The Elkland Township Fire Department was called to seven fires in four days from Thursday through Sunday.

Spokesmen for the department said that they had been called only three times, previous to Thursday, this year.

At one time Sunday, several firemen were still at the firehall when another alarm sounded.

None of the fires were serious. Six were grass fires and the seventh a burning automobile which was quickly extinguished with minor damage.

The grass fires were:

Thursday afternoon in back of the R. M. Hunter residence in Cass City and at the Alex Varadi farm, four miles east and two miles north of Cass City.

Saturday at the John Laszlo farm, five miles south and a half mile west of Cass City, and at the Cliff Demo residence in Cass City.

Sunday at the Duncan Ferguson home, four miles east, seven miles south and three miles east of Cass City, and the Ed Lebioda farm, four miles south and two miles west of Cass City.

The car that caught fire belonged to Ed Nash and was parked near the ST&H gas station in Cass City when the alarm sounded. A battery in the car was ruined.

After his brief remarks, Mr. Kelly showed films of the homecoming game between CMC and Eastern Michigan College.

CMC enjoyed an unbeaten year on the gridiron in 1956.

Band Director Ronald Phillips of Cass City High School said this week that he is "happy, but not satisfied" with the band's performance in the District Band and Orchestra Festival held Friday at Sebawing.

The band this year received a Division II rating, second highest that can be earned. Ratings range from Division I through Division V.

The rating is the same as the one earned last year by Cass City at the festival. Directors from other schools were unanimous in saying that the Cass City band was much improved over 1956, Mr. Phillips said.

Mr. Phillips said that he was pleased with the band's performance, but is still aiming for the top rating offered at a Division II rating is: "An unusual performance in many respects but not worthy of the highest rating because of minor defects in performance or ineffective interpretation. A performance of distinctive quality."

Division I ratings at the festival were earned by the following area class "B" schools: Bad Axe, Caro, Marlette and Vassar.

Division II ratings went to Sandusky and Crosswell-Lexington. Millington received a Division IV rating.

From the Editor's Corner

The rash of grass fires that broke out last week end and re-occur every spring is an expensive proposition. Most of the fires have relatively little property damage. But residents should remember that each time they call the Elkland Township Fire Department is called out of the township, the neighboring township pays $50 per call.

This week end there were four fires in Elkland Township and the cost to residents where the fires occurred totaled $200.

Most persons know that a permit is required to start a grass fire, although few bother to get one. Perhaps a more stringent enforcement of the law is needed.

A check with the Baldwin Rubber Co. this week, parent plant for the corporation which is in process of moving into the former Nestles building, brings forth the information that complete information should be released in a week or 10 days when "pilot models" will be run off at the plant in Cass City.

Authorities at the company in Pontiac would not say what the product is until they are ready to release the formal statement.

Education and a continuing program of stressing safety is paying off for the Michigan Department of Conservation. In 1956, the lowest number of fatalities was recorded in 25 years. Only 15 persons were killed. Not since 1931 has there been a record as good as last year when there were three times as many hunters afield as there were 25 years ago.

Mistaking a human for game caused only five of 52 deer season accidents. Majority of accidents are caused by careless gun handling while hunting, or when loading and unloading weapons.

Hawks Roll Over Vassar for Title

Cass City swept into regional tournament play at Flint Saturday night on the wings of their convincing final night victory over Vassar, 74-58, at Cass City High School.

The Hawks were to have met Flint Tech, winners of the opening game over Grand Blanc Tuesday night. The Hawks were scheduled to play at Flint's IMA building at 9:30 p. m. Thursday.

Cass City's victory followed the pattern of recent games with balanced scoring and good ball handling. The Hawks started fast in the first quarter and at one time were in front 20-10, but Vassar spurred to close the gap to 22-17 at the end of the period.

Dick Hanby kept the Hawks in front in a low scoring second quarter. Shooting from his favorite spot from the side, he connected for three quick baskets and a pair of free shots for eight of the Hawks' 13 points in the period.

Vassar was able to net only 12 points in the period and Cass City left the floor at intermission with a six-point, 35-23 lead.

Although Cass City added three points to their margin in the third quarter, it was not until late in the period that the Hawks increased their margin.

Midway through the quarter, Vassar narrowed the margin to three points, the closest they came to leading throughout the evening.

