

After Receiving Letter from Council

Walbro Acting to Eliminate Waste

Allen Smith, a representative of Walbro Corporation, appeared before the council Tuesday at the Cass City Municipal Building to explain the steps the corporation has taken to eliminate the chromic acid waste disposal of the plant.

The council had previously sent a letter to the corporation asking that the situation be corrected. Walbro had been dumping the waste in an open field and trustees felt that the open pools of acid waste were a menace to the health of the community.

Curb and Gutter Problems Still Perplex Council

A curb and gutter program in the village, a problem that has perplexed trustees for over a year, was debated again Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the council at the Cass City Municipal Building.

That a program is urgently needed is agreed by all representatives of the village. The method for charging for the work is still an undecided question.

Trustee C. R. Hunt advocates a flat fee per foot to property holders, charging a little less than actual cost of construction. The village would pay all of the cost of surfacing between the curb and the street.

On the theory that curb and gutter adds to the value of property, President James Bauer suggested that the rate should cover the whole cost of the curb and gutter work, with the village paying for the surfacing between the curb and the street.

Because of the cost, all trustees agreed that curb and gutter work will not be constructed a block at a time.

When a street is curbed and guttered it will have to be for several blocks at once, which cuts costs about in half.

President Bauer appointed Trustees Warren Wood and Andrew Bigelow to investigate further and report to the council at the next meeting.

First curb and gutter to be installed is on Seeger Street where work on curbing is nearing completion.

The curb extends to the alley on the northeast side of the street from Main Street, past Pleasant Home Hospital on the southeast side from Main Street, and south of the alley on the southwest side of Seeger from Main.

Resurface Seeger

Resurfacing of Seeger Street is well under way. The Hunt Company will resurface the road from the alleys nearest Main Street. Work from the alleys to Main will be handled by the Wright Construction Co. which will resurface Main Street.

The type of blacktop used by the Hunt Company is much less costly than that required by the state for Main Street.

Bridges to Five

County Men

Five Tuscola County men's petition for new bridges across the White Creek intercounty drain was granted by Judge Archie D. McDonald of Hastings Thursday, Aug. 25, in Tuscola County Circuit Court.

The five men, Fred Henderson and Harold Colton of Koylton Township and Frank Schobert, Stanley Adanczy and Lloyd Howey of Kingston Township, said that when the drain was built the bridges were not properly erected to provide them access to the road.

White Creek drain starts at Pine Tree Corners, south of Wilmet, and runs through Kingston and Koylton Townships, covering about 10 miles.

County Drain Commissioner Freeland Sugden said that he instructed the county's attorney to seek only justice in the case and said that he felt the verdict was a reasonable one. A few years ago, he said, the drain office attempted to have these bridges repaired, but the state drain laws forbid the repairing of bridges after a drain is once built. At that time, Sugden explained, this office advised the property owners that their only recourse was to go through the courts.

The court verdict will allow only the bridges of the five men who complained to be rebuilt. There are at least five, and maybe more, bridges that are in a similar condition to those to be repaired on the drain.

Cost of the five new bridges will be about $10,000 and will be assessed to the drain at large.

Repairing of any other bridges along the drain will require another court action.

Gagetown School Now in Session

Gagetown public grade school opened Monday for registration and formal classes started Tuesday, Principal Charles Mayer announced.

Faculty members for the year are: Miss Irene Hall, sixth, seventh and eighth grades; Mrs. Leslie Munro, fourth and fifth grades; Mrs. Lloyd Finkbeiner, second and third grades; Mrs. Stanley Muntz, first grade and specialized reading, and Mrs. Al-ger Freiburger, kindergarten.

St. Agatha grade school opens Wednesday, Sept. 7. Sister Pierre will be a new teacher at the school this year, replacing Sister Agnes Carmel. Returning will be Sister Rachel Marie and Sister Catherine Joseph.

The hot lunch program will not be resumed until repairs on St. Agatha church are completed. Services are presently being held in the basement where the cafeteria is located.

