From the Editor's Corner

Within the last week several groups of cub scouts have toured the Chronicle to see a newspaper published. We welcome these boys and their leaders. The Chronicle is always happy to show any interested group through the plant . . . simply call the office and make an appointment for the date and time you'd like to visit.

If the Planning Commission signs a contract for a professional planner next week as expected, it will be a step forward in the progress of the community and the area.

In the years to come we think it will rank with Cass City's zoning and wide streets as a step taken by farsighted residents for the good of the community.

And if all of the experts' predictions are true (and we think they are) each penny spent today will mean dollars saved in the future as Cass City prepares for inevitable growth.

We can't vouch for the authenticity of this story but it could very well be true. Donald "Stub" Stamata, genial and popular coach at Caro High School for many years, is justifiably proud of the magnificent new gymnasium in the new Caro High School.

Earlier this year he walked in to Cass City's gym and looked around. Obviously thinking of the many side remarks that the former extremely small Caro gym invoked from visitors, he said, "I've been waiting 20 years to say this," and then blithely announced to everyone within hearing distance, "quite a crackerbox you've got here, isn't it?"

The closing of Cass City Manufacturing is a blow to the community and is especially hard on the men and women who have jobs there.

But for the community as a whole, the situation is nowhere near as bleak today as it was when Nestles decided to close its milk plant in the village.

When Nestles closed there was not one plant operating in Cass City. Now, Tusco Products, Anrod Screen Cylinder Co. and Walbro Corporation are all providing employment for local residents.

These plants were brought to Cass City through the cooperative efforts of businessmen and residents interested in promoting Cass City.

It is our opinion that a similar drive now with the united effort of employers and employees will soon see the building occupied by Cass City Manufacturing occupied by an industry again.

Plans Virtually Complete

Expect to Sign for Planner Next Week

The Cass City Planning Commission moved a step closer to hiring a planning expert Monday afternoon when members virtually completed plans for hiring Vilcan and Lehman Associates, Inc. of Detroit.

The commission and members of the village council met Monday at the Municipal Building. Terms for hiring the company have been arranged.

The company will charge $4,500 for two years' work if Cass City engages its services alone. If Mayville decides to have planning work completed, the cost will be $1,500 less. A contract is expected to be signed sometime next week.

The local commission was presented with a choice of two ways to have the planner work in the village. One was to have local members gather information and have the Detroit concern correlate and evaluate it. This method would have been some $1,500 cheaper to the village. For two reasons the commission decided to have the planner collect the necessary information. Members were not sure that they were qualified to secure all of the information that the planner might need and felt that they would not be able to devote enough time from their businesses to get the information when it was needed.

The planners to be hired have been in business for five years. Their recent planning work includes a master plan for Hamtramck, Rockwood and Dundee.

Counties which will participate are: Huron, Tuscola, Sanilac, Lapeer, Genesee, Bay and Saginaw.

The Caro meeting is one of eight scheduled for southern Michigan before the Republican State Convention at Detroit on Feb. 14. Eight additional meetings are contemplated to cover northern Michigan counties.

Lindemer, who will preside over the conferences, assisted by Mike Riley, GOP organizational director.

"We will also hold a question and answer period to evaluate the conference and all Republican activities to determine where future emphasis should be placed."

Dieke was sentenced to 14 1/2 to 15 years with a recommendation for 15 years. He had a long previous criminal record. He had issued several bogus checks in Cass City and other Tuscola communities.

In a civil case Wednesday, Jan. 7, Mona Houghtaling of Vassar was granted a divorce from William Houghtaling. A dollar was granted in lieu of dower and the maiden name of Mona Moody restored.

It was announced that a nine-week church officer training program will start Wednesday, Jan. 21, at 8 p.m. The course will be held weekly for all church officers, Rev. John Fish, pastor, said.

GOP Convention Slated in Caro

The Tuscola County Republican Convention will be held at the Courthouse in Caro Wednesday, Jan. 21, at 8 p.m., O. B. Kittinger, secretary of the county Republican Committee, announced this week.

Hawks Top Raiders; Lose to Flushing

Inability to hit from the free throw line and defensive lapses in the final period enabled Flushing to come from behind in the final quarter Tuesday night to defeat Cass City, 64-52, at Cass City High School gym.