With their victory threatened, the Hawks promptly rallied and were ahead by nine points when the fourth quarter opened. Jim Johnson, Bob Martus and John Meininger carried the scoring load in the period.

In the final quarter, Cass City opened with a scoring spurt and was never threatened as they tucked away another district tourney, their fourth in six years.

Martus with 19 points and Meininger with 18 points were the high point men for Cass City. Hanby was a close third with 16 points, while Johnson netted 11. Chuck Guinther added the final eight points from his guard post.

The village council voted Monday night to eliminate collection of a village tax for the year 1932. The village had $19,508.36 in the treasury March 1, 1932. ## Dakin's Revenge

By D. L. Alexander

JAKE GILBERT roused from his nap in front of the fireplace when a sharp knock came at the door. "Come in," he called.

The door was kicked open and a man, dressed in gray from head to foot entered. He held a gun in his right hand, and twirled another on a finger of his left hand.

"Come in an' set down," Jake said calmly, and turned to stare into the fireplace.

His visitor eyed him for a few moments, then hooked a chair nearer with a foot and sat down. "Know who I am?" he asked harshly.

"Think so. Saw you once before," Jake answered. "You're the feller who's been settin' th' county on edge for a month an' makin' th' law fellers take to their holes when you come around."

The visitor moved closer to the fire. He kept his eyes on Jake and his guns ready. "I'm Joe Dakin," he said.

"What does all this grandstand playin' you're doin' mean?" Jake asked.

"For one thing, it means I'm going to even things up for the death of my brother, Bead. You know what happened. Bead died in a hospital a month ago from the mauling and beating he got here. Bead never harmed anyone, and there was no reason for his being mobbed."

"I see," Jake answered. "So you come here ter even things up, eh?"

"Yes. And when I leave there won't be any of those mobsters above the ground."

"Uh-huh," Jake turned his head toward the other. "You've been around here a month shootin' up th' town, scarin' people inter fits, an' fashin' plenty of money around."

"That's it exactly."

"Harv Peters, a deputy, resigned. Sheriff Botkins locks hisself in his office an' has his meals brought ter him when you come. Most people's a'feared ter move down th' street."

Dakin laughed.

"They say as how there's some good about th' worst of us. There's talk about you bein' good helpin' out poor folks an' buyin' kids anything they want. Must like them, don't you, Dakin?"

"Yes. It's on account of two kids back in Illinois. Their father was murdered here."

A noise came from the other room. Dakin wheeled sharply toward the connecting doorway.

"What's that?" he inquired.

Jake didn't answer but rose to his feet and motioned toward the doorway. Dakin followed him through.

"It's this way, Dakin," Jake began when they were reentered. "Your brother come here an' persecuted ter be a single man. Our daughter Lucille fell in love with him, an' he arranged a nock marriage. He beat her an' mistreated her terrible. Her baby was born last month, premature, an' th' town folks got considerable riled over th' way he treated her. They nigh beat him ter death. Then they shipped him out."

"Th' law tried ter stop it, but couldn't. Th' mob was crazy. This is a small community and folks stick together."

Dakin dropped his head and there was several minutes of silence. At last he asked:

"Where's your daughter now?"

"In her grave at th' top of th' hill."

Dakin rose to his feet and laid his guns on the table. "I'm going back to Illinois," he announced.

He pulled a package of bills from his pocket and laid it beside the guns. "Use this to help you bring the child up. Take the best of care of it and give it a good education. I'll keep in touch with you and if you need anything let me know at once."

He opened the door and stepped into the night.

"You've forgot your guns," Jake called after him.

"Just keep them. I won't need them now," Dakin answered from the darkness.

The door was kicked open and a man dressed in gray entered.

Horizontal Silos Making Comeback

Horizontal silos can be fitted to save one of two things—money or labor, according to Don R. Kebler, assistant county agricultural agent.

The self-feeding variety costs up to $1,000, five to ten times more than the storage type. Most self-feeding silos are about six feet deep and 16 feet wide compared to eight or ten feet deep and 10 to 16 feet wide for storage silos.

Most of the added cost for the self-feeding silo goes into weather resistant floors and walls of wood or concrete. Earth will do the job in the storage silo.

A good bunker type silo requires adequate drainage above all else. Ground near the silo should slope away from it at the rate of at least three feet in every 100 feet. The floor should slope toward the open end at the rate of two feet per 100 feet of length.

