Faulty Trial Frees Mills from 30-day Sentence

Because a Mayville justice of the peace erred in holding trial, Kenneth Ross Mills of Tuscola County is out of jail.

Mr. Mills was arrested by the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department on a charge of assault and battery in Millington.

He was brought before the Mayville justice on Sunday and sentenced to 30 days in jail after pleading guilty to beating his wife.

After he started to serve his sentence, he engaged a lawyer and Wednesday in circuit court Mills was released on a writ of habeas corpus.

The release was granted because it is illegal to hold a trial and pass sentence on Sunday.

Cass City Students In Model Assembly At Hillsdale College

Five Cass City High School students left Thursday afternoon, Mar. 22, for Hillsdale College to participate in the annual UN Model Assembly.

This year the Cass City delegates will represent Venezuela in the assembly which is scheduled for Friday and Saturday.

Participating from Cass City will be Carol Hoffmeister, Connie Bartle, Jerry Perry, Judy Huff and Ruth Merchant.

Cass City is the only school in the Thumb that is participating. Schools from all over Michigan are entered in the assembly.

Michigan Singers Slated in Cass City April 4

The alumni and former students of the University of Michigan have arranged for a concert by the University's outstanding vocal group, The Michigan Singers, Wednesday, April 4, at Cass City High School gymnasium.

The alumni were able to schedule the group here because of a cancellation in their itinerary. Because Joan Holmberg of Cass City is a member, the group decided to fill the open date in Cass City.

The singers are selected on the basis of auditions and only the top voices in the school are in the traveling group.

Admission to the event will be free.

Schedule Talent Show at Owendale

The Parents-Teachers Association and high school band announced this week that a talent show will be held Friday, April 13, at the Owendale school.

Authorities in charge of the event said that the show would be limited to 15 acts with prizes awarded the top three winners.

Persons in the area wishing to appear on the local program can contact any of the following members of the show committee: Mrs. Matt Kling, Mrs. Don Glann, Tony Enderle, Mrs. Owen Finkbeiner and Mr. Madson.

A Tuscola County jury awarded damages of $600 to Louis J. Trish of Caro from the Caro Development Corporation, Tuesday in Tuscola County Circuit Court.

Mr. Trish's claim was for money owed for painting the Allied Steel Wool Company building for the Development group. The association was formed to build the building to lure the industry to Caro.

According to testimony, authorities of the association said that Trish wanted to spray paint the building that was being painted by brush. The paint used was not applicable for spraying and after attempting to spray part of the building on a test basis, he started to paint the inside of the structure by brush, which the association claimed was done without authority.

Mr. Trish presented a bill for $800 and the association offered to settle for $600. The jury, after deliberating for 25 minutes, decided that Mr. Trish was entitled to $600.

Members of the jury were: Glen Gordon, Emerson DeGrow, Leslie Beach, Gust Klatt, Mrs. Walter Heckroth, Charles Prior, Phyllis Churchill, Ernest Lane, Mack Williams, Norman Adams, Orville Beitz and Mrs. Lyle Koepfgen.

Wednesday Cases
Carl Milton Hessler was fined $50 and costs of $25 after he had pleaded guilty Wednesday, Mar. 14, of driving with a revoked license.

Junior Spohn was found guilty of contempt of court for failure to pay alimony and was sentenced to the Tuscola County jail until the alimony is paid.

James Stapleton's case against Claude Wright for damages in an auto accident was continued.

In the case School District Number One in Tuscola and Arbia Townships vs. Dennis Harrison, a decree was granted to quiet title.

Croswell Schools Close When Water Supply Fails

A broken shaft on a water pump cut the water supply in Croswell to one-third of normal Wednesday and the lack of water closed Croswell-Lex. High School and two elementary schools. A pickle factory also was forced to close.

Authorities appealed to the 2,000 residents to curtail the use of water from the city plant until repairs could be made.

Parts for repair of the pump were ordered from Lansing. Repairs were expected to have been completed Thursday.

Croswell gets its water from two wells. The larger well was out of use because of the pump breakdown.

Murray Among Top Ten in MSU Class

Alex Murray, a student in the school of veterinary medicine at Michigan State University, was among the top ten in his class, the college registrar's office announced this week.

Mr. Murray earned an average of 2.99. A point average of 3.00 equals a "B."

The records are based on cumulative grade averages through the fall term of 1955 for students enrolled in the winter term of 1956.

Mr. Murray is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Murray of Cass City.

Community Club Meeting

Morley Fraser Tells Value of Athletics

Morley Fraser, head football coach at Albion College, told members of the Cass City Community Club and athletes from Cass City High School Tuesday that sports and other extra-curricular activities were fully as important as academic subjects.

Speaking at the school gym, he said that sports teaches boys and girls discipline, cooperation, tolerance and how to win and lose.

He described discipline as the control necessary for boys to make an all-out effort in any sport or activity they choose. A boy must be disciplined, he said, not to drink, smoke or become morally weak.

Tolerance is evident in every team. At Albion, Jews, Protestants, Catholics and white and colored players cooperate together to make the squad. There is no room for intolerance there, he said.

