

Supervisors Up Welfare Budget

Enrollment Up At Cass City Schools This Year

Enrollment at Cass City Schools is slightly larger this year than it was in 1956, according to figures released this week by Supt. Willis Campbell.

Total enrollment at the school is 1136 pupils as compared to 1121 pupils last year.

The slight increase occurred in the grades where new students from the former Remington district helped to swell the total. There is a total of 536 students in the grades. Last year there were 497 pupils.

In both the junior high and high school there has been a decrease in the number of pupils.

Last season when school opened there were 138 pupils in junior high and 486 in the high school. This year the seventh and eighth grades have 67 and 68 pupils, while the high school has 470 pupils.

By grades the 1957 high school enrollment is: ninth, 126; 10th, 131; 11th, 117, and 12th, 96.

Supt. Campbell said that the increase in the number of grade pupils will not strain school facilities. Classes in the grades run from 24 to 33 pupils each.

New Building
Progress on the addition to the high school for a band and industrial arts room has been delayed by lack of steel. The new building was expected to be finished by Dec. 20, however, it is possible that the work will not be completed by that time, Mr. Campbell said.

School Bands Elect Officers for Year

Officers were named for the Cass City School Junior and senior bands in elections held at the school last week.

President of the senior band is Nadene Winters. Other officers are: Dave Loomis, vice-president; Ann Johnson, secretary, and Marjorie Dillman, treasurer.

Librarians for the senior band are Mary Helen Woodard, Shirley Skippy and Nancy Spencer. The equipment managers are Lynn Albee, Craig Winters and Gary Jackson.

Jim Jezewski and Dave Loomis were placed on the uniform committee and publicity will be handled by Dave Gohsman, Susan Tye and Bonnie Copeland.

Junior Band
Sharon Parrott is the president. Concluded on page 12.

At Livestock Show in Caro

Two Champions for Local Exhibitors

Cass City entries swept top honors in two of the three divisions of the 30th semiannual 4-H and FFA market livestock show and sale held at Caro Tuesday, Sept. 10.

In the sheep division, Ruth Ann Severance showed the grand champion fat lamb. It sold for 51 1/2 cents per pound. Reserve champion sheep was exhibited by Linda Severance and brought 35 cents a pound.

Roger Root exhibited the champion pig. It was sold for 60 cents a pound.

The champion steer was sold by Walter Hecht Jr. of Vassar and brought 42 cents per pound. The reserve champion was exhibited by Robert Hecht of Vassar and brought 29 cents per pound.

Because of a change in the method of payment and increase in salaries voted by the board of supervisors in January, Welfare Director Irl Baguley requested more money for his department to finish the balance of the year.

The appeal was made by Mr. Baguley and Maynard McConkey of Cass City, a member of the Welfare Commission, to the board of supervisors as they held their regular monthly session in Caro Monday.

The commission was granted an increase from the $101,600 budgeted to $120,000. About $10,500 of the increase was caused by an increase in wages for county employees granted by the board of supervisors in January. The remainder of the money needed over the budgeted amount is due to a lapse of a month in the time money is due to arrive from the state and actually is received in the county. This additional expense will not be repeated, Mr. Baguley said.

Closed Saturday
Supervisors authorized a change in the hours at the courthouse. Until Dec. 31 it will be closed all day Saturday. However, daily opening hours have been lengthened. The courthouse will open at 8 a. m. instead of 9 a. m., as has been the custom in the past. Closing hour will continue to be 5 p. m.

Authorize Purchases
Two purchases were authorized by the board Monday. A refrigerator will be purchased to store vaccines, primarily polio vaccine. The refrigerator will be placed in the courthouse.

Supervisors also okayed the purchase of a copying machine for use in the Judge of Probate's office.

Other Business
Evard Rawson, chairman of the committee on equalization, was authorized to attend a state assessors and tax meeting at Michigan State University in East Lansing Sept. 17-18.

The Saginaw Valley Mental Health Clinic submitted a budget for 1958 that calls for expenditure of $700.

150 Attend Charter Night Banquet

Zonta Members Installed in Candlelight Ceremonies

Cass City became the 365th club in Zonta International Tuesday evening in charter night ceremonies before an estimated 150 persons at Cass City High School.

Mrs. Audra Francis, who installed officers and members and presented the charter to the club, said that Cass City is the first Zonta Club to be accepted in a small community. "We never had a club in a town of less than 25,000 before," she said, "but Cass City's excellent community spirit as exemplified by the pool park and community hospital makes us positive that this one will succeed. The eyes of Zonta are upon you," she concluded.

Presiding at the meeting was Mrs. Lee Loveday, past president of the Zonta Club of Bay City.

The Bay City club was the sponsoring organization for Cass City. Officers and members were installed in a candlelight ceremony. Each charter member of the club was given a yellow rose, a symbol of the fellowship, love and understanding of all members of Zonta. Mrs. Francis described the duties of all the officers during the installation.

Each member received a Zonta pin from the Bay City club. Miss Edna Nairn, governor of District V, of which Cass City is a member, welcomed Cass City as the newest member of Zonta.

All of Cass City's clubs and civic organizations were represented. The new club received a briefcase from the Gavel, Lions and Rotary Clubs. It was presented by Rotary President A. J. Stevens. A filing cabinet and cards were presented to the club by President Bernard Ross from the Cass City Chamber of Commerce.

