

Board Asks for 6 Mills County Tax

County Can Buy Surplus Items Via Civil Defense

Sheriff William Tomlinson appeared before the Tuscola County Board of Supervisors last week.

He told supervisors that the county can now purchase government surplus items through civil defense, of which he is county director.

In his capacity as director he was granted funds, not to exceed $250, for a mass feeding demonstration that can be used in times of disaster in the county.

He also asked the board how it wanted to handle the pick-up of unlicensed dogs and requested a boat, motor and trailer for use in finding drowned persons in the county.

His request for the equipment was tabled for supervisors.

Requests Change

Probate Judge Henderson Graham appeared before the supervisors with several requests.

He asked that the detention room in the basement of the courthouse, used for minor girls, be abolished. He wants to turn the space into an office for the welfare agent.

He also asked for an increase in salary for the agent and authorization for more hours for a welfare clerk.

The board approved additional hours as needed, but tabled the other two requests.

Name Officers at Home and School Council Meeting

Officers were elected for 1953-54 at the final meeting of the year of the Home and School Council Monday evening in the new addition to Cass City High School.

Arlington Hoffman was named president. William O'Dell is the vice-president and Mrs. Alex Tye will serve as secretary-treasurer.

Serving on the program committee will be John Graham, Mrs. Basil Quick and Roger Parrish. Publicity will be handled by Mrs. William O'Dell and the refreshment committee includes Mrs. Horace Bolen, Mrs. Edwin Fritz and Mrs. Steve Orto.

Members toured the new building and facilities were explained by Lyle Clarke, agricultural teacher, and Orion Cardew, shop teacher.

Supt. Willis Campbell explained briefly the financial arrangements for the new addition.

It was built at a contract price of $86,000 and the money was taken from a building and site fund which had been accumulating for some 10 years.

The building still is not equipped and work remains to be done on the inside. Included will be flooring and heating for two classrooms and painting.

A science demonstration concluded the educational features of the meeting. Entertainment included selections by the men's glee club of the school, senior boys' quartet and the "Melotone" trio.

A luncheon was served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Fire Department Installing Three Two-way Radios

The Elkland Township Fire Department is installing three two-way radios for quick communication in Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola counties; it was announced this week by Chief Edward Baker.

One of the transmitters and receivers is now being installed in the fire hall. Two others have been purchased from government surplus and will be erected on one of the fire trucks and the tanker as soon as funds are available.

Mr. Baker said that the entire cost of the new radios and their installation will be paid by the firemen without the aid of township or county funds.

The radios will be on the same frequency as the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department. They will have a dual purpose. Besides use in fires, they will be used by civil defense. William Tomlinson, Tuscola County Sheriff, is the director of civil defense for the county. In case of tornadoes or other impending disasters, he will be able to communicate directly with authorities in the community with the new equipment.

Similar equipment has been installed at Caro and Millington, Mr. Baker reported. Vassar is also considering the installation of radios.

Court to Hold Law Day May 1

Judge Henderson Graham, of the Tuscola County Probate Court, said that his office and staff will recess May 1 at 11 a. m. for a moment of prayer in commemoration of Law Day USA.

The day, set aside by the president of the United States, is for all persons who administer the laws of the court to ask for guidance and strength to do their job properly.

Judge Graham said that the public is invited to the courthouse and his office that day to join in the moment of prayer.

Braddock Fined for Shooting Spotlight

William Braddock, 30, paid a fine and costs of $32.35 after he pleaded guilty of the careless use of firearms Thursday before Justice Ruth Tennant in Caro.

At about 2 a. m. Thursday morning he shot out the east and south lights of the stop light at the corner of Main and Seeger Streets in Cass City with an automatic rifle.

He was apprehended by Marshal Bill Wood, Sheriff William Tomlinson and Bad Axe State Police Officers Torgerson and Miller.

He led the officers on an 18-mile chase at speeds of 90 miles per hour and was finally arrested after he circled back to his home in Cass City.

Marshal Wood said that Braddock evidently had been drinking. Although Mr. Braddock has paid his fine, it is possible that another warrant will be issued for his arrest on other charges stemming from the escapade that he said he started because he wanted to stir up some excitement.

HEALTHY AND GROWING—A ewe with quadruplet lambs happens only once in 100,000 births, records show, but it happened twice within the last two weeks in Tuscola County. These lambs were born on the George Hampshire farm, northeast of Kingston, some two weeks ago.

During the same week four lambs were born on the farm owned by Miss Agnes Cowan in Almer Township. These lambs are also progressing well.

Carl Childs, 9, owns the quads.

Mr. Hampshire said that the quads were the first on his farm in some 30 years of raising sheep. In the past seven years, two other area farmers have had ewes give birth to four lambs, but on one of the farms one of the lambs died after living about a week.

