Cass City Swamps Yale in Final Pre-Tourney Tilt

Cass City looked ready for the district basketball tournament this week as they swamped Yale in the final regular season game of the year Friday, 93-60.

The Hawks broke open a fairly close game in the second half to win by a lopsided margin.

In the initial two quarters, Coach Irv Clasenman experimented with a zone press that was not too effective. With balanced scoring and good passing, the club took a two-point lead, 17-15, at the end of the first quarter and stretched it to six points at the half, 39-33.

In the third period Cass City racked up 27 points while Yale netted 18 and the only question that remained was how high the final score was going to be.

In the final period Yale failed to register a field goal, converting nine of 10 charity tosses for all of their points.

Coach Clasenman used his reserves through much of the final period, but the team still racked up 27 points. The Bulldogs lost two of their star players in the final period when W. Groat and Sid Bradley left the game via the foul route.

It would be hard to single out an outstanding player in the victory. Four boys were in double figures. John Meininger led the scoring parade with 27 points. Jim Johnson hit for 17 and Bob Martus added 16. Fred Leeson, improving with every game, came off the bench and added 13 points to the club's total. Johnson continued his phenomenal free throw shooting with seven for seven.

After a ragged first quarter, Cass City settled down and exhibited the passing that has marked their play in recent games. In the last half most of their shots were taken from close-in and helped the club register a shooting percentage of about 40 per cent.

Reserves Win
The Cass City second team closed a winning season with an easy 58-25 victory over the Yale seconds. The Hawks were in command all the way and Coach Mike Yedinak used his reserve strength in the one-sided win.

Hospital Men Expected in Village Today

Administrators of the Hill-Burton hospital funds from Lansing were scheduled to be in the village Friday to inspect available hospital sites in the village and make recommendations to the hospital board.

The Hill-Burton Act established funds for use in erecting hospitals in needed areas. The administrators can authorize up to 55 per cent of hospital construction costs to be paid from the Federal funds.

Cass City has been named a number one "disaster area" for hospital facilities and as such has been authorized funds equivalent to 50 per cent of the cost of the structure here.

Several other matters pertaining to preliminary hospital plans will also be discussed with the administrators Friday.

Original Song Adopted by School

At a recent home basketball game, a new school song was sung for the first time in public by members of the student body of Cass City School.

The song, "Alma Mater, Hear Us Now," was adopted by the students by a majority vote and was taught to the student body at a pep meeting with the assistance of the Men's Glee Club.

Song sheets with the words of the song were distributed to the pupils.

The lyrics and music for the song were written by Roger Parrish, music instructor at the school. The song will be in addition to the traditional fight song used by the school.

Cass City is one of the few high schools using an original melody for its school song.

Atwell Speaks At Rotary Club

Stuart Atwell discussed the growing importance of skiing to members of the Cass City Rotary Club Tuesday noon at the New Gordon Hotel.

Mr. Atwell filled in for the program chairman, Earl Douglas, and told how he bought skis at a bargain price shortly after the war and started learning the sport.

Currently serving as an instructor at Grayling, he explained the basic maneuvers he teaches to classes each week end.

Recreational skiing is not dangerous if novices are taught correct procedures and do not overestimate their abilities, he said.

Mr. Atwell also told about many professional skiers and described some of the famous slopes and jumps and the difficulties contest skiers run into.

Edwin Fulcher died Thursday, Feb. 28, at St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw from injuries believed to have been received in an accident Nov. 21.

Mr. Fulcher was working at the Michigan Sugar Co. plant in Caro when he was crushed between two freight cars in the plant's yard.

A lifelong resident of the Cass City area, he was born in Greenleaf Township, Dec. 2, 1904, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Giles Fulcher.

He married Miss Martha Freshney in Evergreen Township, May 1, 1929, where they made their home following their marriage. Mrs. Fulcher died Feb. 8, 1952.

Mr. Fulcher married Mrs. Jane Hillock of Port Huron, Mar. 26, 1954, in Angola, Ind.

Mr. Fulcher attended the Shabbona Methodist Church.

Funeral services were held at the Shabbona Methodist Church Sunday afternoon. Rev. George Marshall officiated. Arrangements were in charge of Little's Funeral Home.

Burial was in Elkland Cemetery.

Former Resident Retires After Active Career

A former resident of Cass City, Norman A. Gillies, is retiring after an active career in Crosswell as a businessman and civic worker.

Mr. Gillies announced his retirement, effective Feb. 1, after a varied career in the Sanilac community which dates back to 1935 when he moved from Cass City to Crosswell.

