EVERYTHING YOU DO!

FROM THE MOMENT you awaken until you go to bed, almost everything you do is closely dependent upon the operation of trucks. In fact even while you're asleep, trucks are working for you. (Beds arrive by truck, too, of course.)

Without trucks, your favorite food market would have empty shelves. Without trucks, you wouldn't find gas stations located conveniently almost everywhere you turn. Without trucks, the building of new homes, factories, and stores would slow to a walk and businesses of all kinds everywhere would suffer.

Sooner or later, everything you eat, wear, or use depends on trucks for transportation. Eventually, everything has to get to you—the consumer. So, when you consider that trucks haul three times the tonnage handled by all the other forms of transportation combined, you realize how very important they are to you!

BULEN TALKS Cars

Unlike almost every other piece of machinery, an automobile has to be kept not only in good running order, but also in good stopping order.

The car manufacturers have recognized this and one of the side-lights that's been largely overlooked in the so-called "horsepower race" is that as engines have become more powerful, the car makers have been turning out brakes that are larger and more efficient.

But, I'm afraid, most people don't pay much attention to their brakes until the car begins to pull to one side, or the brakes begin to fade.

Pulling to one side can have a lot of causes. A rear spring shackle that's too tight can do it, or a coil spring that's weak can pull a car over to that side.

The pull may be on the opposite side of the car to where the trouble is. We find pulling to the right because the line to the left front brake is clogged. Or a car will pull to the left if a little brake fluid gets on the right hand brake lining.

Tires are extremely important in this problem. The front tires must be kept at the same pressure and have similar tread.

Some people think you have to have "pull" to get ahead in this world. The one great big exception in automobiles. With them, pull can be dangerous.

As with most car problems, there are a dozen or more possible answers. The only people who can hope to have all the answers are trained mechanics. I certainly don't have all the answers myself, that's why factory-trained mechanics with plenty of practical experience are the kind we have on our payroll.

Incidentally, if your car is in need of repairs, of course we will be glad to make the necessary repairs. However, you might be able to save a few dollars and not spend the money on repairs if you consider one of our OK reconditioned and guaranteed used cars that are displayed on our used car lot. Trading has been brisk of late and there is undoubtedly a model in inventory to your liking. Why not drive in and check them over? We are open evenings for your convenience too.

SHORT STORY

It ALL began because there were these two Johnnies in our class—Johnny Lane and Johnny Rankin. And this new girl—well, you couldn't expect her to remember everybody the very first week of school. Anyway, all the fellows were giving her a buzz and the old girls were green-eyed and probably helped mix her up on purpose.

There was going to be this dance after the night basketball game, and Johnny Lane has a long red convertible that his dad lets him drive if he'll promise to be in by eleven—which he never is. All the girls stand in line smiling at him and hoping he'll ask one of them to be THE one. But Johnny's a good scout even if his folks have got money and he's sort of dumb-looking, and he usually just says, "Come on, everybody," and they pile in these deep.

Johnny Rankin—that's me—has a souped-up cross between a hot rod and a jalopy. Parts of it come from the junk-yard and the rest from two old cars my dad left sitting in his used-car lot until they rusted and I wheeled him out with Johnny Rankin until Johnny Lane's bus is full.

So I hung around the hall that Friday afternoon until Lora Lee came out. She was all by herself.

An honest confession may be good for the soul, but it places a great strain on a reputation.

A reformer can talk his head off, but he can't get people interested in the blessings of poverty.

—The old girls were still acting stand-offish, even my old girl Milie Wilson, as nice as she is to everybody—because, I s'pose, this new gal has blonde naturally-curly hair and those big charcoal eyes that men go for. I felt into step with her and offered to carry her books.

She laughed then—that little tinkling laugh that had made me shudder the first day that I was going to make a play for her.

"You're cute, Johnny. I've been watching you, too. Didn't you drive that fancy car of yours to school today?"

"Nipe. It's in for repairs—new chromium and push-buttons. But it will be finished tonight. How about going to the dance with me after the game?"

