Gagetown Plant To Hold Open House Sunday

Residents of this area have been invited to look over the new Michigan Pipe Co. plant in Gagetown Sunday when the organization has planned an open house.

Authorities for the concern said that the open house was planned for Sunday to allow members of the organization's sales staff in Detroit to see the new plant.

The company moved to Gagetown from Bay City recently. The building, financed by the residents of Gagetown, was completed just three months after initial construction began.

Contracting work was done by Rooms Construction Co. from Harbor Beach.

From the Editor's Corner

We are always pleasantly surprised when we see a home talent show in Cass City and see the number of talented persons who live in the community. Tuesday night's Rotary show that featured home talent, plus Mr. and Mrs. Don Borg, now of Saginaw, proved again that the best and most interesting shows are the ones staged and performed with local persons.

We fully expect the Lions Club minstrel show to produce as many more local persons with hidden talents and expect the show to be one of the local entertainment highlights of the year.

Hats off to village engineer, Bud Burt, and his village crew for their outstanding work in keeping Cass City's streets free of snow. Although this area has not had any large snowstorms, it has snowed enough to blanket the area since December. Always, within two days after a snow fall, Main Street has been swept clean and the snow hauled away.

STILL ACTIVE—When the Cass City Rotary Club was organized 25 years ago, 15 Cass City businessmen joined the club and became charter members. Today, just four of the original members are still in the Cass City club. They all attended the golden anniversary celebration held at Cass City High School Tuesday night. From left to right: E. L. Schwaderer, M. B. Auten, Fred Pinney and John Sandham.

Musical Revue Highlights Golden Anniversary of Rotary at School

An estimated 200 persons crowded the Cass City High School gym Tuesday for the 25th anniversary observance of Rotary in Cass City and the golden anniversary of Rotary International.

Highlight of the festivities was a musical variety program staged by Rotarians, under the direction of M. B. Auten, chairman of the anniversary program.

The performance opened in a railroad station and pictured the various members of the cast waiting for a train to Caro and other points.

After some good-natured lampooning of the Caro visitors, the group staged a musical revue while waiting for the train. An impromptu dance by Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Ryan set the stage for the revue to follow. The revue started with a barbershop quartet. Don Borg, Arthur Atwell, Arthur Holmberg and Fritz Neitzel presented medley selections that met an enthusiastic reception.

Following the opening musical number, Joan Holmberg and Mr. Holmberg sang an air of familiar ballads.

Bob Schuckert, Horace Bulan and Cliff Ryan's "Old Dutch Cleanser" dance and song routine momentarily stopped the show. They were in Dutch costumes, complete with wooden shoes, and presented their act flawlessly.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Borg of Saginaw, familiar performers to the club, were also featured.

Play Bad Axe Tonight

Cass City defeated Caro Friday night, 70-41, to clinch the Thumb B Conference basketball crown for 1954-55.

Since the league was organized three years ago, the Hawks have won two titles outright and shared in the third. Two seasons ago, the Hawks were undefeated in league play, as they won the crown with a team that featured Tim Burdon, Bob Wallace, Stan Gunther, Russ Foy and several other veteran players.

The 1953-54 aggregation tied for top honors with Marlette with a comparatively green team. The club was sparked by Foy, the only returning letterman, and the regulars of this year's club which has not yet lost in league competition. Dick Donahue replaced Foy in the starting line-up this season.

Over the three years, Cass City has won 39 of 41 league games. Its record in non-league encounters over the same period is not quite as impressive.

Playing two strong non-league foes, Saginaw SS Peter and Paul and Mt. Pleasant, the Hawks bowed three straight times to Mt. B Conference basketball crown for 1954-55.