From the Editor's Corner

Ever wonder how Shabbona got its name? According to a story in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, the name was taken from an Indian chief, Shab-bo-na, who had his headquarters around Chicago about a century ago. The report is that this chief was instrumental in helping save the scalps of several white captives.

Besides having his name used for Shabbona, Michigan, the chief also has two villages in Illinois named after him... Shabbona and Shabbona Grove.

Cass City will be the site of one of the 4-H Achievement programs Saturday at the school gym. Exhibits in handicraft, clothing and electrical will be displayed. The displays are open for public inspection and authorities hope that many will come to see the results of a winter's work of area youngsters.

Investigation by the House this week of the Caro State Hospital for epileptics and other mental health institutions failed to disclose any proof of cruelty to patients.

Rep. Edward H. Jeffries, Democrat of Detroit, failed to produce any witnesses or evidence to back up complaints of mistreatment of 15 patients at the Caro hospital.

Committee Member Leslie Hudson, Democrat from Pontiac, said, "All this study has shown so far is that we need more money for personnel."

Neiman, administrator for the estate of Albert Neiman, will sell farm machinery and household goods at the home at 459 Burch Street, Vassar.

Buy Now Campaign Opening in Village

Cass City automobile dealers this week launched an "Auto Buy Now" campaign in cooperation with the Cass City Chamber of Commerce.

All of the dealers will offer the best possible deals during the campaign. Models of the various cars have been placed on the sidewalks for a week.

Meanwhile, other retail merchants in the village plan to join in the buy now event next week under the slogan, "Keep Cass City Growing - Buy Now." Banners have already been placed in store windows.

Most merchants say that the recession has not been too apparent in Cass City. The promotion is designed to remind area shoppers that Cass City has values and selections at prices that residents want to pay.

Auto dealers are preparing to give the best possible deals of the year in an effort to successfully launch the campaign in Cass City that has proved so successful in other communities.

Persons planning to buy will be money ahead, they say, if they come in and buy now during the campaign in the village.

Annual Village Clean-up Project Starts Monday

The annual clean-up, fix-up, paint-up campaign for Cass City will be held Monday and Tuesday, April 28-29.

Members of Cass City School are cooperating in calling attention to the drive and will place posters in prominent locations in the village this week end.

Authorities are hoping for a concentrated effort by residents so that the village will sparkle for visitors, including the visiting mayor from Gladstone due here May 5.

Gavel Club to Finish Work on Track Project

The Cass City Gavel Club resumed work on the enlarging of the track Tuesday evening, April 15, when some 15 members attacked the project with shovels and picks.

The project was started over a year ago and has been halted for some time because of the lack of cinders, club members said.

The problem has been solved and there is now enough cinders at the park to cover the track, runways and approaches to the new jumping pits now under construction.

In an all-out effort to complete the work, regular weekly programs have been discontinued so that members can work on the project. They expect to have the work completed early this summer.

Cass City will then have a track that will meet state regulations and make the school eligible to host some of the larger meetings, including the regionals in which Cass City now travels to Mt. Pleasant to participate.

To raise money for the project, the club will hold another auction sale. Donations for the sale will be picked up by club members Thursday afternoon, May 8.

Tentative date for the sale has been set for Thursday, May 22.

Choir Rehearsal

The Cass City Community Choir will meet on alternate Mondays at 8 p.m. at the Methodist Church, it was announced this week.

Summer Is Season For Heel Flies

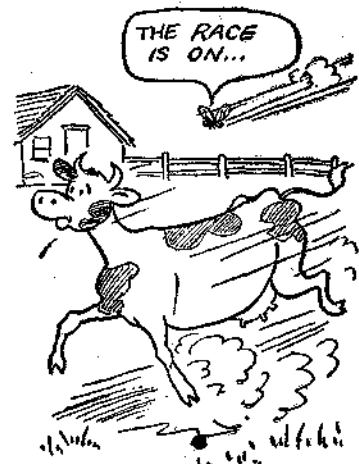

Dusting or Spraying Combats Cattle Grub

There's one important race each summer that never makes the sports news headlines.

This race pits "Hypoderma lineatum" against "Bos taurus"—in more common language, adult heel flies against cattle. Needless to say, the flies usually win.

But Dr. N. D. Levine of the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine says the farmer can help to "handicap" the one-sided race by locking the flies in the starting gate. He can do it by dusting or spraying his cattle with rotenone before the cattle grubs leave the animals' backs in the spring.

Dr. Levine explains that when grubs emerge from the skin of cattle they drop off and burrow into the ground, where they stay during a motionless pupal stage. Adult heel flies emerge from the pupae to pester and lay eggs on the legs of the cattle. In trying to avoid their unwelcome guests, the cows run around in the pasture, lose weight and, as a result, give less milk.

In addition, the eggs that the flies lay on the cows' legs hatch into tiny grubs that work their way through the animals' bodies to their backs, where they damage the hide and flesh. Then the process is repeated the next year unless the cattle owner breaks the cycle by dusting or spraying the backs of the cattle before the grubs emerge.

