the pool he told me to. Heck, I've tried it a million times. There's no fish there. But I wouldn't want him to think I didn't take his advice. You know what a good fisherman he is."
Aunt Peg dried her hands on her apron, gave Bennie a warm hug. "I promise, honey," she said. "Everyone has secrets sometimes."

Slate Corn Field Day October 14

A corn harvesting and drying field day, the second of two such events to be held in the state of Michigan, will be held on the Cecil Baker farm, four miles east of Reese on M-81, Thursday, October 14, beginning at 10:00 a. m., according to Tuscola County agent Alfred Ballweg. The program is so planned to bring Michigan farmers up-to-date in information on mechanical harvesting, handling and drying of the corn crop.

Corn picker and picker-sheller demonstrations will begin at 10:00 a. m. Shelling and drying demonstrations will be held during the afternoon. This will be the first time for this type of corn harvesting and drying field days to be held in this area of Michigan, said Ballweg.

Tentative program is as follows:

Wasted Sawdust Has Many Uses Conserves Moisture And Lightens Soil

Farm-grown sawdust can be used profitably, yet large piles of this lumber industry by-product are going to waste or being burned.

Sawdust, when used as a mulch for gardens, will conserve moisture, reduce runoff when water is applied, help to maintain a cool soil during hot summer months, and help suppress the growth of weeds.

Sawdust and chips, plain or in manures, can be used as mulch on hay and pasture lands. They quickly sift down to ground surface and don't interfere with hay as do straw manures.

After it has served its purpose as a mulch and has been incorporated with the soil, there will be additional benefits. Heavy soils become lighter and easier to work. Lighter soils have a higher water-holding capacity. When the sawdust has decomposed into humus it increases the nutrient-holding capacity of the soil, which is quite important in sandy areas.

Sawdust does not have a significant effect on changing the acidity or alkalinity of the soil. There are no serious toxic compounds in sawdust. Sawdust may cause a nitrogen deficiency, and the plants may appear to be burned when it is mixed with the soil. This can be corrected by adding enough nitrogen so that the sawdust will contain 1.5 per cent nitrogen.

As an example: add 7 or 8 pounds of ammonium sulphate to each 100 pounds of sawdust incorporated with the soil or about 2½ pounds of ammonium sulphate per bushel of sawdust.

CARS ARE MY LINE

By H. M. Bulen

When you buy a car, even one of the low priced cars on our used car lot, it will probably be your largest investment outside of your home, if you own your own home. If you don't, then you will have more money invested in your car than in anything else.

That's why it pays to know something about cars, more for instance than the lady who was driving along the highway last summer in one of those European cars with the engine in the back and luggage compartment where the engine usually is.

She was purring along when suddenly the car stalled and she had to pull over on the shoulder. She got out, raised the hood and shrieked so you could have heard it two concessions away. "My stars, I've lost the engine!"

Fortunately, another woman was on the highway in the same kind of car and when she noticed the stranded lady she pulled up to help a fellow-owner.

"I seem to have lost my engine," explained the stranded one.

"Well, this is lucky," said the Good Samaritan. "I just happened to look in our trunk today and I noticed we have a spare engine in there."

You probably know more about cars than the stranded lady, but if you don't we'll tell you frankly what our cars have and what they haven't in language you won't need a dictionary to translate.

We want you to know exactly what you're buying because you're making your largest, or second largest, investment in comfort, satisfaction and convenience. There is no purchase that can bring more happiness than a good, neat car. But a car that takes you through the wringer by depreciating faster than it should isn't going to improve your temper or our good name. That's why we want you to look under the hood, into the trunk, everywhere you want. Road test the car, too.

Attention—Beet Haulers. Two (2) 1951 Chevrolet Long Wheelbase trucks in excellent condition, good rubber, one with a brand new engine. Also a 1945 Chevrolet Long Wheelbase with only 30,000 actual miles. Chris Roth bought this one new. See them before you buy. We can't afford to board them all winter.

All '54 Chevrolet Cars are gone. We do have two brand new ½ ton pickups; one ¼ ton pickup. Someone will get a good deal.

Tuesday we preview the 1955 Chevrolet at Flint. The "Grapevine" indicates it's terrific.

