

From the Editor's Corner

This week end, motorists who have failed to have their car safety checked and receive their sticker can expect to be stopped by police authorities.

June 1 was the deadline for having cars in the Cass City area safety checked. Judging by the amount of stickers used, the big majority have complied with the request of officials.

A thousand stickers were ordered and delivered to Cass City to start the drive. These ran out and another order was placed and these stickers are now nearly gone. The drive here was proved necessary by reports from owners of garages and service stations cooperating who said that more than one car in ten were in need of safety repairs.

The Village of Cass City received a bill for the remainder of the village's share of the cost of resurfacing Main Street this week.

Representatives of the Michigan State Highway Department said that there had been considerable delay in the signing of contracts, but pointed out that the matter had been taken care of now and that the work would be completed on schedule. Completion date for the project is Sept. 15, 1955.

Cass City Loses Second Game in 3-Star League

The Cass City Independent baseball nine dropped their second straight decision in the 3-Star League Sunday when they lost to Otisville, 5-3, at the Otisville park.

Strong pitching for both teams featured the game. Jim Evans started his first game since graduating from Cass City High School and was charged with the loss when he temporarily lost control in the second inning and allowed two of Otisville's three hits.

The rally was good for all of Otisville's runs.

Evans fanned the first batter and then walked four in a row. Griswold followed with a wind-blown double and McMullin singled to drive in two more markers.

After the fatal second, only two runners reached base for Otisville. Evans walked one and hit one after the second. He pitched until the seventh when Jerry Whittaker took over and held Otisville scoreless.

Cass City jumped into a two-run lead in the first inning on hits by Eli Holes and Pete Martin. They added their third run in the seventh. Jack Hool reached first on an error and Milt Hnatuk also got on when Otisville committed its second bobble of the inning.

They moved to second and third on an infield out and Hool scored on a batted ball.

Cass City will try to break in to the win column for the first time this year when they entertain North Branch at the Cass City Recreational Park Sunday. Game time is 2:30 p. m.

Area Churches Will Hold Bible Schools

Various churches in Cass City this week are announcing vacation Bible schools that are scheduled to open in the near future.

The vacation Bible school of the Cass City Council of Churches will start Monday, June 13, and continue through June 24. The council is composed of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Evangelical United Brethren churches in Cass City.

Classes will be held daily from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m.

There will be classes for all age groups. Junior High and Junior departments will meet in the EUB Church under Superintendents Miss Muriel Addison and Mrs. Stanley Kim.

Primarily students will gather at the Presbyterian Church and will be instructed by Mrs. K. I. MacRae, superintendent.

The Methodist Church has been selected for the Kindergarten class. The superintendent of this school will be announced. Assisting in each department will be several volunteer helpers, both adults and younger persons. Eight members of the staff and two pastors attended a vacation school institute in Bad Axe recently and followed the meeting

Of Village Council Committee Reports Highlight Meeting

Committee reports highlighted the regular monthly meeting of the Cass City Village Council Tuesday evening at the municipal building.

The council voted to charge Wesley Milk Company $450 a year for use of the sewer in the village. Wesley's pumps their own water and the village will not be able to assess the company on the basis of the water used.

Representatives from the council had previously met with the company and asked for $600 a year for sewer service. The company offered $450, based on a similar charge they pay in Detroit. The council voted to accept the proposal. The charge becomes effective June 1 and a contract will be signed for one year.

A report from Cliff Ryan on the summer program at the park indicated that the program will cost $1,200 this year. The cost will be divided among the village, Elkland Township and Cass City School. Each will pay a third of the cost.

The bulk of the funds will be used to pay Mr. and Mrs. Mike Yedink for supervision of the program. They will be paid $800 for taking charge of a seven-week course that is expected to encompass all age groups. The remaining $400 will be used for equipment to run the program.

Before the program starts, the park will be sprayed to remove weeds and other undesirable growth.

Library Report
A report from the library board from March 1954 through March 1955 shows the organization spent a total of $1,183.23 for the year.