Cone Pleads Not Guilty

Hillman Sentenced From 3 to 14 Years

Clinton Hillman of Fairgrove was sentenced for three to 14 years in jail Thursday, Aug. 25, by Judge Timothy C. Quinn in Tuscola County Circuit Court at Caro.

He had pleaded guilty Aug. 3 to forging checks, signing his mother's name and the name of William Peters of Alkon. Hillman was on probation for the same offense in 1946 when he was arrested this summer.

Rowland Cone of Cass City was arraigned and pleaded not guilty on counts of indecent liberties and attempted rape. He was remanded to the custody of the sheriff and bond was set at $2,500.

Wayne E. Boyne appeared in court on a charge of violation of parole. Judge Quinn ordered him to the county jail until Aug. 31 and ordered him to come up with a substantial program for earning money to pay restitution, fine and costs. Wednesday he came back into court and said he had a job on a farm.

His probation was renewed for one year. His pay checks will go to the friend of the court to be applied on money owed and a dollar a week returned to him.

Two carloads of persons, one from Vassar and one from Caro, started out on a shopping trip Friday morning. This was not an ordinary group nor a run-of-the-mill shopping trip.

These cars held the County Welfare Board and the Building Committee and Welfare Committee of the Board of Supervisors and a reporter representing the Tuscola County Advertiser, Cass City Chronicle and Tuscola County Pioneer-Times. They were shopping for ideas.

For the past weeks these committees have been concerned with the problem of the safety of the patients at the County Hospital at Caro and their peace of mind has not been lulled by the recommendations of the state fire marshal, who has been increasingly insistent that the Caro Hospital be put in a better condition so that it can meet the standards set by the department for health and safety.

So the group set out for Shiawassee County and the new hospital that has been built there. Shiawassee County was picked because it compares with Tuscola in size, population and assessed valuation, and an outstanding job of building and equipping a 78-bed hospital has recently been completed.

George Gettman, welfare director, spared no effort to enlighten the visitors. Every nook and cranny was inspected and explained by Mr. Gettman. He has been welfare director there for four years, both before and after the new hospital was built. He said after the tour of inspection was over, "from my own experience, I don't see how any county can afford to be without a modern hospital. It really pays off in convenience and cost of operation."

Ingham County Hospital at Okemos was the second stop. This is a much larger operation, having 165 beds. This hospital has recently added a wing that is not completely finished, to greatly facilitate their handling the rehabilitation of patients. The hospital employs a full-time physiotherapist who supervises the rehabilitation work. Patients there are encouraged to use their skills in handicraft, weaving and cabinetmaking, among other forms of occupational therapy.

The group was anxious to learn all phases of work carried on in other counties in like hospitals, such as the one in Caro, and a report will be presented.

Accident Severely Injures Richard Otulakowski

Mr. Otulakowski suffered a fractured pelvis, fractured right leg and internal injuries. His condition is described as fair.

His car went off the road, struck bridge curbing which jolted the car back across the road and into a tree.

September Critical Pasture Month

Tuscola County pasture problems aren't over when the fall rains come. July and August are problem months for pasture with most farmers, but September is a critical period, too.

September grazing of alfalfa fields being saved for another year will weaken the alfalfa and probably result in poor stand next season. September is the critical period for Tuscola County when alfalfa is storing up food reserves, says Don R. Kehler, assistant county agricultural agent.

Grazing during this critical period will result in the alfalfa plant going into the winter with reduced carbohydrate reserves in the root. Alfalfa with low reserves is weak and subject to winter injury. Too often, the result is a poor stand the following year. Grazing later in the fall after the critical period is a safe practice.

When pasture is short, there are several ways to avoid grazing alfalfa which is to be used another year, according to Milton Erdman, extension farm crops specialist at Michigan State University. Sudan still provides abundant pasture in September and up until the first frost. Permanent bluegrass pastures can be used to good advantage in September also. Reed canary grass can be pastured through the entire fall period. Rye seeded in early August will provide some light fall pasture. Or grass silage put up earlier in the season can be fed out now so the silo can be filled with corn.

Of course, those fields which are to be plowed next spring may be grazed as it makes no difference if the alfalfa there is injured.

