Local Plant to Close Within Sixty Days

President R. D. Cleary announced this week that Cass City Manufacturing Co. will close in 30 to 60 days. The plant will have operated here for a little over three years. It was opened for business in December of 1955.

In announcing the closing that will cost the jobs of some 40 to 50 area residents, Mr. Cleary said that the closing of the Cass City plant was due to the economic situation.

Church Council Sets Dates for Union Services

The regular meeting of the Cass City Council of Churches was held Tuesday, Dec. 30, at the Methodist Church when members of the council set dates for important council functions.

The annual Union Good Friday service will be at the Methodist Church Mar. 27 and the youth sunrise service and breakfast is scheduled for the Salem EUB Church Easter morning, members decided.

Members decided to collect clothing for the migrant mission again and discussed promoting a moment of silent prayer at the noon hour in the community.

Election of officers will not be held until the fourth quarterly meeting in 1959.

Three girls, Janet Perry from the Presbyterian Church, Nancy Brown from the EUB Church and Ruth Karr from the Methodist Church, discussed the ecumenical meeting they attended at Hastings in October. Theme for the meeting was "Do We Dare Live in the House With God?" The girls were accompanied by Mrs. Winters and expenses were paid by the church council.

Many New Books At Public Library

Three light fiction books, three mysteries and a western were among the books made available to patrons of the Cass City and Elkland Township Public Library last week, Librarian Mrs. Arthur Little reported.

Also included in the new books are Thomas Costain's newest, "The Three Edwards," and "Brave New Worlds Revisited" by Aldous Huxley.

Several books for children have arrived including stories of Ty Cobb, Leo Durocher, Lou Gehrig, Stan Musial, Roy Campanella, Ted Williams and Yogi Berra. "Bambi's Children" by Felix Salten is also available, Mrs. Little said. Stories concerning other noted Americans now available include Roy Rogers, Paul Revere, Booker T. Washington, Abe Lincoln, Will Rogers, Tom Edison, Jack Dempsey, Mary Todd Lincoln and Knute Rockne.

Other books recently added include Land and People of Norway, West Indies, Argentina and Holland and People of the Snow. Mrs. Little reported that 7,259 books were circulated during 1958 and said that $141.54 was received in fines. Top month for circulation of books was March when 833 books were checked out to readers.

McConkey Studies At Chicago School

Fred McConkey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith McConkey of Cass City, is a B-plus student at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts in Chicago where he is majoring in interior design, according to James J. Gribbs, the school's registrar.

Mr. McConkey spent two years at Michigan State University before attending the Chicago school.

He said that prospects for more contracts at this time are dim and that the board of directors of the organization felt that it was in the best interest of stockholders to cease operations here.

Mr. Cleary said that it was unfortunate that the plant was closed after the workers had voted for union representation but asserted that the recent vote for representation did not affect the board's decision.

Cass City Manufacturing Co. was formed by owners of Cleary-Shevin Manufacturing Co. with the intention of building stampings and assemblies and diversifying and expanding their production.

Nearly eight acres were purchased in the site owned by the Cass City Development Corporation and the modern manufacturing building erected.

The plant located in Cass City through the efforts of the board of the Development Association. When it opened the concern hired some 20 persons, reached a peak of about 70 and has between 40 and 50 now.

Mr. Cleary did not say what the company's plans for the building are after the plant is closed.

Tell Problems Of Education at WSC Meeting

The Woman's Study Club met at the home of Mrs. H. Leznar Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Arthur Moore, president, presided at the brief business meeting and appointed Mrs. Chester Graham, Mrs. Avon Boag and Mrs. Loren Thraen on the nominating committee for election of officers.

After discussion of a suggestion by Mrs. Graham, Mrs. Knapp made a motion that the corresponding secretary write the Chevrolet Co. commending the Roy Rogers program Sunday evening and expressing the wish that there could be more programs of the same quality.

Mrs. Edward Baker then gave a talk on "Educational Changes." To explain changes in education she presented some of the problems schools have to solve today.

In 1870, when our free high school education was established only a little more than 11 per cent attended high school and of these three-quarters went to college and the academic curriculum was planned for these students.

Today more than 76 per cent of the pupils go to high school and of these, three-quarters go to work when they graduate. These changes made the early academic education unsatisfactory.

To meet the changing conditions, progressive education became popular. Many faults of this system became evident and the conflict between this and the academic system began.

Mrs. Baker said that some of the difficulty can be traced to the fact that education was left entirely to the educators. She said that society should assume the responsibility for the educational system. We must have definite objectives and educate for them.

Today we are beginning to meet this challenge by educating the whole child, a sound mind in a sound body. But society must also decide what the aim is to be, that is, shall we intensely educate a few and give the rest the essentials or raise the general public to the highest level?

The meeting closed with the roll call to which all responded with their "pet peeves."

