Musall Suffers Major Injury In Sunday Accident

Robert Musall, 22, of Cass City was seriously injured Sunday when his new motorcycle ran into the back of a car driven by Esther Dorman, 35, of Cass City, who had stopped for a left hand turn. He was thrown into the windshield of another car, driven by Oran Watts, 32, of Flint.

Musall's arm was badly mangled and he suffered numerous other cuts and bruises. He was taken to Cass City Hospital where he underwent three hours of surgery to clean the wound. Musall will probably need further reconstruction surgery before it is determined how much use of the arm has been lost, according to authorities.

He will probably have to remain in the hospital for two or three weeks and may have to return for surgery after being released.

The accident happened at 11:45 a. m. at the corner of West Main and Brooker streets in Cass City. It was investigated by Lawrence Miller, state trooper, and the Cass City Police.

As yet, Musall has not been in condition to be questioned as to reasons he was not able to stop. The length of any skid marks has not been released.

Lost Ring Is Found Outdoors After Two Years

Thanks to the alertness of Tony Creteur, Mrs. Viola Hayes now has two diamond rings. A year ago last Christmas Mrs. Hayes lost her diamond ring and wedding band in the parking lot at Walbro Corporation where she is employed.

Despite a good deal of shoveling and searching in the snow the ring was never found. Giving the ring up for lost, Mrs. Hayes purchased another.

Then last week, Mr. Creteur found the ring in the lot near the place where it was lost. The diamond was undamaged but the setting was badly twisted and out of shape.

Red Cross Swimming Classes Scheduled

Red Cross swimming classes will start at the Cass City Recreation pool July 6 at 9:00 a. m., and will be given every Monday, Wednesday and Friday for six weeks with Derek Romain as instructor.

The first Monday morning, certificates from last year will be given and a schedule of courses made up.

It is expected that the classes will be drawn from Gagetown, Unionville and Snover as well as Cass City.

Adults Can Have Swimming Lessons

Eight adults were in the first swimming class last week. Mike Yedinak said that adult swimming will be held each Tuesday night.

If enough interest is shown, lessons will be given. Admission for the restricted evening swimming is 25 cents.

It's The Hands That Count Claims Swedish Masseur

"A good pair of hands is worth more than all the machines in the world," says Mr. Newell Manke, the man who has one of the most unusual professions in Cass City, that of Swedish masseur.

The dictionary definition of a Swedish massage is "to massage different muscles and joints of the body" but that somehow seems to be rather inadequate for the work done by Mr. Manke. Although the massage business was in full swing in the time of the ancient Egyptians, a college education is now necessary to practice. Manke attended the internationally famous College of Swedish Massage in Chicago in 1947 and after three years of practice, went back for post graduate courses.

Upon arriving at Manke's office, first stop is at the steam bath. Mrs. Manke is there to assist when needed although exposure is one thing very carefully guarded against.

In the steam cabinet, which Mr. Manke claims is the best type made, you sit on a small bench with only your head protruding while your body is bathed in mineral steam for a period of 10-15 minutes. The type of mineral each patient receives depends on the treatment needed. Oddly enough, common epsom salts are the most effective in most cases.

The Mankes can tell at the exact moment when each person is ready to come out of the bath by taking the pulse from the temporal artery. Even a patient with the extremely delicate heart condition of angina pectoris can feel safe. In fact, it is beneficial because it loosens the muscles and stimulates the blood flow.

After the steam bath, a soapy hot shower removes surface poisons and toxins that were previously in the system. The common sweat of work cannot bring out the poisons and toxins as it is more of an "ash" sweat, the remains of energy burned up, Manke explained.

After the bath, the real treatment begins on the massage table. Several machines are used to assist the masseur. One is the ordinary heat lamp; another is an ultra-violet lamp, and a third is the pedicure machine.

The pedicure machine gives an electric treatment that is especially good for sore or stiff necks, although it has many other uses. One, as the name implies, is foot treatments, especially where fallen arches and bone and muscle structure are concerned. The principal of the machine is to tighten the muscle and then release it, the whole process leaving a relaxed feeling.

Of course, most important is the massage around which the rest of the treatment is built. This process gets its entire value from the person that gives it. An anti-friction lubricant is used for the massage to avoid irritation. These lubricants can be bought commercially, but the more experienced masseurs make their own. In that way, the lotion can be suited to each person's needs and desires. Manke's massage lotion consists of a mineral oil base, rubbing alcohol, witch hazel, camphor gum and oil of wintergreen. Different minerals and oils can be added as needed.