Protect Cattle Against Parasites

Livestock parasites are now making a "two-gun" attack on farmers' profits, the American Foundation for Animal Health has warned.

"Not only do these pests cause a loss by making stock unthrifty, they also lower the resistance of livestock, making them more easy prey to infectious diseases," Foundation officials pointed out.

Parasites may cause damage to the animals' skin, also to intestinal walls and mucous membranes, leaving the way open for infections to enter. Loss of blood and failure to use feed efficiently also leaves the victims with less strength to fight off germs and viruses.

Authorities listed several diseases which may develop following parasite infestations. Pneumonia can easily follow damage done by lung worms in sheep. The parasites block portions of the lung, thus causing pneumonia. Black disease may also be caused in sheep when immature flukes penetrate the liver.

Drum Cutter

The problem of cutting discarded oil drums for various farm uses may be solved by using an old corn knife and hammer. Hold knife so that about 2" of blade is inside drum, apply hammer blows as close to cutting point as possible.

Smelt Dipping Time

Smelt spawning runs are a sure sign of spring in Michigan as thousands of persons line streams to dip these tasty little fish each year. Dip nets, not more than five feet in circumference, may be used to take smelt from designated Michigan streams during the March 1-May 31 season. A list of these streams can be obtained from Conservation Department district offices.

Good Soil Base For Good Living

Land Management Is Profit Foundation

Good earth means good living for farmers who keep their land's fertility level high by sound soil management practices, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

Most any farm can be built up by attention to a few fundamentals. Among these are liming, where needed, good crop rotations, and the regular application of sufficient amounts of fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphate and potash. The soil's organic matter supply can be replenished by plowing under legumes, the use of "green manure" crops and by regularly returning crop residues to the soil.

Such soil management practices can pay dividends in the form of extra profits per acre, says the committee. These extra profits, in turn, can help farmers pay for the comforts and conveniences they and their families desire.

Tests at agricultural colleges and field experience on farms, says the committee, show that fertilizer can return anywhere from $2 to $6 in increased crop production value for every dollar invested in plant food.

The extra dollars can help farmers buy new cars, tractors and equipment, new furniture, rugs and drapes, labor-saving electric kitchens, more plumbing or new refrigerators, the committee says.

"This makes prosperity for local merchants and for business generally," the committee points out. "And it all springs from intelligent management of the soil."

"When a farmer invests in crop-boosting items, he cuts the cost of production per bushel, per ton or per pound and he increases his profit margin."

Pesticides Require Careful Handling

Pesticide chemicals make it possible for farmers to win the annual battle with insects, but the fight remains a hazardous one each year, reports Robert W. Every, extension entomologist at Oregon State college.

The problem farmers face is to kill insects and other pests without killing themselves. Every says. Chemicals must also be applied in such a way and at such a time that no harmful residues are left on food crops when they reach market.

Nothing is as closely regulated as the nation's food supply. The federal food and drug administration, under the Miller bill, has set up tolerances limiting the amount of pesticide that can remain on food crops when they're harvested. Food crops are regularly inspected as they move to market, and any crops carrying more chemical residue than listed, or a residue from a pesticide chemical that hasn't been approved for use on the crop, are subject to seizure.

To protect themselves from personal danger and possible financial loss, Every advises farmers to use only those pesticides approved by the food and drug administration—and to use them in a way that will make it possible for the crop to pass inspections at harvest time. Growers can get information on which pesticide chemicals to use, and the correct rate and method of application, from their local county extension offices.

People who are quick to take offense can always be certain of a plentiful supply.

THE DAILY GRIND

Necessity may be the mother of invention at times, but it is just the mother of hard work to most of us.

Dowlap Killing Dreaded Lamprey

The mouth-end mile of Black Mallard River, Presque Isle county, was chemically treated to study effects on sea lamprey larvae April 15 and U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service officials termed the work successful.

The lamprey-killing chemical, Dowlap, was fed into the hurrying, 30-foot wide stream at a beaver dam, about a mile above the point where the river empties into Lake Huron. The treatment started at 9 a.m. and—2 p.m. dead lampreys, most about four inches long, were beginning to appear downstream.

The work was aimed at ironing out difficulties in analysis of water samples and in use of the chemical. It was not designed as a full-scale management procedure.

The river was chosen because of its proximity to the Fish and Wildlife Service Hammond Bay laboratory, where work against the lamprey has been under way for several years. Further work, both tests and management, is expected on Lake Superior streams later this year. Lake Superior still has a remnant lake trout population and Service officials are hopeful the chemical will help save it.

Officials from the Dow Chemical Company of Midland, from the Fisheries Research Board of Canada, and from the Fish and Wildlife Service coordinated efforts in the project.

A full report of the work was not expected immediately, but it was obvious the chemical had harvested close to 100 per cent of lampreys in the stream.

