Parks Offer Family Fun

Michigan's parks and recreation areas await another season which may send their attendance near the 20,000,000 mark. Among the major reasons for their ever-increasing popularity are the facilities and varied recreation they offer for family outings. Mom, Dad, and the children may camp, swim, boat, hike, picnic, and generally enjoy the vacationing season together at these parks and areas. All but three of the state's 60 units have campsites and in most cases, electricity and modern flush toilets are available. Hot showers, bathhouses, concessions and laundry facilities are found at many units. All provide for picnicking.

Raise in State's Equalized Valuation Ups Cost of Relief, Schools for Some Areas

By Elmer E. White Michigan Press Association

Talk about taxes is a favorite Michigan pastime. Action on taxes is something else again.

An increase in state equalized valuation of nearly two and a half billion dollars was adopted.

The impact of the equalized valuation hike will be felt in three major ways: local units of government can increase property taxes; the state's share of school aid will be lowered by nearly eight million dollars, and the share of public relief paid by the state will be lowered in many counties.

A 1954 Supreme Court case said state equalized valuation was the only value for property that could be used for tax purposes.

That figure is arrived at in this way: local assessors set a value on property; the county then equalizes assessments of their separate districts to provide equitable and uniform sharing of the property tax burden within the county.

Under the Constitution, counties can assess a tax no higher than 15 mills figured on state equalized valuation.

Although it is within their power, very few counties can be expected to lower the tax rate even though it applies to the higher valuation, the tax that property owners pay can be expected to go up.

At least part of the additional money local units get this way will have to go to a bigger share of school aid, however.

Under the state school aid formula, money from Michigan's general fund is used to bring the amount spent for each pupil in school up to a level set by the Legislature. Currently this level is $205 per pupil.

Local participation in school aid is determined by applying a factor called deductible millage to state equalized valuation.

Deductible millage is currently 3.25. The hike in equalized valuation, if other minor factors remain the same, means local units have to provide a greater share of school aid.

the state pays the other 30 per cent. Policy of the State Social Welfare Commission permits the state to pay a share greater than 30 per cent under certain circumstances.

This can happen when the counties (and Detroit) pay more than a certain amount determined for each county by applying a millage factor to state equalized valuation.

Last year, six counties and Detroit reached a level of expenditure beyond which the state paid all their relief costs.

The effect of this was that in at least one county, the state paid 90 per cent of all direct relief for the entire year. That was in Keweenaw, where state equalized valuation was low and the relief rolls packed.

A special session of the 1960 Legislature looms as a virtual certainty.

Taxes are the reason for it, and chances are it won't come until after the people vote on the question of permitting a 1 per cent hike in the sales tax at the general election Nov. 8.

The possibility of city income taxes, notably in Detroit, has complicated the picture.

The state's fiscal picture seems to demand some wholesale reductions in services or new taxes. If the people vote to permit a hike in the sales tax of up to 1 per cent, the Legislature presumably would vote an increase at the special session.

If the voters turn down the increase, some other form of revenue-producing tax would have to be found.

Michigan citizens are travelers -- and a large number of out-of-state people come into the Water Wonderland each year as vacationists, visitors and just plain tourists.

Highway Commissioner John Mackie has predicted a 50 per cent increase in tourist travel by 1962.

The state's new freeway system will be in full operation for the first time that year--all year--and there will be a super-highway from the Ohio line to Sault Ste. Marie in the Upper Peninsula.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:

We had a visitor for our session at the county store Saturday night and it was a mighty fine meeting. I call this feller a visitor on account of him not getting there but about once over five years or more.

I don't remember what year it was when he last attended, but I recollect it was when we had that Office of Price Stabilization in Washington and they was having price control all over the country.

You probably remember them good old days, Mister Editor. The papers at that time reported they had 157 desks in the Office of Price Stabilization and a Government employee at ever desk.

BULEN TALKS CARS

HIGHWAY MENACES Pardon me if I seem to be harping on the subject of safe driving lately... but the appalling lack of it was driven home to me again recently.

It happened when an old customer drove in to our servicing department for his regular safety check-up. Before leaving he dropped in my office to blow off steam. Boy - was he mad! After congratulating me on the 'safety' column he'd been reading he exploded, "And I wish a lot of maniacs behind wheels would learn the meaning of safe driving."

Turned out he'd left a nearby city the night before. He said driving conditions were so horrible due to sleet and rain he'd never have left if it hadn't been necessary for him to be here the next morning. "What with slick roads and visibility so poor you couldn't see two feet ahead, nobody but a fool would drive over 35 miles an hour," he bellowed.

