Feature Careers Of Bailey-Graham In Detroit Paper

Chester Graham, 66, and Lester Bailey, 73, local barbers, were featured in Sunday's Detroit Free Press for their long careers in Cass City.

The story described their early start in Cass City. Some of the more interesting items as disclosed by Ken McCormick, staff writer for the Free Press, were: "Chester Graham and Lester Bailey have been partners here for 43 years . . . nearly 50, if you count the years Chet served as an apprentice under Les."

"Lester Bailey was an established barber in Cass City in 1909, when Chester Graham decided he wanted to be a barber."

"Lester's partner at the time was John Hall, now 83, who has retired. 'How do you serve as an apprentice in a barbershop?' you ask. 'Well,' answers Graham, 'you start by cleaning spittoons, sweeping and running errands. 'But how do you learn to cut hair and shave?' you persist. 'You go out on the street and grab some kids who need haircuts and drag them in and cut their hair for nothing. When you get enough experience you are a barber.'"

The story tells how the barbers worked through the days of 25c haircuts and 10c shaves with Saturday hours stretching to 2 a. m. Sunday.

The two men now work the standard hours for Cass City from 7:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. with Thursday off, the story reported.

"Chester pulled up his pant leg to point to varicose veins. 'That's the only thing that bothers me now,' he says."

"Lester hasn't suffered varicose veins, but he does have a touch of arthritis."

"We've handled several generations," says Lester. "And we still have one or two customers who started with us 43 years ago. But we don't have very many shaves. And shaves used to be more than half of our business."

Street work in Cass City is expected to start within the next few weeks and some $20,000 will be spent where the village council feels the need is most critical, it was revealed at the regular monthly meeting of trustees Tuesday at the Municipal Building.

Major project for the year will be on Seeger from Main to the north village limits. The entire area will have curb and gutter. In addition, necessary storm sewer for drainage will be completed before the curb is installed. It is expected that this work will cost around $13,000.

The remaining $7,000 will be spent for surfacing critical areas in the village. Pine Street will be hardtopped for three blocks and Nestles Street, just east of the railroad tracks, will be hardtopped from Main to Tusco Products.

Finally, Garfield Street from the railroad tracks west will receive another coat of blacktop. In conjunction with this work, trustees decided to request that Walbro Corporation hardtop the approaches to the parking lot so that gravel would not be continually thrown on the street to break up the road.

The work as outlined means that plans for hardtopping the alleys have been abandoned for this year.

A voluntary meat ordinance, under discussion by the council for several months, was adopted by trustees Tuesday. The council acted after receiving several assurances from Dick Erla, who requested the new law.

Mr. Erla said that his primary purpose for requesting the new ordinance that establishes a meat inspection system was to aid the selling at wholesale of meats in communities such as Detroit and Saginaw.

All costs of the inspection are also to be borne by slaughterhouses participating and Mr. Erla said that he had no intention of using the inspection as a retail advertising promotion.

Cost of publishing the ordinance will also be covered by an initial license fee. After receiving these assurances and determining that there would be no cost to the village, the council adopted the ordinance.

Trustee Lee Rabideau said that he had heard several complaints about the hoist of Cass City Oil & Gas being on public property. The council decided to write the company a letter requesting that proper action be taken.

Once Erla Pet-Now Active Leader Dog

One blind person is now leading a fuller life because of the generosity of Arnold Erla, 17, who gave a trainable dog, now in active service, to the Leader Dogs for the Blind.

The following is a letter received by Mr. Erla from Harold Pocklington, executive director of the Leader Dogs for the Blind: "Dear Mr. Erla: Mr. Benjamin Hurtubise of Canada has completed training with 'Rex' and is enjoying a more normal life as a result of the Leader Dog program."

"Your thoughtfulness and generosity in contributing this German Shepherd is greatly appreciated by both the successful student graduate and Leader Dogs for the Blind. Another blind individual has achieved mobility and will travel with safety and confidence."

