Village to Crack Down on Youths In Pool Room

A letter written by Arthur Holmberg concerning youths under 17 in the local pool hall was read to the Cass City Village Council, Tuesday night. Mr. Holmberg said that several parents had expressed concern to him over the situation.

After considerable discussion, the council instructed Marshal Steve Orto to notify the management that the state law that prohibits students or youths under 17 from entering pool rooms would be strictly enforced.

2nd Beet Payment Set for April 15

Michigan Sugar Company officials announced Tuesday that the second payment for 1966 crop sugar beets will be made in the Caro area on April 15. The payment date is some two weeks earlier than the date of the second payment a year ago.

The second payment in the Caro area will be at the rate of $2.00 per ton of beets delivered. This represents 75c more than the second payment in 1965. The total paid to 1966 growers to date in the Caro area is $1,152,700. Final payment for the crop will be made in October.

The first payment on account of 1966 crop beets was made on December 15, 1966, and amounted to $10.25 per ton. This was $1.00 more per ton than the first payment in 1965. Thus, the total per ton to date for 1966 crop beets is $1.75 more than the first two payments amounted to in 1965.

Senator's Son Injured By Speeding Driver

Richard Dehm, 19, son of Arthur Dehm, Rep. State Senator from Unionville, and three other riders in the car were injured Friday when Richard L. Mattice, 23, of Bad Axe struck them head-on.

Mattice was being pursued by Sebawaing officer Charles Tredup when the accident occurred. Tredup started to chase Mattice in Sebawaing and followed him to Unionville at speeds up to 100 miles per hour.

Mr. Dehm suffered a broken jaw, a crack on the skull, a cracked rib and multiple cuts and bruises. Other passengers in the Dehm car that were injured were Betsy Hille, Eugene Beitz and June Pogel. They were taken to a Bay City hospital.

Mattice received a fractured pelvis in the accident and is in Hubbard Hospital in Bad Axe.

He is being held for investigation of charges of speeding, drunk driving, driving on a revoked license and furnishing beer to minors.

Three other youths jumped from the Mattice car before it left Sebawaing, officers said.

Authorities of the company said that the product now being turned out will be presented to a proposed customer in the automotive field.

Spokesmen had no comment as to when the plant would begin production. The opening of the plant will depend on the approval and contracts awarded on the basis of the samples.

The plant will be turning out the first samples for the next couple of weeks. The first of the concern's machinery is now installed in the plant.

Parent plant for the new company is the Baldwin Rubber Co. in Pontiac.

Cass City to Swap Presidents With Maple Rapids

Cass City Village President B. F. Benkelman Jr. has been selected to participate in the mayor's exchange, Monday, May 20, with the president of Maple Rapids, John Schmidt.

The exchange is one of the highlights of Michigan Week. A letter has been written to Mr. Schmidt to see if he is going to participate in the event.

President Benkelman appointed Trustee C. R. Hunt to handle Michigan Week in Cass City and arrange entertainment for the visiting president.

Plans were discussed to have observances of the week in various civic clubs and Cass City Schools, but no definite decisions were made.

Awards to the second team were presented by Bob Elliott of Crosswell-Lexington. Honorable mention awards were given out by Mike Fritz of Cass City.

Coach Mike Yedinak of Cass City introduced Mr. Canham, U of M track coach, the guest speaker for the evening.

Championship Seasons Expected

Spring Sports Take Over Spotlight

Practice for both track and baseball opened this week at Cass City High School and Coaches Irv Claxman and Mike Yedinak have high hopes of two more championship teams.

Both the track and baseball squads were Thumb B Conference champions in 1966 and both have a fine crop of returning veterans to bolster the school's bid in 1967.

Baseball Team
A total of 64 candidates reported to Coach Claxman for baseball practice. Competition for starting positions will be keen, with seven returning varsity regulars from last year having the inside track for their positions.

On the hill for the Hawks will be Bob Martus who compiled a 9-1 record last season and posted the ball at a 4.11 clip.

Gene Wilson is back to cover first base and will be working to improve his .200 average of last year. Perry Hoagg, smooth working second sacker who batted .294, is back with his running mate at shortstop, Dick Hillaker, who batted .282.