"Oo-oo-oh! I'd love to," she smiled, and I should have known there was a slip-up.

I hardly tasted Mom's apple dumplings and whipped cream, I went next door to get my neck and ears washed and get going. If only the old boss would start—but she did, after a few tromps on the starter. I reared up the block back-lehng like a steam-shovel, and there stood Johnny Lane's fire-engine and they were getting in.

They roared off and I—well, no one can give Johnny Rankin the brush-off. I drove right around past Milie's house. I just yelled, "Hi Milie, wanta go to the game?" And she got up from the porch smiling and said, "I guess so," just like that—and I had me a date.

Milie is a sweet old kid and never stood on formalities like this new doll.

At the dance afterward, I found seats right near them and kept holding Milie's hand in whispering sweet things to her.

When I went after cokes, Lora was at my elbow. "I'm sorry about getting you two Johnnies mixed up," she whispered. "I guess maybe I got the wrong Johnny after all. That Johnny Lane is a stick. How about changing dances with us? Maybe we could slip out and take a ride."

"That was a new one. No girl I know would suggest taking fellows for a dance, I didn't like it," I said. "Well, I'll see Milie." But when I got back I seemed to see Milie for the first time. She may not have charcoal-smudged eyes and class, but suddenly I remembered the hot-dog she'd split with me and the fun we'd always had, and I pulled her up and I remember a firm arm around her this time and waved "No deal" to Lora. Milie said "We ought to be starting home. We may have to walk it." "That would be nice," I murmured into her hair, and danced her out the door.

People never lose their self-respect by acting on the square.

Money talks—but it always talks loudest when it chatters.

CAN'T FACE IT

3-Minute Fiction

"Didn't you drive that fancy car of yours to school today?"

Foster Leads DHIA March Testing

George Foster, Postaria dairyman and owner of a registered Holstein cow, No. 9, took first place honors for the month of March in the list of cows producing 60 pounds or more of butterfat. This cow produced 2,310 pounds of milk and 98 pounds of butterfat. In second place stand three cows, a grade Holstein owned by Paul and Orvin Titoworth of Millington, a grade Holstein owned by Helen Sawney of Uly, and one producing 94 pounds of butterfat. In third place is a grade Holstein cow owned by Max Gropp of Kingston, producing 93 pounds of butterfat. In fourth place is a registered Holstein cow owned by Herman Kern of Reese, producing 91 pounds of butterfat. Other dairymen with cows producing 85 pounds or more of butterfat in this class are Melvin Thibodeau, Frankennuth; Clayton Rohlf and Sons, Fairgrove; Frank Satchell, Caro; Lavern Engelhardt, Unionville; Max Cooper, Kingston; Wallace and Tom Laurie, Cass City; William Burdon, Gagetown; E. G. Golding, Cass City; George Foster, Postaria; Mrs. Gladys Fort, Cass City; Elmer Kern, Reese; Clayton Rohlf and Sons, Fairgrove; Harry and Royce Brown, Gagetown; Maynard McConkey, Cass City; and Chare Carpenter, Cass City.

In the 305-day record class, a registered Holstein cow, No. 5 years, owned by Clayton Rohlf and Sons of Fairgrove, heads the list with a total of 16,370 pounds of milk and 623 pounds of fat. Other dairy herd improvement association members with cows producing over 400 pounds fat in this class are George Foster (Postaria); Bruce MacInnes, Cass City; Quibro Farm, Caro; Mrs. Gladys Fort, Cass City; Karl Koch, Millington; Charles E. Cook, Deford; Ruben Rohloff, Reese; Walter Medowar, Reese; Arthur and Harvey Hohnhaedt, Reese; Maynard McConkey, Cass City; Lavern Engelhardt, Unionville; and Howard Foster, Fairgrove.

There were 70 herds with a total of 1,714 cows under dairy herd improvement association test during March, said Baltweg.

The man who keeps his herd above water leaves no time for grass to grow under his feet.

The man who wants to prove everything he says invests the fact that he cannot be trusted.

The worker who watches the clock gives the boss reason to watch for someone else to take his place.

