Honor Gillettes At Farewell Party

Rev. and Mrs. George Gillette were honored by 86 members of the congregation of the Fraser Presbyterian Church last week at a farewell family night gathering.

Members enjoyed a hymn sing and dedicated a new addition to the church. A lunch was served at the conclusion of the program.

The Gillettes have been at the Fraser and Uby Presbyterian Churches for three and a half years. He is leaving his pastorate here to assume the reins at the Presbyterian Church in Ithaca. The couple has three children.

Various organizations of the church presented the Gillettes with gifts at the farewell party. They received a floor lamp from the Men's Council and a quilt from the Ladies Aid. The Youth Fellowship presented Rev. Gillette with cuff links and a tie clasp and the choir gave him a shirt.

Newly elected President C. R. Hunt appointed standing committees at the first regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council since the Mar. 9 election.

Mrs. MacRae was appointed chairman for Michigan Week in Cass City. President Hunt is expected to exchange with the president of Ovid during mayors' exchange day.

Village Taxes

An increase in the assessed valuation will increase the village tax revenue by over $3,000 this year, a report from Village Assessor C. J. Striffler showed.

Real property totaled $2,161,200, up $208,400 from last year's assessment of $1,952,800. Personal property increased from $456,580 last year to $475,600 this year. Most of the increase was in improved or new buildings in the community. The tax rate remains the same at 15 mills.

Tuesday's meeting was the first for two newly elected trustees, Lee Rabideau and Leo Ware.

The council settled an issue tabled from the last meeting when trustees voted to have the village pay the expense for repairing frozen water lines on the village's side of the sidewalk.

For Many Outstanding Abilities

Name Members of Honor Society

By Arthur Holmberg

Traditional candlelight ceremonies marked the annual induction service of the National Honor Society Wednesday morning when 38 Cass City High School students were named to the local honors group. Twenty previously elected members carried out the program, under the direction of Dave Ackerman, faculty sponsor, and the chairmanship of Janet Auslander, senior member.

Speaking on the significance of the Honor Society emblem and the four-fold requirement of character, scholarship, leadership and service were Suzanne Starmann, Bill Ruhl, Mary Ann Hobart, Sue Edzik and Forrest Walpole. Membership cards and certificates were presented by Eli Holes, assistant principal.

This week's inductions brought to a total of 18 the honor society members of the Class of 1959. Leading the way scholastically is Judith Gremel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Gremel, who has a perfect A record for her entire high school career. This year's valedictorian has been especially active in forensic pursuits, having been three times a member of the debating team and a delegate to the Hillsdale College Model United Nations Assembly this month. Her extra-curricular activities also included participation in the Future Teachers Club and the post of class treasurer in her senior year. Judith plans to teach and will attend Central Michigan or Michigan State University.

Salutatorian honors were earned this year by Margaret Shaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brewster Shaw. An outstanding student, Peggy, as she is better known, has included a generous variety of school activities in her busy four years. While she may be best known as a four-year member of the cheerleading squad, she has also been a member of Student Council, active on a host of committees and in several clubs and has rendered service to the school as student librarian and secretary. Peggy has been accepted for study at the University of Michigan.

Always interested in his shop courses, David Ackerman has made plans to enter Western Michigan University at Kalamazoo next fall to follow an Industrial Arts program. Among his activities have been both track and basketball, student council membership and singing in the Men's Choir.

Many of her teachers will remember the dependable help they received from Janet Auslander, who found time to serve as an assistant in the library, the school offices and the elementary classrooms. Janet was treasurer of her class as a junior and a member of several clubs. In addition to her school work, she has been very active in the program of her church.

First hour will not seem quite the same without Dian Cardew, for two years student secretary in Mr. Holes' office. Her secretarial duties also extended to the class during its junior year and to the student council as a senior. She was for two years a member of the UN delegation. Dian is accepted at Alma College and presently thinks she would very much enjoy making teaching her career.

Many who heard the Princeton, popular boys' quartet, marveled at the full rich bass tones of which Bob Copeland was capable. His talents also included athletics. Bob made fine contributions to varsity football and basketball. Interested in science and mechanics, Bob may study in some field of Engineering.

September should find Sue Edzik busy at Central Michigan where she plans to major in Education. She has had experience as a student teacher and has been active in the Future Teachers' Club. Two years of Debating and a variety of clubs and activities have made her high school career a busy one.