Expenditures did not equal receipts for the year. A total of $2,635.74 was received for the year, the majority of the funds coming from Elkland Township and Cass City.

The library started the year with a cash balance of $1,090.24 and had a balance on hand at the time of the report of $1,452.51.

Biggest expenditures were for the librarian's salary, $748, and new books, $313.68. Other expenditures were: insurance, $7.80; cleaning and supplies, $94.38; book repairs, $2.40; newspapers, $8.75; and miscellaneous expense, $8.22.

New Building
The council agreed to cooperate with the Gavel Club for a new building at the playground. The Gavel Club will furnish the lumber and the village the labor.

The building will be used for a Ground Observers' post and for officials and announcers at football games.

Building Permits
Building permits were granted to: LeRoy Sefton, a one-story building at the corner of Garfield and Maple streets; Peter Zell, a two-car garage on Houghton Street, and J. M. Stinson, a two-story brick building on Seeger Street for the General Telephone Company.

In the final action of the evening, the council instructed Clerk Wilma Fry to write a letter of appreciation to the Art Club for donating a picnic table at the park.

Trustees Boost Salaries of All Village Employees

Trustees for the Village of Cass City voted to raise the salaries of salaried and hourly employees of the village five per cent Tuesday evening at a meeting held at the municipal building.

The raise will amount to a little over six cents per hour for hourly workers who have been receiving $1.25 per hour.

Total average cost of the labor force in the village is estimated at about $1,600 monthly. The raise means an increase in cost of about $80 monthly or about $960 per year.

The raise does not affect trustees who receive a token wage of $5 per month for running the affairs of the village.

Storm Sewers
C. R. Hunt and Village Engineer C. L. Burt reported on storm sewer work in the village. Work to be done on sections of Seeger Street will cost an estimated $4,000 this year. The storm sewers must be placed before widening work, planned for this year on Seeger, can be started.

Joan Holmberg Wins Spot in Musical Tent

A Cass City girl has won a berth in the 12-member singing chorus of the Flint Musical Tent. She is Joan Holmberg, a junior in the School of Music at the University of Michigan.

Miss Holmberg won her spot through competitive auditions conducted Tuesday night in Flint by Michael Kuttner, tent musical director, who heard 24 finalists before making selections.

She will join Wynne Stevens and Glenn Rudolph, both of Flint, in the chorus which will be filled out with nine professionals from New York.

Miss Holmberg is a member of the Choral Union at the University and has appeared in a number of operettas staged by the music department. Two years ago she won a State voice contest, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and WJ.R.

She will first be seen in "Oklahoma" which opens June 17 in the tent, located at N. Saginaw and Tobias Roads, near Pine Run. Following "Oklahoma" there will be 10 other musical comedies including "Guys and Dolls," "Desert Song," "Song of Norway," "Wish You Were Here," "Finian's Rainbow" and "The Merry Widow."

This marks the first professional engagement of Miss Holmberg. During the summer she will work with Broadway and Metropolitan Opera Co. stars.

Ziegler Explains Problems in State Road Program

Charles M. Ziegler, state highway commissioner, told members of the Rotary Club of the road problems in Michigan Tuesday noon at the regular meeting of the club at the New Gordon Hotel.

He said that urgent need for roads in Michigan and the nation started during the war when for years 1942 through 1945 no new construction was permitted.

Following those years of inactivity, Mr. Ziegler pointed out, the road program was really laid in 1946 when a wave of strikes made materials almost unobtainable and slowed construction to a standstill.

Coupled with the backlog of work are other problems found in all states, he said.

In 1946, in Michigan, motorists traveled a total of 15 billion miles. In 1954, 27 billion miles were recorded.

At the same time that traffic was nearly doubling, Mr. Ziegler said, costs skyrocketed to more than twice what they were in 1941.

In pre-war days, the average cost for a mile of road was between 38 and 40 thousand dollars. This year, roads cost an average of $100,000 per mile.

Increased revenue during the period has not been enough to offset the increase in cost-per-mile without taking into consideration the increase in traffic.

