Better Pastures Mean More Forage

There's no better pasture system than the one you can create for every farm. Every kind of fertilizer, every type of soil, every kind of forage, every kind of livestock. It's a system that works in one of the most neglected areas of agriculture — the forage pasture system.

A study by the University of Michigan demonstrated that pastures, when managed properly, can produce yields of grass and legumes that are as high as those obtained in hay fields. The study showed that pastures, when properly managed, can produce yields of grass and legumes that are as high as those obtained in hay fields.

In order to achieve the maximum yield from pastures, it is necessary to provide the proper amount of fertilizer and to maintain the proper moisture content in the soil. The proper amount of fertilizer to apply depends on the type of soil, the type of forage, and the age of the pasture. The proper moisture content in the soil is determined by the amount of water the soil can hold and the amount of water that is required for the pasture to produce the desired yield.

Booklet Describes Ornamental Shrubs

Strobe, the beautiful ornamental plant, is one of the most popular of today’s landscape plants. Strobe is a shrub that produces beautiful flowers in the spring and summer and is a good addition to any landscape design.

We have a booklet, in which we describe the most popular and successful of ornamental shrubs, that you can obtain by writing to us at the address below. The booklet contains information on the cultivation and care of ornamental shrubs, as well as photographs of the plants.

The Michigan Dairy Association has been studying the trend among dairymen of switching to the production of other commodities, and the results of their study are significant. The association has found that the number of dairymen producing other commodities has increased significantly in recent years. This trend is likely to continue as dairy farmers seek new ways to earn a living.

A. Heineman was visited by his mother, Mrs. L., his son Richard, and family. They spent the weekend with General Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Noimal Gassie from Cass City, Michigan, were served after the program. Interesting. A potluck supper was served after the program.

Mrs. William McCool spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Steve Decker. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bailey spent Thursday visiting Ms. Mary Hanley and Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Jansen.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer_infraction, Mrs. Barack and Doreen of Ubly were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence kraus.

Charlotte Pfaff has returned from her vacation. She has several firsts: first state for providing community physicians for civilian use: leading smelt runs on Michigan streams. Can happen—and usually does—during these busy, frisky, spring: with all 1

Are rolling ships always better? Rolling along may be best, but it's not always the most enjoyable. And how about the price? It's generally more expensive than the stripped-down option.

RILEY'S FOOT COMFORT

The awakening of Emily Wade
Emily Wade was a girl who had always dreamed of buying a new car. Her family had told her stories of cars they had owned, and she had been fascinated by them her whole life. When she was old enough to buy a car, she knew exactly what she wanted.

"My heavens," she gasped when she saw the car, "it doesn't even have automatic transmission; that's one thing I particularly need. And I do think power steering and power brakes are a must!"

So Emily's dream evaporated. Then Emily stopped in to see her Ford Dealer, an amiable fellow who showed her how to buy a luxurious Jaguar 500 with all the extras she wanted.
