McConkey Named To Head Village Church Council

Two new officers were elected and a busy business session completed by members of the Cass City Council of Churches Sunday afternoon in the social rooms of the Methodist Church.

New officers named were Keith McConkey, president, and Chester Muntz, vice-president.

The council is sponsoring a church basketball program similar to the softball program held in the area last summer. Games have started and are being played at the Deford school.

Dates for several of the special worship services sponsored by the council were set. The annual Good Friday United Service will be held at the Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Gilbert Albee has been placed in charge.

The school for teachers of Daily Vacation Bible School will be held in Bad Axe April 12. A Holy Thursday program is scheduled at the school April 3 from 9 to 9:40 a.m.

Gavel-Lions Ready For Cage Battle

Members of the Cass City Gavel and Lions clubs are ready for their battle Thursday night at Cass City High School gym. The game will precede the Cass City-Air Base tilt in the Huron County League.

Both coaches are ready and advance information indicates that the rules will be forgotten when the two teams meet. Tickets have been on sale for over a week and a good crowd is expected for the game.

Cass City's entry in the independent league has moved into a tie for first place. League leading Bad Axe was defeated last week by Sandusky. The championship will be decided when Bad Axe and Cass City play at Bad Axe Mar. 12, providing Cass City wins from Air Base and Sandusky. The team was to have played Sandusky Monday but the game was cancelled because of the weather.

Alex Murray New Vet. in Bad Axe

Alex P. Murray, formerly of Cass City, has opened a veterinary practice in Bad Axe, it was announced this week.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul

Alex Murray
Murray, he was born in Cass City and graduated from Cass City High School.

He received his degree in veterinary medicine from Michigan State University in 1956.

Cass City clinched at least a share of the Thumb "B" championship Tuesday night by easily defeating Vassar at Cass City High School, 69-57, before a crowd held down by the weather.

The victory averages the only two conference defeats of the season for Cass City. Early in the season they lost back-to-back contests to Vassar and Marlette and this week defeated both of the teams that topped them in opening games.

Vassar used a zone defense in the first half to hold Jim Johnson and the rest of the front court men in check.

The slack was taken up by Fred Leeson and Bob Holcomb. Leeson opened the game with three quick buckets and Holcomb added three more later in the opening stanza and the Hawks bounced in front 14-8 at the end of the opening quarter.

Vassar made its best showing of the game in the second quarter. They cut the Hawks' margin to two points midway in the period. With their lead threatened, Cass City roared back and was outscored by only a single point, 19-18, at the end of the period. The score at the intermission was 32-27.

In the third quarter, Cass City removed all doubts of the outcome of the game.

With Johnson and Bob Tuckey on the bench with four fouls, the team utilized a fast break and good ball handling to pour in 17 points while the Vulcans netted only eight points.

Ahead by 14 points going into the final period, Cass City stretched its lead to 17 points before Coach Irv Claysman started to use his players from the bench. With the bench playing about half of the quarter, Vassar outscored the Hawks 22-20 in the period.

Bob Holcomb led all Cass City cagers with 22 points. He netted eight field goals and six of nine charity tosses. Forrest Walpole counted 16 and Fred Leeson added 15.

Reserves Win

Pouring in points from all angles, the Cass City second team walloped the Vassar reserves as they continue to post wins in conference competition.

Marlette Game

Cass City took a stranglehold on the Thumb B Conference cage championship Friday, when they edged Marlette in a spine-tingling contest, 65-63. Coupled with Vassar's one-point loss to Caro the same evening, it gave the Red Hawks a two-game advantage over the field.

Before a turn-away crowd that saw many of the fans unable to get into Marlette's gym, Cass City turned a nine-point second period margin into victory.

It was veteran Jim Johnson who played the key role in Cass City's victory. Faking beautifully from the corner to go in for lay-up shots under the bucket, he netted 27 points and played a sparkling defensive game.

He was given timely assistance by Mike Fritz, who came off the bench and contributed 12 points in a clutch performance.

Both teams battled on even terms in the first period. The

Will Name Four New Commerce Board Members

The nominating committee has selected a slate for membership to the board of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce and members are expected to receive ballots this week.