"You may be proud of the enclosed photograph of the new Leader Dog and its master. Your kindness made this possible."

This whole episode started when Arnold Erla saved his money and bought a pedigreed German Shepherd. The dog grew and soon was clamoring for undivided attention and developed the knack of jumping over the fence where he was kept.

The dog threatened to become a problem around the meat packing plant so the Erlas decided that the dog would have to have a new home.

Dr. William Selby, a member of the Cass City Lions Club, was contacted and he in turn contacted the Lions sponsored Leader Dogs for the Blind in Rochester.

It takes several months of training before the dog is ready to meet his new master. He learns, among other things, to conduct a person across the street safely, to duck, go around, and in general, to lead his master through life.

Once the training program is completed, his new master comes to the school for approximately a month of training to learn to understand and care for the dog.

The total cost of preparing the dog and master is $1,250 but there is no charge to the recipient. Any blind person in the world is eligible to receive a dog from the school.

Two Sentenced for Not Paying Alimony

Two men were sentenced before Judge T. C. Quinn in Circuit Court July 22 for nonpayment of alimony.

One, Andrew J. Laszlo, Cass City, was found guilty of contempt of court and sentenced to 90 days in jail, to be released when he finds a job. He was released Friday afternoon and is now working.

The second man, Marion Hall, returned from Farwell, was also found guilty of contempt of court. His sentence was suspended on the condition that regular payments of $30 per week be resumed and that he pay costs of $25.

Water Carnival Last Recreation Program Event

Following a highly successful talent show Friday night, Eli Holes and Wayne Wilson, directors, announced that plans are complete for Friday's annual water carnival—the final special event of the year.

A host of prizes is available in a variety of events for the youngsters who participate. Events will be divided by age groups and there will be contests for children at every swimming level. The event starts at 7 p. m.

The talent show top prize was won by Jim Ballard, Brent Galloway and Leslie Nicholas with a pantomime act. Kathy Spratt won the second place award with a solo while third place was judged a tie between Dianne Yedinak, baton twirler, and Carl Spratt, vocalist.

Cass City Brothers Escape Injury

Two Cass City brothers, Robert Schmidt, 22, and Joseph, 23, escaped serious injury when their car left River road around 7 p. m. Thursday night and overturned as it skidded down a steep bank near the Cass river and hit a tree, going through a fence belonging to Walter Turner.

Robert, the driver, told Deputy Frank Kroszek the car went out of control when turning to the right as a car approached from the opposite direction and he struck a soft shoulder.

Kroszek said the car traveled 180 feet along the steep river bank and sheared off several small trees before overturning and crashing into a larger tree.

No tickets were given as the shoulders were soft and it had been raining hard before the accident.

The only injury was a minor head bruise suffered by Joseph.

Two Area Men in Auto Collision

The car of Kenneth Pinkoski, 20, of Gagetown received damages totaling $120 and that of Thomas Ginter Jr., 17, of Cass City received damages of $75 in a collision on the Bay City-Forestville road at 5 p. m. July 23.

Pinkoski told Trooper Norman Robbins that he was passing the Ginter car when Ginter made a left turn in front of him without making any signal.

Special Election To Tell System For Nominations

Cass City voters will decide whether to change to the primary system of nomination of village officers or to retain the caucus system in a special election to be held Sept. 15.

The move for the election was taken Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the village council at the Municipal Building after a petition with some 60 signatures was received. About 40 are required to start the election.

If the new system is approved by voters, it will be necessary to circulate petitions for candidates before they can be placed on the ballot.

If more than one person runs for any post a primary election would then be held.

McConkey Named To County FHA

Maynard H. McConkey, Cass City, has been appointed as a member of the Tuscola County Farmers Home Administration Committee, Robert Abbott, the agency's county supervisor, announced this week.

Mr. McConkey lives in Elkland township and has farmed in this area all his life. He is in the dairy business but also raises some cash crops.

The other two members serving with Mr. McConkey are Clayton George and Duane Sugden. Mr. McConkey succeeds Roy N. Wagg whose three-year term expired this year.