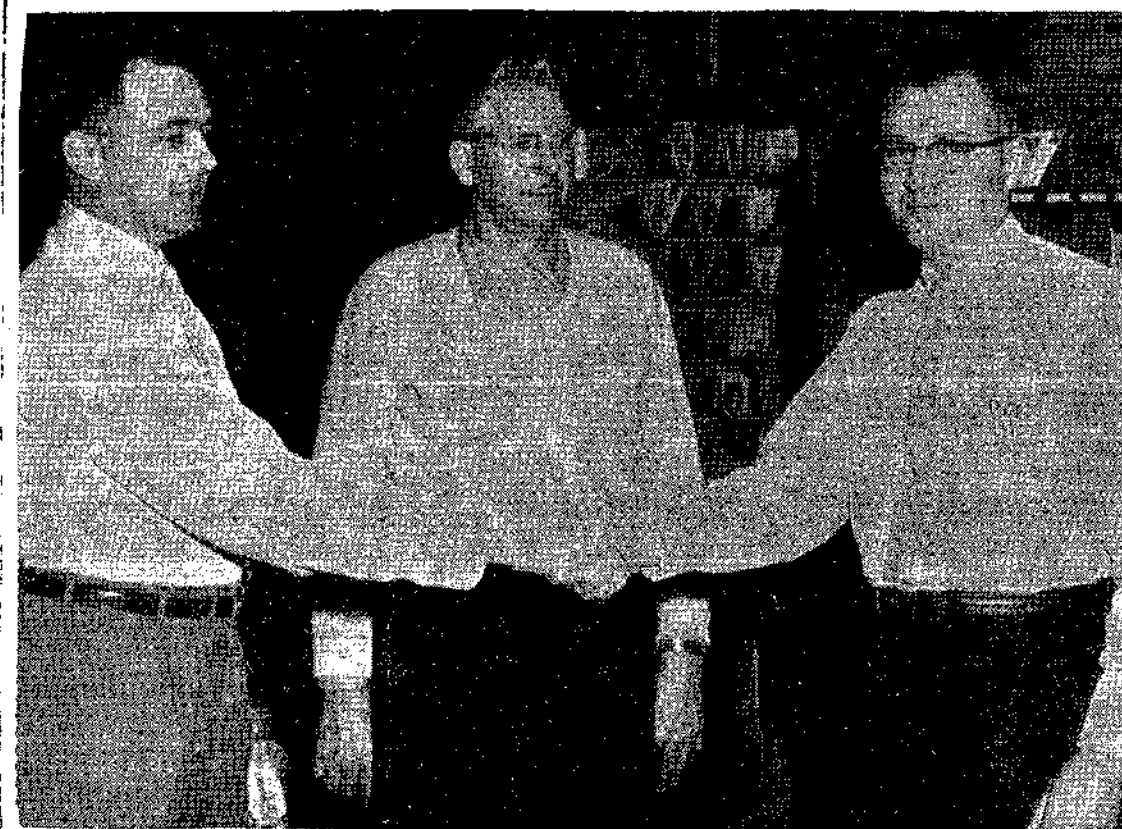

When Mr. and Mrs. Gillies and their son, Robert, moved to Crosswell they started a retail ice, cream and butter business. While in the business, Mr. Gillies also worked on the city electric lines.

For the past 17 years he has served as superintendent of the Crosswell cemetery. When he became superintendent there was $16,600 in a fund for perpetual care of graves and grounds. Since that time it has grown to $57,477, of which $22,000 was invested in the construction of the Crosswell post office building. Rent from the building and other investments form a fund earmarked for maintenance.

While in Crosswell, Mr. Gillies was active in local, county and Blue Water area Boy Scout work and is now institutional representative for the Crosswell Rotary Club on the Blue Water Council.

He has been secretary of the Port Huron - Child Guidance Clinic for the last four years and has been Crosswell's representative on the Sanilac County Board of Supervisors since 1948.

Mrs. Gillies has assisted in the Crosswell library for 20 years, following seven years in the Cass City and Elkland Township libraries, before they moved to Crosswell.

Bad Axe Hospital Purchases New Standby Generator

Trustees of Hubbard Memorial Hospital in Bad Axe have authorized the purchase of a 50,000-watt standby generator at a cost of some $8,000 this week.

Funds for the modernization came from a grant of $27,700 from the Ford Foundation. The new generator will furnish current supply when the regular current supply is interrupted and will enable the hospital to operate during a blackout.

Within seven seconds of a power failure the unit starts to operate automatically. When normal power is restored, the generator cuts out automatically.

The unit will supply service to the operating room, sterilizers, oxygen tents, X-ray machines, elevator, lighting and heating.

Other recent purchases at the hospital include a portable X-ray machine, two resuscitators and another oxygen tent to add to the four now in service.

A refrigerator and deep freeze have been bought for the commissary.

Hawks Win First Tourney Game

Cass City moved into the finals of the district tournament at Cass City High School gym Wednesday night by defeating Bad Axe, 66-50, in the opening class "B" game.

The Hawks will play the winner of the Caro-Vassar game for the championship Saturday at 8 p. m.

Although the Hawks won easily they failed to play up to the standard they established in recent games at the end of the season.

Ball handling was ragged and the Hatchets' stuffing defense kept the middle clogged and effectively bottled up Jim Johnson at the pivot post.

With the benefit of accurate free throwing, Cass City took an early lead and was never behind in the ball game. In a slow-moving first period, Cass City went in front 15-8.

The Hawks stretched their lead to 10 points at the half with a 16-13 point advantage. The teams played on even terms in the third period, each quintet registering 16 points.

In the early moments of the final period, the Hawks sailed the game away. With the reserves playing the final half of the quarter, they racked up 19 points for their top scoring effort of the night. Bad Axe counted 13 and the Hawks had their opening night victory, 66-50.

The club was guilty of numerous passing faults, errors not seen in recent games.

Bob Martus led Hawk scorers with 23 points. John Meininger collected 15 and Dick Hanby, 10. Fred Leeson counted nine, playing about half the time.