The river was stocked with 500 brook and rainbow trout prior to the test. The chemical later made many of these fish groggy, but apparently did not kill them. A similar test last fall on nearby Elliott's Creek showed the same results.

Final Rites Held For Mrs. Bessie Holt

Funeral services were held Tuesday, April 15, at the Novesta Church of Christ for Mrs. Bessie Holt, who died April 12 in a Mt. Clemens hospital. Rev. Howard Woodard officiated. Burial was in the Novesta cemetery. Mrs. Holt had been ill for six months.

Daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Malcolm, she was born Jan. 6, 1883, at Kingston. Her husband was the late George Holt.

She leaves one son Byron Schmal. One son preceded her in death.

New Food Boosts Trout

Development of this pelleted fish food has doubled fish plantings because the new food produces faster growth at less expense than former methods. During 1957, some 2,500,000 hatchery trout were released in Michigan lakes and streams.

BULEN TALKS Cars

OUR OWN FAN CLUB

I think we'll start a new fan club. Not for Marilyn Monroe or Marlon Brando or the mayor or anyone like that. With spring check-up time coming I'm going to form a fan club for people who promise to look after their automobile fans and fan belts.

That's an awful pun, you probably grimaced like one of our mechanics did when he read it. Reminds me of the old friend who used to start off by saying: "Well, to corn a phrase..."

But it is time to think of the fan and fan belt.

Did you know, for instance, that running the fan in your car takes 10 to 15 per cent of the power produced?

That's how much it takes when the fan is operating properly. If it's not just right, as you can see, your car can throw an awful lot of power down the drain (which means a lot of gasoline).

Checking the fan is part of the Spring check-up service that we do for a lot of drivers. A car works hard during the winter, harder than at any other time of the year and it needs a Spring tonic.

And so much trouble can be traced to the fan and fan belt and corrected. The fan belt is slipping, so the generator doesn't charge the battery enough and the car won't start some morning. Or the radiator doesn't cool properly and the engine overheats.

A lot of the noises up front that frighten people into thinking their engine needs an overhaul turn out to be loose couplings or the like somewhere around the fan belt and it takes a minor adjustment.

So this is an open invitation to join our fan club -- and our spark plug, oil change, lubrication and brake test club -- now that the time for Spring check-up is here.

"KEEP CASS CITY GROWING - BUY NOW." Jobs make prosperity for all. Buying what you need now will create a job for someone.

In my opinion, and that of others much better qualified, all we need is CONFIDENCE to pursue a normal course. There is more money in Savings Accounts than ever in history, more people are traveling to Europe, attending Sports Events, etc. The opposite was true in the Depression. The Country is Sound, Business is GOOD! To quote "All We Have to FEAR is FEAR."

If you don't like Chevrolets or Oldsmobiles (we can't believe it), try Chuck Auten, Harry Paul or Rabideau. The important thing is to buy what you want, need and can afford NOW.

SHORT STORY

Little Bird

By Frank Rowley

ANN BARKSDALE had had her fill of books. Ten years ago she had insisted that the most exciting job in all the world was that of a librarian. Now that the position was hers its glamor had faded. A librarian's job is hard work, she decided. Worse than that it is lonely work—alarmingly lonely.

Ann sighed as she looked at the paper on her desk: it was her typewritten resignation. She hadn't yet mustered enough courage, however, to sign it.

Only a few 'regulars' were in the library this evening. Ann had to talk to someone—or burst. Her eyes settled on white-haired Mr. Peters. He would do nicely; Mr. Peters was the fatherly type.

Picking up the resignation she slipped over to his table.

"There hasn't been a young or handsome man here in months!"

"Good evening, Mr. Peters!" she whispered. He seemed pleasantly surprised. "Hello Miss Barksdale."

"I'd like your advice." She covered the book he'd been reading with her unsigned resignation. "I've been thinking of submitting this to the library board."

Mr. Peters removed his glasses and settled back in his chair. "How old are you, my dear?" he asked. She blushed. Mr. Peters was certainly shrewd. "Old enough to be going to dances; to be meeting people," she replied pointedly.

"Next Friday I'll be twenty-five. And for five of those years I've been buried alive in this library."

Mr. Peters shrugged. "Everyone has to work somewhere."

"I wasn't talking about getting married," she said quickly. "No? Well—I was. And in most instances a pretty girl like yourself wouldn't have much trouble. It's not the library, Miss Barksdale. It's just—"

"Just what?" she snapped. "It's your danged efficiency. You've never left your desk to speak to me until today. And I'm not the only one. I've seen you frighten others off."

"There hasn't been a young OR a handsome man here in months!" she said bitterly.

"If I weren't so old I'd resent that," he chuckled. "How about Bert Jackson? He used to stop in once in awhile."

"To study his bird books."

"Indeed? Like the night I saw him mooning at you over one of his bird books?"

"You're kidding."

But as she walked back to her desk she sincerely hoped he wasn't.