Words of welcome were also heard from these representatives of other organizations: Miss Hollis McBurney, Woman's Study Club; Dr. W. S. Selby, Lions Club; Mrs. Charles Auten, Hospital Auxiliary; Mrs. George Cook, Port Huron, Midland and Windsor; Willis Campbell, Cass City and Mrs. Helen Baker, all members of the board of directors; Mrs. Lee Loveday, Bay City; Miss Edna Nairn, Zonta governor; Mrs. Francis, Mrs. Walpole, Vice-President Mrs. Lucile Bauer, Treasurer Mrs. Marie Krueger and Secretary Mrs. Wilma Fry. Charter members of the club not pictured are: Mrs. Alice Donahue, Mrs. Mary Leeson, Mrs. Helen Agar, Mrs. Helen Hullen, Mrs. Helen Stevens, Mrs. Edith Little, Mrs. Hazel Barnes, Mrs. Ruth Kelley, Mrs. Lucille Sommers, Mrs. Marian Douglas, Mrs. Esther McCullough, Mrs. Lulu Belle Champion, Mrs. Gladys Fort and Mrs. Margaret Neitzel.

From the Editor's Corner

The first of the organizational meetings for the hospital drive will be held Tuesday at the regular meeting of Rotary Club. At this time, some 60 drive captains will meet to receive preliminary instructions for the drive.

A drive for $100,000 in a small community requires much work by many persons. Besides the captains, there will be some 200 lieutenants who will be asked to make about 12 calls each to homes in their area.

The 200 selected will be notified by mail and will be asked to attend a kickoff dinner Sept. 23 at Cass City School.

Because of the money needed each solicitor will be asked to pay for his or her meal at the dinner. All proceeds will go to the hospital auxiliary, which is serving the meal.

The success of any drive depends on the workers. Without the cooperation of the captains and lieutenants our hospital drive is doomed to failure.

Knowing the cooperation and spirit of the community, members of the hospital board anticipate full cooperation from the persons selected.

Each will have only a few homes to contact and each should plan to do all they can to help shove the drive over the top.

Miss Parmer One Of Queens at Saginaw Fair

After winning the Cass City Home-coming queen contest, Miss Sharon Parmer has participated in a series of contests and been feted by many organizations.

Besides being crowned Tuscola County Bean Queen, Miss Parmer competed in the state bean queen contest at Fairgrove and was one of the queens in competition at the Michigan State Fair.

Her latest invitation was to the Saginaw Fair Thursday, Sept. 12. She will tour the Michigan Bean Company office and plant in Saginaw. Dinner for her and her parents will be at the Hotel Banquet.

Miss Parmer will view the fair from box seats in the grandstand as one of the reigning queens of the fair.

Sharon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Parmer.

Saturday Evening Hours to Remain

Members of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce voted by a narrow 24-19 margin to remain open Saturday evening instead of switching to Friday evening hours in an all-member meeting held at Cass City School Friday. There were some 50 members present.

The vote climaxed over a year of agitation for a change in days. It was about a year ago that members voted by ballot to remain open on Saturday. The vote Friday ends any change sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, President Bernard Ross said. The chamber will abide with the wish of the majority of members.

Other Business
Al Krueger, owner of Anrod Screen Cylinder Co., was at the meeting to discuss collection of accounts of workers in local factories. He said that if retailers in the village have past due accounts with workers in the factories, a letter to the management would help. Officials at the plant will then talk to the employee to see what action can be taken. Mr. Krueger said that all letters received at his plant will be answered.

Members present were unanimous in praising the plan. Final discussion of the evening centered around a certified bargain days for the community. All specials offered by participating merchants during the special sale slated Oct. 18-19 will be screened by a committee to see that they are truly real values.

Any merchant that submits an item that does not measure up to the standard of low cost, quality and timely merchandise will be rejected, members decided.

Predators Thrive on Bounties

Michigan financial records show that bounties being paid to eliminate predators—mainly foxes, coyotes and wolves—have not reduced populations of these animals. In fact, the record for the last 10 years shows coyote and wolf bounties holding about steady while the number of foxes bountied has increased.

SHORT STORY

Tea Cup Thriller

By B. C. McAfee

If anyone had told Meg Taylor that her husband's life would some day depend on a cup of tea, she no doubt would have laughed and said, "Don't be silly—Pete never touches the stuff." That was true, of course, with one exception—the fateful night they dined at The Gypsy Tea Room.

Pete was flying to Denver that night on a business trip. Meg had suggested having dinner together in town, after which she'd accompany him to the airport and drive their car back home.

"You'll love this Gypsy Tea Room!" she told Pete, as they walked down Fifth Avenue that evening. "It's simply loaded with atmosphere and they say Princess Tanya is a marvel at reading tea leaves. Maybe she can tell us whether you're getting that promotion."

"Atmosphere I can do without," grumbled Pete, holding the door

"Atmosphere I can do without," grumbled Pete, holding the door for her.

for her. "What I need is a good, thick steak."

As they entered the dimly-lit room, a tall, dark-skinned Gypsy greeted them, bowing low.

Pete made an exaggerated face at Meg and followed her across the room to a small table in the corner. Their mysterious guide held a chair for Meg, handed them each a gill-edged menu, then bowed again and disappeared. The air was heavy with incense. An invisible string trio played melancholy music. Girls in gay Gypsy costumes moved silently among the candle-lit tables, bearing trays of food. One of them came to take their order.

"We'll have your best steak dinner," said Pete, "and a large pot of black coffee."

"Oh, no—tea, dear!" Meg corrected, smiling at the waitress.

"We want Princess Tanya to read the leaves."

"Aw, Meg . . . for heaven's sake!" Pete squirmed uncomfortably. "We won't have time for all that nonsense. I've got to catch that 8 o'clock plane for Denver."

As usual, Meg had her way. After dinner, Pete drank his tea with a wry face, then meekly allowed Princess Tanya to read the leaves.

Pete stood up, looking slightly dazed. "Well, I'll be—" he muttered.

