From the Editor's Corner

The milk strike called by the Dairy Farmers Cooperative of Michigan is doomed to failure. We predict that the amount of milk not reaching the Detroit market will scarcely be noticed in the Detroit market.

It is entirely possible that no milk at all will be held back.

There is disagreement between Homer Martin and other leaders of the DFC over the strike. Most members of the DFC are also members of the Michigan Milk Producers Association. It is our belief that the vast majority of these dual members will not withhold milk from the market.

Regardless of the effect of the present strike, the DFC and other insurgent groups have helped dairy farmers in Michigan. They have provided the MMPA into action so that Michigan dairy farmers now receive one of the best prices in the nation for milk simply by seeking a price and demanding that dairies meet it.

Dr. Frank Suggitt's plea for a land plan in townships surrounding the village echo the request of the Cass City Development Association and other interested persons and groups in the area.

If the townships zone today they will be as far ahead of their time now as were the foresighted village officials who were responsible for Cass City's zoning law back in the time when few, if any, towns the size of Cass City were even thinking about it.

The result of Cass City's zoning is apparent and pleasant. . . zoning of Novesta and Elkland townships will be just as pleasing in the years to come, experts say.

Because it is only through zoning that the area's growth can be regulated.

As far as we know, the only township in Tuscola County that has zoning is Almer, which has been partially zoned.

It would be well if Novesta and Elkland were next on the list.

Mayville Youth's Probation Revoked In Circuit Court

The probation sentence of Harold Delong, 20, of Mayville was revoked by Judge T. C. Quinn Wednesday in Tuscola County Circuit Court.

He had been sentenced to two years' probation in June for breaking and entering a construction company working east of Vassar where he stole gas.

He was brought back to court for stealing gas from a Caro plastic plant and failure to get a job.

Judge Quinn remanded him to the custody of the Tuscola County sheriff while he decides disposition of the case.

In a consent agreement, the attorney for Ernest Wagner agreed to pay $279.20 to the . . .

Mrs. Rice said that the drive is nearing completion and that a report will be made to drive chairmen in the near future.

Taxes Increase In Tuscola County in 1958

Taxes will jump again next year in Tuscola County, it was revealed last week in the tax spread as released by the Tuscola County Board of Supervisors in their October session.

Total taxes to be paid will be $1,649,151.66 as compared to $1,367,179.63 this year.

Despite the raise in the tax load, supervisors left the tax rate at 5.85 mills of the state equalized valuation, the same as it was this year.

Much of the increase in taxes can be traced to special voted assessments such as the $2.30 plus per thousand for the new county nursing home and new schools.

Some of the increase is also due to a raise in valuation by the state. The jump averaged about 44 cents per thousand in valuation in his township, one supervisor reported.

Elkland Township
Total taxes in Elkland Township increased from $100,060.47 to $123,458.89 for next year.

The tax was spread as follows: county tax, $36,807.43; county nursing home, $9,851.47; township, $3,489.48; special drain, $7,889.52; drain at large, $3,746.17; school operating, $45,492.27; school building and site, $16,582.55.

Ellington Township
Ellington Township's taxes increased from $26,447.71 to $29,917.80.

The tax spread: county tax, $7,767.54; county nursing home, $1,973.45; special drain, $5,104.00; drain at large, $2,487.50; school operating, $10,567.44; school building and site, $2,027.37.

Elmwood Township
Total taxes in Elmwood Township increased from $48,419.29 to $59,737.60.

The tax spread: county tax, $15,218.11; county nursing home, $3,866.38; special drain, $9,319.67; drain at large, $4,108.26; school operating, $20,462.74; school special debt, $3,341.64; township road tax, $3,420.80.

Novesta Township
Novesta Township's total tax increased from $31,260.09 to $36,910.22.

The tax spread: county tax, $9,840.97; county nursing home, $2,500.24; special drain, $1,097.20; drain at large, $527.50; school . . .

The quilt is being offered at auction and will be sold to the highest bidder. . . all proceeds will go to the hospital fund.