Rounding out the hot corner is Jerry Dearing who proved to be a heavy sticker last year when he posted a .354 average.

Two regular outfielders who batted over .300 will anchor the outfield. Owen Quinn (.393) played left field and Bob Walpole (.310) played center.

Top prospect for the other outfield post is Jim Johnson, a letter winner last year.

Also regarded as likely candidates are Ray Fox, pitcher and outfielder; Raymond Irer, outfielder; Dave Wilson catcher; Bob Holcomb, shortstop; Newell Harris, pitcher; Paul Burdon, pitcher; Bob Behr, pitcher and outfielder, and Art Severance, catcher.

Biggest assignment for the team is to fill the all important catcher's post, vacated by Gene Pinkbeiner.

Cass City posted a perfect, 7-0, record last year and Coach Claxman is confident that the team can win again.

The League Schedule:
April 25 ..... Marquette
April 29 ..... Caro
May 2 ..... at Cros-Lex
May 6 ..... Yale
May 9 ..... at Bad Axe
May 12 ..... Sandusky
May 16 ..... at Vassar

Several non-league games will be added to the schedule in the near future, Coach Claxman said.

Track Team
A total of 35 boys headed by State Class "B" pole vaulting champion Ed Freeman reported to Coach Yedinak Monday in an attempt to win their third consecutive Thumb B Conference championship.

Last year Freeman was just two and a quarter inches short of the all-time Michigan record of 12 feet, six and a half inches. His coach looks for him to clear 13 feet this year, barring injuries. Ed also participates in the high jump and low hurdles.

Many other letter winners are ready to strengthen the Hawks' bid for the crown. Clayton Neiman is running the mile under five minutes and pole vaulting about 10 feet, six inches. Forest Walpole was second only to Jack Clara last year in the 220-yard dash. Fred Leeson is a 11-foot pole vaulter, a good high jumper and a fine hurdle prospect.

Also expected to help in the dashes are Bob Hunter, John Donahue and Chuck Auvil. Bernard Kelley is a fine 440-yard man if his knee holds out. He is also a good jumper. Roger Wright and Ron Fleenor are expected to win points in the 880-yard run.

Bob Martus could be an exceptional hurdler this year. He is the only member of the track team back this year to represent Cass City at the state meet. With plenty of hard work, Yedinak expects Bob to open a lot of eyes this year.

Jerry Felton is highly regarded as a miler and Vern Peck is expected to compete in the 880-yard run.

Other fine prospects include: Jim Lefler, Andy Kozan, Jerry Dearing, Bill Creason, Pete Kriz. Concluded on page 10.

Busy Session Tuesday

Council Names King As Village Trustee

The Cass City Village Council unanimously elected Jim King to a post as trustee of the village Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the council at the Cass City Municipal Building.

Mr. King fills a vacancy caused by the resignation of B. F. Benkelman Jr. who took over the post of village president.

Two men were discussed by the council for the vacant trustee's post. Besides Mr. King, Mr. E. L. Schwaderer was considered.

Because Mr. Schwaderer said that he would rather not be tied to a village post and because he offered to donate his services as an engineer when needed, the council decided on Mr. King.

Village Taxes
The council set the village tax rate at 15 mills, the same as it has been in recent years. Total assessed valuation was $2,219,100 as compared with $2,095,200 last year. The increase in valuation was primarily caused by new property in the community. Assessor Harold Jackson said.

The increase in valuation will net the village $38,286.50, nearly $2,000 more than the $1,428.00 collected last year.

Other Business
Trustees decided to accept the bid of Cliff Ryan for a new village tractor. Bids were opened at the last meeting and a decision was reached at a special meeting held in the middle of the month. Cost to the village was $2,500.

President Benkelman reappointed Dr. F. L. Morris and Mrs. Albin Stevens as village health officers.

Annual clean-up days in the village were set for Monday and Tuesday, April 29-30.

A no parking, except for police, will be established on the southeast corner of Seeger Street at the Main Street intersection.