Massage is one of the better known treatments for insomnia, nervousness, headache, sinus, asthma, all forms of neuritis, arthritis and related troubles. It is also one of the best known all round health builders, as it stimulates vitality from the skin on in. A person with dead, lifeless skin will see and feel the difference after just a few treatments.

One of Manke's most interesting cases and the one of which he is the most proud concerns a woman who was in constant pain. She had been under constant sedation, taking sleeping pills every two hours just to keep calm, as sleep was impossible. Doctors could not diagnose the case.

Finally a doctor friend of hers, who had been a patient of Manke's recommended that she go to him. Manke told her he would see what he could do but that she would have to stay at the house and leave all her pills and drugs home. She complied and the next evening arrived to start treatments. That night, she got the first night of sleep she had had in two months, having only one interruption. After five days she was feeling so well she went home, continuing the treatments several times a week.

A few weeks later, she kept a previously made appointment at Ann Arbor for a complete check-up in the hopes of having her case diagnosed. There it was found her case was a rare form of neuritis. One woman, treated for the same disorder, was so stiff she could not move. Doctors said the massage treatments had saved Manke's patient the same fate and took his name and address to use as a referral when necessary.

Manke, when asked why he chose the massage profession, said he had always had a "yên" to do therapy work and at one time entertained an idea of being a doctor. But through misguidance, he ended up a commercial fisherman in Quinacsee, where he had his own business. After hearing of the wonderful work that could be done in the massage field, he yielded to

Former Area Family Tells of Alaskan Life

Editor's Note: This letter was written by Mrs. Raymond Kula to Mr. and Mrs. Ross Brown of Cass City.

The Chronicle is reprinting most of it because of the personal slant that it gives on life in Alaska by a former area resident. Dear Friend,

We are another one of the families from Michigan who are with the group of "fifty-niners" here in Alaska. Our family consists of my husband, Raymond, who is 42, a son, Francis, age 14, and myself (Bernice) age 44.

We really enjoy it a lot here and wouldn't have missed it for anything, even though there are many things we haven't got here that we had before and there is lots of hard work.

We are used to hard work and knew it would be rough when we left, but this is the kind of life we like as we were both raised on the farm.

No one, as yet, has a cabin built but most of us have house trailers to live in. The group has built a hothouse and we also have a storage shed built.

The next thing will be to build a corral and shelter for the animals as we have cows, goats, chickens and rabbits. The men also have our gardens and potatoes planted and are finishing sowing oats and barley today.

I was born between Cass City and Deford. My father was Willard (Judd) Wood. He passed away in Cass City in February of this year.

My nephew is chief of police in Cass City and my brother is William J. C. Wood. He lives on Argyle Road. I also have an aunt and cousin living near Cass City. Their names are Mrs. William (Elsie) Wood and Roy Wood.

It sure is beautiful country here in Alaska. We can see Mt. McKinley from our homesteads. There are 10 families here. We are about a half mile apart. It is a wonderful group and we enjoy being neighbors with everyone.

The women here can hardly wait for the salmon to start running and the berries to get ripe so we can start canning. We bake our own bread and do all our own baking of everything. There is no going to the store everyday. The prices here are very high on everything.

My husband was from Port Austin.

The people here are all very friendly and so willing to help. It really makes you feel wonderful when a person finds so many friends.

It seems so strange here to have so much daylight. We only have about two and a half hours of darkness.

For Residential Area

Expert Says Narrow Streets Are Best

On the advice of George Villan, village planning expert, the village of Cass City will make residential area streets not over 31 feet wide, it was decided by council members Tuesday at the regular meeting of the council at the Cass City Municipal Building.

Narrowing the streets from the present 40 feet to a maximum of 31 feet will have several advantages, Mr. Villan said. It can cut construction costs in half and the narrower street will discourage unwanted traffic.

The narrow street can be made to look more attractive also. More grass and shrubs will be planted between the sidewalk and the road.

Primary System
A second major decision was reached by trustees Tuesday when they decided to start working for a switch from the present caucus system to a primary system of electing village officers.

First step will be a petition with about 10 per cent of the qualified voters signing. After the petition is signed, a special election is needed. If approved by a simple majority, the change would be effective.

Under the primary system, petitions for candidates for village office would have to be filed with the clerk by the end of December for the spring election.