The visitors broke up a tight ball game in the opening minutes of the final period when they scored 15 points in a little over two minutes while Cass City was unable to hit either from the free throw line or the field.

With Flushing leading by six points with six minutes left in the game, the Hawks started pressing and were guilty of numerous bad passes and erratic play.

In a slow moving first period, Cass City moved out into a 12-9 lead. They were outscored by the visitors 15 to 13 in the second canto and left the floor at intermission with a scant 25-24 margin.

Cass City registered its best period of the game in the third quarter when the team registered 19 points while holding Flushing to 14. Going into the final quarter Cass City led 44-38. Flushing scored 26 points in the final quarter . . . the most any team has collected against Cass City all year.

The Hawks converted only six of 22 tries from the free-throw line for a miserable .272 per cent of their tries. Many of the tries were when the bonus rule was in effect and when the Hawks missed their last try they never had the opportunity to convert the second. Coaches agree that about 600 per cent from the foul line is good average shooting.

Flushing converted 20 of 30 tries from the free throw line. Cass City scored 23 times from the field and the visitors 22. Flushing hit 37 per cent of its tries from the field and Cass City connected on only 28 per cent.

Marlette Game Displaying their best offensive surge of the season, the Cass City Red Hawks rolled to an easy victory at Marlette Friday night, 70-53, to remain undefeated in Thumb B Conference competition.

The defeat shoved Marlette far down in the conference standings and made it apparent that for the first time since the league was formed the Red Raiders will not be a contender for the crown.

For the first time in recent history, Marlette used a zone defense against the Hawks. The effort proved futile as Cass City moved into an early lead and was never headed.

The game was close for only the opening quarter when neither team was able to find the range. Cass City led 4-2 with a little under three minutes left in the opening stanza. At the end of the initial period the score was 10-5, Cass City.

The Hawks registered their biggest point total of the season in the second quarter with 25 points. The attack was paced by Fred Leeson, who burned the hoop for 11 points, and Bob Tuckey, who picked up five. At the intermission, Cass City was in front 35-18.

After the intermission, the Hawks continued to score well. They registered 17 points in the third period to 14 for Marlette. Continued on page ten.

Library Boasts New Collection Box for Patrons

Mrs. Arthur Little, Elkland Township public librarian, announced the receipt from the state library board of a check for $104.24 as part payment on the state aid to libraries for 1959. The payment represents a four-cent payment based on the township population of 2,606. It is expected that about $65.00 more will be paid later in the year.

Money received from the general library fund is to be used to increase public library service. It may not be used to purchase building sites.

Part of the money received this week will be used to pay for a new collection box for books which has been placed outside the library for the convenience of patrons who may need to return books during hours when the public library is not open.

For those who have overdue books, Mrs. Little points out, the fine is a cent per day on each book overdue. The patron may seal the fine in an envelope and place it in the book.

To Play at Millington

Seven Local Pupils In Honors Band

Seven members of the Cass City High School Band are busily preparing for the second annual Tri-County Honors Band which will play Jan. 24 at Millington.

The band will feature 96 students from 19 schools.

Members of the band spend two full days together in preparation for the concert. The first day of rehearsal is spent organizing the band into sections and placing each member in the proper section.

In another session the different sections are combined for more rehearsals and finally the full band rehearses late in the afternoon.

The second day includes two lengthy full band rehearsals with the guest conductor and is concluded with the concert in the evening.

The guest conductor for the concert this year will be George Wilson, vice-president of the National Music Camp at Interlochen. Schools participating in the honors band include all of Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties.

Students were selected by a system that included credit for years of experience on their instruments, number of years of private study and their past record in the district and state solo and ensemble festivals.

According to Association President Foster Hickey, the members will again have a family dinner type meeting. Following the dinner Russ Miller, field man for the National Holstein-Friesian Association, will speak about association developments.

All county association and non-association dairymen and their families are invited to attend this dinner meeting beginning at 12 noon. Tickets are available from the following directors: Allen Rohlf, Fairgrove; Charles Seddon Jr., Kingston; Foster Hickey, Fairgrove; George Foster Jr., Postoria; Clinton Law, Cass City, and Kenneth Baur, Cass City.

The Association Directors urge all members to attend their annual meeting and help to make plans for the coming year and elect new officers.

Most people are inclined to do good, but too many keep putting it off until tomorrow.

