ASTONISHING PERFORMANCE!

And that's only half the Chevrolet story

Drive with care... EVERYWHERE!

Great Features back up Chevrolet Performance: Anti-Dive Braking—Ball-Race Steering—Out-rigger Rear Springs—Body by Fisher—12-Volt Electrical System—Nine Engine-Drive Choices.

A lightning-quick power punch that makes your driving safer! That's one of the reasons for Chevrolet's winning stock car record—but it's not the only one. Not by a long shot!

Astonishing performance—the sizzling acceleration of Chevrolet's new "Turbo-Fire V8"—it takes that to win stock car races.

But it takes a lot more besides. Cornering and handling qualities really count on the NASCAR® Short Track circuit where Chevrolet's king—just as they count for safer and more pleasant highway driving. And even the high-priced cars don't slice through a tight turn as neatly—or handle as sweetly—as this beauty. The record proves it!

Come on in and sample all the things that give Chevrolet its winning ways. We're keeping a key ready for you!

Two Plans to Rid Herd of Brucellosis

Tuscola County dairymen have two choices of plans to rid their herds of brucellosis, reports Alfred Ballweg, county agricultural agent.

One plan calls for immediate removal of reactors from the herd while the other allows the owner to sell reactors as vaccinated replacements become available.

If reactors are found in the herd, the owner may choose to follow Plan A. W. L. Finley, animal husbandry extension specialist at Michigan State University, says the owner would then take these steps:

1. Sell all the reactors for slaughter and collect an indemnity.
2. Isolate all suspects and re-test them in 30 days.

If immediate removal of reactors for slaughter is too costly, the owner then might choose to follow Plan B or this program:

1. Sell those reactors which are now unprofitable producers.
2. Continue rigid culling as vaccinated replacements become available.
3. Limit chances of exposing other cows by isolating them at freshening time and at heat periods if possible. If an abortion is suspected, isolate the animal immediately.

Ballweg says these additional steps in controlling and eradicating brucellosis should be taken by farmers following either Plan A or Plan B:

Vaccinate calves at four through eight months of age; blood test the herd every 12 months or oftener; and make sure that replacements were vaccinated at four through eight months of age and are now disease-free.

slaughter and collect an indemnity.

CARS ARE MY LINE

By H. M. Bulen

The old electric runabouts and hissing steam cars that disappeared with the gasoline age may be coming back again. The atomic age is the reason.

The atom car is still a gleam in the scientist's eye, but it's getting closer to reality every day. In fact the atomic car is so certain to zoom upon us someday that we decided to do a little digging on the subject.

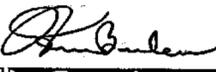

The big problem in atomic engines is to control the power that's produced. At first it was thought the only way was to heat water and use that to run a steam turbine, that's how the U. S. atomic submarine Nautilus works.

The problem there was to bring it down to size for cars. You may have read recently of the tiny new atomic battery which produces electrical energy directly, without all the fussing around with steam turbines. It may provide the answer.

Now the problem is to make it big enough to run a car. The atomic battery produces only one-millionth of a watt and at the present time an atom battery big enough to run a car would cost $8,000,000.

So the atomic car won't be here tomorrow, and the way the automobile manufacturers are pouring improvements into their new models shows they don't expect to be relegated soon to the horse-and-buggy class. These wonderful improvements in recent years have been a boon to the used car buyer. You often can find a car a few years old, at a bargain price, fully equipped with the automatic drive, increased power and other luxury comforts recently perfected.

Remember, Every Car (Over $300.00) is guaranteed in writing. We do our best to make them "Right," but, if we slipped, you are protected. We expect to be in business right here for years to come, and we can maintain and increase our business only by treating everyone RIGHT. If you don't feel we have treated you fairly, tell me personally. And as I've said before, if I don't do something about it SCREAM. But give us a chance first. 99 times out of a hundred we'll be able to satisfy you.

State Republicans are rubbing their hands in happy anticipation of their "open to everyone" political get together at Mackinac Island Sept. 17-18.

They watched a similar meeting of Democratic bigwigs last month with some anxiety. But as the session continued, GOP leaders relaxed.

"They are just rehashing the same old chatter," said a leading

Republican spokesman. "They just haven't got an issue and they know it. The Republican national administration has given the country peace and prosperity; provided the working man with the best income ever, and will probably balance the budget. Personal attacks on Eisenhower have been getting them nowhere, so they must scrape the bottom of the barrel for anything to criticize."

Truman's appearance failed to produce much interest, according to GOP observers. In fact, they believe that it is Democratic worry about the former President's unpredictable statements that caused him to cancel several campaign speeches this fall—not his health as was announced.

Republicans are billing their meeting as the All Michigan Republican Forward to '56 Conference. Anyone interested in good government is said to be welcome.

Program calls for several nationally known speakers, like Leonard W. Hall, chairman of the national committee, to be present. There will be talks on foreign affairs, finance, domestic problems; panel on such subjects as mental health, education and state economy.

Subdivisions of the GOP will huddle to decide what should be done about winning the state election in 1956. Besides the State Central Committee, which will ponder the same problem, sessions have been scheduled for the Young Republicans, Republican women, Republican war veterans, etc.

"A blue ribbon slate." That's the aim of the GOP and its machinations. They are hoping to find a list of "well qualified, energetic" candidates, with irresistible public appeal. Who they will be—or where they'll be found is not yet certain. In fact, recent trial balloons for candidates for the governor's race indicates that things are very much up in the air.

Peace and prosperity for the Michigan of Tomorrow. That's the announced theme for the GOP Mackinac meeting. A necessary part of any such plan, from their standpoint at least, means the first big job to be accomplished is the organizing of their own party into a machine that can win Michigan elections.