BOWLING NEWS

A group of twelve men and twelve women met at the Cass City Bowling Alleys last Sunday evening to organize and form a mixed league of six four-man teams of two men and two women each. This group will be known in the bowling circles of Cass City as the Jack and Jill Bowling League. A short business meeting was held prior to the evening's competition. Betty Dewey was elected president, Louis Bartz, vice-president, George Dillman, secretary-treasurer. President Dewey appointed Jean Golding as sergeant-at-arms. One of the requirements of the league was that each team was to have given their team some distinguished title, and here are the results:

Al-Huba Team: Fannie Hutchinson, Lou Bartz, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Alward.
 Ry-Ny Team: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ryland, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nye.
 Kel-Dill-Dew Team: Helen Kelley, George Dillman, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Dewey.
 Go-Jo Team: Mr. and Mrs. "Doc" Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Golding.
 Kil-Bryant Team: Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kilbourn, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bryant.

Schra-Jac Team: Mr. and Mrs. George Jacoby, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schram.
 With these fancy team names there should be some very fancy bowling. After the first night of bowling was finished and scores were posted, we noticed that nothing spectacular took place in the scoring department but a lot of fun was enjoyed by all members. All indications show that this league will be very successful in their fifteen weeks schedule. The league bowls every two weeks on Sundays at 7:30. The league is also sanctioned by the American Bowling Congress and Woman's International Bowling Congress.

TIME FOR REFLECTION

There comes a time in every man's life when the charm of living lies in the past.

It's not surprising that many men live by their wits—the surprising thing is how little some people can live on.

If the person who boasts he says only what he thinks, was honest with himself, he probably would say very little.

People who spend their time in self-admiration may get some satisfaction—but to others it looks like time thrown away.

SHORT STORY

Meter Reader

By Ona F. Lathrop

ED FENTON was whistling his usual merry tune as he turned into Maple Avenue that forenoon. Ed liked this job. It seemed sort of honorable to be working for the city after all the menial little jobs he'd had in his forty-odd years.

You got to chat with a lot of nice folks and see how the women kept their basements and help people out occasionally. The only catch was that Water-Commissioner Thorpe was a hard man to work for. He caught you up on every little thing. Just that morning he had landed on Ed.

"Fenton, seems as if it takes you a mighty long time to make the rounds on this meter-reading. What in tarnation do you do all that time?" His big form creaked the swivel chair as he pushed the book at Ed, and his frown deepened.

"Well, I hustle along," Ed hastened to reply. "Seems as if all the women like to chat, especially if they are washing or ironing in their basements, and I just don't get along so fast."

And now he was late again. Could he help it if old Granny Mercer had asked him to get her washing-machine going when it stopped in the middle of her laundry? You couldn't turn an old lady down. And that new little bride up the street had trouble with her steam iron.

But he'd make up for it now. He glanced nervously at the big brick house at the end of the block. That was Commissioner Thorpe's own house and he hoped to make it before noon when Thorpe came home for lunch.

But (just as he started down the basement steps at the Claytons he heard the hubbub.) Five-year-old Bobby was shrieking frantically and his mother was crying too.

"He's caught his hand in the wringer," she screamed. "Look at it! It's mashed flat. Oh, Ed, I'm so glad you came. How do I work this thing anyway?"

Ed strode across and hit the release and picked up the little kid. "You'd better get him to the doctor," he said.

"Yes, put him in the car and I'll get the keys," she yelled, tearing up the steps and back to the car by the time Ed got him in. "And you watch the baby, Eddie. She's in her play-pen."

Ed ran his hand through his tousled hair dazedly. "Watch the baby" indeed. Didn't the woman know he had work to do? But of course everybody knew Ed Fenton was an old easy-mark.

He went inside and found the baby clamoring to get out of her pen. He picked her up and tried to quiet her, but it was no use. She wanted her mother, and no mere man would do. He took her to the door to divert her attention and there he saw her little cart.

"Baby go bye-bye?" He wasn't up on baby-talk much but he'd helped some with his sister's kids. He'd take her to some neighbor. After all you couldn't expect a man to lose his job for baby-sitting. He installed her in the go-cart and wheeled her down the front walk.

And there around the corner came Thorpe in his big black car! "Well Fenton, no wonder you never get your meters read. Takin' the baby for a stroll in working hours, eh? I guess that does it. You can turn in your book."

"Now Commish, it's this way—" and Ed proceeded to explain how he happened to be wheeling the Clayton baby at this time of day. "So you see I was stuck with her, I'll find some neighbor woman—"

But by that time the news had spread through the neighborhood and the women were converging from all the houses in the block. "Eddie, give me the little darling." "Here Eddie, I'll take her. Good thing you came along just when you did."

"Oh, Eddie always saves the day," another one called. "He helped me with my clothes-line the last time."