Other Business

Trustee Lee Rabideau presented a motion that all licensed physicians in the State of Michigan be admitted to the Cass City Community Hospital. His motion died on the floor as other members said that it would be wise to confer with the hospital administrator before taking action.

Jerry Stilson has resigned his position as dog catcher because of other work. At the present time the village is without a dog catcher.

Eldon Hall requested that a public phone booth be placed in front of Parrott's Dairy Bar. Trustees felt that the booth could be placed inside as well as on the sidewalk.

Road to be Surfaced

One of the three county road commission jobs scheduled to be let on July 8, is 5.7 miles of 20-foot bituminous aggregate surfacing on Belsay road north from the south county line and on Arnes road east from Tuscola, according to John Mackie, highway commissioner.

Completion date on this job is October 15, 1959.

Launch Sale of Park Certificates In Gagetown

A kick-off dinner Tuesday noon launched the good will sales project of the Gagetown Community Park Committee. Twenty-four members were present to hear Mrs. Dorothy Rocheleau report of the progress at the new Gagetown Recreational Park. She explained that within 10 days to two weeks tennis, badminton and volleyball courts and a baseball diamond are to be completed.

The sales project is expected to finance all of the work at the park. A door-to-door canvass will be made as the committee attempts to raise some $6,000 with certificates of $5 or $10 or more to be repaid within five years.

In another improvement at the park, a road sign built and donated by Frank Sinclair has been erected.

County 4-H Agent Accepts New Mackinac Post

William Muller, 4-H club agent for Tuscola county, will leave August 1 to accept a position as county extension agent for Mackinac county and will be located at St. Ignace, according to Alfred Ballweg, county extension director.

Muller has been county 4-H agent since April 1, 1955. Previous to joining the county Cooperative Extension Service staff as 4-H agent, he was local veterans' instructor with Caro Public Schools.

"Mr. Muller has made a fine contribution to the county 4-H club program and we are sorry to see him leave," said Ballweg. His new job will offer many opportunities in the field of resource development. This program is receiving major emphasis throughout the upper peninsula of Michigan.

Steps will be taken to obtain a replacement for Mr. Muller as soon as possible, said Ballweg.

Dominican Republic Subject of Program

Seventeen were present Thursday afternoon when the Woman's Society of World Service held its monthly meeting in the Salem Evangelical United Brethren church. Hostesses were Mrs. William McKenzie and Mrs. Jack Esau.

Members heard Mrs. S. R. Wurtz give her delegate's report on the recent state convention held in Sebewaing.

A program about the Dominican Republic was presented by Miss Muriel Addison and Mrs. Wilma Fry in the form of a plane trip, complete with refreshments on the plane. Mrs. Harry Young was in charge of devotions.

From the Editor's Corner

Chances for dying in an accident over a holiday increases by about one-fourth. The Fourth of July is the second worst holiday of the year and if the weather is good, State Police are predicting a new high traffic record . . . which means multiplied exposure to accidents.

Despite that all of the State Police and 129 National Guardsmen will be patrolling the roads, the only way to have a safe holiday is with safe driving.

The village council took a step in the right direction Tuesday night when trustees decided to begin action to switch Cass City from the caucus to the primary system on nominating officials. The primary system has the advantage of eliminating the nomination of a slate of officers by a small minority of the electors and letting everyone know in advance who will be running for office. It should do a lot towards eliminating slip candidates for office . . . a procedure that has always seemed a little unjust to the candidate on the regular ballot.

ACCOUNTING
No man is blamed for his start in life—it's his finish that he is held responsible for.

The ladder always finds an open season for killing time.

Take it easy when you sew, and don't push yourself. Clothing specialists at Michigan State University suggest you plan a definite time for sewing—uninterrupted, if possible. Set a time limit and stop before you get tired.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

All I know about how them Senators and Congressmen carry on the nation's business is what I read in the papers. For instance, I was reading yesterday where one Senator butted in on the proceedings and talked for a hour about somepun else. When they do this, they say they're "rising to a point of order" or somepun.

My old lady has been butting in on my conversation for years without "rising to a point of order." I'm going to call her attention to this new and more orderly system and tell her to watch her manners a little better in the future.