Pictured here with Postmaster Ray Lapp, they were about to make their first delivery in the village. Mr. Kirm will handle home delivery and Mr. Root business places and parcel post.

Three From Area In Accidents During Week

Mrs. Elsie McBurney, 49, of Cass City was injured in a three-car crash on M-31, a mile west of Cass City, Tuesday. She suffered a sprained right wrist.

According to Trooper Joel E. Gorzen, Mrs. McBurney turned out to pass Edward G. Golding Sr., 54, of Cass City, who was waiting to make a left turn.

She was traveling east and hit a car going west, driven by James R. Stevenson, 23, of Base Line.

Mrs. McBurney was charged with driving at an excessive speed.

Loses Control
Another area person was involved in an accident Thursday, Oct. 17. Frank W. Fort, 37, of Cass City escaped injury when he lost control of his car on Ridge Road at the intersection of Kilmannagh Road. He went into a ditch while attempting to go around a sharp curve.

State Police who investigated issued Mr. Fort a ticket for excessive speed for conditions.

Cars Damaged
Walter Shantz, 21, of Gageton and Paul E. Holloway, 59, of Clementon, New Jersey, collided near Sebawaing at the intersection of Sebawaing and Gettel Roads, Thursday, Oct. 17.

According to State Police officers who investigated, Mr. Shantz was traveling east on Sebawaing Road and Mr. Holloway had stopped at the intersection while traveling north on Gettel Road.

Damage to the Shantz car was estimated at $1,000 and at $500 to the Holloway car.

Both men were issued tickets. Mr. Holloway for an unsafe start and Shantz for excessive speed for conditions of road.

Make Present Name Official For Hospital

The official name for the new hospital in Cass City will be the Cass City Community Hospital, it was decided Tuesday evening at a meeting of the board of directors.

The name was decided upon after it was finally approved by representatives of the Office of Hospital Survey and Construction in Lansing.

Authorities from that office originally had said that they felt that the name was not representative of the area the hospital will serve.

However, recently they okayed the name of Cass City Community Hospital. They granted permission because all pledges, bonds and other papers of the hospital were made in the name of Cass City Community Hospital and too much work would be required to change the documents to a new name.

Speaks in Cass City

Expert Tells Need Of Land Use Plan

Dr. Frank Suggitt, from the Michigan State University Department of Resource Development, pointed out the extreme importance of a plan for land use outside the corporate limits of the village, speaking Tuesday noon to the Cass City Rotary Club and Tuesday evening to the Gavel Club.

Dr. Suggitt based his conclusion after compiling the results of a survey taken in the community last spring and summer.

He pointed out that the new factories in Cass City are having an appreciable effect now and will have an even greater influence on the area in the years to come. His survey outlined the effect in three major classifications.

He pointed out that labor at the plants has come from 21 townships and four counties. . . Lapeer, Sanilac, Tuscola and Huron.

About a half of the present labor force in Cass City is taken from the farm, about a third from Cass City and about a seventh is formed by persons living in the country, but not farming.

Business in Cass City, judging by sales tax figures, is increasing slightly more than the average for Tuscola County and the state.

The addition of the new factories is rapidly using available building space for industry, business and homes and future expansion will probably be in Novesta and Elkland townships, he said.

Cass City and the upper Thumb's industrial development is about 10 years behind most of the state, he pointed out.

Chance to Act
For this reason, he said, the area has a chance to control the growth of the area. . . and growth is assured, judging by all available information.

The way to handle this growth is by a planned land use, Dr. Suggitt pointed out. He suggested that interested persons in Elkland and Novesta townships meet with village authorities and other interested persons to start a plan before undesirable business locates at spots that will prove detrimental to the community.

Plan for Yule Pageant Tuesday

Preliminary plans for this year's Christmas pageant were started at a meeting of the Cass City Area Pageant Association Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. James Bauer.

Jim Wallace, chairman of the pageant for 1957, said that committees and other program notes will be announced as soon as plans are more complete.