Every individual must win and

Announce Cass City Honor Society Pupils

With the induction this week of forty-six new members into the Cass City chapter of the National Honor Society, the senior honor group was increased to twelve, its maximum number. Chosen by the joint effort of students and faculty committees, the ten girls and two boys were elected on the basis of scholarship, character, leadership and service.

A survey of the senior group shows that practically all of them have already made plans for continuing their education upon graduation from high school. Interestingly enough, six of the girls plan on nursing as a career.

Three of the others are interested in commerce pursuits and one in teaching, while the two boys are both looking ahead toward engineering as a career.

A review of their service records indicates that all of the dozen have made good use of the opportunities for activity and service their high school and community have afforded.

Elective offices held by Sharon Ackerman include class and home-room presidency and two years as class secretary. This year she has been social secretary of the student council. She is known to many as one of the popular group of cheerleaders broken up by this year's graduation. She has selected Saginaw General Hospital for her period of nurse's training.

When Cass City was represented at last year's Model U N Assembly at Hillsdale College,

Connie Bartle was one of the delegates. She will also attend the convention this year. Her interests during the years have included major activity in the band and membership in the Future Homemakers of America, of which group she has been president one year. Connie is enrolled at the University of Michigan School of Nursing.

Cass City High School students showed their regard for Janet Caister when they named her homecoming queen last fall. She has two years of service to her credit as majorette in the marching band and has also sung in the glee club. In both the eleventh and twelfth grades, she was elected treasurer, a job which takes perhaps more actual time than any other office. Janet is also interested in nursing.

Accepted at the University of Michigan for next fall, Jack Clara will enter some field of engineering. All sports have felt his outstanding contribution since junior high days. He has been voted most valuable player in football and been a member of several selected teams in the conference, as well as the general area. Jack is a three-year student council member, football captain in 1955 and Varsity Club president in his senior year.

The seventy-four graduates of 1956 chose Caren Cummings to serve as senior class president. Giving leadership to her fellow seniors has kept Caren busy, along with varsity cheerleading and a host of varied school functions. Earlier, she had been home-room president in the tenth grade and a member of the junior play cast. Future years will find Caren, too, in the nursing profession.

Enrollment at the University of Detroit figures in the future plans of Marie Gordon with a possibility of teaching as a vocation. Her activities in school have included dramatics, speech and office secretary. Outside of school, she has found time for girl scout work and has been closely connected with the youth work in her church.

If Yvonne Krohn follows through with present plans, she will find employment in some secretarial work, possibly following some additional commerce training after graduation. Ranking near the top of her class scholastically, Yvonne has included among her interests band, Future Homemakers of America and Miracle Book Club. She was also a junior honor society member.

A willing helper whenever there were jobs to be done, Beverly McCloy has been connected with almost every activity in which her class has had a part. She has contributed her assistance two years as a hall guide and was a junior play cast member. Beverly will also enter a hospital to become a nurse.

Ranking third in a large class is a real achievement and Beverly McComb has accomplished it along with a rich complement of class and school activities. She has been class secretary and treasurer, active in dramatics and student office secretary. For years, Beverly has looked forward to being a professional nurse and she will train at Saginaw General Hospital.

The second budding secretary in the group, Patricia McConnell, has earned the distinction of serving her class as salutatorian on commencement night. Not only does she rank second in her class, but she has also served as hall guide commissioner during her senior year. A great deal of her time has also been given over to the activities of her church. She has served as student teacher and participated in many class projects.

A member of the band contrarily since the seventh grade, Keith O'Dell has played in solo and ensemble groups, as well as in the band as a whole. He spent three weeks during his summer vacation at Michigan State University in a special band training course. Keith has a deep interest in mathematics and science and will study engineering.

Alphabetically last of the group of twelve, Marlene Ricketts ranks first in her class in scholastic standing. With a point average of 2.85, Marlene will say the last word for her classmates at graduation as valedictorian of the class of 1956. Early interested in 4-H work, Marlene won several awards in foods and clothing. Among her distinctive accomplishments are seven semesters of perfect attendance and one full year with a perfect A record in all subjects. Marlene has served as student of

Accept Foy in National Honorary Math Fraternity

James E. Foy, a senior at Michigan State University, was recently initiated into Pi Mu Epsilon, national honorary mathematic fraternity.

To be eligible for the fraternity, a student must have a "B" average in 25 credits of math and three of the credits must be in the advanced "400" series. Mr. Foy qualified with 28 credits of "A" in math courses.

Mr. Foy is a 1948 graduate of Cass City High School. He spent four years in the Navy and is taking an electronic engineering course at MSU. He expects to graduate in August.

From the Editor's Corner

Judging by a letter we received from T. E. Solterman, postal inspector in Saginaw, it is highly possible that Cass City is eligible for home delivery of mail service.

We reprint a letter here received from the post office department.

"Reference is made to your letter of Mar. 13, 1956, concerning the possibility of obtaining city delivery service at Cass City."