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin J. Striffler, whose 50th wedding anniversary was Jan. 4, were honored guests Wednesday in Salem Evangelical United Brethren Church at a surprise dinner served by the Ladies Aid.

A short program was enjoyed and they were presented with a gift from the church.

Mr. Striffler and Miss Rose Bixby were married Jan. 4, 1909, in Syracuse, New York. Attendees were her brother, James Bixby, and Miss Sarah Crandell. Immediately following the ceremony in a Syracuse parsonage,

FIRST 1959 BABY—First baby to be born in Cass City hospitals this year was David Elwyn Baerwolf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn Baerwolf of Sandusky. The husky nine-pound, 10-ounce boy arrived at 7:05 a. m. Jan. 2 at Pleasant Home Hospital. The baby is the third child of the couple. Others are Richard, seven, and Lou Ann, three. Dr. H. T. Donahue was the attending physician.

Former Cass City Pastor Dies in Bradenton, Fla.

Rev. Howard C. Watkins, 54, Methodist pastor who served in Cass City for three years, 1948-51, died recently in Bradenton, Fla., where he had been vacationing. His home was in Carleton.

Rev. Watkins was born Jan. 1, 1904, in Michigan. He entered teaching after graduating from Michigan State Normal College in 1924. In 1934 he was ordained a minister at Gull Lake. Besides his pastorate in Cass City he served at Attica, Otter Lake, Mayville, Whittemore, Carsonville, Gaylord, Yale, St. Ignace and Ferndale. At the time of his death he had charge of three churches near Carleton.

Surviving are: his widow, Annette; four sons, Leith of Royal Oak, Weldon of Hazel Park, Harry of Miami and Marvin at home; three daughters, Marilyn at home, Mrs. Clegg (Phyllis) Rowley of Gaylord and Mrs. Richard (Eileen) Falls of Waterford; his father, Rev. Harry Watkins of Bradenton, and three brothers.

Funeral services were held in Bradenton. Burial was also in Florida.

LaGorce Explains National Geographic To Rotary Club

Gilbert LaGorce, of Washington, D. C., traced the origin and development of the "National Geographic" for members of the Cass City Rotary Club Tuesday noon at the New Gordon Hotel.

Mr. LaGorce, who is advertising manager of the publication, explained how the magazine was started by a group of scientists interested in spreading knowledge to the people.

The Geographic is a non-profit organization and no one has ever made a penny from it that wasn't earned through working on the publication, Mr. LaGorce explained.

Much of the magazine's money is spent on scientific expeditions. The news staff has enough material on hand now to print the Geographic for the next 10 years although much of it will never be used because of changing conditions, Mr. LaGorce said.

The four young people went to another parsonage in Syracuse where Mr. Bixby and Miss Crandell were married with Mr. and Mrs. Striffler serving as attendants.

The Strifflers have lived here all their married life and are members of the Evangelical church of long standing.

Mr. Striffler was born in Cass City, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Striffler. Mrs. Striffler was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Clark Bixby of Cass City.

The Cass City Red Hawks rolled to their third straight Thumb B Conference victory Tuesday night at Cass City High School when they easily defeated Bad Axe 44-31.

The squad looked especially good in the first half as the team passed well and Bob Holcomb and Bob Tuckey dominated both backboards for the Hawks.

Cass City solved the Hatchets' zone defense for a commanding lead in the first two periods. With Fred Leeson and Newell Harris picking up four points each, the Hawks racked up 11 points while holding the visitors to a basket and a charity toss.

In the second quarter, Cass City rolled for 15 points on divided scoring. Bad Axe could score only five and at intermission time it was 26-8 in favor of the Hawks.

With the game won at halftime, Cass City appeared to lose its desire and the team was guilty of many bad passes and generally sloppy play.

As a result, the Hatchets equalled the Hawks' scoring in the third period, when each club picked up 12 points, and outscored Cass City in the final period 11-6.

Coach Irv Claseman had 14 boys dressed for the game and all saw action. The scoring was divided among seven players for the Hawks. Fred Leeson led with 12 points while Bob Tuckey had his best night of the season with nine. Bill Tagesson of Bad Axe led all scorers with 13 points.

The Hawks' shooting improved in the game as they hit 50 per cent of their tries from the floor. Bad Axe converted only 21 per cent.

From the free throw line, Cass City converted eight of 17 while Bad Axe converted on five of 14.

Reserves Win
The Cass City JV squad continued unbeaten, but was forced to come from behind in the closing seconds for the victory. The Hawks were six points down with two and a half minutes to play. Art Randall hit two free shots and Tim Anthes bagged a bucket from the line. Dick Albee made a charity heave and Gary Hutchinson sank the winning basket with seconds to go for the 45 to 44 victory.

From the Editor's Corner

Cass City's fame as the Christmas Town of Michigan is well-known throughout Michigan from stories and pictures on all mass media in the state's population centers. This week we were informed that a picture of persons in the pageant and the caption, "Christmas Town of Michigan," appeared in the Chicago Daily News Dec. 22.