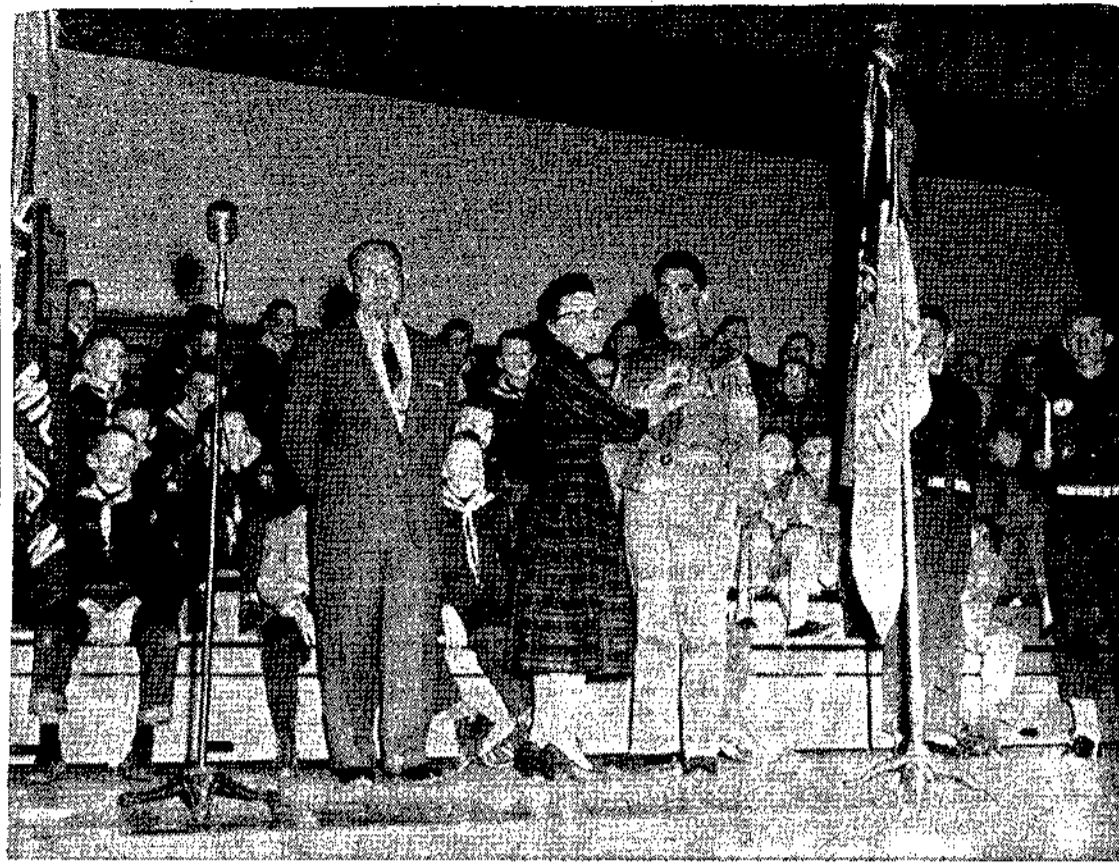

The terms of four board members expire this year. Leaving the board are Bernard Ross, Bill Johnston, Ed Baker and Wayne Rabideau.

Their successors will be selected from among 12 candidates. All terms are for three years.

President Ross said that among the nominees are several from the same type of business. He said that a wide representation on the board is desirable. For this reason he asks members not to vote for more than one person from a particular business. For instance, if you vote for one man in the manufacturing business, select your other candidates from retailing and professional representatives.

Nominated for board membership by the committee were: Harold Janson, Jim Wallace, Bob Bassett, Richard Eria, Bruce Franz, Hugh Connolly, Nick Decker, Walter Finkbeiner, Dr. George Carrick, Dr. William Selby, Charles Tuckey and Harold Asher.

EAGLE SCOUT—Mrs. James MacTavish pins the Eagle Scout pin on her son Wednesday night, Feb. 12. The Eagle award is the highest that scouting has to offer. It represents hundreds of hours of hard work and effort. Possibly the hardest task for Jim was earning the required physical fitness merit badge. To earn this award on his way to Eagle rank, Jim was forced to lose 80 pounds. Watching the proceedings on the left is Mr. MacTavish.

Arthur Severance Wins Scholarship

A 17-year-old Tuscola County 4-H club member has been awarded a $500 scholarship by a Detroit meat packers' organization.

Arthur Severance, route 1, Decker, won the independent slaughterer's association scholarship for his outstanding accomplishments in livestock project work.

Arthur's overall record in 4-H club work and high scholastic record also helped him win the $500 award. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Severance.

The young 4-H'er, who exhibited the reserve champion pen of market lambs at the Detroit Livestock Show last December, has been a club member for eight years. In that time, he has carried sheep and sheep judging projects, taken part in livestock judging and been a member of the county 4-H service club.

Besides 4-H work, Arthur has been an active member of Future Farmers of America, church, Sunday school and the church youth organization.

Arthur expects to attend Michigan State University next fall where he tentatively plans to specialize in animal husbandry.

Group Hears Experts Speak at Port Huron

Planning Key to Area's Future

The need for planning in the Cass City area was outlined to 12 interested officials Friday in a regional planning conference held in Port Huron.

Some of the pitfalls of failing to organize a planning commission early enough were described by officials present who had experienced them.

One told of the problems of a rural school. The area had nine students, who all attended a better-than-average school.

Then some 20 acres were platted for a subdivision. No building, sanitary or water codes were in force and the area soon became overrun with tarpaper shacks.

These residents started to send students to the school which, of course, was too small to accommodate them and taxes increased from 15 to 36 mills annually. Finally the school shut down entirely and the district was annexed.

