National Level

Michigan is a key state in the fight for electoral votes that will elect the president of the United States.

At the present time, most experts feel that the state could go for either Senator John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson or Vice-president Richard M. Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge, but give a slight edge to the Democrats.

Other candidates are:

For lieutenant-governor: T. John Lesinski, Democrat, vs. Clarence A. Reid, Republican. For secretary of state: William E. Kreger, Republican, vs. James M. Hare, Democrat.

For attorney general: Paul L. dams, Democrat, vs. Wendell A. Miles, Republican.

For state treasurer: David R. Calhoun, Republican, vs. Sanford A. Brown, Democrat.

For auditor general: Otis M. Smith, Democrat, vs. John V. Clements, Republican. For state representative: R.

Meeting Set to Start Program For Retarded

An open meeting is scheduled at the courthouse in Caro Thursday, Nov. 10, at 8 p.m. when parents of nine retarded children hope to start a program in Tuscola county to help afflicted children.

Wallace Gillingham of Bad children, will be the principal 65 or more years of age. speaker.

Also attending will be R. Scott, executive field director of the Michigan Association for Retarded Children.

Authorities who have planned the meeting are hoping for a better understanding of the problem through public knowledge and participation in the problem.