TRENTON, N. J.—Workmen at the American Steel & Wire plant here have just completed 268 suspender ropes for the Mackinac Straits Bridge. The 2 1/2" diameter ropes vary in length from 27 feet to 722 feet. At the top, a rope is being prestressed to remove structural elasticity and is measured. On the left, molten zinc is poured into the forged steel socket at the end of the rope. These sockets are the knots which tie the steel truss roadway to the main cables. The rope being reeled for shipment to the bridge site in Michigan on the right, has a catalog strength of 235 tons.

New Fruit Jam Is Tasty, Inexpensive

You'll be seeing this rhubarb and blueberry "blubarb" jam combination on the market. The new fruit combination jam is explained by Mrs. Frances P. Clark, county home demonstration agent. Neither fruit is well suited for commercial jams when used alone.

Rhubarb is too bland for flavorful preserves and too expensive for moderately priced ones; blueberry jams are inexpensive, but too tart for wide popular appeal.

By combining the two in equal parts by weight, you can bring out the best qualities of both. Rhubarb and blueberry flavors complement each other and give the blubarb jam a tempting wild-berry flavor. Because rhubarb is generally inexpensive, the commercially made, blended jam is expected to be reasonably priced.

Mrs. Clark says rhubarb products are not yet on the market. But, when they appear on your grocer's shelves, you may see pineapple sirup and pie mix, as well as jam.

The Want Ads Are Newsworthy Tool

By Elmer E. White Michigan Press Association. An immediate savings of $1 to $1 million will benefit Michigan taxpayers this year if the legislature approved a new financing method for a Michigan State University building program.

This feature is part of a dynamic new plan which could in a single stroke solve the critical college classroom shortage and provide a coordinated expansion program for MSU.

Additional advantages provided by the plan were listed by MSU's President John A. Hannah, who heartily endorsed the proposal (Hannah stated that): 1. The buildings will become available now for immediate needs. 2. The bill provides for necessary expansion without placing large demands upon the current income of the State of Michigan. 3. Assuming that building costs will continue to increase, an additional savings will result by immediate construction. 4. Costs of the new educational buildings will be spread over future generations of students, those that will join first.

Heart of the proposal introduced by Senators Frank D. Beaulieu (R-S), Chair, Robert E. Pankner (R-Columbia) and Edward Hutchinson (R-Pontiac) covers around the use of student fees.

Right now, all student fees are used as part of the operating expenses of MSU. The rest of the operating costs are supplied by the state legislature. Funds for new buildings must be approved separately by the legislature, and come from taxes. This is done on a year to year basis.

Under the new plan student fees would be earmarked for the construction of new classrooms and laboratories at MSU. The state would contribute no money for new buildings. Future legislatures would be asked only to provide operating expenses for the University.

Effect of the bill would be the immediate launching of a $70 million construction program of the East Lansing University according to President Hannah. The new classrooms would be built during the next three years using private funds. Student fees for the next 10 years would be pledged to repay the loan. "This new approach is needed to solve problems of financing classroom needs," Hannah stated. "Our space situation is critical and under current procedures of annual appropriations for capital outlay will (by the legislature) grow much worse."

How do we save up to $1 million? Using the next fiscal year as an example Hannah points out that "the governor's budget proposal for Michigan State $25,000,000 for operating expenses, and $7,000,000 for new construction a total of $32,000,000.

"With an average student fee for next year estimated at about $1,000,000, the legislature would be asked to appropriate the full amount of operating costs, (about $27,000,000) but nothing for new buildings. That's a difference in total budget request of more than $5,000,000."

The new plan is an outgrowth of the program adopted by President Hannah after World War II. At that time he borrowed capital from private sources to construct dormitories, married student housing, laundry facilities, and to add to the athletic plant, health center, music and student services buildings. Loans were repaid through the earnings of these facilities.

Study classrooms and laboratories will be included in the new program if it receives legislative approval. Student fees will repay the "principal" of the earlier project as security for the loan.

As the bill now stands it applies only to Michigan State. However, if other Michigan universities and colleges desire to use the same financial arrangements the bill can be amended to include them, Sen. Beaulieu commented.

