

Hawk Nine Posts Two More Wins In League Play

Cass City posted two diamond victories to set the stage for a game to have been played Thursday at Bad Axe which may decide the conference championship. Both teams are undefeated in league play with 4-0 records.

Cass City defeated Yale, 27-5, and Crosswell-Lexington, 7-2, to remain undefeated.

Against Cross-Lex, the Hawks exploded for five runs in the last inning to break up a tight, 2-2 ball game. The Hawks were plagued during the early innings by hard hit balls that landed right in the gloves of the Pioneers.

Crosswell jumped into a 2-0 lead in the second inning with a pop double, a Cass City error and a single. The Hawks got one of the runs back in the fourth as Jerry Dearing singled, went to second on an error and scored on Dick Hillaker's hit.

Cass City knotted the game in the sixth inning as Dearing tripled and scored on a sacrifice fly by Bob Martus.

In the big seventh, Dearing slammed a three-run homer. Martus followed with a triple and scored on a single by Jim Johnson. Johnson scored on a double by Gary Deering.

For three innings, Cass City and Yale played a good close ball game. In the top of the third, Yale picked up five runs with five hits off Martus and a couple of errors by his teammates.

But Cass City won the game in their half of the inning. They scored 12 times.

They made a complete rout of the game with six more counters in the next inning. They added two more in the sixth and seven in the seventh for the most lopsided victory in recent years.

Leading the Hawks at the plate were Bob Martus with three for five, Bob Walpole with two for three and Jim Johnson with two for four.

Coach Irv Clasen said that the pitching of Martus has him worried. The fast-balling right-hander has been hit hard in several games and has not yet displayed the form that made him the league's outstanding hurler last season.

The Hawks' next home game will be against Sandusky, Monday.

For Track Improvement Fund Gavel Club Promoting Night Track Meet

The Cass City Gavel Club is determined to raise enough money to pay off its obligation for improvements at the track at the Recreational Park.

The club is planning its second venture this spring for raising money. After just completing a successful auction sale, members are now promoting a scheduled high school track meet with the proceeds to be used for the track.

Wednesday, May 15, at 7 p. m. Cass City, Thumb "B" Conference champs, will play Marysville, St. Clair County "B" champs, at Cass City and the Gavel Club is handling the promotion and ticket sale to swell its track fund.

The meet should be a natural for a large crowd. Both schools boast exceptionally strong squads this year and there is a strong feeling about the game.

Charges that the Thumb B Conference is not a strong one by fans and others in the Southern Thumb has heightened the interest in the meet.

Novesta Township Farmer Dies Friday

Jacob Patera died Friday, May 3, at Pleasant Home Hospital, where he had been a patient three days.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Patera, he was born in Poland June 13, 1885. He married Miss Catherine Konop in 1909 in Poland. In 1910 they came to the United States and settled in New Haven, Conn., later moving to Detroit. They settled on a farm in Novesta Township in 1940, where he lived until his death. Mrs. Patera died Mar. 31, 1953.

Survivors include two sons, Edmund and Rudolph, both of Novesta Township; two sisters, Mrs.

John Yesh and Mrs. Anna Sobczynski, both of Detroit, and two grandchildren. One brother preceded him in death.

Rosary devotions were held Sunday at 7:30 p. m. at Little's Funeral Home and prayer services Monday at 9 a. m. Rev. J. J. Mikulski officiated. Burial was in Novesta Cemetery.

A man's fitness for public office can be judged by the means he uses trying to get it.

Taking things as they come, and being able to live with them is another form of success.

BULEN TALKS Cars

I am not going to complain about automobile taxes any longer. I've used this space before, and I suppose I'll use it again, to point out the heavy load the car owner has to carry in taxes. But no more complaints!

I've just heard about the early tax laws in the State of Missouri. They weren't convinced the car was here to stay, I guess, and so they tried to tax it out of existence.

At one time, cars in Missouri were taxed in every county in which they operated—it cost $50 in fees to cross the state and another $10 to enter St. Louis.

In a way, they were lucky in Missouri, at least they were allowed to have cars. The city of Mitchell, South Dakota, completely prohibited any motor vehicle from using its streets in the early days.

