THE WORLD'S MOST AMAZING USED CAR LOT Hidden away on a ranch near Hollywood is one of America's most amazing, and valuable, used car lots. We're pretty proud of our used cars but this one, we'll have to admit, has us beaten all hollow.

No one except a few hand picked actors and a few mechanics is ever permitted to look over the Warner Bros.' collection of 160 antique and foreign cars. There are rows and rows of them, a 1903 White, 1906 Franklin, 1904 Tourist (with a fringe on top and a door in the back), a 1914 Mercer and so on. The most modern of the collection is a 1938 model which is brought out for movies with scenes depicting pre-war days.

For that, of course, is the reason Warner Bros. maintains this unique collection, to give reality to pictures of other days. There are also, so a friend tells me, antique foreign cars in the collection. A 1903 Renault taxi, the French Peugeot coupe, an early British Austin and a German Open.

Every one of them is in perfect running order and gleams from careful attention. In fact, a man has to be assigned to throw mud on them so they'll look more realistic in the movies.

The star of the collection is a 1900 Stevens-Duryea, a two-passenger runabout with huge spoke wheels and a tiny engine. It, too, runs perfectly. This is an outstanding example that with careful attention and regular servicing an automobile will last a mighty long time after one owner has passed it along to another. That's the basis of the used car business. Drop in and browse around anytime, let us show you

Oil Decline Halted in Michigan

Yields from the relatively new Albion-Pulaski-Scipio pool area were instrumental in halting a 10-year oil production decline in Michigan during 1959. With this southern Michigan area producing approximately 30 percent of the state-wide total, oil output rose to an estimated 10,210,800 barrels, highest figure since 1956. Viewing the area's steady expansion and the increase in drilling interest there, Conservation Department geologists feel Michigan's oil production may near 12,500,000 barrels in 1980.

Richard Nellett, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Nellett of Fairgrove, will be honored with an educational trip to Chicago to learn more of grain markets. Richard was Michigan's outstanding 4-H member in the 4-H grain marketing program this year. He was named state winner during the early part of November.

Richard followed the market prices, up and down, for over a year. Each week Richard would check the price of grain, then at the end of the year he put it all on a graph. While he is in Chicago he will learn of some of the factors that cause the price

Arnold Zwerk, local 4-H leader of the Richville Community 4-H Club, was asked by the State 4-H Staff to serve on a committee to improve the grain marketing program and to seek new ways of attracting 4-H'ers into the program.

Mr. Zwerk has been a leader in the Richville club for several years; even though he leads in several projects, his main interest has been in crops. Mr. Zwerk will be discussing the grain marketing program with T. W. Thompson, mittee on Boys and Girls Clubit guides them through life.

60 Legislature Session Short-Not Sweet

By Elmer E. White

Michigan Press Association Political pressures building up in Lansing indicate the 1960 Legislative session will be short and not so sweet. Bitterness remains from the ecord-long 1959 session that brought open warfare between parties and sniper action within

The Jan. 13 opening of the 1960 session comes too soon for weary lawmakers who ended the 1959 session shortly before Christmas.

The struggle with taxes and politics last year forced both parties to compromise on political principle in order to get a tax program. This year, members of both parties have to mind their politics in order to get re-elected. The session is apt to be a short one if for no other reason than that legislators are out of breath. Election year sessions are always short ones in Michigan. And this election year promises to be especially hard on legislative incumbents, who fear voters will say "a plague on both your houses." Hot primary fights are Tax decisions this year will be left up to voters, not lawmakers. Democrats and Republicans alike appear ready to support proposals to put tax questions on the ballot in the same Nov. 8 general election that will carry their names.

Republicans for the most part will throw support behind a proposal to hike the 3 per cent sales tax ceiling to 4 per cent.

Democrats are not so solid in their drive for an income tax, but will give strong support to a corporation profit tax should it get on the ballot. The thought that a corporation profit tax could be written inflexibly into the constitution is shocking to some students of government.

An attempt is expected to be introduced by committees. This vould save considerable time. However, since Democrats don't control committees, they are expected to buck this attempt. And there are lawmakers in both parties who argue the prolonged tax struggle in 1959 kept the Legislature from consideration of other important matters that should be considered this of the House is an issue apt to cause sparks in the early weeks of the session. Voters left the house with a 55-55 party deadlock. Republicans organized the House last year, and, although most Democrats appear content to let it stand that way, there are those who want to seize power.

Republicans have a 23-13 edge in the Senate.

Governor Williams' "State of the State" and budget message offered the format of programs sought by Democrats.

More grist for the legislative mill will come from state headquarters of both parties and from reports of those study committees that found time to study.

Money will be the big word again this year. State agencies say austerity budgets the past few years have hampered operations. And a pay raise for legislators is sure to get serious consideration again. The Conservation Commission will try again to get funds for park development and throughout the session. expansion. State institutions are demanding an end to the two- to keep track of what's going on year moratorium on new construction.

Plan Three Stops For Dairy Tour

Three different types of dairy housing set-ups will be visited during the Tuscola county dairy housing and management tour February 8, 1960.

According to Don R. Kebler. county extension agent in agriculture, the stops will include a 30cow stanchion barn, a 40-cow oose housing-switch barn, and a 27-cow loose housing-milking parlor arrangement. This afternoon tour beginning at 1:30 p.m. has its first stop at the Frank Wolak farm, 2 miles east and three-quarters mile north of Kingston. Next stop is the Bruce Ruggles farm, on M-46 a half mile east of Kingston, and the last stop is at the Lyle Curry farm, 3 miles west, 2 miles north and a quarter mile west of Kingston on Curry Road. The tour will be over in plenty time for chores and the distance between the first and ast stops is only nine miles.

All dairymen thinking about remodeling, adding to, or just interested in visiting these tour tops are invited to attend.

Robert Aldrich, Michigan State Jniversity extension specialist in agricultural engineering, will be on hand to discuss each set-up and answer any questions.