Michigan farm land prices will continue to move up in 1959, although the change will be quite small in some areas, report Michigan State University farm economists.

FORGE AHEAD

It's impossible to linger at the bottom of the ladder—a man must either go up or down.

Corn silage outyields all other crops and is the cheapest source of nutrients where good corn can be grown, report Michigan State University dairy specialists.

FOOTNOTE

It's been a long time since I read any school books, but do you remember how those long, dry texts were dotted with asterisks as if the pages had chicken pox? All the most interesting material was down below in the footnotes.

I once heard of a professor who got so fed up with all this he wrote a text book that was entirely one big long footnote.

Footnotes are like a paper chase. You spot the clues like Ibid and op. cit. and chase them back through other footnotes to find out where the author stole his stuff.

No one, however, has ever invented a way to write a footnote to a footnote. I wonder what you'd call a footnote to a footnote?

* I don't know much about footnotes. But I do know that customers need fewer C-notes to shop at our lot because high-volume means low prices and low prices mean high-volume and high volume . . . but you get the idea. We have the best deals.

 Professors don't get paid as much as they should, but we have cars to fit every pocketbook (now there IS a sight—one of our cars fitted into a pocketbook). We sell and trade a lot of cars, therefore we have the widest selection around here in style, year, make, and price. And right now is the best time of year to shop for a car.

 I haven't the slightest idea what Ibid means. If you know, come into our lot immediately and we'll be so excited in showing you the greatest selection of cars we've ever had you won't get a minute to explain.

* Now here's a REAL footnote: When you drive the new Chevrolet your foot will note that it does less work on the gas pedal. This magnificent, powerful and sleek champion of the industry has a new peak of gasoline economy that has the whole auto business alive with talk.

Two from Walbro At Wittenberg

Russell Ayres and Lee Hartel, employees of the Walbro Corporation, Cass City, were two of 12 industrial supervisors who completed a first-level course Friday in Wittenberg College's Management Development Program.

Wittenberg's Management Development program brings industrial foremen and supervisors to the campus for a week of concentrated study in the fields of economics, business operation, communications and human relations.

The more wealth some people accumulate the less they seem to think others are entitled to.

If you wish to be popular lend the other fellow a helping hand instead of handing him advice.

I'VE GOT A JOB

I've got a job and that's important to me; to my family and to my community. When I'm working, I'm happy. It gives me a feeling of security.

Other men in our town need jobs too. They have to support their families, pay their taxes, meet home payments and pay other obligations. That's why it's up to everyone of us to do all we can to keep our present industry and to attract new plants. We can let our own industry know we appreciate it and we can tell others about the advantages our town offers.

If we all work together, we can do it. Then I'll still have my job and you'll have yours and there will be good jobs for our youngsters when they are ready to go to work.

Join hands with your local industrial development organization and the Michigan Economic Development Department to help your community prosper.

Rural Well System Needs Protection Careful Checking Can Prevent Trouble

Suburbanites and rural home owners with a private water well system can avoid winter troubles if they thoroughly check installations to make sure the family water supply is adequately protected against freeze damage.

Winter's cold often ruins unprotected water pipes. Formation of ice inside pipes builds up pressure which can burst them open, resulting in hundreds of dollars of damage to the entire pump and piping system.

Some suggestions for proper water well installation, from Clayton Mark & Company, authority on water well problems:

Find out how deep the underground frost line extends in your Numbers above represent check points to insure freeze protection.

It may be from two and one-half to seven feet below ground. Home builders or state Geological departments can give you the answers.

If underground water pipes are located above the frost line, be sure they are insulated with asbestos or other materials to prevent freezing.

Protect your pump from freezing. Some water wells still utilize separate pump houses. These must be heated all winter to prevent frost damage.

Check all outside water taps. Protection requires only a basic plumbing product—the non-freeze plug faucet or yard hydrant. Readily available in most plumbing supply houses, these units are designed with built-in shut-off valves which protect the pipes from exposure to freezing. Installed at a slight downward angle, non-freeze faucets allow natural draining of the water after the valve is closed.

Need Report System For Animal Diseases

Ways of improving man's knowledge of animal diseases are suggested by Dr. M. W. Allam, dean of the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine.

Dr. Allam says there is an "urgent need" for improving the collection, reporting, and analysis of data on animal diseases.

"Today we can only guess at the prevalence and mortality rates of certain . . . important animal diseases."

