No Nitrogen for First Year Berries

Strawberries fruiting for the first year will produce higher quality berries if they aren't fertilized with nitrogen this spring. This is a recommendation that Don Kebler, Tuscola County's assistant agricultural agent, passes along from Harry Bell, extension small fruits specialist at Michigan State University.

These first-year plants usually have enough vigor to carry them through the season so that any nitrogen applied is actually an excess. Berries tend to become soft if too much nitrogen is available.

On the other hand, second-year beds that may be low vigor can make good use of a soluble nitrogen application. Bell recommends one or two applications through the sprinkler irrigation system at the rate of 10 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre.

ORDER FOR PUBLICATION—Notice of Hearing—Probate of Will—Determination of Heirs.

State of Michigan, The Probate Court for the County of Tuscola. In the Matter of the Estate of Florence B. LoPresti, aka Florence F. LoPresti, deceased.

At a session of said Court, held on May 14th, 1956.

Present, Honorable Almon C. Pierce, Judge of Probate.

Notice is hereby given, That the petition of Andrew N. Bigelow praying that the instrument be filed in said Court be admitted to probate as the Last Will and Testament of said deceased, that administration of said estate be granted to Albin J. Stevens or some other suitable person, and that the heirs of said deceased be determined, will be heard at the Probate Court on June 7th, 1956, at ten a. m.

It is Ordered, That notice thereof be given by publication of a copy hereof for three weeks consecutively previous to said day of hearing, in the Cass City Chronicle, and that the petitioner cause a copy of this notice to be served upon each known party in interest at his last known address by registered mail, return receipt demanded, at least fourteen (14) days prior to such hearing, or by personal service at least five (5) days prior to such hearing.

Many Insects Have Own Secret Weapon

But Atomic Science Has Their Number

An Agriculture Department report states that atomic science is helping to counteract the "secret weapon" some insects are now using against man and his crops—their ability to develop resistance to poisonous insecticides.

Radioactive tracers are revealing precisely how some insects are able to consume these poisons and change them into relatively harmless chemicals inside their bodies. Better understanding of the insects' biochemical defenses will help entomologists find new and more effective insecticides to use against resistant species.

Dr. H. L. Haller of the USDA's Agricultural Research Service, has described how radiation has been used to make certain insects unknowingly commit suicide; how the paths of insects—even those beneath the soil or under the bark of trees—can be followed with Geiger counters; and how radioactive tracers help reveal the migratory and overwintering habits of insects and aid in making accurate population counts, essential in planning control measures.

Radioactive tracers also make possible more efficient methods of applying insecticides and modes of penetration can be studied. "Tagged" systemic insecticides can be traced as they are absorbed by plant materials, translocated within the tissues, and later transmitted as poisons to insects.

Aureomycin Ups Lambs' Gain Rate

Minnesota Report On Feeding Project

A 13 per cent increase in lambs' rate of gain from a ration containing 40 milligrams of aureomycin per day was reported at the University of Minnesota's West Central School and Experiment Station.

However, R. M. Jordan, University sheep specialist, and H. G. Croom, school principal, warned that much favorable rate of gain increase probably will not occur in every lamb feeding project.

They say that response to antibiotic feeding will vary with the individual feedlot and the various sets of lambs fed—management, feeding and lamb health all enter in. The 13 per cent response came when lambs received 40 milligrams of aureomycin per day throughout their feeding period. This group's gains were also the cheapest of the aureomycin-fed lots.

In other tests, the specialists fed aureomycin the first 28 days of the feeding period and report that the lambs ate more hay and showed a slightly faster rate of gain.

Aureomycin and stilbestrol combined gave no greater effect than either used separately, contrary to findings of other states' experiment stations.

EICHER'S CLEANERS
 Phone 533 Cass City

By H. M. Bulen

Have you ever seen a car sitting on a lot, or maybe parked in a neighbor's driveway, that you immediately took a shine to?