Bad Axe counted on only about 27 per cent of its shots while Cass City converted about 83 per cent. Both teams missed numerous good shots all through the game.

Sanilac Holstein Group to Meet

The annual meeting of the Sanilac County Holstein Friesian Association will be held at the courthouse in Sandusky at 8:30 p. m. Monday, Mar. 11.

Russell Miller, national fieldman serving Michigan and Indiana and a director from the state association, will discuss national and state activities.

Three county directors will be replaced and the election will be a part of the business meeting.

The board of directors of the county association has announced that the annual Sanilac County Holstein Banquet and Sale has been scheduled for April 11 and 13, respectively.

From the Editor's Corner

Farmers who like to go to auctions will have a field day Saturday, Mar. 16. This week's Chronicle lists four different auctions on that date and another bill is scheduled for next week advertising a fifth sale on that date.

With the numerous auctions on Mar. 16, the Chronicle lists more auction sales this week than it has had in at least the last six years.

A total of seven farm sales is listed.

One of the smallest crowds in recent years for a tournament game involving Cass City was recorded Wednesday night. At the start of the game there were still plenty of vacant seats available.

The midweek date and the lackluster record of Bad Axe were probably the principal causes of the relatively poor spectator interest.

Cass City was fairly well represented but only a few fans made the trip here from Bad Axe.

Quarter Million Trees for County

Plan Giant Planting Program in Spring

The Tuscola Soil Conservation District will assist District co-operators in obtaining nearly a quarter of a million trees this spring. Ted Keinath, chairman of the forestry committee, announced today.

Most of these trees will be planted as a part of a complete soil and water conservation plan on co-operators' farms, Keinath explained. The species to be planted include Red Pine, Austrian Pine, White Pine, Scotch Pine and White Spruce. Plantings will be made for wind erosion control by use of windbreaks, for reforestation and for Christmas tree production.

While the Tuscola District boasts thousands of acres of the most productive land in Michigan, it also includes many acres of land that is best suited to the production of timber. This area consists mainly of sandy soil or steep, badly eroded slopes. This is the type of land that the District directors are particularly interested in seeing planted to trees.

They are also much interested in having windbreaks planted in many parts of the District. Windbreaks, to control soil blowing, are needed not only on sandy soil but also in the heavier soil areas where more and more woodlots are being cut off.

While most of the seedlings have been ordered, the District still has a few Austrian Pine, White Pine and Scotch Pine available, Keinath concluded.

Anyone interested in obtaining planting stock for this spring should contact one of the District directors, or the District office in the courthouse, Caro.

If the nominated slate is elected, Mr. Benkelman's post as trustee will be vacant and will have to be filled by appointment.

Cut Shrinkage with Sugared Water

You can now cut weight loss of market bound hogs by feeding them brown sugar in their drinking water, reports Alfred Ballweg, county agricultural agent.
He points out that three pounds of brown sugar mixed with five gallons of water will do the trick. This sugared water should be given to the hogs 48 hours before they are to be loaded for shipment.

In tests, hogs fed sugar have made 250-mile trip with a lower shrinkage loss per head than hogs getting no sugar.

According to reports, hogs fed sugar will suffer a 2 1/2 per cent shrinkage, while hogs getting no sugar shrink 4 1/2 per cent.

Further, there was evidence of less shrinkage in hams during curing process when those hams came from hogs fed sugar prior to shipment, he said.

Set Annual DHIA Meeting for Mar. 14

Tuscola County dairy herd improvement association members will gather for the annual meeting of the association on Thursday, March 14, at 12:00 noon in the 4-H Club Building, Caro, according to Roy Brown, Fostoria, president of the association board of directors.

Milo B. Tesar, associate professor of farm crops at Michigan State University, will be the program speaker. The 4-H Mothers' Club will serve the dinner.

Officers and directors of the association for the past year are: president, Roy Brown, Fostoria; vice-president, Clarence Merchant, Cass City; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. John Marshall, Cass City; directors, Harold Blaylock and Werner List of Vassar; Basil Quick, Caro; Don Stoll, Unionville; Foster Hickey, Fairgrove; Alvah Hillman, Cass City, and Royce Russell, Gagetown.

Agent Lists 450 Free Publications

More than 450 publications, most of them available without charge, are listed with the Tuscola County extension office.

According to Alfred Ballweg, county agricultural agent, these publications deal with methods of farming and problems farmers encounter in their business.

There are also many, many booklets that deal with various phases of homemaking and gardening, he said.

Most of these publications are on file in the office, and a telephone call, or an office visit may place in your hands a booklet explaining the very problem you are now facing.

These booklets are written by specialists in various fields who explain the situation, how the best approach is made according to research findings, and suggestions to solutions to common problems.

Many folks are not aware of this service from Michigan State University. But, those who use it find that many of their questions can be quickly answered by securing a copy of the booklet that deals with their particular problem, he said.

The man who refuses to mend his ways winds up broken in health and spirit.

BULEN TALKS CARS

If you were going out today to buy a car, new or used, what would be the three most important things you'd look for?

Ask yourself this question, and then I'll tell you what happened when thousands of prospective car buyers were asked this same question in a recent survey.

In this very broad survey among people who were looking for a car, the most common reply said they rated cars by economy first, comfort second and style third.

The same people, after they had bought a car, were asked why they had selected it. And the answers were exactly the reverse. It was style first; comfort second and economy third.