"It appears that the population and gross receipts requirements are sufficient to warrant city delivery service. There are, however, several other factors which enter into the matter such as sidewalks, street names and house numbers. If you feel that you can qualify on all these matters, I would suggest that you write a letter to Mr. B. W. Baughman, District Operations Manager, Post Office Department, Detroit, Michigan. He will then make proper reference of the matter for investigation."

We have published this letter so that persons concerned can take appropriate action if they desire. Your editor feels that the function of the newspaper ceases when all of the available information has been presented to citizens of the community.

Further action will have to come from persons who are interested in seeing the service inaugurated.

Last January we received two special editions of newspapers printed in California. Both were well over a 100 pages. This week we discovered that Jacob Anthes, a former resident of this area who makes his home in California, sent them to us.

As an alumnus of Michigan State University, we looked them over with interest as they were special editions covering the Tournament of Roses in Pasadena.

Willis Campbell is making a record of the various Cass City Schools. He has a complete file except for the second schoolhouse which he believes was near what is now the Presbyterian Church. He'd like any person with a print of the building to contact him so he can make a copy.

Huron Family Loses Home in Fire

A family of nine was homeless Friday, Mar. 16, after fire destroyed a modest home in Huron County, about two miles south-east of Bad Axe.

Mr. and Mrs. Catarino Coronado and their seven children, ranging in age from one to 13, fled from the burning home in 20-degree weather.

The Bad Axe Good Fellows Club started a fund to provide for the family.

Chamber of Commerce

Expect Large Crowd At Annual Banquet

Members of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce and their wives will gather at the Cass City High School gymnasium Tuesday, Mar. 27, for the annual Chamber turkey banquet.

As usual, new officers will be introduced and Keith McConkey, president-elect, will officially assume his new duties.

A highlight of the business meeting will be the review of the Chamber's activities for members.

The organization this year put in force the screening of applicants for soliciting donations and worked with the M-51 Highway Association in an attempt to improve Cass City Road.

Other activities carried on by the organization included the Christmas decoration project and the annual home-coming. The Chamber also sponsored Value Days, a village-wide sale that has become an annual event.

President Bill Jolly will be able to report the highest membership in the club's history and a new interest in Chamber of Commerce activities.

During the year, members of the Chamber were instrumental in organizing a committee that has assured continued regular freight service to the community.

Advance ticket sale has indicated that a large crowd will be on hand for the meeting Tuesday. Persons having business with the village council Tuesday night have been advised that the meeting has been delayed until after the banquet so that council members can attend.

A variety program will be the feature of the entertainment portion of the program, President Jolly said.

Tax Deadline Nears for Over Million Citizens

The Internal Revenue Department this week issued a reminder to taxpayers that less than 30 days remain to file 1955 income tax returns.

The department pointed out that over a million persons in the nation have yet to return their statements. The nearer the deadline gets, authorities for the department said, the harder it will be to collect all the necessary financial documents needed to complete the returns.

As the deadline nears it will be more and more difficult to receive the free assistance of the department in filing forms. Telephone and personal assistance is still available for taxpayers who feel they require help in preparing returns.

The big job of processing the returns is proceeding at full speed and almost 200,000 early filers have refunds of more than 15 million dollars now, the department revealed.

Cass City Group Meets at School

The Cass City Home Demonstration Group held its regular meeting Thursday, Mar. 15, in the home economics room at Cass City School. In charge of the 6:30 supper were Catherine Mc-

Gillivray, Gertrude Gray, Clara Avery, Grace Sandham, Margaret Boag and Myrtle Ludlow. The tables were decorated with a St. Patrick's Day motif and highlighted with shamrocks in bicsoms.

In the business session, Miss Muriel Addison presided for the absent chairman and Mrs. Ella Croft acted as secretary. Thirty members answered roll call. Helen McKinley and Esther McCullough were guests.

Mrs. F. L. Morris and Mrs. Keith McConkey presented the lesson, "Pictures in the Home." Mrs. Morris was selected as woman of the year for the group. Each county group has selected a similar woman to represent their club.

Achievement day will be held April 26 in Reese. Persons wishing to attend are asked to notify Mrs. Otto Goertsen to arrange for dinner reservation and transportation.

Phone Company Now In Former Location

After several months in temporary quarters on Main Street, authorities of the General Telephone Company of Michigan announced this week that offices of the concern are now in their former location on Seeger Street. The company had moved on Main Street while improvements and repairs were being completed on the phone building.

Mishaps Injure Two Children During Week

Two area youngsters were injured in mishaps this week.

Dennis Wright, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wright, injured his left arm in a wringer of the family washing machine Saturday morning.

The accident occurred when the small boy attempted to run a piece of paper through the wringer while his mother was in the yard hanging clothes to dry.

He was discovered by a niece, Joyce Stevens, when she came into the kitchen.

He was treated at Cass City Hospital. He suffered the loss of his nail on the second finger and his arm was skinned.

Mrs. Wright reported that her son was rescued quickly only because he was discovered by Miss Stevens. Dennis had made no outcry, she said.