SHORT STORY

Mail Call
By Maurice Vincent

MR. CALIPER MOGEL PEARSON was standing in his front yard and gazing down the railroad track in the direction of Culvert City. As he stared, shading his eyes with his hand, a chunky steam engine came in sight, pulling a line of flat wheeled cars with a noise calculated to raise the dead in the neighborhood. The engine stopped in a satisfactory fashion, on the edge of Caliper's farm. Mr. Pearson consulted a battered silver watch the size of a court house clock. The watch was his pride and he kept it hitched firmly to his sagging pants with a leather braided thong. "Right on time," he grumbled. Caliper Pearson had a private feud with the tiny Montgomery, Culvert City & Atlantic Railroad. Twice a day the rusty, protesting engine and a stream of creaking cars, hustled through the exact center of his property, in perhaps the shortest run of railroad. From Montgomery to Culvert City (20 miles) and then from Culvert City, back to Montgomery. Caliper gazed fondly at his two milk type cows. These two pieces of bovine impudence would sometimes stand right in the center of the rusty rails and munch delicately upon the various ferns that grew in profusion along the tracks. And no amount of bell ringing or whistle tooting would budge the stubborn rascals. At least twice each week, Otis Pinweavel, the engineer, flanked by a slim individual who scooped coal into the tired fire boxes, halted his exhausted engine and descended upon Caliper with cries of rage and frustration. "Can't you keep yer danged cows offen the track?" the engineer would yell in vulgar fashion. Caliper would squint in the direction of his cows and then turn to the railroaders. "Effen ya wants 'em offen, then fog 'em offen yerself!" Then Caliper would turn his back and stride off to ponder the mysteries of heaven, earth and farming. So the railroaders tried a different plan. As if chased by devils, they would fan through Caliper's property with the speed that could be described as only slightly less than the speed of light. And Caliper, in self defense, had been obliged to watch his own cows, which made him peevish. During this phase of the situation, Caliper had amused himself by pelting stones and bits of refuse at the personnel in the engine. But his aim was bad and he grew tired of picking up chunks of coal the engineer and fireman used to answer his fire. He had given up active warfare when a piece of coal clipped him along side the head, chipping off a bit of bark. It wasn't the pain so much as the embarrassment of the situation. So finally, Caliper devised a trick of his own. He had figured a way to slow the railroad down to a crawl. Through a fixed company rule, or maybe "courtesy of the road," the railroad was bound (maybe it was by tradition) to stop for all mail along the route. So Caliper erected two mail boxes; one at each end of his farm. By five time they stopped, picked up his letters, they barely had enough steam left to humbly crawl through his farm. The cows were plenty safe! Caliper scratched his head for several days, trying to figure who to write to in Montgomery and Culvert City. At last he hit upon the solution. For the Culvert City run, Caliper had addressed a letter, each day, to the president of the railroad. And for Montgomery, likewise each day, he addressed a letter to the stationmaster. Both letters, written laboriously with the stub of a pencil, always contained the same message. "Dear Sir: Effen ya wants my cows offen yer danged railroad then fog 'em offen yerself!" Signed, Caliper Mogel Pearson.

"Effen ya wants 'em offen, then fog 'em offen yourself!" Caliper said.

For sheer fun out on the road, Chevrolet's stealing the thunder from the high-priced cars!

Up to this year, maybe there were reasons for wanting one of the higher-priced cars. If you demanded something really special in the way of driving fun, you simply had to pay a premium to get it. Not any more! The Motoramic Chevrolet has changed all that. Who could wish for more excitement than the new 162-h.p. "Turbo-Fire V8" delivers? (For those who do, 180-h.p. is optional at extra cost in all V8 models.) Chevrolet also offers the two highest powered sixes in its field. J. Wayne Green, eminent Trichologist, demonstrates causes of baldness and how it can be prevented.

How To Have Hair For A Lifetime To Be Demonstrated Here By Famous Trichologist Offers Written Guarantee

An exclusive interview by Steven Bright

Wichita (Special)—J. Wayne Green, Director of Rogers, Inc., Hair and Scalp Specialists, exploded the myth of baldness today in an exclusive interview.

"Baldness is unnecessary, costly, and a plague to mankind," says Green. "No man need be bald. No man need suffer the stigma of premature old age that is forced upon him because he is losing his hair. The Rogers method of hair and scalp treatment can prevent baldness—can turn colorless fuzz into healthy, growing hair—can make you look youthful again."

Demonstration To Be Held in Cass City, Mich.

This revolutionary method of home treatment for the hair and scalp will be demonstrated in Cass City, Michigan, Saturday ONLY, February 26 at the New Gordon Hotel. Trichologist R. B. Dixon will conduct the private individual interviews from 12 noon until 9:00 p. m. on Saturday ONLY. There is no cost or obligation, and you need no appointment.

