

From the Editor's Corner

One of the nicest things about living in a small town community is the interest taken in the welfare of friends and neighbors.

This spirit was never better exemplified than in the work party that was held Thursday to help Otto Priekorn clean the debris in his basement following the disastrous fire at the Ben Franklin Store.

An estimated 30 men from the village volunteered their labor and worked all afternoon. The group removed truck loads of ruined goods from the store and sorted items that might prove to have some salvage value.

Mr. Priekorn estimated that the work by the group saved him about $300.

He has been worried all week that he would fail to remember all of the persons who helped and said that he was grateful for their assistance.

We have written the post office department but have not yet received an answer concerning home delivery of mail in Cass City.

When a decision arrives, we will publish the results.

Clara Named to All-Conference Cage Squad

Jack Clara was named to a position on the "B" Conference all-star basketball team, Thursday by coaches in the league.

Coaches named a six-man squad, two players were unanimous choices for the team. Marvin Turner, rany center from Caro who averaged better than 30 points a game, and Doug Bricker, from Croswell-Lexington, were named by every coach.

Marlette was the only school to have more than one player named. Bill Beliz and Ron Willis both made the mythical honor squad.

Jon Harpham, deadeye forward from Vassar, completes the squad.

Clara's selection caps a brilliant cage career for him in Cass City. He moved to a first-string guard position as a sophomore and has been a fixture at the position ever since. Two of the three teams he played with were conference and district champions. He received honorable mention in the Class "B" all-state squad this year.

Second Team

Bob Martus, Clara's running mate at guard, was named to the all-conference second team. Other outstanding players from around the league to be named were Dick Caister of Marlette, George Davidson of Vassar, Ron Great of Yale and Dale Cubet of Sandusky.

John Meininger of Cass City received honorable mention in the balloting.

The puppies are now in the hands of Arthur Eskilsen. Mr. Bryant found the pups and mother in a cardboard box along the side of the road in the village.

Elkland Group Hears Irl Baguley Discuss Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Golding, Sr., entertained the Elkland Township Farm Bureau, Monday evening when 12 families were present.

The discussion topic, led by Mrs. Clare Carpenter, was on "Farm and Home Safety." Many experiences were related and the cause for the near accident was given in hopes that others may benefit from the experiences.

During the business meeting the group discussed plans for those who are able to attend a special legislative meeting to be held in Lansing, Mar. 27.

Also plans were made for the captain and workers of the membership drive to attend a victory party at the VFW building on Mar. 16 at 8:15 in the evening.

The guest for the evening, Mr. Irl Baguley of Caro, was introduced by Mr. Maynard McConkey who explained Mr. Baguley's duties and the position he holds in the county. In his capacity of Social Welfare Director, Mr. Baguley gave a very interesting talk on his work, stressing the county infirmity which at present is the main concern of county officials. Because voters will be voting on building a new county hospital in November, the group found his observations very interesting.

The meeting ended with a cooperative lunch.

The next meeting will be held April 9 when the discussion will be "How should schools and school construction be financed?" All Farm Bureau members are invited.

By H. M. Buleen

The old electric car, the wonderfully smooth and silent vehicle of the early 1900's, is on its way back. Not as an automobile, mind you, for the electric car died a slow death in the early 1900's as a town runabout for elderly ladies.

But at least half a dozen manufacturers have discovered that there's life in the old car yet. New types of electric vehicles are being turned out in all sorts of new shapes, as golf course carry-alls to replace the caddy, as estate runabouts and as foot-savers for supervisors in big warehouses and factories.

Americans, who are supposed to be the greatest fad followers in the world, held on tenaciously to the electric car and took much more slowly to the gasoline car than did Europeans.

Here's one fact that shows it, and it surprised me: at the turn of the century New York City had far more electric charging posts for cars than it had gasoline stations. In France it was just the opposite. There were almost 4,000 gas stations and only 265 electric charging posts.

Electricity still remains the vital heart-beat of any car. Without the battery and electrical system, nothing else in the car would be of much use. That's why, when you drive in, we'll take an extra minute out to check your battery, make sure the water is up over the plates and the specific gravity reading high enough.