The committee elected Mr. George as its chairman at its first meeting, held July 20. He lives in Juniata township near Watrousville and also is a dairy farmer.

Mr. Sugden lives in Fremont township and is engaged in dairy farming as well as raising cash crops.

The Farmers Home Administration is an agency in the U. S. Department of Agriculture that supplies long-term credit to farmers to buy or improve their farms, establish suitable soil and water conservation measures and build or repair farm houses or other essential farm buildings.

It gives intermediate or short-term credit for farm operations or to meet emergency needs. The agency does not compete with other lenders in the farm credit field.

As a part of its credit service, it supplies farm and home management aids and advice.

Each agricultural county in the state of Michigan has a three-member committee to work with the county supervisors to make the best possible local use of the funds.

Two-County Chase Keeps Police Busy

A two-county chase with a Bad Axe man the object has Tuscola and Bay County police busy writing over five charges against him.

Richard Mattice, 25, who lost his driver's license over a year ago when he struck the son of Senator Arthur A. Dehmel, was clocked at speeds in excess of 100 miles per hour when he sped through Unionville Sunday night.

Deputy Frank Kroszek of the Tuscola sheriff department chased Mattice into the limits of Bay City, but Mattice paid no attention to Kroszek's siren or attempts to stop him. Kroszek opened fire but none of his shots took effect.

Mattice sideswiped three police cars in his flight before being caught by Bay County sheriff's men and Bay City police after crashing through road blocks which were set up when Kroszek radioed ahead for help.

Charges placed against Mattice in Tuscola County justice court include reckless driving, driving without a license, resisting arrest and speeding. He will also appear in Circuit Court to face charges of parole violation and additional charges may be placed

Cass City's proud record of winning every year in the Thumb Babe Ruth League will probably come to an end this year following a loss to Uby 6-5 Tuesday night. Until the winning run scored on a wild pitch, Cass City's hopes for another title were still alive. Despite the title

Substandard Wheat Crop Sprout Damaged

Sprout damage, starting last Monday, may cause this year's harvest to be the lowest in quality in recent years, according to managers at Farm Produce and Frutchey Bean.

So far damage ranges from 2 per cent to 25 per cent. In comparison, the high last year ranged around 16 per cent.

Also, since the last rain, weight tests have been off a serious number of pounds per bushel. The average is now around 53 whereas last year it was around 59-60 per bushel.

Approximately half the wheat has now been harvested. Farmers are hoping to get the rest in before another rain makes the loss total.

The average yield per acre has been estimated at 40 bushels with some farmers reporting as high as 60 and others as low as 20. Last year, the bumper crop averaged 50 bushels per acre.

"This year's crop damage is as bad as I've ever seen it," said George Fisher of Frutchey Bean. Navy beans, corn and beets are expected to produce a record yield if nothing happens to change the present indications.

BULEEN TALKS Cars

HOW TO KEEP THE KIDS OCCUPIED ON A LONG TRIP

One of my regular customers drove in the other day to have his car serviced having just returned from a long trip with his family. His wife was with him and we got to chatting. When she told me it was the most enjoyable and relaxed trip they've ever had (what with four youngsters in the family) I was interested to know why. Seems it was all because they played car games.

It sounded like a good idea to me. And in case your youngsters get restless sitting still for hours on end when motoring I thought I'd pass along a couple of the games she told me about. Here they are.

I PACKED MY CAR: Starting with the first letter of the alphabet Junior might start with "I packed my car with apples." Another member of the family then takes up with "I packed my car with apples and beets." An so on right through the alphabet. If anyone forgets one of the items in the right order when his turn rolls around again he has to drop from the game.

GUESS WHERE I'M HIDING: In this game one child is chosen to be "It." He then mentally selects a hiding place in the car and the rest of the family have to guess where he's pretending to hide. In the glove compartment? Under the hood? In dad's pocket? This goes on until the hiding place is guessed or everyone gives up. It's then time for someone else to be "It."