Meg was busily mopping the table with a huge linen napkin. "It was just an accident, dear. She'll bring your coat back and then read your tea leaves. I'm so anxious to—"

Pete handed her his wallet. "Here, you pay the check while I get my coat. If that clock's right, we barely have time to make the airport!" Turning, he strode over to the curtained doorway where Princess Tanya had disappeared. He heard voices inside, arguing. The Princess was saying, "But we must not let them go! Perhaps if we keep them waiting for the coat—"

"I'll take the coat now, if you don't mind!" said Pete, snatching it out of her hand. "And I'm having this place investigated!"

As they sped to the airport, Pete continued to grumble. "Craziest place I ever saw. We should've gone to the Steak House—I'll never make that 8 o'clock plane. What's that siren—a cop?"

"No, look—it's an ambulance!" said Meg, pointing at a white streak shot past their car. "Pete—be careful!"

"What's up?" Pete asked a man in uniform.

"Eight o'clock plane to Denver cracked up as she was taking off. Looks bad!"

"Oh, dear!" gasped Meg and burst into tears. "That—that was your plane!"

"Yeh," said Pete, putting an arm around her. He pulled a handkerchief from his breast pocket and a small white card fluttered to the ground. Meg picked it up, glanced at it, and looked like she'd seen a ghost. Speechless, she handed the card to Pete.

On one side was the name and address of the Gypsy Tea Room. On the other side, scrawled in black pencil, he read:

"THE GENTLEMAN HAS NO FUTURE"

A good education is the masterkey to the door of success.

It's next to impossible to buy a good brand of popularity at bargain rates.

One good turn deserves another, but don't expect it to act as a boomerang.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

TO ALL EDISON CUSTOMERS

Now available to home owners in this area is a new and better electric water heating service.

Sweeping changes in the basic design of electric water heaters have been made to give them greater heating ability. Heater action is now fully automatic. These things the manufacturers have done at our suggestion. At the same time, economy-seeking revisions in Edison's water heating rate have been adopted. The result is the best water heating service ever offered in Southeastern Michigan.

Many families already use the new service. For the first time, theirs is a feeling of complete confidence in a really modern and adequate water heating system. Like them, you can be comfortable in the knowledge that the safe water heater is now one of the most efficient, too.

Why a New Water Heating Service?

Really hot water is an absolute necessity in every home today. It's easier, for example, to get the laundry clean (not just clean looking) with 160° water. But few heaters, other than an electric, heat water that hot unless manual adjustments are made. Such heaters, then, are not truly automatic. And if a fuel-fired heater is permanently adjusted to heat 160°, servicemen say that there is a likelihood that heater life will be shortened. With an electric water heater, it is standard practice to heat water to 160° and heater life is not shortened.

Lots of hot water is a modern requirement. New electric water heaters have the ability to operate day AND night as demand requires. There is no period when hot water is not available.

These have always been standard features in any electric water heater. But we felt that the new unit should be better yet. So we asked the manufacturers to redesign them to supply more hot water than ever. This has been accomplished by use of two more powerful heating units. Ordinarily, the lower one alone supplies ample hot water. Once in a while an unusual amount is needed. Then the upper unit switches on automatically to handle the heavy demand.

Exactly What's New About the Heaters?

Electric heaters have always had superior features. Long life, for one. In the efficient electric heating action, there's no concentration of heat in one small area—no destructive burning action. In addition, the manufacturers have always cooperated in using only the best design and construction materials. These rigid standards make a big difference in lifetime operating and replacement costs. Lifetime costs are also lessened by Edison's present liberal policy of replacing electrical operating parts without charge.

Maximum safety is another feature found in an electric heater. There's never any flame or pilot light to worry about. And because an electric heater is flameless, no part of its exterior shell is ever too hot to touch. An obvious advantage is that only an electric heater can be placed anywhere.

where . . . even where small children play. There is no danger of accidental burns. An electric heater can be placed anywhere for another reason. It has no flue; needn't be close to a chimney. You place the heater where you want to, not where you must—and eliminate long, hot water wasting pipes in the process.

These have always been standard features in any electric water heater. But we felt that the new unit should be better yet. So we asked the manufacturers to redesign them to supply more hot water than ever. This has been accomplished by use of two more powerful heating units. Ordinarily, the lower one alone supplies ample hot water. Once in a while an unusual amount is needed. Then the upper unit switches on automatically to handle the heavy demand.

New Rates—Dependable Service

Along with the more efficient and dependable electric water heater goes a new flat rate to make it more economical than ever. You benefit by having available up to 20 hours of water heating for flat rate charges like these:

| Flat Rate Charge per Month (Add Sales Tax) | |
|--|-------------|
| 50-gallon heater | $3.88, net |
| 80-gallon heater | $5.34, net |
| 110-gallon heater | $6.79, net |

By the month these are slightly higher charges than the older flat rates. But, considering the doubled hours of operation available under the newer rate, the hourly flat rate charge is less.

Old Customers—New Service

Present electric water heater owners profit by switching to the new service, too. They can do so simply by calling the nearest Edison office. Then the time-switch will be changed from 10 to 20 hours of operating time. There is no conversion charge. The new flat rate applies after the time switch has been changed.