Several improvements and changes are now under consideration and will be announced when plans are finished.

Again this year, the Association will need materials for the procession. Persons with striped or plain colored materials can call Mrs. James Bauer and their contributions will be picked up.

Hawks Favored to Top Yale Tonight

The Cass City Red Hawks swing back into league action Friday evening after a two-week layoff when Yale is scheduled at the Cass City Recreational Park.

Last week's scheduled game with Croswell-Lexington was cancelled because of the flu that had stricken many of the players on both teams.

But for the first time since early in the season, the Hawks will probably be full strength when they play the Bulldogs.

Coaches report that every member of the squad was present for a practice held Tuesday.

The Hawks will reign as heavy favorites to win their third conference game in four tries. The only blot on Cass City's record is a tie game played with Marlette.

Yale has had a rough season. They have been able to win only once in three tries.

The game will be the annual day's night. Fathers of the players will occupy special seats of honor near the Cass City bench.

Cancellation of the Croswell game may set the stage for a championship battle later in the year. Croswell has played two games in league competition and has won them both.

Supervisors Finish Busy October Session

Setting the budget for the Tuscola County Department of Social Welfare was one of several items decided by the Tuscola County Board of Supervisors as they ended their October session in Caro last week.

The budget calls for a total of $112,000, $8,000 less than will be spent this year. The budget jumped to $120,000 last year so that the department would have enough money on hand to pay bills while waiting for money due from the state. The extra $8,000 will not be needed in 1958.

A member of the Social Welfare Board, Elmer Haines of Vassar, was unanimously re-elected to his post by the board.

John Humm, Friend of the Court, asked supervisors to grant him a full-time secretary. After consideration, the board okayed the request starting Jan. 1, 1958.

Ups Salary
The board also granted a raise of $500 yearly to Judge T. C. Quinn. Judge Quinn formerly received $1,000 a year from the county. The remainder of his salary is paid by Lapeer County and the state.

Members of the Welfare Commission also received permission to have their per diem adjusted to the same rate as supervisors receive. The rate of $10 daily was upped to $12. The seven cents per mile mileage rate was unchanged.

Roy LaFave, chairman of the Tuscola County Road Commission, appeared before the supervisors and answered questions concerning township roads.

Lee VanAllen reported on his bee inspection work for the year. He said that he inspected 124 apiaries and 1,801 colonies. Of this amount 1.1 per cent were diseased. . . 10 apiaries and 20 colonies. The board granted $400 for next year's work.

Hours Changed
The hours for the courthouse to be open, recently changed, were changed again on a trial basis to Dec. 31, 1957. Offices will be open from 8:30 a. m. instead of 8 a. m., Monday through Friday. The courthouse will remain closed on Saturday.

Supervisors also decided that it was not necessary to hold separate audits of county Justice's of the Peace books.

DFC Strikes for Milk Price Boost

The Dairy Farmers Cooperative Association went on strike Wednesday and members of the association, have been asked to hold back their milk from the market.

How many members are in the association and how many will agree to hold back milk when the giant Michigan Milk Producers Association has not agreed to . . .

LUCKY NIMROD—In his second year of hunting with a bow and arrow Don Smith, 18, of Cass City bagged this doe Saturday morning while hunting near Tawas City.

He reports that he shot the deer while it was running at a distance of about 25 feet. Mr. Smith did not bag his prize without considerable effort. After he hit the deer, he and his two companions, Charles Patterson and Charles Szarapski, trailed it for three hours before it was spotted by Mr. Szarapski.

The deer weighed 93 pounds dressed.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Make Your Own Raised Doughnuts For Genuine Treat

HOW long since you've made your own doughnuts? Years? Or never?