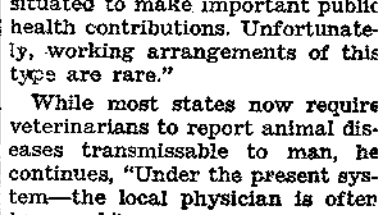

While the veterinarian does not have central hospitals to collect this type of information, Dr. Allam suggested, "Perhaps, instead, the local veterinary practitioners could report (this data) to a conveniently situated central office."

He also recommended closer coordination between government agencies concerned with veterinary medicine and those responsible for public health.

"If proper liaison existed between governmental bureaus of regulatory veterinary medicine and local and state health departments, the local veterinarian would be uniquely situated to make important public health contributions. Unfortunately, working arrangements of this type are rare."

While most states now require veterinarians to report animal diseases transmissible to man, he continues, "Under the present system—the local physician is often bypassed."

Bee Protector

In areas of variable spring climate, beehive entrances are not sealed permanently. One keeper fills the opening with sawdust. Sawdust protects bees until warm weather induces them to come out—and they make a path through the sawdust.

Too often it's the budding genius who fails to bear fruit.

Many a so-called self-made man quits work entirely too soon.

Men who take part in too many tasks sometimes go to pieces.

No person is useless in this world if he lightens the burden of life for someone else.

Deadline Nears for Grain Price Support

Farmers expecting to apply for price support loans on their 1958 crop wheat, oats, barley, rye, dry edible beans, should do so by Jan. 16, according to Charles B. Eckfeld, county office manager of the Tuscola county ASC committee. The final date for approval of loans and purchase agreements is Feb. 2. However, in the case of farm-stored loans a minimum of two weeks is required for inspection of storage structures and the grain by loan inspectors and obtaining of a sample of the grain to be forwarded to a grain grading laboratory before the loan documents can be completed. If the storage structure and the grain are found to be acceptable, the producer will be given an opportunity to complete the loan. The loan and chattel mortgage must be signed and on file in the county ASC office by Feb. 2.

Price supports may be obtained by the producers of the above commodities through purchase agreements by applying to the county ASC office on or before Feb. 2. Purchase agreements differ from loans in that the producer receives no funds until he delivers the commodity to CCC after the maturity date for the loan program. These maturity dates vary, depending on the crop, from one to four months after the final availability date of Feb. 2.

area citizens to join with Zonta International and the Cass City Zonta Club in paying tribute to the famous woman pioneer of the air.

Miss Earhart was an active member of Zonta until her untimely death in 1937, when she was lost somewhere in the Central Pacific on the last lap of a flight around the world at the equator, a course never before attempted.

Zonta International has established the "Amelia Earhart Scholarship Award" in her memory. Scholarship grants are awarded annually for graduate study in the field of aeronautical engineering to one or more outstanding young women.

Miss Earhart's achievements include being the first woman to make a trans-Atlantic flight alone, the first woman to be awarded the distinguished flying cross and the first woman to cross the Atlantic in a plane.

The Polar Bear Award is given for spending 24 hours in the open at a time in the winter chosen by the committee. The boys must carry all of their equipment on their backs for at least a half mile, build a three-sided shelter from natural materials and one tarp, cook at least three meals and maintain a neat and orderly campsite.

The boys arrived about noon. Assistant Scoutmaster James L. MacTavish arrived about 4:30 p.m. to find the boys' shelters up and supper cooking. The temperature remained at about zero.

The scouts will not know if they passed the test until the report is received by the local scoutmaster. Regardless of the outcome, Mr. MacTavish reported that the boys did a fine job and received valuable experience.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says.

Dear Mister Editor:
Up at the country store Saturday night Ed Doolittle was giving us a piece of his mind on what he thought about them Congressmen messing in the dental profession.

Back during the war Ed got himself a set of store teeth from a mail order house. Ed says the uppers has got broke up over the years on account of him eating so much store bought meat, so he orders himself some new uppers.

He got a note from the mail order house saying it was now a'gin the law to send store teeth through the mail. It seems a Congressman from Georgia ordered a complete set from some company and they sent him two uppers and no lowers. When he tried to get it straightened out, the mail order house had done gone out of business. So this Congressman gets a law passed that you can't send store teeth through the mail no more. Ed was mighty upset about it, allowed as how if he had them two upper teeth back he wouldn't even mess with store bought teeth in the first place.