Besides this graphic illustration of the need for planning, nearly every speaker alluded to the undesirable businesses that are ruining the approaches to communities because they are outside of zoning laws.

Speakers stressed that adequate area planning goes much further than zoning, although zoning may be used as a temporary stopgap and then revised when an overall plan for the area has been devised.

Adequate planning is a time-consuming, long range project, but, if adequately done, one of

No Competition in Election; Second Caucus Fizzles

The Citizens' Caucus scheduled to be held Monday at the town hall failed to materialize as voters who went to the hall found it dark and deserted.

Feet Burned, Then Frozen Whittaker Survives Harrowing 4 Hours

Vernon Whittaker of Cass City lived to report a harrowing experience last week when his trailer home, placed on his job near Port Huron, caught fire at 4 a. m. Thursday morning and he spent four hours dressed only in his undergarments in sub-zero weather.

Mr. Whittaker said that he was awakened either by his dog or the cracking of the flames. He dashed out of the trailer, thinking that he could kill the blaze with snow.

When he reopened the trailer door the place was ablaze and he abandoned the attempt.

He then went to his nearby truck and it would not start. After working for an hour with the truck he finally started it with the aid of his tractor.

Unfortunately, the truck's heater was not in proper running order and was giving very little heat.

Despite this, Mr. Whittaker drove all the way to Cass City, still without clothing. He arrived at 8 a. m.

In the trailer fire, Mr. Whittaker suffered burned feet from a smoldering rug and, as the result of his long exposure, his feet were also frozen. At the middle of the week, he was still unable to wear shoes.

The fire victim said that he thought of calling the police and of several other solutions to his problem while driving, but then decided he would be all right as long as he kept busy.

Members of the family reported that there was very little circulation left when he arrived home. They said that he was in much worse condition than he realized at the time.

Agent Tells How to Cook Vegetables

You can keep vegetables bright and colorful if you cook them properly, says Mrs. Frances T. Clark, county home demonstration agent. To preserve the color of fresh vegetables, you must use different cooking methods. Cook green vegetables in as little salted water as you can and cook them quickly. If you cook them with the lid off, at least for the first few minutes discoloring acids will escape with the steam. Don't add acids or baking soda. The first turns green vegetables a disagreeable brown and the latter results in a loss of vitamins and flavor as well as a change in texture.

Yellow vegetables call for enough water to prevent scorching; in fact, you may cover them with water if you like. The color will stay brighter if you leave the lid on the pan. Be sure not to overcook them because the natural sugar in the vegetables may caramelize or scorch. You can cook red vegetables in a moderate amount of salted water with the lid on. Again, cook only until they are done. Peel beets after cooking unless you are baking or panning them. Add a little acid (vinegar, lemon juice or tart apple slices) to red cabbage to retain the rich red color. White vegetables should be cooked in enough salted water to cover them. However, if the vegetable is a strong one (cauliflower or onion), you may prefer to leave the cover off. Cook just until tender; longer cooking turns them dark. A little acid (1/2 teaspoon lemon juice or vinegar, or 1/8 teaspoon cream of tartar for each cup of boiling water) will also help keep the vegetable white.

You can obtain other cooking tips for vegetables, plus hints on preparing and serving them by sending for extension bulletin 350. You can get the bulletin "How to prepare and serve vegetables" by writing Mrs. Clark.

THE RUBE GOLDBERG STORY

Rube Goldberg is a cartoonist in New York. Years ago he was famous for the crazy machines he drew which did ordinary things in outlandish and useless ways. If you're old enough to remember Rube Goldberg machines, you're old enough to lie about your age.

I've heard people laugh about the 'Rube Goldberg' machines in big, modern service garages. I used to laugh myself; after all, it was my policy to hire the best mechanics the auto factories could train. That, I thought, should be enough.

But let me tell you a true story. A man in a nearby town was having trouble with his car. The pickup in the lower speeds was terrible, although otherwise the car was in good shape. He took it to a good mechanic in a small garage.

The mechanic worked over the carburetor jets -- and this cost money. He tried the whole carburetor, and this cost more money. He did a lot of work on the ignition system, and this cost money.

All of this was perfectly logical work for the mechanic to do in the circumstances. But nothing improved the car's acceleration.

Finally, the unhappy owner was passing our place and, by chance, he stopped in. We immediately gave him engine a vacuum test. Right away we got to the trouble; a bad leak in the intake manifold gasket.

This may not mean much to you. But it turned out to be a simple and inexpensive job. Our customer (and, happily, he still comes a long way to be our customer) had spent five times our bill in having useless work done.

Most engine ills can be located by means of modern testing devices. We have the best. The next time you're in, tell one of our boys what the car has been doing and he-and the machines-will trace the trouble down quickly and inexpensively.

