Coaching for a school that has de-emphasized intercollegiate athletics has special problems and special advantages, Harold (Hal) Willard, acting head coach at Wayne State University, reports.

Hal is a former Cass City resident who graduated from Cass City High School in 1949. At 28 he is one of the youngest coaches in the nation to be at the helm of the football team of one of the nation's largest schools. He is the son of Mrs. Effie Willard.

He was shoved into the head coaching spot when Herb Smith, head coach, became ill, and guided the Tartars to a winning (4-3) season this year.

There is no recruiting, spring training, a limited schedule and all of the rest of the restrictions found at schools which de-emphasize sports.

Although there is little pressure to win exerted by alumni, winning is important to Wayne and to Willard. A de-emphasis policy means more work for coach. Players not good enough to get a scholarship play at Wayne. It takes more effort and sound coaching to coach the average player than the exceptional boy who learns faster, Hal believes.

"One of the big advantages of Wayne's football style is that when 30 kids stay out for football under conditions as they exist there you know they'll do anything you ask," Willard says. "It's gratifying to work with kids who love to play football."

Hal came to his present spot as acting head coach naturally. As a player at Wayne he set passing records at the school. He graduated from Wayne in 1957 and became assistant football and swimming coach while continuing to work for an advanced degree.

Hal has now completed his work for a Master of Science degree and will graduate in January 1961. Before going to Wayne he served two years in the United States Air Force and attended Kalamazoo College. He married the former Joyce Fry of Cass City in 1953 and the couple live at 724 Gardendale in Ferndale. They have a son, Mark Edward, 3.

Hal's work as acting head coach this year has been hailed by Detroit sportswriters as outstanding.

Despite a slim turnout for football which was further pared by injuries and defections, Hal matched last year's record at Wayne. At times the squad numbers dipped below minimum requirements for scrimmage, but Willard kept his poise and patience to achieve the winning season.

There's money in winning the home decoration contest this year. First prize is $75; second, $50, and third $25. We'll have complete details of the contest together with the Dec. 4 work-day next week.

We're sending our annual complimentary copy of the Chronicle to the North Pole. So all you kids who want to write Santa just address your letter to him in care of the Chronicle and we'll see that he gets it sometime before Christmas.

We see where the Michigan Department of Conservation is bucking for a law that would require a license to fish in the Great Lakes.

We hope that the legislature will give it more consideration in 1961 than it has in previous years. We fail to see why Great Lakes fishermen should not be required to pay a share of the cost of conservation as well as the inland and trout fishermen.

But don't be surprised if the lawmakers yield to the pressure of the free loaders and refuse to act again this year while the department stops land purchases, equipment replacements, construction and much research through lack of funds.

Gary Fitchett Injured in Crash

Gary George Fitchett, 17, of Elkton was seriously injured Sunday morning at 12:45 a.m. in a two-car accident on Main Street in Cass City.

According to Chief Bill Wood and Patrolman Ed Anthes, the crash occurred when Fitchett attempted to pass Douglas Walsh, 17, of Elkton as Walsh was about to attempt a left turn.

Fitchett hit the left door of the Walsh car and lost control of his car. It careened about 180 feet and crashed into a tree near the side of the road.

Fitchett suffered a broken arm and lacerations about the head. He was taken to Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Walsh and the passengers in his car, Dave Deering and Jack Alexander, were not injured.

Three drivers from Tuscola County, not from the Cass City area, were among 503 Michigan motorists to have their licenses suspended or revoked by the Michigan Department of State during the past week.

The license of Robert Buckley of Vassar was revoked for an unsatisfactory driving record. Another Vassar man, Leonard Russo, had his license suspended for driving under the influence of liquor.

Another suspension was issued to Joseph Oshat of Caro, also for driving under the influence of liquor.

Snover Man Shoots Brother

After two years at home from being treated at a state institution, a Snover man went berserk in a breakfast-table quarrel Monday and fired a number of shots from a .22 caliber automatic rifle at his brother and father.

One of the shots fired by Harvey Philpot, 31, struck his brother Leroy, 33, in the upper right shoulder.

The father, Silas Philpot, escaped by falling to the floor and pretending to be dead. The wounded Leroy jumped through the glass of a closed window and ran to neighbors to summon the police.

State Police and sheriff's officers, including Sheriff Merritt R. McBride of Huron County, concluded on page ten.

BULEN TALKS Cars

"ALL THAT GLISTENS ISN'T GOLD"

Estimating the condition of a used car is a job that requires an expert. But any motorist with ordinary car sense can spot some of the more obvious faults that show up in a brief inspection.