Gayle Rabideau, eight, suffered burns on her right side and her mother, Mrs. Wayne Rabideau, burns on her right hand and arm Saturday night when Gayle's clothing caught fire as she reached across a stove burner. They were patients in Pleasant Home Hospital for treatment.

Creep Feed When Forage Is Poor

Lamb's Food Must Have Nutritive Value

Creep feeding lambs during periods when range forage is low in nutritive value will help to maintain a steady rate of gain.

For a rancher to take advantage of early spring prices, his lambs must be born during the season of the year when nutrients in range forage are scarce, according to Donald T. Torelli, animal husbandry specialist at the University of California field station.

"Unless the lactating ewes are provided with supplemental feeds, their milk supplies may be short," he said. "For an efficient rate of gain, the lambs must receive additional nutrients from some other source. Since the range feed, which they begin to nibble at about two weeks of age, is so low in nutrients, it provides little food value for the lambs."

In the north-coastal region of California, lambs must put on most of their gain from the first of March, when the grass has gained strength, to the first of

May, when the grass starts to dry. This is a relatively short period. Consequently, when the lambs are weaned, they are usually too small to be sold as fat lambs and must go as feeders at a considerably lower price, Torelli said.

"Creep feeding the lambs from the time they are two weeks old until March 1 will produce lambs of sufficient size to better utilize the feed at this later date and will produce larger lambs at weaning."

Airborne Granular DDT New Control Technique

Granular DDT applied by properly equipped airplanes has been introduced as a new technique in the control of corn borer by entomologists of the U. S. D. A.

DDT is the only insecticide in a granular formulation which has been tested sufficiently to warrant a recommendation for use in corn borer control, says Tom A. Brindley, entomologist in charge of USDA Corn Borer Control Research.

Up to 87 per cent control of corn borer infestation was achieved by air seeding granulars through properly equipped airplanes during 1955 tests in Illinois. Best distribution and results were achieved with rice seeding equipment when the airplane flew 35 to 40 feet above the ground, covering 14 to 18 corn rows.

Ground treatment also gave up to 87 per cent control in tests.

The number and timing of treatments depends on the severity of the infestation and the desired degree of control, reported Brindley. In general, one application to commercial corn should suffice. Seed corn or other valuable crops may well receive two applications.

A single treatment should be applied as soon as 75 per cent of the plants show evidence of recent feeding in the whorl.

The Greeks have a word for it, so they say, and the French have a way about them. Their ways with the automobile are obviously no exception.

Everyone has heard about the famous Paris taxi-drivers, swerving, darting, never stopping. The peep-peep-peep of their horns has been remembered in song.

They've had that reputation a long time. I learned in reading a book about the auto industry as it was in 1899. In that year, Paris taxi drivers managed to chalk up an average of eight people killed and 50 injured every week.

At that time, though, France was going auto crazy. Just about 1900 there were more manufacturers of cars in France than there were cars in all of the United States. The U. S. had about 500 cars, most of them around New York City, but in France 619 manufacturers were producing autos.

Even today, Paris has some automobile laws that seem pretty strange. Headlights are prohibited. When darkness comes, you use your parking lights.

And to keep the night air sweet, car horns may not be blown after dark. Instead, you may flash your headlights (but you can't leave them on).

The fact that so many who have never seen Paris know all about those Paris taxi drivers proves how important a reputation is. Nobody knows that better than we do.

A new car dealer has to have a good name before he gets his franchise. He must maintain his good name to maintain his franchise. You know that he is going to be in business a long time, he's going to be here to look after your auto needs. That is why we guarantee our cars and trucks as we do. Did you know that both Oldsmobile and Chevrolet are guaranteed for 12 months or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first. Even Chevrolet trucks carry this very liberal Warranty. And, we guarantee in writing every "OK Used Car or Truck" sold (over $300.00).

Need a Pickup? We have a 1955 Chevrolet Half Ton with 5000 actual miles. I don't think there is a mark on it. Equipped with Heater and Radio, too. Belonged to our Mr. Greenlee whose nice wife prefers to ride in a car, so..... You'll never see a nicer one. Won't you try it?

SHORT STORY

Powder Patrol

THE Mayor's announcement that openings were available for women to join the police force had rocked the town. Due to the low salaries, many men had left the force to enter more lucrative fields, so driven by desperate need, the mayor had hit upon this as an alternative.

The women who served as crossing guards had done creditable work, so he felt this experimental venture to be worth a try. He wanted them to serve as drivers with an accompanying officer to handle any rough stuff.

Neil Dailey jumped at the chance. Her war record as Wac ambulance driver made her a desirable applicant. The officers gaped about it, but Neil was hired. Attired in a trim navy suit, she looked like a bit of fluff and about as dangerous and capable as a rabbit.

Bill Bronson drew her for his squad and he muttered, "It just ain't right."

Train Scout Leaders At Caro Camp

Camp Pine Acres, the Caro Scout camp, was the scene of unusual activity during the past week end. Despite the snow and cold weather, 19 Scout leaders from Tuscola District spent the week end camping out of doors in true Scout fashion.