Organized efforts of many local groups will soon be made in a campaign to urge all eligible voters to register. This is part of a national drive, suggested by President Eisenhower, to get out the vote for coming elections.

Cooperating with the idea, Gov. Williams appointed a state committee to promote the idea through branches of their individual organizations—political, trade, civic, religious, etc.

Constitution Day, Sept. 17, will see the kickoff of the seven-day drive. The period will be called Citizenship Week. The governor has also issued a proclamation asking for widespread participation in the promotion to insure registration of all eligible voters.

Various activities will be seen in various areas. In metropolitan areas branch registration offices will be set up, manned by firemen, policemen or other volunteers. In other localities, telephone campaigns will be organized. Bulletin boards will remind people to register. Newspapers, radio and TV will carry the message.

Humorous suggestion was submitted by the editor of a northern weekly newspaper in an open letter to the "New Secretary of State—Whoever You Are."

The editor referred to the running battle about the site of the jet interceptor base in northern Michigan, calling it a "Lazy Susan basis, stopping here and there." He suggested that the matter be left to the U. S. Navy. The base could then be built on an aircraft carrier, which could steam to the area which satisfied the most political pressures. Other advantages of this plan were listed: no road required; no television towers; no Congressional district boundaries. In the summer it could be moved from the National Music Camp area, because, he says, no enemy would be expected to attack during "music season."

Slogans on license plates describing the wonders of Michigan may be abandoned in 1957.

It all started when Secretary of State James M. Hare assigned a committee to a study of highway safety measures and an anonymous attorney questioned the right of the state to advertise on license plates.

Hare mentioned that the National Safety Council was recommending that states drop the slogans to make the digits more readable.

Then came the dissenters. Robert J. Furlong, executive secretary of the Michigan Tourist Council, asked Hare to spare that slogan until the facts could be gathered. He said he had a letter from the National Safety Council, denying a recommendation one way or the other on the slogan. At the moment, the issue still is unsettled.

Match your electric washer with an electric clothes dryer

Be modern... dry clothes electrically!

Wash day becomes extra easy when you add a new electric clothes dryer to your electric washer. Here's why: There's no heavy wet wash to haul up the stairs and hang on the line. You have only to load the dryer and flip a switch. Out comes the laundry, fluffy-dry, sparkling clean. Old-fashioned line drying can't compare with the carefree, modern way to dry clothes—electrically!

Climate Study May Aid Crops

Microclimate: Down Next To Ground

Plant scientists are concerning themselves with an unusual kind of climate, known as microclimate. It's the environment down next to the ground.

Microclimate, according to agronomists at the U. S. Regional Pasture Research Laboratory at the Pennsylvania State University, differs from the generally observed climate in many ways.

Night temperatures next to a bluegrass sod, for example, may be as much as 6 degrees lower than at shoulder height. In close-growing crops where plants restrict air movement, temperatures during the night may range as much as 12 degrees higher than the atmosphere at shoulder

The temperature at ground level may be as important as soil nutrients when it comes to producing top yields, since science now says plants are susceptible to high and low temperatures and light changes. As science learns more about the effect of "microclimate" on crops, the farmer should be able to better protect his crops and get higher yields.

These differences are of great concern to scientists and have necessitated the development of special instruments to measure moisture, light, temperatures, and other conditions of both low-growing and taller plants.

Studies under way for the past five years have revealed that some plants are susceptible to light deficiencies, some to low temperature, and still others to wide variance in daily temperature.

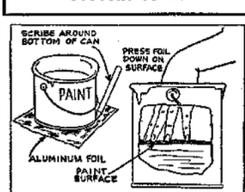

The studies also are revealing information affecting the breeding quality, growth habits, and insect-disease relations to plants, particularly forage crops.

Fumigation Program Against Khapra Beetle

A grain-storage-building fumigation program that the U. S. Department of Agriculture believes is the largest of its type ever undertaken is now underway against the Khapra beetle in California, Arizona and New Mexico. In this unique program, entire buildings—not just their contents—are sealed over, so the fumigant will reach every crevice that might conceal the cranny-seeking beetle. Fifteen large California grain warehouses were fumigated with methyl-bromide gas in an all-out effort to eradicate this recently introduced, stored-grain pest, first discovered in this country in 1953. State pest control agencies, property owners, chemical companies and pest control firms, USDA's Agriculture Research pest-control personnel and Agricultural Marketing Service research entomologists are cooperating in the work.

The beetle was eradicated from an infested California warehouse in an experiment last January. This and other tests have shown the effectiveness of the only practical method yet developed for eliminating this hard-to-kill insect from infested buildings. More than a million cubic feet of storage were wrapped in a gas-tight cover of sealed tarpaulins and given 2½ times the methyl-bromide dosage and 12 times the exposure duration normally required to kill exposed Khapra beetles.

Prevent Scum

It's always annoying to return to a paint job and find that paint scum has formed. Scum will not form in a closed can if you cover the paint surface with a disc of aluminum foil before storing it away. Set can over aluminum foil and scribe around it to cut disc to proper size. Push foil disc into can and down to paint level. Later, simply pinch and lift off foil, stir paint and begin painting immediately.

The traffic problem would be solved if the installment people were to take back all their cars.

Little credit should be given to the man who stays home with the baby while his wife goes to church.

U-M Launches Mental Health Research Unit

The University of Michigan has started a Mental Health Research Institute with $175,000 appropriated by the Legislature. Explanations and causes will be sought rather than treatment for specific emotional diseases.