A note of caution in regard to new seedings. Sometimes when new seedings make good growth there is a temptation to pasture them the year they are seeded. This practice is not recommended.

as new seedings are especially susceptible to injury. New seedings should be allowed to become well established the year they are seeded. Results will be higher yields of hay or pasture next year.

CARS ARE MY LINE

By H. M. Bulen

Most of us, I'm afraid, are eternal optimists. As motorists, we refuse to face the fact that we may someday have a serious accident.

In 1950, one manufacturer bravely decided to offer seat belts as standard equipment. The item was quickly withdrawn when people concluded that the car must be dangerous.

Seat belts are a good idea, but a friend of mine has come up with an alternative. If people don't want to wear safety belts, he says, face all the passenger seats in a car the other way round.

And with the seats facing backwards, he says, put backs on them high enough so a sudden stop don't snap off your wife's neck.

High, backward-facing seats would not only save a passenger's neck from the jolt of a fast stop, they would also prevent passengers from crashing into the dashboard and windshield.

Sound fantastic? Well, the U. S. Military Air Transport Service and the Royal Air Force have decided that all their transports from now on will have backward-facing seats. In a plane that crashed in Africa, 25 passengers were facing the rear. They all lived. The crew of six were facing the front. Five of them died.

But so much for dreams. The easiest way is still a safety belt.

In buying a used car, safety is a factor a customer looks for, really without thinking about it, when he tests the brakes and sounds out the engine for performance. Safety is THE factor we think of when we examine every car on our lot before it goes out for sale. It's put through its paces so you won't have to worry about it.

It will soon be "Truck Season" with Beans and Beets coming up. We have an exceptional buy in D. A. Krug's 1950 Chevrolet Long Wheelbase. Name 4-H Delegates To State 4-H Show

The biggest event of the year for Tuscola County 4-H club boys and girls took place this week. They travelled to East Lansing to take part in the 40th annual State 4-H Club Show held on the Michigan State University campus August 30 to September 2.

Competition was keen, declares Bill Muller, Tuscola County 4-H club agent, since there were over 2,000 boys and girls vying for the $38,500 in premiums and trip awards. They represented 82 counties and participated in exhibits, judging and demonstration contests. Muller adds that Tuscola County 4-H'ers would get a boost in morale if county folks would show their backing by attending the State Show themselves.

All exhibits, demonstrations, judging and evening programs are free and open to the public. Evenings are jam-packed with the big annual dress revue, general assemblies, "share-the-fun" talent competition, and presentations of awards and citations.

This year's delegation from Tuscola County includes livestock exhibits, demonstration and judging teams. Boys attending are: Jim White, Silverwood; Richard Carpenter, Cass City; Richard Foster, William Kirk, Robert Campbell, Ronald Campbell and Robert Parish, all of Fairgrove; Jack Wallace, Cass City; Jerry Taylor, Millington; John Young, Reese; Larry Prime, Unionville; George Taggett, Lee Montel, Don Henry, Carlaroy Henry, of Caro, and James Montgomery, Gilford. Girls attending are: Esther Kinney, Mayville; Betty Lou King and Carol Vollmar, Caro; Mary Blaylock and Suzanne Garner of Vassar; Gail Wallace, Kingston; Darlene Clement, Mayville; Janice Severance and Gloria Volk, Akron; Frances Foster, Audrey Foster, Jean Parish, Alice Gerou and Carol Hickey, all of Fairgrove; Nancy Spencer, Grace Donnelly, Joyce Donnelly and Mary Donnelly of Cass City; Sandra Robinson and Dawn Valentine of Fostoria; Mary Jane Young, Reese; Sue Black, Akron.

Local leaders accompanying the group included: Joe Young, Reese; Mrs. Preston Karr, Gagetown, and Mrs. Howard Foster, Fairgrove.

LACKS INITIATIVE

Usually the man who boasts of holding the key to the situation lacks the ambition to see it through.

MISSING LINK

People who regard money as their chief aim in life always wonder why it doesn't bring contentment.

