Hawks Turn Breaks Into Victory Friday

A pair of fumbles may have decided the championship of the Thumh "B" Conference.

Friday evening, Cass City chalked up a 14-7 victory at Yale to take undisputed possession of first place in the conference.

It was a pair of second half fumbles that decided the game. The first halted a Yale drive in the shadow of Cass City's goal and the second started the Hawks on their payoff drive for the winning margin.

Yale made its bid for victory in the third period. The Bulldogs had been stopped for three downs and dropped into kick formation to get off a wobbly boot to the Cass City 35-yard line.

The punt was touched by Vern Peck and Yale recovered.

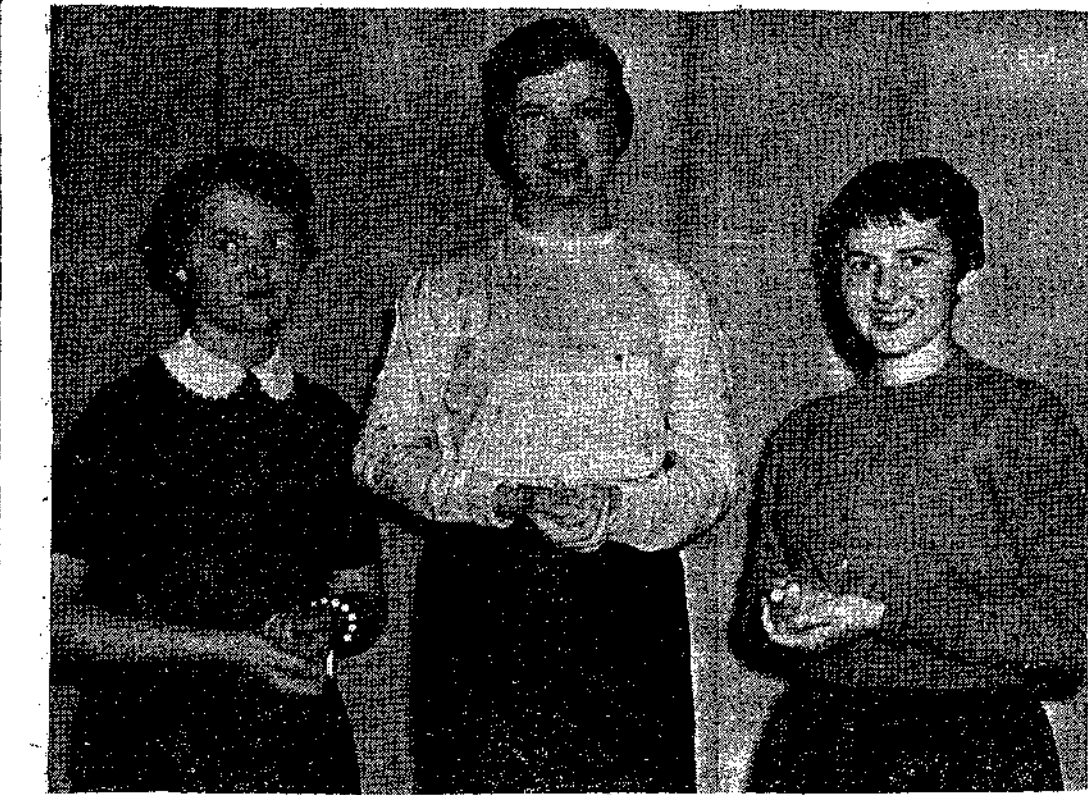

Yale moved for two first downs in a row for a first and goal to go on the Cass City eight. Two plays gained four yards and it was third and four yards for the touchdown.

On the next play the Bulldogs fumbled and Cass City recovered on their own 12.

After racking up a pair of first downs, Jim Johnson dropped back and kicked the best boot of the season. The ball went out of bounds on the Yale 12. The line of scrimmage was Cass City's 30.

Yale moved to the 25-yard line where an attempted pass resulted in a fumble. Cass City recovered on the 17.