Here are a few of the things we look for at Bulen Motors. They may help you avoid making an obvious mistake:

Wear on mats, pedal pads and upholstery give a good indication of mileage and are a better guide than the speedometer. Normal use for a car is 12,000 miles per year though mileage in excess of this is not necessarily a bad sign if the car has been well cared for.

Look along the fender in a good light for signs of previous heavy body damage. Body damage becomes important when a collision is sufficient to twist a car's frame. A car will sometimes never operate properly after that, though minor collision damage is unimportant.

While the engine is warmed up, press lightly on the accelerator. Uneven sounds, heavy clicking or knocking can mean future trouble. This is a good time to check for worn rings since several pumps on the gas will send blue smoke (from burning oil) out of the exhaust pipe.

A test drive will tell even an inexperienced person much about a car's condition. We must add a word of warning though: even an expert can be fooled unless he makes a thorough mechanical inspection such as we perform in our shop. Your best guarantee is still a dealer you can trust.

Protected by Law

Mich. Dept. of Conservation

Eagles, hawks, and owls are protected members of Michigan birdhood. It is illegal to molest or kill these birds or to remove or destroy their nests, eggs, or young save for one exception. Farmers or landowners may kill hawks or owls (not eagles) on lands they own or occupy IF these birds are doing REAL damage to poultry or domestic animals. Eagles are fully protected in Michigan. Staring at you (clockwise from bottom to top) are an immature bald eagle, a young redtail hawk, and half-grown great horned owl. Stiff penalties stand behind their legal protection.

Scientists in Thanksgiving Service

A special Thanksgiving service was to have been held at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Caro, at 10 a.m. on Thanksgiving Day.

Open to the general public, the service was held in the church edifice at Lincoln and Pearl Streets.

No collections of any kind were taken at this service.

Expressions of praise and gratitude to God were read from the Bible and also from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy in a lesson-sermon for the day entitled "Thanksgiving."

It is much better to have resolved and lost than to let bad habits grow and multiply.

Use sharp tools to cut flowers, recommend Michigan State University floriculturists. Breaking or twisting off the flowers injures the remaining stem.

How many of your homes have a deer hunter in the family? If you have and whether the deer he brings back from his hunting trip will be welcome at the table depends upon the care between the shot and the cooking pot.

Venison is not inexpensive when all the expenses of a hunting trip are added up, so it will be the smart hunter who takes care of his "bag".

First of all, venison should be bled and dressed immediately after it is shot. Then chill the carcass as rapidly as possible. Hang the carcass out-of-doors and prop open the cavity to allow good air circulation. Spoilage in a warm place can start in less than two hours, so do not stuff it in the trunk of the car.

If the meat is to be frozen, the carcass should be skinned and cut up as soon as possible. Experience in cutting is needed and perhaps a butcher should be enlisted for the job. The usual procedures for freezing should be followed.

There is no need to worry about cooking venison, because if you can prepare a swiss steak or pot roast of beef, you can cook venison. Steaks are fine for swissing; large roasts can be pot-roasted, small bits and pieces can be used for stew or ground for burgers.

On December 2, the project leaders from Section II will have their lesson on dress and accessories in the courthouse at 1 p.m.

Secretary of State Will Not Fill Out License Plate Applications This Year

By Elmer E. White
Michigan Press Association

Michigan businessmen have again been asked to help the state save money by taking a hand in the complex business of registering automobiles.

Secretary of State James M. Hare sent letters to many employers or personnel directors asking them to help their workers do the paper work required to obtain the black-on-aluminum tabs which will be fastened to licenses issued in 1959.

This is the second year for the tabs, and the state plans to issue full-sized plates again in 1962.

Hare said a quarter of a million dollars is saved annually by the new method of processing license applications. In the past, individual applications were prepared and sent to all persons with one or more cars registered in Michigan.

Now, the applicant must fill out his own registration form and present it to a Secretary of State Branch Office along with the weight tag in order to get a license.

That's where the businessmen and personnel directors come in.

Hare encourages employers to make arrangements for their people to pick up the application forms at the branch office, get them to the workers, perhaps fill them out for the registrants and return them to the branch office where the tabs are issued.

He says it is a good device for labor-management relations, and saves the employer money, too. If many people are left to their own devices for registering a car, they will wait until the deadline is uncomfortably close before going in with the forms and the money, so absenteeism is reduced.