BIG SAVING

If a man would profit by the experience of others he could save the cost of acquiring his own.

Well-Stocked Soil Makes Best Corn

Nutrients, Moisture Mean Top Yields

Corn is one of the hungriest members of the crop family. How big is its appetite?

Midwestern agronomists estimate that a 100-bushel corn crop including clover eats up about 140 pounds of nitrogen, 54 pounds of phosphate and 185 pounds of potash per acre.

This adds up to a healthy appetite, they say, and also points up the fact that a soil must be well stocked with nutrients in order to produce top yields per acre.

Soil tests are the best guide in Corn will grow and be healthy when it is well fed. The above illustration represents a balanced diet for the crop agronomists say has an enormous appetite and must be well fed if top yields are to be returned on each acre.

determining which nutrients are needed and how much should be applied. Then the plant food can be added in the form of commercial fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphate and potash.

But a high nutrient supply isn't the whole story, agronomists remind. You also need a stalk population big enough to make use of all the nutrients the soil can supply.

Several other factors are important, too, say the agronomists: 1—An ample moisture supply; 2—Good soil structure and a steadily replenished supply of organic matter; 3—The use of hybrid seed best adapted to your soil and the growing conditions of your area; 4—Control of weeds, insects and diseases.

Most Farm Accidents Occur In Homes

Corn pickers and tractors are dangerous farm machines, but more than twice as many fatal accidents in 1953 occurred in farm homes as outside the home.

The Illinois Agricultural Association points out in its monthly publication that homemakers are in the best position to concentrate on a farm safety program.

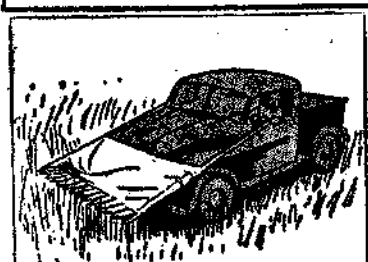

While corn pickers and tractors are dangerous, such seemingly harmless things as slick floors, loose scatter rugs and toy-littered floors appeal to offer as much danger to human life. There are about 16,000 fatal accidents to rural people every year and the largest percentage results from falls inside the farm home.

Dangerous falls happen anywhere and are not restricted to steep ladders or steep stairways. Actually, about 80 per cent of falls occur when the victim falls on the same level, and only 20 per cent down the stairs or off ladders, the report says.

Thus the most innocent-seeming places cause the most accidents.

"Safety must be a continuing project, with attention to details. It is to pay off. Putting shields around power take-off shafts while overlooking loose scatter rugs is not an adequate safety program," the publication asserts.

Auto Reaper

One farmer disgusted with slow progress after getting only a bushel of seed the first day out with a hand reaper devised the illustrated rig and stripped ten bushels of seed in a comparable time the following morning. Simple arrangement features sharpened 1" x 4"s, tacked on canvas.

STILL USEFUL

It's impossible for the law to make a man good, but it can make him furnish a good example.

GOOD START

People who learn to do without things they can't afford are already on the road to success.

Michigan Mirror News Briets

Politicians are already getting that edgy feeling about 1956 and their fates in Michigan.

Presidential and state ballots separated years ago, are joined again; a situation of much importance in close elections.

Republicans were behind the separation move long ago when Democratic candidates were riding high on the popularity of Franklin D. Roosevelt. They denied politics in the maneuver, however. So did Democrats who fought the change while cashing in on FDR's appeal.

"We honestly felt that it would be fairer if each candidate stood on his own feet," said Senator Clyde H. Geerling (R-Holland).

After the Republicans took over the national administration behind the popular President Eisenhower, the ballots in Michigan were again merged.

Again Republicans, many of whom supported the merger, denied political motives and the advantages of a popular president were the reasons. Some said it would be more economical to print the merged ballot.

Democrats, finding the political shoe on the other foot, are leery in some quarters and downright suspicious in others. They are working hard for a return to the White House in 1956 and would like to hold the state capital.