Forrest Walpole pounded for five yards and then scooted 10

MICHIGAN MIRROR NEWS BRIEFS

The proposed expenditure of $15 million when $500,000 could fill a need as well will receive staunch objections from residents in the Whitmore Lake area, 10 miles north of Ann Arbor.

Their specific concern: Boys Vocational School, an institution caring for boys with criminal records.

Their issue: BVS should not be moved from its present Lansing location to Whitmore Lake.

Whitmore residents are organizing opposition. A meeting of persons who object to plans to relocate BVS less than a mile from this established resort center will be held Oct. 23. Also attending will be W. J. Maxey, director of the Michigan Department of Social Welfare, whose office is responsible for BVS, and James Miller, state controller, who will explain the position of the state administrative board.

Most Whitmore Lake residents do not want the school in their vicinity. However, Maxey says the school must be moved somewhere, that the proposed site is ideal.

BVS history is long, and suggests that legislatures through the years failed to deal decisively with the institution.

The school is 101 years old. It now houses some 375 boys. Originally, BVS occupied 1,000 acres of land and buildings on the outskirts of Lansing. As Lansing grew and the area developed, newcomers objected to the school. Gradually, parcels of the original plot were given away or sold. Recent transactions reduced land holdings to the present 90 acres. Most of this is undeveloped.

In 1926 the legislature purchased a 1,000 acre plot to the west of Lansing. This was to house the "new" boys school. But the land was diverted to other uses. At present it houses a motor pool, state highway and state health buildings.

For the last three years Maxey has attempted to get a $500,000 appropriation for a security unit on the present grounds. This was not approved by the legislature. The reasoning was that no more money should be spent on the present site.

Last session, with support from Lansing residents who want the school moved, Maxey was successful in getting an appropriation to buy new land. After the approval, he was further successful in closing a transaction for property near Whitmore Lake. Expected cost of developing the site into a new BVS is $15 million.

Maxey insists that the proposed site is a good one. He lists its advantages as being close to Detroit, home of many of the boys; near U-M psychiatric aid; big enough to permit the development of the most modern institution possible.

Whitmore people object strongly. They hold that every argument advanced by Lansing residents will soon apply to the Whitmore area. They further argue that Lansing people who object to BVS, chose to move into the school's locality. By moving the school into the lake area, residents are deprived of any choice in residing near it. They also point to the field house, swimming pool and other facilities at the present site, which cannot be replaced for years.

Some Whitmore people are anxious to express their strong feelings in hopes that state officials will reconsider submitting the problem to the next legislature. They want either a new and different site for BVS, or the development of the present site as the most economic move.

Although primary concern to areas involved is the location of BVS, all Michigan taxpayers have a deeper financial interest. Perhaps $15 million will be spent to provide an institution that could be equally maintained for less than $1 million if legislatures over recent years had dealt differently with the problem.

"Partners in Progress," a theme aimed at bringing about better understanding between rural and urban dwellers, will keynote the second national observance of Farm-City Week, Nov. 16-22.

Coordinated by Kiwanis International, more than 400 groups representing business, agriculture and service organizations are lending support to the program.

Local observances will be in order throughout Michigan. Kiwanis groups will spearhead the drive with joint meetings of farm and city people for exchange of information, tours of farms by businessmen, demonstrations of farm techniques, school assemblies and other meetings all designed to show people that there is a mutual dependence between the farmer and his city cousin.

"Grass-roots" action, nationally inspired, is the key to success, says midwest chairman John Daneke, Detroit executive with General Motors.

"GM sells 20 per cent of its cars and 60 per cent of its trucks to farmers," Daneke asserts. "We consider rural America a substantial share of our market. At the same time industry provides many of the customers for farm products. We have a common goal in our constant search for progress."

The goals and ideals of Farm-City Week were recently crystallized in a State of the Union message delivered by President Eisenhower. He told the nation: "The well-being of our 160 million people demands a stable and prosperous agriculture. Conversely, every farmer knows that he cannot prosper unless all Americans prosper."

Here! New Task-Force 57 Chevrolet Trucks!