A move to prevent "unjust enrichment" by trading stamp companies was under way in the Michigan senate last week. A bill sponsored by Senators Lewis G. Christian (R-Ann Arbor) and Harold M. Ryan (D-Detroit) would require that the cash value of unredeemed trading stamps that have been issued more than seven years be paid by the trading stamp companies to the state's general revenue fund.

Legally speaking, this action would place unredeemed trading stamps under Michigan's "escheats law."

Supporters of the bill reason that:

1. The trading stamp companies sell the stamps at assigned value.

2. Some trading stamps are never redeemed. 3. The companies have received money for the stamps and they no longer own them. 4. Since the true owners cannot be determined, the value of the stamps that are not redeemed should be turned over to the state.

Actual value of unredeemed stamps is a closely guarded secret. Some trading stamp companies say it is very small.

Others contend that a large proportion of the stamps are never turned in and that the trading companies are reaping large profits.

Revolutionary New Trade-In Plan

from FRIGIDAIRE now at CASS CITY OIL AND GAS

At last! You can turn in old appliances for new as easy as trading in your car!

All-New 1957 FRIGIDAIRE Food Freezer-Refrigerator

We're making it apple-pie easy for you to own the wonderful new Sheer Look Frigidaire Refrigerator of your choice—making it thrifty for you, too, by giving you top trade-in allowance for your present refrigerator if it's still in operating condition. Here's how the plan works:

Depending on the make, age and size of your present refrigerator, you can save up to 100% on the regular advertised price of a new 1957 Frigidaire model by trading now. No red tape—no quibbling (you get the benefit of any doubt)—no, not even a penny down in most cases!

We'll give you the full book-value for your refrigerator, a bona fide price you can see for yourself in black and white, often much higher than ever thought possible.

Why wait? Come in today—let's talk trade. Your present refrigerator's worth more now than it will ever be again.

You're years ahead in style and features with one of these "beauty queens" in your kitchen. Thanks to the new Sheer Look, America's finest refrigerator is now the space-savingest, too!

Gone are the space-wasting bulges and outcrops; gone are the dirt-and-grease-catching gaps. Instead, every line stands T-square true and plumb-line straight, squaring up to walls and counters to give all kitchens that treasured "built-in" look.

And just think of the bang you can get out of these up-to-the-minute work-saving features:

New Plan-A-Deer Storage—adjustable shelves and compartments you can group as you wish.

Roll-to-You Shelves—put every dish and package at your finger tips.

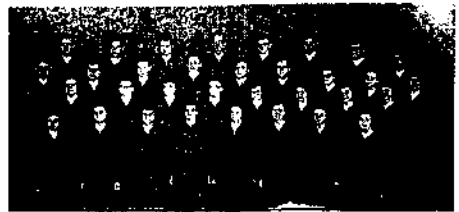

Cycle-Matic Defrosting in refrigerator section—works automatically on its own without clocks, timers or drip pans.

Full-Width Food Freezers—real zero zone and family-size storage sections for one-a-week shopping, and welcome savings on mid-week "specials."

New Safety-Seal Door—for sure cold-retaining door closure. Opens easily from outside or inside.

Trade Today—the sooner you do the more you Save!

75th ANNIVERSARY

APRIL 18th, 1957

The Cass City Bank was organized as a private bank April 18th, 1882, by Curtis W. McPhail -- seventy-five years ago.

It is the oldest bank in the Thumb of Michigan.

We are not exceedingly proud of the fact, but the building is also the oldest bank building in the Thumb. It was built in 1883.

As a matter of interest, Larry McPhail was born above the bank; Larry McPhail, who tried to kidnap the Kaiser, who brought night-baseball into vogue, who made such a success of the Cincinnati Reds, Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees, and who now is breeding the best horses in the U. S.

The bank was purchased by Auten, Seeley and Blair in 1895 and by Isaac B. Auten in 1905.

In 1921 it became a State Bank.

In March 1933, it was closed and the stockholders assessed 100%. However, it was the first reorganized bank in Michigan to pay all depositors and stockholders in full together with interest.