Phyllis Gelatt has found vocal music one of her chief interests. As a member of the "Starlite Trio" and the high school choir, she has developed her musical interest to the point where she may consider music as a career. Always an active church worker, she has applied for studies at Grand Rapids Baptist Theological Seminary and Bible Institute.

Teaching may find another recruit in Mary Gracey after her studies at Central Michigan are completed. Mary will be remembered as majorette with the band for several years. As a senior, she was finance chairman of the student council and served on the annual staff.

Tying for third position in her class scholastically is Carolyn Gross. Her popularity among the students was shown by her election as 1958 Homecoming Queen. Varsity cheerleading, student council membership and assistance as office secretary have helped to round out a full high school career. Carolyn looks forward to the study of nursing with Hurley Hospital at Flint.

Sharing third spot in the academic ladder is Mary Ann Hobart who thinks she would rather be a Homemaker teacher than anything else. Mary Ann has been varsity cheer leader, student council treasurer and a member of this year's annual staff. Always a strong booster for Cass City High School, she will study either at Central Michigan or Michigan State.

Little League To Organize

Wayne Wilson, director, announced this week that there will be a meeting to organize a Little League Thursday night, Mar. 26, at 7 p.m. at Cass City High School.

All boys interested in playing should come in the north entrance of the school, Wilson said.

The league is open to all boys between the ages of eight and 12 who will not be 13 until July.

Dr. Carrick to Leave Cass City Sunday Evening

Dr. George Carrick announced this week that he will leave Cass City Sunday to start advanced dental study in the east.

Dr. Carrick has been associated with Dr. D. E. Rawson for several years. While in Cass City he became a vital part of the community. An active Lions Club member, he was responsible, as director, for many of the fine minstrel shows that the Lions produced in Cass City.

Dr. Carrick expressed regrets over leaving his many friends and patients in the community and expressed appreciation for their help while he was a member of the community.

Dr. Carrick has been accepted in schools in Pittsburgh, Boston and Philadelphia. He said that he would know his future in three months and that the course might take well over a year to complete.

His plans after completing his advanced studies are indefinite, Dr. Carrick said.

Annual Chamber Banquet Tuesday

A varied program highlighted by an address by Jack Esau and presentation of plaques to local industrialists is scheduled for the annual banquet of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night at Cass City High School.

Mr. Esau will speak of retelling in a talk entitled "You Have to Accentuate the Positive and Eliminate the Negative." In this address, Mr. Esau will outline latest trends in buying habits and suggest changes retailers should make to keep abreast with modern retailing practices.

Cliff Croft, president of the Cass City Development Corporation, will present plaques to the heads of local industries in appreciation of what their combined payrolls, estimated at a million

From the Editor's Corner

It looks as if the serious flood threat is over for the Cass City area. The alternating thaw and freeze has let the water slip away gradually . . . just what the area has been hoping for.

We printed a story last week of further action by the M-81 Highway Extension Association. We drove over the Cass City Road last week when it was frozen and can see why the group has been so active in trying to secure a better road.

There is a series of deep holes in the road that must make it virtually impassable now that the weather has warmed again. Some were over a foot deep. Cass City Road is one of the principal farm-to-market roads in western Sanilac County and we believe warrants more attention by the county highway department than it is receiving.

The Gavel Club Invitational Track Meet this spring could well be one of the biggest spring sports events in the Thumb and is certainly the most ambitious attempted in Cass City. Upwards of 25 schools are expected to participate and the club is now formulating plans to release more details of the event which we will pass on to you as they occur.

BULEN TALKS Cars

POOR MILEAGE CAN BE YOUR FAULT

When you complain about poor mileage don't blame your car or the gasoline you're using, because chances are the blame generally lies in improper car maintenance or improper driving habits.

Under-inflated tires, for instance, can decrease your mileage, as well as prematurely wear out your tires. It's the same with a dirty air filter that can starve your mixture and consequently cut mileage by as much as 10 per cent. Other factors can be a faulty manifold heat control valve... improperly adjusted choke... faulty spark plugs... incorrect plug or point settings... a plugged or bent tail pipe... a faulty radiator thermostat that causes slow warmup... or even the crankcase oil being too heavy.

Your personal driving habits can also be to blame. Sustained driving at 60 miles per hour, or greater, increases gas consumption by 10 per cent to 15 per cent over driving at 50 miles an hour. City driving is also hard on gasoline. If you pace your driving to traffic and to traffic lights to avoid unnecessary stops you can save one gallon out of four.

Fast stops and starts, jackrabbit getaways and traffic weaving are other gas wasters. So drive intelligently. It's safer... easier... and more economical.