He said that the national road program under consideration promises some relief and that more money may be available in the near future.

CARS ARE MY LINE

By H. M. Bulen

An automobile engineer recently figured out that if cars today were built with the tools and methods of 1910, but at today's labor and material costs, a medium-priced car would sell for more than $60,000.

That's just one way of measuring the wonderful progress that's been made in the automobile industry. Without that struggle for advancement the auto industry might well have killed itself with $60,000 cars.

What you get for your money at today's prices is astonishing.

Today's cars have more than 15,000 parts, the electrical system leading the way with 8,000 separate parts. Many cars use 7 miles of wire to link this all together.

There are more than 400 springs of 175 different kinds in an average car; the two coil springs in front are the largest, the springs in the carburetor are the smallest.

With all the planning and engineering that goes into cars, I always shudder at the driver who thinks his car is fine as long as it moves. You'd be surprised how many seemingly careful, conscientious drivers there are like this.

Medical science has prolonged the life of man by I don't-know-how-many years and a good mechanic can do the same for your car. You may not want to keep your car for 70 years but when you're selling it one of the best advertisements will be: it was serviced regularly by the same mechanic. A regular servicing program can save you money, and we'll be glad to show you how.

There ARE ways to stretch your gas mileage, but it's mainly up to you; a few hints next week.

Let "Ollie" tune up your engine every 5000 miles. It will pay off in increased gasoline mileage, much better performance. And, it will prolong the life of your car.

Here's How Cows Get Bang's Disease

When the health department says "you've got to slaughter that dairy cow because of brucellosis," it's usually too late to do anything about it. But most dairy farmers don't want to wait until it's too late, claims Alfred Ballweg, county agricultural agent.

They want to know how the cow gets the disease. Here's how Glen W. Reed, extension veterinarian at Michigan State College, explains the trouble:

Unlike mastitis which cows seem to get in many ways, brucellosis comes from one specific germ. But that germ is in abundant numbers in the genital tract of reactor cows.

Reed explains that since the brucella organisms incubate for from 30 to 200 days, some cattle may be carrying the disease even if they test negative. These cattle may react even within a week after passing a test.

Brucellosis organisms get in the cattle mainly through the mouth. But also enter through eyes, skin and lungs. The germs are expelled during calving and heat periods to infect other animals in the herd.

Bacteriologist I. Forrest Huddleson of MSC has estimated that in each drop of fetal fluids at calving there are between 5 and 15 million brucella germs—and there may be several gallons of the material at calving. This, plus the germs spread by the calf to other cows in the herd, make up a large total of the cattle infected. Calves can carry the disease germs on the hair coat for as long as six weeks.

Reed mentions that other sources of the disease are public pastures, stock yards, infected trucks and barn tools and farm implements. Buying infected cows at dispersal sales and putting otherwise clean cows on public pastures may also lead to trouble.

Spray Ditches and Fence Rows Now
Don't let those fence rows and drainage ditches grow up all summer with scrubby trees and undesirable bushes, urges Don R. Kebler, assistant county agricultural agent.

You don't have to go out chopping every little while to keep the trees and shrubs down. Chemical control of woody plants is the easiest method of keeping vegetation down.

There are several ways of killing undesirable trees and shrubs: spraying chemicals on the base, and spraying stumps to prevent growth. Here are several pointers:

Now is the best time to use foliage sprays—especially on low brush and trees less than five feet tall. A combination containing both 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T—sold by a number of chemical companies as "brushkiller"—is recommended. This product is used as a water spray for foliage.

When basal sprays and stump treatments are to be applied, the "brushkiller" should be mixed in diesel oil or kerosene.

Foliage spraying can be done best between now and early August. But it's most effective early in the season. Tests run by Maurice Dav, forester at Michigan State College's Dunbar experimental forest, showed that other methods of spraying can be done during any season.

You don't need a lot of equipment and for most farm spray operations, a knapsack sprayer is all that is necessary. On large jobs it will pay to invest in power equipment. A word of precaution, however. Avoid spraying on windy days as the material can kill other crops if blown on them.

