

Mrs. Whittaker Recovers

Late Yule Celebrated By Weihl Family

Christmas was observed at the Ottis Weihl home Sunday, Jan. 29.

Mrs. Melvin Whittaker returned home last week from Saginaw General Hospital where in seven weeks she underwent seven operations and was given 28 blood transfusions. Included in her operations was the removal of two ribs and her spleen.

The critical illness reduced Mrs. Whittaker's weight from 164 pounds when she entered the hospital to 123 pounds when she arrived at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ottis Weihl, where she is recovering.

Mrs. Weihl was with Mrs. Whittaker during her entire stay at the hospital.

Because their mother was unable to celebrate Christmas with them, the three small daughters of the Whittakers deferred the opening of Yule packages until this week.

Sunday, all members of the Weihl family who were near enough to attend gathered in the Weihl home for a belated Christmas dinner and thanksgiving for the return of Mrs. Whittaker.

Present, besides Mr. and Mrs. Whittaker and their daughters, were Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Abke and Miss Marcia Abke of Unionville, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Weihl and two children of Essexville and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Weihl and seven children of Mayville.

Two other officers were re-elected. Fritz Neitzel was named treasurer and Morton Orr, secretary.

Fire captains elected were Ray Fleenor and Al Avery.

Members also voted to limit the chief's term in the department to three years.

INTERIOR RUINED—Fire razed the interior of the Cass City Furniture Store Wednesday afternoon. Discovered by owner Arthur Kettlewell, the smoke made it impossible to save any of the furniture in the building. A partly burned trailer house was dragged from the burning building.

Fire Razes Interior Of Furniture Store

The interior of the Cass City Furniture Store was completely razed by fire, discovered Wednesday afternoon at about 4:30 o'clock by Arthur Kettlewell. Damaged, too, was the modern brick building.

Mr. Kettlewell, owner of the business, was in the store and discovered the fire. It is believed that the blaze started in the room used to store the company's paint supply.

Amount of damage is unknown, but an estimated $20,000 worth of furniture was completely destroyed. A trailer house in the rear of the building was the only item in the building that firemen were able to remove.

It suffered some damage in the fire. Dale Kettlewell, son of the owner, said that the trailer was in flames when he returned from Detroit to help remove it.

Because Dale Kettlewell was in Detroit, records for the company, which he keeps, were in the vault and survived the fire.

Minutes after the fire alarm sounded, the Elkland Township Fire Department was at the scene, but by this time smoke was pouring out of the upstairs windows and entry into the downstairs was impossible.

Through an agreement with the Tuscola County Firemen's Association, fire departments from Caro and Gagetown were called and assisted without expense to the township or village.

Firemen battled until 8 p. m. before the fire was completely quelled.

Members of the department expressed appreciation to Mrs. Edward Baker, Mrs. Leo Ware, Mrs. Al Avery, Mr. and Mrs.

From the Editor's Corner

There may be an unusual amount of interest in the annual village caucus slated Tuesday, Feb. 7. For, at a recent "secret" meeting held one morning this week, 21 ladies in the community gathered for the purpose of organizing to nominate a woman for one of the available trustees' posts.

Spokesmen for the group have been reported to have said that more and more women are now in political office and that the group feels that a woman's slant on the council would be good for the village.

Regardless of whether you feel that the woman's slant is necessary for the village, the fact that this group should stir interest in the election is a very healthy condition.

Perhaps this year, more than 10 to 20 persons will take the time to go to the Elkland Township Hall at 8 p. m. to register their opinion on who should run village affairs.

Even better, we believe, would be for the ladies (or any other group) to hold a caucus of their own and have competition on election day that would get out the vote for a true expression of public opinion.

As we have reiterated many times before, this is not a reflection on the quality of the men now in office, who are all doing a good job, but a method for producing more interest in local government.

Barnes Company Awarded Bridge Job

The A. T. Barnes Construction Co. of Cass City was awarded a contract to build a bridge to carry the M-20 relocation over Cramer drain, two miles east of Auburn, according to the State Highway Department.