At BULEN MOTORS you'll find that all of our used cars have been thoroughly checked for these gas-robbing faults. They're all ready to give you miles and miles of dependable... economical transportation. The other factors are up to you.

STUBBORN SAFE—It took better than 24 hours of solid work with a torch and a crowbar to open this safe from the Cass City State Bank. A crew from C. R. Hunt Construction Co. started at the bank at 9 a. m. Sunday and with the aid of heavy equipment finally moved the 3,880-pound safe from the building by 1 p. m.

At the Hunt Garage a crew worked from 1 to 5 p. m. Sunday afternoon and the safe still refused to open. It was not until 3:30 p. m. Monday that the money was finally extracted from the safe. The safe had been locked shut since Mar. 11, when automatic time clocks failed to trigger the locking mechanism of the safe. Ironically, the clocks had just been repaired and returned from the factory.

The safe was purchased in 1882 and brought to Cass City by teams of horses. Its weight made it a big job for movers of the period.

South Tyre District Nixes Annexation

South Tyre school district in Austin township in Sanilac county defeated a proposal to annex to the Ubyly high school district at a special election Saturday.

There were 18 no votes and 15 yes votes as about half of the eligible voters cast ballots.

The district has been sending all their students to the Ubyly school since their school closed. It has another year before it must either reopen the school or annex to another district.

Livestock Health Hints

Prepared by American Foundation for Animal Health

Farmers who raise hogs are becoming more concerned every year over the spread of erysipelas.

They do so with reason, because this swine crippler and killer has now climbed to second place in the nation as a top contagious disease of hogs... second only to cholera. It is costing farmers a booming total of over $24,000,000 a year at the present time.

Enlarged joints are characteristic of one form of swine erysipelas.

The bacterium which causes erysipelas is really a tough one. It resists smoking, freezing, drying, and even pickling. It can linger in the soil for a long time and then cause fresh outbreaks. It is often introduced into a clean herd by "carrier" pigs which harbor the germ without being sick themselves.

Hog producers experience their worst erysipelas losses from the acute form of the disease. This type of outbreak strikes suddenly. Pigs tend to remain in their nests, squeal if forced to move, walk on tiptoes, have poor appetites and may vomit. Sometimes red or purple blotches and bumps appear on the skin. One of the confusing problems is that some of these symptoms also resemble cholera or other diseases, and it takes careful study by a veterinarian to make sure which condition has to be dealt with.

Another form, chronic erysipelas, produces arthritis, sometimes sloughing of the skin, swollen joints, and causes economic losses due to unthriftiness and stunting.

There are several steps to be taken against erysipelas. These include: 1) having pigs vaccinated in areas where the disease has been a problem; 2) isolating all newly-purchased animals for at least 30 days, to give latent disease a chance to show up.

It is also worth noting that the germs causing erysipelas can affect human beings, and some farmers and veterinarians working with swine have contracted a painful form of the disease known as human "erysiploid."

Evergreen 4-H Club Exhibits Articles

The Evergreen Guys and Gals 4-H Club exhibited articles at the Spring Achievement held at Marlette High School Thursday. Projects completed included clothing, handicraft, knitting, money management, electrical and junior leadership.

Sixteen members were chosen for the county honor roll. The club's junior leader, Janet Auslander, was mistress of ceremonies. A group of five girls from the club sang in the talent show and will compete at the final county achievement at Deckerville.

Other winners were David Burk, nail driving contest, and Linda Peters, needle threading contest.

After the program, the exhibits were brought to the Evergreen Township School for a local achievement held Monday evening. Each member was introduced and the leaders of both winter and summer 4-H work were recognized. Two groups of girls sang several songs.

The Want Ads Are Newsworthy!

THE power that parents have over their children arises from that duty which is incumbent upon them to take care of their offspring during the imperfect state of childhood. To inform the mind, and govern the actions of their yet ignorant nonage, till reason shall take its place and ease them of that trouble, is what the children want, and what the parents are bound to.—Locke.