Be sure that the silo is far enough away from farm buildings. A distance of about 20 feet from the nearest building may be needed for machinery movement.

The distance from a barn or feeding area will depend partly on the method of feeding. If the silo is located near a feedlot, the open end can be pointed toward the housing area. Be sure that spring and summer winds will not blow odors toward the farm house. If you build on a hillside, the silo may be entirely below ground. On more level land, most silos should be partly or entirely above the surface.

Horizontal silos are making a comeback, believes Agent Kebler. They are well adapted to grassland farming. Construction costs are low and improved equipment has made filling and unloading easier than in past years.

As dairy herds become larger and larger, more and more farmers feed supplemental grass silage in the summer. The silage is cut in early June while it has high protein value.

This method starts the second cutting growth early so that many late summer and early fall rains are avoided during the second harvest.

Farm Homes Are Brightening Up Reflecting Higher Living Standards

U.S. farmers are broadening the market for home furnishings manufacturers. For example, they're becoming one of the carpet industry's best customers.

A Daniel Starch survey of over 3,000 rural homes revealed that 39% of farm wall-to-wall carpet purchases were made during the "Wall to wall," so to speak, farmers are broadening the market for home furnishings manufacturers. Farm living standards have been on the upswing for 15 years.

Last two years. Prior to this, farm purchases had been below the national average.

The farm trend to wall-to-wall carpeting has risen approximately 33% this year, and indications are that the pattern is continuing.

Market analysts say the farmer's heightened interest in carpet and other home goods is a natural development in the constantly improving farm living standards over the past 15 years.

From 1940 to 1950, according to the Agriculture Department, these standards rose 54%. And they're still climbing.

Today, too, according to the Director of Research for Capper Publications, seven out of 10 U.S. farms are free and clear of mortgage debt, probably one more reason why rural homeowners are becoming more concerned about beautifying their dwellings and making them more pleasantly livable than ever before.

Farm families remodel and redecorate at a much higher rate than the average family. Last year, according to the Starch study, 12% of the country's farm families remodeled their homes as against the national average of 9.2%. And 33% redecorated as against 30.6% for the nation as a whole.

Families who have recently remodeled buy wall-to-wall carpet 200% more often and rugs

Timing Important in Corn Borer Control

Farmers can average near 90 per cent control of corn borer by timing treatments correctly and applying the right amounts of insecticides.

That's what H. B. Petty, extension entomologist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture and State Natural History Survey told those attending a custom operator's training school at the University of Illinois.

Last year some Illinois farmers left untreated areas in their corn fields to compare the results of corn borer treatment, Petty says. Average control in these fields, taking time and rate of application into account, was about 81 per cent. Corn yields averaged about 6.8 bushels an acre more on treated areas than on untreated areas.

Petty says the key to successful corn borer treatment is correct timing. He believes this one thing accounts for most of the increase in control from 52 per cent in 1947 to 81 per cent last year. Controlling corn borer with insecticides can be profitable if you apply them where and when they are needed.

No Mudhole

To prevent formation of a mud-hole around outdoor faucet, dig a hole under the spout and fill it with gravel. With ordinary usage, waste water falling into the hole will drain off through the gravel.

Gaylord Shagena Dies Unexpectedly

Gaylord Shagena died unexpectedly Wednesday evening, March 6, after being admitted to Pleasant Home Hospital.

Rosary devotions were held at Little's Funeral Home Friday morning with prayer services Saturday morning. Requiem High Mass was sung at the St. Pancratius Church Saturday, with Rev. I. J. Mikulski officiating. Burial was in Elkland Cemetery.

Mr. Shagena was born in Argyle, Mich., Jan. 13, 1884, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Shagena. He married Mrs. Nina Shagena Jan. 11, 1952, in Cass City. He had lived in this community most of his life.

Surviving are his wife; a daughter and two sons by a previous marriage, Mrs. George Carroll of Ortonville and Milo Shagena and Ernest Shagena, both of Lake Orion; two brothers, Ira Shagena of Detroit and William Shagena of Rocky Mount, N. C.; three sisters, Mrs. John Mudge and Mrs. Louise McConnell, both of Cass City; and Mrs. Ida Herr of Auburn Heights; five stepsons, Charles Sharrow of Lake Orion, Milo Shagena of Clarkston, James Shagena of Argyle, Leo Shagena of Cass City and Paul Shagena of Flint; two stepdaughters, Mrs. Larry Robinson of Pontiac and Mrs. Thomas Peer of Fenton; 13 grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren. Two brothers and two sisters preceded him in death.