Lunch for School Children
Since the school bells are now ringing, it means vacation days are over for the small fries. Vacation, if any, is over for the lady of the house too, for the season's on with that daily chore of lunch packing.
That will put most of us in a quandary: what to put in the yawning void of the ever-empty lunch basket. If your small fry is the usual variety, he might be happy with a steady diet of peanut butter and jelly. But most mothers draw the line at that. As usual, Mother knows best and insists that the child needs a variety of foods and a well-balanced lunch every day of the week.
Sandwiches of every possible description fit the bill for nutritious school lunches. The smart planner uses guides that insure a good sandwich. Make sure the combination of filling and bread ends up as a tasty and moist lunch treat. Use bread that is as fresh and good as the filling and do not forget, the filling goes all the way out to the edge of the bread.
If you are the proud possessor of a home freezer, or a zero compartment atop your refrigerator, you are in luck. You can make up batches of sandwiches by the dozens, days or even weeks ahead.
You will find sliced or ground meats and poultry, cheese spreads, egg yolk mixtures, and even the perennial peanut butter work out well for the frozen sandwiches. Avoid freezing fillings made from raw vegetables, hard cooked egg whites (they get tough), fruit jellies and mayonnaise.
If you have an hour or so that you can spare for sandwich making, get set and go with an assortment of breads, a variety of fillings and make them by the dozen. Organize your work in an assembly line system, and you will be amazed at how quickly those piles of finished sandwiches will grow. Wrap the sandwiches carefully in cellophane, label and place in polyethylene bag. Store in freezer. Sandwiches thus often goes to the wrong person.
If all the useless words spoken were placed end to end, they would reach some man trying his best to concentrate.

Grass Important To Cattle Raising Herefords Raised in Southwestern Georgia

In the southwestern corner of Georgia nestled in a setting of pine trees and rich pasture land is the Pineland Hereford Ranch owned by Ed Kelley.

Pineland Hereford Ranch was the scene of the first attempt at planned pasture improvement in the state. Kelley planned Bahia grass on his native pastures and pioneered its use in the area with tremendous success.

"All too often we find ourselves ready to trip and fall into the ways of those who think our soils are inexhaustible. We overgraze the land and do not care for it, thereby losing its full potential," says Mr. Kelley.

"Cattle are best suited to grass country, and that's what this is," he adds. "We have to make the best possible use of grass to show a profit and we're doing it with 250 head of commercial Hereford cows."

"The cattle population and industry is in its infancy here," he continued. "We have just scratched the surface of our ability to produce beef from grass and as our farm people realize the demand for better cattle, more and more feedlots are coming into the area. The demand for top quality steers is good now and will improve as packers and feeders become aware of this source of supply."

Nitrogen Is Subject Of Soil Research

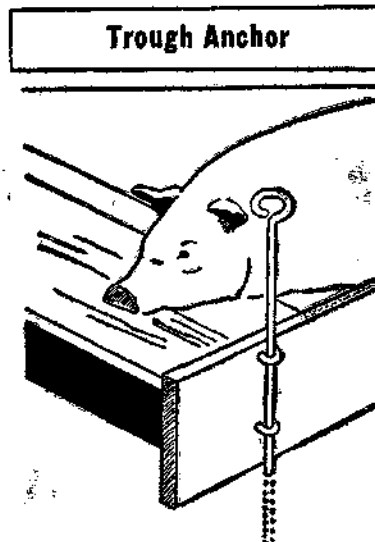

University of Illinois soil scientists are studying the nitrogen and protein content of soils with equipment used to study the content of blood serum.

Frank Stevenson, who is doing this research, says that very little is known about the chemistry of nitrogen compounds in the soil. Nitrogen differs from other soil nutrients because it occurs almost exclusively in the organic form.

One reason a test to determine the amount of nitrogen in the soil has been so hard to perfect is that the amount of nitrogen released from organic matter varies with soil temperature and moisture. Stevenson points out.

Several tests for nitrogen have been proposed in other states, but Illinois soil scientists have not considered them too successful. Before a suitable test can be devised, they feel that more research must be done on the chemistry of nitrogen in soils. Progress is being made in this direction, and it is possible that a satisfactory test can be developed in a few more years.

The famous Morrow plots at the University of Illinois have also been used in part of this soil nitrogen and protein study. The proteins in the soils from the untreated continuous corn plots were found to be low in the kinds of amino acids that would be ready sources of nitrogen. The proteins in the soil of the rotation plots that had received soil treatments were high in the amino acids that would supply nitrogen.

Dr. and Mrs. Alex P. Murray

At an eleven o'clock double-bronze mums ring ceremony before an altar decorated with chrysanthemums and stock at Ravenna, Mich., Patricia Anne Spencer became the bride of Alex P. Murray, Aug. 17, in St. Catherine's Church. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

She wore a dress of imported lace and white crystalettes, which she had designed. It had a fitted bodice and imported lace yoke and long sleeves. Lace was also inserted in crescents in the bouffant skirt. Her cathedral train was later drawn up into a bustle to shorten it for the receiving line.

Her shoulder length tulle veil was held by a sequin and seed pearl crown and she wore a pearl necklace. Her bouquet was of white chrysanthemums, pompons and yellow roses.

Three cousins of the bride and a friend sang and another friend was at the organ.

Mrs. Norman Maurer, sister of the groom, was matron of honor, and she wore a beige colored frock and carried yellow chrysanthemums.

Barbara Stedman, a college friend, and Joyce Suchy, a high school classmate, were bridesmaids and their dresses were of deep rust shade and their flowers were light bronze chrysanthemums. Colleen Spencer, the bride's sister, served as junior bridesmaid and she wore a gold frock and her flowers were dark red.

Mary Louise Wald Married Saturday

St. Agatha Catholic Church in Gagetown was decorated with white gladioli and lighted candles when Miss Mary Louise Wald became the bride of William B. Merz at a nuptial high mass Saturday, Sept. 7, at 10 a. m. Rev. Fr. Glenn W. Cronkite performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Wald and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Merz of Saginaw.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an Italian taffeta floor-length gown with a bouffant skirt. The round, embroidered neckline was accented by sequins. The tight, fitted bodice featured small buttons down the back with long tapering wristpoint sleeves. The fingertip veil of silk illusion net fell from a small round wreath of flowers sprinkled with sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and red roses.

The bride left a bouquet of white carnations at the Blessed Virgin altar. Mrs. Ray Toohy was the organist.