An amendment to the dog ordinance will increase the fee for pickups from $1 to $3, if owners want their dogs returned. Dogs will be kept three days before destroyed and the cost after the first day will be one dollar per day.

CCDA Seeks Land Plan for Township Area

The Cass City Development Association petitioned the council for a delegate to a committee for land planning outside the village of Cass City. President Benkelman appointed Cliff Ryan and Warren Wood.

The committee is expected to meet with township authorities. Members of the Development Association would like to have a new brochure of the community made in cooperation with Detroit Edison. The original brochure made in conjunction with Detroit Edison was one of the first made by the company and is now getting out of date.

Money probably does a lot of talking, but very few people get a chance to listen.
Adversity may help a man prepare for the hereafter, but it cramps his style while still on earth.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Touch of Ingenuity

Produces Interest

In Morning Meals

BREAKFASTS, sparkling with interest and ingenuity, will bring sleepheads out of bed in the morning in double-quick time. A substantial, well balanced meal will enable folks to get a full quota of work done in the morning.

Try serving the well-beloved favorites in new ways, too. Fried or poached eggs, for example don't always need to be served on toast. Why not try them on a bed of crisp cereal or these on potato patties:

Eggs-Potato Patties
(Serves 6)

- 2 cups mashed potatoes
- Salt and pepper
- 1/4 cup grated cheese
- 1 1/2 cups cooked tomatoes
- 1/4 cup chopped onions
- 6 eggs

Season potatoes (may be left over) with salt and pepper and mix with cheese. Shape into 6 patties and brown in butter. Cook to taste.

Vary the serving of the breakfast eggs by placing them carefully on top of crisp prepared cereal to take the place of toast. It will save a few minutes precious time in the morning usually spent in toasting bread and will give interesting variety to the eggs.

gather tomatoes and onions to make a thick sauce. Fry eggs as desired, place on top of patties and pour sauce over all.

Another way to use the above recipe is to omit the tomatoes and onion. Shape potato-cheese mixture into greased baking cups, break eggs in the "nest" and bake in a moderate (350° F.) oven for 15 minutes.

Hominy is an old favorite, too, here teamed with a wonderful combination of fruit and sausage for a real wake-up breakfast:

Fruited Sausages with Hominy
(Serves 6)

- 1 1/2 pounds link sausage
- 3 oranges
- 3 red apples
- 3 cups cooked hominy

Prick sausages and place in baking pan. Slice oranges and apples and place in pan with sausages. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) until sausages are brown and apples are tender. Drain off fat and add 1/4 cup to hominy and heat in oven. Serve by placing hominy in center of platter, surrounded by fruit and sausages.

Use Quick Trick

For Beauty's Sake

Busy, bustling days call for quick beauty tricks that can refresh a woman as well as her appearance. If you have a morning's schedule of work before dashing out to lunch, or must go out in the evening after shopping, cleaning and getting dinner, what can be done in just a little time?

Sparkling eyes are a necessity if the appearance generally is to be bright and alert. Here's one tip that won't take more than a few minutes: saturate two cotton balls with warm water. Lie them with these soothers over closed lids and they'll do away with that tight, strained feeling.

When you get up, say after five to ten minutes or whatever you can spare, dry the eyes and brush baby oil over the brows to give them a pretty sheen. Before mascara, use a powder-tipped cotton ball pressed to the lashes. This gives the illusion of thicker lashes as well as improves the clinging quality of the mascara.

Chapped Skin

If skin has been dried and chapped by heat or wind, then don't use your usual cleansing cream but rather a heavy rich cream, preferably one fortified or enriched with lanolin. Omit the usual face washing and cleanse with the rich cream, letting it stand for a few minutes longer than usual to restore some of the natural moisture to the skin.

Wipe off the cream with deep, gentle, upward strokes. If you are going to use make-up immediately, use only a small amount of as-trogen or cool water on the skin before applying the base and powder.

Shining Halo

Heat filled rooms can dry the hair just as much as sun during the summer. Here's where brushing will be a big help, as it will bring oils from the root of the hair and distribute it all over the head to give you a shining halo.