The Barnes' bid was $59,321.60. The structure will have a 35-foot T-beam span that will provide two 42-foot roadways separated by a 14-foot, seven inch median and safety curbs one and a half feet wide.

The project is to be completed by Sept. 15, 1956.

At a meeting of the board of deacons, James King was elected chairman and Donald Reid, treasurer.

The board of trustees was to have met to elect officers last night. Curtis Hunt is the retiring chairman.

Sewage Disposal Plant Ready for Final Inspection

In a comparatively quiet council session Tuesday evening at the Cass City Municipal Building, trustees announced that the sewage disposal plant in the village is completed.

A final inspection by state authorities is expected today (Friday). However, officials said that an open house will not be held until spring. They said the muddy condition of the yard outside the new plant makes it impossible for cars to come in and park.

In other business, the council hired Edward Anthes to work for the village. Mr. Anthes will be on maintenance work for the majority of the hours he is employed. However, he is expected to work for the police department one night each week.

Mr. Anthes worked for seven years for Champion Advertising Co. and 11 years for Nestles Company here. He had been working in Saginaw before accepting employment with the village.

Still pending is a charge of assault and attempted rape that Roy has pleaded not guilty to.

Two other criminal sentences were passed Wednesday. Donald Mason, who pleaded guilty to being drunk and disorderly, was sentenced to probation for a year and ordered to pay a fine and costs of $150 each.

Charles Hayek, found guilty of assaulting former Deputy Clarence Schroeder and resisting arrest, was sentenced to two years' probation, fined $500 and ordered to pay costs of $700.

Tuesday Cases

Attorneys for both parties appeared in court Tuesday, the day of trial, and told the court that a settlement had been agreed upon.

Two persons were arraigned in criminal cases. David William Stanley pleaded guilty of larceny for stealing a saw valued at $450 from Oscar Hess. The theft occurred in Vassar Township. Sentence will be passed Wednesday, Feb. 8.

SHORT STORY

No Time To Fish

B. F. L. Rowley

ANDREW WHITE grunted impatiently as he guided his old car toward the shoulder of the highway. A lanky youth with green eyes and wide smile climbed aboard.

"Thank you, Mr. White," he said gratefully. "I sure hope you're going by the railroad station. I want to catch the train for Shelbyville. Look!" He pulled a dollar from his shirt pocket. Andrew smiled in spite of himself as the boy waved the bill as if it were a winning sweepstakes ticket. "Kaplan's Department Store is having a sale on fishing poles; do you think I'll get there before they're all gone?"

Andrew laughed aloud. "I'm sure you will, Ronnie. I hardly think there'll be a run on dollar fishing poles this time of the year."

Then Andrew White did a generous thing. Although it was off his course he turned the old car into the road leading toward the Hillcrest Railroad Station. He couldn't disappoint a fellow fisherman.

The train pulled into the station as they drove up. Andrew grinned as the boy raced for the nearest coach. Then his smile faded; he turned pale. A heavy-jowled man was staring at him through one of the dusty windows. It was a face from the past; it was the man who had presided over the hearings on that fateful day when Andrew had been disbarred. His name was Billingsley.

He groaned now as the old car rattled down the road home. If only he hadn't given Ronnie Blake a lift! Perhaps Billingsley would have the decency to continue his journey in silence?

Andrew was bitter now. Years ago, when he was a single man, he thought it was noble to take the rap for his brother-in-law; he'd done it for his sister, Marie. But now that he was married to more than his little picture-frame business could provide.

"You're awfully jumpy tonight, dear," observed Alice later that evening when supper was over. "Is anything wrong?"

Andrew didn't answer. He was looking through the front-room window and his blood had stopped flowing. For there, shuffling up the walk as if he were actually enjoying himself, was Lawyer Billingsley! Andrew had dreaded this moment. With a sigh he opened the front door.

"I knew it was you!" crowed Billingsley. "Haven't changed much in eight years, have you Andrew? Put on a little weight, I'd say. And this lovely lady, I take it, is your wife?"

Andrew looked at Alice; she was not smiling. Reaching out she gave her husband's arm a reassuring squeeze, then she asked flatly: "All right, officer, what's he done?"