But they are asking themselves what will happen if a popular GOP president carries the state, piling up votes for a Republican candidate for governor and the rest of his slate. Williams held his own four years ago despite the national sweep for Eisenhower.

Still no word from Williams on his personal plans for 1956 and the signs are still vague.

Two years ago, when the speculation was he would run for the U. S. Senate, the governor waited until the last minute, then announced that his "job as governor is not completed."

It cleared the air, but some seers say it was irritating to have to wait so long for other potential Democratic candidates.

As it turned out, Williams won again, carrying with him the entire slate of candidates, including Senator Patrick V. McNamara, the second-choice candidate after Blair Moody's death.

If Williams waits that long again to decide to go for a national office, he may face trouble with the state organization. But after eight years, maybe the philosophy is, as one party leader stated: "The champ can do no wrong."

Judicial reform is in the air again.

Organized attorneys in statewide and Detroit groups are pitching for the Michigan modification of the "Missouri Plan" for selecting judges.

It works this way: A committee composed of three lawyers, three laymen and one justice of the Michigan Supreme Court, would submit a list of three candidates to the governor. He would pick one for each vacancy.

At the end of a judge's term, six years for circuit and eight for Supreme Court, he would run against his record, with the question put to voters whether he should be retained.

A group in Detroit is already working on a petition to place the issue on the ballot.

The groups cite the obvious political implications of nominating a Supreme Court candidate at state political conventions and the pressures that may or may not follow a man into office.

On the circuit court level, they claim it would be easier to "retire" an aging circuit judge under the plan.

Whatever the benefits or drawbacks, the experts foresee a day when the long-sought program will be adopted in Michigan.

Debt managers will be investigated by a three-member senate committee this fall.

The move for greater controls over one of the relatively new phases of modern finance developed in the legislature during the 1955 session.

Senator William S. Broomfield (R-Royal Oak) was one of the leaders in the campaign.

His idea was that a few out-of-state loan sharks were giving legitimate agencies a bad name by charging exorbitant interest and in some cases, running out with their client's money.

Debt managers offer to lump the debts of their clients into one sum, enabling the client to pay to only one creditor. It has the attraction of convenience.

Three senators are doing the spade work and promise to come up with new legal controls for the function next year when the legislature convenes.

Committee members are Broomfield and Senators John B. Swainson (D-Detroit) and Lynn O. Francis (R-Midland).

Freezing foods, instead of canning, leaves the kitchen cooler. A freezer is wonderful in other ways, too. Foods hold their fresh, natural color and flavor. They keep their vitamins and minerals. With a variety of home frozen foods on hand, meal planning's easier in every way—entertaining is less of a task.

Chapman's Holstein Produces 517 Pounds Butterfat

Announcement has been received from the Holstein-Friesian Association of America of the completion of an official production record by a registered Holstein cow owned by Elmer F. Chapman of Decker.

The cow, Elmcha Beauty King Beattie, produced 517 pounds of butterfat and 15,824 pounds of milk, milking two times daily for 365 days. She averaged 20 quarts of milk and was nine years, four months old when testing began.

Michigan State University supervised the weighing and testing of the milk for this record.

Use Recommended Certified Seeds for Best Results

Hudson is probably the best variety of winter barley to use in Tuscola County when you consider all factors, recommends Alfred Ballweg, Tuscola County agricultural agent.

Hudson is the only variety certified in Michigan. It has a higher test weight than Kenbar and will outyield Wong by several bushels per acre. It also appears that Hudson is slightly more winter-hardy, according to S. C. Hildebrand, farm cropsman at Michigan State University.

Hudson is a bearded barley, as is Kenbar, while Wong is a more or less bald barley. Some farmers have objected to the beards on Hudson and Kenbar but their yield advantage far outweighs the objection to beards. There is little difference as far as disease is concerned. All of the varieties are somewhat susceptible to loose smut.

Michigan is fortunate in having three excellent white wheat varieties, says Agent Ballweg. They are Genesee, Cornell 595 and Yorkwin. All have performed exceptionally well in trials around the state.

Each of these varieties has its good points and weak points. Both Cornell 595 and Genesee will screen heavier than Yorkwin because their kernels are not quite as plump as those of Yorkwin.