The bank has been generous to its customers in the payment of interest. In 1950 the directors decided that, if the bank made profits warranting it, it should pay extra amounts of interest to the depositors and this policy has been followed for the past seven years. Last year 2½% was paid to all savings depositors.

The employees of the bank are not all spring chickens. The President has been with the bank, except for a period during the first world war, since 1912; he still tries to work a few hours a day. The Cashier, Buz to you, has been with the bank thirty-seven years; he has not worked himself thin. Irene joined the force in 1936; she does most of the work in the front room. Gertrude came in 1942; she does most of the work in the back office. Fred is just cutting his eyeteeth; he has been here only eight years. You can tell him from his Dad for he has more hair.

John Sandham and M. B. Auten have been directors thirty-six years.

The bank now has a capital structure of over $300,000. The bank building, furniture and fixtures are carried at one dollar; some say that is enough. Its deposits are over $3,000,000.

If, over the past seventy-five years, this bank has proved of benefit to members of this community or, if it has helped make this community a better place in which to live, then, and only then, has its existence been justified.

Tuscola County Brucellosis Free

With only two herds remaining from which blood samples must be taken, only 24 herds out of a total of 1,970 show some kind of infection as of April 10, said Alfred Ballweg, county agricultural agent. Only 82 cattle out of a total of 26,008 carry the infection.

This represents about one infected animal for every 300 clean. The actual per cent infection at the present time is about 1.2% of the herds and .27 per cent of the cattle. According to the standards set up by the bureau of animal disease control, Michigan department of agriculture, Tuscola County could not become a certified brucellosis-free county until the infection rate was less than 5% of the herds and less than 1% of the cattle.

Tuscola County livestock owners, as well as many other people interested in eradication of the disease from the county, may well be proud of the job they have done.

Dr. R. H. Fish, state veterinarian located in Tuscola County, along with local veterinarians, has worked closely in the county-wide eradication program.

Tuscola County is now ready to adopt the test and slaughter or plan a program. Clean Bang's-free herds of dairy and beef cattle in Tuscola County will not only be a safeguard to public health but to the income of dairy and beef cattle farmers.

Growing Elk Herd

These three scenes, taken by Conservation Department photographer Robert Harrington northeast of Vanderbilt, show a few individuals in Michigan's prospering elk herd. The herd started from a few animals released in Pigeon River state forest more than 30 years ago and today numbers about 600.

Demonstration Week Slated for April 28—May 4

Six hundred and seventy-five Tuscola county homemakers subscribed to the motto "Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World" when they became home demonstration members. Now they are joining more than 6 1/2 million other women throughout the country in observing the 12th National Home Demonstration Week, April 28—May 4.

Mrs. Frances T. Clark, county home demonstration agent, explains that Tuscola county plans for celebrating the week are by displaying exhibits and posters in store windows throughout the county. The purpose, she explains "is to inform other homemakers about this educational program and the help they can receive from it."

The way home demonstration work is carried on is decided in each county by its own county council, so that it varies with the needs and desires of the women and the areas in which they live. The educational program is carried out through more than 66,000 home demonstration clubs in all 48 states, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico. These groups select their own volunteer local leaders which now total 700,000. In Tuscola county there are 37 homemakers who act as these volunteer leaders.

If you and your friends are interested in starting a home demonstration group or in joining an already-formed group, Mrs. Clark suggests you contact any women that now belong to a group, or contact her at her office in the Court House, Caro, or write her.

England Buying Polled Herefords First Exportation To Great Britain

Twenty one head of registered polled Herefords have new homes in England, birthplace of the breed, as the result of purchases from American breeders. Now that polled Herefords are accepted for registry in the English Hereford Herd Book Society, this "first" shipment provides the foundation animals for polled Hereford breeding in that country and represents the first exportation to England from America in the history of the breed.

Herefords originated in Herefordshire, England, and were imported to America in 1842. Polled Herefords developed as an American innovation from purebred Herefords that were born without

A. D. McLaren, James Schofield, Dick Jopson, Jerry Gay looking over Gay's cow herd at Horn Lake, Miss., where a top two-year-old bull and two females were selected for export to England.