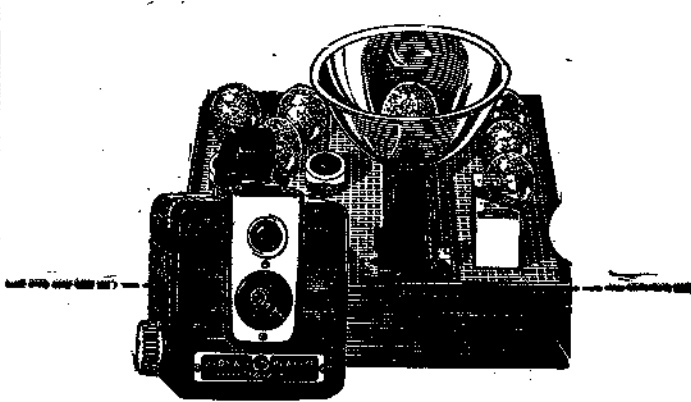

From the first moment of life, men ought to begin learning to deserve to live; and, as at the instant of birth we partake of the rights of citizenship, that instant ought to be the beginning of the exercise of our duty. If there are laws for the age of maturity, there ought to be laws for infancy, teaching obedience to others. And as the reason of each man is not left to be the sole arbiter of his duties, government ought the less indiscriminately to abandon to the intelligence and prejudices of fathers the education of their children, as that education is of still greater importance to the State than to the fathers. For, according to the course of nature, the death of the father often deprives him of the final fruits of education but his country sooner or later perceives its effects. Families dissolve—but the State remains.—Rousseau.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

I see by the papers where this scientist in the pentagon building says if them space gadgets can land men on the moon, it'll be easy to explore Mars from there. He has the opinion that we'll find some sort of folks living on Mars.

Now I ain't got no objection to a feller having an opinion, because you newspaper folks has 'em all the time whether you got any facts on hand or not. But if them science fellers thinks folks is living on Mars they ought to keep quiet about it. They ought to turn their attention to inventing better striking matches and easier riding cultivators and let Mars alone.

We can't even run the world we got, let alone taking on another one. Right now half the world we got is starving to death and luxury is about to get the best of the other half. And we don't git through with one war till we start stockpiling fer the next one.

And fer all we know, the folks on Mars ain't no better off than us, and about the second or third trip we make up there, after we git communications established, the Government on Mars will be trying to git a loan from us. And after we finish financing the world we got, I don't think we could stand another one. Of course, there's a chance that the folks on Mars is in gooder shape than we are, and in that case we might swing a loan from them. But that's mighty risky and I think we'd be playing the percentages if we'd let Mars alone.

We had a exciting session up at the country store Saturday night. Ed Doolittle's grandpaw is visiting him and he was the center of attraction. He's 94 year old and can shake out more philosophy than a long-haired, wet dog can shake out water. Grandpaw says that with all these wonder drugs and vitamin pills, this generation coming on now ain't got no excuse fer ever dying. He allowed as how if he'd had them things when he was coming along he'd live to be older than Methuselah.

Grandpaw told the fellers that he'd been going to church regular fer 80 years and not once had a preacher ever writ him a letter asking about his immortal soul without adding a postscript requesting he git his pledge paid up. But he's a mighty religious feller, said he tried to live so's the preacher that preached his funeral wouldn't have to ask the

Both folders deal with symptoms, cause, conditions favoring the diseases, control of diseases and control of insects and mites.

A copy of either folder is free for the asking at the county extension office located at the courthouse, Caro. The black spot folder is F-277 and the powdery mildew folder is numbered F-276.

Michigan Mirror News In Brief

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association
Motorists pay for their own highways in Michigan.
They pay slightly under a half-cent a mile in gasoline taxes to the state and slightly under a quarter-cent in Federal taxes. This amounts to 6 cents per gallon at state level; 3 cents per gallon at federal. Then add 3 per cent state sales tax.

In addition, there is the weight tax paid by buying annual license plates.
Motorists paid an estimated $188,000,000 in state gasoline taxes last year, a husky sum, according to any standard.
The Associated Petroleum Industries of Michigan, Inc., said the average car traveled 14 miles on each gallon of gas last year. Average consumption was 731 gallons.

William Palmer, association executive secretary, advised motorists that the tax they paid in state gasoline taxes can be deducted from their Federal income tax.

"Motorists may be surprised at how much gasoline taxes they paid last year," he said.
The traditional average of 10-

000 miles a year per car shows a $42.86 state gasoline tax and $21.43 in Federal gasoline tax payments. The Federal tax cannot be deducted.

Palmer warned that the averages are merely guides, and that actual mileage and gasoline consumption should be used in computing the tax.

If a motorist drove 5,000 miles in a year, the averages show he paid $32.14 in total gasoline taxes. This ranges upward to $128.57 if he drove 20,000 miles.

Joint operation of a television station by education and commercial interests was pioneered March 15 with the first programs of WMSB-TV and WLLX-TV.

They share Channel 10 with a unique combination of academic and commercial interests.