Bill Parrott of Cass City brought in a stick peeled clean of bark that he explains is positive evidence of beaver in the Cass River. Found near his farm, southwest of Cass City, Bill says that he also saw many beaver tracks. Mr. Parrott, who is highly interested in the outdoors, became so engrossed in trying to spot one of the beavers he grew careless and fell in the river up to his knees.

It had to happen department: Last week we talked with Supt. Willis Campbell on a routine check for school news. He told us about a faulty coil used to recirculate air at the school and explained that it would be impossible to heat the building in extremely cold weather. Although ordered, the coil was not expected in time for the school's reopening.

At this time the temperature was a comparatively balmy 25 degrees and the building was warm. But when school reconvened Monday after the long holiday vacation, the mercury had plunged to around zero and the high-school students received another day of vacation.

It was the first highway death in Huron County in 1959.

Construction of the new Cass City Community Hospital will start within two weeks if weather stays as moderate as it was Wednesday, Fred Wigen, architect, announced this week.

Contracts were awarded to various contractors early this week and the negotiated price has brought total construction costs down to $698,491 . . . within the budget of the hospital.

The general construction contract has been awarded to Consolidated Construction Co. of Bay City at a price of $356,565. The price was negotiated down from a base bid of $368,397.

The mechanical contract went to Associated Mechanical Services of Midland at a price negotiated to $172,191 from a base bid of $179,400.

Kitchen equipment was reduced from $23,870 to $21,061 and was awarded to Great Lakes Hotel Supply Co. of Detroit. Laundry equipment will be furnished by American Laundry Co. for $9,584. Sterilizing equipment will cost $17,536 and will be furnished by the American Sterilizing Co.

The electrical contract was negotiated down from the base bid of $99,297 to $86,577 and went to Smith, Maynard Electric Co. of Bay City.

Bids for the elevator were rejected and will be readvertised. Some of the extras in the elevator service will be eliminated in the new bid, Wigen said.

A contract for the surgical lights has not been awarded as members of the committee in charge will examine available light before coming to a conclusion.

Mr. Wigen said that if the weather is not extremely cold as it was Sunday and Monday, the contractors will start within two weeks. If the bitter cold continues, he said, construction will be delayed until sometime in February. The building will be completed within 18 months, Wigen added.

Now that the holidays for 1958 are past, are you now faced with a lead financial situation? Sometimes it pays "to stop, look and listen" to analyze our financial situations. A report of a study made by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U. S. Department of Labor reveals some very pertinent information as it affects most of us. This study covered the years from 1941 to 1956 and points out some of the changes we have been making in the way we spend our money.

These changes have come about so gradually that in most cases we have not realized we were changing our habits.

It was found, for example, that we have increased our medical expenditures by 48 per cent. This increase includes hospitalization insurance, more preventive shots, such as polio, plus the use of many new medicines which were not on the market in 1941.

We have increased our expenditures for home ownership 54 per cent, for house furnishing 45 per cent and for household operations 30 per cent. With increased home ownership, much of it outside city limits or further away from the center of the city, transportation expenditures have increased 37 per cent. Yet, during this same length of time we have increased our food expenditures only 12 per cent.

Might we conclude perhaps then that our expenditures for food are not the culprit which is causing the squeezing of our incomes, as much as we have thought.

We are more aware of our food expenditures since we shop frequently and regularly in contrast to other purchases, such as household furnishings which are purchased only after thorough planning and shopping.

Careful planning can help you stretch the food budget, thus reducing the amount spent for food so more of the family income is available to meet other expenses.

For example, the following suggestions may help you accomplish your objective: (1) Buy foods in season, (2) watch prices when you shop so you know whether an advertised price is really a "special"; (3) Use less expensive cuts of meats frequently; (4) Sliced cold roasts and poultry for sandwiches are less expensive per pound than packaged cold cuts; (5) Use other sources of protein such as fish in place of meat whenever possible; (6) Use meat supplements, such as cottage cheese, eggs and cheddar cheese often; (7) Plan your menus before shopping.

By using the above sign posts, you can help to stretch your food budget for 1959.

Supply at least six inches of feeder space for each layer and four feet of water space for each one hundred birds, suggest Michigan State University poultrymen.

It was found, for example, that we have increased our medical expenditures by 48 per cent. This increase includes hospitalization insurance, more preventive shots, such as polio, plus the use of many new medicines which were not on the market in 1941.

We have increased our expenditures for home ownership 54 per cent, for house furnishing 45 per cent and for household operations 30 per cent. With increased home ownership, much of it outside city limits or further away from the center of the city, transportation expenditures have increased 37 per cent. Yet, during this same length of time we have increased our food expenditures only 12 per cent.

Might we conclude perhaps then that our expenditures for food are not the culprit which is causing the squeezing of our incomes, as much as we have thought.

We are more aware of our food expenditures since we shop frequently and regularly in contrast to other purchases, such as household furnishings which are purchased only after thorough planning and shopping.