But if registration is made easy at the place of work, the workers appreciate the service and are not off standing in long lines for licenses during working hours.

Hare told the employers he asked for help that the machine-prepared application form mailings which were discontinued probably really did work a hardship on the applicants.

"However, I'm sure most of you will agree that the annual savings of around a quarter of a million dollars in the case of the prepared application service is one which must be made at a time when tax revenues are greatly needed to keep schools running, to build highways and to provide other needed governmental services," Hare said in his letter.

A relieved happiness surrounds the tiny Upper Peninsula town of L'Anse. Residents are enjoying the reopening of a major industry in their midst, the first since six years ago when Ford Motor closed its plant which processed wood for station wagon bodies. When metal replaced wood for this purpose, the plant was closed.

Swinging into full production now is another modern plant operated by Celotex. At full capacity it will give employment to 150 people within its grounds and up to 500 woodsmen, required to supply the hard logs which are turned into a half million square feet of fiberboard each day.

L'Anse people appreciate, but few others seem to know about the consideration shown the community by the Ford Motor Company in its effort to sell the 185,000 acre tract of land.

When it became necessary for Ford to cease operations, Clarence Dubuque, chairman of the local economic development group and president of the L'Anse Commercial Savings Bank, contacted the auto company with an urgent appeal that they sell only to an organization which would agree to maintain production activities in the L'Anse area. He feared the community would become a ghost-town if a new owner simply shipped off logs for processing elsewhere.

Ford agreed to this, and held the land until such a buyer appeared. In the meantime, Ford refused at least one firm offer from a purchaser who did not qualify according to the agreement.

Deer may be somewhat safer from hunters' guns on land belonging to private hunting clubs, but they may be in much greater danger of starvation, according to a Michigan State University wildlife researcher.

L. W. Gysel said under-hunting on the roughly 1.7 million acres of private deer hunting land in Michigan complicates an already dangerous problem of over-population.

He said the animals were eating foods once considered inedible, and wild tree fruits such as acorns.

Gysel focused his chief interest on the club country in Alcona and neighboring counties where clubs have about a quarter million acres. Here, some of the herds exceed range capacity and have over-browsed until starvation, small deer and small racks of horns are the result.

The researcher wanted to find out how deer can survive on the fairly open country and if anything should be done to protect the cover for rabbits, grouse and other smaller species.

Apparently making food available to deer can only solve part of the problem even where it is practical, Gysel said.

Trapping Days Are Here Again

Mich. Dept. of Conservation
Emerging from his underwater home, Mr. Muskrat probably senses there are better places to be than in his favorite marshlands at this time of the year. It doesn't take any usual intuition for him to figure this out, not with trappers busy setting and checking trap lines around him. As No. 1 furbearer on the Michigan trappers' "wanted list" which currently includes mink and raccoons, he'll be doing his own version of the "muskrat ramble" to escape their sets in the weeks ahead. The state's three-in-one season runs Oct. 25-Dec. 31 above the Straits, Nov. 10-Jan. 15 in the northern lower peninsula, and Nov. 25-Jan. 31 in the southern lower peninsula. In 1959, trappers took 230,000 'rats. Still and all, these furbearers remain under-harvested in most areas.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Sez:

Dear Mister Editor:

I reckon about half your readers, along with my old lady, thinks I'm off my rocker so they ain't going to be shocked at a idea I would like to take up here this week.

I predict that in the next 20 years we will see the end of what is known as "take home pay" for the average worker. Slow but sure the Government is nibbling a little here and a little there until a feller working for wages ain't got much left when his boss gets through deducting all of it.

I think we're coming into the "fringe benefits" age in history in this country. If you've noted in the last year or two, not many labor unions is striking for much more pay. This is on account of them not being able to take it home if they git it. They're striking for more fringe benefits.

They is gitting most of them fringe benefits rigged up so's they ain't too taxable and I reckon the working man figgers he'd better git everthing over in that category so's he'll have some security for his family.

These fringe benefits has got to where, in a heap of cases, they cover a couple vacations a year, give hospital care for everybody in the family clear back to Grandpa, allow for time and gasoline to git to work and back. I was reading the other day where one company has even put in a barber shop where all the employees can git a free haircut.

You'll recollect that there fer a spell folks was talking about "base pay." Then it went to "take home pay," and now we got "fringe benefits." I never got that "base pay" figgered out exactly. I reckon it was what a feller got to first base with, before he lost his deductions at second and third, and stole home with what little he had left.