Pair Wed Monday At Essexville

The Rev. Fr. Gerald H. Hietpas officiated at a double-ring wedding ceremony uniting Miss Marlene Socia of Essexville and Keith Rocheleau of Gagetown Monday morning in St. John's Church in Essexville.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Socia and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rocheleau of Gagetown.

The bride's father gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle with long tapering wristpoint sleeves. The fitted bodice of lace over satin featured a set-in nylon yoke outlined in scalloped lace and had a lace mandarin collar. The full floor-length bouffant skirt of tulle held lace panels in front and back. Her fingertip veil of illusion net was secured to a queen's tiara of lace and seed pearls and she carried a cascade of Johanna Hill roses and stephanotis with white streamers.

Miss Sharon Ruegger, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a gown of lace over taffeta in ballerina-length. The Dior neckline of chiffon was in cowl styling and extended over the shoulders to form flying panels of self material at the back. It had a fitted bodice and full circular skirt with a nylon net underskirt and taffeta slip. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow mums and yellow roses.

Christine Matuszewski, as flower girl, wore a floor-length gown of lace and net with a fitted bodice of lace and a round neckline encircled with ruffles. The full cascade skirt was of alternating tiers of lace and net. Net gauntlets completed her ensemble and she carried a white lace basket of yellow and orchid daisies.

Paul Carolan of Gagetown was best man. Ushers were Kendall Perrou and Robert Dunn of Gagetown.

A breakfast and afternoon reception were held following the ceremony.

New Sweeping Advancement In Outboard History

A new hurricane of power incorporating the latest V-4 design has been announced by Evinrude Motors. The wonderfully smooth, quiet 4 cylinder 90 degree V engine is undoubtedly the finest outboard the world has ever known. Lee Armbruster of Unionville, local Evinrude dealer, reports the performance of the new STARFLITE and FOUR-FIFTY models to be unbelievably smooth, super quiet and breathtaking. These engines have a 70.7 cubic inch piston displacement and are 50 O. B. C. horsepower.

Half the work in the world is done in an effort to dodge work.

Florida Trip

Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of articles.

The Spanish Airborne moss is seen everywhere hanging from the trees, and is most unusual looking. I was told that it would even grow on fences. The cattle like it when it's green, and speak of it as "cattle feed." They are considered a very hardy breed. Some of them are sleek and fat. Others are surprisingly thin where the grass is poor from lack of moisture during the winter months.

We have always heard so much about the southern hospitality, and after living among its people for three months, I can honestly say that their friendliness warms the heart. I've never seen anything to equal the kindness of the people we have met here. One couple in particular I'd like to mention "Muriel and Woody" at the VanNess fruit stand. This young couple did one kindness after another for us, I have never seen finer people. This spark of human kindness is bound to rub off and affect everyone they come in contact with. This alone was worth the long trip south.

Florida City where we made our home while in Florida, is on Highway 41—about 25 miles east of the Gulf of Mexico, is centrally located 80 miles north of Tampa, and is on the edge of Lake Tsalala popka.

Belicans and flamingos are an amusing part of Florida scenery. The soil in Florida is all sandy. Quite different from our sand, as it packs when wet, which of course holds the moisture and is very important in growing citrus fruits.

The many lovely birds that make their home in Florida, include the Mocking Bird, chosen as Florida's state bird, and their song is something to be remembered. I was awakened each morning to their lilting music.

The sunsets here rival any I've ever seen. There is no twilight. Just as soon as the big rose ball falls over the horizon, it gets dark, but the color reflected in the sky is simply beautiful. One would need to be a poet to describe its reflected beauty lighting up the sky.

The papaya melon grows in clusters on trees. It resembles a cantaloupe, is cooked as a vegetable when green, and served as a fruit when ripe. It is rich in vitamins. Its juice is an aid to stomach ailments, and tough meat wrapped in papaya leaves for twenty-four hours becomes butter tender. This most unusual melon is green turning to a mottled orange when ripe. I saw a tree with at least two dozen clusters near the top of this very small tree.

Our first trip took us to the Rainbow Springs where we took boat rides on glass-bottomed and submarine type boats. We got several pictures through port-holes, of the life below the surface of the water. We had dinner in a very nice scenic restaurant overlooking the springs.

Our next trip took us to Pine Island, on the Gulf, a lovely spot, very nice beach. We took a lunch along, and found accommodations in the way of sheltered tables, benches and brick barbecue pits. We spent a wonderful day swimming, eating and exploring the island.

Some people may not believe all they hear, but are very fond of repeating it.

Too Large A Mouth

This largemouth bass recently mistook a fly-fisherman's fly for the real thing in a southern Michigan pond. Here he displays his three pounds of fury for Conservation Department photographer Robert Harrington. The angler later released the plucky bass.

Color to Feature Men's Wardrobe

Men are moving out of the back seat and into the side-car in the fashion field these days. More and more emphasis is being put on men's clothing, both style and color-wise, says Mrs. Frances I. Clark, county home demonstration agent. With this in mind, you'll want to know the "fashion firsts" when you go shopping for the menfolk in your family this fall.

Ivy league will continue to be the slack style trend for boys and young men this fall and winter. The Ivy league style usually has a plain front with no pleats and a buckle in the back. The legs are pegged or tapered near the bottom and, they touch the tip of the shoes with no break, explains Mrs. Clark.

As far as fabric trends are concerned, you will see color "bursting out all over" for men as well as women. You will be able to buy fall and winter slacks in a wider variety of solid colors and stripes.

In addition to the wool gabardines, sheens and flannels which are most popular for dressy wear, your cleaning bill will hit a new low if you buy any of the washable cottons and wash-and-wear blends you will see in your favorite men's shop this fall. "Washable" can mean hand or machine washable so be sure to read the laundering instructions on the label before you buy. Look for "sanforized" or "will not shrink more than 2 per cent" on the label of cotton slacks. And, if there is a matching belt, be sure it is washable, too.