Careful planning can help you stretch the food budget, thus reducing the amount spent for food so more of the family income is available to meet other expenses.

For example, the following suggestions may help you accomplish your objective: (1) Buy foods in season, (2) watch prices when you shop so you know whether an advertised price is really a "special"; (3) Use less expensive cuts of meats frequently; (4) Sliced cold roasts and poultry for sandwiches are less expensive per pound than packaged cold cuts; (5) Use other sources of protein such as fish in place of meat whenever possible; (6) Use meat supplements, such as cottage cheese, eggs and cheddar cheese often; (7) Plan your menus before shopping.

GOOD BRAKES GIVE YOU A BREAK

Ever notice going down the highway that some drivers slow down with short on-and-off applications of their brakes. That's the way you should slow down. The worst enemy of brakes is heat. Jamming your foot to the floor to stop . . . or even to slow down raises the temperature of your brake drums and linings by hundreds of degrees. And sometimes you will heat them enough to have them fade just at the worst moment.

Brakes are the most important safety feature on your car . . . they're there to protect your life and property. Your brakes should be checked and adjusted frequently for your own safety and your own peace of mind.

Fortunately, brakes usually give plenty of warning of impending trouble. Before they get downright dangerous, you usually get some warning that something is wrong. Noises, fading or grabbing are the usual signs that brakes need attention.

Yes, brakes are your important safety feature and they deserve the attention of a good brake man who has plenty of first class equipment to work with. And when your service man recommends new brake linings, don't put it off. It costs much more to reface or replace scored brake drums than it does to install a new set of brake linings.

When it comes to brake work, where you go is as important as the job. When you come to Bulen's you can rely on your brakes . . . we make sure your brakes are in real safety-shape.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald N. Dearing

In a candlelight ceremony Dec. 27, Miss Dana B. Duckwitz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Durward Duckwitz of Snover, and Gerald Nile Dearing, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Dearing of Cass City, were married in the Snover Evangelical United Brethren Church at 8 p.m. Rev. Glenn Ball officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Red and white poinsettias decorated the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white ballerina-length gown of Chantilly lace. It was styled with a fitted lace bodice featuring a scalloped scooped neckline embroidered with iridescent sequins. The skirt was fashioned with a layer of tulle appliqued with lace over an underskirt of tulle ruffles. The long tapering sleeves formed points over the wrists.

She carried a bouquet of white roses centered with red sweetheart roses. For jewelry she wore a pearl necklace, gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Doralyn Seifort, friend of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore an emerald green dress of crystal satin styled with elbow-length sleeves. The full flared skirt featured a harem hemline. She wore a white fur headband and carried a white fur muff with a white poinsettia and holly.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Irene MacKay and Miss Nancy Dearing, sisters of the groom, and Miss Dawn Duckwitz, junior bridesmaid, sister of the bride, wore Christmas red satin dresses identically styled to the maid of honor's. They wore white fur headbands and carried white fur muffs with red poinsettias and holly.

Wendy Sue Dearing, sister of the groom, was flower girl. She wore a white nylon organza dress and carried a basket of red rose petals.

Ricky Bulgrien, cousin of the bride, carried the wedding rings on a lace pillow.

Robert D. MacKay, brother-in-law of the groom, served as best man. Ray and David Dearing, brothers of the groom, were ushers and Dean Duckwitz, brother of the bride, served as junior attendant.

Mrs. Jay Dearing, mother of the groom, was organist. She accompanied the soloist, Duane Cubitt of Sandusky, as he sang "Because," "I'll Walk Beside You" and "The Lord's Prayer."

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Duckwitz chose a royal blue silk faille sheath. Her corsage was of red and white carnations. Mrs. Dearing, mother of the groom, chose a light blue wool knit dress. Her corsage was also of red and white carnations.

The reception immediately followed in the church parlors with about 300 guests attending. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake decorated with a spray of red roses. Raymond Bulgrien, uncle of the bride, was master of ceremonies for a short program.

After the reception, the couple left for a trip in northern Michigan. For the trip the bride wore a blue wool sheath with matching accessories and a red sweetheart rose corsage.

The newlyweds will make their home in Traverse City where Jerry is stationed with the U. S. Coast Guard.

Farmers have only a few more weeks in which to apply for loans or purchase agreements on most of their 1958 grain and related crops. County office manager Charles E. Eckfeld, of the Tuscola County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, has announced. January 31, 1959, is the deadline for obtaining price support on wheat, barley, oats, dry beans, and rye in most areas. Since January 31 in 1959 occurs on Saturday, a nonbusiness day, the deadline is automatically extended to Monday, Feb. 2.

MSU Record Book Can Aid Families

"Where does all the money go?" "It costs so much to live now."

These are common everyday statements made by many wives and mothers. Why not take a few minutes a day and find out the answers to these and many other vexing family financial problems.