A lot of other cities said they would be absolutely fair. They would limit the speed of an auto to the speed of a horse, and the limits were set at 5 miles an hour in the cities and 10 in open country.

There were many cities, including some in Canada, that prohibited the use of cars from an hour before sunset to an hour after sunrise. One city in Canada prohibited the parking of cars on paved streets—the dripping of gasoline, and even the gasoline fumes, were thought to damage asphalt paving.

So, I'll think twice before I complain again. And I know a way to just about eliminate complaints about the high cost of owning a car: Right now is precisely the best time to look for a quality used car, and we've never had such a selection in price and models.

And because every car has been given our thorough inspection, you know that your future costs will be cut to the minimum.

When you buy an "OK Used Car or Truck" from us it is guaranteed. We do our best to recondition our Used Cars, but even Ollie isn't perfect. When we slip, we make it good, because only by satisfying you can we continue successful. We don't just want to sell you once. We want you for a satisfied Repeat Customer. There's one man who has moved away from this area, drives 75 miles each way to have Ollie fix his car, deals with us on replacements. Naturally we are highly complimented.

We would like to show you we can deserve such loyalty.

Home Extension Agent's Corner

Frances T. Clark
County Home Demonstration Agent

As I drove over beautiful Tuscola County this week, visiting each exhibit put up in the store windows, I was thankful I lived in Tuscola County. The country-side with its new green spring dress was in full display. The exhibits showed that the women had put hours in construction of the exhibits to make them attractive. I hope that everyone realizes that the reason the home demonstration women displayed their exhibits in store windows, was the celebration of National Home Demonstration Week.

Some of the groups did not let me know where their exhibits were to be displayed before last week's news column so I am including them this week: Caro I at Eastham's Cleaners, Caro; Cass City at Bigelow's Hardware, Cass City; Fairgrove at Fairgrove Hardware, Fairgrove; Elmwood at Townsend's 10-cent store, Cass City; Fairgrove-Akron, Hoffman's Hardware, Fairgrove; Gilford at Pearl's Grocery, Gilford; Kingston at Heineman's Hardware, Kingston; North Almer at Baird Air-Seal, Caro; Northwest Fairgrove at Charley's Radio Shop, Fairgrove; Oxbow at the Advertiser, Caro; South Unionville at J. H. Kemp and Company, Unionville; Watrousville at Eastham's Cleaners, Caro; and West Caro at the Coffee Cup Cafe, Caro.

Group Activities
Caro I had a book review for their special interest lesson. Mrs. William Fitzgerald gave a review on the book, "Now that April is Here", by Daisy Newman. Caro I also made the name badges for Achievement Day.

Cass City group had the DeFord group as their dinner guests on April 29.

Fairgrove-Almer group is having as their special interest lesson, the etching of trays.

Wells group has invited the Wells-Bethel group to be their May guests.

Plentiful Foods for May
The featured plentiful foods are beef, eggs and turkeys. Other plentiful foods are potatoes, milk and other dairy products, canned fruit, frozen strawberries, peanuts and peanut butter and halibut.

Tips for Using Cottage Cheese

Little Miss Muffet with her curds and whey had a good idea. Mrs. Frances T. Clark, home demonstration agent, says that you can skip the whey part and serve the curds. Take another cue from Miss Muffet, her curds and whey meant the cottage cheese was freshly made. So when you buy cottage cheese, use it up in a day or two. The spider, with Little Miss Muffet, probably did not pay any attention to what type of cottage cheese Miss Muffet had, but you read the labels so you will know if the curds are small or large.

Small curds cottage cheese has staying power for main dish salads, it holds perfect mounds. Large curd type is a softy and best for cooking.

Mrs. Clark suggests trying cottage cheese in stuffing for baked potatoes. Whip the insides of two baked potatoes with a cup of large curd cheese, season with chopped chives or small green onions; fill the potato shells and bake until brown.

Don't worry about trifles—the hole that let water in your shoe will let it put again.

It's fortunate that one-half the world doesn't know how the other half lives, or why.