They spend half their time in Congress talking about nothing. I recollect one time when Senator Gore from Tennessee had to apologize to Senator Bush from Connecticut for calling him a gentleman. It seems you're supposed to call your colleagues in the Senate "the distinguished Senator." Then Senator Bush had to apologize to Senator Kerr from Oklahoma. A cooperative dinner was served. They came from Midland, Munger, Detroit, Bay City, Pontiac, Elkhart, Monroe, Anchorville, St. Clair Shores and by plane from Royal Oak.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carolan and William Mullin went to Detroit Monday and attended funeral services for Mrs. John Coots Tuesday morning in St. Gregory church.

Danny and Terry Watterworth of Brimley, grandsons of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carolan who have been visiting them for the past two weeks, went to Elkton Monday to visit their other grandparents for the week. They both had tonsil operations.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dorsch spent Sunday in Anchorville with Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Prell.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mackay spent Saturday and Sunday in Flint with Mrs. Julia Sutton. Raymond Sutton, who spent the week here, returned home with them.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Holds Meeting

Last week's meeting of the Carolan-Gagetown 4-H Club was held at the home of Mrs. Jake Ehrlich. They selected their king and queen. They are Robert Ashmore and Mary Lou Ehrlich.

The 4-H'ers, including a new member, Andrea Stanley, are going on a garden tour July 28 and are planning on having a bake sale soon.

After the meeting was adjourned, cookies and kool-aid were served. The next meeting will be July 13, at the home of Mrs. Willard Burdon.

This would be a better world if people were willing to practice after they get through preaching.

Sometimes the man who gets a chance to start at the top of the ladder works his way down.

It is true that all the world's a stage, and most people want to occupy the critic's seat.

It's easy enough to find an excuse for putting off a task today, but how thin that excuse looks tomorrow.

TIRES CAN KILL!
Dangerous as any murderer on the loose are neglected or worn out tires on your car. If you don't believe me ask any policeman on accident squad duty. Their accident reports tell many sad tales about death due to blowouts.

And for every fatal mishap there are hundreds of other instances where the car's occupants have gotten off lightly. The fact is tire failure is getting to be the number one headache on virtually every high speed road.

Perhaps I shouldn't say 'tire failure' because more often than not it's a case of 'human failure'. Tires themselves have been vastly improved over the years. If you got 2,500 miles out of a tire at 20 m. p. h. 40 years ago you were lucky. Today you get 30,000 miles at much higher speeds.

For your own protection (and your passengers) make sure you observe the following tire rules:

1. Have your tires inspected periodically for uneven tread wear, rim bruises, cuts, interior fabric breaks and wheel alignment.
2. So your tires will wear evenly change their position every 5,000 miles.
3. Under-inflation is another frequent source of trouble. The softer the tire is the more the sidewalls flex. There is also more friction and more heat.
4. If you habitually bump curbs invest in a pair of 'cat's whisker' curb feelers.

So stop ignoring your tires until they collapse. Having your tires checked today may save your life.

Dump Trucks Make Money. And, we have two (2) 1953 Ford 2 Ton Jobs complete with two speed axles, and dump box all ready to go to work for you. They were owned by Joe Tesho and Guy Whittaker. Try them. There are many current road jobs in process. Let them provide an income for you.

Champion Hurls No Hitter

Young Jim Champion provided the thrills for league followers this week as he pitched a no-hitter against the Yankees Friday. Champion was never in trouble as he struck out 14 and walked only two in leading his mates to a 13-0 shellacking of the Yankees on Friday night. Don Englehardt continued his torrid work with the bat as he lashed out two hits, one of which was his second homer of the year, and drove in four runs. Champion helped his own cause at the plate by banging out two hits in three trips.

Troops to Virginia

By Elmer E. White

Michigan Press Association Michigan bluecoats will be on hand for the centennial observance of the Battle of Bull Run. Gov. G. Mennen Williams has announced plans to send a contingent to help re-enact the Civil War battle that ended in a disastrous rout of the Northern forces.

Michigan and 22 other states were invited by Virginia Gov. J. Lindsay Almond to send troops to Virginia in July, 1961, to re-enact the battle known in the South as the First Battle of Manassas Junction.

Although the battle ended with Northern forces in a rout, the fighting men of Michigan distinguished themselves in covering the retreat.

Mary McCormick pitched well enough to win most games, but two errors by Cass City's shortstop plus other fielding lapses cost him the game.

Caseville scored twice in the first with a hit, a walk and a double.

Cass City tied the score in their half of the inning with two walks, a sacrifice, another walk, a wild pitch and a throwing error.