"Officer?" cried Andrew. "But Alice—"

"My husband mumbles in his sleep," Alice interrupted without taking her eyes off Billingsley. "I know he's mixed up with the law in some way. Let's have it straight." Her grip on Andrew tightened.

"I'm a lawyer and I have good news for Andrew," Billingsley explained. He turned to Andrew: "Your sister Marie is now a widow."

"That's good news?" scoffed Alice.

"Your brother-in-law cleared your name before he died," Billingsley went on patiently. "We've been looking for you for months to inform you that you've been reinstated. You're free to practice law again."

"You? A lawyer?" Alice stepped back to survey her husband with new pride.

"Does that mean we'll have to leave Hillcrest, dear?" asked Alice. There was a note of alarm in her voice.

"Never," Andrew said quietly. "Hillcrest has been good to us. I hope I'll live to return the favor. And speaking of favors, where's the new fishing outfit I bought last summer? I want to give it to young Ronnie Blake."

Shuffling up the walk was Lawyer Billingsley! Andrew had dreaded this moment.

Couple Wed In Candlelight Service

Pointed palms, candelabra and an arrangement of white flowers decorated the First Methodist Church here Saturday evening, Jan. 28, for the double ring ceremony read by Rev. F. W. Porter, which united in marriage Miss Nila Ruth Wright and Richard Thorp. The wedding party took their places as Mrs. Porter provided appropriate wedding music on the church organ.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Lela Wright of Cass City and Roy Wright of Ypsilanti. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Thorp of Caro, Ill., are the parents of the bridegroom.

Attendants were a sister and brother of the contracting couple, Mrs. Richard Holcomb of Cass City and Mr. Laverne Thorp of Flint.

The bride's white ballerina length gown was made with white tulle over a satin skirt with a lace bodice topped with a white bolero jacket. Tiny tulle ruffles formed large V's on the skirt. A tiara of seed pearls held in place her fingertip length veil. Her flowers were an arrangement of pink and white carnations.

Mrs. Holcomb, as her sister's only attendant, wore an elegant ballerina length gown. The skirt was made of a wide band of lace and tiny tulle ruffles. A matching aqua lace jacket topped the gown. Her handpiece was fashioned of aqua tulle and forget-me-nots. Her flowers were a colonial bouquet of yellow and white carnations.

Mrs. Wright chose for the occasion, a dress of black accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue suit dress with winter white accessories. Both mothers had corsages of red roses. Mrs. Herbert Spaulding of Caro, grandmother of the bride, wore a beige suit dress with which she wore white accessories and to which she pinned a corsage of white carnations.

Only members of the immediate families were present at the service but some one hundred relatives and friends gathered in the social rooms of the church for a reception at eight o'clock following the ceremony.

After the many lovely gifts were opened, refreshments were served from the bride's table. An arrangement of white tapers and small bouquets of white chrysanthemums flanked the pretty three-tiered wedding cake. The square cake was decorated in pastel colors and topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Relatives attended from Livonia, Ypsilanti, Flint, Pontiac and Caro.

The couple returned home early in the week from a short trip north and will make their home on a farm east of Caro on which Mr. Thorp was born and which he recently purchased. He is employed in Caro.

Miss Iris Rose DeRussell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. DeRussell of Cass City, announces the engagement of their daughter, Iris Rose, to Jack W. Kappen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kappen of Cass City.

Pair United in Saturday Rites

The First Methodist Church at Pigeon was the scene Saturday evening of a small but pretty winter wedding in which Miss Lois Ann Wichert of Bay Port became the bride of Frederick John Gallagher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gallagher of Cass City. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wichert of Bay Port.

The fifty guests were seated by Ronald and Gilbert Wichert of Bay Port, brothers of the bride.

Rev. H. A. Mannan, the church pastor, officiated before an altar banked with pointed palms, candelabra and baskets of white gladioli and mums. White bows and sprigs of green marked the scene.

Vocalist for the affair, Miss Denna Osborn of Elkton, sang "Requies" and the "Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Mildred McIntyre of Pigeon.