Michigan State University (WMSB-TV) broadcasts on the channel during afternoon and some evening hours, with the commercial side of the operation taking the rest of the schedule.

Voters will decide April 6 whether to give the legislature power to keep state and local governments operating in time of war disaster.

Under the plan, any government wiped out by an enemy attack could be immediately replaced by legislative act to function until orderly processes are restored.

The resolution does not cover the odd prospect of a bomb landing on the capitol during a legislative session and wiping out the legislature.

Momentum is gathering behind a proposal to reduce the number of state employees, now about 30,000, by refusing to fill vacancies as they occur.

The bill would leave vacant 50 per cent of the vacancies the first year, 25 per cent the second year, until the present payroll is cut 20 per cent.

There are expected to be changes in the proposal to protect smaller agencies in which vacancies would hamper operations.

Politics is getting its annual mid-term workout in Michigan.

Republicans are jubilant at the thought that the state's financial crisis will torpedo any chance Gov. Williams has for his party's 1960 presidential nomination.

Democrats, certain that Williams will leave the state scene after 12 years at the helm, are playing musical chairs for the top spot on the 1960 state ticket.

At present, it seems that Paul D. Bagwell, the Michigan State University professor who gave Williams his best run in six years, is the top Republican candidate.

Democrats are taking a close look at Secretary of State James M. Hare, who led the ticket in 1958, and Lt. Gov. John B. Swainson, the personable young man the party feels has a great future. Frank Blackford, another personable young man who has held numerous government positions during the past 10 years, is said to have gubernatorial potential.

Wisest remark yet concerning Michigan's business climate might have been made last week by Walter Wightman, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau, at the 10th anniversary of Farm Bureau Insurance Companies.

Previous speakers had referred somewhat bitterly to Michigan's reputation for having a poor economic atmosphere. Mr. Wightman remarked in an offhand manner that he is proud of Michigan and that he loves living here.

When it comes to economy, he said, he thought farmers feel the same way about the state as they do their farms. It is nice to be here-- but it's nicer still to know they can afford to own it.

It's a lot easier to get into the habit of saying friend than it is to get into the habit of being friendly.

The man who owns the race track earns his daily bread by the sweat of some other fellow's brow.

World peace wouldn't seem so remote if we could manage to have a little more neighborhood peace.

It's impossible for some people to turn over a new leaf because the pages are all gummed up.

Things will come your way only when you decide to go after them.

Why don't you invite spring in to your home this month with an arrangement of branches in full bloom? Some tree and shrub branches can be forced into bloom during these late months of winter. Select branches that usually flower in the early spring. Or you may choose branches from trees and shrubs that usually flower in the summer, but which can be forced into leaf. You can identify the flower buds since they are generally larger and of a different shape than the leaf buds.

For the best results, choose branches that have numerous flower or leaf buds, and use branches that would normally flower or leaf about a month from the time you cut them. If you would like to work with something easy, I would suggest the pussy willow or the forsythia. Other branches considered easy to force are from the flowering quince, red bud, cornelian cherry, fragrant honeysuckle and shod-blow.

You should cut the branches on a mild day, using a knife or pruning shears. Place the cut ends in large vases or containers of water and set in a cool room or cellar. As soon as the buds are plump and begin to swell, move them into a warmer room with plenty of light. Frequent doses of warm water help the buds to swell and the tiny leaves to open.

Some branches are more difficult to force. These come from cherry, apple and peach trees and lilac, magnolia, flowering dogwood, spice bush and deutzia shrubs.

Branches that are difficult to force should be submerged flat in a tub of warm water after they are cut. Leave them about 15 minutes, then place the cut ends in large containers of cool water.

With some of the harder woods, such as crabapple and lilac, it helps to actually crush the stem ends by pounding them with a mallet before placing them in water. Branches may be sprayed with water or moistened by holding under a faucet several times a day. This softens and soaks the buds much as spring rains, and hurries buds into growth.

After the buds are quite plump, they may be brought into a warm room and arranged in vases or bowls.

Since forced flowers and leaves are tender, they should not be given full sunlight. They will keep fresh longer in a cool, humid room rather than in a hot dry room.

A real diplomat is a man who has the ability to convince people that they want what he wants them to want.

It's the people who have a great deal to their credit who can always be trusted.

The fellow who feels that he has a message for the world seldom puts into practice what he preaches.