Know why I make sure the boys look after the important little extras on your car? Because I hope some day you'll bring it in for a trade, and I want it to be in first class shape.

You are cordially invited to inspect our new Used Car Offices on the Lot, the finest stock of "OK Used Cars" in the Thumb, and our quite complete stock of new Chevrolets and Oldsmobiles. If you are in the market we'd like to sell you. If not, we'll just as gladly buy you a Coca Cola and show you around. We are proud of our setup.

March Farm Bureau Meeting—Mr. and Mrs. Newell Hubbard, Sr., welcomed 21 members and seven guests to their home Friday evening, March 9, for the Deford Farm Bureau meeting. The usual business was conducted under the supervision of Chairman Harold Chapin.

Mr. Kenneth Churchill prepared a short discussion of "Safety Rules to Be Used Any Time, Anywhere and by Anyone." Due to the fact that a Farm Bureau Feeds program had been planned, Mr. Bob Schantz, manager of the Cass City co-op elevator, gave some important facts about Farm Bureau feeds. He was substituting for Mr. John Ostriker, this area Farm Bureau feeds agent, who was to have been the speaker, but was unable to attend because of illness.

Mr. Schantz also showed an interesting film depicting precise care in needs preparation for sale

Five Hopeful Facts You Should Know About the Heart Diseases

Today, hearts are being saved because heart research is making vital, new discoveries—because people are beginning to know these 5 hopeful facts.

1 Some forms of heart disease can be prevented... a few can be cured.

2 All heart cases can be cured for best if diagnosed early.

3 Almost every heart condition can be helped by proper treatment.

4 Most heart patients can keep on working—very often at the same job.

5 Your "symptoms" may or may not mean heart disease. Don't guess—don't worry. See your doctor and be sure.

The Michigan Heart Association, a United Fund Agency, prescribes a general health program of regular medical checkups, avoidance of overexertion, overweight, infections, and worry, with positive emphasis on proper rest and relaxation especially during the winter season. Appropriately, the heart associations have chosen one of the winter months, February, to be observed as American Heart Month.

The necessities of life always seem less important than a luxury.

Many a man's reputation for worldly wisdom vanishes with the loss of his health.

Nobody needs to be watched so closely as the man who thinks he is a good fellow.

Mr. M. R. Smith Succumbs at Home

Mr. Marion R. Smith died at his residence Thursday afternoon, March 8. He had been in poor health the past seven years. Mr. Smith was born in Morgantown, Ind., Aug. 11, 1904, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Manfred Smith.

On Oct. 9, 1925, he and Miss Zella Hesser were married in La-Porte, Ind., where they made their home following their marriage. Later they moved to Flint and Millington and three years ago they moved to this community where he lived until his death.

Mr. Smith was employed as a machinist at the Flint Chevrolet factory before an accident which forced him to retire.

Besides his wife, Mr. Smith is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Edward Gleason of Millington; eight sons, Robert of Millington, Russell of Flint, Edward, Gerald, Larry, Leslie, Lyle and Floyd at home; his mother, Mrs. Bess Smith of Morgantown, Ind.; three sisters, Mrs. Morris Frownfelter of Morgantown, and Mrs. Theodore Sanders of Trafalgar, Ind.; three brothers, Forest and Floyd of Morgantown and James Smith of Franklin, Ind., and two grandchildren. Two sons, one daughter and one brother preceded him in death.

Funeral services were held at 10 o'clock Monday morning with the Rev. Earl M. Crane officiating. Interment was in Evergreen Cemetery in Flint.

Progress Against Lymphomatosis

Test Hens Pass Resistance Thru Egg

An important step has been taken toward control of lymphomatosis (a cancerous disease often called "big-liver disease") in chickens.

In experiments at East Lansing, Michigan, resistance to the disease was passed from vaccinated hens to their chicks through the eggs. It is hoped that this discovery may eventually bring this $50-million-per-year problem under control.

It has been pointed out, however, that the findings must be confirmed under a wide variety of conditions, the technique for vaccination must be greatly simplified and the vaccine production put on a more practical basis.