The camp-out was the climax of a Boy Scout leaders' training course which started January 26. The weekly indoor sessions covered the subjects of: organization and leadership, program planning, meetings, hiking, camping and "Helping the Boy Grow."

The week end was the outdoor part of hiking and camping, designed to give leaders the skills and experience of the patrol method in action in the troop.

None are so blind as the man who takes too many eye-openers.

A GOOD "CATCH" of legumes and grass in a nurse grain crop isn't always easy to come by. A good way to help a new seeding to get a strong start is to feed your grain crop plenty of ARCADIAN 12-12-12. Top-dress your winter grain and use plenty of concentrated, balanced ARCADIAN 12-12-12 in the drill when you plant your spring grain. This way you supply enough nitrogen, phosphorus and potash for both crops. Far too many seedlings are starved out instead of just being shaded out. ARCADIAN 12-12-12 provides a full meal of plant food to make a full seedling. Get ARCADIAN 12-12-12 now to get thicker, stronger stands of hay and pasture crops.

TAKES OFF LIKE YOU'RE WEARING SPURS

Come try it —
and you're in BUICK'S THRILL-A-MINUTE CLUB

THE THRILLS begin in the first sixty seconds — and from then on they come in clusters.

Right off, you feel the stepped-up getaway in Buick's new Variable Pitch Dynaflo® — a blazing new take-off even before you switch the pitch.

Because now — right in the topmost inch of pedal travel — right where you do most of your driving — right in the fuel-saving economy range — you're moving with a solid new "take-hold" getaway that's brisk and blessedly smooth.

Then you double the thrill.

For when you want to pass — or climb — or get out of a tight spot fast — you floor the pedal and switch the pitch. That brings you an absolutely smooth burst of full-power go-ahead on the split second — and it's the nearest thing to soaring flight yet.

It's a double-barreled package of excitement — and it's teamed with the most powerful V8 engine in Buick history — a 322-cubic-inch engine with no less than 9.5 to 1 compression in every CENTURY, SUPER and ROADMASTER.

All that would seem like thrill enough — but you'll find you've hardly scratched the surface.

You'll find yourself glowing all over from the sweet and level buoyancy of Buick's great new ride.

You'll feel a serene satisfaction from the way this trim beauty handles and corners and tracks to the road with the truest sense of direction yet.

And certainly you'll have to feel the good feeling that's yours just from bossing this big and brawny and beautifully sculptured automobile that's like a thing alive, and impeccably obedient.

We'd like you to know and feel all this firsthand — just by trying out a new Buick. That's all you do to join Buick's Thrill-A-Minute Club.

Why not become a member in good sitting today? And when you do, we have some big-thrill news on prices, too.

**New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century — optional at modest extra cost on the Special.*

Pastures Require Correct Fertilizing

Tuscola County farmers who are striving for lower feed costs with forage crops may be confused by all the stresses on "grassland farming."

Articles on grassland farming that originate in other states don't necessarily apply to Michigan, reminds Don Keblor, assistant county agricultural agent, because the stress here is not on grass, but on legumes.

The reason for stress on legumes is to get the most feed value for money spent, as legumes have more protein than grasses. Also there's a big difference between pastures with just grass in the stand and when the stand is a mixture of grass and legumes.

So when a farmer is advised to apply only nitrogen to make a better pasture, that doesn't apply to a Tuscola farmer who has a good legume-grass mixture for a pasture. The alfalfa in the mixture provides its own nitrogen.

More nitrogen probably would make the legumes disappear from the mixture faster because the grass would provide too much competition. But don't forget that legume-grass pasture or hay field may need lots of potash and phosphorus fertilizer.

Grain Sorghum Corn Substitute

But Raising Sorghums Poses Some Problems

You can substitute sorghum grains for corn—pound for pound—in fattening beef cattle.

Sorghum grain is most efficient in cattle and hog rations after being ground or cracked. You'll find that much of the whole grain passes through the animal undigested.

Chemically, grain sorghum is slightly higher in protein than corn, but slightly lower in fat. Like any other carbohydrate feed, you should supplement

Sorghum grains can be substituted for corn in fattening grain sorghum with protein in fattening rations.

One of the hazards in raising grain sorghum is due to the fact that they dry quite slowly in the field and too much moisture makes them difficult to harvest and store. You should let sorghums get down to 12 to 15 per cent moisture before storing. Artificial drying may be necessary in some cases.

You'll find that head sprouting is another disadvantage. It rains come just before time for combining, the compact heads will retain the moisture and you'll get head sprouting. The new varieties have open heads, which help to prevent head sprouting, but you may find fall rains still a problem.

Clutch bugs and leaf diseases may also be hazards, although there are varieties that have some resistance to these two pests.

Veterinarians Report Enzymes Show Promise

The use of enzymes as an auxiliary in the treatment of certain animal wounds has shown considerable promise, according to the American Veterinary Medical Association.

"The period of healing of inflammatory conditions is shortened through the use of enzymes and their use also allows for better penetration of antibiotic or other treatment agents," the Association says.