KILLED BY DOGS—The deer herd in Tuscola County has weathered the severe winter in good condition, but several have been killed by wild dogs this year. William Parrott points to one of two killed on his farm, southwest of Cass City, recently. Killed were a doe and a fawn. Both were in good physical condition prior to their death and the tracks of the dogs and the signs of the struggle were plainly visible on the ice of the Cass River where the deer were found.

Masonic Festival Slated in Caro

Fifty or more Tuscola county Free and Accepted Masons will receive the four Royal Arch Chapter degrees Saturday, April 11, at the Caro Masonic Temple.

Leo M. Bills, High Priest of the Caro Royal Arch Chapter, has appointed Percy R. Gram of Caro as general chairman of a celebration to be known as a Royal Arch Masonic Festival, to start at 2:00 p.m. and to run through the evening. Prior to the evening work, a roast turkey supper will be served by the ladies of Kedron Chapter, OES.

This is the first festival of this kind held by Caro Chapter, which was constituted Jan. 19, 1876. The large class, made up of Masons from various parts of the county, will be known as the "Joseph H. Beckton Memorial Class," in memory of Mr. Beckton who was High Priest of Caro Chapter from 1909, 50 years ago, until 1917.

The first three degrees will be exemplified by local chapter officers in the afternoon. In the evening, the Royal Arch degree will be conferred on the class by a degree team from Joppa and Saginaw Valley Chapters of Saginaw, under the direction of Walter D. Strobel, Grand High Priest of Michigan.

Mr. Bills said that there is still time for any Blue Lodge Mason of the county to become a member of the memorial class, but that it will be necessary that all petitions be mailed to Secretary Dorr N. Wiltse of Caro before April 2.

Members of Caro Chapter serving on the committees for this event included John and Richard Bayley of Cass City.

And with some people it isn't the principle—it's the money.

Be sure you are right—then get someone else to do it for you.

Belittle your work and people will believe you are justified.

HONOR SOCIETY

member of the quartet. Bill was recently named president of the newly formed Science Club. With pharmacy his vocational choice, he will study next year at Ferris.

Another of Cass City's attractive cheerleaders, Suzanne Starmann, has been given a number of important assignments both by her class and the student council through the years. Her time has also been devoted to service as student secretary and work on the annual staff. Alma College is her choice for further study.

Two years as a student teacher and the leadership of the Future Teachers' Club this year have helped Susan Tjo decide that this will be her field of work. Her school will be either Western Michigan or Albion. Susan has been active in the band, as a member of Spanish Club and the annual staff.

Janet Walmsley would have been happy had her high school provided more opportunity for girls in Physical Education for this has long been one of her interests. She has also for many years been an ardent 4-H worker. She hopes to attend college, perhaps Central Michigan, and plans to major in Education.

With the highest scholastic rank of any boy in his class, Forrest Walpole has been an excellent exhibit of the possibility of combining top achievement in both athletics and studies. Outstanding in every sport, Forrest received local, area and state recognition for his work. His many other interests included the boys' quartet and choir, the Varsity Club, of which he was president as a senior, and the student council, in which he served as program chairman. Forrest plans to study Chemical Engineering. He has not yet made a definite choice of school.

In addition to the seniors, 31 other students in the junior and senior high school joined the Honor Society this week. The list includes the following:

11th grade

Kathleen Bartle, Thomas Malleck and Janet McConkey.

10th grade

Paul Holmberg, Thelma Krueger, Marvin McCormick, Linda Richards, James Reid and Susan Shaw.

Nancy Behr, Robert Bullock, Wayne Dillon, Roberta Horner, Pamela Hurd, Thomas Jones, Leonard Lubaczewski, Heather Milligan, Jacqueline Pelton, James Rawson, Roger Root and Donna Scharich.

8th grade

Kathy Ballard, Billy Dobbs, Chestertine Kloc, Elizabeth Matlack and Joanne Miljure.

7th grade

Maryanne Barriger, Fred Reid, Pamela Gee, Martin Yedinak and Gunta Zalte.

Beavers and Otters Beware!

Michigan's beaver and otter trapping seasons open March 20 in five lower peninsula areas and April 1 in four upper peninsula areas. Season lengths and bag limits are adjusted from year-to-year by the Conservation Department, according to varying populations and trapping conditions in each of the nine areas. This game management program is considered a key to improved trapper success. Trappers enjoyed a record beaver and otter harvest last year.

The sting of defeat lingers long after the applause of victory.

Experience is a great teacher—it helps a man to help himself.

Some folks show their greatest strength pulling the wrong way.

HOW DOES YOUR TOWN MEASURE UP?