You'll probably think up lots of other games to play once you get started. But no game should ever become active enough to distract the driver's attention.

2 Area Cows Have Outstanding Records

The Holstein-Friesian Association of America has announced the completion of outstanding official production records by registered Holstein cows owned by Gilbert Davis, Sandusky, and Dolan Sweeney and Sons, Uby.

Davis' Clayacres Pansy Royal Bell produced 15,609 pounds milk and 623 pounds butterfat in 365 days of twice daily milking. She is a two-year-old.

Sweeney and Sons' Coffeydale Sadie Jupiter produced 20,281 pounds milk and 719 pounds butterfat in 336 days on twice daily milking as a four-year-old.

Michigan State University, working in close cooperation with the national Holstein organization, supervised the weighing and testing of production as a part of the Herd Improvement Registry program.

This official testing program, commonly referred to as HIR, provides continuing lactation and lifetime production records of every cow in participating registered Holstein herds.

State's Revenue Increasing

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association

The citizens research council of Michigan has revised upward its estimate of revenue collections during the fiscal year that started July 1.

"The state stands to take in about $22 million more in this fiscal year than was thought possible seven months ago," the council said.

Official estimates of state revenues for the current fiscal year were made when Gov. G. Mennen Williams finished his budget drafting late in December.

"Seven months have since elapsed—seven months of what all signs and portents point to being a rapid and sound recovery from the current recession," according to a revenue report from the council.

Williams' original estimate for general fund revenues for the current fiscal year was $308 million.

The Research Council now estimates the general fund revenues will be $317 million.

The citizens group thinks the school aid fund revenues will reach 295 million dollars, up 13 million dollars from the original estimates.

Shortly after the Citizens Research Council talked about millions for Michigan, a panel of seven economists called together by Gov. G. Mennen Williams talked about billions for the nation.

The economists, including William Haber of the University of Michigan and Daniel Fustfeld of Michigan State University, urged expanded management of the economy by government. They also asked for more spending to relieve unemployment.

The panel of economists, meeting at Williams' Mackinac Island summer home, paid tribute to the government research that has increased productivity in the field of agriculture.

Williams said much of the praise was directed at the type of research carried out at Michigan State University.

MSU is about to start a large research campaign against tuberculosis in cattle. The university has accepted grants of $245,000 and $65,000 from the federal government for laboratory investigations and field studies.

And one of Michigan's best known farmers, wheat grower-road builder John C. Mackie, has asked for some research into the way the federal government goes about measuring farm land for marketing quotas.

"Recently the Agricultural Stabilization Committee informed me I had overplanted my 15-acre wheat allotment," Highway Commissioner Mackie said in a letter to Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.). "I plowed under 0.8 acres and cut 0.5 acres of wheat to circumvent paying a fine and to avoid the expense of a law suit."

"I am writing you as a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee to ask you to look into the background of the existing highly-inaccurate system of computing acreage used by the ASC," Mackie said he has been "deluged" with comment from other farmers from throughout Michigan who report similar errors in measurement by ASC.

"Apparently the condition is widespread, vexing a good many people," Mackie said.

Mackie had other trouble on his farm. He claimed in court a contractor overcharged him for remodeling. Mackie lost and had to pay.

The highway commissioner's personal affairs were in the news again the day after he lost his court fight with the contractor. Mackie decided he would turn down a $1,000 fund collected by highway contractors who wanted the money to be used for promotion of road building activities.

Promotion of Michigan's industrial development activities has been stepped up.

The first of a series of regional meetings planned to build a "dynamic sales force for Michigan" was held recently in Petoskey.

The Michigan Industrial Ambassadors, a volunteer group of business, industrial and civic leaders, started the regional series to further their efforts to sell Michigan. Edwin O. George, vice-president of the Detroit Edison Co. and a member of the Industrial Ambassadors' Executive Committee, said Michigan now needs more than ever an "aggressive sales force" to spread the truth about the state and "correct the false impressions that have been created throughout the nation."