And he went on to say that car after car whizzed by him doing 60 miles an hour - and over. "Is it any wonder there are so many highway deaths?" he asked. Of course his language was a little stronger. Well, I understand how he felt. And I'm sure a lot of people reading this column do too.

We've all seen drivers not adjusting their driving to weather conditions... the damn-the-elements, full-speed-ahead boys. And how about the ones who blast ahead passing you on a hill? But you know the list of dangerous driving habits as well as I do.

Anyway, my friend said he passed four crack-ups before he reached his destination. It simply boils down to the fact that some drivers refuse to adhere to the basic common sense rules-of-the-road. They have, and will, bring death or injury to themselves. But what is even more tragic they will do the same to innocent people.

We try to do our part. Before a Used Car is put on our lot we thoroughly check it for Safety. Particularly brakes and steering. I am often shocked by the amount we spend on reconditioning, but I never begrudge the money spent on these items.

When you buy an "OK Used Car or Truck" here you may be sure we have done all we can to make it SAFE. And, every car or truck sold for $300.00 or more is GUARANTEED in writing.

THE SAGA OF OLD NO. 9

When Confederates fired on Ft. Sumter, the original of this hand-drawn, hand-pumped fire wagon served Lansing. Twenty-eight heaving, sweating and sometimes cursing volunteers manfully hauled it to fires amid a chorus of yelling kids, barking dogs and clanging fire bells. In 1872, it was sold to Cheboygan and replaced by a horse-drawn fire wagon because people needed more protection from fire. Today, people rely on highly mechanized, full-time firemen... and the protection afforded by a Hastings Mutual fire insurance policy. And Old No. 9 is ending its days in the possession of the Michigan Historical Commission Museum, Lansing.

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

Five Years Ago
The fund for the erection of the Cass City Community Hospital has swelled to a total of $74,599.74, according to the annual report of the board of trustees. This represents an increase of $3,322.79 in the last year.

Elli D. Holes, assistant principal at Cass City High School, will receive his MA degree from Western Michigan College Saturday.

The Tuscola County Board of Supervisors denied a request for a pay boost submitted by 10 county employees, at the monthly meeting Monday.

Four students from Cass City were among 1,926 persons to receive degrees from Michigan State College Sunday. James Fox received a BS degree in dairy products. Carol Howarth was awarded a BA degree in elementary education. Donald Karr received his degree as a doctor of veterinary medicine and Leslie Townsend received a BA degree in economics.

Stuart Little, Eagle Scout, will leave Cass City Saturday morning to join 40 Valley Trail Scouts in Saginaw, where they will embark on a 465-mile trip through Buffalo, Boston, New York City, Philadelphia, Washington, D. C., Gettysburg and all points of interest along the route.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Nique will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary Sunday with an open house.

Ten Years Ago
Mrs. Zora Day, who has been a teacher at Cass City Schools for 30 years, has announced her plans to retire at the close of this school year. Mrs. Day and four other teachers who are leaving the Cass City Schools were honored by the Cass City Teachers' Club Monday night.

The Tuscola County Extension Home Economics Council will meet June 9 (Thursday) at 1:30 p.m. For this meeting we will meet at the Tuscola County Nursing Home. The business meeting will begin one-half hour earlier than usual because at 3 p.m. the Extension women will hold a dedication service. Each Extension home economics group has held volunteer collections to raise money to purchase furniture for a double room in the home. At this council meeting the furniture will be dedicated to those who are no longer able to do for themselves. All of the county supervisors and their wives have been invited as the Extension women's guests. The staff at the Nursing Home will serve punch and cookies at the close of the dedication services.

Do you know how to handle your flat iron to get the best service from it? A flat iron looks sturdy, but it deserves gentle care. When the soleplate, or ironing surface, is clean, it runs smoothly over the ironing board. But it gives trouble when it is stained or sticky. If the soleplate of your iron needs cleaning, a simple cleaning job is accomplished by running the just-warm iron over waxed paper or a cake of paraffin. Finish by rubbing the iron over a soft clean cloth.

For more difficult stains, apply a very mild abrasive, such as whiting. When the iron is cool, use this with a soft cloth and a circular motion. A ten-cent supply of whiting will last through a number of cleanings. For very stubborn deposits, start with a cool iron and rub with the finest steel wool.