The chicks hatched from eggs laid by the test hens before vaccination suffered 41 to 70 per cent death loss when inoculated with lymphomatosis. However, after the test hens were vaccinated only 3 to 13 per cent of the chicks developed the disease, and on the average they survived longer than the susceptible chicks in the other group.

Michigan experiments suggest that vaccination procedures may hold the answer to the problem of lymphomatosis in barnyard flocks.

The American Veterinary Medical Association, commenting on the experiments, noted that findings were under laboratory conditions in a relatively small number of birds. Additional experimental work and refinements are needed before veterinarians will have this material available for use in average poultry flocks.

New, Potent Booster For Insecticides

An important advance in continuing research to find better ways of controlling insect pests has been made through determination of the chemical structure of sesamol—a sesame-oil derivative that is the most potent booster known for pyrethrum insecticides.

Use of the compound gives pyrethrum insecticides greatly increased killing power against house flies and certain other insects, but does not increase their extremely low toxicity to humans and warm-blooded animals.

Sesamol by itself does not harm insects, but when added to pyrethrum it greatly increases the insecticide's potency. The outstanding effectiveness of sesamol as a synergist for pyrethrum was discovered by Dr. Morton Beroza of the USDA.

His discovery has laid the groundwork for (1) development of a satisfactory commercial process for extraction of sesamol from the oil of the sesame seed, a fast-expanding new oilseed crop for the South, or (2) possible development of a synthetic compound for use in insecticides that will duplicate the booster effect of natural sesamol.

MICHIGAN MIRROR NEWS BRIEFS

Decision of President Eisenhower to run for President on the Republican ticket has its significance in each state as well as the nation as a whole.

In Michigan, as elsewhere, Republicans are jubilant; Democrats are grim.

Now that politicians know that he will run, they are busy trying to make the best possible plans. The GOP is worrying about who should be the gubernatorial candidate. Democrats are less worried about the governor's office; more concerned about picking up more seats in the House and Senate.

Overconfidence can be a factor in both parties. While Republicans are being careful not to infer that "Ike can't lose," their opponents are also pretending that they do not feel sure about the chances of Gov. Williams.

A spokesman for the Democratic party said, "It won't be a push over for us next fall. Ike has long coattails, and there's no telling who'll be on them."

Republicans point to their strategy of not putting all their political eggs in the Eisenhower basket as indication of their thinking. A GOP leader said, "We started our campaign long ago. We are going to the grass roots level to sell the sound, Republican principles and policies. We are training our workers in every community in the state. We've got a great package to sell, and we want to get it sold to the right man in the right way."

Automatic opening of the deer season on the nearest Saturday to Nov. 15 was defeated in this legislative session.

It was less a struggle between sportsmen and conservationists than a battle between the Upper and Lower Peninsulas, the businesses and schools.

"I wouldn't live so long as to be able to explain back home why I voted for an automatic Saturday opening," said Senator Charles T. Prescott (R-Prescott). Prescott said his bill to adjust the small game seasons had been victimized by backers of the Saturday opening bill and "even its own mother wouldn't recognize it now."

Upper Peninsula legislators said the Saturday opening would give hunters three week ends in the woods and ease the plight of businessmen whose employees are absent during at least some of the week days during the season.

"With a Saturday opening every year, they still would want to leave on Wednesday to get established in camp," Prescott said.

Democrats in the House are planning an all-out fight against a mental health training program adopted by the Senate because it dips into the powers of the administration.

It is patterned after the "Kansas Plan," developed by the Menninger Foundation, which was visited by lawmakers last year.

The idea is to train psychiatrists and go into a system of mental care emphasizing treatment—quickly and efficiently—rather than long-term stays in a mental hospital.

Under the Michigan version, a separate committee will be set up under the University of Michigan Board of Regents. It will conduct the training program.

In addition, three medical school faculty members from Wayne University and the U-M will be added to the Michigan Mental Health Commission, increasing the membership to eight.