Strange as it may seem nations go to war for the sake of peace.

Nowadays a car without a mortgage lacks one of our modern inconveniences.

Adversity helps people discover who their true friends are.

BULEN TALKS Cars

When I'm out along the highway, I often stop to watch a road-building project where the bulldozers and tractors are leveling out wide, smooth, easily-curved super-highways. I've often heard friends wonder if it's all worth it. Well, let's see.

In Los Angeles, a study showed that it costs two cents a mile less to drive a car on a freeway than on an ordinary highway. The total of all savings, in gas and wear and drivers' time, would pay for an expressway in less than 10 years, the survey showed.

But aren't the speed-crazy fools going to race down the expressways at breakneck speeds? Yes, some will, I suppose—but a four-year study in Connecticut showed that a motorist driving on an ordinary highway, no matter how cautious he is, stands twice the chance of having an accident as the motorist on a limited access expressway.

In New York, a traffic engineer estimated that it cost 3.3 cents a mile to drive a car on an expressway (this was when gasoline was a lot cheaper, it would be more than that now, but the comparisons are interesting).

Compared with that 3.3 cents, he said, it costs 4.5 cents a mile to drive on a through street and 5.6 cents to drive on a congested street.

Good highways do save money for the driver, besides making life more bearable. You can only take advantage of those savings, of course, if your car is in top mechanical shape. A car that's in tune, regularly serviced by our factory-trained boys, will respond to better highways by swallowing less gas, chewing up less rubber and scraping down less metal.

Come in this week and just let them have a look-see. If there's nothing to be done, or only a squirt of grease is needed, they'll soon tell you. As you probably know, there's no safety device yet invented that's as good as peace of mind.

USED TRUCKS AND PICKUPS WANTED. Yes, I really mean it. We have people coming in every day asking for them and for the first time in my memory, we haven't a Used Truck or Pickup in Stock, not one.

So, if you intend buying a new truck or pickup my point is, I CAN AND WILL PAY MORE FOR YOUR OLD TRUCK OR PICKUP NOW. Obviously, when we have the usual dozen on hand, I'm not so anxious. If you are even half way in the mood, let's talk NOW. You may be pleasantly surprised to find how little it will cost you for America's No. 1 Truck.

Roy Anthes Tells Florida Experiences

Roy Anthes of Cass City writes the Chronicle about some of the activities in Florida where he is spending the winter. He said that traffic enforcement is very strict in the section where he is staying. The other day a native of Florida "coasted" through a stop sign and the arresting officer demanded a $25 bond. When he appeared before the court, the judge said that $25 wasn't too much.

Throwing a banana peel on the roadside is reputed to cost $100 or 30 days for littering the roadside, Mr. Anthes said.

Mr. Anthes reported that at a town meeting he attended, discussion was centered around the growing population. An ordinance prohibiting erecting barbed wire fences on lot lines and the chief of police was requested to stop any more building of fences and to give lot owners just five days to take down any already erected.

"These resort towns," Mr. Anthes said, "are not blessed with a disposal system such as Cass City has. Their problems and complaints are getting worse each passing season."

According to Mr. Anthes, picking fruit is not a profitable occupation. He reported that he and Ernest Goodall tried it and "the pay was hardly worth the wear and tear on the clothes."

Attention, Egg Producer!

Your Help Is Needed

Do you want a better price for your eggs?

Is it worth 1% of your March income from eggs to tell American Consumers that eggs are one of the best food buys today, not only cheap and easily prepared but also of high nutritional value.

Egg consumption per capita has been dropping off during the past few years. A few more eggs used by 170 million Americans would take the surplus off the market.

One per cent of your March egg money used through advertising will tell many of these people the value of eggs. Michigan Allied Poultry Industries is asking the cooperation of all egg producers in the county and this advertising program is being carried out state-wide and nation-wide.