If you hear an unusual sound in your engine, don't hope it doesn't amount to anything, find out for your own good. For instance, a loose Connecting Rod taken care of immediately is a small job. Let it go and the crankshaft will be ruined, or it may let go through the block itself, costing at least ten times as much. We'll be glad to give you a free estimate on your car's needs any time.

Minimum Tillage Can Save $5 Acre

Minimum tillage can save $5 per acre when used in small grain production, according to extension soil specialist James Porter of Michigan State University, reports Alfred Ballweg, county agricultural agent. Yields of oats and spring barley are as high or higher with minimum tillage as with the usual soil fitting practices.

Besides the yield and less time and expense, the farmer benefits from the better soil condition due to minimum tillage. The soil is more porous and takes up moisture better which also reduces run-off and erosion.

The recommended soil preparation method, then, is to plow when the soil moisture is right for easy plowing. Work the land just enough so seed can germinate and leave the field smooth enough for the combine. A leveling tool between the tractor and drill will take care of this and a cultipacker or a similar tool should be pulled behind the drill to firm the soil.

The trouble market is easy—it can always be borrowed at extremely low bank rates.

It seems to be human nature for the man who is asked to take a back seat to take affront.

NUMBER ONE GAME IN MICHIGAN.

• FIRST IN NUMBERS SHOT.

• FIRST GAME (USUALLY) OF THE YOUNG HUNTER.

The cottontail rabbit is Michigan's most popular game animal and it isn't likely that his position of prominence will ever be challenged. The long hunting season, October 21-March 1 in the southern lower peninsula, means plenty of enjoyment for sportsmen. Success is good, too, as indicated by some 1,400,000 rabbits taken each year by hunters.

Serve Cherry Rolls For Festive Meals Designed to Please

A GOOD hot bread will lift any meal to greater heights of interest for the family during this season of the year. Rolls are a cheering sight to behold and are quick to make with a packaged mix.

Another good treat to try soon is a cherry pancake, made with maraschino cherries and served with a blueberry sauce.

Maraschino Cherry Rolls (Makes 24)
1 package (14 1/4 ounce) hot roll mix
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 cup maraschino cherry halves
1/4 cup currant jelly

Prepare roll mix according to package directions. When ready to shape, roll out on lightly floured board to 1/4-inch thickness. Cut into 24 3-inch squares. Brush with butter. Combine cherries (about 40 cherries) and jelly. Mix well. Place some cherry mixture on each rectangle and pinch together. Let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk, 40 to 50 minutes. Bake in a moderate (375°F.) oven 20 to 25 minutes or until well browned.

For a festive breakfast, set out these attractive cherry rolls, easily and speedily made with hot roll mix and a filling of maraschino cherries blended with currant jelly.

Cherry Pancakes (Makes 10 5-inch cakes)
1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
2 eggs, separated
1 cup buttermilk
2 tablespoons melted shortening
1/2 cup maraschino cherries, drained
2 1-pound cans sweetened blueberries
1/2 cup cold water
2 tablespoons cornstarch

Sift together flour, soda, salt and sugar. Beat egg yolks until light and fluffy. Add buttermilk and shortening. Add buttermilk mixture to sifted dry ingredients and mix only until just combined. Beat egg whites stiff but not dry; fold into batter with cherries. Drop by spoonfuls on lightly greased griddle. Bake on both sides until brown. Serve with hot sauce made by heating blueberries to boiling point. Add to this combined cold water and cornstarch, cooking over medium heat until thickened, stirring constantly.

Don't forget, the February 21 project leaders' lesson has been cancelled because Mr. Ben Ard is in the hospital. He has re-scheduled this meeting for April 8.

The special interest lesson on February 25 will be held in the courthouse. The title for this lesson is "The 1958 Outlook for Family Living."

The March home demonstration council meeting is set for March 13, from 2:00 to 3:30 p.m. at the courthouse.

A correction - I announced over TV that Tuscola County's achievement day was to be held on April 25, instead of April 24. So sorry, but it was a "slip of the tongue."

That Versatile Meat - Ground Beef

There are many ways to serve ground meat for the clever homemaker with an imagination; such as hamburgers, cheeseburgers, meat loaf, spaghetti, etc. The list is a page long in almost any cookbook and many homemakers have their own special way of serving this budget-balancing meat.

The Michigan law guarantees consumers of ground beef of specific minimum quality standards. Ground beef for fresh sale cannot contain over 30 per cent fat. Most of the ground beef is 20 to 25 per cent fat. Also, no organ meat (heart, etc.) added water or ice, cereal or flour, bread or bread crumbs, dried milk solids, artificial coloring, chemical preservatives, thickeners, stabilizers or gums are permitted. In other words, ground beef is ground beef plus suet for flavor and juiciness. If ground beef is too lean, it may be dry, tasteless and crumbly when cooked.

But if the ground beef is too fat, it will be greasy and shrink to as little as half its size when cooked. Too fat ground beef also will spatter badly when cooked.