"And he helped me move the junk out of my basement. Mr. Thorpe, you sure picked a good man for meter-reader. He makes more friends for the city than all the policemen."

Too many people strive to make an honest dollar dishonestly.

Often the fellow with money to burn lives to rake the ashes.

The want ads are newsy, too.

Self-Delouser Tests Reported

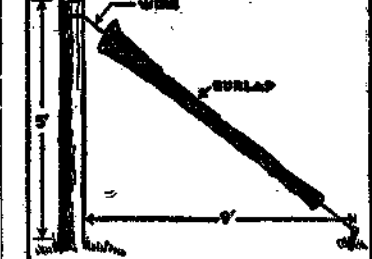

Rubbing Device Rids Cattle of Insects

Cattle will delouse themselves if given the opportunity. Provided with an insecticide-treated device to rub against, both beef and non-milking dairy cattle completely freed themselves of these biting and blood-sucking pests in less than four weeks.

These are the findings of U. S. department of agriculture entomologists who conducted trials with cattle herds in both eastern and western Oregon in cooperation with the Oregon State college agricultural experiment station.

The delouser consisted of burlap-wrapped wire stretched from the top of a five-foot post and anchored to the ground nine feet from the base of the post.

In four Willamette Valley herds, checked 15 days after the rubbing devices were made available to them, animals had reduced the number of live lice on their bodies by 90 per cent. No live lice were found on any of the animals in herds under test after the 25th day, nor for the next 30 days during which observations were continued. Before the treatment, all cattle were infested with lice populations ranging from about two to six lice per square inch. There was no decrease in louse population on cattle not allowed to use the rubbing device.

Burlap-wrapped wire has proved effective delouser in Oregon tests conducted by the Department of Agriculture. Four test herds showed no live lice after 25 days.

The insecticide-treated burlap arrangement was not only effective but safe, since it proved impossible for cattle to overdose themselves by rubbing against it.

USDA researchers plan to carry on experiments to determine which of several insecticides is most effective for farm and ranch use.

WATCH EXPENSES
Any time a man allows the outgo to exceed his income, his overhead will eventually mean his downfall.

Michigan Mirror News Briets

Big and small business will be bailing out the state treasury for years with a "temporary" tax not expected to die.

Tax authors in the legislature already are planning to extend the $2,000,000 business activities tax beyond its June 15 deadline.

Senator Carlton H. Morris (R-Kalamazoo), considered a tax expert of some talent, figures it's the way out because nobody has complained and the money is very nice, indeed.

"Where else can we get $2,000,000 a year so easily?" he asked.

The tax started as an unwanted child two years ago when the legislature was frightened by the deficit of $65,000,000. Gov. Williams pouted that it might help the state's financial position, but let it become law without his signature. He favored a corporation profits tax.

Business men fought it originally because they were hazy about it—and a flexible tax bill in the hands of legislators can be a lethal thing. Later, after study, business and industry supported the measure.

Now everybody is happy about the whole arrangement. At least on the surface.

Legislators figure they can keep the tax on the books and keep the cash rolling in without causing a stir. Businessmen feel it's a better tax than one on incomes over $10,000 or others equally obnoxious.

Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler would like to build roads with the proposed $500,000,000 bond issue.

Gov. Williams would like to name a 50-member statewide commission to tell him where they should be built, hinting broadly that Ziegler would bow to political demands.

Mayor Ralph W. Crego of Lansing, is organizing one group to promote U. S. 127 and U. S. 27, which go through the center of the state, making local merchants delighted with their free-spending tourists.

Others are pushing for a super-highway along the routes, U. S. 23 along the lake Huron shore, on U. S. 31 and 131, all figuring on a tourist bonanza.

Without permatidation, the groups are: (1) becoming ready-made campaign organizations for the bond issue when it hits the ballot next year; (2) confusing Ziegler and his long range plans. Ziegler is sure taxpayers will complain mightily if the $500,000,000 is spent on a single highway. He said a Detroit-Muskegon superhighway is one of the top priorities, anyway.

Then, Ziegler thinks the local promotion groups may have been misled. He put it succinctly: "Superhighways don't go through towns, of any size."

Forest fires caused less damage this year than any since records have been kept.

The conservation department reported that total loss for the year is limited to 3,599 acres of land. This is well below 1951, the previous record low.

Michigan's undermanned State Police force has a better chance now of getting 114 more men from the 1955 legislature.

They have been praised and applauded in the past for their deeds, but the state hasn't had money to increase the size of the outfit. Now it's different:

"How can we hold off now, after the job they did Labor Day?" mused one legislator.