No pillar or post for this wide-open beauty

It's the new kind of hardtop—
The 4-Door Riviera!

THERE seems to be some confusion about what a hardtop really is, and we'd like to set the matter straight.

A hardtop is a car that looks like a Convertible with the top up—but has a solid steel roof overhead—and no center posts in the side window areas.

Up until just recently, it could be built in volume only with two doors—not more—because it would take wholly new structural principles to hinge another set of doors without floor-to-roof center posts.

But Buick came up with those new structural principles and is now building—in volume—hardtops with four doors.

You see one pictured here. It's the 4-Door Riviera. And it's taking the country by storm...

Because here, at long last, is an automobile with the sleek and sporty styling of a true hardtop—but with separate doors for rear-seat passengers, plus the added room of a full-size Buick Sedan.

On top of that, this beauty is all Buick—with the buoyant ride of Buick's all-coil springing—the walloping might of Buick's record-high V8 power—the whip-quick getaway and sizable gas savings of Buick's spectacular Variable Pitch Dynaflow.*

And it's available in Buick's two lowest-priced Series—the budget-tagged 188-hp SPECIAL, and the high-performance 236-hp CENTURY, illustrated here.

Come visit us for a first-hand meeting with the 4-Door Riviera—and see how quickly and how easily the last word in automobiles can be yours.

*Dynaflow Drive is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Delegates are ready to take Michigan's education problems before the White House Conference Nov. 28 to Dec. 1 after six months of soul-searching at the local level.

They will be part of a national influx of citizens asked by President Eisenhower to come up with the answers.

The delegates and others attending the state conference in Lansing were warned by Dr. John A. Haman, president of Michigan State College, to do their jobs well. He said: "We in Michigan will have to do a great deal of thinking about putting first things first or else this conference in Washington will be no more significant than so many of the conventions of hand-wringers and pious-hoppers with which America is constantly afflicted."

The story goes back a long way to the late Dr. Lee M. Thurston, former state superintendent of public instruction who was United States commissioner of education briefly before his death.

Thurston's idea was to collect the massed local needs for education, boil and refine them into a national pattern for state and federal assistance.

His successors in office took it up where his work ended.

For the past six months, the problems have been amassed locally and referred to regional meetings. Regional refinements were added and they were sent on to the state meeting.

Now, it's on to Washington. Hannah, who keynoted the state meeting, said that major problems for educators are the critics who claim only that higher education is too costly.

"They must be answered and their arguments refuted," he said. "In good time, they may make secondary education their target."

Delegates to the state meeting were alarmed at repeated warnings that America's potential enemies—notably Russia—are turning out top engineers and scientists many times the rate in the U. S.

When the White House conference convenes in Washington, state delegates will carry Michigan's problems to the nation in 10 general areas:

Community education, classrooms and physical plants, qualified teachers, necessary finances, efficiently organized school districts, aroused public participation, support for both public and private colleges and universities, vocational training for the mentally and physically handicapped, expanded youth programs and adult education.

Years of work toward making life easier for the homeless and neglected children and more meaningful for the prospective delinquent reached a high point in the legislature.

Both chambers passed and sent to the governor four foster care bills, revamping the system of caring for state wards of all types.

The effect of the new laws will outstrip the surface significance. Basically, the new laws will:

Force the state to pay for half the cost of local foster care programs, the licensed nurseries and other facilities for the homeless, and sometimes unwanted.

Flipping the coin, counties will be required to pay half the cost of caring for children they send to state institutions, Boys Vocational School at Lansing, Girl's Training School at Adrian and Michigan Children's Institute at Ann Arbor.

The Lansing and Adrian schools have become training centers for children who are delinquent and headed for trouble. The Ann Arbor institute is for neglected children, orphans and others.

What is the significance of the change, other than financial?

For years, the counties have been tempted to send children from probate court to the state institutions. Foster care costs money on the local level and this was a less expensive solution for counties.

By arranging the financial system on a sharing basis, state and local officials figure children will get the care and treatment they require most at the most appropriate level.