Under our system of Government ever jackass has got a right to express his opinion on things that's going on in the country. I'd like to express mine about this English feller that's making this lecture tour over here. He says the time ain't far off when nobody but the good farmers will be allowed to use the land. He says they've had that system in England since 1939. If England is going to swap us them kind of ideas fer the money we're sending over there, she can keep her ideas and we'll keep our money.

According to his plan, only the farmer and rancher that worked the hardest, got up the earliest and stayed up the latest would be allowed to use the land. That could have terrible implications, Mister Editor. What if it applied to other lines? What would happen if only the lawyer that worked all the time was allowed to practice? Or think what would happen to the politicians if only them public servants that

Now that the holiday season is over and we feel we have eaten "too much" and had "too many rich foods," we are also probably conscious of an "extra pound or two."

Perhaps now is just the time to plan some soup and salad meals or experiment with new herbs to stimulate interest in "after holiday meals."

For a start, how about a chowder, light fluffy corn bread, green salad, and ice cream or sherbert for dessert for dinner?

Tuna fish, salmon, lobster, crab, shrimp or clams are some of the members of the fish family which make a good chowder.
Some fried salt pork adds a wonderful flavor and changes the texture of chowder. Or add a small "dash" or try something new by using a little Tarragon or Oregano. Perhaps you would rather have a salad for the main dinner dish. How about a fruit salad with pineapple, grapefruit and orange sections, bananas, diced apples, dates and melon balls (you froze this past fall) topped with lime sherbert. Add cottage cheese to include protein. Then perhaps a hot bread or rolls and a slice of holiday fruit cake for dessert.

Below is a general guide for using some of the many herbs.

Oregano—Italian and Mexican dishes, meats, stuffings, soups and squash.

Marjoram—Can be cooked
for long periods with poultry, lamb, eggs, bland vegetables or stuffings.

Thyme—Use in meat, egg dishes, tomatoes and bean soup.

Tarragon—Use with seafood, chicken, eggs, spinach, celery and tomato.

Baked potatoes are good with so many foods, here's something a little different you might like to try:

Herb Butter

3/4 cup sweet butter, 1 T. parsley, fine chopped, 1 T. lemon juice, 1 T. chive or onion tops, fine chopped and 1/2 t. dried basil.

Cream butter until smooth.

Add remaining ingredients and blend thoroughly. This is especially good with baked potatoes, lamb chops or roast, and hot French bread.

Huge supplies of soybean meal are expected to hold down protein feed prices and keep them from sky-rocketing as they did last spring, say Michigan State University farm economists.

Vitamins from Pills Costly, Says Agent

Taking part of our daily supply of nutrients in the form of a pill is a rather expensive way to meet daily nutritional requirements, claims Mrs. Frances T. Clark, County Extension Agent in Home Economics.

If conditions in this country were such that food supplies were inadequate for good nutrition, then the taking of vitamin pills would be well worth the extra money.

With the great variety and abundance of food on the market today, there is no reason why we cannot get all the nutrients we need from natural sources. Of course, there are exceptions. For example, people on special diets or those convalescing from an illness often need extra vitamins and these will be prescribed by a doctor. Also, children living in certain areas of the country, such as Michigan, where the incidence of sunshine is low, often need vitamin D supplement.

What are some nutritional reasons for not using vitamin pills as our source of these nutrients? Mrs. Clark explains most of the vitamin supplements on the market today are of extremely high potency. Some of the advertisements will provide hundreds of times the daily requirements of the vitamins. This, added to the intake from food we eat, would really give us large doses of vitamins each day. As yet, the nutrition researcher says, there is no valid scientific evidence to indicate that these large excesses of vitamins are beneficial to the body.

In fact, the intake of large quantities of fat-soluble vitamins, such as A and D, taken over a long period of time, can be harmful. Several cases of hy-percalcemia with A and D, have been reported and were found to be caused by the excessive use of high potency vitamin preparations. It would be almost impossible to consume toxic doses of vitamins from food alone, due to nature's protective device, the limited capacity of the stomach.