In establishing polled Herefords it was natural that the English would look to the original source, although Herefords both horned and polled have been exported previously to many foreign countries.

The English buying team was composed of A. D. McLaren, Hereford breeder, from Essex; Richard Jopson, manager of the Hereford establishment, Home Farm in Berkhamstead; and James Schofield of Westmoreland. The latter, a well-known judge and exporter of all breeds of livestock in Great Britain, made the actual selections and purchases.

Study Water Needs Of Beef Cattle

How much water does a cow drink? The answer depends upon a number of factors—size of animal, temperature, feed intake and moisture content of feed and whether or not the cow is lactating.

A study of water requirements of beef cattle conducted by National Live Stock Producer indicates that the average 1,000 pound steer, for example, consumes 5,000 gallons of water or 41 times his weight before he reaches market condition.

Cattle do most of their drinking in the forenoon and late afternoon as long as the temperature is below 80 degrees F.

At temperatures of 90 degrees F. or above, cattle drink every two hours or oftener.

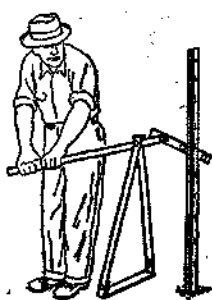

Halving the feed ration of cattle also cuts their water consumption in half.

Cattle seldom obtain more than 1/2 gallon of water from their daily feed rations.

Cattle on succulent feed such as silage or pasture require measurably less water.

The study showed that a 1,000 pound animal on maintenance rations—neither gaining nor losing weight—will consume 4 gallons of water daily at 40 degrees, 6 gallons at 70 degrees, 9 gallons at 90 degrees.

Post Puller

Handy, self-locking fence post puller is pivoted to a triangular base made of flat, angle steel, consists of a 10-in. link having two pins extending from the side to grip the post that is pivoted to the end of a lever. Both link and lever are made of flat steel. Pins are spaced far enough apart to allow them to slip over post, but close enough to grip post securely when link is drawn up at an angle.

"You'll like it even better when you drive it!"

Neighbor: Say, your new Olds sure looks like a lot of car!
Olds Owner: That's nothing, wait'll you take a ride.

(A few minutes later)

Neighbor: Man-oh-man, where'd all that power come from? I've never felt anything like that before!

Olds Owner: That's Oldsmobile's new J-2 Rocket Engine!

Neighbor: What's that? Tell me how it works.

Olds Owner: When you're driving under ordinary conditions, it uses only one carburetor. That means economy with a capital E. But when you need a sudden burst of power, for safety's sake, you just press the accelerator three-quarters of the way down—and two additional carburetors cut in!

Neighbor: In other words, with J-2, you can have economy when you want it and power when you need it. That's for me!

Olds Owner: Better see your Olds dealer. He's expecting you!

A good many people never get religion enough to make them look pleasant in church. If you expect to outshine your neighbors build a good reputation and keep it polished.

Good advice may sometimes help a man, but a good scare is usually much more effective. A man around the house during the day is useless—every home should be without one.

Stay-at-Home Duck

A female mallard, one of Michigan's year-round waterfowl residents, gives a Conservation Department photographer a quizzical look while posing for this picture. About 198,000 ducks, geese and swans made their winter quarters in the state this year—the second highest winter concentration in the last nine years.

ACP Assists in Drainage Work

County agricultural conservation practice programs are designed to assist in cost-sharing for drainage and water erosion practices. In this category are tile drainage, open farm drainage ditches, erosion control structures, field diversions, and vegetative cover for erosion protection.

Any farmer can incorporate any one or a combination of any or all of these practices on the farm. However, there must be an established need for any of them, reminds Tuscola county assistant agricultural agent, Don R. Kebler.

In other words, all practices which require the technical services of an engineer, must be checked and approved by the Soil Conservation Service. This approval should be made before application for assistance can be made. Also the Soil Conservation Service must check and approve the finished practice before payment is given.