When weekly shampoo time rolls around, use a shampoo which will add gleaming highlights to the hair.

A thought people should keep stowed away in the back of their heads is that money is not wealth.

All the world may be a stage, but the spectators are not charged admission fees.

Reformers never die—eventually they just lose their aim.

Most people find it easy to be optimistic as long as things are coming their way.

Truth sure is stranger than fiction—when it comes from the lips of some people.

The scheme of life seems to be that one half of it is ruined by our parents, and the other half by our children.

It's a good idea to remember that what you allow to enter your mind also goes into building your character.

Ladies! Why ask for backache?

Look...

- You have a washer that takes the hard work out of washing!
- You have a range that takes the fatigue out of cooking!
- You have a vacuum that takes the muscle out of cleaning!

But what good do they do if you break your back every ironing day?

The appliances you have are wonderful! They help you live longer, look younger, feel better. So why let hand ironing... the last tough, mean, dreary job in the house... rob you of your looks, your health and your youth? You don't have to!

For now there's a simple way to iron, too. There's a wonderful appliance that lets you sit down, relax, and iron beautifully, in less than half the time it takes you by hand. That appliance is the Ironrite Automatic Ironer. It's simple to operate and amazingly inexpensive. It will iron anything you can wash, and it will end, once and for all, the achy, worn-out, tired-all-over feeling of old-fashioned ironing days.

We want you to try ironing the simple way... on an Ironrite. We want you to come in, sit down at one of our floor models, and see for yourself how simple, how relaxing this revolutionary way of ironing really is.

SHORT STORY

Hilda's Husband

By M. McGurdy Welch

NOW that David is a second grader, he's beginning to think and to ask questions. Sometimes it's hard to find the answers, so I consult with Agatha, an elderly relative who lives with David and me in our little white cottage with the roses around the front door.

Always I'd wanted a white cottage and now I have it, and I have David and Agatha to say nothing of Bounce, the shepherd puppy, and life seems almost complete.

I won't deny that I once dreamed of other things. Love, for instance. But all that is in the past now. And when David tells me he thinks a father would be nice, I tell him marriage is a very serious business.

I asked Agatha what I should tell David when he asks these questions about a father. He knows I'm not his real mother. She was my younger sister, and died when David was born. So he calls me Aunt-Mommy, and now and then he reminds me that an Uncle-Daddy would be fine.

Agatha said, "Well, love, you can tell him you're too busy to

Agatha said, "You really ought to get married. Sam Baker is still courting you."

I think about getting married. Or, you could tell him about John Galway and how you two quarreled and broke your engagement when you were very young."

"Suppose we talk about the weather," I said angrily and went to my room.

The next day when I came home from my work, which is that of county nurse, I sat down in the swing on the front porch and soon saw Bounce racing toward the corner of the house and David hopping skipping down the walk to meet him. He had just come home from school. Boy and dog landed in the swing beside me.

David gave a squeal of laughter. "Betcha I got all A's," he exclaimed and Bounce leaped over and licked my cheek.

"That means a present. How'd you like a cow-boy suit?"

"How 'bout a father? That's the best," David said beguilingly.

"David, you must—you must—"

But Agatha interrupted by calling us in to supper.

When we were finishing, Agatha said, "You really ought to get married. Sam Baker is still courting you. He brought a basket of apples today. Last month it was grapes." Then she added, "Now you take John Galway, a real man if ever was—"

"You take him. I'm going to take to my bed," I marched out of the kitchen, head held high.

Two or three mornings later, Agatha received a special delivery letter. I never dreamed that it had anything to do with me.

I was late getting home one afternoon. Lighted candles were on the dining room table, roses in a bowl David came dancing in. "A man is here who says he's going to marry you."

"David, a joke can go too far—"

I suddenly heard firm steps and John Galway came in from the kitchen. He looked tall and muscular, and there were little swatches of gray at his temples. "Hilda, how good it is to see you again," he exclaimed.

David and Agatha left the room. I looked at John coldly. His eyes held a twinkle. "I wrote Agatha asking if she thought you and I could be friends again. She told me that every time my name was mentioned you got mad. A woman who's indifferent to a man doesn't get riled up every time his name is mentioned."