Cornell 595 probably has the stiffest straw with Genesee and Yorkwin following in that order. Genesee has a slight advantage in yield per acre over the other two varieties.

Cornell 595 and Genesee are superior to Yorkwin in resistance to loose smut. Although loose smut can cut yields, Yorkwin did produce some high yields in spite of smut infection.

Michigan grown certified seed of Hudson winter barley and Genesee, Cornell, Yorkwin and Seneca wheat is available for 1955 planting. Your local elevator probably has a supply or can procure the desired seed. A seed producer list may be obtained from the county agricultural extension office or from the farm crops department at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Prepare Pastures For Winter Now

Fatten up your legumes before you send them into winter hibernation, Michigan State University soil scientists stress. Lean and hungry roots have trouble with winter injury, spring heaving and getting a fast start, in the spring, says Don R. Kebler, assistant county agricultural agent.

Farmers who used 400 pounds of adapted fertilizer on each acre at seeding time can hold off top-dressing until the second harvest year, explain soil scientists. Others should put on a top-dressing after the first harvest year.

Soil testing is the best way to tell whether to use 0-20-20 for sandy loam and high clay content soils, or 0-10-20 for sandy soils, or some other analysis. Fields should get 200 pounds per acre each year until they are plowed down. This will help alfalfa hang on and on.

Straight grass pasture that receives 40 pounds of nitrogen element in early September will give a good fall growth and higher-quality forage. Nitrogen can be put on in the fall in an ammonia form with little loss of nitrogen through the winter, but it must be put on before the freeze-up. This 40 pounds of nitrogen can come from 125 pounds of ammonium sulfate 200 pounds of ammonium nitrate 90 pounds of synthetic urea or 50 pounds of anhydrous ammonia.

Keeping good alfalfa stands with top-dressing requires a properly limed soil and a good alfalfa stand to start, caution Rood and Porter.

Summer Meeting Of Thumb Hereford Breeders Slated

The annual summer meeting of the Thumb Hereford Breeders Association will be held at the Glenn Wakefield farm on Saturday, Sept. 10. Members and their families will gather at 12 noon for a potluck picnic. Milk and ice cream will be furnished by the association but hot drinks and table service should be brought by each family as needed.

The Wakefield farm is located one mile south of Pinnebog. People coming into the county from the south are asked to watch for a sign on M-53 near the Long fruit farm, southwest of Bad Axe, which will direct them to the farm.

A short business meeting will be held after lunch to discuss final plans for the fall sale. Final consignments should be made at this meeting.

A discussion on herd management and beef type will be led by representatives of the Michigan State University animal husbandry department and the Huron County Extension Service.

William McCarty, president of the association, which covers six thumb counties, and members of the board of directors from Huron County, including Glenn Wakefield, Murdock McClellan, and Earl Heber, are in charge of arrangements for the summer picnic.

covered. Gordon Drouillard, one of the most aggressive players on the squad, and Alvie Evans, who checked in at 262 pounds, are expected to anchor the positions. Evans, who was injured in the early part of last season, is quicker this year and is expected to be able to open holes for the backs.

The tentative starting guards, Doug Gingrich and Jerry Dearing, are small but exceptional blockers. Their aggressiveness helps to make up for their lack of weight, Yedinak said.

Top prospects for center post are Don Root and David Gohsman. Neither has yet earned a letter. Other non-lettermen who are expected to see service at guards are Leroy Magel, Dale Bader, Mike Fritz and Bob McGrath. Tackles are plentiful and close in ability. Seeing service will be Gene Wilson, Andy Kozan, Mike Rocheleau and Jim Leffler. Replacements at end are a little thin, but Jack Hartwick, Lester O'Dell and Raymond Fox are working hard to fill the gap.

Yedinak pointed out that the boys listed are the ones that show promise at the present time. He said that others undoubtedly would crop up before the season is over.