An industry always takes the measure of a town before thinking seriously of locating a plant there.

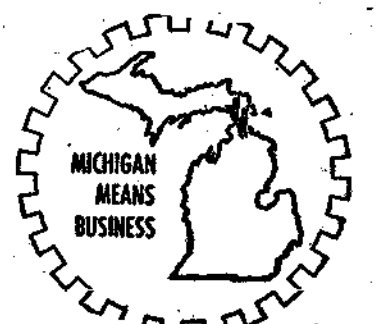

Make your own check list and measure your town for yourself.

You might start by marking yes or no on each of the following questions: Does our town have good industrial sites?; Financing available for plant construction?; Modern and adequate schools?; Attractive shopping facilities?; Pleasant residential sections?; Well supported churches?; Good streets and highways?;

Progressive municipal government?; Adequate public services?; Widespread community spirit?; Strong civic leadership?; Wise zoning provisions?; Good community planning?

If your check list shows much room for improvement, it indicates the job to be done.

Join hands with your local industrial development organization and the Michigan Economic Development Department to help your community prosper.

This ad is one of a series published as a public service by this newspaper in cooperation with the Michigan Press Association and the Michigan Economic Development Department.

We hear much, these days, about the effects of stress on human beings . . . but many farmers are not aware that stress helps to cause health problems in livestock, too.

For example, there is a dairy cattle disease known as "ketosis" which is believed to be brought on in part by stress factors. Ketosis is causing dairy farmers a loss of approximately $5,000,000 per year, and for that reason has been made one of the prime targets of National Livestock Loss Prevention Year in 1959.

High producing cows are most likely victims of ketosis.

One unfortunate thing about ketosis is that it usually strikes the high-producing cows during the years when their milk yields are at top levels . . . from the second fresh period on.

Many authorities believe that the drain on these cows may be greater than the nourishment they are receiving, and that this may enter into the causative picture. Also, an endocrine gland imbalance has been cited as another possible factor.

When a cow develops ketosis, she may show either high excitability or indifference. Sometimes her appetite will fail, and she will lose weight. Also, there will be a drop in milk production, and the sick animal may develop incoordination or slight paralysis.

Fortunately, these victims of ketosis can be brought back to normal if they are given treatment promptly enough. The veterinarian usually injects medicines directly into the blood stream, and there is often marked improvement within 24 hours after treatment is administered. The key to success in these cases is to get treatment started with utmost promptness.

Preventive steps are important, too. These include: protecting cows against stress and exposure, no drastic changes in feed volume just before calving, use of thoroughly-balanced rations, and bringing cows to maximum grain feeding as soon as possible after calving. Quality hay and roughage are also an essential part of prevention and treatment.

Freedom

INTERPRETING freedom as the multiplication and rapid satisfaction of desires, men distort their own nature, for many senseless and foolish desires and habits and ridiculous fancies are fostered in them. They live only for mutual envy, for luxury and ostentation. To have dinners, visits, carriages, rank, and slaves to wait on one is looked upon as a necessity for which life, honor, and human feeling are sacrificed, and men even commit suicide if they are unable to satisfy it. We see the same thing among those who are not rich, while the poor drown their unsatisfied need and their envy in drunkenness . . . I ask you: Is such a man free? — Dostoevsky.

The freedom of man, and liberty of acting according to his own will, is grounded on his having reason, which is able to instruct him in that law he is to govern himself by, and make him know how far he is left to the freedom of his own will. To turn him loose to an unrestrained liberty, before he has reason to guide him, is not allowing him the privilege of his nature to be free, but is thrusting him out among brutes, and abandoning him to a state as wretched and as much beneath that of a man as theirs. (This is that which puts the authority into the parents' hands to govern the minority of their children.) — John Locke.

Misery loves company, but usually the company picks up and heads for home.

SPREADERS

Low loading height, 75-80 bushel capacity . . . just two of the many features that make the LS 300 a leader in its field. Rugged steel angle frame construction allows box to set low, still have large capacity. Weight on 2-wheel models is balanced for easy handling. Auto-turn front axle on 4 wheel models allows short turns. Spreaders can be backed into barn with ease.

High grade, clear wood-box is specially treated to lengthen life. Wide, tapered bottom helps move manure to rear. Two beaters driven by single heavy-duty steel chain shred manure evenly. Carbon steel distributor blades pulverize the manure, spread it over ground in a wide, even pattern. Distributor is specially designed to eliminate possibility of blank spots in the row. Balanced 3-lobe feed cam lets you spread 3, 6, 9, 12, or 15 loads per acre. Handy hitch screw jack serves as stand for loading, folds out of way when spreader is in use. Eight models to choose from: 2 or 4 wheel tractor-drawn, 4-wheel horse-drawn.