If you tried it out and found the engine, body and upholstery as good as the outside gleam, you were sold, that was the car for you.

It was the sound mechanical shape that convinced you, but it was its good grooming that first attracted you. When a car shines at you, you just naturally take a shine back at it.

That's why a car that's been regularly polished like a corporal's buttons commands such a better price when you come to trade it in. Nothing else will keep the dollars in your old bus secure like shining paint and chrome.

It's important, too, to keep the engine clean, and it shouldn't be overlooked when you're on a Sunday washup spree. Dirt and grease make a wonderful insulator around the engine and can make it run too hot.

There are several good products on the market for cutting off the grease and the job isn't nearly as hard as it used to be.

The whole job of washing, polishing and waxing has been made simpler by a host of new products. The very number of them on the market can be pretty confusing; if you're in doubt, ask our opinion the next time you're around.

One of the old standbys that's still as good today as yesterday, though, is corn starch, a sure thing to use as a rubbing compound on dull spots in the wax.

So, a little bit of the old, and a little bit of the new, is the best way to keep that diamond shine. And don't forget that the biggest seller we have, next to the Free Air, is the Free Advice.

USED PICKUPS WANTED. Every day we have people asking for used pickups. If you have one now and thought of a new one, NOW IS THE TIME. We have NO used pickups, only three used trucks. We're in a position where we can give you a good price. Come in, let us show you why there are over half a million more Chevrolet Trucks on the road today, listen to our proposition. You can always say NO.

Remember our Sales Office is open every night except Thursday till 9:00. You're always WELCOME.

BETTER PENETRATION IN ALL SOILS

The new MM Disc Harrows have an exceptional combination of light weight and strength . . . light enough so you can work in soft ground without too much reduction in angle and sacrifice of quality work; strong enough so you can add as much weight as needed to give you good penetration in hard soils. The new MM deep pan weight boxes enable you to use soil from the field you are working in for needed weight.

The harrow is designed so that all discs penetrate at a uniform depth and follow the contour of the ground. Disc bearings never require lubrication, and the disc gang assembly is designed to protect the bearings against wear and to assure long-life trouble-free performance.

Let us tell you all about these outstanding new harrows.

Tighten Standards For Clean Grain

Beginning July 1, 1956, the Pure Food and Drug Administration will put into effect new clean grain standards. The basis for legal action against filthy contaminated wheat will be lowered to the following levels, remarks assistant county agricultural agent Don Kebler. One or more rodent pellets per pint (liquid measure) of wheat or 1% or more of apparent or actual insect damaged kernels. Any wheat having more contamination than this will be confiscated from elevators. Much more will be turned away or discounted.

The principal causes of contaminated grain in Michigan in order of importance are: animals (rodents, birds, cats, etc.), insects, and chemical residues. "Pink wheat" cannot be sold for animal or human consumption, as the mercury compounds are poisonous.

Nine out of ten contamination cases can be traced to contamination which took place on the farm. Small producers contribute heavily to the problem.

So Assistant Agent Kebler urges all handlers of grain to follow good housekeeping practices, and to visit the county agricultural agent's office for material on keeping grain clean.

Many a woman has trouble getting a husband and then finds she is chained to the missing link.

A little learning may be dangerous, but not half so dangerous as thinking you know too much.

Spray Small Grain For Annual Weeds

Farmers can spray small grain for annual weeds even though there is a seedling of alfalfa or red clover with the grain, points out Alfred Ballweg, county agricultural agent.

And it doesn't take much chemical to do the job. A quarter pound acid equivalent of 2,4-D will control mustard and the cost is as little as 25 cents per acre for the chemical.

Where the nurse crop is oats, MCP amine could be used instead at the same rate. Timing of the spray is important, though, insists Boyd Churchill, farm crops specialist at Michigan State University.

There's less injury to the crop when the grain is sprayed when it's fully tilled but before jointing. That's usually when the grain is six to 10 inches high.