Attendants were friends of the couple, Miss Shirley Lawrence of Bay Port and Roy Wagg, Jr., of Cass City.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an attractive gown in a white strapless ballerina length creation of nylon lace and net over a satin skirt. Worn over the bodice was a lace jacket. Her shoulder length veil of nylon tulle fell from a satin cap which was decorated with seed pearls and lace. Her flowers were an arrangement of red and white roses.

The bride's only attendant, Miss Lawrence, chose a ballerina length gown of aqua lace and net with which she wore a lace bolero. Her handpiece was aqua. Yellow mums were used to fashion her bouquet.

A powder blue suit with which she wore white accessories was the choice of the bride. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue dress and her accessories were also white. Both mothers pinned a corsage of white carnations to their costumes.

A reception in the church basement followed the ceremony. There the bride's table decorated in pink and white, featured a four-tiered wedding cake, flanked on either side with lighted white tapers.

The newlyweds left on a week's trip through eastern states and will make their home here.

Pre-nuptial parties were given for the bride by Mrs. Don Koepfgen and Mrs. Lylo Koepfgen of Cass City, Miss Shirley Lawrence and Mrs. Gilbert Wichert of Bay Port and by Mrs. Jake Gurf and Mrs. Emma Campbell, also of Bay Port.

Countersigned: FRED M. THURMANN, Clerk of the State of Michigan. In the Circuit Court for the County of Tuscola, IN CHANCERY

In the Matter of the Petition of Victor Targonski, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of the State of Michigan, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

To the Circuit Court for the County of Tuscola, in Chancery: The Hon. Victor Targonski, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, respectfully shows unto the Court:

That in the Auditor General of the State of Michigan, and files this petition under, by virtue and pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 128 of the Public Acts of 1935, as amended, and Act No. 128 of the Public Acts of 1935, as amended:

That the Schedule A annexed hereto is the tax record required by the act first above mentioned, and contains the description of all lands in the State of Michigan, which were assessed for a year mentioned therein, have remained unpaid for more than one year, and are, therefore, delinquent, the description of all lands in said county heretofore bid off in the name of the State, and thus held, and upon which taxes which were assessed subsequent to the tax for which such lands were sold to the State have not been paid and returned as delinquent, and the description of all lands in said county which are delinquent for the installment of taxes under the provisions of the act last above mentioned:

That all of the aforesaid taxes, interest and charges are valid, delinquent and unpaid, and have remained delinquent and unpaid for sufficient time to authorize and require, as provided by the foregoing acts, the sale of the aforesaid parcels of land against which the said taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses so extended in said schedule against each parcel of land therein described, constitute a valid lien upon such lands by the State of Michigan.

Wherefore your petitioner prays: a. That within the time provided by law this court make a final decree in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land therein contained; b. That said decree provide that in default of the payment so ordered of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands in said schedule, the said several parcels of land, or such interest therein as may be necessary to satisfy the amount decreed against the same, shall be sold as the law provides; c. That your petitioner may have such other and further relief in the premises as to this court may seem just and equitable; and your petitioner will ever pray, etc.

Dated: December 2, 1935. VICTOR TARGONSKI, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State.

Republicans controlling the legislature are wading through the first weeks of the 1956 session still uncertain just what to expect from Democrats.

Schedules call for adjournment April 6 in time for a full season of politics before the primary and the November elections.

But the tone for the session set by Gov. Williams has majority members of both houses wondering whether some knotty problem will keep them in session beyond the deadline.

Williams has asserted he won't cause trouble over taxes this year, with collections of existing levies reaching new records, but some of his other ideas are stirring consternation.

For instance, he has asked that the legislature start working out some way to meet the prospect of automation and to try to fit peace time atomic energy into the economy.

"Both of those are federal problems and not ours," said one Republican leader.

Williams said the state should find new jobs for the workers who are replaced by automation and atomic energy.

At the same time, he is urging that the state do everything possible to encourage automation and atomic energy—"to have the courage and foresight" to prepare for them.