Ann's heart beat faster than usual that evening as she left the library. Mr. Peters had given her something to think about. Suddenly she made a decision that was—for her at least—quite bold. She would visit Bert Jackson's pet shop!

Bert's smile was flattering. "Well, if it isn't my favorite librarian," he said. "Welcome to my jungle, Miss Barksdale!"

"I—I thought maybe I'd like a canary," she lied. "Are they expensive?"

"Not very. Unless you want that little gem in the front window." He pointed to an energetic little dart of yellow and black. "That's the kind I'm going to give my girl for her birthday."

"Oh!" She turned her back to Bert and studied the bird through misty eyes. For HIS girl! Well, it had seemed like a good idea.

"Unless you'd like to deliver it for me?" he touched her shoulders lightly. "It's really yours, you know. Happy birthday Miss Barksdale!"

She half-turned: "For me? But you said it was for your girl?"

"I always was too impulsive. I haven't even asked her yet if she'll be my girl. Hope she doesn't slap my face when I do. Her name's Ann."

For a fleeting instant Ann thought she saw a face at the window; a face remarkably like that of old Mr. Peters. But that wasn't possible. Mr. Peters had assured her an hour ago that he was going straight home to read a book.

Management by Harvest

A Michigan trapper reports the number of beaver he has taken at a Conservation Department headquarters. Trappers are required to present pelts for checking by conservation officers or headquarters personnel. Trapping seasons are varied in length, by area, to accomplish a maximum harvest of beaver without damaging breeding stock.

Loch Rio Dedication Scheduled May 12

Loch Rio, the girlstown project of the Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs, will be dedicated May 12, it has been announced by Mrs. Joyce R. Gerrard, director.

Loch Rio at Belleville, Michigan, is the first of seven planned units for care and rehabilitation of problem girls.

Loch Rio is designed to help girls selected by work therapy and planned counseling by Mrs. Gerrard and other experienced personnel.

The first unit will house eight girls. After a few years, each of the proposed seven units will be responsible for many more girls than can be housed in each unit.

Normal stay for the girls will be a year or two. After that time they will be released and supervised in their homes by Loch Rio personnel. . . so that many children will eventually be helped by a single unit.

Loch Rio is being helped by women's clubs which are sending needed items or making provisions to send checks for operating the organization.

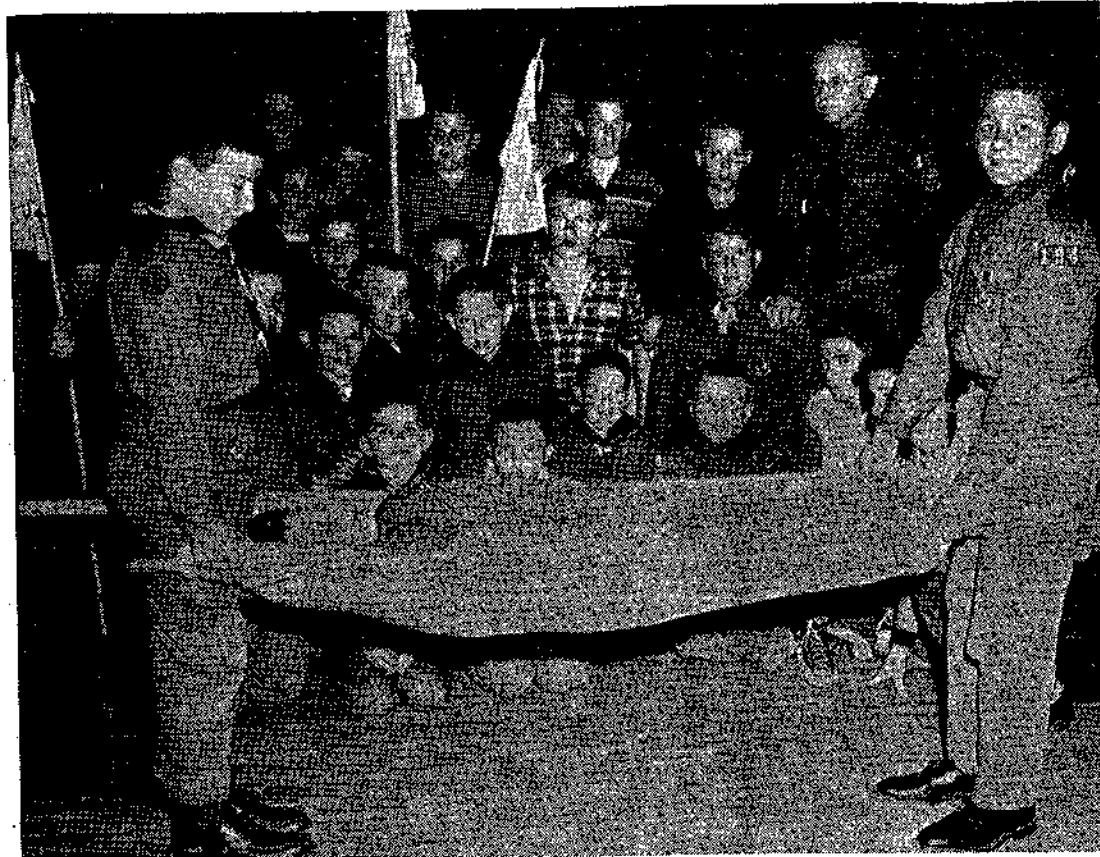

Authorities are exploring plans to send pictures of Loch Rio to club members, together with material for TV programs and other publicity.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