Neither team was able to score again until the final inning when Caseville staged its winning rally.

Two errors and a fluke double by Griggs scored two runs. Griggs moved to third on a wild pitch and then scored on an infield out.

than 4,000 troops in the battle area, according to a report by the Michigan Historical Commission. At least 30 Michigan National Guard troops are expected to represent the state in the re-enactment that will be the start of a four-year Civil War centennial observance.

Floyd Haight, chairman of the Michigan Civil War Centennial Commission, said the uniforms will be provided by Ladies' auxiliaries of state guard units.

"Mr. Haight and his commission have been promised the full cooperation of state agencies and I am confident that an equal degree of support will be forthcoming from civic-minded groups in all parts of our two peninsulas," Williams said in a letter to the Virginia governor.

The Michigan troops participating in the original battle came from throughout the southern half of the Lower Peninsula.

The Second and Third Regiments, which were assigned to cover the retreat, came from Detroit, Hudson, Battle Creek, Adrian, Niles, Flint, Constantine, Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids, Saranac, Lansing, Lyons and Muskegon.

The First Regiment, which had heavy losses in the battle, had units from Jackson, Coldwater, Manchester, Ann Arbor, Burr, Ypsilanti and Marshall.

The Fourth Regiment had men from Monroe, Adrian, Sturgis, Ann Arbor, Hillsdale, Hudson, Tecumseh, Jonesville, Trenton and Dexter.

State officials are turning their attention back to another war -- World War I.

A bill has been introduced in the legislature by Sen. Haskell L. Nichols (R-Jackson) to allow a World War I infantryman to collect a $108 service bonus that has been denied to him 42 years.

Ross M. Hall, 58-year-old Brooklyn, Mich., factory worker, lied about his age and signed up for service in 1917 at the age of 16.

The Army didn't get around to giving him his discharge papers until 1946, which was well past the deadline for applying for the service bonus.

Now Nichols is asking the state to give Hall special consideration.

A new development in Michigan's modern day war against criminals is now in use.

A new Michigan law enforcement blockade plan was put in effect June 25 following a study by the Michigan State Police, the Michigan Sheriffs Association and the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police.

"It marks a distinct advance in the methods formerly used to apprehend fleeing criminals and is believed to be the only plan of its kind patterned on a statewide basis," a joint announcement by the enforcement agencies said.

Under the plan, 253 agencies were given a predetermined schedule of blockade points to cover.

More than 50 additional agencies will "free lance" on the roads when needed to assist or relieve at control points in their areas.

"The minutes saved as well as the improved coverage is expected to result in many apprehensions which formerly were frustrated," the joint announcement said.

The blockade plan does not include the Upper Peninsula because the area has relatively few highways over which escape can be attempted.

The agencies decided to draft the plan following escapes by criminals who were able to cross the state border ahead of blockades set up on spur-of-the-moment decisions.

Many Financing Methods Available For Home Repair

Families who want to remodel or otherwise improve their homes but are concerned about where to get the money would be wise to investigate all the methods of financing available for home improvements.

An encouraging note is that loans for this purpose are considered "preferred" by most banks and other lending institutions.

Here are the principal types of loans available for remodeling and home improvements:

1. FHA Title 1 loan. Amounts up to $5,000 are available at 5% per cent interest, repayable in as many as 60 months. Government insured, these loans usually are easiest to get.

2. Open-end mortgages. Often the least costly of all, these are available to home owners who have an "open end" clause in their mortgages. This permits borrowing additional funds at the same mortgage rate without re-writing the mortgage or taking out a separate loan. Monthly payments are increased slightly.

3. Rewritten mortgages. If the home owner doesn't have an open-end mortgage, his bank often will extend another loan for home improvements. This usually amounts to a second mortgage which is consolidated with the first. Interest rates generally are lower than on short-term loans.

4. Conventional loan. Usually obtained from banks, this type of loan has no restrictions as to the type of improvement. It generally is limited to $2,500 repayable in from three to five years.

5. "Own plan" loan. Many banks, savings and loan societies, and trust companies have special plans for home improvement loans. Interest rates may be higher than FHA loans, but conditions of the plan may be more suitable for certain home owners.

Advertise it in the Chronicle.

PROGRESS DELAYED—Persons in charge of construction say that the Cass City Community Hospital is five weeks behind its planned building schedule. A slow down by the mechanical builder and the recent carpenters' strike were listed as the reasons for the delay. However, it is expected that the new facility will be completed well in advance of next summer's completion deadline.