Senator Creighton R. Coleman (R-Battle Creek) and majority leader in the Senate, retorted that the program was Williams' appeal to the national political scene and had little bearing on problems in Michigan.

"It's the best speech Walter Reuther (CIO president and vice president of the merged labor movement) ever made," Coleman told the Lansing Rotary Club.

Williams has asked for higher unemployment compensation, an expanded aid-to-the-farmer program, more State Police, added mental care facilities and a budget of $60,000,000 over the expenditures of 1955-56.

Republicans figure the major issue of the 1956 session will be the budget, with the turnpike versus free road controversy, mental health, prisons, labor legislation and others in the runnerup spots.

More than 75 appointees of Gov. Williams will face confirmation tests in the 1956 Senate.

Republicans surprised everybody the first week by confirming Tom Downs, a former CIO official, to the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Downs first was appointed in 1949 and was confirmed. When his term expired in 1953, he was reappointed, but Republicans were angry at him this time.

They charged he changed the minutes of a commission meeting. He admitted this but said he was just making them conform to what was done, not attempting to change the sense of the meeting.

So for three straight sessions, Downs' appointment was ignored and he held office under an informal arrangement pending some positive action by the Senate.

His confirmation was unanimous, but his term expires any way eight days after the next governor takes office—whether Republican or Democratic.

Senator Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville), chairman of the Senate business committee, said the even-year tradition will be revived this year.

The tradition calls for the Republicans to hold back action on confirmation of key officers to allow the next governor—which they hope will be Republican—to make replacements immediately.

"The Democrats would do the same under different circumstances," he said.

The latest highway safety issue before the legislature is a school for poor drivers.

Sixteen legislatures are pushing for the plan for counties over 30,000 population. The same idea was killed during the special session last November which was dedicated to highway safety.

The plan would require drivers who get three tickets in two years to enroll in a local driver's school, organized by the State Police commissioner, the sheriff, local prosecutor and the chief law enforcement officer of the largest city or village in the county.

The driver would be required to pay a $5 tuition fee for a six-week course. Course standards would be fixed by the State Police.

Democrats are opposed to the idea because it takes the standard-fixing duties away from the office of secretary of state.

People who succeed are those who haven't time to complain.

Reese Dairyman in "500 Pound Club"
Ben Loeffler, dairyman in Denmark Township, Tuscola County, was honored Tuesday night at Michigan State University. Mr. Loeffler is one of the 38 dairymen in Michigan whose herd of 14 registered Holstein cows have produced over 500 pounds of butterfat per cow per year for the past five years.

The production for Loeffler's herd averaged 503.8 pounds of butterfat and 14,277 pounds of milk.

Loeffler, who was one of the first dairymen in Denmark Township to start testing his herd for production through the dairy herd improvement association, has now been in DHIA for 10 years. This makes four years in succession that he has been a member of the "500" Club.

Credit for this high milk production should be given to Loeffler's ability as a dairyman along with a good breeding and feeding program. Loeffler's feeding program is based on high quality legume roughage with concentrates fed according to each cow's production. His breeding program has been to use high quality sires and also artificial insemination on some individual cows.

In order for a dairyman to become a member of the "500" Club, his herd must average 500 pounds of butterfat per cow for five consecutive years. Mr. Loeffler was the only dairyman in Tuscola County to make the "500" this year.

The Hawks also outscored the Hatchets in the third period, 21-7, and led at the three-quarter mark, 60-26.

Coach Irv Clasenman used his entire bench in the game and only one player on the team failed to break into the scoring line-up.

Jack Clara led the scorers with 15 points. Five of the Hawks reached double figures. Jim Ellist netted 12, John Meininger, 10, Brent Connell, 11, and Dick Hanby, 10.

Cass City has been a slow starting team this year. In seven of their 12 games this year, the Hawks have netted 15 points or less in the first quarter. Twice they were held to only 10 points and once scored only six points in the opening stanza.

The third period has been their most productive. Only once have they been held under 18 points in that quarter in the 11 games played to date. In addition, their best scoring quarter of the year was registered in the third period against Caro when they netted 27 points.