The fellers up at the country store Saturday night was discussing this Acting President arrangement between Ike and Nixon in case of a emergency.

Ed Doolittle was agin it, allowed as how it would set a trend to have two politicians fer ever job. I admit that having em line up single at the public trough is bad enough, and when they start lining up double it'll git as expensive as lend-lease to Russia during the war.

But if the trend didn't git out of hand, it might be a good thing. We could have, fer instant, a Governor and a Acting Governor. You take the Governor, he ain't got time to attend all the Sunday school picnics and political rallies in the state and git any work done. He can't open new highways, dedicate new buildings, crown the Onion Queen and the Potato Queen, and at the same time be handling the legislature, making official appointments, dodging all the issues, and doing the things a good Governor is supposed to be doing.

It might be good for the country if we had Farmers and Acting Farmers. The Farmers could git the crops laid by and the Acting Farmers could all go to Washington and tell Congress how to run the farms. That way we could git some real farming done at home and still have time to read all the farm bulletins

they send out from Washington.
In fact, it might be good to have a Editor and a Acting Editor on a newspaper. The Editor could have time for deep thinking on his editorials and the Acting Editor could git the paper out. I don't mean nothing personal about your editorials, Mister Editor. You got a mighty fine paper, in fact on a cold morning I can git a fire started with it just as good as if it was the New York Times.

I see in the papers where Senator Byrd of Virginia has fig-gered out where Government workers use 17 days all told ever year going after a cup of coffee.
There's two ways of looking at that thing. Some of them folks in Washington has to go git a cup of coffee ever hour or two to keep awake. If they was to go to sleep and fall off their chair and git hurt it would be hard on the taxpayer. When they got through collecting from the Government fer disability insurance, sick leave, and one thing and another, it would cost a heap more than 17 days off the job.

Well, Mister Editor, I've got to knock off now and write my Congressman. One reason I write to him so often is because it's about the only place left where a feller can write without sending a bottle top or a "fascimile thereof" of somepun.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

MICHIGAN MIRROR NEWS BRIEFS

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association

Political signs of 1958 point toward the voter as the man of the year.

Both major parties are busy trying to put down rebellions. A change of philosophy might be in the making for Republicans, but Democrats envision their brightest hour in Michigan.

The developments make the voter king whose decision next Nov. 4 will decide the kind of government the state will have for at least two more years.

Gov. Williams, at the crest of a decade of power, is seeking his sixth consecutive term.

Republicans have two candidates ready for the primary with another said to be ready in the wings.

Democrats were the first to run into trouble.

A group of rebels headed by former Congressman Frank E.
Hook, of Iron River, charged that Williams and labor bosses are "leading the state down the road to socialism."

They argue the loyal, oldtime Democrat is being read out of the party, with Williams and "the crew-cuts" of a latter-day liberal wing taking command and running the show.

State Chairman Neil Staebler immediately denounced the rebels.

Republicans hope the group will help them. It has already entered a slate in the Democratic primary for the first time since Williams became the party choice for governor in 1948. The campaign can show how much opposition there is to the governor within his party.

Williams will be going into the election with Senator John B.
Swainson (D-Detroit) as his running mate. Democrats are already guessing whether they will win by 300,000 or 600,000 votes.

Disension among Republicans is on a more idealistic plane.

The active 14th district organization in Detroit has repudiated
"modern Republicanism," charging it is a "me-too" approach doomed to defeat from the better-organized Democrats.

They call for a return to traditional conservative Republicanism. GOP leaders are fearful that the split-off will cause trouble when all are asked to back the candidate after the primary.

Considerable support for the conservative approach has developed among some legislators, who are pressuring Senator Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville) to carry their banner.

The most likely Republican candidate is Paul D. Bagwell, professor of communications skills at Michigan State University, who has a leave of absence without pay.

His salary runs to $1,400 a month at the University.

Another candidate is little-known Richard I. Moore, a Wayne automobile salesman. His present political obscurity is reminiscent of 1948 when the politicians asked, "Who's Williams?"

Bagwell is 44, three years younger than Williams, and is nationally known as an educator and as once national president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

He suffered a football injury 26 years ago and the complications of polio made him permanently disabled. He walks with a cane.