George reported plans for enlargement of the present Ambassador force from 214 to more than 500.

"We all have a big job ahead of us in selling our own state," George said. "And this job must be carried forward within the state as well as outside our borders."

"We have so much to tell that is good about Michigan and we should always accentuate the positive."

Barrons Promoted To Specialist Four

Robert J. Barrons, 23, son of Mrs. Geneith M. Barrons, Kingston, was recently promoted to specialist four in Germany, where he is a member of the 24th Infantry Division.

Barrons, a recorder in Battery A of the division's 13th Artillery, entered the Army in January, 1958, and completed basic combat training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. He arrived in Europe in July, 1958.

A 1953 graduate of Kingston High School, Barrons was employed by Saginaw Steering Gear before entering the Army.

Record 4-H Exhibit At Tuscola Fair

The largest 4-H exhibit in history, will be the claim of the 1959 Tuscola County Fair opening August 24 in Caro.

Some 40 4-H clubs will be represented by well over 800 boys and girls who place on exhibit livestock, crops, frozen and canned foods, fruits and club achievement booths.

William F. Muller, County Extension Agent for 4-H Clubs in Tuscola County, states that

"each phase of 4-H work will be represented and this year's fair will see the greatest number of entries to date with approximately 1700 exhibits on display."

Great interest each year has always centered around the 4-H horse show and it is expected that fair officials will be scurrying to find shelter for the 180 horses set for entry this year. In addition 130 head of dairy cattle are expected for the six-day showing and 75 head of beef cattle, sheep and swine are also scheduled for entry.

Providing a home away from home, the Wilber Memorial 4-H building will house some 80 4-H club members . . . about 80 4-H mothers will provide meals for the youngsters.

The youth of the county who are entered in 4-H Club work are also eligible to compete for the 4-H King and Queen Honors to be bestowed upon some lucky boy and girl at the fair.

FRANCIS T. CLARK
County Home Demonstration Agent

At the Homemaker's Conference last week over a thousand Michigan Homemakers gave a toast to the two new states, Alaska and Hawaii.

Wednesday was Alaska Day, so the homemakers were treated to two Alaskan dishes, poached Alaskan salmon steaks and goldmine salad. On Thursday's menu, for Hawaii, there was a chicken dish and an avocado salad with tropical-isle dressing served to the strains of Hawaiian music.

Not forgotten, of course, was the 26th state, Michigan. Tuesday's menu offered roast sirloin of beef and deep-dish blueberry pie with Pinconning cheese.

Mrs. Lee Steele, of the Mayville group, the new vice-chairman for Tuscola County Extension Council, and Mrs. Silverius Lucius of the Silverwood group, the council secretary, attended the full four days of the conferences as the county's official delegates.

I have decided that most anything goes, if you are thinking about meat for a barbecue. Have you tried barbecuing old-fashioned spareribs? Now old-fashioned spareribs are different from the regular spareribs, because they have more meat on the bones. In fact, old-fashioned spareribs come from the blade end of a pork loin roast. You can ask the butcher to cut through the meat beside the bone for you. Make sure he cuts the piece thick, so there will be bones for "chewing" after you get the barbecuing done. These old-fashioned spareribs will probably cost less per pound than the regular spareribs. Since old-fashioned spareribs have more meat, they can be a wise barbecue buy. Since the spareribs are cut thick, you can cut down on the time they are over the charcoal fire by simmering the spareribs for a time before you go ahead and barbecue them.

So you see, most anything goes to a barbecue, even a pork loin roast, when it is cut into old-fashioned spareribs.

A good accompaniment for a barbecued sparerib dinner would be some summertime fruit, as a salad or dessert. There is an abundance of such fruits as cherries, cantaloupe, honeydew, watermelon and peaches now on the market. These summer fruits seem just right with the spareribs and will save you time from your kitchen work.

Be honest in your convictions and you'll have fewer problems.

A man's first step is always the most costly—but it's worth the price if it is in the right direction.