Performance-proved in a history-making test on the ALCAN Highway to Alaska

The Alcan Highway is the road where trucks grow old before their time. The road where gravel endlessly sledgehammers the life out of trucks. Where a fog of superfine dust chokes engines, and vicious ruts subject chassis to months of wear in a few hundred miles.

Six new '57 Chevrolet trucks, representing light-, medium- and heavy-duty models and heavily loaded with cargo, roared north from Dawson Creek, B. C., through 1,520 miles of mountains and mire, rain and hail to Fairbanks, Alaska. Running around the clock, they made this tortuous trip—normally a 72-hour run—in less than 45 hours. The fleet made normal stops along the way, and maintained safe and legal speeds. As a special test during the run, two of the trucks went the entire distance without once having their engines stopped!

It's all down in the AAA record book. And more besides! Never before has a new truck been so thoroughly proved. Come in and see how well these new Alcan champs measure up to your job.

FIRST WITH THE MOST MODERN FEATURES!

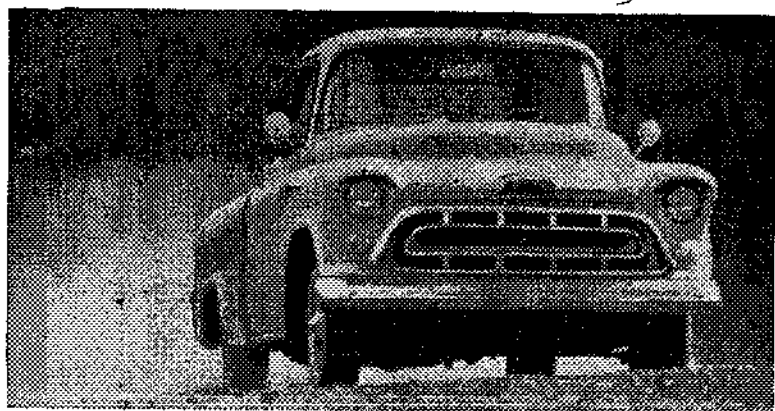

New 283-cubic-inch Taskmaster V8 delivers 160 high-torque horsepower. Standard in Series 5000, 7000 and 8000, optional in Series 6000 at extra cost. Horsepower ranges up to 210 in Chevrolet's complete line-up of modern V8 and 6 truck engines.

Revolutionary Powermatic Transmission—exclusive with Chevrolet trucks! This six-speed automatic, designed specifically for heavy-duty hauling, is an extra-cost option in Series 5000 and 6000 and all heavy-duty truck models. Hydra-Matic is offered in 3000 and 4000 Series models at extra cost.

New 1957 work-styling gives Chevrolet trucks an even fresher, fleetier appearance. There are three different and distinctive styling treatments.

L.C.F. models outdate the C.O.E. because they're lower, handsomer, easier to get into and out of, and save time in routine engine maintenance. Yet they offer all the traditional C.O.E. advantages.

Heavyweight Champs with Triple-Torque tandem are rated at 32,000 lbs. GVW, 50,000 lbs. GCW. And Chevrolet's advanced tandem axle unit offers a built-in three-speed power divider—plus a unique "self-steering" action that reduces tire wear and increases handling ease.

Alcan fleet gets up to 18.17 miles per gallon! That's the mileage reported by the Cameo Carrier, with Thrifmaster 6 and extra-cost Overdrive.

All the way in DRIVE range! This Powermatic-equipped 10000 Series tractor traveled the entire Alcan Highway in a single forward-speed range!

Start Polio Shots Now for Safety

The Sanilac County Health Department said this week that to be protected next summer against polio, Salk shots should be started now.

The success of the immunization program depends on the number of persons who are protected. The department pointed out that at least two shots of vaccine are necessary, but the three shots give better and longer lasting protection.

A total of 3,418 first injections, 2,922 second injections and 536 third injections have been given by county physicians, the health department said.