"John, please—"

"Look, lovely, there are many reasons why I still want to marry you, but the main one is because I never could stop loving you."

I looked into his kind, smiling face, tried to turn away. Then to my surprise I heard myself saying, "It's a conspiracy. It seems that a boy needs a father and a woman needs a husband."

"Right you are!" John echoed heartily.

"I don't know what I said after that. I seemed only to realize what I'd been missing all these years."

The less some people have to say, the more difficult it is for them not to say it.

The most severe critic is the person who does the least to brighten this old world.

Pay little attention to the man whose specialty is excuse making.

SHORT STORY

Young Executive

By Venus English

IT ISN'T the strain of making decisions and getting things done that drives a guy nuts—it's the things he wants to do and can't do anything about.

The musical but unwanted cadence of the alarm intruded into his dream. He sensed that Madge stirred, but it hardly disturbed the even flow of his slumber.

The cap didn't fit just right. It felt stiff and awkward. What he wanted to do was tie it over one eye, give a final gay salute to Alma Mater and go out to fight lions. It was good to know the drudgery of college was over and he was free. The slowness of the march made his muscles ache.

With superhuman control he stepped, waited, stepped again, until at last it was over. He was at the office. The Personnel Manager left him in the Conference Room with the Training Guide. He felt wonderful except for a twinge of pity for all the people he had seen sitting listlessly about at desks, toying with papers and machines. They, he supposed, were necessary in a place where there were Executives. That was what the job scout and the Personnel Manager had said they were looking for—honorable students for Future Young Executives.

Madge came in, pert and pretty, with a note for the Training Guide, and quite naturally the monotony fell away from learning Procedure. He didn't know her name was Madge. It took several days to find out, and to find her.

A raise after three months and a desk where papers began to pile up as he learned how to apply the Procedure Bulletins to the work at hand. And there was always Madge in the background. He hardly knew what was going on, he was so nervous at the wedding. Madge was beautiful, and his second raise would cover the payment on the furniture in their tiny apartment. And any day now he'd be having a title at the office.

The agony of waiting fell away as he gazed on the beautiful features of his newborn son. The other babies seemed wrinkled and red, but his baby was beautiful. The baby must have a house and yard, and a Young Executive should make a good impression. He tightened his belt and decided he didn't need a new suit. He would cut down on lunches, too.

And now there was a baby girl and Milton was very proud; so proud that he sometimes forgot the monotony of fitting letters and cases to the rules in the Procedure Bulletin books.

And there was Cathie, born prematurely, and Madge didn't get along so good and the bills piled up and now he really needed a raise, and Milton asked about it, and they said, "Later, when you get a promotion" and Milton talked to the others around him, the drudges who didn't want to be Executives, and he found that all of them were waiting to be Young Executives, but they had been waiting longer than he had. And Milton decided there was no future in his job, and he talked to Madge about getting a different job, and she said how could he? What would they live on, and how could they make payments on the house and the new furniture that they had just had to buy and the doctor bills?

And Milton fled from the house to get away from her voice, and he was sitting at his desk and the Procedure Bulletin books had all come apart and the pages were falling over him and threatening to smother him, and Madge's voice came through the fluttering pages: "Milton! Milton, wake up. I'm going down to get breakfast. Are you awake?"

He forced his head through the Procedure Bulletins and opened his eyes. He was in his own bed in the same familiar room, and Madge was shaking him by the shoulder. "Um-m-m yeh," he murmured. "Now, don't go back to sleep or you'll be late for work. You're harder to get up than the children." She started to leave, but turned, hand on the doorknob. "Happy forty-fifth birthday," she called back.

The man who attempts to drown his sorrow in drink only succeeds in getting his head to swim.

People who live double lives are apt to find in the long run that neither is to be commended.

Michigan Mirror News in Brief

By Elmer E. White.
Michigan Press Association
More than election victories is at stake for Republicans in the April 1 balloting. They could lose party pipelines into state administration.