To make sure the sprayer is applying the right amount of chemical, advises Churchill, calibrate the machine along the driveway at the barn before using it in the field. The county extension office has details on recommendations for the best tractor speed and pressure for spraying.

Although perennial weeds like Canadian thistle and sow thistle will not be killed with the safe rate of 2, 4-D spray, it will many times prevent normal blooming and seed set of the weeds.

Small, isolated areas of perennial weeds can often be spot sprayed with higher rates even though the treatment will also kill the small grain and legume seedling in that area. A knap-sack sprayer will do the job here, Churchill advises.

The first Prohibition law in the U. S. was invoked in Kansas in 1880.

It's hard to convince a man who is concerned that he is going to get a square deal.

Charity may cover a multitude of sins, but some show through.

Fact is the ability of knowing enough not to know too much.

The plan, designed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is available for either frame or masonry construction. Ask for Plan No. 7011 for frame or No. 7023-N for masonry construction.

Slate Bigger, Better Chesaning Showboat

The 15th annual Chesaning Showboat, a Chamber of Commerce community production in which more than 300 play different parts in the night spectacle, will run seven nights this year instead of the six nights that have been the rule the last few years.

So great has been the demand for tickets that this year another night is added.

General chairman Vern Reghi and his helpers are backgrounding the many different features that go to make up the finished production which over the years has been sensationally successful, in fact, an outstanding event in eastern Michigan in early mid-summer.

A New $15,000 Stage
This year, at a cost of $15,000, a new all-steel dock stage where the 80-foot showboat, a replica of the long-ago Mississippi crafts, docks at dusk each night, after a half mile trip at speed of four miles an hour (propelled by outboard motors); then follows a mixed professional and 100 chorused show that runs two hours.

In Showboat park, leased by the village to the spectacle for two weeks each year, parking space is free and with a big crew of parkers, thousands of cars can be parked in orderly rows a few hundred feet from the big Showboat stadium itself.

Nothing succeeds like the politician who is his own successor.

Eliminate First Corn Cultivation By Using Spray

Tuscola County farmers can eliminate the first cultivation in the corn crop if they apply the ester form of 2,4-D just before the corn emerges.

That's a tip from county agricultural agent Alfred Ballweg. He says that weeds will be controlled for several weeks and the corn shouldn't be cultivated before the weeds start coming up.

The rate is one pound of the acid equivalent material per acre. The pre-emergence spray with 2,4-D should not be used on sandy soils, however, cautions Milton H. Erdman, extension farm crops specialist at Michigan State University.

The amine form of 2,4-D at a half pound per acre or the ester form at one-fourth pound per acre after the corn has emerged is recommended for sandy soil corn. The spray is applied when the corn is 5 to 15 inches tall. If you use drop nozzles so the spray is directed at the base of the plants, a 2, 4-D spray can be put on at the time of the last cultivation, or "lay-by" time.

Erdman points out that spraying with 2, 4-D in corn will control annual broad-leaved weeds such as pigweed, ragweed, lambsquarter and wild mustard. But the pre-emergence treatment with one pound of 2, 4-D ester will also give some control of annual grass weeds, such as the foxtails.

The man who pays as he goes has nothing but contempt for the fellow who is traveling on a pass.

Many people laugh at the mistakes of others when they should be trying to profit by their own.

Last Rites Held for Angus McLachlan, 91

Funeral services for Angus McLachlan, 91, were held Sunday at 2 p. m. in the Douglas Funeral Home. Rev. George Gillett of the Fraser Presbyterian church officiated and burial was in Elkland Cemetery. Mr. McLachlan died Thursday in the home of his son, Archie, in Grant Township following a period of failing health.

Son of the late Archie and Mary McLachlan, he was born Jan. 5, 1865, in Argyleshore, Scotland. In 1896 at Alvington, Ontario, he married Miss Christine Connor. Mrs. McLachlan died April 14, 1948.