There's something wonderfully pleasurable in doughnut making at home. Perhaps it's the fragrance of the dough as it rises or the pleasure you and the children will get out of watching them pop up while frying. Do try it. Mashed potatoes in the yeast dough will give it wonderful flavor and texture, as this recipe will testify as you work with it:

- Raised Doughnuts (Makes 48) 3 medium potatoes 1/2 cup sugar 1 teaspoon salt About 6 cups sifted flour 1 package or cake yeast, active, dry or compressed 1/2 cup warm water 1/2 cup soft butter or substitute 2 eggs 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg Peel potatoes and cook in 2 cups boiling, salted water until tender. Drain off water, reserving 1 cup. Pour water in large mixing bowl. Stir in sugar, salt and 1 cup flour. Beat until smooth. Sprinkle or crumble yeast in 1/2 cup water

Doughnuts are a favorite for Fall, served for friendly get-togethers or as a breakfast or coffee time treat. They're plump, light and spiced with nutmeg, their golden crust coated with sugar.

(warm, not hot for active, dry yeast; lukewarm for compressed yeast). Stir until dissolved, then beat into batter. Cover with cloth and let rise in a warm place, free from a draft, until bubbly. Meanwhile, mash hot potatoes in pan in which they were cooked. Measure 1 cup and place in mixing bowl. Beat in butter, eggs and nutmeg. When batter is full of bubbles, stir in potato mixture and remaining flour, enough to make a stiff dough.

Kneading: Turn dough out on a floured board and knead 8 to 10 minutes or until dough is smooth and elastic. Place in a greased bowl and brush top of dough with soft or melted shortening. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk. Punch down dough, cover bowl and store in refrigerator. Two hours before serving time, remove dough from refrigerator. Before Frying: Cut dough in half. Roll each half 1/4-inch thick on floured board. Cut with doughnut cutter, place on floured board, cover with cloth and let rise in a warm place until light and doubled in bulk. Slip doughnuts into hot deep fat (365°F.). As soon as they rise to the top, turn with long handled fork to brown other side. Drain on absorbent paper. Coat with granulated sugar, shaking a few at a time in a paper bag.

Good Breakfast Prevents Fatigue

A good breakfast will help prevent that mid-morning slump, says Mrs. Frances T. Clark, county home demonstration agent. To do a good job all morning, you need a good breakfast. Research shows that people who eat little or no breakfast often tend to be cranky and irritable during the morning. In fact these people seem more likely to have accidents and do low quality work between 11 o'clock and noon. The four main foods your breakfast should include are a fruit, a main dish, breadstuff and beverage. Fruits start your day with a good supply of vitamin C, minerals and bulk. Your body can't store vitamin C so a daily supply is necessary. Oranges, strawberries, grapefruit, tomatoes and melons are especially high in vitamin C. The main dish is a source of protein and furnishes "staying power" to keep you from getting hungry before noon. Eggs, meat, cheese or cereal with plenty of milk are good main dishes. You'll get added vitamins from bread if you choose whole wheat or enriched bread or rolls. If you serve pancakes or waffles, use enriched flour or mix to make them. Both hot and cold cereals are available in enriched forms, too. Milk or cocoa should be included for calcium and riboflavin. Coffee and tea don't have any food value but you may want to have one as a hot beverage. Helps for planning quick, nutritive breakfasts are given in a new bulletin now available. You can get "Breakfasts Bonus" folder F-248, from the county extension office in the Court House, Caro, says Mrs. Frances T. Clark.

TUGGING YOUR HEARTSTRINGS

I've made up my mind. What this column needs is a little more drama, something with heart. Something that will tug you right in the old ticker.

So today, at tremendous expense to the management, we present the Bulen Motors TV Players in a heart-tugging one-act commercial! SCENE: Park bench. Couple billing and cooling.

SHE: Penny for your thoughts! HE: What a bargain that would be! I was thinking about a certain car at Bulen's.

SHE: (POUTING) You don't love me! HE: Sure, but I also love the thought of paying so little for such an immaculate, late-model car.

SHE: Is that all you care about? A silly old car? HE: You weren't listening, Dearest. I said it was practically new and --(GETS SUDDEN IDEA)--but that's selfish talk; Darling. Let's--

SHE: (HOPEFULLY) Yes? HE: Let's run over to Bulen's so you can see the car too!