Which only goes to prove, I suppose, how little we really know about ourselves and why automobile engineers go gray.

It's still largely a mystery why people buy the cars they do, but it's no mystery WHERE they prefer to buy them. Every survey and report I've ever seen shows that people buying used cars go mainly to NEW car dealers.

They know that a new car dealer has earned the respect of the manufacturer he represents; he's earned his franchise which can be snapped back at any time if he turns to shady practices. He can't be a fly-by-nighter who sets up a sign on the nearest vacant lot.

They know that the new car dealer has the service facilities to look after the cars he sells. His warranty means something.

So, when you're looking around for a used car, drop into the lot. A salesman will show you around, but he won't high pressure you. If you don't buy today, we'll still be in business tomorrow.

It hardly seems possible but this July marks the 20th Anniversary of our arrival in Cass City. We had then been married two weeks. Came here with the optimistic belief that we could run a dealership, sell some cars. Today I marvel at my tenacity. Fortunately it worked out, and we did sell some cars. Ollie was here then, is still here and I'm glad.

Started with the idea of giving the best possible service and a square deal. We still have the same target. I've said it before and I'll risk repeating it again. If you don't get what you feel you're entitled to, TELL ME FIRST. If I don't make it right, SCREAM! But, give me a chance FIRST. If you have anything coming, you'll get it.

No Easy Way to Lose Weight Says Mrs. F. T. Clark

Mrs. Frances T. Clark has been getting so many requests for reducing diets that she has decided to give some information on the subject to those who are interested.

Every adult with extra layers of fat would profit by losing weight. However, the total problem is not that simple. From a Michigan State University publication, "Live Lean and Like It," we learn that food is more than nourishment. It supplies basic satisfaction, and eating assumes a role of real importance to many people. Moreover, food is served at most social functions and a "diet" may not add to social popularity, particularly when the dieter makes a major production of it.

All diets which will reduce weight involve some conscious self-control and self-discipline. Some people cannot discipline themselves, and weight lost with someone else playing watchdog tends to be rapidly regained as soon as the pressure is gone. Frequent weight gains and losses probably present a much harder adjustment for the body than weight which is maintained. In other words, weight control is an individual problem and must be faced individually. No one can do it for you; and the more you lean on someone else for support, the less likely you are to be successful. You must make changes in living, as well as in eating... changes which you can live with indefinitely, not just for two months while you lose ten pounds. This does not mean that you should not seek advice on a weight problem. Getting the facts is a wise step in any activity. A good doctor will get the facts and adapt them to your individual needs. A thorough medical check should always precede weight reduction, and you should get one at regular intervals even if you only seek to maintain your weight level as you grow older. After you have had medical advice, decide if you can control and educate your appetite without fuss or "special" diets and at the same time remain a normal, social human being. If you can, you will probably be successful with weight control and will profit by it. Your home demonstration agent will help you on such questions as what is normal weight; how to lose weight; can exercise reduce weight? and who should lose weight? You may contact her by writing to Mrs. Frances T. Clark, county home demonstration agent, Courthouse, Caro; phone number, 330, Caro.

Urge Farmers to Use Beet Acreage

Headline reports, every day, about soil bank and crop surpluses make a farmer wonder what to expect in the future. The Secretary of Agriculture just recently announced, according to Alfred Ballweg, county agricultural agent, that a lower support price was in effect on eight major crops. Four of these crops are grown in Michigan. Supposing we have acreage allotment on the white bean next year. What will we plant in surplus fields? These are questions every farmer must ask himself.

Michigan ranks sixth as a sugar beet producing state. The state average yield is now 11 tons per acre. 70,000 acres of beets are grown annually in Michigan. "What if this acreage was planted to other crops," pointed out Ballweg. It means large surpluses, more storage and more government expenditure and taxes which we all have to pay.

Sugar beets are the exception. Michigan can this year plant 83,000 acres of beets. Let's build Michigan's agriculture with the old friend, "the sugar beet."

What Michigan does not plant will be lost to the western grower. Let's keep them in Michigan. The government does not have a price support on beets. Through the Sugar Act, the U. S. government provides a payment of 80c per hundredweight of sugar. This payment averaged $2.30 per ton to the grower, with Caro growers receiving $2.35 per ton. The total sugar beet payment to Caro growers for the 1956 crop will be about $15.10 per ton. The Sugar Act also affords protection to growers by providing abandonment or deficiency payment where the crop is lost or reduced due to natural causes.

Sugar beets are an excellent rotation crop and are easy to grow. Properly fertilized and rotated they have a highly beneficial effect on yield of other crops that follow.

The clever business man never trusts anyone who trusts to luck.

Good workmanship outclasses other kinds of pull in the long run.

Some people couldn't even borrow trouble if they had to put up collateral.

USDA Starts Swine Breeding Program

Recurrent Selection Method Is Used

A breeding and selection program for swine, similar to that used for increasing yields of hybrid corn, has been launched by scientists of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

This breeding program is being conducted at USDA's Agricultural Research Center at Beltsville, Md. A similar program is under way at Miles City, Mont., as a cooperative project between the ARS and the Montana Agricultural Experiment Station.