Reason for Baldness

"There is always a reason for baldness," continued this nationally known authority. "Hair cannot grow through a scalp that is infected with dandruff, excessive oiliness, or extreme dryness. A scalp that has never been exercised cannot be expected to produce healthy hair." Men, and yes, women too, walk the streets today completely devoid of nature's greatest ornament—hair. Simply because they were not taught the basic rules of hair and scalp hygiene while they were growing up. "The simple answer," emphasized this expert, "is that children should be taught the same simple basic rules of hair and scalp hygiene that they are taught for the proper care of their teeth. If this were the case, baldness would be a rarity today!"

Hereditarily Not Involved

Trichologist Green dodged no issues. He quickly took up the most widely spread theory of baldness—heredity. "Mankind's un-realistic belief that baldness is hereditary stems from a mis-interpretation of the theory of genetics. Theory does not state that any person must be bald because baldness exists in the family. What it does say, is that in some families a tendency exists towards an undernourished scalp." The purpose of the Rogers Hair and Scalp Clinic is to teach the methods of strengthening the weak scalp and nourishing it to a healthy, vigorous condition. "A healthy scalp will grow hair if it is not already completely bald," assures Green.

Is There Hope For The Completely Bald

In his travels throughout the United States and Canada, Green has collected hundreds of testimonials of his ability to develop weak fuzz into healthy, mature hair. All of his clients have started with a private examination, hair and scalp analysis, and a diagnosis of the disorder. Green is quick however, to tell a hopeless case that he cannot be helped. "We strongly advise," says Green, "that no person who is completely bald hold any hope whatsoever of regrowing hair. If there is any fuzz at all, we can restore a healthy scalp condition and the hair will grow normally again as nature intended."

Offers A Guarantee
"Rogers, Inc., America's Foremost Hair and Scalp Specialists, offer a guarantee to any client who enrolls for treatment. If he or she is not completely delighted with results at the end of 30 days, the money invested will be graciously refunded," pledged Green. "We must have satisfied clients. We must grow hair. After all, it is our best advertisement."

Is Your Hair Healthy?
If you have a scalp disorder, or if you are worried about your hair, call Trichologist R. B. Dixon at the New Gordon Hotel in Cass City, Michigan, Saturday ONLY from 12 noon to 9:00 p. m. The public is invited. The examinations are private and open to men and women. You do not need an appointment, and you will not be embarrassed or obligated in any way.

Direct Loans Offer Advantages Bank Terms Usually Mean Lower Interest

Farmers who borrow money to purchase new machinery should first consider the advantages of a direct loan.

Interest on a direct loan may be lower because bankers usually charge simple interest—that is, after the farmer's first payment on the loan's principal, interest is charged only on the remainder. But, on contracts, interest is sometimes figured in advance and added to the whole principal of the loan—thus, the farmer also pays "interest on his interest."

Such interest figured in advance may make total interest much higher. On a $1,200 loan to be paid back in 12 monthly installments at 6 per cent, the total simple interest payment would be $39. But if interest is charged in advance and added to the principal, the total is nearly twice as much—$72.

Another direct loan advantage is that the farmer may be in a stronger bargaining position if he comes to the machinery dealer with his financing all worked out. He can then bargain with cash in hand even though he borrows from a bank.

One of the advantages of a direct loan when buying machinery is the fact that having cash in hand makes it easier to do business—may even sometimes help get equipment at a lower price.

It's also an advantage to get a machinery loan from the same place a farmer gets his other production credit. If he gets all his non-real estate credit from one lender, he will be able to keep a close eye on the type and size of such debts.

Predict Dairy Outlook Better for 1955

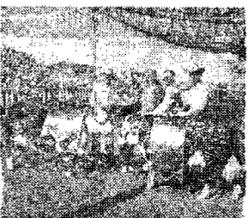

There will still be dairy surpluses in 1955—but the gap between milk production and use promises to be the smallest since 1952, predicts a University of Minnesota professor of agricultural economics.

Dr. E. Fred Koller says 1954 milk production will total 124 billion pounds and use was about 119 billion pounds. This left a gap of about five billion pounds of milk the government bought in butter, cheese and milk powder. This is a billion pounds less than in 1953. 1955 milk production is estimated at 124 to 125 billion pounds and use at 121 billion pounds—a possible gap of three or four billion pounds, much lower than in recent years.

An indication of adjustment is that U. S. fall milk production was about the same as the previous year. In the first half of 1954, production was much larger than in first half 1953. U. S. butter production in the week ending December 30, 1954, was 19 per cent below a year ago.

There were also adjustments on the use side. Americans were using 8 to 9 per cent more butter in the first 10 months of 1954 as they did in the same period of 1953.