Certain enzymes have been found useful by veterinarians in treatment of septic arthritis, wounds, acute mastitis, abscesses, osteomyelitis and endometritis in animals. Another enzyme has been found useful in treating gangrenous mastitis in dairy cows.

The enzyme, pancreatic dornase, was found to be nontoxic in dogs except when massive doses were given. When this enzyme was infused into the udder of normal, lactating cows, examination 24 hours after the final injection revealed no change in any of the mammary gland treated.

"Abscesses and wounds in cattle, horses, dogs and cats have shown distinct clinical improvement following the use of pancreatic dornase. The methodic use of this enzyme with or without antibiotic agents has brought about liquefaction of the pus and removal of necrotic tissue with complete and prompt healing," the Association added.

Chick Catcher

Baby chicks allowed the freedom of a small pen for sun and exercise are often difficult to catch for return to the brooder. One poultryman solved the problem with a large cloth. He spread the cloth in one corner of the pen, drove the chicks into that corner, then picked them up by gathering the edges of the cloth.

SHORT STORY

"I" Beam Love

By Len Johnson

"COME down this minute!" Joey called firmly, cupping his hands for more volume. He shivered as he watched her dart along the steel girders of the half-finished bridge. "Please, Clara—you'll fall."

"This time his voice had lost its firmness."

"Go away!" Clara called down from above. She leaned far over and peered down at the grey river.

"I never want to see you again!"

"But I didn't say I didn't want to marry you," Joey said with desperation. All I said was it would be better if we waited to see what the stock market did."

"Oh—!" Clara sobbed back, hanging on with one hand and tilting her curvaceous five-foot two out into space. "Go away and leave me to—Just go away."

"Yes," someone voiced. "Let's call the fire department. She's going to jump into the river... she's so young."

"Old enough to know what she's doing," Joey snapped. "You keep out of this! Now Clara, you get down here!"

Clara swung around a girder. The crowd held its breath. She

"What terms?" Clara questioned. "You know well enough," Joey choked. "I don't care what the stock market does."

"I'm not interested in the stock market," she called sweetly, taking off her shoes. "Oh, Joey, I'm getting dizzy..."

"Hang on, Clara," he called weakly. "I'm coming up to help you—I think..."

He began climbing up the steel work of the bridge, not daring to look down at the hypnotic drawing water. The screaming of sirens forwarded the arrival of the police and fire department.

"What are you two doing up here?" an officer called, motioning in the ladder truck. "Try to work your way to this end so we can get to you."

"I'll be all right, now," Clara said. "Joey is coming to help me. I think I can hang on..."

"Joey made it to her, but it was taking most of his nerve just to hang on."

"What terms?" Clara demanded as Joey crawled up on the girder beside her.

"I guess I'll marry you..." he said faintly, wishing they would put up the ladders.

"Louder—" she demanded, tossing her dark curls against the breeze coming in over the river.

"I could marry you," Joe said, slightly louder.

A fat lady in the front lines drew herself erect. "Why, the beast! Formenting a little bitty thing like that. He should be horsewhipped!"

"Put him away like any common criminal!" a shriveled spinster agreed. "I'd like to get my hands on him—"

Joey took Clara by the hand. "Let's get down—We can be married whenever you want."

"And what about that little house on Cottonwood Drive?"

"Yes—yes, that, too..."

"And we'll have six kids..."

"Six?" Joey gagged, running his free hand through his hair.

"Six," Clara said aloofly, combing her tresses into place.

"What ever you say—" Joey surrendered, leading her along the steel beam.

They made it to the ground and Joey followed closely behind Clara—he didn't like the look in the fat lady's eye...

Clara's father came pushing through the crowd. "Just because you learned to walk on a steel beam," he said gruffly, "doesn't say you have to scare everybody in town—" He turned to leave, then called back: "I'll be up riveting this afternoon... better bring me up some lunch..."

Joey was bewildered as Clara led him away. "Six! Six kids!..." He wiped the sweat from his forehead, then grinned.

Persons in Cass City and Michigan will pay more for trucking service starting Wednesday, March 28...at least for 60 days.

The State Public Service Commission has granted a rate increase to truckers. The move followed a recent six per cent increase to the nation's railroads.

At the end of 60 days, truckers will report back to the commission with a breakdown of operating expenses and other information before the increase can become permanent.

John H. McCarthy, commission chairman, said truckers claimed the increase was needed mainly to meet rising wage costs under new contract.

McCarthy said that since no opposition to the proposal was received from shippers, it could be assumed the increase would become permanent.

SHORT STORY

Doctor's Orders

By Eloise C. Pittman

LEON BAXTER brooded over his nightmarish face in the waiting room mirror. He couldn't seem to accept that puckered seam in his cheek, the rippled scar tissue which raised his eye to such an awesome angle.

"That's the worst possible therapy," a voice behind him said.

Leon whirled his tall, muscular frame to face Dr. Henry Harter. "Maybe you've got some remedy for this—" His tone was bitter, without hope, as he pointed to the bulging nose which all the arts of plastic surgery had been unable to restore.