One bite of lean beef is just as nutritious as the next, whether it be from a T-Bone steak or ground beef patty. The ground beef will give more servings per pound because there's no bone; it's all edible meat. It will stretch the food dollars, but don't stretch it too far. Better plan on a full quarter-pound per serving to assure your family of the protein, vitamins and minerals that they require for good health. You can stretch your meat by combining it with other protein foods, such as cheese, eggs, milk, beans, etc., to balance the menu nutritionally.

Ground beef is easy to freeze, but for best flavor, use it within two months. For easy-to-use frozen ground beef, shape it into patties, separating them with freezer paper or waxed paper.

Wrap tightly in moisture, vapor-proof wrap and freeze. The patties may be cooked without thawing when you take them from the freezer. Even if you intend to make meat loaf or a casserole, the frozen patties are handy because they thaw so quickly.

How to Brighten Tired Bathrooms

Bathrooms need not be new or just remodeled to look attractive. It's surprising what a few well-chosen accessories can do to the tired room.

The choice is a wide one with all manner of new things available for bathrooms, none of which require any greatly outlay of money. With them you can give charm to the room you may never have dreamed it could have. In some cases you can even add space with such things as a chest, a hamper-storage piece or sparkling glass shelves.

If the walls are excessively soiled and cannot be cleaned, a new water-proofed or treated paper will add a bit more expense, but it does give you newness and freshness and the room is not usually a very large one to paper.

Window Treatments
Some bathroom windows are difficult to treat because of their size. If the plastic curtains usually made for them do not fit, try to buy matching plastic by the yard. Some of the patterns are the same as used in a shower curtain.

If the curtains soil readily or are an unusual size, you might buy terry toweling or even the towels which are available in different sizes. Hang them from a rod fastened at the top of the window or use a cafe treatment. These curtains push into folds easily and need no ironing if they are fluffed properly when washed.