Survivors include his son and two grandsons, Archie Angus and Robert Loree McLachlan.

CASS CITY

YOU'RE A MAINLINER!

Whether you live in a tiny village in the northern part of Michigan or on a heavily traveled street in one of our major cities or right out on the farm, you're a mainliner so far as your convenience of living and doing business is concerned.

That's because the highly-developed, fast, flexible trucking industry which serves the concentrated population centers of this great state of ours provides equally thorough and complete service for sparsely-settled, out-of-the-way places.

Yes, trucks provide the only freight transportation which reaches all of Michigan — bringing merchandise and materials to every Wolverine household, farm, and business concern, no matter how far off the beaten path it may be.

Thanks to trucks, you can live or do business anywhere in Michigan you please and still be on the main line!

New Fish Sorter

A Conservation Department fisheries worker at the Platte River rearing station near Beulah helps fish along the runways of a new Department-developed fish sorter that will save thousands of dollars in coming years.

The sorter allows trout to slide down a series of tubes and fall into tubs below. Small trout fall through narrow openings, larger trout through larger openings.

ERLA'S NEW MODERN FOOD CENTER OPEN FOR SHOPPING

FREE PARKING, SHOPPING CONVENIENCES FEATURES OF ENLARGED BUILDING

Low Price Policy Continues At Erla's

The opening of the new Erla Food Center Friday brings to Cass City a modern, complete shopping center designed with the customer in mind.

Formerly the Cass Food Locker and Super Market, the business will continue to feature the low prices that made the expansion possible.

Dick Erla, one of the owners of the store, said this week that lockers are still available for rent in the new store and that the wholesale meat business will still be carried on.

Because the concern is a large buyer for wholesale delivery, meat shoppers in the Cass City area can purchase meat at the lowest prices in the Thumb, Mr. Erla pointed out.

His large purchases and own slaughterhouse cuts out the profit of the middleman. Folks in the area can ALWAYS buy Erla's meats and be sure that they are good. Each pound of meat that is sold is health inspected by Dr. Harry Crandell, Cass City veterinarian.

To celebrate the opening of Cass City's "largest, most modern market" the management is giving a host of free prizes without obligation to visitors in the store Friday and Saturday. Included will be 25 baskets of groceries, 10 door prize gifts for the ladies, cartons of Coke, candy and balloons for kiddies and samples of lunch meat. For complete details see the next two pages.

To help serve you more efficiently, the store has 18 employees. Each is trained to give satisfactory, helpful assistance to shoppers in the store.

NOW COMPLETED—This is the way the beautiful new Erla Food Center looks after contractors this week added the finishing touches to the new building. In front is visible part of the ample free parking space available to Thumb shoppers when they visit the store during the Grand Opening, Friday and Saturday.

New Fixtures Aid In Easier Shopping

Greatly enlarged space, new fixtures, new equipment and more shopping conveniences are features of the new Erla Food Center (formerly Cass Food Locker and Super Market) that opens this week.

Because of the great demand for Erla's health inspected meats, a total of 22 feet of new meat counters have been added in the store. The cases will allow shoppers a much wider selection of choice cut meats when they shop at the Food Center.

The building, now 100 by 110 feet, has a store floor space of 60 by 60 feet. Besides the addition and the new front, the store now has easy entrance and exit doors that eliminates crowding and waiting.

Because shoppers now like to select groceries for themselves, the store features five new self-serve cases.

Included is a new self-serve produce case, a new self-serve beverage case, new self-serve ice cream case, new freezer case and a 12-foot self-serve dairy case. Two new speedy check out counters have been installed so that customers can quickly check out when they finish shopping.

Changed also have been the aisle counters so that all groceries are readily visible and within easy reach of everyone. The entire interior of the store has been painted in pleasing harmonizing colors to make shopping more pleasurable for Cass City area residents.