Bagwell, who led the Republican ticket two years ago as candidate for auditor general, has led March of Dimes campaigns and other civic undertakings in Michigan.

Superimposed over the bickings in each party and the formal appearance of candidates is the state's finances and those of its people.

Michigan's state treasury is headed for a deficit that could climb to $65,000,000 next year.

More than 415,000 workers are jobless. More government services are needed for an expanding population.

The search for answers to the problems has created still another campaign issue.

Williams is seeking a bigger budget and more taxes, pinpointed on corporations and banks.

Republicans are seeking to cut spending in state government and to delay new taxes until they finish a sweeping study of the state's revenue sources next year.

Twenty-five Years Ago
The village council voted Monday night to have no village taxes and no assessment roll for 1933. The council took similar action a year ago. The 1933 budget will total $6982.50, which is $2501.63 less than last year.

Eighty-five rural school districts in Tuscola County have announced the salaries their teachers will receive. The average is a little over $58.00 a month. However, the rates range from $30 in two schools, the lowest, to a high of $120 in Columbia Corners School.

Fire starting at the front of the Catholic church at Ruth spread to the priest's house, the convent and the Catholic school Wednesday night, destroying all four buildings.

The M. E. Church of Cass City was filled to capacity Sunday evening when the choir of the First M. E. Church of Bay City presented an Easter cantata entitled "The King Triumphant."

Thirty-Five Years Ago
Members of Echo Chapter OES elected the following officers Wednesday night: worthy matron, Mrs. C. W. Heller; worthy patron, T. H. Wallace; associate matron, Mrs. J. H. Holcomb; conductress, Mrs. Z. Stafford; associate conductress, Mrs. Lester Bailey; secretary, Mrs. Dora N. Fritz; and treasurer, Mrs. Harry Young. Texture Big Thing In New Fabrics

Whether you're buying ready-made spring clothes or shopping for yard goods, you'll be looking at fabrics. And this year texture seems to be the big thing, says Mrs. Frances T. Clark, county home demonstration agent.

In smooth textures you'll find cotton satin with a nice dull glow and often shown in delicate, misty prints. Many of the smooth, textured silks materials are shown in subtle tone-on-tone prints. Plain cottons like fine boucle or other yarn that varies in size. The slubbed effect is used on lighter weight fabrics.

You've no doubt already noticed the rustic textures used to give a hand woven look in many spring coat fabrics. Basket weaves, hopsacking and other simple constructions that give the hand woven look are being used in sheer dress fabrics, too. Cottons are appearing in a variety of lacy sheers for cool summer wear.

For an elegant look in summer cottons, you'll find lovely damask effects and rich brocades are being revived. With the soft lines in clothing this season, you may see crepes being used a good deal more than in the past few years. Crepe lends itself to the softly fitted and draped trend in clothes design. Crepes are being shown in wool, silk, cotton and many blends.

The want ads are newsy, too.

Wool-Cotton Tops In Men's Fashions

Men have a hand in keeping the world of fashion turning, says Mrs. Frances T. Clark, county home demonstration agent. Their likes and dislikes are causing gradual but important shifts in clothing production.

For one thing, men are adopting the mix-match idea which is the mainstay in many a woman's wardrobe. One-third more separate sports jackets and trousers were produced per man in 1936 than in 1931.

Wool is the gentleman's favorite fiber, continues Mrs. Clark. More than 90 per cent of the regular-weight suits manufactured between 1931 and 1936 were cut from all-wool or mostly-wool fabrics. Wool is also popular for summer suits.

Cotton is beginning to come into its own in men's wardrobes. Its cool, comfortable and easy-to-clean qualities have raised it from the work pant to the separate dress and sport trouser class. In 1936, about a fourth of these trousers were made from all-cotton or chiefly-cotton blends.

It doesn't take as much material to make a man's suit these days. A few years ago, manufacturers used about 8½ yards in an average suit. Now that men are shying away from matching vests and double-breasted suits, the average is closer to 3 yards.

Home Extension Agent's Corner

Frances T. Clark
County Home Demonstration Agent

It is time for each home demonstration extension group to be thinking about the election of their 1958-1959 officers. I will be sending out forms for each group to be filled out with their new officers' names. Is it hoping too much to get 100 per cent response?

National Home Demonstration Week is May 5 through May 10. Those groups that are making exhibits for Achievement Day should be deciding where they plan to display their exhibit.

The Civil Defense mass feeding school will be held May 5 and 6. The mass feeding demonstration will be held May 7 and 8.

Since the weather has turned so summer-like, our thoughts turn to fried chicken. How many types of poultry can you name? There are broilers, stewing chickens, turkey, that everyone knows; but how many know about capons, caponettes, ducks, geese and Rock Cornish game hens? How many of these have you tried? They offer easy variety for menus because they are ready-to-cook.