Know the style and fabric trends for men when you shop; manufacturers are giving personality to men's clothing and at the same time, are making your weekly washing and ironing easier for you.

Men looking for trouble soon find it is looking for them.

"Every day a man runs up against the kind of truth that hurts.

Free advice has too much wrapper for the size of the package.

The fellow who is completely satisfied with himself has too much time to find fault with others.

SHORT STORY

Buckwheat Plan

By Lonnie E. Legge

THE loud banging, at ten o'clock in the morning, on the old steel triangle hanging on a post in the back yard caused Lemuel Hawkins to unhitch his team, where he was plowing the "back forty" and light a shuck for the house wondering what further trouble had come to perch on his door step at that time in the morning.

It just seemed one piece of bad luck followed right after another; like his seven children—all girls, age 15 to 25, and none married. Seemed like boys were just not interested in corn-fed, country girls. His girls were well educated and comely, but no dates—no dates meant no marriages. Not counting his day-time worry, the sleep he lost thinking up plans for getting the girls married off was worse than all his work combined.

Arriving at the house his thoughts were rudely awakened by his wife's shrill yell: "Lem, the cows have broken into the buckwheat straw stack and are eating it up!"

"Oh no!" Lem said in disbelief.

(Now, everyone knows, or should know that no animal will eat buckwheat straw, except, maybe a Billy goat and it would have to be starved to it.)

Lem rode over to the barn lot, fenced off for stacking winter feed

3-Minute Fiction

From then on there was an elopement every week.

which had all been fed out, except the buckwheat straw that was used for bedding the stock. The stack was surrounded by cows, devouring the brown straw like hungry wolves. Lem could hardly believe his eyes. He quickly drove the cows out and mended the fence thinking, "something funny about those cows; or that's darn good straw! I'll feed them some of it tonight."

That night he filled the manger full while thinking of the straw he could buy cheap from his neighbors before they found out cows would eat it. At supper he told the family, "I'm sure it must be something in the soil for I never heard tell of cows eating it before."

He was awakened early next morning by the lowing of hungry cattle. Dressing quickly he rushed to the stack and got a fork load of straw and carried it into the cowshed only to find the mangers were already full. None had been eaten the night before. Lem dropped on the pile of buckwheat straw in deep meditation amid the lowing of the hungry cattle.

An hour later the ringing triangle calling him to breakfast jarred him into action of feeding the hungry stock. Cleaning the mangers he hurriedly filled them with roughage from the haymow, which the stock began eating voraciously. Humming a tune, Lem went to breakfast.

After breakfast he got his wife and youngest daughter, Cissie alone and said, "I have hit on a plan to marry the girls off. Course, Cissie, is only a 'little elf' and we want to keep her with us for years yet. Them dang cows, dumb as they are showed me the way. People are just like animals; tell or show them they can't have something and they will get it in spite of hell or high-water!" He then unfolded his plan to them adding, "pay no attention to any mysterious comings or goings."

Saturday night Lem went into town and bought a sawed off shotgun, shells and a brindle bulldog, hinting in several places if he caught any boys hanging around his house, trying to court his girls, "I'll fill them so full of shot it will weight them down till this bulldog can chew their ears off."

Just two weeks afterwards, the eldest girl eloped with the town barber and was married. From there on there was an elopement every week, then two in one week until the six oldest girls were all married and happily forgiven.

Lem and his wife were happy, but Cissie seemed to be the happiest of all; singing from morning till night. One morning not long after the last elopement Mrs. Hawkins, called Cissie to breakfast, but got no answer. She called the second time; then Lem said, "I'll go up and wake her I'm afraid the poor little elf is working too hard."

It's miraculous how, some family trees survive the underbrush.

People who have a strict regard for the truth seldom talk about their achievements.

The redeeming feature about building castles in the air is that they still remain untaxed.

Motorists may not have to pay $100,000,000 for the Mackinac Straits Bridge after all.

It is all in the exploratory stage yet, but hopes are bright the federal government will pay 90 per cent of the cost.

The situation came to light when Rep. Knox, who represents parts of both of Michigan's peninsulas in Congress, urged the state to take advantage of federal aid, along with other states.

The opportunity existed since the 1956 federal highway aid formula was adopted, granting states 90 per cent of the cost of interstate system superhighways.

"Michigan has every right to the funds for the bridge," said Knox.

The Knox statement caught Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie, a Democrat, without a public statement handy. He recouped quickly—claiming his office had been working on the idea.

To qualify, the proposal on the bridge must be submitted to the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, thence to the Department of Commerce and then to Congress.

Ironically, the possibilities of getting up to $90,000,000 for the Michigan project—long an un-dreamed-of—has presented its own series of problems.

What, for instance, will happen to the investors who bought the bridge bonds? If the bonds are retired with federal funds before maturity, a huge premium for those living more than a mile away is in prospect.

Where will Michigan get the $10,000,000 in matching funds? If taken from other state highway funds, will the construction of other needed superhighways be delayed?

Will Congress release the money directly for the bridge or allow it as a credit for use in construction of other highways?

If granted, will the money become toll free or will a token charge—something far less than the average $8.50 charge—be levied for maintenance?

All these questions must be answered before the state can go ahead with qualifying the bridge for federal aid.

Knox contends it is already eligible—because it links existing interstate highways, U. S. 31 with U. S. 2 across the Upper Peninsula.

Federal money already has been used to build the approaches to the bridge, another powerful argument.

Insiders believe the bridge crossing will carry a toll for at least a year after the five mile span between Mackinaw City and St. Ignace is opened early in November.

Congress, now in adjournment, will return next January and the final step in the financing will have to wait until then and probably later.

Still another argument is the national defense system.