Patented distributor shreds and spreads manure in wide, even pattern.

Extra large feed roller gives 5 ac. waste feeding range for controlled spreading.

Tell Results of Bean Test Plots

During the 1958 crop year Tuscola county along with Huron, Saginaw, Bay, Sanilac, Shiawassee and Isabella counties, cooperated with eleven bean growers in this bean growing area of Michigan to conduct bean variety test plots. The purpose of these tests is to obtain performance data on bean varieties in the bean growing areas of Michigan, said Alfred Ballweg, county extension director. In addition to yield performance varieties are also checked for disease resistance, maturity, screening and per cent pick.

Included in the 1958 trials were Michelite, Sanilac, "Strain C" and "211". Average yields for each variety in the eleven different test plots were: Michelite, 20.8 bushels per acre; Sanilac, 24.8 bushels per acre; Strain C, 22.8 bushels per acre, and 18.9 bushels per acre for "211." Yields in bushels per acre were calculated after screenings and pick were removed.

Using the yield of Michelite as a base or 100 per cent, Sanilac yielded 119 per cent of Michelite, Strain C, 110 per cent and "211" 90 per cent of Michelite.

Growers should keep in mind that these are only one year's results. Per cent screenings through a 11/64 screen were Michelite, 8.3 per cent; Sanilac, 1.7 per cent; Strain C, 1.9 per cent; "211", 7.4 per cent. Per cent pick for Michelite was 2.4 per cent; Sanilac, 1.0 per cent; Strain C, 0.6 per cent; "211", 1.6 per cent.

Bean mosaic, a disease of beans, also caused severe injury and reduced yields in one of the test plots, according to Ballweg. Two of the eleven growers were in Tuscola county—Milton Bedore of Columbia township, and Fred Korthals of Gilford.

A lot of good resolutions are manufactured the morning after.

Conservation in Classrooms

"Conservation in the schools," an important medium of educating younger generations in the wise use of natural resources, is the 1959 theme for National Wildlife Week, March 15-21. The theme reiterates the philosophy of educators and conservationists by stressing the need for a conservation curriculum in our schools. In Michigan, the departments of public instruction and conservation work jointly in shaping the program of conservation education.

the Great Books speak to Today...

Habit and Custom
CUSTOM is the great guide of human life. It is that principle alone which renders our experience useful to us, and makes us expect, for the future, a similar train of events with those which have appeared in the past. Without the influence of custom, we should be entirely ignorant of every matter beyond what is immediately present to the memory and senses. We should never know how to adjust means to ends, or to employ our natural powers in the production of any effect. There would be an end at once of all action, as well as of the chief part of speculation. — David Hume.

Each man is improved and preserved by corresponding acts — the carpenter by acts of carpentry; the grammarian by acts of grammar. But if a man accustoms himself to write ungrammatically, of necessity his art will be corrupted and destroyed. Thus modest actions preserve the modest man, and immodest actions destroy him; and actions of fidelity preserve the faithful man, and the contrary actions destroy him. And on the other hand contrary actions strengthen contrary characters: shamelessness strengthens the shameless man, faithlessness the faithless man, abusive words the abusive man, anger the man of an angry temper, and unequal receiving and giving make the avaricious man more avaricious. — Epictetus.

History has a way of repeating itself, but gossip has history beat to a frazzle.

A heap of trouble could be avoided if people didn't use so much imagination.

The force of habit is the only force that motivates some people.

Money talks, but most folks have a hard time getting an interview.

Opportunity may knock—but it passes up the unprepared, the unequipped man.

The older people get the more stock they take in what their ancestors knew.

The want ads are newswy, too.

March 26-28 will see the results of over 700 4-H Club boys' and girls' winter projects on exhibition at the new Caro High School, states Bill Muller, County Extension Agent in 4-H.

Exhibits will be brought in by leaders on Thursday and set up in the cafeteria where judging will take place on Friday. Dress Revue judging for some 350 girls will take place on Saturday at 4:00 p.m. and the evening program is slated to start at 8:00 p.m.

The agent went on to say that 44 clubs will be exhibiting a wide variety of articles such as handicraft, electrical, small crafts, foods, knitting, clothing, junior leadership, and numerous other projects that they have participated in since last fall when winter 4-H club work got under way.