"Yes, I think I have found a remedy," the doctor said quietly. "There's a girl I want you to meet."

Leon followed the doctor through a door marked "Private." "Not a girl, Doctor." He accepted the

He couldn't seem to accept that puckered seam in his cheek.

cigarette Dr. Harter offered. "Not after what Myra did."

"Myra was never right for you." The doctor held the lighter for Leon, waved him to a chair. "Isn't it obvious now that she loved only your handsome face?"

Leon shook his thick black curls, the envy of every woman he knew. "No girl could look at my face now without thinking of Frankenstein or the Wolf Man!"

"This one is different," Dr. Harter replied. "She'll be at my home—tonight. How about it?"

Leon remembered how faithfully the doctor had worked to repair, not only the physical effects of the accident—which had smashed his career and ruined his wedding plans, but the spiritual damage as well. He owed him more than just his fees.

"I'll see her," Leon said presently, then added bitterly, "If you can arrange it in the dark. I don't sound like something out of a horror movie!"

That evening, Dr. Harter took Leon straight to the terrace flanking his living room. There he introduced him to Elsa Dean, a young, slender blonde, who was standing in the shadows of a latticed rose vine. Even in the half-light, Leon could see that she was beautiful. He drank in the beauty of her finely chiseled features, the piquant, almost strange, expression in her deep blue eyes.

How could Dr. Harter do this to him? Wasn't one crushing disappointment enough?

When the physician left them, Leon said lightly, "You're just what the doctor ordered. But when you've seen me in a bright light you'll run away—just like Myra did."

Elsa smiled. "Dr. Harter told me how handsome you were."

"A photographer's model," Leon interrupted her. "I was proud of my face then."

"A handsome face isn't everything," she said quietly. "Your voice tells me you can be kind."

The girl touched the rose lattice briefly, then the brick wall, finally reached for the glass knob on the French door. The light streaming from the living room was strong there. Boldly, Leon strode over to her side. "Look at me!" he commanded. As she turned her head in his direction, he flung out, "Can you honestly say any girl could love a man who looks like me?"

"I've been hurt, too," she told him. "It happened in an accident—like yours. And my fiancé jilted me. Just like Myra."

"But you aren't crippled or scarred. You look perfect!"

Elsa reached out for him: With graceful, tapering fingers she traced the scars on his face. She nodded then, as if confirming something she had already known.

"Elsa, you haven't answered me. How—where is your hurt?"

The girl lifted her lovely head; out her strange blue eyes looked past him. "Haven't you guessed?" she asked softly. "I'm—I'm—"

she hesitated, as if groping for a less shocking word.

Suddenly, Leon understood it all. She was not seeing with her eyes, but with her heart. Small wonder that his disfiguring scars meant so little to her!

Elsa Dean was blind.

Girl Scout Leaders At Regular Meeting

The Tuscola County Girl Scout Board met Wednesday evening, Mar. 14, with 19 members present from Vassar, Cass City, Fairgrove, Unionville, Akron and Caro. The spring meeting of the Girl Scout Council for all leaders and adult workers will be held in Unionville the first part of May.

Mrs. Robert McFarland of Quincy, Ill., has been secured by the board to give a 16-hour training course for leaders beginning the first day of May. There will be one day given to Day Camp training and all prospective Day Camp helpers should plan to attend at least this one day.

A letter was read from the Girl Scouts of America thanking the troops of the county for the monies donated to the Juliette Low fund.

Discussion was held on various matters regarding materials and financial aid needed in connection with the Senior Scouts going to National Round-up this summer.

Cookies have been sold in many communities during Girl Scout Week to assist with the financial needs of the troops. Several new films are being ordered to be used throughout the county.

Michigan Mirror News In Brief

State Government costs will set a new record for next year but everybody expects a balanced budget.

These peculiar forecasts are based on prosperity of the past 12 months with the increase in tax yields just barely offsetting the increased costs of government.

Legislators, juggling such things as the "growth factor" of taxes—the bigger net yield which normally follows a business boom—and expanded services are into the final stage of budget business.

At the moment, the 1956-57 budget looks something like $318,000,000.

Gov. Williams asked for $369,000,000. Republicans in the Senate aimed for $310,000,000. House finance leaders hoped to pare more off the requests, ending with $305,000,000.

Williams based his budget figures on a $25,000,000 surplus, which he said could be used to cover part of the requests. Republicans said the surplus was more like $17,000,000 and hoped to avoid spending it for operations.

"If we did, we would have a government next year that we couldn't afford," said Rep. Rollo G. Conlin (R-Tipton).

Already banging away at Republican cuts in his requests, Williams is charging that more than $1,500,000 was slashed out of the public health bill.

He said that a tuberculosis case-finding program will suffer along with other major projects. "We always have and always will take care of the financial needs of any program to safeguard the health of our citizens," said Senator Elmer R. Porter (R-Blissfield) appropriations committee chairman.

Senator Clyde H. Geerlings will run again for the seat in the legislature he occupies for Muskegon and Ottawa counties.

Earlier, he said he would quit because he was tired of "being a champion of lost causes."