If you don't believe this fringe benefit rage is spreading, you should've saw that piece in the papers the other day about what took place in court in Richmond, Virginia. They had these policemen up fer taking perfection payoffs from gamblers. They told the court they considered it "fringe benefits." They got convicted, but it just goes to show, Mister Editor, how folks is thinking in this country today.

Well, with a new President coming in afore long, I reckon a heap of them politicians around the country that was appointed to office will be shaking in their shoes fer a spell. We've got some mighty good public servants in this country. We also got some that figgers they was anointed instead of appointed. I'm in favor of gitting rid of them anointed fellers, regardless of what party they belong to.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

WANDERING WITH WARREN

Christmas Is 31 Days Away

By Ilene Warren

At this time of year when we are in a mood of thanksgiving, we recall - among many other blessings - previous Thanksgiving Days. My favorite Thanksgiving Day is the one we had in our new home in Royal Oak when the family clan gathered. We ate in the basement and it was the first time in several years that the whole group, children and all, were able to sit at one table at one time. (We used the ping pong table with an added section that Ron, my husband, built for the occasion.)

For the past few years, we have not had big family Thanksgiving gatherings. The grandchildren have married and are rearing families and have ties elsewhere. We still try to get together once a year, usually a day near Christmas.

Speaking of Christmas, it's only thirty-one days away! I hope you're not groaning. It's a sad commentary on our sense of values if we groan at the approach of Christmas!

I enjoyed the ice show on TV last week. There are grace and beauty achieved on ice that are seldom found elsewhere save for the ballet. And, of course, a great part of the enjoyment of either an ice show or a ballet is the music. I thought most of the music for last week's show was quite good. In the ice shows there's always a comic... sometimes two or three. I often conclude that the comedian is the best skater in the whole show!

I have been reading about another Great Exodus in Africa - this one took place in Rhodesia rather than Egypt. It was done in the name of progress.

It was necessary to move about 50,000 people and countless wild animals when the great Kariba Dam was constructed on the Zambezi River. Some of the animals had to be saved after the flooding of the area (including rescuing poisonous reptiles). While it must have been difficult for the people to give up their homes, new land was allotted them and great good will came from the hydroelectric facility. Considering all the facets, perhaps the good outweighs the more unhappy results of the project.

Progress has many critics. Some advocate "back to nature" movements. Yet I have wondered why someone hasn't written a poem about the beauty of the cross-barred poles that march symmetrically beside the highway, continuously united by the shining silver strands that bring so much good into our lives. Also, instead of poking fun at houses, row upon row, with foolish tangled TV antennas, why doesn't someone praise the neatness of the homes with their tidy, green lawns and the inquisitive metal eyes and ears perched on the roofs to pry entertainment and enlightenment out of the ether?

There's an old saying: You can't have your cake and eat it, too. And cakes are seldom made, no matter how beautiful, just to be admired!

This is still the land of free enterprise and where there's a will, there's usually a way - as the chamber of commerce of a small Michigan town discovered when they offered schoolboys a dime a pound for any ragweed they could find. The enterprising lads showed up with a 1400-lb. wagonload!

The man who reforms and then boasts of his past hasn't learned his lesson yet.

Try to live on the world's generosity and you'll find that it is mighty cold-hearted.

Get the right start in this life and the results will take care of themselves.

Marriage Licenses

Marriage licenses issued or applied for in Tuscola county this week were:

Gerald Gordon Kilbourne, 21, of Vassar and Madelyn Genevieve Reynolds, 17, of Gifford.
Allen John Hildinger, 20, of Caro and Nancy Lou Kowitz, 18, of Vassar.

Theodore J. Stilson, 36, of Vassar and Margaret Mary Hoban, 27, of Millington.

Horace Kilbourne, 76, of Millington and Inez Mae Coles, 69, of Millington.

Robert James Pearson, 31, of Detroit and Dorothy May Arm, 27, of Wilmet.

Del Eugene Cummings, 19, of Marlette and Nancy Joyce Heinemann, 18, of Kingston.

Phillip Alfred McNeil, 20, of Caro and Martha Mary Sackrider, 17, of Caro.

Welcome Lee Baldwin Sr., 37, of Tuscola and Dorothy Rachel Houghtaling, 43, of Vassar.

Robert Kuberski, 18, of Millington and Mary L. Cain, 18, of Millington.

Converting cash into experience is easy—reversing the process is something else.

If he expects to succeed a man must forget his failures and keep moving ahead.

About 80 per cent of Michigan's wheat crop is soft white winter wheat, a class used for pastries and related foods.