It would be bad enough, from the GOP standpoint, to lose control of the State Highway Commissioner and Superintendent of Public Instruction posts. Since these two officials are the only remaining Republicans on the State Administrative Board, their defeat would put the "little legislature" completely in the hands of Democrats.

The State Ad Board consists of the governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, auditor general, attorney general, treasurer and the two posts involved in the coming election. It has substantial power, particularly when the regular legislature is not in session.

Outstate votes can be the vital factor.

Republican leaders are confident they can win if only half the non-metropolitan residents who voted in the presidential race will go to the polls April 1. Since the Wayne County area is heavily Democratic, the GOP knows it must build a strong outstate lead. Democrats, on the other hand, are aiming to get out the vote especially in Wayne, Macomb and Oakland Counties. Their leaders state they want a heavy vote everywhere, but that they count on southeastern Michigan for a victory, if it is to materialize.

Lack of interest which often characterizes this type of election disturbs many leading citizens. The candidates elected have important functions. The nature of the state's educational system is designed by winners of the balloting. How local schools will be administered; the operation of MSU, U of M and Wayne State University, as well as other state controlled colleges, is determined by people selected in this voting.

It's true but politically true: Many an undesirable candidate has been elected with a small turnout—and by the voter who stayed away from the polls.

Most citizens are hazy about the way a state law is born. The operation of the legislature seems remote from most households.

Actually, this is not the case. Every voter is directly represented by a person in each of the two legislative chambers: a representative and a senator.

Machinery for making laws has developed over the years.

Here's how it works:
Any member of the legislature can introduce a proposal he wishes to recommend to become law. When he does so, the proposal is called a bill and is assigned a number. Senate bills are numbered starting at 1000; House bills start with one.

The bill is read twice (usually by title only) to the chamber where it originates. It is then assigned to one of several standing committees of legislators appointed at the beginning of the session. These groups of five to 15 men give the proposed law close examination. Unless a public hearing is called for testimony, the committees meet in private.

About half the bills die in committee. This means that the committee does nothing officially with them. The bills a committee approves are reported to the full chamber with a recommendation for favorable action.

The committee can report a bill "unfavorably" or with no recommendation, but this seldom happens. No report at all prevents the entire chamber from discussing the bill.

After one chamber of the legislature approves a proposal, it goes to the other chamber for a similar work-out.

If it then passes this procedure, it then goes before the governor. He can veto it, in which case both the house and the senate must go through the procedure again. And this time the bill must pass by a two-thirds vote instead of a simple majority.

The governor can also sign the bill which makes it a law. Or he can do nothing, in which case the bill automatically becomes law after 10 days.

In the present session about 600 bills are expected to be introduced.

Can unions spend funds for political purposes?
This issue originally was placed before the federal courts in Michigan in 1954 when the justice department brought a suit against the United Auto Workers for violation of the corrupt practices act as amended by the Taft-Hartley act.

At that time Judge Frank A. Picard dismissed the case. Now the U. S. Supreme Court says that he was wrong in doing so and has ordered the case to trial.

The case arose over a UAW television program which gave breaks to Democratic candidates. The Republican state chairman turned the information over to the justice Department. He charged that many Republican union members were forced to make contributions to campaigns of opponents when the union supported the Democrats.

The corrupt practices act long ago outlawed political contributions from corporations in campaigns involving a federal post. The Taft-Hartley act places unions in the same category.

Chances are it will be several years before a final decision is reached. The case already has been before the courts for more than two years.

Now it must be tried on its merits before the federal courts in Michigan. On a question of such great importance it is almost a foregone conclusion that the losing side will appeal the decision to the Supreme Court once again.

Ability is measured by what a man finishes—not what he begins.

WOMAN'S WORLD

For Color, Wear

Select Carpets With Much Care

YOU can change the color of your walls, drapes or curtains and even upholstery rather easily, but what you choose in rugs and carpets will have to stay with you many years because they are quite an investment.