With construction of the bridge, the state's ferry fleet will be taken out of service, leaving only the bridge to carry traffic between major interstate highways. And a knotty complication is the defense situation if something happens to the bridge with the ferry fleet abolished and no emergency method of crossing.

Children are flocking back to the schools in record numbers this fall.

Dr. Lynn M. Bartlett, superintendent of public instruction, said the public school enrollment will reach 1,500,000 with 300,000 going to parochial schools.

The increased numbers will require a total of 56,500 teachers.

Buses will transport more than 400,000 children to schools each day.

Because of a cutback in transportation money, only the students living 1 1/2 miles from school will ride the buses. Last year, the service was provided for those living more than a mile away.

Dr. Bartlett noted a change in Michigan's school problems.

"Up to now, we have been worried about providing elementary schools, but the birth rate increase of the 1940s is now having a strong effect on our high schools," he said.

All this is pressing down on the system, he said, at a time when the nation and state needs more physicists, mathematicians and engineers for defense industries and for higher education.

Dates to Remember: The next statewide primary election will be held Aug. 5, 1958, and the general election Nov. 4, 1958.

Every man has a right to his opinions, but it isn't always safe to express them.

Some men stick to a good thing with such tenacity that it usually breaks to pieces.

Hi Neighbor!

Today... calories play an important part in the preparation of meals in many households from coast-to-coast. Even more important is the "TOTAL CALORIES" when one is watching his weight. Yes... it's the "TOTAL" that counts in calories as in your cash register receipts when you go shopping, because at today's high prices it is necessary that you watch and check these prices from time to time by using the "TOTAL TEST." Leading food stores often advertise price leaders, and the prices on these items are good but are you sure you are not really paying the full price and perhaps a little more? We suggest that you make the "TOTAL TEST" and see for yourself that you can actually save more at your IGA FOOD STORES. You not only get the benefit of the leader items but you also get IGA's Every Day Low Prices, too.

Deford WCTU

The first meeting for the year 1957-58, of the Deford Women's Christian Temperance Union, was held at the home of Mrs. Archie Hicks Thursday afternoon.

Fourteen members and two visitors were present to hear the new president, Mrs. Edna Malcolm, urge all to give their best co-operation as Christian women, in whatever way they may serve.

The theme of the studies for this year is "Highways to Abstinence," and Mrs. Kenneth Churchill gave the devotions.

The September topic is "Highway of Education," stressing the individual, as well as the collective need in helping "Miss Liberty" guide our nation. Mrs. Walter Kelley led in prayer.

The servicemen's department chairman reported that one pillow and four laprobes have been delivered to the Veterans' hospital in Grand Rapids, Mich., and one completed hand bag was sold. The funds from these are to be used to purchase articles to be placed in the "sunshine bags" the group is now making to be sent to disabled veterans for Christmas. Mrs. Thomas, the chairwoman, also has addresses of veterans who have few or no relatives remembering them and would be glad to give them to anyone who would care to send cards to them.

During the usual business session, the president announced Sept. 13, at 1:00 p. m. at her home, for an official board meeting, after which the hostess and leaders will be announced.

The theme of the day's lesson was picked from the devotions, "Highways of Education" by the lesson leader, Mrs. Earl Rayl Sr., using materials from the WCTU publishers, and the 1957 July-August issue of the Michigan Union. It stressed some things that public school teachers may do to train the thinking of their pupils.

At the close of the meeting the hostess served refreshments. Area persons are invited to attend the meetings the first Thursday afternoon of each month.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Allen entertained at dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hildinger, Mrs. Ernest Hildinger and daughter Linda, all of Caro, Mr. and Mrs. Duane Warner and son Clinton, Alva Allen, Mrs. Effie Warner and daughter Harriet.

Dr. and Mrs. Douglas Harvey and sons Mike and Alan of Utica, and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Geiger and three daughters of Cass City were Sunday visitors at the Lloyd Hicks home.

Farm Beginner Needs Financing

Must-Borrow Money For Extended Period

Beginning farmers today face many financial problems, a University of Illinois farm economist pointed out to Illinois production credit association fieldmen at their annual meeting.

F. J. Reiss stressed the high capital needs of beginning farmers. They may easily average $8,000 or more. And usually a sizable part must be borrowed from relatives or credit agencies. Reiss warned against farming on a small scale to keep down the amount borrowed. That may mean operating with such high per cent costs of production that income is not sufficient to repay debts or maintain an acceptable standard of living.

The beginning farmer usually has as his first big task the business of overcoming sizeable financial problems.

In addition to paying off debts, those who start farming have a problem of building up volume. Earnings may actually be in the form of increased inventories, which can't be used to pay off debts.

So beginning farmers need borrowed money for longer than one year—usually three to five years. This time will usually be long enough to pay off debts for machinery and breeding stock.

Mastitis Is Still

Causing Dairy Losses

There's at least one "old-timer" that isn't revered by Illinois dairymen. This one is mastitis.

Veterinarians at the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine say that, despite the long time in which mastitis has been recognized as a serious disease of dairy cows, it is still causing dairymen heavy losses.

What causes mastitis? Udder injuries are considered important factors in opening the door to invasion of various types of bacteria that can cause infectious mastitis. So the farmer will do himself a favor by cutting down on the ways in which a cow can injure herself. Some causes of injury are stalls that are too short, inadequate bedding, high door sills or jump gates and forcing the cow to run.

The dairyman should be on the lookout for any change in the milk or the cow's udder—a warning that mastitis may be present. A few flakes in the milk or a firm area in a teat or quarter is usually the first sign of the disease. If proper veterinary treatment is not given, the quarter may become swollen and inflamed and the milk may change greatly within a few hours.