The Michigan State University family living record book will help you do just this, says Mrs. Frances T. Clark, Tuscola county extension agent in home economics.

The book also has another very valuable and timely use for income tax purposes right now. Itemizing the deductions on tax form 1040 from a book like this can sometimes save a family many dollars. This is especially true if there is much sickness, considerable indebtedness, or other unusual or large items of expense.

The book is already in use in hundreds of Michigan homes. It needs to be in yours, too. Get your copy now and start 1959 off in a more orderly and sensible financial manner.

The cost is only 20 cents. It is available from your county cooperative Extension Office or the Agricultural Economics Department of Michigan State University.

THE TRUTH ABOUT PAUL BUNYAN

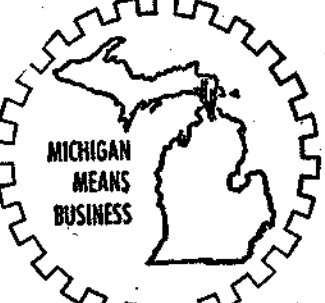

In our great north woods era that wonderful Michigan hero Paul Bunyan could do anything needed around the logging camps, anything at all. That's legend.

Today the people of any Michigan community, planning and working together, can do and achieve anything their community needs for its sound development and the greater prosperity of its citizens. That's fact.

Like Paul Bunyan when he had Babe the Blue Ox at his command and every logger in the camp behind him, the people of a community can do anything when they work together.

And that's the truth about Paul Bunyan.

Join hands with your local industrial development organization and the Michigan Economic Development Department to help your community prosper.

If one of your 1959 resolutions is to straighten up family finances, the Michigan State University leaflet, "Managing Your Family's Credit" may come to a timely rescue. The publication is authored by Lucile Ketchum, extension specialist in home management and may be obtained by request to Bulletin Office, Agricultural Hall, Michigan State University.

Michigan State University extension home economists suggest a way to "stretch" a pork loin is to have a rib end roast cut off, then have the remainder cut into chops. The chops can be wrapped in meal-size packages for storage in freezer or refrigerator.

SHORT STORY

Stars
Overhead
By Maud Welch

ONE evening Susie Baker was looking out the window of the dingy kitchenette apartment where she and Johnny lived. Susie was always wishing the tall buildings weren't so close, so she and Johnny could look up and see the stars.

Johnny wasn't well. He'd been working in the basement of a store where it was damp and he'd almost had pneumonia, and somehow his cough just didn't seem to get any better.

It was the next day that Susie got an idea. She read an advertisement in the afternoon paper of a small farm for sale very reasonably. Susie knew right at once that this was the very place for Johnny and herself.

They had a small savings account, enough for the down payment. Without any fear at all, Susie sent it to the owner of the farm and received a quick reply with a receipt for the money.

Susie hoped so much that Johnny would believe as she did, that this was the very place for him.

Johnny looked tired when she went into the kitchenette where he was working on one of his inventions. People sometimes insisted that Johnny was only a dreamer, but nothing could ever convince Susie that he wasn't a real genius.

Johnny looked tired when she went into the kitchenette.

She had brought him a glass of milk with an egg beaten in it. When he drank it, she said, "Darling, we—we've got ourselves a farm."

"Wh-aat?" Johnny exclaimed, looking even paler than before. She explained about the down payment and that they could move in any time. All they had to do was to pack up and catch a bus.

Johnny looked worried. He explained that he could get odd jobs in the city but there weren't any in the country and it took money to run a farm.

"It'll be all right, Johnny. It was meant for us to go." Susie's voice was warm with confidence.

They caught a bus for the country the next day. The house was small. There was enough furniture and a tool house. A little stream danced by and Susie danced around in sheer delight.

"Isn't it wonderful, Johnny? Wonderful!"

He nodded, but said there were many problems to be met.

"Just have Faith, Johnny," Susie told him happily.

After they'd been there several days, they had callers. An elderly jolly looking man and his wife who said they wanted to get acquainted.

"We're the Jamisons and we're neighbors, you know," the sweet-faced woman told Susie.

They went to the tool shed, where Johnny was working, and the man stared at his gadgets with interest. "You know I putter around with contraptions myself, and by golly, it looks to me as if you got something in some of these things."

He was looking at one of them particularly, which Johnny said was a new idea in the suction principle and he thought it might be an improvement on the milking machine.

"I just bet it would," Mr. Jamison replied. "I say, would you like to form a partnership? I could advance you any money you might need."

Johnny was so surprised he couldn't speak. At last he said, "Why that's wonderfully kind of you."

So it was all quickly settled. The Jamisons went home and later Susie and Johnny were out on the grass looking up at the stars. She said, "Johnny, you haven't coughed once since we came. Isn't it wonderful?"

"It's like a dream," Johnny murmured. They reached over and kissed each other. "You see, darling, it's easy for wonderful things to happen in this place, because you feel so close to God," Susie said, as she placed her small hand in his.