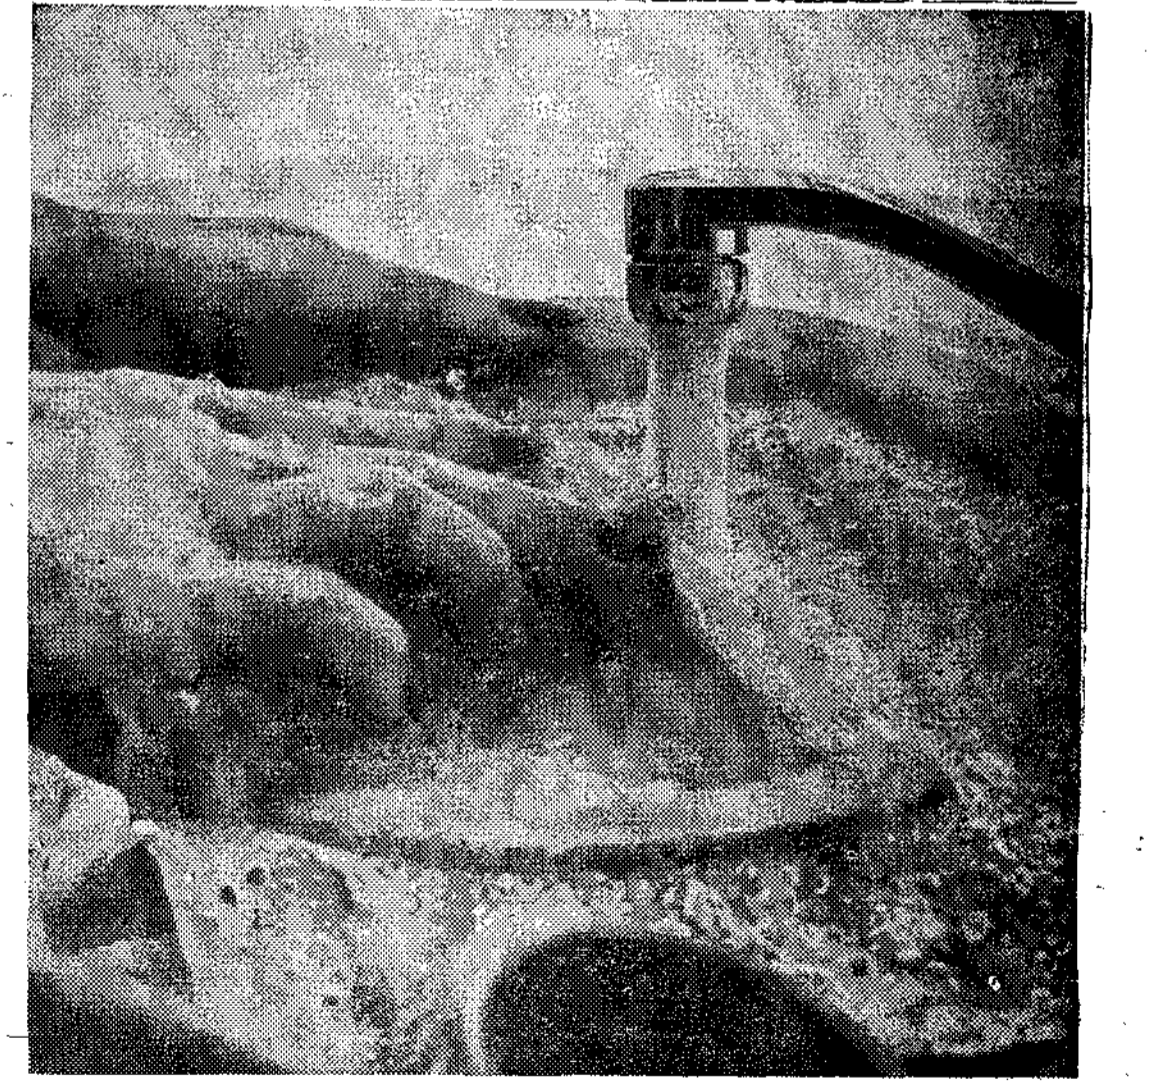

Another very smart treatment for difficult windows is to have them treated with vertical Venetian blinds in a color to match or contrast. A wide window sill can have potted plants or vines, especially those which prefer moisture.

Windows in bathrooms can also be framed with a valance painted or papered to match the room.

Attractive Accessories
If space is limited in the bathroom, you can buy a round or oval hamper for clothes instead of the space-taking rectangular ones.

Farmers are expected to use more credit during 1958 than they did in 1957, but they'll probably have to pay more for it, according to Michigan State University agricultural economists.

To err is human, and the ability to hide it seems to be divine.

Farm Folks Look At Year's Work

A number of farm families in Tuscola County are taking a second look at their farm and home records, getting ready to analyze the past year's operations and work out plans for the coming year. Mr. Robert B. Abbott, county supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration, reported this week.

He explained that help with year-end analysis as a basis for next year's planning is part of the farm management help that goes with most Farmers Home Administration loans. Farm families using the agency's credit develop long-time farm and home plans when they apply for loans to buy, enlarge, or operate their farms, or make certain adjustments and improvements. Then at the beginning of each year's operations they make annual plans based on what they intend to accomplish during the year.

The county supervisor supplies each family with a simple farm and home record book as part of the farm management aid. When necessary, he shows the family how to keep track of income, costs, results of specific operations, debt payments, and other items that are parts of the business of farming.

At the end of the farming year, the farmer and his wife find out how their farming operations matched up with the plans they had made. To help do this they set a definite date to meet with the Farmers Home Administration county supervisor, and go over their farm and home plans and their filled-in record book.

With the county supervisor's help, they analyze the progress, successes, and mistakes. For example, if their records show that a certain livestock or crop enterprise failed to work out satisfactorily, they look for reasons such as improper feeding or breeding practices, inadequate pasture or housing, seed selection, or fertilization. Then they are ready to correct their mistakes and continue good practices, so far as their next year's plans are concerned.

Mr. Robert B. Abbott said approximately 50 families in Tuscola County will take part in the year-end review of operations. The first meetings were held in December. Much of the county supervisor's time until March 1, 1958, will be devoted to this part of the agency's management service.

Low furniture with a horizontal line and furniture of the same height help give a feeling of space to rooms, say Michigan State University home economists.

Wrap fresh meat loosely in waxed paper and store in the refrigerator until you're ready to cook it. Store cooked meat in a covered container in the refrigerator.

Name Officers for Fat Stock Show

Walter Hecht, livestock leader of the Richview community 4-H club, was elected chairman of the 4-H and FFA fat stock show committee at its pre-show meeting on February 12, reports Bill Muller, county 4-H club agent.

Mr. Hecht's duties as chairman of this organization will be to work with the committee in planning for the spring hog sale and the fall livestock show. These shows, which are held at the Caro Livestock Auction Yards and sponsored by the Caro board of commerce, annually gross around $17,000 from sale of livestock.

Other members elected to offices for the coming year are Alfred Goodall, livestock leader of the Cass City Livestock club as vice-chairman, and Bill Muller, county 4-H club agent, as secretary.

4-H leaders on this committee are Loren Brady, Unionville; Franklin Turner, Akron; Jim Milligan, Cass City. FFA advisors on the committee are Jim Sutherland, Caro; Earl French, Reese; and Ed Cole, Mayville. Frank Fuller, owner-operator of the Caro Livestock Auction Yards; Spencer Dunham, Caro; Everett Starkey, Fairgrove, and Keith Little of Cass City are other members rounding out the committee.

The spring hog show and sale is scheduled to be held at the Caro Livestock Auction Yards Tuesday, March 11. Show time is 10 a.m. with the sale to be held in the afternoon starting at 2 p.m. Approximately 100 hogs will go on the block for sale by over 30 boys and girls from the county 4-H and FFA clubs.

Michigan Mirror News in Brief

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association

Democrats have given the umpire their batting order for the 1958 campaign as Republicans intensified their search for challengers.