SHE: Oh, you beast! I thought you were proposing! HE: But I was. I was proposing that we buy this car, and then when we're married, we'll be starting out without any financial problems.

SHE: Darling! You ARE proposing! HE: Sure, but only on the condition that you come with me to Bulen's right now.

SHE: Gladly! Gladly! Gladly! HE: Okay, okay, let's not ham it up. After all, this is only a commercial for Bulen Motors.

SHE: Look who's talking! You weren't exactly any Sir Laurence Olivier yourself, and furthermore --

(FADE OUT)

There now! Didn't that get you sort of all choked up? Notice how they're talking like a married couple already?

 Vat Colors

As I have been window-shopping over the state, I have decided that the Americans have gone beyond mere color-consciousness and have become almost color-minded.

Manufacturers point out that color may not sell single-handedly, but a colored product wins the consumers' nod more readily than an equally functional, plain one. Just note the passing of the era of the white towel and sheet.

Remember that there is more to color than meets the eye. How many of us, men included, look for a label or ask the salesperson about the fastness of the color on the things we buy?

Fortunately, without realizing it, we have been enjoying the benefits of fast color, the so-called vat colors, for years. The American chemical industries set out to develop their own dyes when World War I cut off their foreign sources.

Today the rich hues of vat colors are widely used, not only for plain and printed cottons, washable rayons, and linens, but also on blends of these fibers. This includes fabrics for home furnishings as well as clothing.

Now the fabrics dyed with vat colors possess maximum fastness to laundering, sunlight, dry cleaning and rubbing off.

The vat dyes are synthetic products of known quality and predictable results. In the dyeing process they are first reduced chemically to a soluble form, so that they actually may penetrate the textile fibers to become part of the fabric. Next, when the fibers have absorbed the dye completely, the chemical process is reversed and the dye reverts to its original insoluble form; fixed in the fibers for the life of the fabric. Each step in the complicated process of making and applying vat colors calls for exacting skill.

The consumer can make certain that she is getting vat colors in the cottons, washable rayons, and linens that she buys by looking for "Vat Dyed" or "Vat Printed" on hand tags, labels or selvage markings.

If vat colors are not identified on the fabric, ask the salesperson to check with the department's buyer.

You as the purchaser can expect to see more vat dyes used on fabrics. You can expect to see more informative labels, so I hope everyone who is buying some new fabrics will look for and read all labels thoroughly.

Michigan Mirror News in Brief

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association

Michigan's Industrial Climate, which has been kicked around often and hard between Democrats and Republicans when discussing the state tax structure, finally felt the warming glow of favorable light.

The state of Oklahoma, which is carrying on an active campaign to interest new industry to locate there, wrote 10,000 letters to plants all over the country. Don C. Weeks, director of the Michigan Department of Economic Development, recently heard from an Oklahoma official that Michigan industrialists show "outstanding loyalty to their state". This loyalty was so marked in replies from 400 Michigan industries contacted, that it became a subject for general discussion in Oklahoma.

Oklahoma businessmen will soon be following up the letters with personal visits to offices which received the letters. This, of course, includes Michigan.

Important aspect about this display of loyalty is that it can overcome some of the undeserved poor publicity which resulted from political fighting when Democrats were charging that industry should be taxed more and Republicans were charging the present tax structure is "driving industry out" of the state.

The uninsured driver and related problems are receiving careful study. A commission appointed by the governor is examining him as a cause of financial hardship to others when he becomes involved in an accident.

Commission members are weighing pros and cons of several plans which deal with this problem in other states. A report, or probably a majority and several minority reports, will be submitted about Christmas.

Two basic philosophies from which commission members must choose involve plans which will set up funds within state government so that people suffering loss from uninsured drivers can be paid, or plans which will force uninsured drivers to become insured at the risk of losing the right to drive.

The first approach attempts to spread the cost damages caused by uninsured drivers over all drivers; the second attempts to reduce loss by fixing responsibility on the individual driver and forcing those who are not insured off the road.