The Poultry Industries should be proud of the fact that they are standing on their own feet and not asking for a hand-out from the government. Here is the plan:

Ten cents per 30-dozen case of your March sales of eggs sent in to the County Chairman, who in turn sends a receipt to the contributor and forwards the money to MSU which in turn sends the money to the Poultry and Egg National Board in Chicago where it will be used for advertising in some of the best selling magazines.

Is our business worth advertising? Is it worth our effort to try to create a better market for our product?

Your contribution will be appreciated, whether it's large or small. Send your contributions to Harry Burns, Millington, Michigan, or contact him by phone or letter for more information.

PRICES GOOD AT BOTH IGA MARKETS IN CASS CITY

Michigan Mirror News in Brief

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association

A feeling of insecurity is evident among many Michigan farmers. On the surface, they face a single problem—how to maintain prices for raw milk.

Underneath they face a more serious issue: What to do with marginal producers. This is the group now marketing enough milk to create the oversupply and force prices down.

There seems no practical solution to this knotty question; so many who believe the "part time farmer" to be the real issue are pretending it doesn't exist. Instead, varied attacks are being made against the "surface problem" which solve little and increase dissension.

Most dairymen (some 16,500) belong to the Michigan Milk Producers Association. The group recently voted price cuts for raw milk in some areas of the state. This was to meet competitors from Ohio and Wisconsin who found it profitable to ship cheap milk into Michigan.

Last year, when farmers were pinched to produce milk profitably at existing prices, a minority splintered off to form the Fair Share Bargaining Association. In turn, this group was hit with dissension and a second rebel organization, the Dairy Farmers Co-Operative of Michigan, came into existence.

Federal milk minimums are now being sought in several parts of the state to maintain raw milk prices.

Two milk marketing bills have been introduced in the Michigan legislature with the same goal: Keep milk prices high enough to insure a steady profit for Michigan producers.

Experts think this may maintain prices temporarily, but will do little to cure the real trouble. Excess milk will continue to be produced.

The "part time" farmer creates part of the milk surplus problem. These people earn a steady living by other means and keep a few cows for extra earnings. When milk prices are high this group is attracted into the milk market.

The extra milk they produce forces the price down.

A recent survey made by MMPA showed that 14 per cent of its members (some 1,400) work off the farm 100 days or more each year. About 11 per cent of the MMPA members earn more from off-farm work than from the farm.

The middle sized milk producer is caught in a squeeze. The large dairyman operates efficiently. He has a mechanized farm which reduces cost. Since the small milk producer relies on other sources for income, he can market milk when prices are good—and stop when the price makes it unprofitable.

The middle sized milk producer has neither of these advantages. His cost per unit is higher than that of the large dairyman. He cannot profitably "get out" when prices are low.

The middle sized producer has two choices. Either grow larger and operate more efficiently, or reduce his dairy holdings and rely on other crops or off-farm work to provide an income.

The problem is nationwide. Prices in Toledo, Ohio, will soon drop to $4.15 per hundredweight for milk. In Chicago the return will be on $3.80 during the spring months.

With these out-of-state centers only too willing to ship milk into Michigan, MMPA members voted on Feb. 22, to accept $4.90 a hundredweight for consumer milk instead of $5.35.

Federal Milk Orders offer some help. They establish a "floor" for prices in a given area. However, many milk producers view these bottom prices as unrealistic and too inflexible.

An old economic law is involved. When supply exceeds demand, prices decrease. Until a solution to the problem of supplying milk is found, dairy farmers must continue to produce milk under unstable economic conditions.

High gasoline prices are being noted in the Michigan legislature with bills to reduce the state gas tax from its present six cents a gallon level.

Sen. Carlton Morris, (R-Kalamazoo) would reduce the tax to 5 cents a gallon and continue to distribute the receipts on the same basis as the law now provides.

A separate bill presented by Robert Faulkner (R-Coloma) asks for a one-half cent tax decrease.

At present, federal and state taxes are 9½ cents on every gallon of gas purchased in Michigan.

Four National Holidays would be observed on Monday if a bill introduced by Sen. John B. Swainson (D-Detroit) is endorsed by the state legislature.

Swainson proposes that Washington's birthday be celebrated the third Monday in February and called "Presidents' Day." Memorial Day, now May 30, would be changed to the last Monday in May.