Plan Seminary for Saginaw Diocese

A new seminary for educating young men for the Catholic priesthood of the Diocese of Saginaw is being planned in Saginaw, according to announcement by Most Reverend Stephen S. Woznicki, Bishop of Saginaw.

The building which will house up to 180 students, will be located on a 52-acre site at the corner of Wieneke and Weiss Roads, two and a half miles west of Saginaw. The seminary, when in operation, will give its students the equivalent of a four-year high school course, with an extra year for late entrants. It is planned to have the institution accredited with the University of Michigan and the North Central Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges.

A drive for funds to defray construction costs is being conducted throughout the 16-county diocesan area from May 12 to 31. Cost of the structure is estimated at two million dollars.

The present need of a local seminary arises, Bishop Woznicki declared, from the over-crowded condition of other such schools in Michigan.

The voice of conscience is merely the watchdog which barks at our shortcomings.

Money sometimes talks, but it doesn't always give a true financial statement.

It's a lot easier to be a critic than it is to draw a big salary for being one.

Trying to get something for nothing parts many a fool and his money.

WOMAN'S WORLD

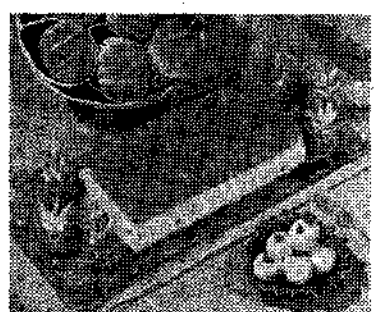

Tropical Mold Features Tuna For Luncheons

GREEN is one of the colors of the season, and a refreshing one when used in foods at spring time. If your luncheon is on a day that turns out to be unseasonably warm, then your guests will certainly enjoy a Tropical Mold that has an "under the water green" top layer and white bottom layer.

This unusual combination main dish salad is a harmonious combination of tuna, fluffy in texture because of beaten egg whites and chopped green pepper and celery for crunchiness. The top layer of lime has crushed pineapple and chopped cucumber.

Tropical Tuna Mold (Serves 8-10)

Pineapple Layer:
1 8-oz. can crushed pineapple
1 package lime-flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
Pineapple syrup and water to make 1/2 cup
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/4 peeled, chopped cucumber
Drain pineapple, saving syrup. Dissolve lime-flavored gelatin in boiling water. Add 1/2 cup pineapple syrup and water, then lemon juice. Chill to consistency of unbeaten egg white. Add drained pineapple and cucumber. Pour in.

Tropical Tuna Mold makes a perfect ladies luncheon main dish. Note the attractive garnish of miniature "pineapples" which are made of cream cheese garnished with sliced, stuffed olives with sliced green stalks of celery for the tops.

To loaf pan 10 1/2 x 5 1/2 x 3 inches. Chill until firm, about 2 hours.

Tuna Layer:
1/4 cup cold water
2 tablespoons gelatin
2 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1 cup evaporated milk
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 6-ounce can tuna, drained, flaked
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 cup chopped celery
1 cup mayonnaise

Sprinkle gelatin over cold water. Beat egg yolks with salt, mustard and paprika in top of double boiler. Add milk and lemon juice. Cook over hot water until mixture thickens. Add softened gelatin to hot mixture and stir until dissolved. Chill. Just before mixture sets, stir in tuna, green pepper and celery. Fold in mayonnaise, then egg whites which have been beaten until stiff. Spoon mixture over lime gelatin then chill for 2 to 3 hours. Unmold to serve.

Serve Eggs, Cheese For Tasty Brunch

WHAT can I serve when breakfast has been light and we want to eat before noon? This is a question that comes up every once in a while with guests in the home or routines being changed.

Good protein foods like cheese and eggs offer the ideal answer for these combination breakfast-luncheon meals.

Here's a quickly made soufflé which features a well-flavored cheese along with eggs and mushroom soup.