Food for Thought

Some 94,587 cords of aspen timber were harvested and skidded out of Michigan's state-owned forests during the 1958 fiscal year which ended June 30. Aside from the aspect of conversion into salable commodities, the cuttings are of two-fold significance. Commercially valuable tops and limbs from these cuttings are left at harvest sites to provide a ready and welcome browse supply for deer. These winter cuttings coincide with the peak season of food scarcity. Revenue from timber sales is pumped into the state treasury for subsequent financing of reforestation programs; pulpwood receipts totaled $179,863 last year.

Letter to Editor

December 24, 1958
Cass City Chronicle
Cass City, Michigan
Dear Editor:

Please find enclosed a remittance for the renewal of our Chronicle subscription. We have also enclosed a clipping from the Dowagiac Daily News which refers to the activities of a Cass City resident some twenty years ago.

After graduating from the Cass City High School in 1937 I have spent most of the balance of my life here at Cassopolis. Two former high school friends have also made this their permanent home. I will refer to them in their maiden names of Glenna Asher and Marie Darling. They are both happily married and living a prominent and successful life in this community.

It seems a little unusual to me that a village the size of Cassopolis (which is located 250 miles from Cass City) is able to claim three former residents of the Cass City area who were in High School at Cass City during the same time. If you know of any similar circumstances it would be interesting to know about it.

Sincerely
Eugene F. Spencer

Low loading height, 75-80 bushel capacity... just two of the many features that make the LS 300 a leader in its field. Rugged steel angle frame construction allows box to set low, still have large capacity. Weight on 2-wheel models is balanced for easy handling. Auto-turn front axle on 4-wheel models allows short turns. Spreader can be backed into barn with ease.

High grade, clear wood box is specially treated to lengthen life. Wide, tapered bottom helps move manure to rear. Two beaters driven by single heavy-duty steel chain shred manure evenly. Carbon steel distributor blades pulverize the manure, spread it over ground in a wide, even pattern. Distributor is specially designed to eliminate possibility of blank spots in the row. Balanced, 3-lobe feed cam lets you spread 3, 6, 9, 12, or 15 loads per-acre. Handy hitch screw jack serves as stand for loading, folds out of way when spreader is in use. Eight models to choose from: 2 or 4 wheel tractor-drawn, 4-wheel horse-drawn.

Patented distributor shreds and spreads manure in wide, even pattern.

Extra large feed racket gives 5 accurate feeding ranges for controlled spreading.

Michigan Mirror News in Brief

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association
Michigan and five other states are fighting in court to keep Chicago from stealing the Great Lakes.

The simple statement of a complex problem distorts the issues on both sides of the courtroom, but the danger is here and immediate.

Chicago for decades has been draining water out of Lake Michigan for navigation at the rate of 1,300 cubic feet per second. That much is all right with all concerned.

But the city also is increasing its flow to 2,000 cubic feet a second for another purpose: treatment of sewage. The water then goes through a sewage canal, ultimately reaching the Mississippi river.

The result is a development impossible except in the wildest of dreams. The level of the Great Lakes is being lowered! Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams has charged that the drainage into Chicago is damaging the recreational lure of Lake Michigan, lowering property values, and creating chaos.

If the drain continues, the level of the Lakes will be lowered another two inches, reducing the tonnage freighters can carry into available dockage space and ports.

Adams warned that this alone will cost shippers $4,000,000 a year and raise prices of products shipped into Michigan by boat.

Not only will Lake Michigan's level be lowered, but, ultimately, a heavy impact is foreseen on the other Great Lakes which surround Michigan on three sides.

Chicago officials, visiting Lansing for a conference on the problem, said the citizens are turning to their only natural source of water to help them solve their sanitation problems.

Michigan and the other protesting states are insisting that Chicago return the water, treated and restored, to Lake Michigan.

Chicago people said this would double the costs of pipelines at a time when financing merely the taking of water for a public purpose is burdensome.

States involved in the legal fight, which is now before the United States Supreme Court, are Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

While that case awaits action, three of the states, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, refused to allow three small Chicago suburbs to finance an $18,000,000 pipeline to the lake.

It was blocked by refusal of the states to agree to a "non-litigation" guarantee, demanded by investors before they would buy the revenue bonds.

Michigan officials contend that residents of the state have a vast investment in the values the Great Lakes offer. A high percentage of the state's economic life depends on them.

An added factor of significance is the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway, which is expected to carry Michigan products to world markets and return the goods of other nations to the state.

It probably will be months or years before the case is finally decided, but the problem will smolder until then.

Food-buying housewives, with the family budget to juggle in an era of rising prices have a champion in state government.

It is the foods and standards division of the State Department of Agriculture.

The department, headed until Jan. 1 by Miles A. Nelson, a veteran career state employee, makes certain all goods meet the Michigan standards before they are sold. Its range of operations is amazing.