I would like to warn you against scraping the iron with a knife or rubbing it with harsh steel wool. Because the soleplate is often of soft metal, it can easily be scratched or marred permanently. A scratched surface does not do a very good ironing job. Also, the rough treatment of dragging the iron over buttons or metal fasteners may also damage the soleplate.

People used to be advised to save regularly—today the advisers are lucky if they can break even.

SELF-DISCIPLINE
Good intentions will wind up an alarm clock, but it takes will power to get out of the sack.

CHANCE FOR SILENCE
One fault that can be found with many people is that they never know what to say—and do.

LACK EDUCATION
Most people have an excellent aim in life—it's poor ammunition that causes many of the failures.

a step ahead of tomorrow...

Unequaled success in bargaining, modern marketing techniques, and outstanding membership support have won Michigan Milk Producers Association a nation wide reputation as a co-operative that gets results. Solid, economic results that dairy farmers see every month in their milk checks.

Combining the strength and resources of more than 13,000 dairy farmers into one strong, united organization, MMPA gives its members an effective voice in the marketing of their product. It is, in fact, as valuable to members in the marketing of milk as a herd of good cows is in producing milk.

Measured in terms of services, guarantees, stable market or negotiated premiums, dairy farmers have learned that it doesn't cost to belong to MMPA—it pays.

No organization, however, can rest on its reputation or its past record. It must plan beyond the needs of today... strive to grow and improve its services... maintain its leadership.

Continuously, boldly, MMPA searches for new and better ways to market milk... to stay a step ahead of tomorrow.

Annual Elevator Career Day Slated

Young men from Tuscola county, who are interested in a career in the feed and grain industry, are invited to attend the ninth annual elevator career day at Michigan State University on June 23, according to Alfred Ballweg, county extension director.

"There are excellent opportunities for young men in the elevator and farm supply fields," he says. "Farm boys can put their agricultural background to good use in this expanding industry. Further, modern farm technology is making it more important for young men to continue their education beyond high school."

Those who attend the career day can learn more about the elevator and farm supply short course at Michigan State University. This 18-month course includes 12 months instruction at MSU and six months on-the-job training in a Michigan elevator or farm supply store, according to Dr. Harold Ecker, coordinator of the course.

Industry scholarships are available to qualified young men who want to continue their education in this phase of agriculture, according to Dr. Ecker.

Elevator career day speakers include Charles Force, Kalamazoo, president of the grain and feed dealers national association, along with Michigan elevator managers and former short course graduates. University staff members will also be on hand to talk over opportunities in this industry.

The career day is sponsored by the Michigan feed and grain dealers, the Michigan Association of Farmer Cooperatives, the Michigan Bean Shippers Association and Michigan State University.

The county extension office has more information on the career day. Vocational agriculture instructors in the county can also supply details.

Chicken Hot Dogs Ready for Testing

Some day you may not be able to tell a chicken from a hot dog -- because it will be a hot dog. Chicken franks are almost ready for market-testing in New York state. They are just one of several new poultry and egg convenience foods being developed, reports Mrs. Frances T. Clark, county extension agent in home economics.

Other products ready for consumers' reactions are chicken bologna, which has a definite smoked flavor, and chicken loaf, for quick sandwich-making. Both products are designed to utilize heavy chickens.

The heavier birds of broiler flocks will be test-marketed as young roasters. These are extremely tender and weigh about three and a half pounds.

On the egg side, there's frozen French toast. Each slice contains a half egg and is ready to serve after a minute or two in the toaster.

The search for better ways to market smaller sizes of eggs has produced the "Kid's Pak" -- twelve small eggs in a container offered for children. The "Family Pak" contains four large eggs for Mom and Dad, along with eight medium or small eggs for the children.

These new products and merchandising ideas are aimed at greater variety, time-saving and ease of use and were developed to increase sales of poultry and eggs to consumers.

People make good resolutions, but few have enough resolute-ness. Bad thinking gives a man a good start toward being a slave to bad habits.

50% Less Registered Voters In Tuscola County—Hare

The number of registered voters in Tuscola County decreased by 505 since 1958. Tallies assembled by the elections division of the Michigan Department of State show 17,398 registrations in 1960 compared with 17,903 two years ago.

According to Secretary of State James M. Hare there were 34,822 less people registered in Michigan in April of this year than in April, 1958.

Hare also reported that this year automation will bring in Michigan's election results more quickly as four out of five citizens vote for their candidates on machines instead of paper ballots.