Neither approach is as simple as it sounds, but the commission is working in the hopes that it can recommend some plan which will be an improvement over existing conditions.

Politicians are sprinting toward next year's election like men in gray flannel suits wearing track shoes.

Party finances for years have been shunted into the background with partisans pushing policies and personalities, leaving the dollars and cents work in the precincts.

Now both sides have discovered that it takes money to elect a state in November.

It has always been this way, but the parties liked to pretend that money was a convenience, not really necessary, but handy.

Democrats conducted a doorbell and front porch campaign this fall. It was well-publicized and the yield was satisfactory.

State Chairman Neil Staebler said the program was designed to raise money, but also to make the precinct workers feel they had a key role in the Democratic party.

Republicans took up the same sort of program.

Don E. Ahrens, former vice-president of General Motors (Cadillac division) was named party finance chief. He has experience with a number of local campaign drives.

His first move was to start a "Republican United Fund" campaign, and suggested that party members contribute $1 a month, or year, to provide a continuing fund to pay expenses.

Ahrens is interested in "businesslike concepts, budgeting of necessary expenditures, thorough audits, and the utmost in establishing financial responsibility by party leaders".

Michigan's prisons are still overcrowded. This has been an annual complaint since the 1952 riots at Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson.

There have been a number of building and remodeling projects, but still there are more prisoners than cells.

The latest problem is the state's women prisoners, now stationed at the Detroit House of Correction, itself overcrowded.

Last month, the state corrections commission urged quick action to take over the Detroit House of Correction, at least its women's division.

The theory was that, if the commission was charged with the responsibility of caring for and rehabilitating all state prisoners, it should have jurisdiction over the facilities.

In addition, an investigating group hired by Detroit concluded that the institution was ill-fitted and ill-administered to care for prisoners.

The state commission then said it should either make the Detroit prison a state institution or build a women's prison of its own.

That led to a proposal by Senator Elmer R. Porter, of Blissfield, that the state take over one of its less-occupied tuberculosis hospitals as a women's prison.

Whether it can or will be done must await the next legislative session, starting next January.

Pinkeye Season Calls for Care

Urge Early Treatment For Affected Animals

Summer and fall months often find cattlemen concerned with a variable number of cases of sore-eyed cattle. In many cases the animals are probably suffering from a condition commonly called pinkeye, says the American Veterinary Medical Association.

The term pinkeye is descriptive of the condition in that parts of the affected eye become reddened and inflamed. It may be caused by different germs, and in some cases a mechanical irritant has paved the way for the bacteria to gain a foothold, the report states.

Such irritants as dust, plant pollen, and insects are more plentiful in pastures during the late summer, making the animals more susceptible at this time of the year. Pinkeye affects cattle of all breeds and all ages, the association says. Since pinkeye spreads readily, unaffected groups should be pastured or kept as far away from affected cattle as possible.

The association suggests that the several affected animals should be isolated in a small shaded area or in a shed or barn. Feed and water should be close at hand because the affected eyes are extremely sensitive and animals will not graze in bright sunlight. Some are completely blind and unless properly treated the blindness may become permanent.

Don't Take Chances With Cornpickers

There is an old saying that "you can't beat the machine" and this time of year is appropriate for using this phrase to point up the fact that this fall many a careless farmer will not understand the truth of this statement until after he has been injured in a cornpicker accident.

The facts are simple: A stalk of corn goes through the snapping rolls at a speed of 7 feet a second. By scientific calculation, you need .4 of a second to perform the simple reaction of letting go of a corn stalk. This means that a stalk goes 3 feet through the rolls while you are reacting to the danger.

Most cornpicker accidents, naturally, are the result of carelessness, or are caused by the foolish act of attempting to unclog or adjust a cornpicker without stopping it.

Added to the unreplacable loss of a finger, hand or arm caught in snapping or husking rolls, there is an equally disastrous financial loss.

Such an accident costs several hundred dollars in doctor and hospital bills—much more if it is necessary to "fill in" for the missing hand with an artificial limb or hook. And while they're laid up, they have to hire extra help to do their farm work.