Observe These 5 Paint Buying Rules

The old theory that "paint is paint" has long since been outmoded. Whether you are buying exterior paint, indoor paint, varnish, enamels, waterproofing compounds, or any similar products, these simple rules can assure you a good buy:

1. Remember that the original cost of paint should be the least important factor in your decision. The difference in what you pay for a quality paint is more than made up by the savings in time and effort required to apply it, and the long-range wearing and protective qualities.

2. Always consult an expert. Buy only from recognized dealers who know all the facts about penetrating qualities, types of undercoating, durability and differences in the quality of ingredients. Amateurs are the world's worst judges of paint quality.

3. Do not be misled by wild claims and fancy guarantees about five-year, 10-year and lifetime service from a can of paint or any product advertised as a substitute for paint. No guarantee is any stronger than the reputation of the firm which issues it. Two coats of a good modern exterior finish will last about four years on the first application and five or six years when additional coats are added later.

4. Check the reputation of your contractor carefully before you sign any papers or enter into any agreement with him. Remember that a reputable contractor may charge a slightly higher price, but you will get a much better job that will protect your home and maintain its worth, so that you actually enjoy a much greater value in the long run.

When you buy paint and painting service by quality and reputation instead of price, you make a long-range investment that is hard to beat... and you enjoy the benefits of the unprecedented progress made by a great industry to preserve your home and make it a more pleasant and attractive place to live.

Plan Now for Air Conditioning

Planning ahead to live better electrically during those humid, sweltering summer days should be done in conjunction with your other home modernization plans. This is the best time to determine your air conditioning needs whether it be for an individual room or the entire home.

And now that individual air conditioning units or central electric air conditioning is within reach of the home owner, he should know a few things about them before he orders installation.

There are many types and designs available today and they come in several sizes. It is a good idea to let a qualified dealer, who has experience with residential cooling problems, determine exactly what you should have to meet your particular needs.

For instance, he must determine the amount of heat that will come into your home through the walls, ceilings, roof and windows on the hottest day you have in your area. Guessing won't do.

If you have too large an air conditioner you'll get plenty of cooling but not sufficient dehumidification. Too small a unit and you get good dehumidification, but not enough cooling.

Year-round central air conditioning, like central heating, is preferred. There are two systems. One operates by a system of air ducts, the very kind that provides heat with forced warm air. The second type of unit chills water instead of air and operates pretty much like the heating system based on hot water or steam radiators.

Modernize Kitchen After Consultation

Many people may be consulted before you modernize your kitchen, but the most important person to consult is you. Your ideas, suggestions and preferences can guide the contractor, the dealer, the electrician and the painter in creating for you and your family a new kitchen that's distinctly and distinctively yours.

Perhaps the L-shape more aptly describes your kitchen. When you have two adjoining walls, this shape provides an ideal work-triangle and leaves the rest of the kitchen free for dinette.

Or is the U-shape—one of the most popular and efficient kitchen arrangements—the way your kitchen goes? Islands and peninsulas are becoming more and more popular, particularly in modern homes. The new treatment separates different parts of the kitchen into areas tailored to your own space, needs and desires.

When you're planning your kitchen as an attractive room for living, you must think of a convenient, step-saving arrangement of three or four major work centers.

Plan a food-storage center close to the outside door where deliveries are made.

Plan to place a dishwashing and waste-disposing center conveniently between cooking and food-storage centers.

An automatic electric laundry center with a combined washer-dryer is a big step-saver. This unit can go in the basement, or another area, but it's a real convenience in the kitchen.

Building Constant In Cass City Area

A check through village records and a talk with area builders and builders' supply firms indicate that building in the Cass City area is about the same as it has been in recent years.

But almost everyone connected with the trade looks for a huge upswing in building here in the near future. They point to the lack of available homes now and to the rapidly expanding population of the community.

Four homes are now under construction within the village limits and two others are being built just outside the village limits.

In addition, permits have been issued for six garages to be added to existing homes.

This work and maintenance work on other homes are keeping local carpenters and builders busy. Many have a full schedule for the summer and most are booked for several weeks ahead.

The village will do some building this year as plans have been completed for the installation of curb and gutter on Seeger Street. It will be the first curb installation in Cass City outside of a small amount previously installed on Seeger.

The village council hopes that this year's project will be the start of a continuing campaign to have all local streets with curb and gutter.