Standing behind one of the two new check process area shoppers from the store. The new out counters are Mrs. Marion Longuski, left, check outs are designed for faster, more efficient service. and Doris Jean Erla, two of the girls that help

Erla's Make Own Sausage For Quality and Taste

The Erla Food Center was the first store in the Thumb area to employ a full-time sausage maker. Since Mr. Alfred J. Ambrose came to Cass City to work, the store has gained a Thumb-wide reputation for distinctive, tasty sausage and lunch meat. Samples of Erla's own Home Made lunch meat will be given during the grand opening celebration of the new store Friday and Saturday.

The Food Center features a complete line of all kinds of lunch meat prepared in their spotlessly clean sausage room.

Besides liking the taste, Thumb shoppers also applaud the low, low prices that these quality items are sold for every week at the Food Center.

Michigan Mirror News In Brief

Michigan's 1956 Legislature has passed into history and its members are preparing for roles in the fall campaigns of both parties.

The session's adjournment schedule was stretched an extra day when House-Senate deadlocks over budget bills were unresolved after numerous conferences.

When it was all over the state had a record $329,200,000 budget for 1956-57.

Two major budget bills were held back until the last hectic hours by a behind-the-scenes battle over a proposed pension for legislators. They would qualify after four years of service.

Legislators already have the option of joining the state employee's retirement system and have voted themselves Social Security membership.

The House approved the pension bill, but it was stalled in the Senate Appropriations Committee until the end. When it became certain the proposal would die in the Senate, the deadlock ended and the budget was finally approved.

Legislators, their work finished for another year, returned home and prepared for their re-election campaigns.

Radio cars of the State Department of Conservation are now formally a part of the state's civil defense warning system against tornadoes.

Gov. Williams made the suggestion when communications became a major factor in rescue and relief work in the Grand Rapids and Flint tornado disasters.

Without waiting for formal invitations, the department sent its radio cars into the field during the recent tornado alerts, relaying messages between other emergency equipment.

The legislature also gave Gov. Williams the power to mobilize civil defense forces in the event of a natural disaster, such as a tornado. In other emergencies, civil defense workers worked side by side with police despite their lack of official status.

The State Supreme Court has formally ruled unconstitutional the Trucks Communist Control Act of 1952.

The court took its precedent from a decision of the United States Supreme Court in Pennsylvania case which said that only Congress can make laws controlling Communists.

The Michigan law had never been enforced because it has been tied up in legal tests since it was enacted.

At one point, Circuit Judge George B. Murphy, of Detroit ruled it was constitutional. It was his opinion that was upset by the Michigan Supreme Court decision.

The court ruled that the unconstitutional parts of the law were those requiring registration of communists and front organizations with the State Police.

Others were clauses defining a communist, the Communist Party, a front organization, creating a list of "subversive organizations" to be drawn up by the state attorney general.

Powers for the State Conservation commission to control the size of Michigan's deer herd have been restored by the legislature after two years of controversy.

"We won't abuse the authority, and local sentiment will be our guide," said Conservation Director Gerald E. Eddy.

The commission had the powers for three years but controversy arose after it declared a one-day "any-deer" season to cut down the size of the deer herd.

Reasons for the special season, scientists said, was to prevent an overpopulation of deer from starving in woodlots where food was in short supply during the winter.

Farmers complained that deer, starved for food, were raiding their crops.

Sportsmen's groups reacted against the "any-deer" season and brought the issue to a head in the legislature. After two years, the legislature restored the powers on a qualified basis.

The commission will be empowered to control the deer herd, but its regulations will be subject to review by the legislative rules committee.

There is still a question about the committee's powers to throw out a regulation. A test two years ago brought a ruling that the committee could review and recommend but not veto a regulation.

"This means that we now have discretionary powers for the conservation commission, that's all," said Senator Leo H. Roy (R-Hancock).

In the same battle, a plan to open the deer hunting season on the Saturday nearest Nov. 15 was beaten. The season will open on Nov. 15, on whichever day of the week it happens to fall.