SHORT STORY

Money Man

By Venus English

WELL, sir, I didn't use to mind loaning a guy a couple of bucks until payday. Not until a couple of years ago when a guy named Ted came to work at the garage. He borrowed five from me, and two paydays came and went, and he hadn't paid me back. None of 's knew him very well. He didn't talk much, but he was friendly enough at that.

Long about four-thirty one Saturday afternoon, and payday, too, he went up to the office. When he came back, he went into the washroom and came out in his street clothes with his hat on. After he had walked out, probably on an errand, I thought, Mr. Simpson came back to the shop.

"Well, boys, we'll be short-handed for a day or so," he said. "Ted's quit. Just walked in and said since it was payday he guessed he'd leave. And he did." I'm not too much of a hand to swear, usually, but I blued up the air some right then. Sam, the welder, asked what was the matter, and I told him about Ted and my five bucks. Sam laughed.

"Guess the joke's on both of us," he said. "He owes me five, too. Say, this is Saturday night, and I've heard that he's been seen in

"Guess the joke's on both of us," he said. "He owes me five, too."

Max's beer joint out at the edge of town some Saturday nights. Let's run out there after work and maybe we can find him."

So we did, and when we walked into Max's about six o'clock, there was Ted sitting at the bar big as you please. He even bought us a drink. Then, so's not to embarrass him more than necessary, I gave Sam a wink and went into the washroom. When I came out, Sam was grinning. He gave me the nod, and I knew he'd collected. I waited a while, and pretty soon Sam got up.

"Time to be showing off," he said. "Finish your beer, Johnny, and I'll wait in the car." I knew he was giving me my turn at collecting, so I turned back to Ted.

"You ain't forgot you owe me five, have you?" I asked. Ted looked up. He didn't even turn red like most people would. "Do I?" he asked. "I'm getting absent-minded. Glad you reminded me." He fished a twenty-dollar bill out of his billfold. "Got change?" he asked.

Well, I probably wouldn't have had change on me any other day, but it was payday like I said, so I gave him a ten and a five for the twenty. Guess I was more embarrassed than he was. I almost stuttered my thanks, and then downing the last drops of my beer, I muttered "Good luck" and went out to join Sam in the car. He looked at me and I grinned and nodded, and we started off to town. As we turned onto the highway, we saw Ted come out, get into his car and go off in the other direction.

It wasn't until we were nearly home that Sam began to chuckle. I asked him what was so funny. "Just thinkin'," he replied. "If it hadn't been payday, I probably wouldn't have had the three fives to give him in change for that twenty."

"Yeh. Me neither," I said. "Only I gave him a ten and a five."

"You did? For a twenty?" Sam sounded surprised. "Well, he probably needed change for his trip. He's going to the coast to get work." It seemed pretty odd, but as long as we had our money we concluded it didn't matter.

Had our money? Both of those twenties were phony, and not only ours but about five other ones Ted had cashed before he left town that Saturday night. Nobody suspected it, though, so it wasn't until Monday morning that the counterfeit twenties began to show up where they'd be recognized, and by that time Ted could have been in Mexico or anywhere else in the world, fast as planes travel these days, and easy as it is to get rid of an unwanted car.

No, sir, I never minded loaning a guy a few bucks until payday, but I sort of got out of the habit after knowing Ted. I don't lend money to anybody now. Hope you won't hold it against me.

FACE THE FACTS

No man has ever been able to hide from the subpoenas of the court of conscience.

WRONG APPROACH

Fatal Fallacy: One for the road at the end of the day sharpens the wits and eases the way.

New Bridge Poses Problem

Opening of the new Mackinac Bridge on Nov. 1 or earlier is certain to benefit Northern Michigan - but authorities disagree about the amount of economic expansion to expect.

While Upper Peninsula residents rub their hands in anticipation of a great new prosperity boom, other observers are taking a let's-wait-and-see attitude.

Michigan State University specialists, familiar with various aspects of the northern economy, offer contrasting views concerning the first direct highway link between the two parts of Michigan.