SHORT STORY

Woman Driver

By Dana G. Jennings

SEBASTIAN (The Gentleman) Slyfield opened the side door with his pass key. Tip-toeing, he led Slinky down the pitch-black hall to a door to the factory parking lot. Cautiously he pushed it open and they scanned the dimly-lit lot. No one was in sight except the guard drowsing in his little stall at the gate, a single bulb throwing a weak glow over the entrance.

"That is Mrs. Humphrey's sedan," The Gent pointed out, "the azure one."

"Ya mean th' blue one?" Slinky whispered.

"Yes. You disconnect an ignition wire to render it inoperable. Then hasten to await me under her office window. When I obtain the funds I will immediately drop the bag to you."

"Yeah, yeah, sure," Slinky answered impatiently. "Then I come back, an' jump th' ignition while she's went for a push."

"That is correct."

"Be vigilant," The Gent hissed. "This operation must proceed on Opening the desk was more trouble than he figured, but there was the money.

timing that is perfection personified. It is essential that we drive through the gate while the lady has gone to summon help, before she perceives the missing moneys and instigates a commotion."

"You think you wearin' that 'hat o' hers is gunna fool the guard?"

"I am positive. The light is wholly inadequate at the gate, and I have observed that every night she simply waves to him as she speeds through."

Slinky slipped out to the car while The Gentleman lugged his bag up the stairs. He hid in a dark ell until he heard his former employer lock her office and clip-clop down the stairs, timing perfect thus far.

His pass key wouldn't work in her office door so he had to use the jimmy bar in his bag. She must have changed the lock after she discharged him.

Opening the desk was more trouble than he'd figured on, too, but when he got it open there was the money, good as gold, in the pay envelopes. He noted, happily, that their thickness indicated considerable overtime this week. He never could understand what she had against safes, but he was careful never to say anything to change her mind during the month he worked for her.

Out of his bag he took the old top-brim hat stolen from her, and a thirty-foot rope. He scooped all the pay envelopes into the bag, jammed the hat on his head, and sprinted for the window. It was sealed shut with new paint so it took him a while to pry it open.

When he got to the car, Slinky was just finishing with the ignition jumper. "Good thing you wuz slow," Slinky said. "I hadda wait fer her ta give up an' leave."

"In what direction did she depart?"

"Back into th' buildin'."

"Oh, my goodness. That indicates she has returned to her office to telephone. We must move with haste."

Slinky scrambled over the back of the seat and hunkered down on the car floor. The Gentleman adjusted Mrs. Humphrey's old hat on his head and pressed the starter button. The starter growled and paused, groaned and died.

"Dear me," he sighed.

"Try 'er agin'!" Slinky croaked from the rear.

He tried it again. The starter struggled through one compression stroke and quit for keeps.

High-heeled shoes came clattering down the hall inside and a woman's voice shrieked, "Help! Guards! I've been robbed!"

The drowsy gate guard snapped to his feet. Floodlights burst on and an alarm clanged. The yard gate rolled shut and guards swarmed, it seemed, from everywhere, pistols drawn.

As cold steel snapped on their wrists, The Gentleman cursed his luck, the guards in general and Mrs. Humphrey in particular.

4-H Crop Show Slated Nov. 10

The annual 4-H Fall Achievement program will be combined with a 4-H Crops Show on Saturday, November 10, at Reese, according to the information received from the County 4-H club agent's office.

The Fall Achievement program highlights the summer project season, when medals are awarded to outstanding boys and girls for their performance in their project work.

The crops show will consist of bean, wheat, corn, oat and barley exhibits with the two champion exhibitors winning an all-expense-paid trip to Chicago during National 4-H Club Congress the week of November 25. The Wallace and Morley Company, with its main offices in Bay Port, is sponsoring the Crops Show this fall.

Emphasis will be placed upon the "Market Grade" of grains rather than "hand-picking" the samples, relates Bill Muller, county 4-H club agent, with the main objective of exhibiting grains more in line with the market quality produced by the 4-H club members. It is anticipated to have close to 200 small grain exhibits at this crops show with the largest entries in corn and beans.