Cheese-Mushroom Soufflé (Serves 6)
1/2 pound aged Cheddar cheese
1 cup cream of mushroom soup
4 eggs, separated
Salt and pepper
1/4 cup chopped bacon, cooked
1/4 cup sliced blanched almonds
Heat cheese with soup (ready to serve) until melted. Add to beaten egg yolks and cook, stirring constantly. Season with salt and pepper. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into casserole. Sprinkle with bacon and almonds. Bake in a slow (325°F.) oven for one hour.

Here are eggs done to a tempting style with anchovy paste and cheese sauce which is made by melting 1/2 pound of processed cheese and blending in 2 tablespoons of butter to make it smooth.

Savory Eggs (Serves 6)
6 hard-cooked eggs
Salt and pepper
1/4 cup evaporated milk
Chopped parsley
Anchovy paste
6 slices hot buttered toast
1 cup cheese sauce
Cut eggs into halves lengthwise and remove yolks. Mash yolks, add salt and pepper to taste with cream, parsley and anchovy paste. Place mixture on toast cheese and pour cheese sauce over to serve.

Michigan Mirror News in Brief

By Elmer E. White,
Michigan Press Association

This year's battle over the budget may well benefit the people of the state. On the one hand is the governor with requests for increased appropriations. He is asking more than $400 million. In his opinion this is the amount required to perform services needed by Michigan residents.

On the other hand is the legislature under Republican control. GOP leaders look at the budget differently. They try to figure how much money will be forthcoming from present state taxes and to allocate this money wisely among the various administrative departments.

Administrative agencies can be expected to believe they must have more funds to provide their services. It is human nature for each department head to want to do his best job. More money provides him the key.

And when an agency receives additional funds, it increases the prestige and power of its director and his personnel.

Since each department prepares its own preliminary budget a common procedure is to:

1. Ask for more than is expected. If the department is turned down on some items, nothing is really lost. If, on the other hand, the department receives the additional money, extra services are provided and more help can be hired.
2. Spend all the money received. Agencies rarely return unneeded funds.

The situation has a "snowballing" effect. With most agencies asking for more each year, expenditures grow with every new budget.

Only two groups can check the unnecessary expenditures. One is the office of the State Controller, which prepares the governor's proposed budget from preliminary budget requests presented by the departments.

The other is the legislature.

Since legislative duties include not only distributing funds to agencies, but also finding ways of raising the money, legislators quite normally consider extensive cuts in budget.

The 1957-58 budget points up the administrative-legislative contrasts more sharply because:

1. Requests cannot be filled without additional taxes. The GOP controlled legislature feels the Michigan tax-burden should not be increased. The only alternative is to limit spending.
2. Legislators sincerely believe that many of the departmental requests contain unnecessary expenditures. It takes sharp eyes to pick out all the items that add costs but provide few benefits.
3. Taxes proposed by the governor would fall directly on business groups, one of the chief supporters of the Republican party. It is generally agreed that all taxes ultimately are paid by the consumer.

Each decision is difficult. To determine whether more funds should be spent requires balancing need against a limited income.

With these two factors now almost equal, public opinion will play a decisive role in the final determinations.

Some Republican legislators feel the Democratic sweep in the spring elections indicates the people want expenditures increased. However, the majority seem ready to hold the line against levying new taxes.

They point, as evidence supporting their position, to the large number of local tax proposals turned down by voters in recent elections.

At week's end there was evidence that some appropriations would be increased somewhat; that the 1957-58 budget will be lower than the governor wants.

One of the biggest problems faced by safety officials is proving to the people that traffic laws are designed for their protection, not to limit their freedom.

It's a problem of public attitude.

Too many people too often "feel sorry" for the driver pulled over to the side of the road by the police officer. Actually, enforcement is the only way roads can be made safe for all.

A better understanding of reasons behind traffic regulations will help promote their cause, safety experts believe.

They suggest all motorists get the pocket booklet "What Every Driver Should Know" as an excellent outline of traffic regulations. More important, it explains what can happen when these regulations are violated.

A few minutes spent with the book may prevent an accident, even save a life.

Material in the booklet is suitable for condensation into a brief report at club meetings. Copies can be obtained from most police stations, or if unavailable, by writing the Secretary of State, Lansing.

Requests from any Michigan organization for extra booklets to be passed out among members or the public will also be filled.