As in other A. C. P. practices certain requirements as to tile size, outlet designs, seeding and fertilizer recommendations and ditch specifications are demanded. Cost-share will be paid on seed, fertilizer, tile, ditching and erosion control structures, and the maximum amount of cost-share that any one farm can receive in any one year is $1,500.

Kebler adds this precaution. Anyone who signs up for any practice should not start that practice unless it can be completed in that year. No farmer will be prevented from benefiting from A. C. P. practices in the future for not being able to do the entire practice that is signed up for. In the case of tiling, for instance, if several fields are included in the sign-up and only one field can be tiled in that year, then tile only one field completely and let the rest go until next year. Don't start tiling in all of the fields so none are completed. If none are completed in the sign-up period, then no cost-share will be given.

See your county A. S. C. chairman for further details as sign-up time is in progress. Your county agricultural agent and the S. C. S. office can also answer questions on these practices.

It pays people big dividends to work and smile overtime. What this world needs is theories that are non-explosive.

A new age of automobiles begins with this car

Touch a button—in less than a minute the steel top disappears magically into the trunk—and you're in a supremely elegant convertible. It's two cars in one!

Here Today! The FORD SKYLINER—world's only Hide-Away hardtop

Once in a long, long while a car comes along that people remember and talk about for years after its introduction.

The first model "A" Ford was such a car... The first Ford V-8 was such a car... The first Ford Thunderbird was such a car.

Today Ford Division is proud to announce still another car that many say is destined to become the most famous Ford of all: The Skyliner—world's only hide-away hardtop.

If you plan to buy a new Ford, or already own one, the fact that Ford created this car is important to you. For all the exhaustive research, planning and testing that went into the Skyliner is evidence of the engineering skill you get in every Ford model.

The Ford SKYLINER, the only all-steel hide-away hardtop, is a car for history. This is an old dream of Detroit, a dream of two generations of motorists.

And today Ford has made that dream come true—in steel. But the story behind this dream is a story of men who refused to accept "no" for an answer. In the Ford tradition they kept striving toward the goal long after others had given up the chase.

To understand this Ford spirit you must go back to 1908. That was the year when many Detroiters smiled smugly as Henry Ford announced, "We will build a motor car for the great multitude . . . so low in price that no man making a good salary will be unable to own one." And they did.

Today, nearly a half century later, Ford continues to cause the "experts" to change their tune. When you see this all-steel hardtop that retracts into a convertible, you'll be seeing a car that many said would never be mass-produced.

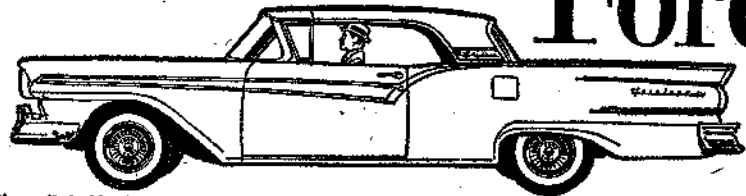

But Ford did it.

It was December 1956—after eight years of research, planning, experimenting and testing—when Ford unveiled this masterpiece . . . unveiled it amid all the pomp and splendor of the New York Automobile Show.

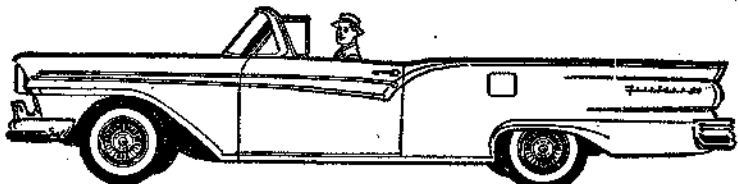

And now this history-making car, this prototype of a whole future generation of cars, is ready for your own personal inspection in the showrooms of many Ford Dealers.

Plan to see it soon. And ask your Dealer to show you the exciting advances in all models of the new Ford line for '57.

It's the newest new kind of Ford

1. It's an all-steel hardtop with sleek Victoria styling. . . 2. Touch a button and presto! It's a sun-loving convertible!