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

Five Years Ago

The Elkland Township fire department battled a strawstack fire at the home of M. Rockwell, eight miles east and two south of Cass City for five hours Monday before subduing the blaze that threatened the barn at the farm. Property damage was not extensive because of the wind blowing away from nearby buildings.

Joan Green, a junior student at Cass City High School, was elected to reign as home-coming queen at the football game to be played against Caro Nov. 2. Her court will be composed of Bonnie Benkelman and Gail Lester.

Father John Bozek announced this week that there will be changes in the pastors and the hour of services at Catholic churches in the area. Rev. S. Haremski will take over as pastor of St. Michael's Church, Wilmet, and Father Bozek will be in charge of the St. Pancratius Church alone.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seekings celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home Sunday afternoon with 150 relatives and friends.

Over $5,000 will be needed this year from the Elkland Community Chest drive. Because of an addition in the number of charities and the increase in their services, the quota has been raised 10 per cent.

Ten Years Ago

Floyd Reid was elected master of the Cass City Grange at the annual election held Friday evening at the Bird schoolhouse.

A fire, believed to have been caused by hunters, ruined many of the maple sugar trees at the Earl Rayl Sr. home this week. All the arch wood and sugar shanty, as well as four cords of wood, were consumed by the fire.

The Detroit Edison Co. has filed with the Michigan Public Service Commission a formal request for permission to reduce charges to all classes of electrical customers.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Reader, experienced hotel people from Gladwin, have purchased the hotel at Gagetown.

Twenty-five Years Ago

Nearly 200 persons attended the October banquet of the Cass City Community Club at the high school Thursday evening, when the club was host to 60 boys and girls of the local livestock club. Also present were several prominent livestock breeders of the Thumb area and 11 members of the Tuscola County board of supervisors.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Colwell, who live one and a half miles west of Cass City, observed their golden wedding Sunday, Oct. 18, with a family dinner at noon and an open house from three to five o'clock.

Mrs. William Bently suffered a fracture at the base of the skull when she fell from an automobile Thursday morning. She was unconscious 21 hours. While her condition is still serious, she is reportedly improving.

A caravan of 38 six-cylinder Chevrolet trucks, many of them equipped with special and unusual bodies, paraded through Cass City Saturday. The caravan is traveling over the entire Flint zone to exhibit the wide range of possibilities in this line of trucks and commercial cars to the public.

Thirty-five Years Ago

Mrs. C. W. Heller, a member of the local Rebekah lodge, was honored at Lansing Wednesday in receiving the militant degree, which is bestowed upon members for meritorious effort in the fraternal and benevolent field of Odd Fellowship or for unusual public service.

Thomas Jackson, resident of Elmwood Township for 40 years, died at his home Sunday at the age of 63. Mr. Jackson suffered a stroke two weeks before his death.

An interesting program has been planned for the 51st annual convention of the seventh district WCTU, to be held Thursday and Friday at the Cass City ME Church. Chairmen in charge of the convention are Mrs. J. J. Gallagher, Mrs. A. J. Knapp and Mrs. A. A. Ricker.

The annual Cass City Merchants' Bargain Week will be held from Saturday, Oct. 29, to Saturday, Nov. 5.

Organize 4-H Crops Leaders

At a recent meeting 4-H crop leaders were organized into a crops committee with Charles Wells of Vassar named as chairman of the group, states Bill Muller, county 4-H club agent.

The purpose of organizing this committee, says Muller, is to put more emphasis on the crops program and its projects here in Tuscola County. Another aspect is to organize the thinking of crops leaders in the many supplementary crops activities such as the sugar beet projects, Farmers' Week, Michigan State University, State Fair, County Fair, State 4-H Show and the Fall 4-H Show, which will be held at Reese on November 10.

Neil Bennett of Caro was named vice-chairman of the committee. Other leaders attending were Mrs. Karpovich and Mrs. Pike of Caro, Fred Taylor of Millington and Winford Groner of Kingston.

What put the magic in the new kind of FORD?

The new Ford Fairlane 500 (118-inch wheelbase). Longer, lower, larger than many medium-priced cars, yet lower in price than most of them!