W. J. Maxey, state welfare director, said:

"For the first time, a child now can be guaranteed that he will get the most appropriate treatment and care, not the ones which are least expensive to the counties."

Lawmakers hastening to complete Michigan's capitol building program are ready for another summer of investigations.

The next projects will be a Michigan Supreme Court building and another office building, both to be constructed on state-acquired property west of the capitol building.

"We've reached the point now where we can say that the two new buildings are planned for the near future," said Senator Harry F. Hittle (R-Lansing), chairman of the committee.

The building program was set back temporarily by the fire which damaged the first state office building. It has been repaired and reopened along with a new office building.

***

"We feel that the two new buildings will enable state government to have all its employees in Lansing near the Capitol," Hittle said. This will end renting from private landlords.

Legume-Grass Will Make Best Silage

Sure, if it's green and growing and a regular crop you can cut it for silage—but some plants will spoil, some won't taste good, and some would be better if left for grazing, says Alfred Ballweg, county agricultural agent.

The best all around crop is high-quality, well-fertilized legumes or legume-grass combinations. They'll do for hay or pasture. Red and sweet clover and oats and peas make top-notch silage. Even Reed Canary grass keeps well in the silo, but is lower in quality. Rye silage is less palatable, but otherwise similar to Reed.

Sudan can be made into good silage, but often doesn't work out so well. Pastured first, and then cut when growth gets ahead of the livestock, sudan silage usually has few leaves and doesn't pack too well, experts explain.

If you use soybeans for silage, you should add about 80 pounds of molasses to each ton of the green crop. Even growth from weedy hayfields is good for silage. Spread of weed seed can be stopped by cutting early and putting crops into the silo "weeds and all."

For summer silo feeding, it's not necessary to use preservatives or watch moisture content, Ballweg explains, but for winter silage, moisture should be 65-70%.

Though it isn't necessary to use preservatives for silage, even for winter feed it is a good idea to use molasses, ground grain, sodium metabisulfate or other preservatives when soybeans or pure alfalfa are ensiled. Preservatives help only when silage is too wet, he adds. At the proper 65-70 per cent moisture level, no preservative is needed.

Give a man a charity-charge and he will soon show the strength of his character.

Tire Demonstrations Stated in Sanilac

The necessity of removing excess water from the soil is well established, according to Allen E. Orr, county agricultural agent. The only water used by the plant is that left around the soil particles and in the small spaces between the soil particles. To remove the excess water, many farmers are installing the system. Farmers in Sanilac County are finding that an investment in a tile system is a sound one and one that pays good returns year after year. Through the Extension Service, Soil Conservation Service, Sanilac Soil Conservation District, tile manufacturers, owners of trenching machines and farmers—demonstrations of the installing tile are held. Last

W. A. CUTLER

Year two such demonstrations were held in Sanilac County and two are being planned for 1953.

On June 16, starting at 1:30 p. m., a trenching and tiling demonstration is planned for the Mr. and Mrs. Charles Monte farm, Palms Rd., six miles north of Deckerline on M-51. Young and old, men and women are urged to attend the demonstration. You'll have a chance to see, hear and ask and learn about drainage tile.

Willard Cutler, Michigan State College drainage engineer, will discuss land drainage and describe the work of the trenching machines.

Two trenching machines will be in operation. The one owned by Scott and Gaylord of Sandusky is a Parsons and the other is a Buckeye and is owned by Al Warfield of Sauer.

The tile system layout for this portion of the Monte farm that will be tiled this year is shown in the plan from the whole farm plan made by the Soil Conservation Service.

BIG TROUT—Clifton "Whitey" Strickland jubilantly returned home Tuesday from Twin Lakes near Baldwin with this giant six-pound brown trout. Caught while trolling with "tree hogs," the big fish took better than 15 minutes to land. The trout was the largest brought back to Cass City since 1952 when Harold Crawford hooked his state record breaking brown that weighed 17 pounds, five ounces. "Whitey" also brought back a pair of Rainbow trout that weighed between two and three pounds.