The Beltsville program, expected to continue for 10 to 15 years, is known as "recurrent reciprocal selection for specific combining ability." It is a modification of the Breeding and selection program for swine, recently undertaken by USDA hopes to increase the amount of hybrid vigor in succeeding generations of cross-bred pigs.

"recurrent selection" method now being tried by corn breeders to produce superior hybrid combinations.

In the swine-breeding experiments, recurrent reciprocal selection involves four successive steps: (1) crossing, at definite intervals, two strains of hogs that are known to combine well; (2) testing the cross-progeny for economically important characteristics; (3) retention in the two strains of breeding animals that are proved best by the performance of their test-cross progenies; and (4) propagation of the two strains, using the animals thus selected.

Food Irradiation Progress Made

Another step forward in preservation of foods through irradiation has been announced by Oregon State college agriculture chemists. Chemists E. C. Buhl and J. S. Butts report that four generations of rats were fed a 60 percent diet of irradiated meat over a two year period with no harmful effects.

The research project, one of several in the country, is for the department of defense. The primary objective of the long-range work is to supply troops with fresh meats and other foods that require sterilization through canning or freezing.

Should commercial-scale irradiation develop, fresh meats and other food could be easily transported to troops in distant parts of the world, particularly in the tropics where processing by freezing is costly.

Test rats were fed on irradiation-preserved beef organs—kidney, heart, brain, and tripe—that was ground, mixed, and sealed in cans. Half the cans were subjected to high intensity gamma irradiation, the other half were frozen for preservation. Rats on the treated diet grew as well and produced as many as those on the non-irradiated diet.

An education is of little use if a man lacks the ambition to do things with the knowledge he has acquired.

Conceit gives a man an exalted opinion of himself, and he still retains a low opinion of human nature.

A nuptial mass celebrated by Rev. Fr. Eugene Seidenwand at St. Agatha's Church, Saginaw, united in marriage the former Miss Leona Marie Himmel and William James LaFave in a double-ring ceremony, Saturday.

Mr. Clarence Pettit and Mr. William Carolan were vocalists, accompanied by Mr. Kermith Parent at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported Chantilly lace over satin, styled with a fitted bodice with a sabrina neckline embroidered with pearls and iridescent sequins. The long tapering sleeves formed points over the wrists. The bouffant skirt was fashioned of scalloped lace tiers which fell to a sweep train. A matching lace pillbox hat embroidered with pearls and iridescent sequins held her veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade arrangement of calla lilies, rose buds and stephanotis.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Donald DeBolt of Saginaw and bridesmaids were Miss Evelyn Finkbeiner of Owendale, Miss Marie Sontag and Miss Delores Swartz of Saginaw. They wore gowns of gold, red, emerald and royal blue nylon chiffon over taffeta, designed with bateau necklines edged with pipings of matching satin. An Empire midriff encircled with a cummerbund of crushed satin accented the bodice of hand-tucked chiffon. The ballerina skirts were worn over Dior hoops. They wore plateaus of chiffon softly draped with tulle and featuring a lustle of tulle.

As junior bridesmaid, Miss Mary Ann Weippert, sister of the bride, was gowned identically like the attendants in white with gold at the waist and further accented with a plateau like that of the bridesmaids. Flower girl was Miss Janet Weippert, sister of the bride. Best man was Paul Carolan, cousin of the groom. Ushers were Stanley Himmel, brother of the bride, Benson Hobart, Ronald Russell and Gary Carolan, cousin of the groom.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Weippert and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Roy LaFave.

Mrs. Weippert wore a pale pink knit suit with toast accessories with a corsage of white carnations and bronze tea roses. Mrs. LaFave wore powder blue lace with pink accessories and wore a corsage of white carnations and pink tea roses.

A breakfast for the families and wedding party followed the ceremony and an evening reception was held for 500 guests at Arbeiter Hall.

Pine Marten, F. O. B.

This furry little visitor from Canada is one of several pine martens live-trapped in Ontario recently by Michigan Conservation Department workers. The martens, shipped by rail from Canada, were released in Porcupine Mountains state park in the upper peninsula as part of a program to re-establish the animals in Michigan. Pine martens, a tree-dwelling relative of minks and sables, were common in Michigan before dense forests were reduced by timber operations.

DEFORD

Novesta Baptist Fellowship—Fathers and sons of the Novesta Baptist Church were served a ham supper by the ladies of the church in the church annex Thursday night as the regular family fellowship night, which is held the fourth Thursday of each month and sponsored by the ladies of the Missionary Circle.

William Patch Jr. was toastmaster. During the short program, Ronald Perry gave the toast to the fathers and Kenneth Monte replied to the sons. Rev. Lavene Shattuck, pastor of the church, also gave a talk.

Mrs. Florence Sherwood returned to her home Sunday after spending six weeks in Bradenton, Fla.