Alaska Bound? Follow These Tips

Are you thinking of going to Alaska to seek your fortune?

If you are thinking of doing so, don't go until you have obtained all the facts regarding job opportunities in Alaska.

Where can you obtain accurate and factual information about job possibilities in Alaska? At any Employment Security Office in any of the other 48 states.

Mr. Gerald O. DeBoer, Branch

Manager of the Caro Office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission, states that all Employment Security Commission Offices in the U. S. A. get a monthly release from Alaska informing them of the total unemployment, total employment, types of jobs that are available, the cost of living in the 49th state and other valuable information which people should have before making up their minds about migrating to Alaska.

Francis Silvernail of Ellington Township is the first Tuscola County farmer to make application for the new soil sampling service now available to Tuscola County farmers, reports Alfred Ballweg, County Extension Director.

Francis, son of Charles Silvernail of Caro, is a 1959 graduate of Michigan State University and a former Vocational Agricultural student of Caro High School. Francis, who owns his own farm of 120 acres, operates an additional 50 acres and will also teach school at Snover this fall. He plans to return to Michigan State University for further study at a later date.

"By having my soil sampled and tested I want to start a program of building up the soil and improving my cropping program," said Silvernail.

Tuscola County farmers may now avail themselves of a soil sampling service available to them through the Cooperative Extension Office, Courthouse, Caro.

A soil sampler will be sent to the farm to obtain soil samples of each field (at least one soil probe per acre in field). If under 10 acres, at least eight probes will be taken to constitute one sample.

Samples will be tested and farmers called into the office to review test results or test results may be sent out by mail if the farmer so desires.

Cost of soil sampling and testing service will be 20c per acre or a minimum of $15.00 per farm per year.

A pocket file folder will be furnished each farmer to keep soil test records.

Bob Downing, son of Harold Downing, of Caro will be employed to take field soil samples. The taking of soil samples will start after Sept. 1, said Ballweg.

The man with money to burn soon finds someone to match him.

Most men figure they have influence to sell—the problem is to find a market for it.

Otto Preminger's "Anatomy of a Murder" based on the sensational Robert Traver novel which was last year's number one best seller, has been turned into this year's number one motion picture, according to Hollywood reports.

Story of a criminal assault and of the killing which followed, the film is said to be a suspenseful, superbly dramatic and entertaining version of the book.

Mr. Preminger moved his cameras, crew and cast to the Ishpeming-Marquette area of Michigan, scene of the novel.

"Anatomy of a Murder" was written for the screen by Wendell Mayes. Sam Leavitt handled the photography and Boris Leven the production design. Duke Ellington not only wrote the film's musical score and played it, but he also appears in the film. adv.

Forty-nine Complete Conservation Plans

Forty-nine cooperators of the Tuscola Soil Conservation District worked out complete soil and water conservation plans for their farms, with the assistance of technicians of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, during the 1959 fiscal year, Albert Bauer, chairman of the board of directors, announced.

Thirty-six other farmers became cooperators of the district during this same period, Bauer added. These farmers will develop complete conservation plans as rapidly as assistance can be made available to them.

This is the greatest number of plans developed in one year since the district has been in operation under the present methods. A complete plan is really a blueprint outlining the soil and water management practices that the farmer plans to use on his farm in the coming years.

Farmers in the Tuscola district applied many different conservation practices on their farms during this period. Some of these practices were: contour farming, 536 acres; cover crops, 2142 acres; strip cropping, 195 acres; tree planting, 192 acres; windbreaks, 6.4 miles; hedge-row planting, 177 acres; grass waterways, four acres; farm ponds, three; erosion control structures, seven; tile drainage, 650 miles; and open ditch, 5.9 miles.

Farmers were assisted in applying many of these practices by outlining which they received through the Agricultural Conservation Program.

Directors of the Tuscola Soil Conservation District are: Albert Bauer, Reese; R. L. Hill, Caro; Dayton Davis, Vassar; Bruce Rogies, Kingston, and Maynard McConkey, Cass City.