CARS ARE MY LINE

By H. M. Bulen

One of our salesmen came up with a story the other day, a true one, that must capture some sort of prize for the greatest car let-down in years.

Some people will go to a lot of trouble to get a car that's just a bit different, and a Los Angeles businessman named Stan Slotkin was one of them—he really was.

Somehow, he's not saying just how, he managed to smuggle a new Russian Pobezza, a four-door sedan, out of the USSR. The Russians probably thought it was his small English car that was boxed in a crate and loaded on a ship in Helsinki, Finland.

Slotkin paid 1500 dollars, plus tax and the shipping charges to get his "different" car to Los Angeles. But when he drove it down the street, no one gave him a glance. The car looked just like a 1939 American car, with the body style and dashboard borrowed from one maker and the grille work from another. The tires even had the same tread as a well-known make.

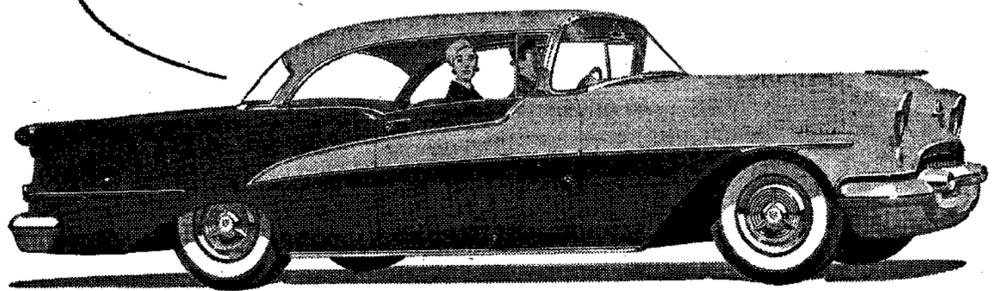

Slotkin probably had fun and I hope it was worth the money. Finding a car that's different is fun, and of course the place to find such a wide range of cars, old and new, that you're bound to see the "difference" you want is—you've guessed it—right on our lot. Sorry, we're temporarily out of Pobezzas.

Next week I want to tell you how to choke a car—so the bills won't choke you.

SHORT STORY

To Diet Or Die
By Ona F. Lathrop

POLLY FREDERICK set down her breakfast coffee-cup with a clatter. "Tom Frederick, that's just about enough! Moaning around here about your ails and ills! Why don't you go to a doctor if you think something is wrong? I suppose you think it's my 'delectable, delectable, indigestible cooking' as you call it."

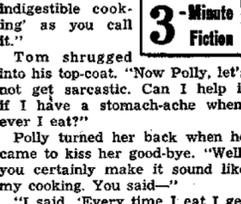

Tom shrugged into his top-coat. "Now Polly, let's not get sarcastic. Can I help it if I have a stomach-ache whenever I eat?"

Polly turned her back when he came to kiss her good-bye. "Well you certainly make it sound like my cooking. You said—"

"I said, 'Every time I eat I get a pain.' Probably an ulcer from all the worry at the office—maybe even a cancer. I didn't mean—"

Polly gave him a perfunctory peck and waved him out. Where was the old guy Tom? It was weeks since he had taken her out. Then she turned to her long shelf of cook-books. "I'll fix him," she muttered. "Let me see—milk toast? Well, maybe that's a little drastic, but no more pies and cakes and fried foods. And ah—chicken broth with rice patties, bland barley soup, remoué custard." She ran her finger down the section under "Invalid Cookery."

"That night Tom ate the barley

Polly gave him a perfunctory peck and waved him out.

soup dutifully, then sat back and waited. "Well, there's the main course?"

Polly tossed her pert little chin in the air. "That's it."

"Hey, what is this? Are you trying to lose more weight? Because if you do, a good whiff of wind will carry you off!"

"It's not for me, silly. I'm tired of your agonizing every night about your innards. Either you go to a doctor or you eat 'The Polly Frederick Special Diet for Hypochondriacal Husband'."

The next few days Polly felt a little sick herself. "Just hungry, perhaps," she told herself, and nibbled crackers and cheese and tidbits between meals until she actually had a first-class spell of indigestion. When Tom came home to dinner one night, she was doubled up in bed and informed him he'd better go to his mother's for dinner.

"Good idea!" he agreed. "A good square meal would be fine once more."