Mrs. Clark states that the possibility of creating a harmful imbalance by the indiscriminate addition of vitamins to our diet is one that research workers have just recently turned up. There is an increasing amount of scientific evidence to indicate that interrelationships among certain vitamins does exist. These of the B vitamins; thiamine, riboflavin and niacin, are an example of this. Although the exact ideal proportions of these are not known, there is an indication that the body's ability to use any one of them efficiently depends to a great extent on the amount of the other two. And so, any tampering with this balance might be unwise.

Again, imbalance caused by different combinations of food would not be very great because of the relatively smaller quantities of vitamins present. Another fact to remember is that all the vitamins have not been discovered yet. So, if we rely too heavily on pure, synthetic vitamin supplements at the expense of food sources, we may be missing some of the as yet unidentified factors.

Although we can get our nutritional requirements from natural sources with proper selection, Mrs. Clark states that she recognizes the psychological value of the pill. Taking pills may ease the minds of people troubled by the possibility that their eating habits or methods of food preparation may be leaving them deficient in vitamins. To these vitamin-conscious people, she suggests they read labels and select low-potency vitamin preparations instead of high potency ones. Such preparations would not be less expensive, but would lessen some of the possible unfavorable effects she has pointed out.

It will take better quality hay than most farmers put up to make pelleting a paying proposition, says dairy nutrition researchers at Michigan State University.

MICHIGAN MIRROR NEWS BRIEFS

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association
Unparalleled challenges face
G. Mennen Williams, his all-Democratic administration and half-Democratic legislature in 1959, the most difficult since Michigan became a state 112 years ago. Michigan is broke and faces a $100,000,000 deficit as the legislature convenes.

During a decade in office, Williams has asked for more money to expand virtually all services.
The problem has not been a simple one for Williams or his political opponents.

Williams on one side is pushing for more services to accommodate the state's booming population. Republicans, on the other hand, are trying to perform services within the framework of available funds.

Williams, in effect, says it is impossible without more revenue.
Republicans partially agree, but say some frills of government can be eliminated and the money diverted to the necessities.

Democrats won an even 55-55 split in the House of Representatives last Nov. 4, and there lies the problem for the party.

Everything accomplished or not accomplished by the House will now be half the responsibility of each party. The situation leaves Republican politicians rejoicing, in a "sour grapes" sort of way.

The proposed income tax program logically will start in the House, since a House-sponsored study committee is making the proposal after two years of research.

Because that is the case, the Senate must wait on the House before moving ahead on appropriations. The key to the 1959 session, thus, is the House.

There are really critical needs in higher education, public health, mental health and public welfare, where a deficit of up to $15,000,000 will exist next June 30.

Prisons are overcrowded. The new medium security institution at Ionia is half-complete, with no further appropriation in sight to make it a model of correctional endeavor.

Williams has remained silent on how to pay for the necessary increases in spending.

In the past, he has pushed hard for a corporation profits tax, but without success. Last year he urged a boost in the intangibles levy until it was noted that thousands of private bank accounts would be affected.

He has refused to go on record for or against the new income tax proposal, though it is obvious that influential Democrats in the legislature are opposed to it.

Another controversy revolves around this point.

Williams takes the constitutional view that the legislature must raise enough money to cover the cost of government by some means at its disposal. This, of course, means taxes someone must pay.

The legislature reasons that an administrator, Gov. Williams, must not only go into detail about the needs of the state, but recommend plausible means to pay for them.

Williams advanced the corporation profits tax until Republicans came up with the idea that high taxes in Michigan are driving business out of the state.
His intangibles tax idea was borrowed from a preliminary report of the Republican legislative study committee.

Michigan's financial structure makes it a state subject to crises.

When the state levies a tax, local governments contend that they are eligible for a share of its yield. In too many cases, funds are earmarked for specific uses so the legislature has little control of money spent.

That's why, for instance, the state gets only a small share of the sales tax. The school system gets two of the three per cent, a half per cent goes to the state and the other half per cent goes to cities, townships and villages.

Each government unit gets its percentage regardless of need.

A similar situation affects most of the tax plans in effect in the state.

The whole picture presents the challenge to Williams and his Democratic administration.

Major responsibility has shifted, by the vote of the people in the last election, to Democrats.
The last remaining hold Republicans have is in the Senate, where they have a 24 to 12 majority.
This, gives them an important "veto" power. Legislation must now be passed in the House, where there is an even party split; passed in the Senate, which is Republican controlled; not vetoed by the Democratic Governor.