The roof got lower. And it's designed to let you make the easy entries and graceful exits you've always known.

The body got quieter. It's the strongest body built for a low-priced car. No car in Ford's field has such generous sound-proofing.

The room got bigger. There's head room to spare for a tycoon-type hat. There's real stretch-out leg room, too.

The lines got sweeter. They have the "Touch of Tomorrow." Each graceful contour says, "Let's go!"

The style got smarter. With this new-look Ford you have a car that belongs anywhere! All Fairlane models look like hardtops.

The value got greater... the price is still Ford-low.

Fast-Gain Beef High in Protein

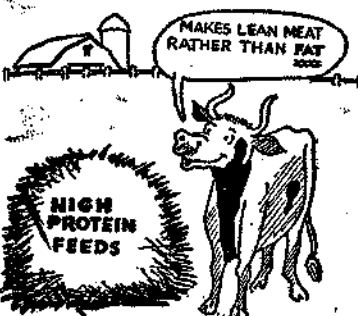

Convert Feed to Lean Meat Rather Than Fat

Fast, economical gains in beef animals appear linked to another desirable trait in livestock—superior ability to convert high-protein feeds to lean meat rather than fat.

Two Oregon State college animal scientists, Ralph Bogart and Hugo Krueger, report a close tie between rapid beef gains and tendencies of some animals to retain high quantities of protein in the body, converting it to meaty tissue.

Slow-gaining test calves tended to build body fat at an earlier age, and urinalysis showed body loss of a high percentage of nitrogen or "unused" protein.

The less efficient animals gave off one-fourth more urea nitrogen than did the fast-gaining group. Bogart and Krueger tested about 50 Hereford and Angus calves that were fed a high protein ration of pelleted chopped alfalfa and concentrates. Animals were put on the test at 500 pounds body-weight and fed to 800 pounds.

Bull calves retained a higher ratio of nitrogen that did heifers. Bogart says further tests will be conducted to see how much feed efficiency of heifers can be improved by feeding or injecting them with various hormones.

Other tests in progress with mice and rabbits indicate that the key role of protein synthesis in animals may stem from high or low activity of the pituitary, thyroid, and adrenal glands that secrete hormones into the bloodstream.

Corn Fertilization Pays Top Dividends

A striking story of success with heavy corn fertilization comes from a University of Minnesota extension soils specialist, Harold E. Jones. The report comes from Ada in the Red River Valley.

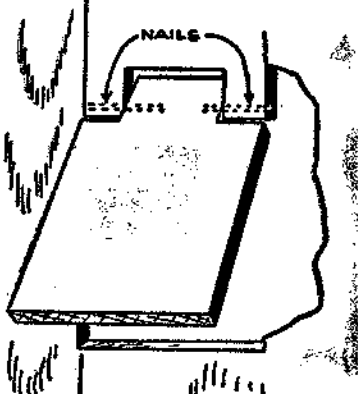

Herman Natwick of near Ada got a 38 bushel increase by increasing his stand to four stalks—that is 15,000 plants per acre—and using 650 pounds of fertilizer per acre.

On a "check" field of corn with a three-stalk stand and no fertilizer, Natwick got 56 bushels of corn per acre. On the fertilized field with the four-stalk stand he got 93 bushels per acre.

Following University soils department recommendations made on the basis of soil tests from his fields, he broadcast 300 pounds of an 8-24-0 fertilizer in the row at planting time and followed this with 200 pounds of 33-0-0, side-dressed at cultivation.

He paid $29.20 for the 650 pounds of fertilizer but on each acre received 38 more bushels of corn, valued at $1.25 per bushel. He thus received an added return of $47.12, $17.22 above fertilizer costs.

Ventilators

You can install low-cost ventilators in your farm buildings. Remove one of the boards and cut out a short section forming a tongue at the top. Drill each edge of the projecting portions for a nail which is driven through the hole and into the tongue of the ventilator to form the hinge. Nail a cleat under lower inside edge to provide a stop and fasten latch on outside to hold ventilator closed.