The umpire in this political ball game for high stakes is the voter who goes to the polls next Nov. 7.

Technically, the Democratic lineup is only tentative, but the choices are not expected to have more than token opposition in the primary.

First to announce was Lt. Gov. Phillip A. Hart, who will go after the seat now held by U. S. Senator Charles E. Potter, now finishing his six-year term.

Hart's announcement included a generalized blast against policies of the Eisenhower administration. He attacked the foreign policy, economic doings at home, and failed to mention Potter.

Potter charged immediately that Gov. Williams "made up Hart's mind for him" and welcomed his challenger "to the swim."

The Potter charge carries a good deal of truth, if significance can be attached to Williams' statement months ago that two offices -- governor and senator -- remain open for Democrats.

"I will run for one and Phil for the other," he said.

The Hart announcement made Williams' decision to run for a sixth term anticlimactic. Williams, eyeing a presidential berth in 1960, feels he would be more attractive as a six-term governor than as a one-term U. S. Senator.

Williams allowed Hart to announce his candidacy for the Senate first for publicity reasons, observers said.

"Obviously, it was to draw attention to Hart because he (Williams) felt he had no opposition and he wanted to do Phil a good turn," said one Republican leader.

Whether Hart ran for either office, it was decided months ago that Senator John B. Swainson (D-Detroit) was the choice to replace him as lieutenant governor. Both Hart and Swainson, now Senate minority leader and a strong voice in party councils, are wounded veterans of World War II. Swainson walks on a pair of artificial legs.

Both are good speakers. Hart has presided over the Senate for three years and Swainson has been in his position of party leadership on the floor for two years.

Williams, grooming Hart for the next step in his political career, has turned over a large number of speaking engagements to the 46-year-old lieutenant governor.

Swainson has been the only legislator chosen to carry the Democratic message to the voters in an off-year.

Republicans have in Potter the only certain candidate in the 1958 elections.

They still lack an obvious candidate for governor, though Rep. George Salade (R-Ann Arbor) has said he would like to go against Williams. Party leaders have quietly been mentioning House Speaker George Van Peursem (R-Zealand.)

The rest of the Republican ticket will apparently be chosen at the party convention. The Democrats, all incumbents, are expected to be candidates for reelection.

All this behind-the-scenes maneuvering is being done on behalf of the umpire -- the man on one vote.

Personality parade: Rep. Russell H. Strange, Jr., (R-Clare) is the youngest state legislator and, despite his youth, is making his weight felt.

He has gained poise and strength in his first two sessions in the legislature and now, at the ripe old age of 22, he shows vigor and a willingness to learn from party leaders, yet he is anxious to get things done.

Unmarried, he became famous for a crack during debate on a subject involving the fairer sex. Blushing a trifle, he strode to the microphone to say: "I don't feel I'm qualified to speak on this subject."

Strange was elected following a stiff fight in the primary when he ran against his political science professor at Central Michigan College. At the time of the election he was too young to take office. Since his 21st birthday took place before the legislature convened, he was able to take his proper seat at the first session.

His interests stress government at the local level. In session Strange introduced more than 14 bills, most of which are designed to provide more effective control of political affairs and government services to the individual.

These include provisions which would give the probate court permission at its discretion to release names of juvenile offenders; permit the engagement of a deputy treasurer with permission of a township board; improve administration of county road commissions, and a school aid bill.

He is especially interested in a bill which would remove the power of a village to levy a poll tax which he thinks should be done in the interests of keeping state law modernized.

He is also anxious to pass a bill which would permit delegates to a Fall County Convention to elect officers of the County Committee including its chairman.

Rotarians See Film At Hotel Tuesday

A film showing the lumbering process provided the entertainment for the Cass City Rotary Club Tuesday noon at the New Gordon Hotel.

It gave a brief history of the lumbering industry and showed operations of tree farms and the work in forest fire prevention.

The camera then followed a lumbering crew into the woods. It showed how trees are selected and cut and then carried to the sawmill.

Rotarians saw a log cut and processed into saleable lumber. The film then switched to research laboratories and showed how science has devised ways to use every part of the log, including sawdust.

The closing minutes of the film showed the myriad uses of lumber in farm, home and industry.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:
I see by the papers where this feller Gallup conducted a poll and found that one out of ever 20 persons would volunteer to go up in one of these earth satellites.

That settles a argument that's been going on in this country for years. There's always been a difference of opinion among authorities on the subject as to what percent of Americans was crazy. One out of 20 is five per cent. That fixes it, final and beyond any act of Congress.

I got a hunch that five per cent is higher than when I was a young man. In those days folks didn't have but three things to worry about, religion, starvation, and the tariff. This generation ain't unduly concerned with religion, know the Government won't let 'em starve, and they ain't never heard of the tariff.