Instead of a July 4 date for Independence Day, the holiday would be observed on the first Monday of July. Thanksgiving would come on the second Monday in November, rather than the fourth Thursday.

How come the new Ford rides so smooth and solid?

It's the new inner Ford that gives you a big-car ride at low Ford prices

Folks just naturally love Ford's lower, sleeker silhouette. And they love Ford's new Thunderbird V-8's and Mileage Maker Six. But the thing that's really got 'em buzzing is Ford's new ride. In the new kind of Ford, vital riding features team up to give you the smoothest going in the whole ride world. For example:

- More weight and length
Head for the roughest road in the new kind of Ford. Notice how the biggest bumps lose their "bump"! One reason is that this biggest, longest, heaviest Ford has the extra "beef" to give a smooth, road-hugging ride.
- Better balance
One of Ford's nicest back-road habits is to make believe the rough spots aren't there. Proper weight distribution and precise balancing let Ford iron out bumps far better than many of the higher-priced cars.
- New automatic variable-rate rear springs
Going from a highway to a byway in a Ford, is like going from satin to silk. New design allows Ford's rear springs to "soften" or "stiffen" depending on road conditions. You get a smooth ride all the way!
- New swept-back Ball-Joint front suspension
Ford's new, stronger front suspension is designed to soak up the shock of rough roads. The new swept-back design lets wheels "roll" with the bump and absorb it going away... for far smoother, steadier sailing.
- New lower-pressure tires
Even Ford's tires are new for a better ride! Although they require less air pressure, they hold about 17% more air for cushioning the car. This means a softer ride—without sacrifice of Ford's good handling characteristics.
- More comfortable seating
There's no sag when you sit in a Ford... even on long trips. Comfort-contoured seats, rigidly anchored, have advanced springing for greater comfort and longer life.
- More body insulation
Ford has more body insulation—protection against weather, dust, and noise—than any car in the low-price field. You ride through city traffic in library-like quiet.
- No metal-to-metal chassis and body contact
Only Ford in its field uses 20 Cushion Quiet rubber body mounts... more than any other low-priced car. It all adds up to a smoother, quieter riding car.

Try the new kind of ride in the new kind of FORD

1956 Corn Price Support Available

"Loans and purchase agreements will be available through May 31 for the 1956 corn crop. Chas. B. Eckfeld, county office manager of the Tuscola County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, has announced. Unlike price-support programs for most of the "basic" crops, the corn loans and purchase agreements will be available to all growers of the 1956 corn crop, both within and outside the 840-county "commercial corn" area.

REHABILITATION

Elmer R. Akers, vocational rehabilitation counselor for this area, released this information on his by-weekly visit to Caro. He explained that these expenditures were for the following services:

1. Medical examinations, and other diagnostic services to establish the disability and measure how much it limits a person's activity, $318.00.
2. Treatments, including medical and surgical services to correct defects or lessen disability that interfere with working, $884.00.
3. Appliances, such as artificial arms or legs, crutches, braces and hearing aids, $1,077.00.
4. Hospitalization, for correction of defects, $1,217.00.
5. Training, in school or on the job to prepare a person for suitable work in spite of a disability, $2,043.00.
6. Maintenance, to support the person during a period of training, $2,186.00.

The total expenditure, $7,674.00 is an investment in the future earning capacity of Tuscola County's handicapped citizens. Mr. Akers explained that the average weekly earnings of people rehabilitated in Michigan last year was $52.32. Before rehabilitation they had been earning and 502 pounds of butterfat as a four-year-old in 345 days of twice daily milking.

Holsteins Complete Production Records

Two area dairymen's Holsteins have completed official production records under supervision of Michigan State University and the national Holstein organization. It was announced this week. Pietje Hat Lass Clure Kornpihle rehabilitated in Michigan last year was $52.32. Before rehabilitation they had been earning and 502 pounds of butterfat as a four-year-old in 345 days of twice daily milking.

BEWARE, FISHERMAN

Driving on lake ice is always hazardous, but spring conditions are notorious for trapping ice fishermen. It looks safe and fishermen have driven on it all winter long, so why not? The owner of this car realized, too late, the dangers involved. Insurance will probably not cover such losses.

Tornado Warning System Improved

Michigan officials have prepared the approach of the tornado season by reviewing the system for detecting and tracking violent storms and making plans for an improvement in the means of warning the public of possible danger.