Folks back home rounded up petitions, bombarded him with mail and resolutions from civic groups, urging him to reconsider his decision.

So Geerlings, a Republican who often supports ideas representative of the conservative Republican view but who at times lacks support in his own party, reconsidered.

His major irritation was the indifference with which his constituents treated legislation important to their welfare. It's a common plight in Lansing.

Direct mail campaigns are normally pretty well organized, and the sincerity of the appeal is often suspected for that reason.

But the mail Geerlings received urging him to run again, smacked of the kind of sincerity most often found in concerned friends. So Geerlings will be back—if he wins—with a slightly different view of his constituents.

Proposals for an automatic Saturday opening of the deer season are dead.

Small merchants and others supported the idea of opening the annual deer hunting season on the Saturday nearest Nov. 15, the traditional opening day.

They argued that when the season opens in midweek it causes absenteeism in business and industry. Foes of the plan said men would leave early anyway, causing absenteeism.

The proposal was killed on the Senate floor, but its backers said it would return as an issue next year.

State police figure that the time is approaching when Michigan will learn the effectiveness of its new speed laws.

Commissioner Joseph A. Childs said the first month or so would bring widespread compliance to the 65 miles an hour daytime ceiling and the 55 at night.

Since the new speed law which went into effect Feb. 2, week end traffic tolls which used to read 20 to 30, now are down to 11 to 16.

There was a rash of arrests shortly after the laws went into effect, but they have diminished.

"We expect the people to ease up slightly now, but we hope they won't," said Childs.

Hold Last Rites For John McIntyre

Mr. John Hector McIntyre died at the Spatzel Nursing Home in Argyle, Thursday, March 15. He had been a patient in the home for five days, but had been ill the past four weeks.

The son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Donald McIntyre, he was born February 10, 1873, in Argyle Township.

Mr. McIntyre and Miss Jessie McLean were married in Argyle, Feb. 10, 1920. Following their marriage, they made their home in Argyle.

Mr. McIntyre served as township clerk for over twenty years for Argyle Township and was also deputy sheriff for Sanilac County for some time.

Mrs. McIntyre passed away in 1936.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Mina Mangold of Red Bank, New Jersey, and a number of nieces and nephews. Three brothers and three sisters preceded him in death.

Funeral services were held at Little's Funeral Home Sunday afternoon at 2:30 with Rev. Floyd Porter officiating.

Burial was in Elkland Cemetery.

A sermon may be short and still have a long reach.

Boost Oat Yield With Fertilizer

Effective in Spring, Fall, Tests Show

Up to 10 bushels more oats per acre in 1955 from a field fertilized for corn in 1954—that's the residual effect reported by a University of Minnesota soils specialist.

Jack M. MacGregor, associate professor of soils, told a Soils and Fertilizer Class that 60 pounds of anhydrous ammonia per acre applied either in fall, 1953, or spring, 1954, not only increased the 1954 corn yield, but boosted the 1955 oat yield on the same land up to

University of Minnesota tests show the true value of fertilization.

10 bushels in field tests at the University's experiment station. Comparing fall-versus spring fertilizing, MacGregor found that there was no difference in effectiveness. In spring fertilizing, they compared April applications with equal May and June applications and found no important difference in yields between the three application times.

MacGregor also had some striking results to report in soybean fertilizing studies. Apparently, an already fertile field—for example, one that would yield 110 bushels of corn in 1954—would not be noticeably benefitted, yield-wise, in its 1955 soybean production.

He told of a low-fertility field in which part was left unfertilized—giving a 60 to 70 bushel corn yield. A second part of the field was fertilized with 60 pounds of anhydrous ammonia per acre. Result: corn yield rose 18 bushels per acre and 1955 soybean yield went up five bushels—that is, 15 bushels, compared to the 1954 unfertilized field's 10 bushels.

Hybrid Lambs Hold Promise for Sheepmen

Hybrid lambs that far outclass the finest strains of purebreds in meat and wool production and reduced death rate hold promise for the nation's sheep industry, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

At the USDA Agricultural Research Center, Beltsville, Md., two-way and three-way crosses of purebred Hampshires, Shropshires, Southdowns, and Merinos have outperformed parent stock in practically every factor important to sheep producers.

Beltsville researchers are convinced that the striking results achieved through crossbreeding make the production of hybrid lambs on a commercial scale a practical future prospect.

In seven years of testing two-breed crosses, the lambs produced have shown pronounced superiority in reduced mortality and in greater meat and wool production over purebred lambs from the same basic stock.

Three-way crossing, introducing Merino blood into the crossbreds to emphasize production of high-quality wool, was begun in 1951. The three-way cross lambs show even greater general superiority, but Beltsville scientists feel that four years of breeding and testing are insufficient to give a true picture.

Dinner is Served

Since the mother of these Holstein calves only had a "table-for-four," dairyman Alfred Gaser of Valley City, Ohio, rigged up a set of nipple nursing pails. The result: no more arguments over who gets the calf's first. The chances of quintuplets in the bovine world are estimated at only once in 14,500,000 births.