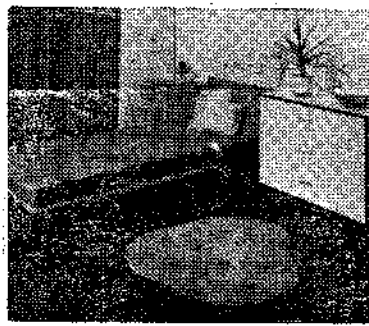

When you select quality in rugs, you are not overspending although the initial investment seems like quite a bit at the time. Good rugs will wear for a long time, and they will look wonderful all the time you're using them.

Color Preference
Colors in rugs are many and varied these days and the choice is up to you. However, like the rug, make it carefully, because it can't be changed readily once you have it.

Rugs can be gay and cheerful, they can be dull and monotonous, especially if you like a foil for the bright accents in the room, or if your decor is modern.

On the other hand, if you're looking for a good long term investment be conservative by choosing greens, blue greens, rich brown, gray or rose. These are middle value colors which will probably go with new slipcovers and drapes if you're careful about choosing colors for them.

High style colors like cherry, plum, moss or bottle green,

An accent rug should have interesting texture and color such as this one shaped like a huge strawberry, entirely tufted in a rich luscious red. The top is finished with green tufted leaves and a pert green tassel.

charcoal, cinnamon and chocolate brown are high fashion colors and give the room flair and lift. The eye will be drawn to them so the rest of the room should be rather muted in color interest.

Textured or Smooth
Textures are of great interest at the present time and many women like them because with texture, tracking doesn't show much, if at all. Texture does not fight with patterned walls or other pattern interest in the room.

Smooth weaves like velvet have a very luxurious appearance and are at the best in formal or period rooms. It's also useful for tying the room together if the room has an irregular size or has lots of jogs.

Smooth weaves like the twist broadlooms are still popular, smart and correct.

If you're getting a rug which will not cover the room, they should be from 8 to 12 inches from the side of the room. These are especially for making large rooms appear smaller.

Angel Pie Makes Festive Dessert

Need a gala dessert for topping off a ladies' luncheon? You can do no better than the fabulous angel pies because they are festive enough for any fancy occasion.

Those who have freezers can make them in advance of the big occasion, and that will save a bit of time when you have the flurry of getting other things ready.

Mocha Angel Pie
(Makes 1 pie)
3 egg whites
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
¾ cup sugar
2 packages semi-sweet chocolate
1 tablespoon instant coffee
¼ cup boiling water
½ pint whipping cream
1 teaspoon vanilla

Add cream of tartar to egg whites and beat on high speed until soft peaks form. Gradually add the sugar, beating constantly until mixture is stiff and shiny. Spread about ½ of the meringue over the bottom and sides of a well-greased pie plate (spread just to the flange on the side of the plate to allow for expansion during the baking. Drop remaining meringue in mounds (or use a pastry bag) along rim of the plate. Bake one hour in a slow (275°F.) oven until shell is light brown and crisp.

Melt chocolate over warm water. Combine instant coffee and water. Add to chocolate and stir until smooth. Cool for 5 minutes. Whip cream until stiff; add vanilla. Stir in chocolate mixture. Pour into cooled meringue shell. Chill until set.

If the angel pie is frozen (after proper freezer wrapping), allow it to thaw for half an hour before serving. Cut carefully around the edge so it will not break the meringue.

Cattle on Decrease On Nation's Farms

The downward swing in cattle numbers this year is just entering its typical cycle, but experts feel that it is not expected to last as long as in previous periods.

This report from Alfred Ballweg, county agricultural agent, indicates that this cattle number drop will be short lived.

Numbers of cattle on U. S. farms usually run in cycles—with numbers falling over a period of years and then rising again to new heights over another period of years.

After a seven-year upswing, cattle populations for the first time this year are showing a downward swing. This drop applies to all classes of animals with milk down one per cent, calves down one per cent, beef cattle down two per cent and steers down four per cent.

Most of the decrease has occurred in the Great Plains region stretching from Canada to the Rio Grande and the Gulf of Mexico. Drouth is part of the answer, but lower prices and reaching grazing capacity is also a part of the cause for this drop back in production.

Normally, cattle cycles continue downward for a few years—this one will probably do the same—but present prospects are that the decrease this time be slower, tending toward a shorter cycle than those of the past.