But all that night they both writhed and tossed and had night-mares.

"What on earth did your mother have for dinner last night?" Polly asked as she dragged herself out to fix some poached eggs.

"Some mixed-up casserole mess with hot sauce and French Fries," he answered, making a wry face. "I'll have to turn in early. Didn't sleep a wink."

"You see?" she gloated. "I'll fix arrowroot gruel for tonight. It should be good for both of us."

"Don't bother," Tom growled. "I can just nibble some zwieback and take my bottle of milk-formula to bed with me."

That night when Tom came home, he began unloading bottles from his pockets. "Well, I did it," he announced. "I went to Doc Eldridge, and look at the money I've spent for prescriptions, besides his fee. I hope you are satisfied."

"What did he say is the matter with us—you, I mean?"

"Just what you thought. The stress of modern-day business methods and worry—the basis of all ills! To quote him. And you were probably worrying over me, or cooking for me, which of course means your job is getting you down, too."

"Now that you know you haven't some dire disease, perhaps we can begin to live again. There's a good movie on tonight to start with."

He grinned and twirled her around. "How about a nice thick broiled steak—with mushrooms? And throw those bottles in the trash as you go out, will you? Mind over matter, I guess that's what we need."

WOMEN AND WHEELS

Winter Driving Hazards Can Be Lessened

By Mary Lou Chapman

If you have already had a tussle with winter driving this year, you may now be interested in special equipment designed to foil snow, slush and icy roads.

One unusual item is your own personal "road-sander." It has a tank that holds grit which can be sprinkled on the road in front of your rear tires through two openings as you drive. The grit is released by a switch inside the car, attached to the steering wheel column.

It runs electrically and is similar to the type used on trucks and buses. The road-sander equipment comes with five pounds of grit. The grit is a fine gravel having twice the traction of sand.

If your community's public road-sander is frequently late in getting around to the hill near your street, or if you have a very steep driveway that gets icy, this might be a worthwhile investment.

If you live in a milder climate you expect to encounter icy roads only once in awhile, you might skip the road-sander and carry a burlap bag of moderately fine gravel in the trunk of your car. This is handy if you ever find yourself stuck on slick pavement or in a snow-drift.

Chains, Traction Clips

On roads that are completely covered with either snow or ice, tire chains are a good idea. The type of chain that goes all around the tire is usually the most help, but has some disadvantages. This type is often hard to put on and to remove, and you can get pretty dirty doing it. Also if you drive for any distance over a road that is dry, the chain may wear through and break.

Emergency chains are small-

Another emergency device is the traction clip. This is a new device made of spring steel, which means that it has a certain amount of "give" to it. You tuck the steel clips under each rear wheel. As the wheels revolve, the clip is drawn onto the tires. The steel bars give you traction which should get you out of your difficulty.

After you are out of the rut, the clips can be tidily removed with a special lever that comes with the package. Women might be particularly interested in the ease with which these clips can be used.

Snow Tires

Snow tires are favored by many people for general winter driving. They have an especially deep tread similar to a farm tractor tire which gives greater traction than regular tires. You only need to buy two—one for each rear wheel. You can buy them as new tires, or you can have a pair of worn tires recapped with snow treads. Snow tires are best in areas where you have a great deal of snow in winter. On ice, chains are best.

Gagetown Farmer Dies Wednesday

Mr. Lester Oest, 42, died Wednesday morning at Pleasant Home Hospital after a year's illness.

He was born on a farm near Gagetown, and had made farming his life's occupation. He was operating the farm when taken ill.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Jules Goslin; one brother, Avon Oest of Dearborn, and a nephew.

Mr. Oest will be at Hunter's Funeral Home until Saturday morning, Feb. 26, when funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock from St. Agatha's Church with Rev. Father Wm. Cronkite officiating. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Money talks, but the things it says are not always what we want to hear.

County Leaders to Discuss Meals

Minutes versus money in the home kitchen will be the big topic of conversation at the leader training meeting for home demonstration group leaders conducted by Jean E. Gillies, county home demonstration agent, on Tuesday and Wednesday, March 1 and 2, beginning at 1:00 o'clock. The meeting will be held in the Wilber 4-H Memorial Building in Caro.

Homemade mixes, main dishes which may be frozen, and other foods that are natural for jiffy meals will be demonstrated.

The use of a "meal measure" to help insure that the family's hurry-up meals are adequate will be introduced to the group leaders.