A member of the Tourist and Resort Service sees the straits bridge becoming one of the nation's top tourist attractions and a magnet for tourist dollars which already mount up in millions each year.

An MSU extension director in the Upper Peninsula foresees both advantages and new problems awaiting the northern area. Specialists in transportation, geology, forestry and dairy departments offer conservative views about long range effects of the travel.

Dr. Robert W. McIntosh, MSU extension specialist with the Tourist and Resort Service, believes the bridge "will be a tremendous stimulus to Northern Michigan." He points out that Straits of Mackinac traffic is expected to nearly double in the first full year of bridge operation - from an estimated 1,000,000 cars via ferry and bridge this year to an estimated 1,927,000 in 1958.

"The greatest effect probably will be in land use and increase of recreational facilities," Dr. McIntosh said. "Land prices are jumping now. In some areas frontage for a gas station now costs $80,000, the price once of a whole section of land in the area. The impact will be felt most in the eastern portion, from Manistique to Drummond Island."

The Mackinac Bridge will join the locks at Sault Ste. Marie as a great tourist attraction, he added, pointing out that man-made objects always are the greatest attractions, "like New York City, Washington and the Golden Gate Bridge, for example. Many tourists bypass Grand Canyon to visit a nearby dam site."

Dr. McIntosh predicts heavier traffic in both directions. Eventually, he pointed out, a four-lane divided highway from Detroit to Sault Ste. Marie will be integrated with the 41,000-mile national system of interstate highways, "creating for many American shippers the shortest route to the Pacific Northwest and the Rockies." A ten-minute instead of ten-hour crossing for deer hunters will help too, he added.

"Outstanding scenery is one of our greatest resources," agrees Dan Sturt, M. S. U.'s District Extension Director in the UP. Increased travel over the bridge, he says, "may develop the Upper Peninsula into the playground of the industrial Midwest."

"Of equal importance, the bridge will mean closer markets for our farm and timber products," he added. "The distance barrier which has discriminated against Upper Peninsula producers, industrial and farm alike, through the years will be lessened."

"The Michigan State University Upper Peninsula resource development program, operated from the Extension Center in Marquette, is attempting to encourage development of new varieties of crops, improved farm forestry practices, better tourist and resort services and the like, all of which are in keeping with changed conditions which will result in the Upper Peninsula from such dramatic developments as the new bridge."

"On the debit side," he cautioned, "more people will mean more problems in some respects at least. The need for greater safety efforts and zoning to insure our scenic beauty will no doubt be heightened."

Dr. Bennett T. Sandefur, professor of geology at MSU concedes that the Mackinac Bridge will have important service aspects, but is not as certain of resulting economic expansion.

"The most important Upper Peninsula products are limestone and iron and copper ores," he pointed out, "all of which will continue to depend upon cheaper lake shipping to compete with other sources."

Increased tourist trade in the UP could be balanced somewhat by losses at St. Ignace and Mackinaw City, present ferry headquarters, he warned, with some tourist traffic moving into Ontario resorts.

"It is possible that steel plants could be induced to move nearer our sources of essential iron ore and limestone," Dr. Sandefur explained, "but coal and electricity are necessary too and they are more available to the south."

A business specialist on the MSU faculty sees truck traffic increasing with the bridge, but declines to estimate how much, York City, Washington and the Golden Gate Bridge, for example. Many tourists bypass Grand Canyon to visit a nearby dam site."

Members of the MSU forestry department predict the UP route to the Pacific Northwest and the Rockies." A ten-minute instead of ten-hour crossing for pulp wood material waits to be used.

"It will be possible for some wood to be trucked to Lower Michigan mills, traffic which is virtually non-existent now," said Dr. Lee M. James, associate professor of forestry. "Cattle may be bred to freshen seasonally to coincide with tourist demands.

Dairy spokesmen said Upper Peninsula dairy herds may not be affected greatly, though more fessor of forestry. "A number of companies have indicated they will bring down some new materials."