Set 4-H Spring Achievement Dates

Tuscola County 4-H Spring Achievement programs will be held at the following districts in April, announced Bill Muller, County 4-H Club Agent. Gagetown school, April 15; Akron Community Center, April 16; Millington High School, April 22, and at the Merchants Building at the Tuscola County Fairgrounds on Saturday, April 27.

Forty-three clubs will be completing winter projects in clothing, handicraft, electrical and foods projects, just to mention a few.

The following 4-H leaders are Achievement Chairmen: Mrs. Preston Karr, Gagetown; Mrs. Vivian Whalen, Akron; Mrs. Fred Taylor, Millington, and Mrs. Fred Starkey at Caro.

Each district will have an evening program which is open to the public.

People who are always able to do as they please are seldom able to please anybody.

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

Five Years Ago.
Tom Schwaderer, Charlyne Bartz, Bob Fritz, Jack Connell and Marjorie Holcomb represented Cass City High School's student council at a regional student council conference at Midland Senior High School Tuesday. The assessed valuation for Cass City in 1952 is $43,150.00 higher than it was in 1951, according to figures turned in to the council by village assessor Harold Jackson Tuesday night.

Village President Cliff Croft asked the village council to begin forming a three-year plan for activities in the village. The long-range planning of projects and budgeting will enable the village to work with a mapped campaign always ahead of them. Each new council is to add a year to the program when they meet to formulate plans.

Meat Type Hogs Needed in State

Meat-type hogs, produced and sold off-season, might be a real money-maker for you, suggests Alfred Ballweg, county agricultural agent.

There are not enough meat-type, No. 1 hogs produced in Michigan, according to packers. They have to go out of the state for this kind of hog that their market demands. Many packers buy No. 1 hogs exclusively. And No. 1 hogs are long, meaty animals, neither fat nor thin. They weigh about 200 pounds.

The hog supply is fairly abundant in Michigan in April and May, October and November. During the remaining months, it becomes necessary for packers to buy in other states in order to fill their requirements.

Hogs sold in July or August must be farrowed in February and March, and those sold in January and February must be born in August and September.

Final Rites Held In Decatur Wednesday

Mrs. Mary Ellen Norman, 70, died Saturday night in Saginaw General Hospital, where she had been a patient for two weeks.

Mrs. Norman had been living in Cass City with her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Gauer. She was born April 9, 1886, in Fayette County, Ill.

The remains were taken from the Douglas Funeral Home to Detroit Monday, and from there to the J. J. Moran Funeral Home in Decatur, Ill. Funeral services were held in Decatur Wednesday. Burial was in Graceland Cemetery.

Nothing wrong with the dreamer who gets up and hustles when the alarm clock rings.

Some people are always right without reason, and others can be wrong with one.

Forecast Dynamic Decade of Growth For Michigan

Michigan is headed for a dynamic decade of growth, according to forecasts by H. E. Crampton, assistant vice-president for business research of Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

In an article appearing in The Michigan Business Review, published by The University of Michigan School of Business Administration, he foresees:

Michigan's population growing from the present 7,500,000 to about eight and a half or nine million persons in the next 10 years. Personal income in Michigan should increase during the period by about $600 million a year.

Crampton believes personal income per adult in Michigan will be about $3,915 by 1966; today it is about $3,143. For the state as a whole personal income should rise from $15.4 billion in 1956 to $22 billion in 1966.

Employment in goods-producing industries in Michigan has been growing at about 4,000 per year. However, in the service industries (construction, transportation, utilities, retail, etc.) the growth in employment has been much faster—about 32,000 per year. If these rates continue, Crampton says, Michigan would achieve employment of 1,709,000 in service industries and 1,939,000 in manufacturing by 1966.

Migration into the state, Crampton points out, has accounted for more than one-third of Michigan's population increase during the past 10 years.

Michigan's immigration was exceeded in the 1950-56 period only by California and Florida.

This would be a finer world to live in if experience could only be bought on credit.

Man may be born free and equal, but the world sees to it that many changes are made.