Outstanding Herds On State Farms

Residents of Michigan, whether or not they very often see a cow, are part owners in one of America's top producing dairy cattle herds.

The dairy cattle, which are on the farms of 15 state institutions, total 2,100 to 2,200 in number. Farm activities at these 15 state institutions are co-ordinated by the Michigan department of agriculture.

Not all of the animals are producing, but in a year's test period covering parts of 1953 and 1954 there were 891 cows that averaged 13,162 pounds of 3% percent butterfat milk a year with an average of 555.6 pounds of butterfat.

Michigan's herd of dairy cattle is of the Holstein-Friesian breed, and they are registered animals. One of the outstanding Holstein herds in the nation is the herd at the Ionia State Hospital. For the 16th year this herd has qualified for the Progressive Breeders award. This honor, the highest bestowed upon a breeder by the Holstein association, has been achieved by only 286 Holstein breeding establishments in the entire nation. The Ionia State Hospital herd is one of the 17 in Michigan so recognized.

The last production test of the Hospital herd in the Herd Improvement Registry program was completed on June 30, 1954. The 37-cow herd averaged 413 pounds of butterfat and 17,080 pounds of milk in 313 days on three milkings a day.

Often the man who returns home empty handed carries a heavier load than his provident neighbor.

MICHIGAN MIRROR NEWS BRIEFS

State government has money troubles again, a plight in which the taxpayer is forced to become a hero.

Through the winter and into the spring legislators will tussle with two of the major resultant problems in their quest for a balanced budget. They are:

1. How to cut down Gov. Williams' $292 million budget which runs $46 million over existing revenues.
2. How to raise enough money to cover the cost of state operations for 1955-56, figures they know will be higher than for 1954-55.

Republicans have committed themselves to a balanced budget but the road will be rocky even with the extension of the $30 million business activities tax.

"A balanced budget at any cost," is the slogan.

Authors of tax bills are holding back this year to wait for appropriations committees on both sides of the capitol to find how much extra will be needed.

"We don't know yet how much it will be, but it won't be $46 million" said Senator Creighton R. Coleman (R-Battle Creek).

Williams' budget was compared with existing revenue for 1954-55, the first year the business activities tax poured cash into the treasury.

At first glance, legislators predicted it would raise $35 million. Then they revised it downward to $30 million. The State Department of Revenue fixed the actual yield at $28 million.

But last year's budget came out with a $3 million surplus, a bulge certain to be reduced by deficiencies from overspent state agencies.

Milk, the nectar of the farm, is big business in Michigan.

F. M. Skiver, chief of the dairying bureau of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, proved it with statistics showing that the state sells 5,000,000,000 pounds a year.

It comes from 105,000 dairy farms, which provide milk for processing into a dozen different milk-derived foods for the nation's tables.

Half the milk, he said, is sold as fresh milk and cream. Other outlets are 10 per cent to condensed or evaporated milk; 7 per cent to cheese, mostly American style; and 8 per cent to the manufacture of ice cream and sherbet.

Skiver, always ready to improve the product that provides one of the largest items in farm incomes, said he was proud of a Michigan "first."

The state was the first in the nation to adopt a compulsory milk pasteurization law.

Cap Pistols may be the only explosive noise-maker left for the kids after this year.

Legislators have been asked to pass a law banning sparklers, a burning, sparkling bit of powder attached to a wire, because of the danger to young fingers, curtains and awnings.

It follows the general crack-down on fireworks which used to run up heavy tolls of injuries and deaths on the Fourth of July and Memorial Day. Sparklers already are banned in Detroit.

"If sparklers are outlawed on a statewide basis, there will be less bootlegging of other fireworks into Michigan," said Senator Harold M. Ryan (D-Detroit), sponsor of the bill.

This may be a trifle late for those aching backs and maybe a fracture or two.

But the Michigan Tourist Council has come up with a set of safety rules for skiers in an effort to cut the toll on the state's impressive list of excellent ski resorts.

Here they are:

1. The person skiing has the right-of-way.
2. In climbing a hill where others are skiing, climb to the side of the hill with skis on.
3. Do not climb hills without your skis. Boot imprints and deep holes cause accidents.
4. Always fill in the holes you make.
5. Learn the proper and correct fit of your ski equipment.
6. Always use safety straps to prevent runaway skis.
7. Wear goggles to prevent snow blindness.