It constantly checks the accuracy of weight machines, from the penny scales patronized by pound-conscious citizens, to the giant scales that weigh coal.

The department checks to determine if packaged goods contain the same weight as advertised on the label, guards against false claims for all products and approves labels.

In Nelson's office there are samples, a bottle of beer with a claim suggesting it has more inside than others of the same size, a misbranded package of sausage, or a jar of pickles that did not measure up to Michigan standards.

Nelson has been a fighter for perfection in his department and has not hesitated to seize a shipment of potatoes or other produce that didn't measure up. He has one pat answer to complaints: "Let's look at the law on that subject."

What Is The Largest
"Farm Group" In Michigan?

112,000 Farm Families That Regularly Save
Trading Stamps Are The Biggest
"Farm Group" In Michigan.

America's farm families are traditionally thrifty. The same pattern of thrift is found in Michigan. It is only natural, therefore, that the response of Michigan farm families to one of the oldest forms of thrift—the trading stamp—is so noticeable.

Today over 112,000 farm families save them. You might almost say that these savers constitute the largest single farm group in the state.

During 1957 alone, thousands of dollars worth of trading stamp merchandise went into farm households in the state, and every 2 seconds a farm family is redeeming trading stamps. There is still another side—direct income for farmers. During 1957 the stamp industry purchased from Michigan farmers $975,000 worth of primary materials that go into the manufacture of merchandise for stamp redemption. No one can contemplate these facts and fail to realize that both personally and economically the trading stamp industry is a meaningful and welcome force in the life of our state.

Mrs. Ella Wooley, 96 Dies Monday Night

Mrs. Ella Wooley, 96, resident of Cass City for 60 years, died Monday evening in the Joseph Malek home. Funeral services will be held Thursday at two p. m. in the Douglas Funeral Home. Rev. Robert Weckle will officiate and burial will be in Novesta cemetery.

Daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Abner Coyle, she was born in Koylton township Oct. 20, 1862, and was married to Andrew Wooley. Mr. Wooley died several years ago.

Surviving are a foster son, Lewis Brooks of Cass City; six grandchildren, and 13 great-grandchildren.

Using colored index cards for your recipe file is a good idea suggested by Michigan State University extension home economists. Try white ones for meat, pink for desserts, green for salads. It gives an efficient lift to the recipe box.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

I didn't know it till I read this piece in the paper last night that the Government ever month stores away millions of dollars worth of stuff that would be essential in case of war.

I'm in favor of this system of stockpiling a little all along instead of the way they did it during the last war. We got caught with our stockpiles down in that one and it was somepup to see them Congressmen flopping around like a chicken with his head cut off trying to git things fer the war.

I recollect they come up with a War Production Board and some of the things they done was out of this world. Fer instance, they put tombstones in the non-essential list. That didn't upset the home front too much on account of most folks lives with their nose on the grindstone and they ain't got much objection to using it fer a tombstone when they passes on. But when they made a rule that caskets had to be held to six foot in length it started, a second war. I remember that the Michigan Funeral Directors and Embalmers Association filed a writ of habeas corpus or somepup that the average man couldn't be buried in a box six foot long without bending his knees up in such a fashion as would make his relatives mad at the undertaker. And a Michigan feller in Congress got up and asked if it hadn't "come to a hell of a pass when a man couldn't get a decent burial in America." And Congressman Bob Doughton from North Carolina answered that to help the war effort a feller shouldn't mind being put away with a slight bend in his knees.

I don't recollect how it all come out in the end, but I know things was very bad on account of us gitting caught short. I'm strong in favor of this stockpiling business and I hope they'll include caskets so's a feller can be laid to rest stretched out and comfortable. He gits a crib three foot long when he's born and he ought to get a box eight foot long when he dies. It's a long, hard fight to gain them five foot.

I see by the papers where a big New York bank is serving tea from four till six on Monday and Friday. I ain't surprised, with drug stores handling lawn mowers and hardware stores selling patent medicine. If I owned a cafe close to that bank, I'd start lending money on Tuesday and Saturday.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Pvt. James L. Jezewski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jezewski of Cass City, has completed 16 weeks of training at Fort Knox, Ky., and at Fort Jackson, South Carolina.

Presently home on furlough, he will leave Thursday. He expects to be sent to Alaska soon, where he will be stationed for 12 to 18 months.

Pvt. Jezewski graduated from Cass City High School in 1957 and entered the Army Aug. 12, 1958.

Scouting News

Last week was vacation time and the boys in Troop 194 took advantage of it.

Tuesday, 18 boys visited the facilities of Dow Chemical, which is the largest chemical factory in one location in the world. Some of the buildings visited were saran wrap, glass blowing, power house, aspirin, waste disposal, styrofoam and many others.

Besides the knowledge that the boys gained, each was given two boxes of saran wrap, a box of saran icicles, a bottle of aspirin, a piece of styrofoam and a miniature water softener.