The State Police, aided by the National Guard, sheriffs and local officers, held the holiday week-end toll to 22 deaths on the highways.

Michigan Bell Telephone Co. is continuing its drive for a $22,300,000 rate increase.

The company says it will amount to three cents more a day for every telephone in use. The extra cash is needed to meet rising pay increases and rising costs and to maintain a 6.5 per cent profit margin.

Michigan Bell has been trying for the increase for 15 months before the Michigan Public Service Commission without success.

The commission is composed of one Democrat and one Republican, who will give the telephone company the "busy signal" at least until after the November election. A third position on the commission is unfilled.

"This is known as strategic procrastination," said one observer.

Here's a bit of irony: The late Ex-Senator Blair Moody, whose name remained on the ballot after he died, received more "memorial votes" than did three Republican candidates for governor combined.

The next meeting of the Mothers' Club will be the first Monday in December to be held at the 4-H building in Caro. All mothers who have children in 4-H club work are eligible to attend these meetings.

Caro Farmer in 400-Bushel Club

Cecil Wallace, Caro potato grower, qualified for membership in the 400 bushel club this year, announced Quentin R. Ostrander, Tuscola County assistant agricultural agent.

In order to qualify for membership in this elite group, a grower must have a yield of at least 400 bushels of U. S. number one potatoes per acre on at least a five-acre plot.

Wallace's yield this year as checked by Ostrander was 557 bushels per acre on a field of certified Sebago potatoes.

Some of the good cultural practices used by Wallace to obtain this yield were:

1. 1200 pounds of 8-12-12 fertilizer per acre. 800 pounds of this fertilizer were plowed down ahead of planting and 400 pounds were applied in the row at planting time.
2. Wallace plowed down a heavy stand of rye as a green manure crop.
3. He used the once over tillage method in preparing the seed bed.
4. The potatoes were irrigated with about 7 inches of water.
5. The potatoes were sprayed 8 times with a fungicide and insecticide.

This yield of 557 bushels places Wallace well above the average for the state of approximately 185 bushels.

Winter 4-H Clubs Organizing Now

A report from the office of George C. MacQueen, county 4-H agent, reveals that several 4-H clubs in Tuscola County are organizing for the winter project period. The 4-H agent requests all winter clubs be organized and have their enrollment blanks in the 4-H office, courthouse, Caro, by November 15. Several clubs are expected to be organized for the town boys and girls in the county. This is particularly true in the case of clothing clubs for girls. This project program adapts itself very well to the needs of the town girls.

The main projects stressed for winter projects work are clothing, knitting, foods, home improvement, handicraft, electrical, conservation and tractor maintenance and farm machinery. Parents who are interested in organizing a 4-H club this winter are requested to contact the 4-H club office, courthouse, Caro. All members must be ten years of age by January 1, five must be enrolled in the same project before a club can be formed and six meetings are required between now and the end of March 1955.

WSCS Meets at Methodist Church

Seventy ladies, including seven guests, of the Women's Society of Christian Service met Monday evening, Oct. 4, in the Methodist Church for their monthly 6:30 supper meeting, preceded by the 6:15 prayer circle. Group II served the supper.

Devotions by Mrs. Eastman were "Christ the Way" featuring a solo by Rev. Porter.

The program, "The Little Assembly," was given by Mrs. Audley Rawson, Mrs. Audley Kinnaid, Mrs. John Sandham and Mrs. Grant Hutchinson. They gave reports highlighting the main speakers and points of interest, at the Milwaukee Assembly last May.

The recommendations of the finance committee were read and approved.