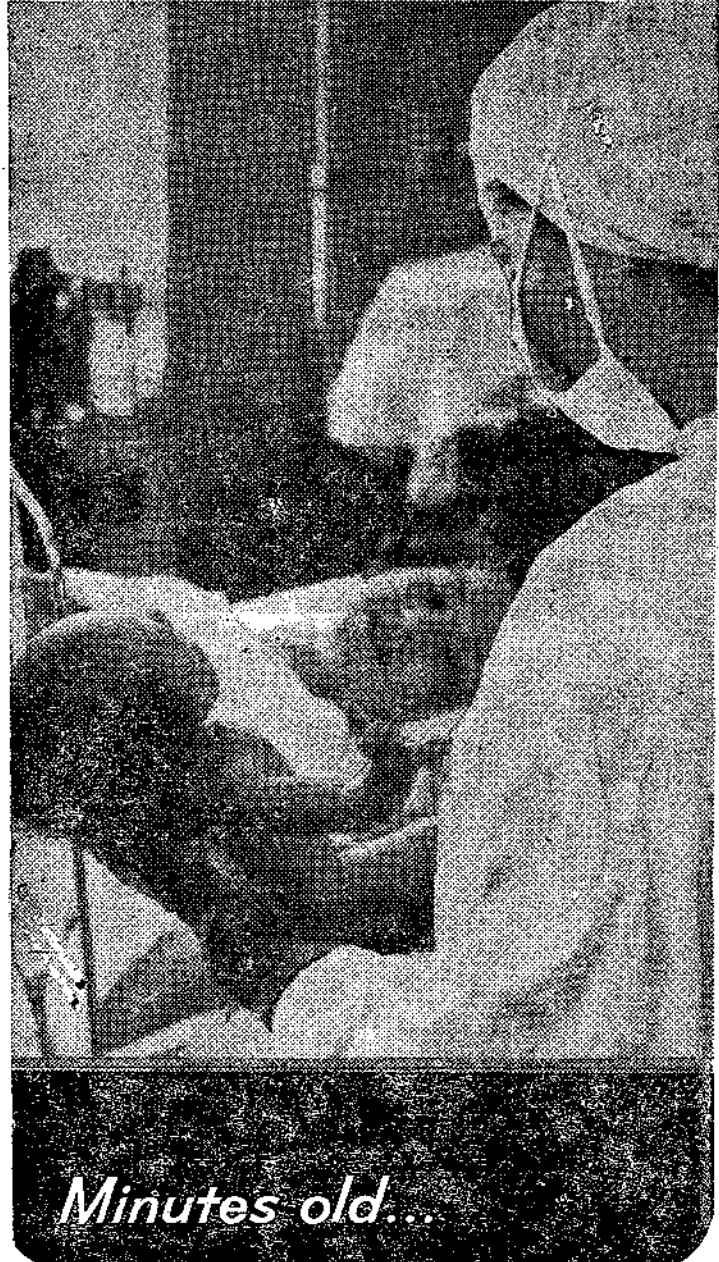

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Pandurin and son Michael and Mrs. Blanche Spencer of Oxford were Sunday guests of Miss Belle Spencer.

James Jacoby of Pontiac was a Saturday visitor at the home of his brother, George, and family.

Everytime a man tears a leaf off the calendar he realizes that his days are numbered.

Many a self-made man would be a lot happier if he could blame the job on someone else.

Another reason
you're better off with Blue Cross; Blue Shield.

Minutes old...

Protected already

Meet the youngest member of Michigan Blue Cross (now over 3½ million strong!).

He's only minutes old... and already he's entitled to the same fine benefits his mom and dad get.

He doesn't have to wait thirty days... ten or even seven... for coverage to become effective. It's effective immediately.

Immediately's the time he's most likely to need it, too... during those first, often critical days of a baby's life.

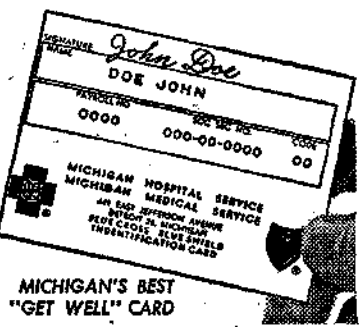

And—because he has Comprehensive Blue Cross, he'll get all the basic hospital services he needs... completely paid for... and his dad won't have to bother with claims or fixed cash benefits that may fall short of actual hospital costs.

That's a wonderful thing about Blue Cross... the NO-DOLLAR-LIMIT feature.

Right in the contract you will note that Blue Cross covers you on a broad number of hospital services without dollar limit... and this explains why only Blue Cross can cover so many hospital bills in full.

With Blue Cross for hospital care, and the companion plan, Blue Shield—for doctor care—you have the most dependable protection obtainable. Worth having? Just ask someone who has it... and who's used it!

Blue Cross.

Plenty of hot water with DETROIT EDISON'S NEW ELECTRIC WATER-HEATING SERVICE

Bath time is fun with lots of hot water

1957 electric water heaters, built to Edison's rigid specifications, give you all the hot water you want!

New Detroit Edison has joined with leading electric water heater manufacturers to bring you the most advanced electric water heating method at down-to-earth cost. With Edison's new Super-Supply Plan you get much more hot water than ever before for only pennies a day. No waiting for water to heat. No hot water shortages.

How Does It Work?

New 1957 electric water heaters are built to give you large quantities of piping hot water automatically. Each tank has two elements—one near the top, one near the bottom—with greatly increased watt-ages. In fact, because they are designed to supply hotter water faster, you can get more than twice the supply from the same size tank. And operation is, of course, completely automatic.

What Is Edison's Super-Supply Plan?

To make these 1957 electric water heaters more economical, Edison is offering a new plan. The new Super-Supply Plan provides much more hot water than ever before, at a surprisingly low flat-rate charge. This means you have plenty of hot, hot water on tap all of the time to meet all of your family's needs.