There's never any doubt about what to do with broiler-fryers or stewing chickens. A broiler-fryer in the refrigerator is a handy item, especially if the family is eager to rush the season a bit and cook outdoors. Stewed chicken and dumplings may be just what you need to take the edge off a chilly spring day.

Rock Cornish game hens and geese offer variety in size. The hens are miniature broilers; they weigh about 1 pound each when ready to cook. Geese come in the usual 10 to 12 pound size or you may decide to buy one of the "junior geese" that weigh just 6

Farm Housing Loan Program Expanded

An expanded farm housing loan program designed to speed up farm building construction and improvement as well as act as an additional anti-recession measure was announced today by Mr. Robert B. Abbott, Farmers Home Administration county supervisor.

Now an owner of a farm in agricultural production and on which the operator plans to produce at least $400. worth of farm commodities for sale or home use may qualify for the four per cent long-term housing loan provided that he meets other standard eligibility requirements.

Formerly, an eligible applicant had to own a farm that produced a more substantial part of the operator's annual cash income.

Borrowers may use loan funds to build, improve, or repair farm houses or other essential farm buildings, and to provide water for farmstead and household use. Mr. Abbott said that in addition to financing major construction, the loan funds can help meet many other needs for farm and farm home modernization such as adding bathrooms, utility rooms, better kitchens and many other improvements to the home as well as to farm service buildings. While tenants and farm laborers are not eligible, the owner may borrow to do construction work or make improvements for them.

The loans are made to farm owners who need credit to finance building improvements or repairs, but find that adequate credit is not available through banks or other regular credit channels. The interest rate is 4 per cent and loans may be amortized over periods up to 33 years.

to 8 pounds. Besides the variety in size, you get a variety of meat too. Both ducks and geese satisfy the "just dark meat for me" appetites. Capons may be your choice if most everyone in your family prefers white meat.

Most of the poultry items can be purchased ready-to-eat and frozen. This assures you of high quality products and brings the poultry to market "out of season."

Take ducks, for example: Not many years ago, ducks were sold fresh and only in the market from April to November. Now-a-days, duck can be purchased year around, and the same is true of other poultry.

So name a type of poultry and if you decide to have it for dinner, you can buy it in the grocery store. Poultry now is never out of season.

More Soil Testing In Tuscola County

Tuscola County farmers are showing an increased desire for soil testing and fertilizer recommendations, relates Don R. Kebler, assistant county agricultural agent.

This desire has been shown in the increased number of soil samples tested this year as compared with the same period last year. In fact there has been a 40 per cent increase at the county soil testing laboratory alone.

One big increase was noted during the November 1, 1957, to April 20, 1958, period. During this time nearly 150 more samples were tested by the county laboratory as compared to the same time a year ago. This seems to indicate that more farmers are fall and early spring sampling their soils, thus enabling them to take full advantage of winter fertilizer bargains and to know the fertilizers they need long before spring planting. Also a considerable number of farmers have been testing their soils each year for many years.

One of the many advantages of soil testing is that a reliable soil test will give a good indication of the fertilizer analysis and rate best suited for the crops in that field that season. And if the recommendation is followed there could be a savings on plant nutrients which otherwise may have been used and not needed.

One example which may indicate that some farmers could be spending extra dollars for fertilizers, which may not be needed, is shown by the following case: Last year's fertilizer sales in Michigan showed that nearly 75 per cent of the fertilizers used were of a 1 to 1 ratio between phosphorus and potassium. During the same period, soil test results from Tuscola County soil testing laboratory showed that 50 to 75 per cent of the soils tested were low in phosphorus and about 60 per cent were high in potassium. Now this means that on the heavier soils in the Saginaw valley and Thumb areas a fertilizer containing 2 parts of phosphorus to each part of potassium is recommended where the soil test shows both phosphorus and potassium at low levels.

Therefore, many farmers cropping these soils and having low phosphorus and potassium levels, could either be applying extra potassium, not enough phosphorus, or both in relation to the crop needs when they use a 1 to 1 ratio fertilizer. In any event, some farmers could be losing crop income either from reduced yields, extra fertilizer expense for nutrients which may not have been needed, or a result of both factors.

The best way to determine a crop's needs is to soil test. A guess can be expensive.

By-and-large, farmers are following good fertilizer practices and using satisfactory amounts of fertilizer. However, many farmers could realize higher yield and profit by increased fertilizer usage.

Kebler remarked that three rules-of-thumb for good fertilizer usage are: (1) Do not copy your neighbor in the kind of fertilizer analysis he uses, let him copy you; (2) Do not accept a different fertilizer ratio or substitute for what is recommended from reliable soil test, (3) If in doubt, always have your soil tested. It pays to know.

One or more Michigan State University supervised soil testing laboratories are located in most counties. Also many agricultural businesses have soil testing laboratories and give reliable soil tests and recommendations.

Ask your county agricultural agent about your county's soil testing program. The M.S.U. supervised laboratory in Tuscola County is located at the Farm Bureau office in Caro.