Peacetime Atom Use Explained

The history of atom power and the atom for peacetime use was explained to Cass City Rotarians Tuesday at the New Gordon Hotel by John J. Morabito, a mechanical engineer from the Atomic Power Development Associates, Inc., and Arthur H. Pfander from the Detroit Edison Company.

The company represented by Mr. Morabito is a combination of utilities and large corporations banded together to harness the atom for peacetime use.

With a film, "A to Atom," Mr. Morabito explained the basic principle of atom power. Following this explanation, Mr. Morabito told of the various types equipment studied to utilize atom power.

He said that presently under construction is a type reactor that utilizes all the fissionable material in uranium. This type has been called the "builder-upper," he said. Other types have been nicknamed the "burner-upper" and the "stretcher-upper."

The "burner-upper" is the type in use in the atomic submarine, the Nautilus. It uses very little of the power in uranium and is the reason it has this nickname. The "stretcher-upper" uses more of the energy than the "burner-upper," but less than the true development association is erecting, Mr. Morabito said.

The guest speaker pointed out that the companies he represents are anxious to have an atom power plant in operation, because of the huge supply of raw material available and the diminishing supply of natural fuel (coal, oil and gas) and the increased cost of obtaining them.

Rhean Pike Dies At Ann Arbor

Rhean Pike, 63, resident of Argyle Township the past 12 years, died Monday night in the University Hospital at Ann Arbor after a year's period of failing health. He was born in New Hampshire Dec. 12, 1891, and was united in marriage to Alameda Potter.

He is survived by his wife; four daughters, Mrs. Edward Durand (Gertrude) of Caro, Mrs. Jacob Shagena (Beatrice) of Deckerville, Mrs. Thomas Jackson (Helen) of Mt. Morris and Mrs. Henry Nolan (Shirley) of Cass City; four sons, Harold of Lapeer, James of Rochester, and Clifton and Dale at home, and 14 grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Thursday at 2 p. m. in the Douglas Funeral Home with Rev. Mrs. Susan Parr of Ubyly and Wallace Zinnecker of Cass City officiating. Burial was in Evergreen Township cemetery.

Extra Care Cuts Accident Fatalities

Following a system used for the first time over the Labor Day week end last year and continued over the Memorial Day and Fourth of July week ends this year, more than 450 National Guards will team with the State Police and county sheriffs to patrol highways this holiday week end.

The additional help will be used to try and cut the death toll that last year reached 26 in the state over the Labor Day holiday.

Police forecast the heaviest traffic in history on Michigan's highways and all pass days for all State Police officers have been cancelled.

Extra care on the highways over the two big holiday week ends this year has resulted in less persons killed than on an average week end—proving, said authorities, that extra care does save lives.

There is nothing wrong with the younger generation, except that we don't belong to it anymore.

way Department. According to the terms, the village will receive 78.2 per cent of money expended from the highway department. In the past year it has netted the village about $1,200.

The Lutheran Church was granted permission to build a 40-foot by 80-foot basement and move their present church on top of the structure, covering the remainder of the basement space until a new church can be built.

The problem of cleaning sewers on private property came to the attention of the trustees. Village Engineer C. L. Burt said that owners are calling the village to do work that should be handled by plumbers.

The council decided to call the plumbers to the next regular meeting and discuss the situation so that they will handle all sewer work except the part of the line owned by the village.

Final Rites Held for Mrs. Mary Csercsa

Funeral services with Rev. Father Thomas of Saginaw officiating were held Monday morning, Aug. 29, at 10 o'clock at St. Agatha's Church for Mrs. Mary Csercsa who died Saturday at Cass City Hospital following a two year's illness.

Mary Erdelyi was born in Hungary Aug. 8, 1889, and came to America as a young girl. She was married to John Csercsa at Lynch, Kentucky, in 1921. Mr. and Mrs. Csercsa moved to Tuscola County from Logan, West Virginia, 11 years ago.

Surviving, besides her husband, are one son, John, at home and two daughters, Mrs. Joseph Orban of Caro and Miss Helen Csercsa of Detroit.

Burial was in St. Agatha's Cemetery with Hunter's Funeral Home in charge of funeral arrangements.