Why Buy an Electric Water Heater?

Electric water heaters are the safest water heaters ever built. And these new models offer other advantages, too. There's no soot to clog heaters. No flues to limit where the heater must be installed. Put your new electric water heater where you want it, even in the kitchen or utility room. There's no flame to worry about. No odor from fumes. And insulation makes them cool, and they're noiseless. You can put your confidence in an electric heater built to Edison's rigid specifications for years of trouble-free operation.

With an electric water heater you have another job done better, electrically.

Roddy Kilowatt invites you to check these tremendous advantages of ELECTRIC water heating before you buy.

MICHIGAN MIRROR NEWS BRIEFS

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association

Trimming Michigan's proposed budget is proving as difficult a task for lawmakers as finding new ways to raise additional funds.

As the state legislature works to cut costs from agency requests, legislators run into the same difficulty time and again. Every department is supported by one or more interest groups which present excellent reasons why "their" agency should receive more money, rather than less.

On the other hand, there are few organized groups which can provide equally strong reasons for making budget cuts.

Interest groups perform a vital service. They speak for groups of people who share a belief, earn their living the same way, or have a common need.

If you are a laborer, farmer, merchant or businessman, you belong to an interest group, or indirectly support one. If you are aged, a parent, a veteran, own a car, hunt, fish, live in a city, town or the country, you have an interest in common with others and are represented by an organized group.

A union speaks for labor. The farmer belongs to the Farm Bureau, the Grange or the Farmers Union. Merchants are represented by trade groups. Industry works through their own organization.

The list could go on almost indefinitely: Veterans' organizations, conservation clubs, social groups, Parent-Teacher Associations. All in all, there are some 300 legislative agents, or lobbyists, registered with the state of Michigan.

And every group is particularly interested in a particular state or department. Each wants to make certain that enough money is in the agency budget to perform necessary services and add new ones.

Organized pressure often works. The individual legislator is faced with good reasons why he should vote for the funds. No one comes forward to support specific budgetary cuts. If he does pare some of the dollars off an agency request, cries of protest are heaped upon the decision.

In effect, the legislature is faced with the old dilemma of each person saying, "Cut government spending, but add a few dollars when it is spent to serve me."

The cat is out of the bag that Michigan's bridge over the Straits of Mackinac is officially "The Mackinac Bridge." According to the Bridge Authority which exercises the naming power, it has secretly been "The Mackinac Bridge" for three years. Any different name now would require changes on thousands of documents.

Many suggested names for the bridge carried political overtones. Republicans, at their state convention, resolved to suggest that it be named after the president. Democrats asked that Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman be honored.

"Vacationland Bridge" and "Hiawatha" were among the more poetic names suggested.

Most observers agree that the name "The Mackinac Bridge" is probably best because it is already commonly used. They point out that 19 Michigan highways now carry memorial names that are virtually unknown.

For example: How many Michigan residents know what highway is named Arthur Vandenberg? The Clara Barton? Blue Star? Leif Erickson? (In order, these are US-16, US-25, US-31, and M-95.) The complete list is on every map printed by the Michigan State Highway Department.

A fourth state university was recognized as such last week when Western Michigan College became Western State University.

Nary a word of protest was uttered as the legislators gave the bill overwhelming support. This was a sharp and refreshing contrast to the struggle two years ago when Michigan State College became Michigan State University.

Before the ink was dry from the Governor's signature, the new name was already law and Michigan had four tax supported universities. The list now includes the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, Michigan State University at East Lansing, Wayne State University at Detroit and Western Michigan University.

After expressing appreciation financially to some 206,000 veterans during the past two years, Michigan's Korean Bonus act expired at midnight, March 6, thereby closing the door on further applications.

Strange as it seems, almost one out of every 10 eligible veterans failed to file a bonus request, according to the State Adjutant General's office.

Some 20,000 veterans never applied.

It's too late now, although operations at the office will continue until all claims presented through the March 6 deadline are approved or rejected.

At the peak of operations it took 14 Army officers and 177 civil service employees to handle the avalanche of claims. As the act died its legal death, only one officer and a handful of civilian employees remained to bid it farewell.

You can't expect to hear the knock of opportunity if you are doing it yourself.

Farmers Using More Commercial Feed for Calves

More commercial calf feeds are being used by the state's dairymen than ever before, according to Don R. Kebler, assistant county agricultural agent. This trend will swing upward in the future as less expensive products are developed.

Calf feeds which replace milk are high priced. Dried skim milk is the costliest ingredient, he said. One of the reasons for this high cost is the use of relatively costly proteins. To solve this problem research workers are concentrating their programs to find more economical protein sources.

One such study is being conducted at Michigan State University. There researchers are studying the enzyme, pepsin. They hope that it will make possible the use of less costly plant proteins instead of higher priced animal proteins.

SHORT STORY

Tonight Is Mine

By Bernice Barnes

OF A SUDDEN she heard a scream. It must have been herself, but she wasn't sure. Before her in the road were two small children.

Helen saw the look of terror on the older one's face—a little girl—as she put her arm protectively around her little brother. The little girl shoved to the side of the road.

Automatically, Helen slammed on the brakes. She swerved the car to the right.

She would just miss the children. Thank God for that!

Trembling, Helen got out of the car. She got down beside the children and put her arm lovingly around them. She saw the lip of the little boy quiver. "I want my mother."