Transportation was furnished by Mrs. Michael Yedinak, Mr. Taylor and the scoutmaster and assistant scoutmaster.

Thursday morning the residents of Cass City awoke to find everything covered with a glare of ice. This did not discourage Bill Eberline, Robert Fischer, Ed Knight or Jim MacTavish who spent the entire night sleeping in an improvised shelter. The boys all returned home happy and healthy.

Dean and Dennis Rienstra and Walter Hempton finished their second class requirements Saturday by accompanying their assistant scoutmaster on a five-mile cook-out. Dean Frakes also went to work on his first class requirements.

Wheat prices in Michigan are approaching the level where it will pay some farmers to sell their wheat and repay their price support loans, believes a farm economist at Michigan State University.

For dairy cows corn is just as good a supplement for hay as is a mixture of farm grains, according to research at the Upper Peninsula Experiment Station.

Few families shop for most of their meat from the same store or chain of stores every week, shows research at Michigan State University.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Modified Bouffant Is Forecast for Styles in Hair-Do

WITH your head full of hopes and plans for the new season, you're probably wondering about what's new for hair styles. At the head of the list for all hair fashions is the modified bouffant, a slight variation of the really full hair dress which came in during the past few months.

This type of hair dress may be varied in many ways. It suggests a modified curl and it may also be a line movement gently lifted away from the head.

Of course there are several other provocative styles, too. If you can wear your hair in an up-do fashion, there's the feminine version of the Empire style with a pretty swirled pattern borrowed from the Napoleonic era.

Here's one of the new hair styles called modified bouffant. There's a simplified fullness and some fluff achieved with a 40-curl home permanent to give the hair body and manageability.

You may want to consider one of the Victorian coils which feature demure bang fringes, ear cupping curls and bustle backs.

Select Becoming Style

The choice, you see, is large. Your problem, then, will be to select the style that does the most for you as well as the one which can be cared properly and easily in line with the demands of your schedule.

If you don't feel that you can decide, have an expert cut the hair and shape it for you. Each of the predominant styles can be modified to fit your own particular features.

Success in any hair style, be it modified bouffant or wavy whirls and scrolls, bloused out sides or bustle backs depends upon a permanent wave to keep the hair in place. This is true whether the hair is thick and hard to manage, or if it's baby fine and requires body. Without a wave, new coils will soon look droopy and untidy.

Put Some Variety In Meat Dishes

Your meat budget will show a nice bonus if you learn to prepare some of the different cuts of meat in tempting ways. These meats are economically priced, but are favorites among those who have learned to enjoy them.

Beef tongue is one of the most delicious and tender of meats, especially when it sparkles with cherry sauce:

- Tongue with Cherry Sauce
1 beef tongue
½ cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup broth
½ teaspoon whole cloves
½ bay leaf
1 cup red sour cherries, drained
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons butter

Simmer tongue in salted water until tender, about an hour per pound. Trim and remove skin. Cut in slices, placing in baking dish. Mix together brown sugar, cornstarch and broth in which tongue was cooked. Add cloves and bay leaf; cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add cherries, lemon juice and butter. Bring to a boil, pour over tongue and bake in a moderate (350°F.) oven for 20 minutes. One pound of tongue serves three.

Oxtail Stew (Serves 6-8)

- ½ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 2-pound oxtail, disjointed
¼ cup fat
1 cup tomato juice
1 cup water
1 teaspoon salt
4 whole allspice
1 bay leaf
1 clove garlic, minced
1 cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 8-ounce package broad noodles

Combine flour and salt; roll oxtail pieces in seasoned flour. Brown in hot fat. Add all except last two ingredients. Simmer for 3 hours, or until tender. Add lemon juice. Cook noodles in boiling water until tender. Remove allspice and bay leaf from stew. Serve stew over hot noodles.

Yellowing in wheat fields next fall is more likely due to a disease called powdery mildew than a nitrogen deficiency, report scientists at the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station.

UP BIN CHARGES

of farmers, farmer cooperatives and others when they are not needed for storage of government-owned grain.

County office manager Charles B. Eckfeld said the increased rate will bring rental rates more nearly in line with rates established under the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement, which applies to the storage of CCC-owned grains in commercial facilities. The purpose, he said, is to encourage the expansion of commercial and farm storage in areas short of grain storage and reduce year-to-year reliance on CCC bins which were purchased for emergency use only.

In some instances there has been difficulty in getting access to government bins when they were needed by CCC because they were being used by renters for storage of their own commodities.

Dear Editor:

I would like to use this means to express my appreciation to all those who are supporting me on this matter of Postmaster of Cass City.

I do not think that the selection and appointment should be strictly on a political basis. I believe the whole community and rural sections served should be able to express themselves.

Write to Shuford Kirk of Caro, County Republican Chairman, as to your choice. The men available for this position are Mr. Steve Orto, present Postmaster, and three certified by U. S. Civil Service, namely: Lew Bishop, John Bayley and myself.

Thank you again.