Republicans feel that this program of concentrated training, research and quick treatment will eventually lessen the need for building hospitals.

"It is a program of buying brains, instead of bricks," said Senator Creighton R. Coleman (R-Battle Creek).

Democrats feel that the state department of mental health can do just as effective a job with a little more money and personnel. They argue that the separate agency idea splits off an important function of the department.

Republicans claim the department still has its own program and that the separate agency will merely coordinate it with others, such as those in the medical schools.

Democrats already are polishing speeches for a battle against the bill in the House.

Senate-passed legislation preventing any organization from forcing political contributions from its members is ready for another House battle.

Senator Lewis G. Christman (R-Ann Arbor) came up with the bill which he says will apply both to big business and unions.

After the 1954 elections, Republicans pointed out that many union people voted Republican. They charge that some union members object to having their dues spent for Democratic candidates, Republicans want a law to halt the practice.

Democrats countered that big corporations, already barred from contributions, pressured individuals—sales agents, dealers and retailers—to contribute money which wound up in Republican coffers.

"So this is an answer to both sides," said Christman.

Democrats have been fighting the bill, calling it a new version of a "right-to-work" bill, but lost their battle when Republicans rounded up the 18 votes needed to pass it through the Senate.

Insiders see it as an issue which will revive the coalition in the House of 46 Democrats and seven "Young Turk" Republicans.

The thrifty pave the road to independence with their savings.

It seems as though it's worth more to live today than yesterday—at least it costs more.

Live but one day at a time—the reward comes in the form of happiness and contentment.

One good thing that can be said for taxes is that it makes us modest about our possessions.

If you intend to offer your friends advice try to make it the kind they intended to follow anyway.

The want ads are newsy too.

An interesting article in the DeFord news tells how that town got its name. After the railroad had built a station there, and a post office was necessary it was decided to name the town after one of its benefactors, DeFord. It was first suggested to name the new settlement Bruce after the first locator of government land just east of the town, but Michigan already had a town by that name.

Putting Weight On Beef Cattle

Fertilized Pastures Best, Tests Show

Despite very poor weather and grazing conditions, fertilized pastures came out far ahead of unfertilized in putting weight on beef cattle last summer at the University of Minnesota's Rosemount Experiment Station.

Paul M. Burson, University soils professor, says the fertilized pastures were not set back as much by drought as were the unfertilized.

Steer gain per acre on fertilized pasture was 222.2 pounds, on unfertilized, 161 pounds. And cattle pastured in rotation on fertilized pastures sold for a little more than animals grazed on unfertilized pastures.

Steers on fertilized pasture sold for $20.50 per hundred pounds, those on unfertilized for $20. Value of beef produced per acre on fertilized pasture was $45.44, on unfertilized, $32.22. In 1954, a better-moisture year, fertilized pasture produced $66.46 worth of beef per acre, while unfertilized produced $20.06 worth—$27.40 per acre less.

Minnesota experiments have shown that you get more steer gain per acre on fertilized pastures than on unfertilized.

All pastures got three tons of lime per acre in 1952. Half of each pasture was fertilized with 800 pounds of 0-20-20 per acre as found necessary by soil tests.

Rosemount's 1955 pasture season was unusually poor. In April, May and most of June there was drought and pasture yield was cut seriously. There was another long dry spell from August 1 through September 15.

New Meat Ideas May Increase Retail Sales

The livestock industry believes that flash-frozen, no-waste meat will bring great dividends in the field of animal agriculture.

A development of the industry's effort for meat that is simple to prepare and easy to store, flash-freezing is done at 50 degrees below zero. Five minutes before dinner the frosted meats can be placed on a broiler or in a frying pan. After 2 or 3 minutes of cooking they are ready to serve.

The phrase "no waste" has double meaning. The consumer gets meat that is trimmed and less bulky. Fats and bones, usually wasted after they leave packing plants, can now be kept at the plants where they are valuable for many useful by-products.

Centralized butchering and processing will offer the housewife better meats in smaller packages and at the same time simplify meat preparation in the kitchen. These advantages, it is believed, will cause meat sales to increase sharply.