Handling dangerous diborane, a substance which might propel rockets, Michigan State University chemistry researchers guard against a premature "trip into space." Dr. Ralph K. Birdwhistell measures material for production of diborane inside a nitrogen-filled dry box as Prof. Laurence L. Quill makes mental notes. The diborane explodes with deadly effect if reached by water vapor or oxygen. This week the men revealed details of a new purification method using diffusion through plastic membranes a thousandth of an inch thick. Their discovery may lower cost of pure diborane sufficiently to make its use as rocket fuel economically feasible for the first time.

Hold Annual Tour Of Soil District

Directors of the Tuscola Soil Conservation District held their annual tour of the district Monday, October 15. This tour was carried out to enable the district directors to study some of the soil and water management problems that their farmers have to contend with.

This year the district directors and U. S. Soil Conservation Service personnel spent the entire day inspecting the southern part of the district.

In addition to studying district problems, they also looked over some of the conservation practices that had already been installed, to evaluate their effectiveness.

Some of the stops were: Mike Hill farm, orchard cover crops; Lee Enos farm, erosion in open ditch; Albert Bauer farm, pasture improvement; Lynn Gray farm, strip cropping; Vassar City Dump, pine tree plantation partially destroyed by fire; George Foster farm, farm pond; George Kitchen farm, erosion control structures; August Langerman farm, water management and erosion control; Dean Thompson farm, pine plantation management and Leo Dohm farm, grass waterway. In addition problems of utilization of idle land, management of farm woodlots, proper land use including retreating sandy, steep or badly eroded land to sod crop or trees, and need for improvement of many pasture areas were considered.

Better Land Use Reported by Soil Conservation Dept.

Farmers in Michigan's 75 soil conservation districts last year converted more than 13,100 acres of cropland to grass and trees, according to a summary of conservation accomplishments released today by E. C. Sackrider, State Conservation Service.

Mr. Sackrider stated that this shift, which has taken place as part of the regular soil and water conservation program, totaled approximately 26,000 acres in 1954 and 1955 combined.

"This is a significant measure of the interest that farmers have in shifting their poorer acres to grass and trees—a move that will be given tremendous added stimulus by the Conservation Reserve of the Soil Bank," Sackrider said.

The Conservation Reserve goal in Michigan for 1957 is 485,000 acres, out of a national 1957 goal of 20 million acres of cropland to be converted to grass and trees. SCS data indicates that in the interest of good land use at least 1,000,000 acres of land now in crops need to be placed in permanent grass cover, and 410,800 acres of present cropland should go in trees. Nationally, 47 million acres of land now in crops need to be in permanent grass cover and seven million acres of present cropland should go into trees.

In making land-use shifts called for by conservation plans, farmers in soil conservation districts in fiscal year 1956 planted trees on 18,262 acres. Tree planting in districts, in cooperation with SCS and the Michigan Department of Conservation and Michigan State University, has now reached a total of 185,355 acres, of which about 53,213 acres were planted during the past three years.

About 1,271 miles of windbreaks have been planted to date in districts, of which 191 miles were planted during the last year alone.

Farmers in districts carried out 85,066 acres of pasture planting in the last three years, the summary indicated.

Soil surveys, upon which conservation plans are based, have now been completed on 6,110,800 acres. This work, done by SCS in cooperation with the Michigan Experiment Station and Michigan Department of Conservation, is being stepped up this year to meet the growing needs for basic soil data in the various soil and water programs, Sackrider reported.

In addition to rendering technical assistance to Michigan farmers through cooperation with soil conservation districts, the Agricultural Conservation Program and Farmers Home Administration, the Soil Conservation Service is rendering assistance to land owners and communities in watershed protection and flood prevention projects.

The Tuscola Soil Conservation District now has 594 cooperators covering a total of 64,072 acres of land.

In the Tuscola District 105,313 acres of soil surveys have been completed providing information to assist in the proper use of land for best soil and water management.

To assist in the proper land use in Tuscola, 938 acres of land have been planted to trees.