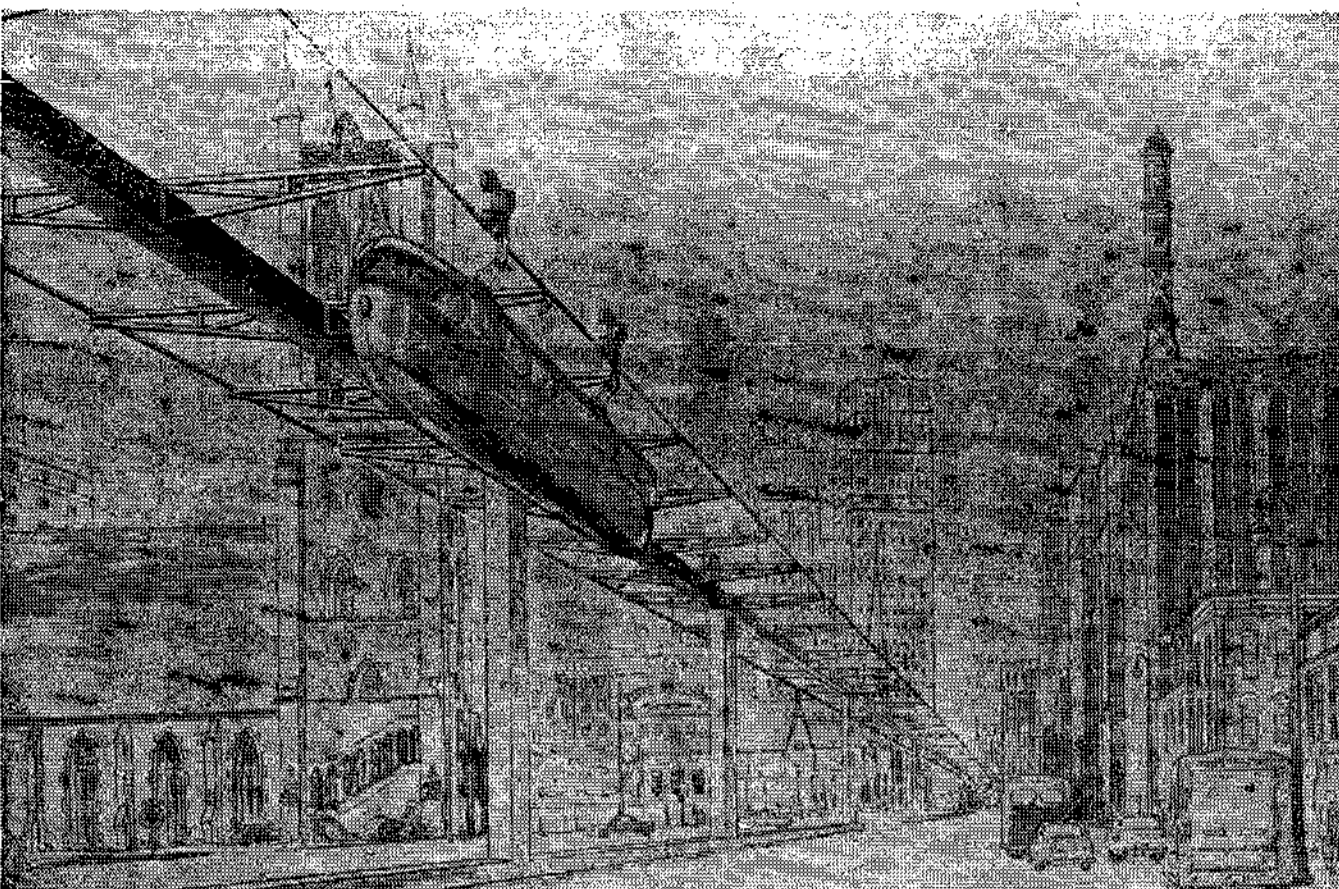

Special guest, Mrs. Edgar Williams, district secretary of spiritual life, closed the meeting with meditations on "The Way of Prayer."

OFFICERS RESIGN

Although no statements have been made by persons in authority, most observers believe they will become part of the Cass City district.

The Cass City district and the Deford school are the only two possible choices for the board. Since Deford does not yet have a place for the pupils, it seems almost certain that the district will become part of Cass City.

Oatley Attends State Conference

Harold Oatley of Cass City High School represented the East Central Association of College Agreement Schools in a state conference at Haven Hill Lodge near Pontiac Sunday and Monday. Oatley is chairman of the East Central group of 40 high schools and colleges from Lansing to Bay City and the Thumb.

The conference, attended by 36 men and women from all parts of Michigan, was called to decide the future of the college agreement program. Its chairman was Philip Vercoe, principal of Flint Central. Other area members were Paul Briggs, superintendent at Bay City Central, Glen Omas, principal of Bay City Central, and Ernest R. Britton, superintendent of schools at Midland.

Other participants, known in Cass City, included Dr. Clair L. Taylor, superintendent of public instruction, Dr. Clyde Vroman, director of admissions at the University of Michigan, and Professor Roland Faunce of the education school at Wayne University.

The conference agreed that in Michigan the problem of suitable college admission rules for high school graduates has largely been solved. They also agreed that much remains to be done in improving the curriculum through cooperation between schools and colleges.

A busy program of study and experiment was planned. A change of name to express the new emphasis was discussed, with Michigan School and College Association finding the most favor.