Wheat Quota for 1960 Approved

Farmers throughout the 35 commercial wheat states have approved marketing quotas for the 1960 wheat crop, Charles B. Eckfeld, office manager of the Tuscola County ASC, said today.

According to a preliminary tabulation of votes in the July 23 referendum received farmers voted in favor of quotas. At least two-thirds of the votes must be favorable in order to make the quotas effective. In Tuscola county, 180 farmers voted in favor of marketing quotas and 82 voted against marketing quotas.

With marketing quotas in effect for the 1960 wheat crop, a farmer who complies with his wheat allotment will be eligible for price-support loan based on a national average of at least $1.77 per bushel, representing 75 per cent parity. A farmer who exceeds his allotment will not be eligible for price support.

In addition, farmers with more than 15 acres of wheat (but not those taking part in the feed wheat program) who exceed their allotments will be subject to a marketing quota penalty on each bushel of excess wheat.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

In my lifetime I've saw Government agencies git control of roads, rents, prices, production, power, pork, credit and crops. It's beginning to look like there ain't nothing worthwhile left to control but the hereafter and I figger Congress will git started on that at the next session.

In fact, they've already got one foot in the door on controlling the hereafter by making funeral homes git a license and bury a feller according to rules and regulations set up by law. They've got so much red tape to it that St. Peter has a hard time gitting it unravelled when the departed arrives up yonder.

The reason I mention it is on account of this piece in the paper about a feller in Richmond, Virginia, complaining because the funeral parlor boys is joining a labor union. I can't see how a few more complications like this is going to make any difference.

Back when I was a boy they buried a man in a sheet, and a woman in a sheet with lace trim. The departed was laid out on the cooling board while the neighbors built the coffin. The village blacksmith always kept handles made for the box and he was usually the first one notified after the preacher. They always held a wake for the departed, and the clocks in the house was stopped and the mirrors draped. The departed was laid with feet to the east and head to the west so he'd rise facing the morning sun.

They carried the corpse by wagon to the church, where a long sermon was preached, sometimes lasting for two hours or more. Then when they got to the grave they would sing songs for another hour.

I can't see that they've made but one real improvement since them days, Mister Editor. Now they don't devote more'n a ten-minute sermon to the departed. But like buggy whips and corsets, the old fashioned funeral ain't in demand no more. The relatives is in too big a hurry to git home and divide up the loot. And as cars git faster, things will git worse. The relatives used to have a day or two warning but in the next generation natural death will be mighty uncommon.

Summing up the situation, I can't git too upset over whether the feller that embalms me belongs to a labor union or not. About all a feller can hope for now is that he'll pass over afore the politicians git control of the hereafter.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Wool Growers to Vote in September

Chairman Charles Davis of the Michigan Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee announced today that sheep producers will have the opportunity to vote in September in a nationwide referendum on the question of continuing to finance a market development program for wool and lambs, said Charles Davis, chairman of the Michigan Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The program of advertising, promotion, and related activities is carried out under an agreement with the American Sheep Producers Council and is financed by deductions from wool incentive payments earned by growers under the national wool program.

The agreement, if approved, will be continued for another 3 years. Approval requires the favorable vote of producers having two-thirds of the volume of production represented in the referendum.

Ballots will be mailed to producers from the county ASC office before September 1 and may be voted and returned through September 30.

The referendum relates only to the wool and lamb market development program. It will not affect the continuation of the payment program under the three-year extension of the wool act last summer.

One Address OK Say Postal Authorities

Putting the principal address and the return address on more than one side, sometimes all sides, of a package, causes the public unnecessary work and the post office unnecessary trouble, according to postal authorities.

It is understood that dual addressing is done with the thought of lessening the postal work and insuring safe delivery, but it often obliterates, and causes to be overlooked, such markings as special handling, special delivery, insured or C. O. D.

Having the package well wrapped and well tied and the contents well packed is much more important than the dual addresses. "All we ask is that the job be done properly just once," say postal authorities.