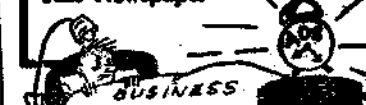

If you suspect mastitis, contact your local veterinarian to help him start a herd control program. This will include a new milking order which consists of milking healthy cows—especially first-calf heifers—first and those with mastitis, or suspected of having mastitis, last. It's also a good idea to use a strip cup or bakelite cup to check the milk of each cow before milking. This shows abnormal changes in milk.

Soil Bank Pay Rate Set at $36 An Acre

An average payment rate of $36 per acre has been set for Tuscola County under the 1958 winter wheat acreage reserve program, Charles B. Eckfeld, manager of the Tuscola County ASC Committee, announced this week.
The rate is based on the county average but will vary among farms due to the productivity of the land placed under the program.
Individual per-acre agreements will be signed with each farmer in the program and will be based on the average production of the farm in 1956-57. All crops will be used as a basis with the exception of hay.
If the farmer is not satisfied with the Soil Bank base or the rate of payment, he can appeal to the county and State ASC offices.
The sign-up period closes Oct. 4.

SHORT STORY

Wrong Violets

By Linda Leigh

SHE was getting to be a nuisance, Tom Bradley told himself. He'd better be pulling out. Violet Lovelace was attractive enough, he realized, in a plump, middle-aged way. She owned her own home and was receiving a widow's pension but that would stop as soon as she remarried.
He thought back six months to when it had first started. She visited the shop where he worked to purchase storm windows. He was sent out to install them. It was almost supper time when he finished; she insisted that he come in and eat.
She was a superb cook. Man-sized meals. Steak and baked potatoes and apple pie.
They had drifted into a courtship of sorts. Tom rarely took her anywhere. She didn't expect it. She seemed satisfied with his companionship, his appreciation of her cooking.
But lately, he had sensed that she was beginning to want more. Never coming out and saying anything about marriage but just dropping little hints. He was going to have to back out NOW while the going was good.
Later, it would be too late. Tom was half-heartedly listening to Art Leadbetter's T.V. program while Violet fixed sandwiches and coffee in the kitchen. He heard him say that they were searching for a woman who had a hundred thousand dollar estate awaiting her. His ears perked up when he heard the words "Minter, West Virginia" for he knew Violet had once lived there. His heart pounded when he heard the name of the heiress—Violet Viers.

Violet was a rather unusual name. Surely there wouldn't be two Violets from a little town like Minter. The other details came: She would be around 45. The inheritance was from her Aunt Melissa Mann. They mentioned who she would get in touch with before the program signed off.
Violet came in with the sandwiches and coffee. Had she heard the program? Her face was serene, unmoved. She didn't suspect anything.
One hundred thousand dollars! What a difference that would make! If she were only the one. He'd have to ferret out the information slowly.
"What was your maiden name?" he asked, accepting a cup of steaming coffee. "I never did know."
"Viers," she told him.
Violet Viers. From Minter. That much he knew. There couldn't be any doubt. But her age? He didn't know that.
"How old are you, Violet?" he asked after a lengthy pause.
Her smile was coy, evasive. "A woman's age is her own secret."
"I'm fifty-two, myself," he said, adding on six years just to be safe.
"Violet's an unusual name," he mused aloud.
"Oh, I've known several Violets," she conceded. "I even have a cousin."
He broke in and started giving her his spiel. Selling himself. Saying that his wages wasn't much but that they could manage. How he had come to depend on her, couldn't bear to think of a life without her. Did she think him silly for dispensing with formalities and wanting to marry tomorrow? Hadn't they wasted enough time without further shilly-shallying?
He could barely keep his mind on the wedding ceremony. Instead of Violet's plump little face, he saw dollar signs. One hundred thousand of them.
Later, they were on a weekend honeymoon and purchased a New York paper. Violet glanced at it a while, then let out a squeal.
"They've found Violet," she exclaimed. "Her Aunt Melissa left her a hundred thousand."
"Violet?" he inquired lamely.
"My cousin I started to tell you about," she continued. "We were, both named Violet Viers. But my family was poor as a church mouse. Her mother's side had money."
It soaked in slowly, then Tom began to sweat blood. He had the wrong Violet.

The man with an uncontrollable temper seems to lack a balance wheel.
BREAKING POINT
Many a man with a strong point in his character makes it a weak point by admiring it too much.

BULEN TALKS Cars
'FANTASTIC' CAR DEALS

There have really been some fantastic deals cooked up lately to sell cars.
Just imagine: cars for $1.25 a week, then reduced to 95 cents a week!
This is what happened, I'm told, in Jacksonville, Fla., when some of the sharper operators got in a free-for-all (or almost free) mood.
One firm offered cars for sale, with good trade-ins, at $1.25 a week. Then another outfit beat him out by offering cars for 95 cents a week.
It sounded fine, until you read the fine print. Then you saw that after 12 months of these next-to-nothing payments the entire balance came due. That had to be paid off in another 12 months.
The customer still had to pay for the car and that, although it sounds a little trite, is still true. They still had to pay for it some way.

Of anyone around here, I think we've been the leaders in making the ownership of a car a realistic goal for the largest number of people. But when you start to fool the people you're doing no one any good.

You do a real service, I think, when you offer the lowest REAL prices on cars, with financing terms to make it a sensible pay-as-you-go proposition.

Our boys often shop around themselves and we know that our customers, when they add up all that they have paid for their car, get the best bargains.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY. If you want a new car and want to get the most for your dollar. As I've said, the '58s which will come out in November will be up in price. Your car will be a year older, worth less. Dealers (us included) are anxious to sell the remaining '57s to make room for the '58s. We are in the mood to deal, and we're doing it.

Why don't you try US just for fun. Might surprise you. There have been some fantastic deals in the car business. We'll tell you about a few next week.