But they got a million other things to worry about. A feller, fer instant, can't even step across the road to hunt rabbits without getting his worries, Ed Doolittle said he went hunting Saturday and all he got was $14.20 worth of game warden. Ed gets about $50 worth of game warden every year on account of him being convinced it's un-American to charge a feller fer hunting and fishing. He vows he'll live and die without buying a hunting or fishing license.

When they come out with them tranquilizer pills it looked like maybe he had licked the worry business and that the per cent of crazy folks would drop. But it wasn't long until they started raising the price of the pills to where a pore man couldn't afford them and he had to start back to worrying.

Of course, some people just naturally worry, whether they got anything to worry about or not. I knowed a feller onct that said he drunk liquor to keep from worrying and worried so's he could drink liquor.

And we got a few folks in this country that don't worry about nothing. Fer instant, we got a hard surface farmer out in our neighborhood that's in this category. I call him hard surface farmer because he stays between his farm and somewhere else all the time. He was up at the country store Saturday night popping off about everything in this country being alright, even in Congress. Can you imagine a feller like that?

Candy and valentines were at each plate. Club members sent valentines to each Brownie in the sponsored troop.

HAWKS WIN TWO

lead changed hands several times. Cass City drove from five points behind to take a three-point lead only to see the Raiders tie it up at the end of the period.

In the second quarter, Cass City took the lead and held it. Johnson picked up 10 of his 27 points in the quarter and Fritz added five more in a rally that netted 19 points. The quick Cass City defense held Marlette to 10 points.

In the third period, Marlette came charging back. Midway in the quarter they trailed by just one point. With the pressure on, Cass City rallied to increase its lead to five points as the quarter ended.

In the last period, Marlette several times moved to within one or two points of the Hawks, but each time Cass City thwarted the threat to stay in the lead. With just three seconds to go, Cass City had its final two-point lead. After a pair of charity tosses by Johnson were missed, the Raiders tried a desperation shot at the basket as the whistle blew. When it missed, Cass City had tucked away its important victory.

Both teams scored 22 field goals Friday. Cass City's superiority at the free throw line netted the victory. The team netted 21 of 28 attempts while Marlette hit only 19 of 35 tries.

Helping the Hawks' cause was Bob Holcomb, who netted 12 points including six of six free throws in the pressure-filled last period.

Reserves Win
In the preliminary, Cass City's reserves continued to roll over the opposition with a 59-53 victory. The junior Hawks took an early lead and were never headed.

Slate Banquet for County Teachers
The Tuscola County Education Association has scheduled its annual spring banquet at Millington Thursday, April 10, when Dr. C. Robert Koopman, national president of the association for supervision and curriculum development, will be the guest speaker.

Dr. Koopman, author of many magazine articles and books, will speak of "Professional Teachers for Michigan Schools." Since 1947, Dr. Koopman has been an associate superintendent in the Michigan Department of Public Instruction.

All teachers from Tuscola County rural schools as well as teachers from Akron, Cass City, Caro, Deford, Fairgrove, Gagetown, Kingston, Mayville, Millington, Reese, Tuscola, Unionville and Vassar have been invited to attend.

It's the man with the fewest brains to spare who is most likely to lose his head.

It seems to be the scheme of things that people exchange bright hopes for gloomy experiences.

NEW METHOD—Use of red flags by workmen to direct traffic around highway construction projects will be abolished by the Michigan State Highway Department starting April 8, 1958.

In their place, "standardized" reversible "STOP" and "SLOW" signs will be used along with a highly visible black and yellow checkered vest for the traffic regulator, as ordered by State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie.

"Use of the red flag by workmen on road construction projects was often confusing to the motorists and created a safety hazard for the workers on the job as well as for the traffic," Mackie said in announcing the change.

"The yellow and black checkered vest worn by the traffic regulator on construction projects will command attention from approaching drivers. The regulator will carry a reversible sign, mounted on the end of a pole, which will clearly state whether the driver is to stop or proceed slowly," he said.

The "STOP" will appear in white letters on a red background. The other side of the sign will read "SLOW" in black letters over a yellow background.

Tests of the new equipment, developed by Highway Department Safety Supervisor Dennis Haley, have been under way on various state highway projects around the state and indicate the sign and vest can be seen by vehicle operators from a far greater distance and much more plainly than the old style flagman.

A directive signed by Commissioner Mackie and State Police Commissioner Joseph Childs has been issued, making the vest and sign required by all agencies responsible for construction and maintenance work that interrupts or presents a hazard to the normal flow of traffic on all state trunkline highways.

Use of the vest and sign has also been recommended for local city and county road projects but is not mandatory under the order. Private concerns, such as utilities, working along highways also will be required to use traffic regulators equipped with the new vests and stop signs during any operations that might interfere with highway traffic.

The Highway Department will have the authority to determine when traffic regulation is needed during operations of non-governmental units. On highway construction jobs, the Department will determine where the traffic regulators should be stationed by the contractors.

The Department has prepared a manual for the instruction of men selected by contractors as traffic regulators in an effort to assure proper use of the new equipment on future highway construction projects under its jurisdiction.