Then the little girl suddenly let go her courage and gave way to the tears and fears in her little body. "We're lost," she cried. "And hungry—and scared."

"You poor darlings! Come, let's wipe away the tears. Now you get into the car and I'll take you to my home. Later we will find your folks—after you've eaten."

Helen smiled wistfully. If these were her own, what fun it would be to take them to the store on the once-a-week trip to get groceries. What surprises they'd plan to buy! How she would sew for them and bake gingerbread men and chocolate cookies with thick white icing And Christmas—

When they reached the small ranch house at the end of the primitive mountain road, Helen got out and yelled, "All! All! Come see what I found on the road. Two children!" She swallowed to thin how life had cheated her. She should have been calling, "All! All! The kids and I are home."

Al came toward the car, his hands stuck in the waistband of his Levis. He gave a low whistle. "Ain't he the cute one!"

"They're both wonderful. You carry in the groceries and I'll wash them a bit before supper. Maybe I'd better get them a glass of milk the first thing."

Several times during supper Helen caught Al looking at her, and she knew that her eyes betrayed the ache in her own heart. Both she and Al loved children. Why did life have to cheat this way? Some folks who didn't want kids got so many.

After supper Helen got them ready for bed. She brushed Susan's long braids and laughed with them over their new nighties—two tops from her pajamas. She tucked them in her extra bed and kissed each one good night. They wriggled just a little, down under the covers and then were sound asleep.

When she came out of the bedroom, Al was at the radio. "Thought I'd turn it on a spell," he said.

Helen had dreaded that. They would know then. Up until now, they didn't know.

Later, it came on—the news that little Susan and David Aultman had strayed from a picnic—the parents were frantic.

"I suppose I ought to drive into town and telephone," Al spoke as he sat leaning forward to the radio.

"No! No! Not tonight. Let her worry another night. She should of watched 'em better. Tomorrow we will."

Helen walked toward the bedroom door where the two children were sleeping. But she turned quickly around and there were tears in her words.

"I didn't mean it, Al. You know I didn't mean it. Go on into town and telephone someone that we've found 'em. But tell 'em not to come tonight. Insist they can't come tonight. The kids are sleeping."

Then she opened the door and walked into the bedroom where the two children were snuggled in her bed. Davey's little pudgy hand was thrown out on the white pillow case. But Susan had tucked her little hand under her cheek. Both were breathing deeply.

"Tonight, tonight, they're mine."

WOMAN'S WORLD

Soft Tailoring
Accents Suits
In Spring Style

IT'S always a happy situation for a woman when she has her pick of several trends in the fashion picture. When many desirable fashions are featured, there is bound to be one of them which is most flattering.

That's true this season, especially in suits and coats. Take the suit jacket, for example. It's softly tailored, but you may have jackets which are easy, straight or semi-fitted.

The air of Spring suits is, at first glance somewhat casual, but with a second look you are aware of a neat ease which is too carefully thought out to be casual. You can, however, say they are carefree and some of them are dashing and even a bit boyish, in a feminine way, of course, with their wispy scarves tied in a bow at the neck.

Lavish Fabric Use
Materials are lavish, and so is the designer's use of them. Most of them are in carefully arranged lines with a minimum of curve. There are, however, exceptions to this in the English drape folds a the side front of skirts, somewhat reminiscent of the effect of Oriental soldiers in their baggy trousers.

Jackets are made to be left unbuttoned, showing off a figured silk blouse with a big bow at the neck and some of them are made buttonless. Hips are designed to give a narrow look but are rounded and skirts are frequently leather belted.

Sailor-collared suits and coats will be popular while others will use "race-track" plaids to be topped with short straight top coats to lend that little boy air to clothes.

Coat Picture
Fitted coats appear to be making a return this season. Buttons are being set low, almost even with the hipbone. They have wide revers to give a broader look to the shoulders.

Full swagger coats which have proved so comfortable are still with us. They may show deep wide collars or ascot ties.

Flank Steak Is All Meat Serving

If you're looking for an economical meat that's delicious, look no further than flank steak. There's a cut that's all meat with no waste.

It's not a cut for broiling, but braised with fruit, it's wonderful! An apple stuffing is used for covering it, and prunes add deliciousness while it cooks to tenderness.

Rolled Flank Steak (Serves 4)

1 large tart apple
1 cup day-old bread crumbs
1/2 cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped celery
1 flank steak
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon sage
Drippings
Hot water
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 cup uncooked prunes
2 tablespoons flour

Chop apple and mix with crumbs, onion and celery. Sprinkle both sides flank steak with salt and sage. Spread apple mixture over one side and roll, tying with string or fastening with skewers. Brown in a small amount of drippings. Add hot water and vinegar, cover and cook very slowly for 1 1/2 hours.

After 3/4 hour, turn roll over, add prunes which have been rinsed and finish cooking. Remove meat and prunes to heated platter. Mix flour to a thin paste with cold water and blend with liquid in the pan. Cook and stir until smooth and thickened. Pour over steak and serve at once, cutting in slices.

Here's a good salad to serve with this Flank Steak: toss together a cup each of finely chopped raw spinach, lettuce and sliced raw cabbage. Add a half cup of cut-up celery, then sprinkle with 1/4 cup of blue cheese dressing.