Decline in Traffic Fatalities in April

Provisional figures for April released by the State Police show that Michigan is continuing to save lives on its streets and highways, 40 fewer persons having been killed during the month than in the same period a year ago, which in itself also was a lower fatality month.

An even 100 persons were killed in April as compared to 140 in the same month last year, and last year's total was 20 less than in April of 1955.

The downward trend has continued for 13 straight months with the exception of last September, and the total saving in lives under the same period the preceding year now stands at 475, a reduction of 21 per cent, or much better than a life a day.

Final figures for March, also just released, show 115 deaths as compared to 132 for March of 1956, a saving of 17, or 13 per cent. There were 4,106 persons injured as compared to 4,557, a reduction of 451, or 10 per cent, and reported accidents dropped from 17,369 to 14,085, a cut of 3,184, or 18 per cent.

Injuries and accident totals for April are not yet available.

For the first four months of this year deaths totaled 425 compared with 574 in the like period of 1956, a reduction of 24 per cent.

Estimated mileage traveled for the first two months of the year, the latest figures reported, was 4.6 billion, or five per cent higher than in the same period last year. The death rate of 4.6 per 100 million miles was 33 per cent under 6.9.

State Police warned that while the figures are highly encouraging for the first four months, the worst months are now beginning and the gains already made may be lost.

MEATS

Consumers want more lean meat and less fat, says University of Illinois meat specialist N. B. Webb. They realize they get less for their money in fat meat.

Producers have reduced external fat and increased lean meat in pork for the last ten years, according to Webb. In July 1956 the U. S. Department of Agriculture grading standards for pork were revised to reduce backfat and increase the amount of lean meat.

Now beef cattle and sheep producers are feeling consumers' pressure for less external fat.

Webb says quality in meat is highly related to degree of fat. A high degree of fat occurring between the muscle fibers increases the quality of the meat. This fat is called intramuscular fat and must be differentiated from excess external fat.

In the past we obtained this quality by a large amount of external fat, which is naturally put on the animal before the intramuscular fat. This leaves the producer with the problem of reducing the wasteful external fat and at the same time retaining the intramuscular fat which is so highly indicative of quality in lean meat.

Bigger Cherries Thru Growth Regulators

Growth regulator chemicals may help orchardists get more and larger sweet cherries from their trees in the future.

In a three-year experiment with Royal Ann cherry trees, two Oregon State college horticulturists found that proper use of certain plant hormone sprays increased the weight of individual cherry fruits as much as one-third. The added weight was found to be due to an increase in the fleshy part of the fruit—not to larger pit size.

The research workers also were able to increase the number of blossoms setting fruit on trees in the spring. Flavor, color, and other quality characteristics of the cherries didn't seem to be affected.

Quentin Zielinski and Ralph Garren checked five different growth regular chemicals in the trials, using sprays made up of different concentrations of chemicals known as "Duraset," PCPA, NOA, and 2,4,5-T. The sprays were applied to entire trees at the rate of about 450 gallons per acre.

Most promising of the chemicals was 2,4,5-T, and a combination spray of NOA and PCPA, the horticulturists said. However, they emphasized that more experimental work on the long-range effect of the chemicals on sweet cherry trees is needed before specific recommendations can be made.

Grand Champ

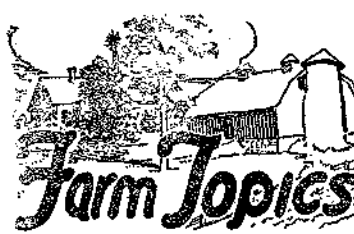

Thirteen-year-old Bobby Sale of Stanton, Tex., receives an award from W. R. Watt, Manager of the Southeastern Exposition and Fat Stock Show after Bobby's 900-pound Hereford Steer, named "Fayaso," was selected grand champion steer of the Exposition. Bobby earlier won the grand championship in the Junior show before competing against the best in the open class.

Buyers Want Less Fat, More of Lean But Fat Indicates Quality of Meat

Livestock researchers have been making progress in their search for an effective way to cut the fat-meat ratio through selected breeding programs.
